tained some rather good colored movies of the parade and the game, which may be shown to the students sometime in the future.

While in Pasadena, the president and his wife were guests at a dinner given by the Maryville college club of Southern California. Thirty-six persons were present, some recent graduates and others who had not been back to the college for twenty or 25 years. On the Sunday that he was there, Dr. Lloyd preached in the church of Rev. Lester E. Bond, who graduated in the same class with him at Maryville.

An interesting feature of the college meetings, one which has attracted some public attention including a sharp comment in Time magazine, was a visit made to Hollywood the day after the meetings closed. The presidents and their wives visited the largest of Hollywood's moving picture studios, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, and were honored by a luncheon given in the studios by the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, which represents all of the moving picture industry. In addition to going through various studios and grounds that make up the 175 acres of M-G-M, they were taken to observe the spectacular filming of two new pictures, one entitled "The Ziegfeld Girl" and the other "Andy Hardy's Private Secretary."

About a hundred college presidents and wives attended the luncheon at which were present about fifty well-known movie stars, producers, and directors from all of the leading studios. Addresses were given by several persons, including Mr. Mayer, president of the studio where the luncheon was held. Also on the program which was presented were such stars as Nelson Eddy, Judy Garland, Allan Jones, Edgar Bergen and Charlie McCarthy. In addition to those who presented the program were some of America's favorite stars such as Spencer Tracy, Mickey Rooney, Mary Pickford, James Stewart, Ann Rutherford, and Mischa Auer. Dr. Lloyd seemed to have enjoyed most the unpredictable behavior of Charlie McCarthy, capped and gowned in honor of the guests; though he characterized all of the company as very interesting people.

Getting Up...

the closet to get a pair of dirty socks out of the laundry bag, your bare feet step on a piece of the broken milk bottle that Roommate swept into the closet on the last inspection day. With a howl of pain, you crash into the center of the room and then, recovering your temper, mutter a few incoherent things at Roommate, while she seems to get a big kick out of your predicament.

Much to your great disappointment there is not a stream of blood gushing forth from the wound. In fact, the scratch is almost indiscernable. Your reveries are broken by the familiar sound of the eight o'clock bell. You gulp, and start dressing madly. No socks. You rush back to the closet, carefully avoiding the bits of broken glass and making a mental note to make Roommate get rid of the thirty odd bottles that have accumulated on your side of the closet. Completey—or so, you frantically hope—dressed, you decide there isn't time to comb your hair, so, tying a neckerchief around your head, and making several stabs with Roommate's lipstick at the approximate place your lipstick ought to be, you grab your coat and head out the door. Halfway down the hall you remember this is the day you have biology first hour. You dash back after your books and make a flying leap in the general direction of the stairs. Roommate has long since disappeared, and there seems to be no one in the dorm. You soar out the front door and make chapel just as the doors are being closed. Sinking wearily into your seat, you sigh rather audibly, and ignore the smug smile on the face of Roommate, sitting behind you. Anyway, you're here.

VOLUME 26 MARYVILLE, TENN. FEBRUARY 8, 1941 NUMBER 16

Dr. H. M. Morgan Opens February Meetings At Regular Chapel Service Wednesday Morning Rev. S. E. Stringham Leads Singing At Services

"The Unshaken Realities" Announced as Keynote Of Series

HUNTER INTRODUCES

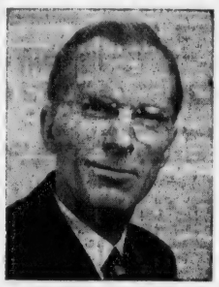
Morgan Says 1941 Is One of Series of Very Important Years

Dr. Howard Moody Morgan initiated the first of this year's February meetings at the regular chapel service on Wednesday morning, February 5. He announced as the keynote of these services "The Unshaken Realities."

Dr. Morgan was introduced by Dr. Hunter who brought to mind with a great deal of pleasure the time four years ago when Dr. Morgan was leader of the February meetings; and Dr. Morgan in turn seemed to be happy to be with the college again this time.

In his address on Wednesday morning, Dr. Morgan pointed out that 1941 was a year in a series of years that would doubtless be a great importance in future history. Also it is an age when no one can be neutral to enduring values which he beilieves center in an intelligent, affectionate, and living faith; of which things we are to speak in these morning hours.

He quoted from Haggai and from the letter to the Hebrews applying those quotations to the world today—that there are unshaken realities in this world which cannot fail. There are other forces that are only transient and these, in moments of crisis, should be shaken down and out. The time for a saccharine religion has passed. The time when we can be happy go lucky about religion has gone. Morgan then mentioned the ten commandments as an example of things possessing enduring value as a moral code, and any nation following the implications of the ten commandments is building upon a rock; the trouble is many do not build on such a rock.



Time is a series of transitions, but the abiding moral and spiritual notes in the world will remain, no matter what the crisis.

Conceptions Shaken

When things seem to be shaken—religiously, socially, politically—then there are also unshaken realities. If you can find them you have a harmony and peace that cannot be broken. Things that seem to have been shaken and are being shaken are four in number, and these Dr. Morgan proposed to take up separately in the various morning meetings. They are:

1. A false conception of humanity; that humans can live without responsibility to moral law and the law of God, that man in himself is sufficient. Said Dr. Morgan in refutation of this fallacy, "Human nature needs the divine, the spirit that was in Jesus Christ."

2. A false conception of society. In many of our dealings we are guilty of being selfish, there being luxury for a few while others are in need; and this conception of society has been shaken to its depth and will never return.

REV. SIDNEY E. STRINGHAM

3. A false conception of religion. A false emphasis on man-made creeds, on man-made opinions on the words of the Bible. Mere traditions without any lasting values are being shaken by the unwillingness of the youth of today to accept them blindly at face value.

The unshakable realities in the spiritual and moral world are now as they have been for years. First there is the relation of man to God, that man never realizes himself until God comes in. Second, the supremacy of righteousness and truth are as ever the foundations of a social order, the basis of an individual life. Third, the sovereignty of the cross is the way of salvation. And above all comes the sovereignty of this Christ who exists for some of us in a very real sense, this Christ who is God in our human life. These are the unshakable and unshaken realities.

Christ's Questions

Wednesday Evening

Dr. Morgan announced as his theme for the evening meetings, "The Questions Christ Asked Men." The starting point is with Christ's own words which we read in the scripture; and no man is fully educated unless he has given some consideration to the teaching and to the spirit of Jesus Christ, though we should think of Christ primarily as the teacher teaching not by word but by action.

Christ proceeded on the assumption that man ought to think on things concerning his faith. So questions he answered with questions, not asking for information, but rather setting men to thinking in order to bring them to the light of truth. There were eighty questions that Christ asked, and these Dr. Morgan divided into groups, each group and certain of the questions to be discussed at following meetings.

Economics Class Hears TVA Head

Leanord Outlines Four Primary Points In City Planning

Raymond F. Leanord, chief of Urban Community Relations Division of the TVA, spoke recently to Professor Paul Wendt's class of economics of production and distribution which is studying the structure of American economy.

Leanord pointed out that urban populations of Southeastern and western cities, according to the latest census details, are growing at the rate of 18% each decade. Southeastern cities, stated Leanord, are now in the position where northeastern cities stood twenty-five to thirty years ago, and the extent to which these cities avoid the mistakes of northern and eastern cities depends upon the extent they follow wise planning.

Describing in more detail the activities of the TVA in rendering technical advice, Leanord outlined the scope of the Tennessee State and Regional Planning Act of 1935, which established a state planning commission to meet with local officials.

Active planning programs are now under way in twelve cities. Some of them are Jefferson City, Lenoir City, Kingston, Harriman, Rockwood, and Spring City, in Tennessee; and Guntersville, Alabama and Murphy, North Carolina.

In response to questions asked by members of the class, Mr. Leanord outlined the following steps for the establishment of local planning:

1. Arousing of local interest.
2. Creation of a citizen commission.
3. Establishment of a planning commission.
4. Organization of a planning commission with proper technical assistance.

Mr. Leanord described several instances in which a small expenditure in planning saved considerable sums of money to taxpayers in future expenses.

In addition to the State Planning Commission there are also the FHA, the USHA, and the Public Administration Clearing House groups which are active in city planning.

Miss Rosel Added To Music Faculty

Because of the demand for lessons and orchestra and ensemble work in cello and the need for additional teaching in piano, the college has secured Miss Alverda B. Rosel, of Uhrichsville, Ohio, as instructor in music for the second semester. She is to teach also a class in music appreciation.

Miss Rosel holds the degree of Bachelor of Music with major in cello from the American Conservatory of Music, Chicago, and a diploma in piano from the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music.

In addition to experience as a concert artist she has had college teaching experience at Meredith College, N. C., Illinois Wesleyan college, and Frances Shimer college, Illinois.

Dr. Charles Hoyt Dies At Home In New York

Word has just been received here that Dr. Charles Kimball Hoyt, former professor of English, died January 28, at Auburn, New York, where he had been living in retirement for several years. Dr. Hoyt was at Maryville between 1915 and 1918, being Dr. Hunter's predecessor in the chair of English. After leaving Maryville he was, until his retirement, on the faculty of Rollins college, Florida.

Entire Women's Debate Team Goes To Bristol Meet

Queener Assigns Men To Go to State and S.A. Tournaments

The entire Maryville women's debate squad will be entered in the fourth annual Smoky Mountain Forensic tournament, sponsored by Virginia Intermont college, to be held next Saturday at Bristol, Va. In direct clash, a relatively new form of debate, will be entered. Janet Lindsay and Lucille Lynch, Natalie Yelton and Phyllis Anne Cain will uphold the affirmative side of the current Pi Kappa Delta query concerning a Western Hemispheric union; Edith Monroe and Jeanne Stringham, the negative. Beth Pascoe and Jeanne Stringham will enter the extemp contest; and Natalie Yelton and Phyllis Anne Cain will vie for honors in the oratorical contest. After-dinner speaking and poetry reading are also on the docket of the local girls.

Assignments have been made by Professor Verton M. Queener for two other tournaments. Edward Thomas and George Webster, debating both sides of the question, will enter the state tournament, February 27 to March 1, at TPI in Cookeville, Tenn. Jack Zerwas will enter the oratory and peace oratory contests. Extemp speakers will be assigned at a later date. Representing the local men's squad at the South Atlantic tourney, March 6-8, Hickory, North Carolina, will be Trevor Rees-Jones and Henry Wick. Hilton Wick will enter oratory and extemp.

Sent to the Smoky Mountain Men's tournament last Saturday were three teams, two affirmative ones composed of Vernon Lloyd and Charles Foreman, Frank Cross and Bill Felknor; and a negative team, Trevor Rees-Jones and Hilton Wick. Vernon Lloyd and Hilton Wick also entered extemp; Trevor Rees-Jones and Charles Foreman entered the oratorical contest. The tournament was held on the campus of Lincoln Memorial University, Harrogate, Tenn.

Marionettes Come Here February 22

Program To Be Sponsored By Social Committee

The Social Committee will present the Berkeley Metropolitan Marionettes, managed by Ernest Briggs, in Mark Twain's "Tom Sawyer" on the evening of February 22. The Berkeley Metropolitan Marionettes include famous puppeteers known as the best in New York City, none having had less than ten years experience. Many are former members of the Tony Sarg troupe which was disbanded recently. Owing to the large size of the marionettes, their performances are well adapted to large auditoriums. The costumes are by Dagmar Smith and the direction is by Florence Lowe.

The Social Committee is sponsoring this performance not only to furnish excellent entertainment to the college, but to add to its funds so that it may adequately finance the social events that are being planned for future weeks of the semester. Further and more detailed particulars of this unusual performance will be released next week.

Presbyterians Go To New Orleans

On Wednesday, Feb. 5, sub-committees from the U.S.A. Presbyterian church and the U. S. Presbyterian church on Church Cooperation and Union met in New Orleans. This was the second such meeting held in two years; the first convened in Washington, D.C. During the all-day meeting the joint committee discussed various possibilities and ways of reuniting these two denominations.

The five representatives of the U.S. A. church were Lewis S. Mudge and William Barrow Pugh of Philadelphia, Joseph A. Vance of Detroit and Palm Beach, and Dr. Lloyd. From the Southern U.S. church came Rev. Dr. Thos. W. Currie of Austin, Texas, Dunbar H. Ogden, of New Orleans, E. F. Wellford of Newport News, Va., Frank H. Caldwell of Louisville, Archibald Currie of North Carolina, and Col. W. M. Everett of Atlanta.

Regular Broadcasts From Chapel Start Sunday Evening When Dr. Lloyd Conducts Radio Vespers

New Equipment Now Being Installed For First of Series

BROADCASTS BEGIN

Amplifying Unit Will Be Composed of Four Outlets

Regular broadcasts from the new studio in Voorhees chapel will begin Sunday evening, Febraury 16, at five o'clock. This will be the first in the series of "Radio Vespers" conducted by President R. W. Lloyd. Other programs to be broadcast each Wednesday evening will begin the same week.

Several hundred dollars worth of new equipment has been purchased and is being installed in the studio. An amplifying unit with four outlets will be used. This type of box, four channel, is used only by regular radio studios, but was bought especially for dramatic programs. It has in-puts for four microphones, for the reproduction of recordings, and an in-put for a battery set to be used in case of emergency when the current might go off during a broadcast. The four microphones are new RCA bullet-type pressure microphones of the latest construction. They have three floor stands and one desk stand and 300 feet of cable. There is also an outlet for a public address system by means of which the person in the control room may speak to those outside.

Crystal plate glass has been used in the control room to give unobstructed vision into the studio. The walls are of double thickness, as is the glass panel, to insure sound-proofness in the control room. The studio walls will be hung with heavy curtains and a thick carpet will be put on the floor to make the studio sound-proof.

The entire equipment will be completed during the coming week, and will be used for the broadcasts until commencement.

Freshman Vacancy

Freshmen wishing to try out for a position on the Echo staff should come to the regular staff meeting at the Echo office next Tuesday night at 6:30. A vacancy has been created on the staff because of the resignation of George Piper.

Thirty-Four Students Withdraw From School As First Term Ends

For one reason or another thirty-four Maryville students withdrew from the college at the end of the first semester. Of this number six were graduates, namely: Eldon Seamons, William Short, Carl Walton, Irene Hunter, Robert Lamont, and Hugh Emert. Several students have transferred to other colleges and some have secured jobs. The others who have left the campus are Carmen Archilla, Juanita Blair, Louise Dunlap, Dorothy Bowers, Elaine Shelton, Joe Suitor, Evelyn Whitehead, Isobel Crutchfield, Jean Ingram, Anne Brock, Ruth Dunlap, Dorothy Crockett, Nancy Johnson, Jessie Hawthorne, Ira Hodges, Kenneth Schubel, Ernest Stoffel, Francis Seely, Helen Smith, Irma Criswell, Wesley Masters, Wendell Whetstone, Morris Stewart, Jack Griffin, George Garner, James Wilson, and David Hershey.

Physical Exams For CAA Students

Ground Course To Start For Those Who Pass

Seven Maryville college students took the Civil Aeronautics physical examinations at Knoxville this Tuesday night. Dr. E. L. Grubb, regular examiner for the CAA, gave the examinations to the students and others who are planning to take the course this semester.

John D. Hughes, John Ballenger, Janice Feagan, Joe Magill, James Humphries, Melvin Johnson, and John Rogerville took their physical examinations for the Civil Aeronautics pilot training course for the coming semester. These examinations must be passed before the student can apply for a civilian training pilot's license.

This week the ground course will begin for those passing these physical tests.

The tests included eye, ear, heart, blood-pressure, pulse, and general physical examinations.

The entire course of training is to be completed before the end of the semester.

Students Enroll For Semester

The Personnel office has announced that seven new students have enrolled here for this semester. This number includes students who have attended Maryville previously but who were not here last semester. Among those returning are James Lee, a junior and a former member of the varsity swimming team; George Martz, also a junior from Pennsylvania; and Fred Smith, a sophomore from Virginia. Mary Gillespie, a Maryville graduate, class of 1940, has returned to continue her studies in the field of education. Students coming to Maryville for the first time this semester are: Alice Matthews, a sophomore transfer from Ohio; Robert Stalkop, and James Whitehead.

Dr. Morgan's h' English h' Accent And Ex-Pulpit Manner Commended

"He has the most perfect pulpit manner of anyone I've ever heard," was just one of the many praises of Dr. Howard Moody Morgan I heard before he arrived. When one of these "interview things" was assigned to me, I had the opportunity of discovering in him a delightful ex-pulpit manner equally deserving of such commendation. Dr. Morgan's combination of h'English h'accent and courtesy with American friendliness soon dispelled any shaking of the knees and sinking-into-the-ground feeling that may have been vulturing around me at the thought of popping silly questions at such a distinguished visitor.

Being a minister seems to have become somewhat of a noble tradition in the Morgan family. Dr. Morgan's father, Rev. G. Campbell Morgan, is pastor of London's historic chapel, the Westminster Congregational church. Schedule of services at this church were rather disrupted recently by the unwelcome intrusion of some noisy bombs; but, as Dr. Morgan said, a new roof was put on, and his father is now continuing his work. Quite surprisingly, each of Dr. Morgan's three brothers is an active preacher. When asked if he thought any of his children would enter the ministry, he said he hoped so, that he had two sons, but that he would never ask them—wisely preferring to let them make their own choice of profession.

To the question of why he made the choice he did, he replied, "I feel that the Christian ministry offers the best field for being of use to my fellow men", and expressed his belief in the importance of spreading the message of Christ and His gospel.

Dr. Morgan was born in America—in Baltimore—to pin ours up for the Marylanders. Much of his life he has spent in England although including his recent years of preaching, he has spent the greater part of it in America. He is a graduate of Cheltenham college in England, and has attended Biblical Seminary in New York. His D. D. degree was given him by Centre college in Kentucky.

When I asked Dr. Morgan where he preached his first sermon, he laughed. His first "public" sermon he preached in a little Congregational church—or chapel as it is called in England—in Gloucestershire, England. But before

Cramming Difficulties For Town Girls Increased By Interruptions

Recent envious remarks made in the direction of town girls have spurred me to defensive action. Oh, we were so lucky to be able to study for exams without hanging a blanket across our windows and singeing our hair over a candle, were we? And you thought fondly of the quiet and peace of home, did you? Well, it isn't always that way. Just take that afternoon when I was getting settled for that last minute chemistry cram even as you were. First I had to dig up a chemistry book from the bottom of a golf bag where I had stuffed it because it was easier to carry there. (Of course that could happen to any campus girl!) Please permit us to pause for station identi- no, no, I mean to answer the telephone. Well, that was someone calling for Dad. You see, he's a salesman and that telephone rings any time from five in the morning until. Now a man called the other night at 11:30 and — oh, I was telling you about studying, wasnt I?

I finally settled down with an apple in one hand, a box of crackers in reach of the other, and a chemistry book propped up somewhere in between—oops, there's someone at the door. That was the little boy next door wanting to borrow some pins for his mother—he'll probably swallow 'em before he gets home. Well, he did lock a friend in a trunk once and the trunk had to be cut open to get the boy out.

Let me see—I'd peacefully reached the law of multiple proportions (page 58, General College Chemistry) when —heavens, am I having halucinations, or is that really bars across the window? Well, that didn't last long. Just some of the neighborhood kids had a ladder up in front of the window, trying to get their football off our roof. There's the phone again—

How can I possibly tell you how hard it is to study at home when I can't even be left in peace long enough to write it down? And that isn't the only inconvenience either. Of course it's good exercise to walk to and from school four times a day, but who wants to? But I can stay out later at night? Show me the college boy who'll walk half way across town to see one girl when there's scads of them at arm's length. You see, town girls aren't always so lucky. Maybe you should be thankful you are a campus girl!

Scots and Soda

Before launching into stirring tales of breath-(and money) taking vacations, let us commiserate with the half dozen or so unfortunates who, like us, had to be content with a shopping trip to Knoxville, or even to town, over the "holidays". Saturday it looked like everyone in school but us had found a place to go, while we, poor orphans of the storm were left wailing in that storm.

We're still not absolutely sure that we wouldn't rather be left wailing than to do what Ted Pratt and Ralph Heischman, adventurous souls, did. We'd be pretty desperate before we'd hitch-hike to Columbus, Ohio, for just a week end. Isn't this a lovely opportunity to be trite about Chilhowean Editor Kent's elderly "Thumb fun"? But we won't. We'll be original, instead, and say something clever about how their feet must hurt.

One unusual—note use of word "unusual"—experience Friday. Inez Johnson, just to be different, left on the six A.M. bus for Toecane, N.C., so we got up (here's the unusual part) at 5:30 and walked her to the bus. And at four minutes past six we started infesting the Grill. My, how lovely the Great Smokies are at five fifty-seven in the morning, enshrouded in mist. So thick that we, to coin a phrase, had to whip out our bowie knives and cut our way through, dragging our Old Town (plug for Maine roommate) canoe behind us.

Sounds like quite a happy little foursome that wound its way toward Sevierville last Friday afternoon. The two Rawlings children, Helen and Fred, and just enough company for, probably, a bridge game—Mary Mildred Hatcher and Harold G. Austin.

Thrilling the population of Georgia in general, and Tech, Emory and Atlanta in particular, were five lovely damosels from the Maryville college campus proper. Reading from left to right, we mean Bunny Tontz, Mary Felknor, Mary Jane Person, Margaret Clippenger, and Leslie Gilbert.

Which, for some unknown reason, reminds us of an examination question which gave Lucette deBarritt no end of worry. The only clue she had to the name of the U. S. Commissioner of Education was the fact that it "had something to do with a car". We tried everything from differential to dash board; but his name finally turned out to be Studebaker.

That brings us well up into the present semester and the additions to the happy family on Pearsons fourth floor. We have been blest with four bouncing little girls—namely Florence Barber, Elaine Fichter, Mary Esther White, and Carol Barbour. That makes our family complete, with the exception of Thelma Ritzman, who, unfortunately, is still in the hospital.

One evening early this week we happened upon a joyous little group in the lobby, which centered around Charles Orr, beaming and happy, and Lois Ann Alexander, dimpling and blushing. This couple was shyly accepting the congratulations of the clamoring throng. When the party broke up, we, full of innocence and curiosity, asked Lois Ann for details. She breathlessly informed the waiting press that Charlie had just been elected president of the Nature club, and she, keeping it in the family, had received the vice-presidency. That wasn't exactly what we expected; but our congrats, too, just the same.

M. C. is happy to play host to Miss Peg Carter, former student, who is stopping here on her way to Johns Hopkins hospital. She is visiting her two sisters, Jane and Ruth, and is here also for the February meetings.

We notice that "Abe Lincoln in Illinois" has gone into rehearsal. We can hardly wait to see June Morley wrestle a hoop skirt around Voorhees.

Some of you hefty glamor girls might be interested in exchanging diet notes with John Ballenger, who has been weighed for the Aeronautics course and found wanting, by a few pounds. So now his aim in life is to gain that necessary avoirdupois. We've always aimed in the opposite direction. Hope he has more luck than we.

And in conclusion may we offer our sympathies to those individuals who, in the employ of the college, must needs take care of those long lines of students that form at the beginning of every semester; and to those students standing in those long lines who must suffer the remarks of gloating souls that incessantly pass by those long lines of students and make remarks to those students standing in long lines about students who have to stand in long lines. And we would like to also "Tut! Tut!" at students standing in those long lines who feel obliged to say something unpleasant to the aforementioned people in the employ of the college who must needs take care of those long lines. And we would like to also "Tut! Tut!" to students that form at the beginning of every semester.

Morgan Interview...

that he preached quite extensively to his sister's dolls, who, I am afraid, just "didn't know what they were missing"; sort of a literal case of "Ears have they, but they hear not". It seems to be a practical procedure—from the results anyway.

"You will revel in his English", prophesied one of Maryville's English professors. Certainly Dr. Morgan's exquisitely apt expressions and precise enunciation constitute an art to be observed admiringly with the idea floating around of "Go, and do likewise." His way of speaking is convincing and attractive. Were he a salesman urging trial of his product, his simplicity, dignity, and earnestness of speech and appearance should make his product "go over big". He would serve perfectly as a "personal testimony"; his life seems to make attractive faith, truth, and love of Christ which he portrays to us in speech.

Athletics—question mark—sort of bounced up next on my questionnaire for a toss around. Any ideas that preachers are all a mere combination of dignity, difficult recommendations, and benign smiles, find exit here. Dr. Morgan said he was interested in sports of every kind. He follows eagerly the advance of the various teams in his home city, Philadelphia, and has a keen interest in national sports. Golf and tennis especially attract him for personal participation. He could give you a pointer or two on either of these games.

Through his pastoral duties and preaching visits Dr. Morgan encounters a wide variety of situations requiring that he be versatile and capable. In addition to these interests, he said he had no special hobby, "unless you consider music". "I can't sing", he said, but added that he loved music and belonged to several musical organizations in Philadelphia.

A Letter Home

Dear Mother and Dad,

It's all over now but the shouting! For the first time since I've come back to this institution of learning (?) I can breathe like a free soul. The epidemic of examinations which followed the epidemic of flu has passed on, leaving me with this record:

CREDIT—2 decent grades, 2 passing grades, 1 other grade.

DEBIT—20½ hours of sleep, 10 fingernails, 4 candles, and 1 optimistic, care-free nature.

I shall not attempt to excuse my grades by reminding you that I was a flu victim, for everything from the breakfast goo to F. D. R.'s third term has been blamed on the flu. I have reached the conclusion that my grades are—well, as they are—because I am allergic to examinations. That probably sounds foolish to you, doesn't it? But it is true. You see, there's something about taking an examination that causes me to break out in a cold sweat, and my hands—why they tremble so that my pencil resembles a hula-hula dancer. And the longer I remain in the test room, the worse my condition becomes, until I feel like a sea-sick victim of Saint Vitus' dance.

Anyhow, I really think an exam is an unfair test of intelligence. Morover, many modern educators hold the opinion that grades are really not important. Besides, a C average is considered very good for a freshman.

Since the campus definition of a man is "a creature that no Maryville college woman gets in a car with", and, since Maryville college women may have no vehicle save a bicycle or roller skates, some of us would-be-travelers have organized a "SEE MARYVILLE FIRST" club. Saturday morning we started our journey a la feet. We discovered that Maryville has a somewhat dilapidated and none-too-cheery house which serves as an orphanage. We learned that if you follow the right railroad tracks far enough in the right direction you will come upon a saw mill on the premises of which lives a beast that some highly imaginative person calls a dog. In spite of repeated assurances that the great Dane is a rather gentle member of the dog family, I still think the animal resembles a trunkless baby elephant.

I have made a bet with my roommate that "Old Black Joe" would make this week's hit parade. If it does not, we shall owe her two bits as I am broke. Please listen to your hit parade.

Love,
Gretchen

SPORT ECHOS

By BILL SWEENEY—Sports Editor

WRESTLING . . . It looks as if Maryville will be able to boast of another excellent wrestling team if the past meets are any indication of what's to follow, and we think they are. Coach Davis has a well trained, well-balanced team which thus far has taken all in stride. The work of Henschen, Capt. Wood Everett, Hahn, and Evaul in last Saturday's meet with Vandy seems to point for a highly successful season for the grapplers.

SWIMMING . . . Coach Fischbach's swimmers face a tough rival when they run up against Concord Teachers in their next meet. The Teachers have one of the best teams in the south and it was this same team that defeated the Scots last year by the worst score ever inflicted on a Maryville swimming team. Nevertheless, the Scotties will take to the water with a determination to do their best and that is all we can ask of them. Good luck....

★——★——★——★

BASKETBALL . . . Coach Honaker's basketball team still has that Teacher jinx it appears, for again the Highlanders went down in defeat. However, one bright spot was Scot's 14 points. Let's hope the little boy has found his eye and will add his total to Baby's, Overly's, and Lillard's points. On Saturday night after the thrilling four-point defeat of Carson-Newman, the Scotties' locker room was a madhouse. The players were shouting, congrats were being handed out, the coaches were grinning from ear to ear, Manager Steakley was running around with that scorebook telling the score over and over again; and all in all, a happier bunch of boys could not have been found anywhere.

Scottie Mermen To Swim Against Concord Teachers

The Maryville college swimming team will meet the swimmers from Concord Teachers college Friday in Bartlett pool. The Teachers come here with a formidable record, having taken all into camp thus far. This is the same team that won the West Virginia State Championship and is one of the best teams in this part of the country.

In the meet with the University of Tennessee, Frank Cross was the most consistent scorer for the Highlanders. Although the team lost the meet with the University many pointers were picked up by this inexperienced team which Coach Fischbach has gathered this year.

Last year on the trip to Athens, Paul Akana took Maryville's only first place of the meet. However, Frank Cross scored seven points himself against the mermen and may be able to better this total this year.

Honakermen Face Hiwassee Tonight

Tonight the Maryville college basketball team will entertain Hiwassee college's quintet in the second of a two-game series between the two. orsMaryville was the victor on the visitors court a few weeks ago when Lillard paced the Highlanders in an impressive win.

Next week the team gets prepared for their tough game with the red-hot LMU team which has been defeating all comers. The Scotties scored a thrilling four-point victory over their traditional rivals, Carson-Newman on Saturday night. The game was tied at the end of the regulation period and an overtime was required. Freshman Overly dropped two crips through the hoop during this period to win the game for the Orange and Garnet.

The Highlanders journeyed to Johnson City on Tuesday night, but were defeated by a strong Teachers team which also defeated the Scots on the floor of the Alumni gym. Honaker paced the locals with fourteen points, but the team lost by eight.

Taylor And Monger Recovering From The Effects of Operation

Sam Monger and Lloyd Taylor, well known Maryville athletes, underwent operations shortly before Christmas for the purpose of removing loose cartilige from two chronic "football knees". These operations were made necessary by injuries inflicted during the recently concluded grid campaign. Monger's knee, still in a brace, is healing satisfactorily, but will not be strong enough to permit any further football activity. Taylor's limp is about gone, and he is anxious to give the repaired joint a test in the approaching baseball season.

Athletes are seldom reluctant to talk about themselves, and patients are always willing to recount the details of their operations. Therefore, Messers Monger and Taylor have been exceedingly voluble conversationalists for the past few weeks. If you don't believe that two quiet, modest, well-mannered young men like Mr. Monger and Mr. Taylor can be "exceedingly voluble", just buttonhole one of them the next time you spot him hobbling around our fair campus. A mere word about his operation starts the young man on a few thousand word dissertation concerning operations, good looking nurses, knee injuries, good looking nurses, hospitals, good looking nurses, doctors, and especially good looking nurses.

Dr. Troy Bagwell, the notable sawbones who carved our heroes, not only removed cartilige from Monger's knee, but also transplanted some muscle under the kneecap to take the place of a torn ligament. The knee was in a cast for ten days and is still in a brace. It is expected to heal entirely, and Sam will be able to walk without a trace of a limp. However, due to the fact that a re-injury of the member might result in a permanent condition, Dr. Bagwell advises against further participation in varsity football.

Monger's home is Sweetwater, Tenn. He played tackle for three years on the team at Tennessee Military Institute, and was one of the most experienced and promising freshmen on the Maryville squad this year. His loss is quite a blow to the Scottie football machine. The knee was first injured in practice before the opening game of the season. It healed satisfactorily at that time, but was re-injured by an over-anxious blocker in preparation for the Milligan game.

Apparently Sam was quite favorably impressed with the nursing staff of the Fort Sanders hospital, Knoxville, where the slaughter took place. Quoth Samuel: "I can't seem to get interested in any of these Maryville girls after having those good looking nurses hold my hand for two whole weeks." (There's a challenge, girls!) Incidentally, Mr. Taylor reports that Mr. Monger repeatedly called for a certain young lady while he was under the ether—and it wasn't his sister, either.

Supporters of Maryville's football, basketball, and baseball teams will be greatly encouraged to know that Taylor will again be able to represent his Alma Mater on the field of combat, for he is a capable performer in all of these sports. Last year, he won varsity letters on the gridiron and on the gym floor, and was also on the varsity baseball squad. Lloyd is a dependable infielder, and will be very valuable at the second sack when the diamond season rolls around. Taylor was also a star backfielder last year, but was handicapped by the above-mentioned knee during most of this season. On the court, he was a starter in most games last year, and will be a valuable replacement next year for some of the graduating basketballers.

Taylor is a local boy, having attended Maryville high school, where he was a star in all sports. He is one of the most popular of all Maryville athletes with the local fans; and because of his colorful and enthusiastic play, he is always a hated but respected rival when the Scotties invade enemy territory.

Taylor also punctuates his remarks about his medical experiences with frequent comments on the comeliness of Fort Sanders' nursing staff. He says that they are the best looking bunch of girls he has seen—outside of Baldwin. Judging from the frequency of his visits to Baldwin, he should be an authority on this topic!

Rules For 1941 Wrestlers Show Several Changes

At the Maryville-Vanderbilt wrestling meet held on January 31 in the Alumni gym, there seemed to be great confusion among the Scottie fans concerning the new point system. This new product of the Wrestling Rules Committee of the National Collegiate Athletic Association was constructed so that no "tie or draw" might be recorded.

Under the new rules "all dual meet matches shall consist of three three-minute bouts. The first 3-minute bout shall start from the neutral position with both contestants on their feet. A fall in the first three-minute bout terminates the match. If neither contestant secures a fall in the first 3-minute bout, the referee shall stop the bout, toss a coin and the winner of the toss may elect to take either the offensive or defensive position. At the expiration of the second three-minute bout, the referee shall stop the bout and shall put the contestant who started with the advantage position in the position underneath when he starts the third three-minute bout. A fall in the second period terminates only the second three-minute bout, and the third period shall be wrestled as though no fall had resulted in the previous bout. When a fall does not occur in any match the referee shall award the match to the contestant who has scored the greater number of points."

The new official point system is for deciding matches when no fall occurs. It is to constitute the basis for determining the winner except where a fall actually occurs or as provided in the above rules.

The contestant receives two points for a "take down", which is attained by bringing the opponent to the mat and by gaining the position of advantage.

An "escape" from the defensive position on the mat gives the contestant one point. That is, the contestant who comes from the bottom position and gains an "even break" with his opponent earns one point.

Two points are gained by the contestant who reverses his position from the defensive to the offensive position on the mat.

A "near-fall", defined as a situation in which the offensive wrestler has control of his opponent in a pinning combination where a fall is imminent, is worth four points to the contestant.

One point goes to the wrestler for each full minute of superior, accumulated time-advantage, but two points is the maximum to be so awarded.

"In tournament or dual meets the team securing the highest total of points shall be declared the winner."

Coach Davis' Grapplers Defeat Vanderbilt Grunt and Groaners

Coach Davis' undefeated state champion wrestlers met and defeated the Vanderbilt Commodores on January 31, by a score of 20-14. Although not so impressive as last year's victory on the home mat, the splendid follow-through of Hahn, Everett, and Henschen definitely marks the Highlanders as the class of Tennessee. The Scotties scored four falls and lost four matches; one by a fall and three by decision.

In the first bout of the evening, Evaul pinned Burrows of Vandy in 5 minutes and ten seconds, exactly one minute longer than his match lasted with Vandy's 1940 opponent. Evaul did an excellent job of pinning his man and flashed great skill in his victory. This was the "little guy's" second straight triumph this year.

The second match of the evening brought together Dick Boyd of Maryville and J. Hutton of Vanderbilt. Boyd put up a stiff fight, but the Vandy veteran amassed a 6-3 point count to win by decision. This victory marked Hutton's third consecutive triumph over a Scottie mat-man.

In the 135 lb. division Kenny Ross, Orange and Garnet-clad freshman, was pinned after five minutes and fifty-three seconds by Brown of Vandy. At the end of the third bout the visitors led by 8-5.

Vanderbilt kept up the dizzy pace when Captain C. Hutton won a close decision over "Mac" McDaniel, veteran in the 145 lb. class. Mac's bout with Captain Hutton was perhaps the hardest fought battle of the entire meet and was any man's tussle from start to finale.

Joe Suitor was decisioned by Tipton. Joe reversed positions twice to his opponent's once, but suffered in the take downs and escapes. This bout was, however, thrilling to watch since it seemed that every moment would find one man or the other victorious.

With their opponents nursing a fat 14 to 5 lead, the big guns of the Davis battery began to bark. Clemmie Hahn started the fireworks with a brilliant fall over Wright, 165 lb. lad from Vandy, in a time of four minutes, 21 sec. Wright was a game fighter, but he proved to be no match for the mighty Highlander who even pinned the Commodore heavyweight last season. Capt. Wood Everett pinned Lord, 175 Hahn by pinning Lord, Vandy's 175 pounder, in the evening's record time of 3 min. 50 sec. Thus, the outcome of the entire meet balanced on the mighty heavyweights.

Hal Henschen, at 180 lbs., met Vanderbilt's Alder, who weighed in at 195 lbs. "Blondie" gained two points for the Scots by a take down and two more on a reverse of position. However, his near fall, which would have decisioned the Commodore was quickly followed by a brilliant fall timed at six minutes, forty-two seconds.

Intramural Heads Plan A Festival For March First

This week the intramural department announces plans for their forthcoming festival, March first. Present plans call for the use of every available building in the athletic department with several sports operating at the same time. Among the games played will be the playoff game in basketball, the final round of the horseshoe tournament, foul throw finals, and final round of the handball tourney, volleyball, ping pong, wrestling, swimming and a relay race.

Highlighting the entire program will be the relay race which is open to all societies and organized bodies on the hill. Girls' clubs as well as boys' will compete and each club may enter as many teams as they please. Presidents should report the names of their teams as soon as possible to the intramural office. Men competing in this event will receive points toward the annual trophy, but the exact basis of award has not yet been determined.

In order that the handball tourney may end on this date, all fellows entered in the matches must complete their games as quickly as possible. The foul shooting contest mentioned above will begin on February 22. The highest ten scorers will compete at the festival. Each man will shoot two sets and only the highest set will be counted.

February Meetings...

They were divided as follows: questions to those who said they needed Him and wanted to follow Him; to those who opposed Him; to sick folks; great universal personal questions. In concluding discussion of several individual questions asked by Christ, Dr. Morgan said, "If we listen to His questions we might catch the everlasting accent of God and what he proposed for men."

Faith In Gospel

Thursday Morning

The topic of the Thursday morning service was "Our Faith in the Gospel of Christ, the Gospel for the World." The Gospel, said Dr. Morgan, claims itself the truth about God and man, the purpose of man for life. However, to prove this, there are four things which the Gospel must have:

1. The Gospel must be universal, must submit itself to man's experience in all walks of life. Jesus was the universal kinsman, and His gospel must have that universal tone or it is not sufficient. It is universal speaking to man as man in a most generous way and is of wide scope and intention.

2. It must be adequate, must be equal to the strain of experience and crisis in any time and place. Everything else has been tried and found wanting and yet we have not tried Christ's way; so we still have war and dissension and a too human world. Wherever He has been known and admitted He has been found adequate, and the same is true of his gospel. Our only mistake is we have not answered Him.

3. It must be absolute, must be best for all times, since God is truth then Jesus is absolute and his words too, which are everlasting in the spiritual world.

Dr. Morgan went on to talk about the content of the Gospels. First of all there is a final and authoritative word about God and God is revealed convincingly. However, the best things about God are not in the Gospel; for the highest things in divinity cannot be put in words since they fail to express the fullness of what Jesus said about God.

Secondly, the Gospel speaks concerning the intrinsic greatness or inherent worth of man and the fact that if the spiritual entity goes out there can be no democracy nor even a democratic way of life. Third, the Gospel faces sin fearlessly and frankly, is a gospel for man because, as with Jesus, the fundamental wrong within man is a blow at the heart of God. And fourth, the gospel speaks about the world to come, giving us the only word of hope.

Summing it up Dr. Morgan says the Gospel is universal, adequate, and absolute, and all it needs is human faith and belief by means of which it may move throughout our world and bloom like the rose.

Thursday Evening

The general theme of this service was "The Questions Which Christ Asked of His Disciples." These questions could be grouped as a series. First of all were the questions which Christ asked about Himself, such as, "Who do you say I am?" That is a question, now, today, for any of us who are trying to follow Christ. "Know ye what I have done?" That could mean to us, will we have the power to be humble and serve? "What seekest thou?" To us the question might be put as "Why are you a Christian?" Dr. Morgan pointed out that it needed to be more than the backing of our parents that put us on the path of Christianity, that it must be something within ourselves that could give us the answer to that question.

Then there were the questions asked concerning the Kingdom of Heaven on which Dr. Morgan dwelled for several minutes. "Why are ye fearful?" By this Jesus must have meant that no tempest, no physical wind, no war—nothing can make our work go down; for in our kingdom there are things of lasting value which no tempest, no Hell can ever make go down beneath the waves. So these questions which Jesus asked of his disciples concerning and with God—all were Jesus' means of bringing his disciples face to face with the light of truth and knowledge.

Friday Morning

This morning's service was concerned with the difference that God makes in a life plan. "Religion", said Dr. Morgan, "is the entrance into a larger life. It will help in times of crisis and trouble." God makes a difference in leading us into a larger life; and the indwelling spirit of God, the faith in Christ, enable us to meet our trials and temptations. It is when God comes into life, when a soul opens to the spirit of Christ, that life has a new purpose, a new meaning, a largeness which is more than just existence.

God makes a difference between the man who has a relationship with Him and one who has no such relationship. God can make those who are weak to become centers of meaning and influence, and a new respect, a new gladness in faith in God comes to the man who accepts him.

God and the larger life makes these four differences:

1. A difference in that we have a new and glad response to the beauty of the world in which we live. Without this, since we write success so largely in terms of material achievement, there is danger of man's becoming mechanical, merely existing without knowing and recognizing the beauty of nature and life.

2. They give power to triumph over circumstances. People who have serenity and strength with which to meet the trials of life have had God, and when life gets up and looks at us with its trials and experiences we need this staying power that God through Christ can give to us.

3. They set victory over evil, and this God through Christ will do for anyone of us if we will open our souls to his doctrine. He opens many windows to us through which if we come to know Him, we see new light."

Friday Evening

There were eight questions which Christ as the Great Physician asked of the sick in mind, body, and spirit, and these were the questions discussed by Dr. Morgan at this evening service. The first was "Do you want to be made whole?" We may take that in the realm of the health of our spirit. There are many who do not want to give themselves wholly to Christ, either because of intellectual laziness or moral looseness. "The Great Physician moves in only when we want him, when we make room for Him in our moral and spiritual experience," says Dr. Morgan.

The second question to be discussed was "What is thy name?" The third, "Who touched me?" Jesus knew, but He wanted the woman to be brought out to confess her belief in Christ, not to prove his identity, but to enable him to help by giving her a healthy soul and a change of spirit.

"Why make ye this ado?" What a question to those who were ill in spirit because of a loss of loved ones. It was a door opening into a wonderful element in a more glorious life. "Did no man condemn thee?" Jesus was saying "Then neither do I condemn thee. Neither does God." It was a question to someone in moral need and would give them help in forming a new hope in plans for a different life.

himself, God, man's relations with man

"Do you believe in the Son of God?" "What will thou that I shall do for thee?" Christ realized the element of pain and sin in human life and He called upon the will to aid in recovery. He revealed the power of God to help the ill and to redeem those sick spiritually and mentally. The power in a sane, wholesome faith would have to keep man integrated. Yes, God has the power to take us from darkness to light, from the death in this world to eternal life. May we know the healing power of the Great Physician.

MONDAY EVENING—

"The Questions Jesus Proposed to the Religious and Civil Rulers of the Day." The religious leaders of Jesus' day assumed one attitude after another during Christ's three years of ministry. First they were curious, then patronizing, then openly hostile. We find these attitudes toward Christ in many a life even today.

1. There were questions about the Sabbath which Jesus addressed to the religious rulers, challenging their curiosity, revealing their opposition. Let us not narrow our concept of the Sabbeth nor of any part of Christianity, but live it to its heighth and depth, its fullest and deepest extent.

2. Questions about the religious and civil law which challenged and confused the rulers. One answer which Jesus gave, "Render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's and unto God the things that are God's," applies now as well as then, for today too many people are rendering unto Caesar things that are God's.

3. Questions about Jesus' authority and person. In the present day what do you think of Jesus? You cannot be neutral about his Diety—either you believe it or you don't. Your answer to this question makes a difference in your character, your life, your destiny. If you have had Christ presented to you, if you have heard his story and have been moved by his presence and still have not accepted him, you have lost something from your character and you can never be the person you could have been.

TUESDAY MORNING—

The general theme of this service was "His Cross and Ours." There are three reasons for Christ's cross, there are three statements for us if we wish to follow him, and there are three reasons because of which we should follow him.

1. "I must go to Jerusalem . . ." And if anyone would come after me let

Radio Series Begins Tomorrow

ASCAP-BMI Scrap Delays Program Plans

Sunday radio broadcasts will begin tomorrow with Dr. Lloyd's first sermonette. His talk will be the first of a series of four entitled "The Four Best-Known Verses in the Bible." In order to find out what these four verses are, it will be necessary to tune in WROL at five o'clock Sunday afternoon.

Due to the controversy between ASCAP and BMI the exact program for Wednesday, Fbruary 19, has not been decided. Maryville college has permission from ASCAP to use any of their music desired, provided it is not used for commercial purposes, the time is donated, and that the announcer acknowledge that the music belongs to ASCAP. Station WROL uses only BMI music and cannot permit any "plug" for ASCAP, therefore only BMI music may be used on any of the broadcasts.

Of the ninety-five pieces of music submitted to the radio station for approval of use on the programs, three were accepted. This means that the music department will have to purchase new music for the broadcasts. Altogether different compisitions will be bought in the hope that when the controversy is ended, the college will have a greater library of music from which to select its performances.

Miss Katherine Davies and Miss Alverda Reed will perform on the Wednesday broadcast.

Special permission has been granted to use radios on Wednesday evenings from 7:00 to 7:30. It will be required that the radio volume be kept very low to avoid interfering with anyone's study period. This late radio permission is for Wednesday only, and they must not be on later than 7:30.

Dr. Griffitts On Exam Committee

2nd Consecutive Year For Maryville Professor

Dr. Fred A. Griffitts of the chemistry department has been asked for the second consecutive year to serve on the committee which formulates the National Cooperative Chemical Tests. This test in chemistry belongs to the group of National Cooperative Sophomore Examinations, three of which are given each year to members of the sophomore class at Maryville, namely: the tests in general science, current affairs, and English.

The committee of which Dr. Griffitts is a member has as its chairman, Dr. C M. Smith of Oklahoma A. & M. college, and is composed of eighteen members coming from different parts of the United States. The chemistry examination, which is used here in Maryville as part of the comprehensive for seniors majoring in chemistry and is not given to sophomores, is generally regarded as being detailed and difficult, requiring exact answers. This test and all the other National Cooperatives are sponsored by the American Council of Education, of which Maryville is a member.

Freshmen To Use "Student Record"

New Registration Booklet Devised by McClelland

In order to facilitate the processes of registration and to furnish the students with a convenient record of grades and courses, Dr. Frank D. McClelland, as Director of Personnel, has devised a new procedure. He has prepared a booklet entitled "Student's Record" containing a replica of the student's major card and space for his schedule, grades, and grade points for the eight semesters.

The books will be put into use for the first time by the freshman class entering in September, 1941. As he registers in September, each freshman will receive one and be asked to keep it carefully and accurately for the four years.

The booklet has a heavy brown paper cover and consists of eight pages. The first page presents the purposes of the book and directions about its use. Dr. McClelland has designed the book with a threefold purpose: for the student as "a means of keeping an accurate, up-to-date record of subjects taken and to be taken, grades, semester hours, and grade points, for his information and use in registration; for the major adviser, as information as to the exact scholastic status of the student, upon the basis of which he may adjust and approve the student's schedule each semester, and see that the general and major requirements for graduation are met; and for the Personnel office as a convenient means of checking schedules at time of registration."

The second page is a copy of the major card. The third is labeled "Memoranda"—a place for changes in major requirements and notes.

Though the record will not be official, the student is required to have it identical with the Personnel office records and to present it complete and up-to-date each time he registers or makes schedule changes. Through the convenience of this record it is hoped that one of the college's traditional long lines may be effectively shortened and its progress speeded.

Town and Campus Girls Together At Pi Gamma

Tuesday Pi Gamma began a new line of attack in its effort to better acquain town and campus girls. Afternoon meetings are still being held on alternate Tuesdays; on the remaining Tuesdays luncheons are scheduled in the YW rooms. Different sets of town girls fifteen in a group are invited to the luncheons, and each of these invites a campus girl — everyone furnishing something to eat or drink. Next Tuesday Pi Gamma meets at 3:15 in the YW rooms.

Briggs Brings Metropolitan Marionettes

"Tom Sawyer" And All His Buddies Will Answer Pull of Strings

When the Berkeley Metropolitan Marionettes, managed by Ernest Briggs, present Mark Twain's "Tom Sawyer" the evening of February 22, those attending will be receiving double benefit; first, by enjoying the evening, and second, by helping to provide for something of permanent value to the student body.

This program is a Social Committee "extra" which means that all of the proceeds are to be used by the committee itself in purchasing something which will be beneficial to the student body.

Last year the funds so gathered were used to purchase the shuffle-board equipment placed just to the east of Pearsons.

The story of "Tam Sawyer" will be given in five scenes, beginning in a village street in front of Aunt Polly's house in the sleepy city of St. Petersburg, Missouri, and ending with scene five—Judge Thatcher's "settin'" room —a happy conclusion to a story in a setting of haircloth, antimacassars and family portraits.

Scene two produces a setting of great beauty for the romance of Tom and Becky—the bridge over the brook at the swimming hole, the drowsy water wheels, the old grist mill and the mossy banks all combine to spell "puppy love."

Scene three is the familiar haunted house with its breath-taking adventures in uncomfortable surroundings.

The thrills and chills of McDougal's cave with its high vaulted, echoing vastness are brought to life, in underground darkness, in scene four.

Cavorting throughout the performance will be all of the old familiar favorites—Aunt Polly, Tom, Huckleberry Finn, Injun Joe, Becky Thatcher, Muff Porter, the Widow Douglas and several others. These will all be easily recognized even in our large auditorium, for the marionettes are large and their performances well adapted to such presentations.

The co-chairmen of the Social Committee, Stan Menning and Joe Swift, have made great plans for this evening of pleasure and feel certain that it will be a profitable one for all concerned.

Jesse H. Baird Leads Vespers

President Jesse H. Baird of the San Francisco Theological seminary will preach at the regular vesper services here tomorrow night. He is enroute to Baltimore, Maryland, where he will attend a church conference. Rev. Baird will preach in the New Providence Presbyterian church in Maryville at the morning worship service tomorrow.

Rev. Baird is the former pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Oakland, California, and the First Presbyterian church of Salt Lake City, Utah. He has been president of the San Francisco Theological seminary for only a few years, and is very popular as a radio preacher in the west. This will be Rev. Baird's first visit to the Maryville college campus.

Freshmen Have Valentine Party In Gym Tonight

Student Body Invited To Fun, Folk Dances And Refreshments

Saturday evening at 7:30 a Valentine party is to be held in the Alumni gym. This party is being planned by the freshman class for the student body.

Charles Gilpatrick, president of the freshman class, has announced the following committees: refreshment committee, Paul Giamarick; game and folk dance committee, Eleanor Williams and Laura Mae Webber; decorations and general arrangement committee, Mary Evelyn Waisman and Lawrence Streshley.

Betty Parker is general chairlady. Phil Vance, who is in charge of the musical program, has promised us a super-entertainment. Among the high spots of the show are a duet by Joan Humann and Carl Miller, the Maryville college Sunshine Sisters, a solo by Mel Gaugin, the Dilliner brothers in a specialty act, and a clarinet solo by Maestro Vance himself. These and several "surprise numbers" are included in the musical show.

Master of ceremonies for the evening is to be Tracy Ellis. The faculty chaperons are Mr. and Mrs. George Brown and Dr. and Mrs. Fred A. Griffitts.

"Abe Lincoln" In Rehearsal Now

Mrs. West Says Play Bids To Be Best Production Since "Hamlet"

Daily rehearsals of "Abe Lincoln in Illinois", Athenian-Bainonian mid-winter play, show marked progress. Mrs. Nita Eckles West, director, states, "It bids fair to be the best play since 'Hamlet' produced here in June, 1939. The parts are well cast, and the actors are working hard."

Since the play is a multi-set production of 12 scenes, it will be presented simply against a gray cyclorama. This is the way it has been produced on several occasions in various colleges and theaters throughout the country.

Most of the costumes will be furnished by the college costume department. It will be necessary to get several new women's costumes, but these will be made here on the campus and added to the school wardrobe.

There are five minor roles which have not been assigned. The best of these is that of the seventeen-year-old Robert Lincoln, son of Abraham Lincoln.

COUNCIL DISCUSSES CORRUPT ELECTIONS

The Student Council held its regular meeting on Tuesday night at 8:30 in Thaw hall. In the absence of President Baird, Miss Eleanor Long, the vice-president, presided over the meeting. The Council continued its discussion of corrupt elections on the campus, no conclusions were reached regarding the matter. They also discussed the disturbing noise made by the library doors. It was decided that automatic door silencers be purchased to eliminate the noise.

ASCAP Controversy Disrupts Plans For Colbert's Musical Broadcast

The ASCAP controversy of the last month or two was brought close to home when Professor Colbert was informed that only three of the ninety songs prepared by the choir for the spring broadcast series were acceptable on the air. Further correspondence with ASCAP got permission to use the songs on a religious, non-commercial program of this type, providing that it was announced over the air that it was only through the courtesy of ASCAP that the music was being heard. The radio station refused to plug for ASCAP on the air, however.

But now it is asked, "Just what is ASCAP?" You want to know what is behind the rumor that an organization called ASCAP (short for American Society of Composers, Authors, and Publishers) intends to bar from the air some of the music you have been listening to—unless radio pays $9,000,000 a year for its use. Ostensibly, ASCAP is a protective organization whose function is to prevent the unauthorized commercial use of music without royalty payment to the composer or lyric writer.

However, many people claim that it is just a private club which has gained control of the copyrights of a small but important group of American song writers.

As early as 1920, ASCAP had control of much of the popular music of the day. And broadcasting wanted ASCAP'S popular music so badly that, in 1928, the radio stations had to agree to at "blanket" contract. Under a contract of this type a radio station can-

Student-Help Office Begins System Of Rating Off College Workers On Basis Of Quality

Program Officials Think Students Will Have More Initiative

550 STUDENTS WORK

New Policy Is Result Of Gradual Development And Growth

Students on the NYA and college payrolls are, according to a report from the Student-Help office, grading their own work this month.

Although there has been no effort whatever to change the number of students on the student-help program here at Maryville nor to enlarge or decrease the amount of work available, the college has been carrying out a sincere desire to improve the quality of work done in the whole program. Therefore the goal of several new practices which have been inaugurated this year is not a result that is immediately tangible. The two primary objects of the more detailed records are first, to bring the quality of the work up to a college level and second, to have objective records for recommendation for students when they are no longer in school.

Thus it has been that each of the approximately 550 students on the program this year have been graded in several respects on their work as well as on their studies. These five respects —quality, quantity, regularity, initiative, and attitude—cannot, of course, judge one with exact accuracy; however, they do give some indication of the individual's efforts. In order to get as true as possible an idea, sometime the student is graded not by his supervisor but by some other person who comes in contact with his work. For instance, library assistants are graded sometimes by people who use the library frequently. This gives a broader viewpoint and greater variety.

Deeper implications of the new grading policy are: first, that it gives opportunity for the student to show what he has in him. A student who realizes his efforts are not to go unrecognized has a greater incentive to improve his work and to do his utmost—to really show what he can do. His ability to cooperate can be seen by whether or not he fits into other schedules realizing that others must be taken into consideration in respect to himself. Second, there is the wish to raise the level of the work program at Maryville to correspond with its academics. Maryville is now working on the principal that good work that fits in should be rewarded. Hence, it is possible through the records which are now being taken and recorded, to determine the status of a student and promote him when the opportunity arises. Thus, the student is then helped in raising himself as well as the school. Always the participants have shown fine cooperation and appreciation.

The exact methods now in use, the time sheet, the schedule card, and the work report. The work reports are also being consolidated so that four years of grades can be kept on one card for future reference. In every way efficiency and conciseness are being developed. Through use of the time sheet and the schedule card the regularity of the work of the student can be kept in mind with the added advantage for the student in that whatever difficulty may develop it may be worked out to the mutual advantage to supervisor and to the student. In this way the amount of work may also be regulated. This month the worker will grade his own efforts which will be recorded on their permanent record. Although it will probably prove rather difficult for him to evaluate his work in terms of grades, nevertheless he no doubt knows what he is doing.

This policy has been the result of a gradual development and growth; it originated out of the experience of the college in its endeavor to recognize and improve the general level of the college. As far as is known this system of grading is unique at Maryville. The program of self-help has been a part of the college life since it was founded.

Athenian has a program of recorded music planned for tonight. The meeting will be held in the Fine Arts studio.

Lloyd Attends Annual Meeting

Baltimore To Be Place Of Executive Meeting

Dr. Ralph Waldo Lloyd will leave this Monday for Baltimore, Maryland, to attend the annual meeting of the executive board of the Western Section of the World Alliance of Reformed Churches holding the Presbyterian system.

Dr. Lloyd is one of twenty-five representatives from the Presbyterian Church of U.S.A. to the Western Section of the World Alliance of Reformed Churches holding the Presbyterian System. The federation includes all reformed and Presbyterian groups. The Western Section includes all of these churches represented in the United States and Canada.

At this annual meeting of the executive board of the Western Section about eight or ten groups will be represented. The entire alliance represents a group of sixty thousand members. A certain number from each delegation is elected from each denomination represented to the executive body of the Western Section. Dr. Lloyd is one of this group and will attend the meeting from Tuesday through Thursday.

The discussion and plans deal with a better understanding among denominations, and efforts toward cooperation and union of the groups and the general program of the church with special reference to the churches in America and Europe.

Last year the group met in Rochester, New York, but a change was made for this year.

Women Debaters Go To Bristol, Va.

Thomas and Webster To Go To State Meet at TPI

At this writing the women members of the Maryville college debate team are nearing the end of a day of debating and other related forms of public speaking at the Women's Smoky Mountain tournament, sponsored by Virginia Intermont college in Bristol. The entire women's squad, consisting of seven members, left yesterday shortly after the noon hour, arriving at Bristol in the evening.

Upholding the affirmative side of the question for the local squad today were Edith Monroe and Jeanne Stringham; Phyllis Anne Cain and Natalie Yelton were entered as the negative team. Lucille Lynch and Janet Lindsay vied with the other schools for honors in the relatively new form of debating, direct clash. The oratory contest saw two Maryville contestants; Natalie Yelton delivering an oration on "The Hills From Whence Cometh Our Aid", and Phyllis Anne Cain speaking on "The New World Order—or Disorder". Beth Pascoe, besides entering the poetry reading contest, also entered extemp along with Jeanne Stringham. And delivering light, humorous after-dinner speeches were Natalie Yelton and Edith Monroe.

Preparing for the next two debate tourneys are Edward Thomas and George Webster, who have been assigned to the State Meet at TPI, February 27 to March 1, and Trevor Reesones and Henry Wick, who will represent the local squad at the South Atlantic tournament at Hickory, N. C., March 6-8. Jack Zerwas is also preparing orations for the State tourney, and Hilton Wick is preparing an oration and extemp material for the Hickory tournament. Trial debates are being held almost every night in order to prepare the different teams for the tourneys.

Flu Confines Wendt To Home For Few Days

Professor Paul F. Wendt of the Economics department was confined to his home during the past week with a slight case of flu. He has now recovered and is able to meet his classes again.

A Letter Home

Dear Mom and Pop:

My good resolutions for the coming semester started to bend on February 3 and are all broken up now. Of course, I'm only trying to protect my health because I'm sure that you wouldn't want me to come home with a nervous breakdown caused by overwork.

When I think of health I see the back porch of Memorial every morning about 7:30. Practically all the girls on third floor—commonly known as "Goon Attic"—are remembering to get their vitamins daily. As a result, Helen Anderson's good-natured dad lines up about fourteen pint bottles of what comes from our friends the cows. The other day I saw Vickie Hoole coming from the gym muttering something about "that darn milk supply". Apparently she had just climbed down from the scales. We managed to convince her that it wasn't the milk as much as frequent visits to the "Haven for Hungry Women", the Y Shoppe.

The "sunny South" has certainly lived up to its name for the past few days, and a few hardy people have been taking their sun baths early. Carl Miller, Harry Lyle, and Neil Proffitt tried to talk Mrs. West into holding her speech class outside on Wednesday. Request not granted—thank goodness. I may be from the North, but I still can't take it like some of the Southern gals. Jean Byrd, who hails from Florida, makes me cold to look at her when she runs around in a short-sleeved sweater. She sure is a hardy soul. The other day we had a little bit of snow—about a half an inch—and Ann Hunter Wright and her roommate, Jane McFarland, more Florida women, nearly went crazy trying to get enough up off the ground to make snowballs out of. (Gee, I hope I never write a sentence like that for Miss Heron.)

Hal Lloyd, who always manages to blight my young life by his conscientious preparation of every day's lesson, was very embarrassed today in French class when he asked Professor Collins where he could find the days of the week—only to be squelched by the prompt and biting answer, "They are in today's lesson".

My sympathy goes out to Joan Humann who managed to avoid the college infirmary during the late flu epidemic. Now she is over there with no one but Bobby Ritzman for company. Reports are that she is using the same methods that I did to try to get Tallie to let her out. Apparently they aren't working as well this time.

We campus girls certainly have a hard time competing with town girls when it comes to the young gentlemen. They offer the lure of a warm evening and a full icebox. Judging from Jack Lippard's smug smile when he occasionally appears at our table in the dining hall, we feel that Polly Park's mother could teach the Home Ec girls a few things.

When I see 100 Baldwin's food supply ranging from canned spaghetti to tuna fish, I do wish that you would send me some of your own special boxes of food. I can't say how much I want, but you know my appetite—and now I have a roommate.

Love,
Gretchen.

The recent days have been liberally sprinkled with the birthdays of several men whose activities have had widespread effects on our troubled world. We will leave a discussion of George Washington's anniversary until next week when it will be more apropos. Until that time, we feel we should mention that we have taken note, so far, of the birthdays of Abraham Lincoln, St. Valentine, and George D. Webster. The first two of these gentlemen being dead, we were forced to celebrate for them, but the third, with the aid of a few friends and relatives, celebrated for himself. Celebrations such as these relieve the monotony of our commonplace world and we are grateful to people for becoming prominent enough to have their birthdays celebrated.

For the benefit of those who have thus far evaded the Lincoln whisper ad campaign, "Abraham Lincoln Walks at Eight O'Clock" here early in March. (Midnight is too late for Maryville). A trifle tardy, but nevertheless effective, bit of celebration for a great man.

Saint Valentine gets his biggest single piece of attention Saturday night. We have it from a fairly reliable source that the Freshman class is having a Valentine party for the rest of the school in the gym. Of course, that may be only idle chit-chat, but our source was the president of the class, however reliable that may be, and there are signs all over everywhere. It seems that in addition to the games and Valentine motif, there is to be a musical program under the direction of the Freshman impressario, Phil Vance. Sounds good to us.

And for no apparent reason, that reminds us of the fact that we noted Mr. Vance and Bill Hargreaves among the hordes of students infesting Ricketts and the dime stores to buy Valentines. Just to be subtle about it, we sneaked in and bought some Home Ec cards, and bumped into Rit Anderson on his way out with a dozen 9½x12.8 jobs tucked under one arm, and the places were all jammed with boys and girls sentimentally thumbing through 5 to 75 cent versions of "Be My Valentine". Some clever people like Dave Humphries bought theirs early before the rush set in and probably got the pick of them. We peeked over Ethel Nielson's shoulder and all we could see was a box of comic valentines and one inscribed "To My Valentine's Mother". We thought that took a little too much for granted, so we went and bought chocolate milk with our nickel.

That gorgeous moon has accomplished great quantities of things around here the last few days. Besides, as Elizabeth Sawyer (whoever she is) says, "from its inspiration was produced three sonnets, two best sellers and a play!", it got the choir out on a galloping tea sort of affair. Tuesday night we were hurrying to get in bed before the lights came on in the morning and we heard all the choir members in Pearsons come skipping in, garbling tales of Mrs. Walker and Dr. Morgan and Dr. Lloyd and turkey sandwiches and candy until we drooled into bed. Why doesn't one of the organizations we belong to, like IRC, do something nice like that?

An extremely interesting collection of masculinity, so we've been told, took advantage of a free Sunday afternoon to investigate and enjoy the Chimneys, which is a near-point of scenic interest. The little group was composed of such individuals as Enrico Scapellati, Editor Don Kent, who, by the way, announces that the 1941 Chilhowean is nearing a glorious completion; Sammy Cornelius, Art Rowan, and Bill Cornelius, who played guide for the tour. Big things happened to our little party, as big things often do. To start things off, Sammy forgot the Scout handbook and the matches, so they had to eat the beans cold—stone cold. Next, Brother Rowan took a leaping, unpremeditated dive which laid him up for quite a spell. Bill, having left his compass with the handbook, allegedly became a bit confused as to directions, and led the party to a group of blondes from U-T. (Mmmm—he ain't so dumb). Then Enrico, to add his bit to the entertainment, slid down the mountain on his own initiative, his trousers and epidermis wasting rapidly away meanwhile. Won't somebody else buy a Chilhowean? They were Enrico's best trousers.

Hospital note: Upon checking the role at the hospital this week, we are grieved to be forced to report that our Echo editor, Felknor, took to his bed Thursday evening. Paul Brown, unfortunately for most of us, but nice for Mrs. Hall, is back in stir again after a comparatively short parole. Thelma Ritzman got out to chapel Thursday, but she's still convalescing. Tom Mize is over there too, but aside from worrying about the amount of vitamins in celery soup, he's apparently coming fine. Out of sight, but not out of hearing, were Marie Fawcett, and, in addition, the Wood-Humann combination, getting along as well as can be expected. That was all we could locate off-hand, and with characteristic triteness, we hope they'll all recover rapidly and will soon be their own radiant selves again.

Bob Hope reached a new high in entertainment quips this week. Probably most of you heard it, and we hope you all did, but in case the boys in the back room missed it, it was something to the effect that someone hadn't had a date in so long that he thought Pitching Woo was a Chinese baseball player. And here are dozens of us sitting letting moss form on the north side of us, totally going to waste. Phone 531.

Spring is a lovesome thing. It showed up here a day or two this week. Peggy Coates says she can always tell when it's spring by the number of bench-sitter-on-ers. But Kay Sullivan (Peg's roommate) sagely observed that she'd detected people sitting on the benches when they were buried so deep in snow that all you could see was the top slat peeping like spring crosuses thru the whiteness. The benches, that is. So we've decided that this is no more reliable an indicator than Charlie Baldwin's white shoes, and are going to stick to Groundhog Day and Farmers' Almanac to tell when to take off flannels.

One aspect of St. Valentine's Day we must not forget to mention. During our trip to the hospital for the data printed above (or below, as the case may be) we discovered some scales that you don't get your fortune told with, and since it was free, we got on and discovered to our dismay that even when we subtracted our shoes, coat, books, and room-mate, we'd gained several ounces from the candy all the other girls around Pearsons got for Valentines. Jolly old Saint Valentine better bring us a fruit juice diet.

Texan Vows That Home State Is God's Country And Offers Proof

Whereas all them thar DY's, Crackers, etc., has organized state clubs at this institution of higher learning, we Texans here on the Hill are hankerin' to form sech a club to be composed of the citizens and devotees of the Lone Star State who are temporarily situated here at Maryville college.

Now we realize that there are many prevalent fallacies concerning the integrity and prestige of our sovereign state, Texas—where men are men and women are governors; where men are men and smell like cattle, where, instead of a fourth at bridge, they use a quart. But when we native Texans think of the Friendly State—the word "Tejas" meant friendship—our minds conjure up visions of plateaus, ranches, oil derricks, rolling ranges, loamy black farmlands, imposing cities, ivy-covered missions, beautiful sunsets and still more beautiful moons, and so on our reminiscences go.

So we've taken enough now without blasting back too vociferously. You would be surprised how much we have to put up with. However, at long last we are able to present our side of the ancient question or source of contention. No carping intended—here goes.

Many students from other states like to speak of their native land as being God's Country. And yet not one has proved his or her statement. As of now we Texans, humble as we are, have not even suggested that the Lone Star State is God's Country or East Side of Heaven or other versions. Our lack of comment has been caused no doubt by a desire to stoop to equality with our fellow companions while at school. But now and hereafter we do make and uphold the statement that Our State, still quick with the urge of youth and ambition and devoid of coal dust and other such advantages, is truly God's Country.

Texas occupies all the continent of North America except the small part set aside for the United States, Mexico, and Canada. Texas owns all the land north of the Rio Grande, the only dusty river in the world; also the only one with the possible exception of the Trinity, also in Texas, which is navigable for mudcats and pedestrians.

Texas is bounded on the north by twenty-five or thirty states, on the east by all the oceans in the world except the Pacific, on the south by the Gulf of South America, and on the west by the Pacific Ocean, the Milky Way, and the sidereal Universe.

If Texas were cut loose from the rest of the United States, it would float out into the ocean, as it rests on a vast subterranean sea of fresh water. Texas is so big the people in Brownsville call the Dallasites Yankees, and the citizens of El Paso sneer at the people of Texarkana as being snobs from the effete of the East.

It is one hundred and fifty miles farther from El Paso, Texas, to Texarkana, Texas, than it is from Chicago to New York. Fort Worth, a suburb of Dallas, is nearer St. Paul, Minnesota, than it is to Brownsville, Texas.

The chief occupation of the renowned Texans is to keep from making all the money in the world. Their chief pursuit was formerly Indians and Mexicans, but now it is land buyers, steers, and crop records.

The United States with Texas chopped off would look like a three-legged Boston terrier.

Texas has enough land to supply every man, woman, and child in the world with a tract of five feet by 20 and have enough left over for the armies of the world (pre-Italian and German defeat figures) to march around the border five abreast. If the alfalfa grown in Texas were baled and built into a stairway it would reach the pearly gates. If all the hogs in Texas were one big hog, he would be able to dig up the Panama Canal in three roots.

And if all the Texas steers were one big steer, he would stand with his front feet in the Gulf of Mexico, one hind foot in the Hudson Bay, and the other in the Arctic Ocean, and with his tail brush in the mist from the Aurora Borealis.

SPORT ECHOS

BASKETBALL....Join the basketball team and learn a trade! Send your socks out with the basketball team for the best job. It appears that the Scotties not only play basketball nowadays but also wash their own socks. With LMU coming up on Monday, the Highlanders will have to display a whole lot better brand of ball against these red-hot ball bandlers than they did against the Teachers on Thursday night. However, if the team gets down to work and plays the same type ball they showed against Carson-Newman a few weeks ago, this column picks Maryville in a hard and close battle. Coach Honaker has lost no time ironing out the mistakes made in the Teachers' game and the laps have been dished out with "montonous regularity."

WRESTLING....Well, the grunt and groaners seem well on their way towards another state championship as they defeated both Vanderbilt and the Knoxville Y in less than a week. Vanderbilt has wrestled Kansas and Penn, and yet were defeated by the Scotties; therefore, it appears that Maryville could break into the big time with her wrestling team. Coach, why not allow the team to try their skill with wrestlers in the Intercollegiates? Justus was the big surprise to most fans on Thursday night and the ease with which he pinned his man was well liked by the huge crowd. A few weeks ago the column wished J. D. Davis a lot of luck with his team, now it seems time to thank him for giving to Maryville a team which not only lived up to our hopes, but exceeded them in every department.

SWIMMING....The swimming team ran up against some real competition last night in Concord Teachers. However, several points to be noticed are that the score exactly duplicates the score run up last year by the same team and that a new record was set. With but three lettermen back, Coach Fischbach has done remarkably well in molding together a team that did as well as it did against Concord. In losing the 400 yard relay event, the Highlander team consisting of Cross, Miller, Wells, and Lowry actually clipped a full second from the old college record established in 1940 by Heydinger, Lee, Akana, and Findlay.

INTRAMURALS....The Athenians still continue to lead their league in the basketball part of the extensive intramural program. However, some complications exist in each league, but all looks to be ironed out in the next week when Steakley's Foul Balls play the Yankees, and the Choir plays the Athenians. This sports festival on March 1 appears to be a good thing. Congrats to the intramural leaders for having planned such an elaborate program. One outstanding performance of Friday's games was the playing of Roberts, freshman member of the All-Americans, who put 27 points through the bucket. This scoring race seems close between cooper of the Foul Balls and Roberts of the All-Americans at the present writing.

ODDS and ENDS....The column, and in fact, everybody on the campus, was glad to see Jimmy Witt, varsity footballer, up and around again after his seige of illness. Baseballs were noticed flying around lately and it won't be long now. The band and the cheering at the basketball games sound good and it is hoped that they will continue as they add a great deal of color and spirit to the contests.

Intramural Data

The second half of the intramural basketball tournament neared completion in both leagues yesterday afternoon as the competition became tense and the standings somewhat complicated.

In the Independent League the All-Americans and the Spitfires are tied up for first place, each with four wins and one loss. If the Foul Balls defeat the Yankees, they will make it a three way tie. The playoff for the league championship will come during next week.

In the Club League the Athenians barely nosed out the Choir 19 to 17 on Wednesday, to retain their perfect record and the league lead. However, before they can claim the championship thy must play the Choir again in order to have played five games during the second half as required. A loss by the Athenians would tie them up with the Deacons, who have won 4 and lost 1. By the end of next week the undisputed championships in both leagues will be decided and the inter-league playoff will come at the intramural festival on March 1.

Entries for the ping-pong tournament will close on Monday of next week, and play will begin on Wednesday. All matches should be completed before March 1. The championship match will be a feature of the festival.

The wrestling tournament will start shortly after March 1. Coach Fischbach urges that all who plan to enter begin training as soon as possible. A requirement of the tournament is that each participant will have attended at least four instructional periods in wrestling previous to the matches. The weight classes will be: 118, 128, 136, 145, 155, 165, 175, and heavyweights.

On February 24 and 25 will be staged the intramural foul-shooting contest. During the afternoons and evenings of the above dates both gyms will be available, and the competition will be reduced to the best ten shooters.

Wrestlers Defeat Knoxville YMCA Team For Fourth Consecutive Win

Vanderbilt U. Defeated On Saturday at Nashville

The Maryville college wrestling team defeated the team from the Knoxville Y on Thursday night by the overwhelming score of 35-3. The Highlanders took every match except one and scored a pin in every one of the matches.

Evaul pinned J. Doby of the Knoxville team in six minutes and thirty-five seconds. The 121 pounder is undefeated thus far this year and seems in top form.

In the 128 lb. class Boyd, a greatly improved wrestler, pinned Fox in four minutes and seven seconds of the second bout of the evening.

In the next class, the 135 pounders, Justice of Maryville pulled the startling upset of the evening by scoring a decisive and quick win in the short time of one minute and twenty-seven seconds over Murphy.

McDaniels pinned Raby in the 145 lb. class in 5:40. Dave seemed to have snapped out of his losing ways and looked good on the mat.

Kelley of Knoxville decisioned Culver of Maryville in the next bout and it was this bout that Maryville lost her only points.

Hahn of Maryville had a hard time pinning Pounders in the 165 lb. class, but finally, after eight minutes and 40 seconds of wrestling managed to get his man.

Capt. Everett was the next victor when he took care of his man in 4 minutes and 10 seconds while Henschen finished up the evenings work with a pin in eight minutes and 30 seconds over Carlson in the heavyweight clash.

Three exhibition matches resulted in three more pins for Maryville. Ballinger. Ross, Scapellati all showed up well in pinning their men.

Last Saturday the Maryville matmen journeyed to Nashville and decisioned, for the second time this season, a vastly improved Vanderbilt university squad by an 18-14 count. By winning this meet, the Maryville grapplers took an important step toward another state title. Although they still have to tame the U-T Vols.

In the first match of the day, little Phil Evaul pinned Burroughs, his 121 pound opponent, for the second time this year. Though Burroughs had to work his way out of nearly unbreakEvaul pinned Burroughs, who managed to last 7:55 before Evaul finally effected a pin.

J. Hutton of Vanderbilt ran up five points for the Commodores when he was awarded a default victory over Dick Boyd, 128 pounder. Boyd was worked into such a position that he was unable to put any hold on his opponent, and the matchwas stopped in the third period after warnings from the referee.

In the 135 pound division, Brown managed to eke out a close decision over Horace Justus of Maryville. Justus showed a great deal of improvement over his earlier performances, but he appeared to be handicapped by his lack of experience.

Probably the most exciting match of the day was that between Dave McDaniels and C. Hutton in the 145 lb. class. The end of the regular time found the boys even; so an extra period had to be allowed. The count remained knotted until Hutton managed an escape late in the second overtime session. These points were sufficient to give Vandy another victory.

Warren Culver was decisioned by Tipton of Vandy in 155 lb. class. Culver took the mat with a weight disadvantage of several pounds, and this edge proved to be too much. At this point of the meet, Vanderbilt led Maryville by a score of 14-5.

165-lb. Clem Hahn pinned Lord, his surprised opponent, so quickly that the Vanderbilt fans didn't realize what was happening. Hahn seemed to be able to do just about as he wished with Lord, and he had the boy flat on the mat at the end of 1:54. Score: Maryville 10, Vanderbilt 14.

Capt. Wood Everett was the next to take the mat for the Scotties, and he pinned Fleming in 4:36. Apparently Everett had his opponent overpowered from the start, and the entire match was just a question of how long it would take Maryville's captain to flatten the Vandy grappler.

With Maryville leading by a bare one point, Hal Henschen and Adler took the mat for the deciding match of the evening. Henschen, who had pinned Adler earlier this year, found that he was up against a vastly improved wrestler. However, he wrestled in his own cautious manner, and came out with a decisive three point victory, giving his team the meet.

Coach Davis was especially pleased by the wide variety of holds that his team demonstrated to the capacity crowd. Every Maryville pin was worked with a different hold, whereas the Vanderbilt grapplers seemed to lack this essential knowledge of the various means of attack.

Four wrestlers—Evaul, Everett, Henschen, and Hahn—have already scored more than enough points to earn their letters. Three of these—Evaul, Everett, and Hahn—have three consecutive five point decisions to their credit.

Teachers Defeat Scottie Swimmers

The swimming meet held last night in the Maryville college pool was won by Concord State Teachers, by a score of 57-18.

Concord, represented by Sellers, Podgorski, and Morefield, took the lead from the opening whistle by winning the 300 yd. medley event in 3:41.4 minutes.

Maryville gained a stride in the 220 yard free style when Frank Cross and Miller took second and third slots respectively. The event was won by Teachers' Minevich in a time of 2 min.

The Scotties hit the skids in the 50 yard free style as Concord's Boothe and Devine finished one-two ahead of Wells and Lowry. Boothe's winning time was officially clocked at 25.5 seconds.

Although Concord's Morefield and Maryville's Cross came through in that order in the diving event, Concord's Minevich provided more thrills than any other man in the meet. Morefield paced the field with a total average of 87.2 points, Cross followed with 83, and Minevich trailed with 80.

One minute, one second was the winning time in the century free style event, which was won for Concord by Devine. Devine's teammate Boothe, who won the 50 yard sprint, followed in second place, and Don Lowry took third place for the Fischbach mermen.

Maryville's backstroke entries, Wilcox and Scherer, took two-three berths in the 150 yard race. The victor, Concord's Sellers, chalked up five more points for his team by winning the event in 3 min., 7 sec. The score: M 13, C 37.

The first two places in the 200 yard breaststroke were won by Gore and Podgorski of Concord. Gore's time in snaring the top place was 3:03 min. Dud Moore finished third for the Highlanders.

Like the preceding event the Teachers swept the first two positions in the 440 yard free style attraction. However, referee Chandler disqualified Sellers, which gave second and third honors to Pool and Wilcox of Maryville. Wilcox resorted almost entirely to the backstroke. McNeil won this event for the West Virgianians in 6 min., 11 sec.

In the final event of the evening the Concord 400 yard relay swimmers, composed of Devine, Boothe, Podorski, and Morefield, won in a time of 4 min., 24 sec. However, this event wasn't without glory for the Highlanders. The Scotties, although defeated by a 3 second margin, clipped a full second from the old college record. The final score gave the meet to Concord Teachers by a score of 57 to 18.

Honakermen Play LMU Quintet In The Alumni Gym Monday Night

Carolina Teachers Nose Out Scots Thursday Night

On Monday night in the Alumni gym, the Maryville college Scotties will take on the strong Lincoln Memorial University quintet from Harrogate. The Railsplitters are the team that defeated the Scotties 59-39 on the visitors' court to take the Smoky Mountain Conference last year.

Nidiffer, star forward for the Railsplitters, gathered 14 points against the Highlanders and will be back again to pace the fast moving, high-scoring team. Pacing the Highlanders will be Baby Baird, who has done most of the scoring for the Scotties in this season's games.

The Highlanders have not played a game since Thursday evening when they engaged the Western Carolina Teachers on the boards of the Alumni gym. Due to the February meetings the Scotties' games have been cut down to the very minimum. However, the rest may do the hard working Orange and Garnet-clad varsity five some good.

Although the starting team is hard to mention for the Highlanders, Coach Honaker is almost certain to put Bill and Boydson Baird, Scot Honaker, Waitman Bowyer, and Bill Overly on the floor to start. Overly and Bowyer are two freshmen who have earned their place in the starting five while the other three are seniors who have played together for several years. Coach Honaker has valuable men to replace these five in Lillard, Roseborough, Saffell, and Sweeney.

The basketballers from Western Carolina Teachers edged out the Scotties by a 38-37 score in the local gym Thursday night. The Honakermen held a 20-13 lead at halftime, but quickly blew their advantage as the second half opened. Gudgar, towering Carolina center, was the outstanding star of the game. He was high point man, pushing 20 markers through the hoop, and was largely responsible for the Teachers closing rush.

As the game opened, the Teachers took the tipoff and scored four points before Maryville realized that proceedings had commenced. Then Lillard and Bowyer, freshmen sharpshooters, began to sink shots from all over the floor. Maryville seemed to have a great deal of trouble working the ball in under the basket, but improved in this department as the game went on. A large percentage of the shots they did manage to make in the first period split the mesh.

The Carolina boys seemed like a different team as they took the floor for the last half. Maryville changed its defense from zone to man-to-man, and this type of opposition was apparently right down the Teachers' alley. The Pryor brothers, a pair of flashy guards, began to feed the tall to Gudgar, and the tall pivotman promptly evened the count. The Scotties seemed to be unable either to find the range themselves or to prevent the Teachers' scoring. The score seesawed back and forth, and Maryville was still very much in the game as the gun sounded.

Ray Lillard with 13 points, took scoring honors for the home team. He was closely followed by Bowyer, who marked up 12.

him deny himself; for whosoever shall save his life shall lose it but whosoever shall lose his life for my sake shall find it.

2. He must suffer and be killed. "Take up thy cross; for what shall man be profited if he gain the world but in gaining lose essential life."

3. He must upon the third day be raised up in triumph and victory by the way of the cross. "Follow me, for the Son of Man shall come in the glory of his Father with the angels giving to man according to his needs.

Jesus knew he must come to the cross in which alone He could find the fullness of God; and He knew that it would mean not only His own physical suffering but also suffering for us. Anyone who commits his life to God's keeping, letting God come in and motivate his life, will sooner or later rise again for His way leads to ultimate life while our way to ultimate death.

TUESDAY EVENING—

Another question asked by Jesus which sometimes shocks us is "Men, who made me judge over you?" Jesus' message to our lives in which he was speaking of the reality of God was interrupted by the man who asked Jesus to make his brother divide the inheritance with him. Jesus answered that this man should seek God first, and then he would be right with his brother. His first business should be to effect an earnest adjustment of his life with God's wishes for him.

A man's life does not exist in material things, but in his personality which is all those enduring forces or values that are the man; and this personality must have something to do with God. If a man's relationships are right with God and life, then all the other relationships will be right. Christ is here concerned with a right relationship to God and life; and the church is here to bring in a new order, not to be a social arbitrator.

Jesus, through this questions, opens for us a way with God. Our way cannot be eternal but God's way is that, His way, His redemption, His life. Christ won't force or coerce. He knocks through sacred writ, through ambassadors, through friends; but He waits, draws near—and still He must stand waiting until we open our hearts and let Him in, accepting Him who can make us right with man and God.

WEDNESDAY MORNING—

The theme was connected with the consideration of Christ and Simon Peter, who, before Pentecost, had all the great human factors of the individual as shown by his question to Jesus, "How far am I to go?" What Christ offered to do for Peter, he could offer for any one of us and the issues of Peter may be those of any one of us.

"Thou art . . Thou shalt be," are the words around which this morning's services centered. Jesus looked into the eyes of Peter and, expressing His faith in him, said, "Thou art"; and then He said, "Thou shalt be"—in spite of all the frictions, dissensions within, thou shalt be better in me.

The next great hour for Simon Peter was when in answer to Jesus' question he said, "Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God." Another incident was on the Mount of Transfiguration when Peter saw Jesus in all his glory appear before him. Last comes the moment of denial. Simon Peter was so cock-sure until the cock crew. And then Jesus looked into him still believing in him, and Simon Peter went out and wept. All at once Peter found he wasn't able to manage his own life. This story of Peter shows a great person not yet integrated, coherent, not yet one; and Christ brought him together, made him strong and a useful member of society where he worked with and for his fellow men.

Christ believed in Peter and He believes in every one of us. He has patience with us and if we fail he is there to put at our disposal all that we need. God has a purpose for every one of us if we will only listen. He is so great he knows every one of us, has a purpose for us, believes in us through Christ "Thou art", he is saying, and, if you are willing, "Thou shalt be."

WEDNESDAY EVENING—

The question which served as the evening's theme was "For what shall it profit a man if he gain his life and lose his soul?" The three interpretations of the questions were as follows:

1. It reveals Jesus' estimate of the value of human personality, it brings lives to the balances of God and the measurements of humanity, and is an overlasting question for all the world. As the old church fathers said of the question, it is one which makes a man weigh the world and things in it. "Christ did not turn every thing upside down but right side up . . ."

2. Jesus knew his destiny and rebuked Peter when he suggested that Jesus attempt to escape his fate. Peter saw in the cross only suffering and shame; but God moves through these things. Peter looked at it from the point of view of humanity which could not understand the eternal principles involved in the cross.

3. In this one question there are really two: what shall man gain, and what shall man give in exchange. Christ did not expect an audible answer, and the answer is for us to decide by and for ourselves.

As to the second question, there is nothing you can give in exchange when you have lost your soul.

THURSDAY MORNING—

The word except is connected with all God has to say to men and all he can do for them. There are five main sentences in which Christ bases this important word.

1. Except ye repent there is no life in Christ and the Christian way. It is true that God himself can do nothing for us until we repent, for in repentance we may find the true, the Christian way of life.

2. Except ye be born anew ye cannot enter the kingdom. The rebirth fulfills the need of Christianity in us and everything inside does need this integration without which most of us lose our way. This is the personality as touched by the infinite and changed when we have been born again.

3. Except ye become as little children except a person becomes childlike of open mind, the opposite of all that is worldly, devious, clever. We are to become honest, direct, and simple-hearted. As long as a man stands in his own way everything seems to be in his way.

4. Except your righteousness exceeds If we permit our religious life to be merely an inner defense it is not according to Christ.

5. Except ye abide in me . . to be separated from Christ means that we become as a wilted branch. There will be no spiritual strength in us not buy and pay just for the music it wants to use, but must pay for all the music ASCAP controls. Having bought and paid for all ASCAP music, broadcasting had little left in its budget for other copyrighted music.

ASCAP Scrap...

As a result, "popular" tunes heard on the air were almost always ASCAP tunes. As radio grew and improved, ASCAP demanded more and more. In 1932 it demanded that broadcasting pay not in proportion to use of music or of ASCAP music, but in proportion to radio's total income. Radio was finally forced to pay ASCAP for all programs even news broadcasts, speeches and other programs using no music.

When, in January, 1941, ASCAP further increased its demands in a new contract, the radio stations refused to agree to these terms. Broadcasting had meanwhile prepared for such an emergency. BMI (Broadcast Music Inc.) organized at the expense of the broadcasting companes, had gathered and published a great new catalogue of music, and hundreds of composers and lyric writers had already flocked to it.

Just at about the height of the excitement the federal government stepped in and indicted both organizations for violation of the Sherman Anti-Trust law, claiming that they were both attempting a monopoly on radio music. When BMI agreed to all government demands, the complaint against them was dropped. ASCAP, however, ignored the complaint and even upon a 48-hour emergency extension of time, they refused to any agreement. The government has now brought suit against them, and as yet nothing has been definitely decided.

To become a member of ASCAP, you must be approved by the board, but ASCAP members have no voice in management, because ASCAP is run by a self-perpetuating board. Approximately one-third of ASCAP's income goes to the management. After deduction of operating expenses and costs, one-half went to the publishing corporation. A fourth of the artists take about 32 percent, leaving three-fourths of the artists to divide the remaining one percent.

ASCAP went ahead, banking on the fact that the American people wouldn't stand for having "God Bless America" taken off the air. They accuse the radio networks, CBS, NBC, and MBS, of trying to get a monopolistic control of radio by the chain. They have sent letters to the governors of many states listing songs that have been shut off the air because of this controversy, and hoping that everyone realized it was the fault of the broadcasting companies. Soon it will be decided one way or another, but now we have still to listen patiently to "Jeannie With the Light Brown Hair."

Grading Room Becomes Ecology Laboratory

The former grading room on the second floor of Fayerweather Science hall has become an ecology laboratory room. The change has been made during this week.

Under the supervision of Walter Morton, green linoleum has been laid on the floor, two 3x6 tables have been placed in the room, and six lockers have been built.

This is the first year that such a course has been taught at Maryville college, but in all probability the course will remain as a part of the biology curriculum for next year.

Bainonian urges all women to try their hand at the Hit or Miss Parade at Bainonian's meeting in Pearsons at 6:45 tonight. Lucette deBarritt will be at the piano. All guests are requested to bring pencils.

Dr. Orr to Speak at IRC

At 6:45 on Monday evening, the International Relations club will meet in Bartlett auditorium. Dr. H. E. Orr will speak to the group on the present war in Europe and its conflicting philosophies.

A shipment of books from the Carnegie Endowment for Peace was recently received by the IRC. These books were presented as a gift to encourage the study of international relations. Some of these books which are now on the International Relations club's shelf in the library are these: "Where Do We Go From Here" by Harold J. Women's Debate Squad Captures Honors At VIC

Queener Assigns Entrants State Tourney And South Atlantic

With a four-star record behind them, the women debaters returned to the campus last Sunday after a one-day tournament sponsored by Virginia Intermont college in Bristol, Va. The negative team composed of Edith Monroe and Jeanne Stringham finished with a clean slate, winning three out of three debates; Phyllis Anne Cain and Natalie Yelton, upholding the affirmative side were the winners in two out of three clashes. And the girls entering the direct clash contest upheld Maryville debate prestige by being declared third place winners. Delivering an oration on "The New World Order", Phyllis Anne Cain was fourth in oratory, and Natalie Yelton with her dissertation on "The Hills From Whence Cometh Our Aid" was fifth. Beth Pascoe came out third in the extemp contest on current affairs.

The State tournament at Tennessee Polytechnic Institute, Cookeville, Tennessee, is the next event on the docket of the local squad. Debating both sides of the query for the men will be Edward Thomas and George Webster; Phyllis Anne Cain and Lucille Lynch are to enter the women's division. George Webster will also enter the extemp contest on the general subject "America Rearms"; Edward Thomas is to represent the Maryville squad in the after-dinner speaking contest. For the girls, Lucille Lynch will be entered in the extemp contest and Phyllis Anne Cain in the after-dinner speaking. Maryville entrants in the impromptu contest will be Lucille Lynch and Jack Zerwas.

Besides vieing for honors in the regular oratorical contest Jack Zerwas will enter the Peace Oratorical contest. Place winners in this part of the tourney receive $50, $30, and $20 respectively, the money having been donated by a group of New England

Seniors Must File Needed Information

Recommendation Group Maintained To Help Graduates

On Friday morning Miss Geneva Hutchinson, secretary to the Committee on Recommendations, announced to the senior class that those members of the class who afterward would desire to give the college as a reference should file as soon as possible the necessary information with this committee. It is for the purpose of assisting seniors and alumni in securing positions that the committee is maintained by the college. Also recommendations by members of the faculty are given only through this medium. Thus it is to the interest of each senior to register with the Committee on Recommendations, even though he does not expect to use his recommendations at this time. These recommendations will be compiled and ready for use at any future time they may be needed.

Recommendations are manifolded in the office, ready to send to prospective employers. These manifolds include copies of portions of the application as filled in by the student, together with recommendations from the members of the faculty to whom reference is made. Six copies are made for the student's use. Each senior should have recommendation from at least two, but not more than three members of the faculty.

In giving reference to prospective employers, the applicant should refer to the Committee on Recommendation Maryville College, Maryville, Tennessee, and not to individual members of the faculty.

Blanks must be filled in and returned to Miss Geneva Hutchinson in the near future.

Six unmounted photographs should be filed with the application, or as early as possible thereafter. A deposit of one dollar for postage to be used in mailing records is required of each registrant at the time the application is returned to the office. No charge is made for the services of the Committee.

Student Recital Presented Friday

At 4:00 Friday afternoon a recital was given in the Fine Arts studio. The following program was presented:

Alpha Sigma, Theta Epsilon Choose Play

"Pure As The Driven Snow" Comedy-Melodrama, Is 3-Act Play

Alpha Sigma and Theta Epsilon decided this week on the play which they will present as their midwinter for this year. The play is entitled "Pure as the Driven Snow" or "A Working Girl's Secret" and is described as "a comedy mellow drammer, a tale of a persecuted heroine wherein virtue triumphs over villainy."

The author is Paul Loomis, well-known modern dramatist. Mr. Loomis said he always wanted to write a play of the type that was popular when he was born—one of those heart-rending heroine-villain-hero tales. In "Pure as the Driven Snow" he has combined all of the comic features of the old melodramas and created a plot and structure which is both novel and attractive. Some of the lines have the reputation of being so "screamingly funny" that the actors have to take time out during rehearsals to laugh.

The story is divided into three acts and offers parts for thirteen people, eight women's parts and five male roles. All of the action happens in the lobby of the Uland Inn in a north Vermont village. To the inn on a dark and stormy night comes the beautiful heroine, Purity Dean, a girl with a secret. Fiercely wooing and pursuing comes the villain of the play, Mortimer Frothingham, who leads with a twirling mustachio and passes off in the smoke of defeat. Johnny-on-the-spot is Leander Longfellow, the stalwart and handsome hero, who comes straight from the fray—the Pickens' Pickle factory—to rescue dear Purity.

All of the players are in modern costume and in modern setting, accentuating the comedy of the melodramatic theme.

Two committees of twenty members each have been selected from the two societies. These two committees will meet in the Y rooms for a buffet supper tonight for the purpose of discussing production plans.

Alexander Kipnis Closes '40-'41 Artist Series Program March 11

In Defending His Monocle Kipnis Affirms It's "Not For Swank, Only For Convenience"

Returning to the Maryville college stage in response to unprecedented acclaim and popular demand, Alexander Kipnis, Metropolitan bass, will close the 1940-41 Artists' Series on March 11. Mr. Kipnis, considered the world's premier basso, will present one of the delightfully arranged programs for which he is famous. "If I sing a cheap little song to please, it does not last. Real music does last, and has an enduring place in the soul," he said recently. Those who heard him last year remember with special pleasure the lofty tone of his whole concert and the attractive way in which he interpreted the great music he had selected.

From his world tours Kipnis has observed that in northern Europe and England the type of program is apt to be the principal attraction, and in Italy it is the quality of the singer's voice that matters most; but in both America and Australia, while these things are highly important, it seems that the people are most interested in knowing what a singer is like, what he likes to do for fun, what he has for family life, and even what he wears. It is indeed the personality he reveals in the course of his program as well as the fascinating quality of his voice that has captured the admiration of millions.

Someone has said that the only thing exotic or stagy about Kipnis is his monocle; and that, as Kipnis, affirms, is "not for swank, only for convenience." The artist had great difficulty in keeping tabs on the whereabouts of his glasses and bought the monocle in self-defense. It now hangs securely around his neck.

Any interest America has in his family may be fully satisfied; his family is one of which he is justly proud. Mrs. Kipnis is blond, lovely to look at, and talented. She was at one time selected by a Hollywood talent scout and successfully passed screen tests. Visions of fame as a movie star she quickly dropped, however, when it meant prolonged absences from her touring husband. She is the daughter of a well-known Chicago musician. The Kipnises met at a formal society dance in Chicago. Kipnis, who had never danced before in his life, managed for some time to travel the floor with his future life in a rather original but energetic manner. The incident culminated rather suggestively in their going shopping

Council Plans New Ballots For Elections

When the student council meets Monday night, Feb. 24, for the first time in two weeks, a committee composed of Hal Lloyd, Tex Lochhausen, and June Browne will report their findings on an investigation concerning the possibility and expense involved in the mimeographing of standard ballots for campus elections.

Only one-third of the council was present at the last meeting held on February 10. At that time the possibility of presenting a plan at the next student-faculty meeting whereby senior girls would be permitted off the campus, unchaperoned, until 10:30 one night a month was discussed. No definite decision was reached.

Embarrassing Moment Contest at Le Cercle

Remember your most embarrassing moment? Then why not come and tell it "en francais" at the French club meeting, Thursday, February 27, at 6:45 in Miss Wilkinson's classroom?

Bob Wilcox presided as Prof. Quiz at the last meeting; Pat Kinne won the prize, which was, appropriately enough, Evening in Paris perfume. Miss Wilkinson served candy as refreshments.

133 German Books Added To Library

Books Are Purchased With Henry Janssen Funds

In April, 1940, the Maryville college German department received a letter from Henry Janssen, prominent member of the Karl Schruz Foundation, a society active in preserving and spreading German culture here in America. (We call it propagadana for Adolf) In the letter Mr. Janssen asked the college if it would be interested in accepting from the newly-organized Henry Janssen Foundation a sum of money to be used in buying books, pictures, phonograph records, and song books for the German department. The letter explained that the purpose of the Foundation was to prevent, if possible, a decline in the study of German such as took place during the last World War.

The medium through which the Foundation has worked in carrying out its purpose is a committee composed of four German professors coming from different parts of the country. One member of this committee is Dr. Frieze of Johns Hopkins University, under whom Dr. Collins of the Maryville German department, studied when at that University. The committee's plan of action was to work through some of the smaller colleges, ten in number, giving them grants of money up to $300, the sum which Maryville received. The committee then chose the ten colleges, Maryville being one of three in the South.

The purchase of the books began last April; but, owing to the difficulty of obtaining books abroad because of the present war, the entire order has just recently been filled. All in all, the department has been able to buy one hundred and thirty-three volumes, which have been placed in the college library, each book bearing an acknowledgement of the giver.

Seven different classes of books were purchased, namely: reference books, seven volumes; collections and anthologies, forty-six volumes; histories of literature, twelve volumes; biography and criticism, five volumes; collected works of authors, 38 volumes; individual works of authors, 22 volumes; and three volumes of picture books.

A number of these new books are of interest not only to German students but also to anyone who is interested in Germany and its culture. There are a 20-volume set of German classics in English, costing $40.00; a $14 Muret-Sanders German dictionary; "Complete Woodcuts", a picture book; and a German song book, bought especially for the German club. One other book is of especial interest because it is the first publication of John Quincy Adam's translation of Vieland's "Oberon". Two-thirds of the Foundation's grant was spent for books in the original German text, and the rest of the money on reference books.

Cornelius, Orr Read at Workshop

The regular meeting of the Writers' Workshop was held in Dr. Hunter's classroom on Monday afternoon. Manuscripts were read by Elizabeth Moore and Harvey Lehman. Miss Moore read a short story entitled "But Not All of Your Tears"; Mr. Lehman read a one-act play entitled "Bars". The readers at the next meeting will be Charles Orr and Sam Cornelius.

Recently, the choice of the best manuscripts for the first semester was made public. Those voted to be the best by the group were first, Roland Tapp, a short story; second, Bette Umbach, a sketch; third, Sam Cornelius, poetry; fourth, Dr. Hunter, a play; and tying for fifth, Marian Jenkins, poetry, and Donald Kent, a short story.

"Rondo" Broadcast Next Wednesday

Brink Rewrites Drama For Radio Presentation

"Rondo", a drama by Bertha Oschner arranged for radio by Frank Brink, will be presented Wednesday evening at 7:00 when Maryville college broadcasts.

Miss Evelyn Seedorf will read the part of Suzanne, a flippant wife. John Hawkins will take the part of Lammert, artist husband of Suzanne; and Frank Brink will take the role of Darby, a novelist and "patcher-upper". This play is a subtle dramatic treatment of jealousy.

Wednesday broadcasts will be presented under the title "The School of Drama." Members of the dramatic department will do an adaptation of Poe's "Cask of Amantillado" and a program based on the music of Debussy on future programs.

Tomorrow at 5:00 Dr. Lloyd's sermonette, "Thou Shalt Not Kill", will be the second in the series "The Four Best Known Verses in the Bible." The acapella choir will sing "Out of the Deep" by Gluck and "Hospodi Pomiliu", a Russian air.

Aiken, Lynt, Lloyd, Liddell In Tourney

Professor A. F. Pieper announced yesterday that the freshmen debaters to participate in the state tournament would be a men's team, composed of Hal Lloyd and Ben Lynt, and a woman's team composed of Ruth Aiken and Kay Liddell.

The tournament will be held at TPI in Cookeville, from February 27 to March 1. The teams will be prepared to debate either negatively or affirmatively, and each team will participate in at least four debates.

The question for debate was changed during the mid-semester to "Resolved: That the Power of the Federal Government Shall Be Increased."

"Tom Sawyer" Is To Be Given By Marionettes

Performance Is Given By Berkley Metropolitan Marionette Co.

Tonight at 8:00, the Berkeley Metropolitan Marionettes will present their second performance of "Tom Sawyer". The first performance this afternoon at 3:00 was declared outstanding by those who saw it. The proceeds of these two performances will go to the Social Committee and will be used to purchase something of benefit to the entire student body. Last year the money was used to procure the shuffle board courts.

The story of "Tom Sawyer" will be told in puppet fashion tonight by the Berkeley Metropolitan Marionettes. The first scene introduces the audience to Tom in the setting of a village street in front of Aunt Polly's. The incidents of Tom's sore toe and the whitewashing of the fence are probably two of the most vivid memories a reader has of the book. The marionettes, operated by strings, will trace these and other incidents for the audience.

The second scene on the small miracle stage will take place in a setting of a bridge over a small brook at the swimming hole. The old grist mill and mossy banks aid considerably in making this scene one of romance and beauty. As the curtain is drawn back, Tom is seen making love to Becky in his own bashful way.

As the story continues, Tom is found in the haunted house at the beginning of scene three. All the thrills that the reader experienced when he first read the book are his again as the scene progresses. The haunted house seems just as weird and Tom is just as much afraid as the reader pictured him to be.

McDougal's cave is the next setting produced on the miniature stage. Huck Finn and Injun Joe come to life again in a person's mind as he watches the thrilling escape and rescue of Tom.

Scene five closes the story in the setting of Judge Thatcher's home. All those who have read the story need not be told what happens in this final scene. The "setting" room of the Judge's home furnishes the background for Tom's becoming a little more than a hero with Becky as he makes love to her in his own boyish fashion.

The cast of puppets will include Aunt Polly, Tom, Huckleberry Finn, Becky Thatcher, Widow Douglas, Muff Porter, and Injun Joe. All the characters will be easily recognized since larger sized puppets will be used for the production this year.

The company giving the show is composed of the best puppeteers in New York. None of these will have had less than ten years' experience. Dagmar Smith is in charge of the cos-

Steakley And Findley Fly To Florida, Dog Races, Night Clubs

It was 6:40 a.m. on Tuesday, February 18, and all was quiet on the Maryville campus, save for a low, slumbering sound which gave a clue as to the whereabouts of the vast majority of the students.

It was 6:40 a.m. on Tuesday, and a plane flew low over the Maryville campus, circled several times as a farewell salute, and then departed for the South—Miami, Florida to be explicit. The plane was an all-metal Luscombe Trainer, by the name "Flagship". It was carrying, in addition to standard equipment, a short wave and long wave radio, night lights, blind flying instruments, Doug Steakley, and Gordon Findlay.

Yes, they were off at last! Two carefree Maryvillians off on a little 800 mile trip to visit Uncle Thomas Findlay in Miami, Florida! Off in a plane to make a tour of the horse races, dog races, and night clubs of Florida. Off at last, after having bribed the weatherman to give them good weather for their flight. Nor were Doug and Gordon content with merely bribing the weatherman; they pleaded with the Fates to give blue skies and warm breezes; for they were to make the trip contact flight which means that they were to keep on the course by watching the earth for familiar landmarks such as main highways, rivers, railroad tracks, and towns. If the weatherman and the Fates went back on the lads and sent storms, the only move that could be made would be to land at once and camp in the nearest watermelon patch until the weather became more favorable.

Yes, they were off at last. And now we are hearing of the careful preparation for the trip made by the travelers. The occupants of fourth floor of Carnegie tell us how they had to struggle through a maze of navigation charts to get to their rooms. We are hearing for the first time that Steakley and Findlay will pay their respects not only to Uncle Thomas but also to Weldon Baird, who is in Jacksonville, Florida with the Navy Air Corps. The trip was to be made in three hops: from Knoxville to Atlanta, Georgia; from Atlanta to Jacksonville, Florida; from Jacksonville to Miami. While in Miami, Steakley and Findlay will stay at the Royal Palms Hotel. They expected to average about 90 miles an hour and to return here on Sunday.

NEWS FLASH!

The latest reports from the Steakley and Findlay troupe revealed that they had lost their way twice before arriving in Florida.

Looking For Career Information? Then Visit The Personnel Office

Do you know what you want to do when you finish your formal schooling? If you do, but would like to know more about your chosen profession, go to the Personnel Office and ask to see the list of monographs they have on hand. Ten to one they'll have the one you want. If you don't know what you want to do, go to the Personnel Office and get suggestions from their list of monographs as to things you might do—careers you might like; in fact, careers you would be downright interested in. And do it now! Don't wait until you are a senior; it will be much too late.

Well, to continue—these monographs are put out each year by the Institute for Research, Chicago, new ones being added constantly to the present list which consists at the present time of counting of 112, first of which is the general introduction to the remaining 111. It would seem that even some of those high and mighty seniors might do well to profit from some of these monographs and not be so job-snobbish when some of these underclassmen tell them—never, unless under pressure—that they are going to be horse-doctors, police officers, kindergarten teachers, managers of laundry dry goods, or general stores, or even plain, honest-to-goodness, everyday business men.

At any rate, if you are interested in any of these occupations as careers, you will find a monograph concerning them in the office; and these aren't all. There are many more. Even more interesting is the number of what we college-bred people would call "just jobs" which are considered by the Institute as careers. And when they get through explaining all about them, giving all pertinent information concerning the particular vocation dealt with in that particular monograph, showing both the good and bad points of the occupation, you have in each monograph, according to the words of Dr. McClelland, "a cold-blooded analysis of the particulars".

And he's quite right as we shall see in a moment—or as you will if you take this little feature to heart and go to the Personnel Office sometime within the next few days—not years, as warned once before—that would be too late. But before we go into particulars, let's be general. What are some of the vocations considered by this Institute as careers? Engineering of all kinds seems to be quite important to judge by the number of species of the animal—guess it should be occupation

Dr. Samuel Tyndale Wilson . . .

During the past week Dr. Samuel Tyndale Wilson, president emeritus of Maryville college, celebrated his eighty-third birthday. Although few of the students now at the college have had actual contact with Dr. Wilson, his spirit has been ever present on the campus.

We wish to take this opportunity to wish Dr. Wilson a happy birthday and to thank him in a small way for the many years of his life that he has contributed in making the traditions and spirit that we know as the Maryville of today.

Student Council . . .

Recognition is deserved by the Student Council for the work that it has been doing during the past few weeks on student elections. Although nothing definite has materialized yet, many of the students are expecting the Council to prove one of the reasons for its existence in a definite reorganization of the harum-scarum elections of the past.

Perhaps with a little more cooperation from the student body and less destructive criticism, the Council would prove that it is not an inert organization.

Point System . . .

Several times during past years there have been suggestions of the adoption of a point system to govern extra-curricular activities at Maryville. Such a system would prevent the monopoly of student offices by a few individuals and also prevent such activities from interfering with scholastic work of these students. This, however, is not a suggested nostrum to cure all "campus ills", nor is it an accusation of politics, crooked elections or such; it is merely a suggestion to give more people a chance at positions of leadership on the campus.

Certainly such a system deserves consideration by the students at Maryville since it has proved its merits at many similar institutions.

A Letter Home

Dearest Mom and Pop:

I'm tired of being a freshman! Every time I walk in the debate room the varsity debaters smile tolerantly and rather condescendingly on the "freshman element". Every now and then they come down far enough to laugh at one of Benny Lynt's bright remarks, but the rest of the time they just generally belittle us. And we work so hard, too. Well, it takes a lot of time.

So does everything else. There was a basketball game Monday night and I guess it was pretty good. I spent all my time hunting up Jordy Meadows who had on the yellow sweater I wanted to wash, so I didn't see an awful lot of the game. Wednesday night there was a swimming meet, and even if we didn't win our fellows sure tried their hardest. The cutest fellow named Cliff Pool dived for Maryville and really stole the show.

"Shorty" Waisman just came screaming down the hall that Billy King, U-T's star diver, was the little boy she used to beat up when she was small (I guess I mean smaller). You'd have to know Shorty to appreciate that. Oh, yes, Lib Greer has a dog now. I'm not quite sure if what they call it is really its name, but I guess I'd better not say. It eats things. Bedroom slippers and pussy cats—stuffed ones, that is. It even has painted toenails—Revlon "Black Mask" and that's a vital color what I mean!

We are starting an art museum in our room I'm afraid. Roommate's man arts. I could stand the faces she plastered on the wall, and the abstract conception of a skyline, but the last one is an ear, and that's positively the last straw! Isn't love funny! By the way, she wants me to ask you how you can tell when "puppy" love ends and the real thing begins. I'm immune.

My December board hasn't come yet. I'm afraid they're getting kind of impatient. I've gotten two or three little notices and I guess they think my intentions aren't exactly honorable. Could you send it right away? I mean right away.

Dutch Wetzel and I played golf today. Fascinating game . . . if you can hit the ball. It's all in knowing how to play it right I guess.

My candle is getting mighty low and so I'd better draw this to a speedy close. And anyway, this typewriter makes an awful lot of noise in the middle of the night. Incidentally, I suppose you have my grades now. What do you say we just forget all about them, and I'll make a fresh start? It's so nice to have understanding parents. 'Cause no matter what happens, I'm as always,

Yours,
Gretchen

Scots and Soda

We, of SCOTS AND SODA, would like to be among the first five thousand to tell you that "Abe Lincoln in Illinois", the Bainonian-Athenian contribution to the world of drama, has been postponed. Formerly slated for March 7, it won't come off until March 18.

Just to be different, here's a bit of legitimate society news that might be of interest to the local gentry. Miss Sarah Elizabeth Hannum, once a student at Maryville college, has come up from the south country to visit relatives in town. Seems like old times, having her around again—the good old times.

We've often heard the president of the senior class referred to as "that bird, Steakley", but didn't receive the full import of the words until we got wind of his flying south with Brother Gordon Findlay. They seem to be a little mixed up concerning the season of migration, but they'll be heading back north soon now, we trow.

Mrs. Paul F. Wendt is offering unlimited possibilities in the field of knitting—possibilities which no college student, who knits, would overlook. Her yarn selection appears to be of the most interesting quality, color, and price. Or if you don't knit yourself, just give her your order, and she'll knit up an entire wardrobe for you in one afternoon. That, however, does not include shoes.

Remember the sepulchural pall that settled on the feminine portion of the population when Nelson Eddy took unto himself a wife? That manifestation of hero worship will seem slight in comparison with the state of utter dejection that will indubitably exist on this campus come Monday morning. Because Cecil Tipton, great grid and girl favorite of Maryville college, is taking his leave, to join the army and see Nashville and vicinity. So it is with this thought in mind that we say goodbye to Tipton, and wish him best of luck.

For years and years we've wondered spasmodically just exactly what does happen when you turn a bunch of junior and senior men loose in a home ec lab. The catalogue promises such accomplishments as "host-ship carving", "social etiquette", and "care and selection of clothing". But it takes a table-mate who is actually registered in the course, such as Roland Tapp, to shed any really fascinating light on that subject. Every Monday noon he relates wierd tales of luscious food, and how the class prepares it. The latest atrocities have to do with Chilhowean Editor Kent, who patiently whirled himself round and round with a frying pan in hand, in an effort to follow instructions which said, "place the bacon in a frying pan and keep turning"; and of Vernon Lloyd, who almost drowned any number of innocent bystanders in a torrent of brown gravy. A bit more training and who knows but what we'll produce another Oscar of the Waldorf, or a Fanny Farmer. Or maybe another Spike of Dirty Eddy's. Anyway, we'll settle for a hamburger with plenty of mustard.

For the benefit of Dr. David H. Briggs, we'd like to suggest that all harmful weapons, such as fire-or-water-arms, while prohibited only in the dormitories, are also frowned upon in classroom use. The use of a water pistol to awaken such students who insist on dozing, as in the case of Clem Hahn, while being handy, is liable to prove detrimental to classroom discipline. Ice down the patient's back will be, we're positive, just as effective. Don't say we didn't warn you.

Yesterday afternoon Mrs. Snyder sponsored a lovely tea for the benefit of all noble Bainonians. As was done a few weeks ago at her tea for Theta, a patriotic theme was carried out. All the little Bainonians chased each other gaily about with paper hatchet invitations in hand, and, we hope, a spirit of patriotism in heart. It was really one of the nicest teas we've ever been allowed to attend; and we know we speak for not only Bainonian but also Theta members when we voice our appreciation for the lovely gesture made by Mrs. Snyder.

Again we make a hospital note of Tom Mize. Only this time, instead of merely worrying over the vitamins present in celery soup, he was directly concerned with a full-sized appendectomy, or a reasonable facsimile thereof. By the way, did we ever tell you about our operation?

And while we're at it, we take back any disparaging remarks made last week about the treachery of spring weather. The atmospheric conditions that have been doled out to us all week leave nothing to be desired. Well, almost nothing.

Career Helps . . .

—but let that go. There is civil engineering, acoustical engineering, chemical engineering, mechanical engineering, electrical engineering, metallurgical engineering, ceramic engineering, mining engineering, and any and all kinds of engineerings you can think of including some you can't.

Want to be a doctor? Hmm! Well! Oh, a nurse? Oh, yes, there is dentistry, nursing, medicine, optometry, osteopathy, hospital management, hospital dietetcis, pharmacy, veterinary medicine, dental hygiene, surgery, anesthesia, or thetics, physical therapy, eye, ear, nose, and throat specialization, any one of which is blue-blooded enough to demand full-time training with the purpose of making the training useful in a full-time career. Who else?

So you have a phobia for Management, do you? Well, those monographs can give you MANAGEMENT with more than a capital. There is hospital management, hotel management, farm management, garage management, restaurant and tea room management, real estate management, traffic management, gift and art shop management, motion picture theatre management, management of credit (credit manager you'd be in that instance), public school management (more often called, though no more correctly, administration), drugstore management, office management, and I don't know how many more. It would seem that among all this you ought to find something that would suit you, even if you are particular. Nothing suits? To think—to think!

I have thought. You are better bred—college-bred, I mean—and have more high-flown ideas. You want to be a movie actress. Well, there are a good many ways in which you could be connected with the movies. The various capacities are, of course indirect, but nevertheless they are there. Or perhaps you have very sensitive, super-sensitive faculties. Musician, perhaps, should be your title. Sir musician! Sounds very excellent; but a trifle on the medieval days, don't you think? Yes, do go on. You might take up journalism, photography, clay working, dramatic art, beauty shop management (yes, that's an art, perhaps in the field of aesthetics), school music, stage acting, moving picture acting, popular music, art—oh, just any kind, all kinds.

I'm sorry, just can't seem to satisfy some people. Perhaps they're just peoplewhocan'tbesatisfied. At any rate, for them there are monographs on physical education, interior decoration, law, publishing, architecture, government service, diplomatic service—and might I add right here and now that that is a noble career which more of us should, not a doubt about it, take into serious consideration; perhaps it is our next door neighbor, or—I hesitate to say this with my two roommates in such close proximity—even our roommates who need to take up this vocation even more than we do; but to go on, to continue, there is salesmanship, agriculture, home economics, forestry, business of all kinds, criminology, merchandising, women's apparel-shop management, floral work, meteorology, fuel technology, personal shopper—and there's one I think the women would be very much interested in, though you'd be surprised about the number of men who are also in competition in that field—mortunary operation, and even insurance. And to insure myself for a long and happy life, before I go on to some horrible ending, I must stop; but you know now where to find the answers. Careers? What next?

Dean Henry Witham Speaks At Regular Law Club Meeting

On Thursday evening the Law club held its regular meeting in Alpha Sigma hall. The guest speaker was Dean Henry B. Witham of the University of Tennessee Law School who spoke on training for the legal profession. His talk included prerequisites necessary for entrance into law school and the organization of law schools. At the close of the address Robert Wilcox, president of the club, presented Glenn Young and Arthur Byrne, two Maryville graduates who are now studying at the U-T Law School.

ladies who desired to further the cause of peace. Last year Hilton Wick won second place in this contest. February 27 to March 1 are the dates of this State meet and the entrants are working hard in preparation.

After the State tournament comes the South Atlantic tourney at Hickory, N.C., March 6-8. The affirmative and negative men debaters at this meet will be Trevor Rees-Jones and Henry Wick; Natalie Yelton and Janet Lindsay will debate both sides in the women's divisions. Hilton Wick will enter the oratory, extemp, and impromptu contests. Beth Pascoe will seek to drag down honors for the local squad in the women's extemp, impromptu, and after-dinner speaking. Entering oratory and Women's Problem Solving will be Natalie Yelton. In the contest in Stimulating Group Discussion will be Janet Lindsay for the women and Trevor Rees-Jones for the men. Henry Wick will also enter Men's Problem Solving and Trevor Rees-Jones, the men's after-dinner speaking division.

ECHO SPORTS

THE HIGHLAND ECHO FEBRUARY 22, 1941

SPORT ECHOS

By BILL SWEENEY—Sports Editor

BASKETBALL . . . The Highlanders were the only ones to defeat Lincoln Memorial University on their home floor this year and they did so in a surprising upset victory Thursday night 47-46. Baby Baird again came thru for the Orange and Garnet to drop a foul shot in the last half minute of play. The game was over for almost ten seconds, but the fighting Highlanders refused to stop playing and kept fighting for possession of the ball. The roar of the crowd was so great that the closing whistle was not heard by the players and so the game kept on while the coaches and subs tried frantically to inform the referee and players to stop it. The Highlanders still have three tough games remaining on their twenty-game schedule when next week they take on Emory-Henry and King on Monday and Tuesday nights and then Thursday return home for the last game of the year to play Carson-Newman. Thursday night will mark the last time Boyd-son Baird, Bill Baird, and Scot Honaker will play for Maryville college as these three are the senior members of the squad.

WRESTLING . . . It appears the Maryville college grapplers have too good a wrestling team if there is such a thing. A match scheduled with the Vols from the University of Tennessee was called off recently and the match scheduled with Western Carolina Teachers was also called off for tonight. Next week, however, the grunt and groaners will have their hands full with three meets coming up. Coach Davis will lose a number of key men this year that will prove problems to replace when the Scots take to the mat next year.

SWIMMING . . . The week-old record in the 400 yard free style relay was shattered Wednesday night when the team consisting of Wells, Lowry, Miller, and Cross took their event in the final race of the evening. Congrats to Coach Fischbach's greatly improved swimmers. On the board, Pool proved himself to be an up and coming contender in his specialty. Coach Fischbach also has a terrific job on his hands next week when his swimmers tackle Tusculum on Monday and again on Friday. In the two meets with the Pioneers last year the mermen were defeated 31-44 and 45-30. However, if the relay team keeps improving as they have, the Highlanders have a good chance to do well against the Tusculum team. In the meet last year the Pioneers captured this relay in the time of 4:29 while the Scots took second place last Wednesday in the good time of 4:23.

INTRAMURALS . . . With the festival coming up next week the sports centering in the intramural world seemed to have slowed up considerably. However, yesterday afternoon an important basketball game was played between the Foul Balls and the All-Americans for the second half champs and the right to play in the championship playoff next Saturday night. The Foul Balls were victorious by one point over the All-Americans and thus will face the Athenians, the winners of the other league crown. This festival seems to be shaping up into a good looking, well-spent evening for sport lovers.

ODDS AND ENDS . . . We were all sorry to see Tommy Saffel, popular freshman athlete, wrench his knee in the game the other night. This is the same injury Tom suffered in football and we all hope he will come around all right. Also on the injury list we must add Tommy Mize, former diver for Maryville's team. Tom was operated on for appendicitis last week and we would like to wish him all the possible luck for a swift recovery.

Scottie Swimmers Defeated By U-T Wednesday Night

In the swimming meet held last Wednesday evening in the Maryville tank the Tennessee Vols splashed to a 49-25 victory over the Fischbach mermen. Although the superiority of the visitors was never threatened, Coach Fischbach wore the broad grin of a happy man. This loss to U-T was very one-sided, but Coach is well pleased with the splendid progress of his men.

Silva, McVeigh and Ashley swept across the finish line to win the opening event, the 300 yard medley, in a time of 3 min. and 46.7 sec. Bob Wilcox, Dudley Moore, and Allan Moore gave the Vols' trio a stiff battle but were nosed out by mere seconds.

The Fischbach mermen gained on the Orange and White in the 220 yard free style swim. Cross and Wells, representing the Highlanders, sprinted across the finish line in second and third places. Tennessee's Webb took the event with a time of 2 min. 44 sec., and Lane of U-T was disqualified. Although it rated a mere second berth, Frank Cross did the 220 yard dash in 2:47.8 min. The score stood: Maryville 4—Tennessee 10.

Frank Miller, freshman from Washington, D.C., won the 50 yard sprint for the Scotties in a time of 28.6 seconds. Miller, whose father is a chaplain and lieutenant colonel in the U.S. Army, learned his swimming from Philippine Island natives when his father was stationed in the South Seas. Boles of Tennessee rated a second place and Don Lowry swept third for the home mermen. These first and third places swept the Scots to within three points of the Vols.

The results of the fancy diving, which went to King of Tennessee, were met with keen disappointment by the Scottie fans. When the final statistics were cleared away, the record showed that King had 98.59 points to Frank Cross' 98.19 points. Cliff Pool, diving in his first meet as a Scottie, took third place and was greeted with more enthusiasm than any other swimmer in the meet. Pool is a beginner on the springboard, but he readily showed what it takes to become a real diver.

The 100 yard dash was swept by U-T's King and Keller combination. King's winning time was clocked at 62.5 sec. Don Lowry crossed the line in 66.7 sec., his top record to date, for a third place berth. Wells was the other Scotties swimmer. The scoreboard gave U-T 26 and Maryville 15 points.

The only clean-sweep of the entire meet was registered by the Highlanders in the 150 yard backstroke event. The winner in a time of 2:15.7 was Bob Wilcox, and second place honors went to Maryville's Scherer. Lane was unable to finish the final lap and Silva was disqualified when he failed to complete one of his turns. With this stunning victory the Scotties again moved to within three points of the Vols. The score stood at 23-26.

The 200 yard breastsroke, the 440 yard free style, and the 400 yard relay were swept by the Novotny splashers. Coors of U-T took the 200 breastsorke in 2:52 and was followed by McVeigh and Dudley Moore. Silva and Keller finished one-two for the Vols in the 440 sprint, although Pool's third place time was his season's best. The final event of the meet went to Ashley, Webb, Boles, and DeLaney of Tennesse in a time of 4:19. The week-old record of the Scotties was lowered another notch in this event. In the meet with Concord Teachers last week Maryville's Wells, Lowry, Miller, and Cross set a new college record at 4:27, and now the record sinks to 4:23. The final recording gave the meet to the Tennessee Vols by a score of 49-25.

This afternoon at 3:30 the Scottie mermen will meet the Illinois Tech splashers from Chicago. On Monday night at 8:00 the Orange and Garnet are to be hosts to the Tusculum Pioneers and on Friday they meet the Pioneers in a return tussle. For the season's finale, Coach Fischbach will take his lads to Atlanta for a March 7 date with Emory University.

Intramural Heads To Hold A Big Festival Next Saturday Evening

Thursday afternoon the Y committee in charge of the forthcoming intramural sports festival released complete information concerning the program of events for the festival. Next Saturday night, one week from tonight, beginning at 7:30, there will be staged a continuous procession of sports events, both competitive and exhibitive, with all three of the college athletic buildings in use. Spectators will be free to move from one building to another according to their interest in the various sports.

The players in each event will be those who have taken part in the regular intramural tournaments in that sport during the winter. Wherever it has been possible the championship games or matches of the tournaments have been saved for this occasion, and the outcomes on Saturday night will determine who are the final, official winners. Where this has not been possible, specially chosen teams or individuals will give exhibition performances. In all events the competition promises to be keen and the enthusiasm high.

The curtain will be rung up at 7:30 in the Alumni gym when basketball manager Bob Twitchell brings the Athenians, twice winners of the Club League title, against either the Foul Balls or the All Americans, depending on which team comes up as winners of the Independent League title, in the deciding basketball game of the season. If any event should be fast and furious, this is it.

At 8:00 four feature events will get under way. In the Alumni gym, while the basketballers rest, the finals of the foul throw contest will be staged, Curt Wright managing. In the Bartlett gym, Olsen Pemberton will handle a volleyball game between the Independent League all-stars and the Club League all-stars. The finals of the handball tournament will take place in the Bartlett wrestling room, Art Bushing managing. In the pool a swim exhibition will be staged under the direction of Frank Cross.

The second half of the basketball game will start at 8:20. At 8:45 in the sawdust of the Alumni gym the long-awaited horseshoe classic between Baird and Short and Baird and Short will be tossed. Manager Bushing feels that the brothers will stage an outstanding match. Simultaneously, Van Cise will have charge of a ping-pong exhibition, also in the Alumni gym.

The evening's nightcap will be the relay races on the Alumni gym floor at 9:30. Teams from any organization on the campus, men's or women's, are free to enter. The winners will be declared college champions.

A final feature of the festival, a moving picture of intra-mural sports in other schools, is at this writing indefinite. If the film is obtained, it will be shown several times during the evening between 7:30 and 10:00.

Intramurals

In intramural circles this week, there has been very little activity since basketball is now a thing of the past and wrestling has not yet started. The Foul Balls yesterday defeated the All Americans in a hard fought 37-36 battle which saw both sides give their all. This game assured the Foul Balls that they would meet Athenian for the school championship at the Intramural Festival next Saturday.

Choir made a gallant attempt to defeat Athenian, but the men of Athens walked off with the victory although Bob Fisher suffered a broken rib.

Ping-pong came into its own during the past week when about sixty men began to play in the singles and doubles tournaments. Although the field is too big at present to make any predictions, Cooper, Huff, Fisher, Schimpf, Van Cise, Faulkner and Coach Fischbach will definitely weather the first few matches and probably will have to play each other before the affair is finished.

Next Monday and Tuesday afternoons starting at three o'clock a foul ball contest, open to everyone on the campus, will be run off to determine the ten to meet at the Festival.

All those expecting to participate in wrestling are again reminded that they must undergo four practice periods before they can enter. Handball is moving slowly, but by the end of the week, the finalists should be known.

turning, Florence Lowe will be the director of the performance, and Ernest Briggs is the manager of the organization.

All the proceeds will be given to the social committee and will be used to purchase something of permanent value to the student body.

The funds from the performance last year were used to buy the shuffle board equipment which is placed east of Pearsons.

Scots Come From Behind To Beat L.M.U. Thursday

Maryville's Scotties defeated a highly-touted LMU quintet on the enemy floor Thursday night by a score of 47-46. This was the first defeat in two years for the Railsplitters on their home court. The local fans were stunned by the sight of a defeated LMU team, for they had been confident that Maryville would be no threat to the Smoky Mountain Conference champs.

LMU led 27-20 at the half, and appeared to be badly surprised when the Honakermen began to hit the basket. A bad case of jitters, plus some fancy shooting by the Scotties, spelled doom for the overconfident Railsplitters.

High scorer for the victors was Ray Lillard, freshman star, who rang up 11 points. Runner-up was Beby Baird, who scored 10 points in addition to playing his usual smooth game on the floor. Bill Overly, another freshman, matched Baby's 10 points and also played a good defensive game.

Watson, towering LMU center, led his team and took scoring honors for the game with 14 markers. Morrell, a guard, scored 12 of his team's points.

UNION GAME—

Union college defeated the Scotties Wednesday night by a count of 34-26. The game, played in Barbourville, Ky., was marked by poor shooting and numerous fouls by both sides. Lillard led his mates with 12 points, and was followed by Overly with 7. Samples, Union center, paced his squad with 9 markers.

The Scotties take the road for the last time this season early next week, meeting Emory-Henry in Emory, Va., on Monday night. On Tuesday, they journey to Bristol, Tenn.-Va., to meet the King college quintet. Maryville has met and defeated each of these schools already this year, and is favored to repeat in both games. Emory-Henry, however, has a rather impressive record this season, having defeated Tusculum twice and Carson-Newman once. King is paced by the Fowler brothers.

together the next day to purchase new shoes for her. And seventeen days later this job was his for life.

Together with their nine-year-old son, Igor, they tour the world—as Kipnis says, "making music and having fun." Igor, named for a favorite opera character, is what his father calls the most international kid there is. He speaks English, French, and German fluently and finds innumerable friends wherever he goes.

One of the artist's hobbies is taking moving pictures. Mrs. Kipnis and Igor romp charmingly through these imperishable memories of his various successful tours. His collection of films includes a highly praised reel of the great maestro Toscanini conducting.

According to the custom of his native Russia, Kipnis was expected to follow the profession of his father and become a cloth merchant. Only by a far stretch of the imagination can his admirers picture his magic voice explaining textile values behind a little counter in a Russian village.

Ever since he can remember, Kipnis has been singing. "All Russians sing for themselves a little", he says; but he sang loudly and beautifully enough to attract local attention. So it was that at fourteen he announced his intention of joining a traveling light opera troupe. The thought of his participating in the "scandulous" theatre life was too much for his family and friends. Only his mother was willing to bid him Godspeed with "Well, if you are determined to go your own way, there is nothing I can do to stop you; but at least let me give you a soft pillow from home on which to rest your head when you are tired". Like the boy in fairy tales, he started off, pillow under his arm, determination in his heart, and everything else he owned in the bundle he carried on his back.

In light of his present position, that initial tour appears ludicrous. His salary was ten dollars a month, the company was poorly organized, and the singers soon forbidden to perform within fifty miles of the town. Minus even the pillow now, he hitch-hiked to Warsaw. There his undaunted resolution plus his splendid musicianship abetted him. He made his way through the Imperial Conservatory of Music and was graduated with highest honors.

It was during these years that he made a firm resolve never to become a singer. At the Conservatory he heard Battistini, famous singer, and decided that beside that voice of gold all the other voices seemed so much tin; and if one could not sing like Battistini, it was far better not to sing at all. Fortunately for the thousands of music lovers in the world, an odd fate seemed to be propelling him into what he called the "danger zone", his musical career.

After graduation in Warsaw he wondered where next to go. Two names held for him an equally insistent fascination—Berlin and Vienna. In irresolution he stood one day at the Warsaw railroad station. Suddenly a Berlin express came tearing in. As suddenly, Kipnis purchased a ticket, bounded on the train, and was soon being speedily borne, not only to Berlin, but to unpredictable heights of musical fame. By no small steps he passed from the principal basso at the Berlin State Opera to concerts in the Americas and European countries, to the Chicago Civic Opera Company. In the 1939-40 season he was hailed as the most sensational addition to the Metropolitan Opera Company.

His work now consists of opera, concerts such as he will present here soon, and extensive recording of master works.

Likable and very human, Kipnis stands apart and above; nothing can detract from his superb artistry. With dignity and rich depth his singing carries to the hearts of his listeners, and he is able to interpret any emotion. His programs are therefore wide in range of voice, selections, and appeal. It is not a strange experience for him to be enthusiastically recalled by his audience to repeat very number on his program.

It is from a background of universal esteem and praise that he comes to Maryville on March 11. Tickets for the concert will be put on sale for the students approximately one week before the concert.

Al Flowers And Phil Vance at Cotton Club

Next Monday evening the Florida-Georgia-Alabama club will meet at 6:45. After the regular business has been dispensed with, a program of fun and frolic will be presented. It is a program of capering cut-ups coming cheerfully to the Cotton club, and included among the entertainers will be Al Flowers and Phil Vance. The master of ceremonies is Paul (Jack Benny) Cooper. Everyone is invited to come and have a good time.

Maryville Alumni Club Formed At Chattanooga

Chattanooga alumni of Maryville college met Friday night, February 14, to complete the organization of the Chattanooga Alumni club. After a dinner served at the Northside Presbyterian church, Miss Clemmie J. Henry spoke briefly to the club members and showed the color movies made recently at the college.

Mr. John K. Witherspoon '19, was elected president; Mr. Joe Hacker '32, vice-president; Mr. Leland Waggoner '38, secretary; Mr. Luther Allen Stephens '37, treasurer. About thirty members were present at the meeting.

In their final home game of the season, the Scots engage Carson-Newman Thursday evening. This will be the second clash of the year between these rivals, Maryville having captured the first in an exciting overtime contest. Carson-Newman has been only moderately successful in games already played, but has been preparing for the Highlanders all season. The Eagles, coached by Frosty Holt, have defeated Emory-Henry once, but have bowed to LMU, Milligan, Cumberland, and E-T Teachers.

Capt. Sneed Nevils, lanky center, is outstanding for the Eagles. He has taken high point honors in practically every game this year, scoring 35 points against Emory-Henry. Other starters against Maryville will probably be Sproul and Booker, forwards, and Reams and Jones, guards. Jones has been one of the high scorers of the Eagle machine, while Murray, reserve guard, has been outstanding on defense.

Coach Holt reports that the Eagles have been working hard in preparation for the battle with their traditional rivals, and this clash will probably be a fitting climax to an exciting court season for Maryville.

Great Ovation Received By Kipnis Last Year Justifies His Return To Artist Series

Metropolitan Basso Sings Song of the Volga Boatman Again

SINGS GERMAN SONGS

Russian-American Singer's Personality and Voice Win many Friends

ALEXANDER KIPNIS

Alexander Kipnis, Metropolitan bass, on Tuesday evening, March 11, will conclude the 1940-1941 Artist series with his second concert program here in as many years. Mr. Kipnis was at Maryville on November 9, 1939, and the ovation received by him at that time was so great that he was recalled for this year's series.

Included on his program for this concert are a group of German songs, a couple of arias, and an American group of light songs. The German lieder are not any of them the ones he sang last year, and the remainder of the program is entirely different, except that one or two of the numbers on the formal program were heard by last year's enthusiastic audience as encores. Brahms' "Vergebliches Standchen" is one of these.

Kipnis, as long as he can remember, has been singing; and now as the greatest living basso in the world, he follows his countryman, Challapin. Both Challapin and Kipnis come from the same section of Russia, and when asked, when he was here two years ago, why that section produced great bass singers, he replied that the rugged climate and atmosphere have much to do with it. Challapin was the person to make famous the "Song of the Volga Boatman", and Kipnis is carrying on the tradition as he sings and has sung that song in the past two years.

As did Maurice Eisenberg when he was here, Kipnis noticed the difference in traveling accomodations in Europe and America when he returned here after having made guest performances at Bayreuth and Salzburg festivals several times during the past few years. For the two seasons preceding last, he had been heard at the International Music festival in Lucerne at the invitation of Toscanini, well-known conductor of symphonic orchestras. As Mephisto in "Faust", Leporello in "Don Giovanni", and Gurnemanz in Wagner's quasi-religious opera, "Parsifal", Kipnis finds himself in his favorite roles. In fact, the New York Times has paid him the tribute of being the "greatest living Gurnemanz."

In addition to his opera and concert work, Kipnis has made many phonograph records; and he is one of a small group of whom it has been said he never produced a bad record. Next to John McCormack, he has made more records than any other artist, and has been entrusted with special recordings of Franz Schubert songs as well as special albums for the Hugo Wolf and Brahms Song Societies. These records which have been made by Kipnis are, of course, familiar to many of those who will attend the concert; but for those who are unable to hear him in person, they are an excellent substitute, losing nothing of the magnificence and expression of his translation of notes and words into song.

An interesting story told of Kipnis concerns the early age at which, as does every truly great artist, he began his musical development. Though it seems strange that Kipnis, who now has the deepest voice in the concert world, should have sung all of the important arias for colorature sopranos at private concerts when just a youngster, that fact is true. Despite this demonstration of extraordinary talent, Kipnis' father attempted to influence his son to such an extent that he would follow a business career as was expected. But the boy had other ideas, and at the age of fourteen he set out to join the army of those trying for achievements in the artists' world.

Kipnis devoted his entire time to music, finally entering the conservatory in Warsaw. From that school he was graduated with high honors as a conductor in 1912. Then, quite on the spur of the moment, Kipnis went to Berlin for further study, and stayed here, building up his huge opera and song repertoire until, at the termination of hostilities of the World War I, he was engaged in opera and concert

"Abe Lincoln In Illinois" to Be Given March 18

Tuesday, March 18, has been set as the date of production of "Abe Lincoln in Illinois", Athenian-Bainonian midwinter play.

Dick Boyd has been added to the cast in the role of Robert Lincoln, son of Abraham Lincoln. Sam Cornelius, stage manager and Bill Gehres, business manager, are formulating the final plans for production.

Regular rehearsals, now being held in the chapel, indicate that this will be an excellent performance.

BROADCAST

Dr. Edwin R. Hunter, Dean of Curriculum, will speak Wednesday night on the college broadcast. "Six Hundred Years of Immortality" is the title of Dr. Hunter's address. It will be a discussion of Geoffrey Chaucer, whose birth is being celebrated next week by a convention in Knoxville.

Ruth Andrews will sing "Deep River" and "Beautiful Dreamer", and Ruth Duggan will play a piano selection.

Tomorrow at five o'clock Dr. Lloyd will present the third in his series of "The Four Best Known Verses in the Bible." The choir will sing "Christ Is Arisen", a traditional German melody, and the Corinthian Melody to the 23rd Psalm.

Art Students Present Shakespeare Scenes

Friday evening another of the studio programs was presented by the Dramatic Art department in Bartlett auditorium. Shakespeare was popularized by the acting of scenes from twelve of his plays, viz: Taming of the Shrew, Henry VIII, Hamlet, As You Like It, Romeo and Juliet, Twelfth Night, Merry Wives of Windsor, Othello, Henry VI, Richard III, Midsummer Night's Dream, and Julius Ceasar. All but two were done in modern formal dress, and these two were done in costume of the period. Those participating in the acting were Alice Jones, Melvin Johnson, Troye Moore, George Phelps, Doris Murray, John Ballenger, Andy O'Connor, Dick Watkins, George Tibbetts, Lloyd Shue, June Morley, Betty Clevenger, Mary Wintermute, Marianne Coleman, Helen Airheart, Howard Disney, Virginia Berg, Bill Gehres, Frances John Hellums, Sarah Crider, Dave Hall, Elizabeth Glover, Mary Esther White, Tommy Cragan, Ruth Sutherlin, John Hawkins, Rosemary McCartney, Georgia Meadows, Charles Foreman, Ralph Rudy. The scenes were all under the direction of Miss Evelyn Seedorf.

The purpose of the program was stated as being primarily for creating a further interest in good literature. No pretense was made as scenery, but the intermissions were taken care of by blackouts.

Rehearsals are now in progress for the next Dramatic Art studio presentation on March 22. There are rumors that the entire student body will be invited to attend this performance, rather than making it an invitation affair. Further announcements as to the nature of the program will be made in the future, but it might be well for all readers of this column to keep that date open.

South Atlantic Next On Docket of Local Debaters March 6-8

At the present writing the results of the preliminary debates at the State tournament, Cookeville, Tennessee, in which members of the local squad are participating, have not been received. Debating both sides of the question for the men the last two days have been Edward Thomas and George Webster. Phyllis Anne Cain and Lucille Lynch have been representing the Maryville squad in the women's division. The final round of debate was held this morning from 8:30 to 10:00; after a brief meeting of the coaches of the various schools awards were made. Members of the local squad entered in this tournament left the campus Thursday morning after chapel, and they are expected back some time this evening.

The general subject for the extemp contest was America's Preparedness Program. Sub-topic based upon articles which have appeared in leading publications during the past few months were drawn an hour before the contest which was held yesterday afternoon. Representing the local squad in this contest was George D. Webster. The Maryville entrant in the after-dinner speaking yesterday was Edward Thomas delivering an original humorous speech on this part of the nation. And entered in both forms of oratory, the regular and the Peace Oratory, was Jack Zerwas. For the girls Lucille Lynch entered the extemp contest, and Phyllis Anne Cain, the after-dinner speaking. Local representatives in the impromptu contest, held yesterday morning, were Lucille Lynch and Jack Zerwas.

Special notice might be given to the Peace Oratorical contest which was held last evening from 8:30 to 10:00. The winners of this distinct form of oratory receive cash prizes, the money having been donated by a group of New England women. Last year Hilton Wick won second place in this contest, held at Carson-Newman college.

With two tournaments down, the Smoky Mountain Men's and the State, there are still three to go on the schedule of the local debaters. The next tourney in which Maryville is entered is the South Atlantic tournament held at Hickory, N.C., this coming week, March 6-8. The other two are the Provincial tournament at Montevallo, Ala., April 2-5; and the Grand Eastern at Rock Hill, S.C., April 10-12

Orations Will Be Presented at IRC

Yelton, Cain, and Zerwas Will Speak at 6:45

Orations by Natalie V. Yelton, Phyllis Anne Cain, and Jack Zerwas, members of the varsity debate team, will be given in a special program presented by the International Relations club this Monday at 6:45 in Bartlett auditorium.

In her address entitled "Up-Rooted Americans", Miss Yelton will speak on industrial migrant workers. Miss Cain will deal with plans for a post-war reconstruction in her speech entitled "New World Order or Disorder". The oration of Jack Zerwas, which is built around an illustration of the stars given by Dr. Morgan in the February meetings, is entitled "Man-made Lights."

These orations have been given or are to be given in inter-collegiate speech tournaments in this section. Cain and Zerwas entered the State Speech tournament held February 27-March 1 in the Woman's Oratory division and Peace Oratory division respectively, while Yelton will enter the South Atlantic Speech tournament on March 6-8.

This program of the IRC offers the student body the opportunity to hear the exact contest orations composed by students representing the college in state and district tournaments.

Frosh Debate Squad Enters State Tourney

Immediately after chapel Thursday morning, the debaters to participate in the state tournament at TPI in Cookeville left for Cookeville in the college station wagon with Professor A. F. Pieper. The freshmen debaters who competed were Hal Lloyd, Ben Lynt, Ruth Aiken, and Kay Liddell. The first round debate was Thursday night, the next Friday morning, and the last two Friday afternoon. The finals were held on Saturday morning. In addition to the debating there was a formal banquet on Friday night.

NYA Workers Clear Woods

The NYA boys have been clearing the college woods of briars and underbrush for the past three weeks, and have practically completed the job The only other major operation has been the removal of sod in front of the hospital in preparation for the road to be built there.

Maryville Merchants Mercifully Enlighten Enquiring Economy

How much is that one? And is this guaranteed? Fifty percent alcohol? Don't you sell drugs in this drug store? No free samples? Such questions as these have been fired at Maryville merchants during the last week by students of economics on the hill. And why? Well, it seems that Professor Paul F. Wendt got tired watching his devotees doze in the midst of his lectures on supply and demand, corporations, distribution of income, consumption, etc. He therefore concocted the idea of assigning research reports concerning the prices of various articles in the local stores. Aspirin tablets. Cold cures. Face powder. Tires. Hosiery. Razor blades. Dog food. Coal. All came in for their share of the limelight. Each student in Economics 202 was assigned one product and told to get out and do or die for his major.

Before compiling the report on the prices, quantity, and quality, each student therefore had to visit all the stores and establishments where his good was sold and make inquiries. Thus some of the dens of iniquity in town saw Maryville college students enter their thresholds for the first time since the between semesters rush. Most of the merchants were glad to haul down their merchandise and quote prices—"those college fellows never buy anything anyway". Others sensed sabotage, government control, or something and started cruddin' right off the bat. And one student was even told the precise location of his hat and the door. But most of the students were allowed to listen to the lines of the salesmen and saleslades and write down any revealing data. One merchant even went so far as to treat his cross-examiner to a coke before settling down to the mercenary business of explaining what his store offered that none of the others had.

And so the canvass progressed. The student investigating the prices of coal had to tramp down the railroad tracks and was suspected of being a first-class hobo. And the boy asking about cold cures sniffled just one time and was almost mobbed by an altruistically-minded saleslerk. While the girl pricing face powder had to listen to a jumble of French, "alkaline content", and amorous expletives. And the poor fellow who had to track down dog food almost bought some when he was informed that it was good for reducing.

All in all, however, the economics students had an informative and if not an entertaining time tramping around town for their homework. Some visited places they did not know existed. Others had the rare opportunity of admiring saleslades without the usual financial hesitancy. Thus they were able to collect data which proved that the economic laws and premises they had been studying were in reality accepted principles in the conducting of modern business. Learn by watching seems to have been the slogan of the project. But if a little knowledge is a dangerous thing, the Echo has the names of two fellows in Economics 202 who would just as soon don their straightjackets.

Ramey, Phelps, Hawkins Take Leads In Alpha Sigma-Theta Mid-Winter Presentation

"Pure As the Driven Snow" Is Comedy Drama to Be Enacted

TENTATIVE DATE SET

Production Staff Heads Will Name Their Assistants

The Theta Epsilon-Alpha Sigma mid-winter is to be presented by these two societies jointly about the first week in April. Tryouts for the various parts were held last Thursday and the following selections for the cast of "Pure As the Driven Snow" were made.

Purity Dean, the chaste young heroine, a working girl with a secret, is to be Annalyn Ramey. George Phelps as Leander Longfellow, is to play the part of the hero. John Hawkins as Mortimer Frothingham, the villain of this drama, will pursue the fair heroine with the tenacity of an English bloodhound.

The Logans, Zamah and Jonathan, are played by Nancy Wood and Richard Watkins, respectively. This couple keep the inn where Leander, their nephew, lives with them. It is to this place that Purity comes when lost in the storm, penniless and out of work, to find a corner of peace and tranquility—that is, until the villain catches up with her. Then the plot thickens.

The part of Jed Lunn, an ex-convict, and Mortimer's unwilling tool, will be taken by Dudley Moore. The part of E. Z. Pickens, owner of the pickle factory in which Purity worked, is portrayed by Melvin Johnson and his haughty sister Imogene, by Betty Clevenger.

The remainder of the cast are as follows: Mrs. Hewlitt, Alice Jones; Mrs. Hewlitt's daughter Alison, by Rita Mae Frati; Faith Hogue, a guest at the inn, Betty J. Kennedy, and her maid, Lettie, Sara Cameron; Nellie Morris, a woman of mystery, by Dorothy Harned.

The production staff managers have been chosen and they will later choose their own committees. Stage manager will be Charles Hildreth; assistant stage manager, Lloyd Shue; assistant to director, Georgia Meadows; costumes, Kitty Bennett and Linda Robinson; properties, Cumi Snyder and Kathryn Estes; activities between acts, John Ballenger and Virginia Berg; business manager, George Haynes; advertising manager, Anderson Haynes.

HEADRICK DIES OF PNEUMONIA

The Maryville campus was saddened this week when word came of the death of Hubert Headrick, a senior ranking high both scholastically and athletically.

Hubert entered Maryville college on September 9, 1936, having been graduated from the Townsend high school the spring of that year. His freshman year was highly successful in every way, but during the school year 1937-38, Hubert stayed out of school to work, returning to the campus as a sophomore in September, 1938. His college career continued from that time to the present to run successfully and promisingly.

As a freshman, sophomore, and junior, Hubert played on the Scottie baseball varsity as an outfielder; in the spring of 1939 he had the highest batting average of any member of the team. Basketball claimed him as an ardent enthusiast and player also, and he was a member of the basketball squad each of his first three years, and again this year until Christmas time when Coach Honaker advised him to stop playing awhile until he was feeling better, for he had not been feeling really well all fall.

He was a mathematics major, planning to teach following his graduation. In class work as in remunerative work, he was thorough and conscientious, having almost a "B" average in all his college courses.

Hubert, although not feeling well all fall, first became sick with measles on February 10, when it was necessary for him to go to his home which is in Wears Valley, about five miles from Townsend. The measles developed into pneumonia, and his death occurred Sunday morning, February 23.

Unassuming, conscientious, thoroughly fine; Hubert Headrick will be missed at Maryville.

Shine and Collins Attend Meeting

At the 35th annual meeting of the Tennessee Philological Association, to be held in Memphis, March 7 and 8, the faculty of Maryville college will be represented by Dr. Hill Shine, professor of English, and Dr. Ralph S. Collins, professor of French and German. The meeting this year is sponsored jointly by the West Tennessee Teachers' college and Southwestern University, the latter being a Presbyterian institution. Both of the local faculty members will read papers which they have prepared. Dr. Shine will read his dissertation on "Early Nineteenth Century Proposals Representing Our Modern C. C. C. Camps". "Hugo von Hofmannstahl as Impressionist" is the title of the paper to be read by Dr. Collins.

Dr. E. R. Hunter To Speak At Art Club On Chaucer Exhibit

As clubs go, the Art club is a comparatively young club here on the hill with four meetings chalked up so far. At the meeting last Thursday night the president, Eleanor Long, took charge. Miss Mary Miles had a most interesting exhibit of Japanese art.

At the next meeting, March 13, Dr. E. R. Hunter will speak of Chaucer in connection with scenes from Chaucer on exhibit in the Art gallery. These meetings are not restricted to "artistic" individuals or art students, but are open to all interested.

"Taking Sides" To Be Orr's Topic at Vespers

Dr. H. E. Orr will be the speaker at vespers Sunday night. The subject of his talk is "Taking Sides." Under this topic Dr. Orr will bring in such points as who is on the Lord's side, choose ye this day whom ye will serve, and the matter of opinions. This will be an interesting discussion of a timely topic.

Dramatic Art Department Presents Three One-Act Plays at Chilhowee Club

The Dramatic Art department has scratched off one by one its activities on and off the campus this week. On Tuesday afternoon, February 25, students presented three one-act plays at the Chilhowee club for a full house. "Are Men Superior?" by Harriet Ford, was presented by the following cast: Alice Jones, Rosemary McCartney, Helen Airheart, Sara Crider, Mary Esther White, Doris Murray, Barbara Swift, and Elizabeth Glover. "Mary Jones", by Ronald E. Mitchell, now of the University of Wisconsin, was presented by a cast composed of Frances John Hellums, John Hawkins, and Troye Moore. The nonsensical comedy, "Evening Dress Indispensible", by Roland Pertwee, was the third of these plays and will be repeated at the Everett high school next Wednesday by the same cast composed of Betty Clevenger, Rosemary McCartney, Melvin Johnson, Charles Foreman, and Mary Wessels. Irma Russell assisted in stage managing.

Wednesday evening after the broadcast by the Dramatic Art department, the girls in the aesthetic dancing class that supplements the private work in dramatic art, went to Knoxville to attend the dance recital presented by the University of Tennessee.

The Echo inadvertantly carried an undesirable line in the story about the new German books last issue, which was added without the knowledge of the staff.

A Letter Home

Monday evening

Dear Family,

I'm a nurse now—believe it or not! Roommate came home from lunch today. She complained of seeing green checks before her eyes. That is not as serious as it sounds. It's merely the after-effect of seeing all the waitresses uniformed in their new, too-pre-shrunk, green checked smocks. Poor roommate! She always did think green was a bilious color.

Roommate just woke up. The green checks have changed to red dots. It sounds like more uniforms to me. I guess I'll go out and do a bit of investigating. Perhaps I'll find Emma Cassada, Mickey Nethery, Charlie Orr, Clyde Brown and the rest of the student assistants in the library togged up in red polka dot overalls. Maybe Stan Menning would look as distinctive in overalls as John Ballenger does in his white monkey jacket.

Thursday evening

Dear Family,

Guess what? Roommate is measling in the hospital; so I was alone all day until that box of cookies came this afternoon. Allay your rising fears. I'll not get the measles. I've decided that I'd look too un-de-glamour splattered out on a stretcher.

Tryouts for "Pure As the Driven Snow" started today. It sounds like ye olde tyme meller drammer.

I went to a swimming meet last night. Frank Cross broke some sort of diving record. It was all very exciting.

Wednesday night

Dear Family,

I've got a good idea, but it will cost you something. I'm going to hire Alf Davies' dog, Edna, to guard our little room. It's a sort of precautionary measure to protect my roommate's wardrobe from certain gals like Lib Greer who feels it's her sacred duty to model my roommate's new wool suit and sweaters. The only disadvantage to this plan is that Edna—well, she smells, in spite of her daily shower and perfume bath.

I went to town this morning. The purpose of this trip was to buy some bobby pins, but all the stores were completely sold out. It seems that the campus he-men who will appear in "Abe Lincoln In Illinois" have had strict orders from Mrs. West not to patronize the barber shops. Consequently, the men are stocking up on hair nets, curlers, wave set, and bobby pins. In another week Dave Hall plans to publish a pamphlet on "Hair-Do's for The Well Groomed Man." Bob Hunter says that hair pins annoy him. He prefers braids. While Hal Lloyd favors long curls.

Guess I'd better wind up this epistle and mail it, if I can borrow a stamp. I guess I'll try Peggy Fisher. Peggy is suffering from a severe case of debatitis which she contracted from her roommate, Ruth Aiken. 'Tis a cruel, cruel world!

Love,
Gretchen

Scots and Soda

Thanks to the interest and initiative of some people and the hard work and cooperation of others, Sunday afternoons and Wednesday evenings have become something to look forward to; and it makes us feel real kinda good to know that our own little pals—well, fellow students, anyway—are doing their bit to help the radio to become a popular form of entertainment. The choir, especially, sounds just as magnificent floating over the airwaves as it does at regular vespers. And that, in our opinion which is liable to be slightly biased, is going some.

Thursday afternoon we ran across a bunch of the Carson-Newman basketball players, wandering towards Science hall. One of them gazed aloft and read, rather absently, "Fayerweather". One of his little cohorts peered through the frozen particles of vapor in the atmosphere in the form of white feathery flakes, and remarked—"Hmmmm—looks like snow to me."

There's going to be some changes made, in regard to our daily schedule. One morning last week we arose, as is our usual custom, at 8:04 A.M., and made a breathless dash to chapel. Must have lost our sense of direction in the combat, because first thing we knew we were up in the attic at Voorhees. We knew it wasn't the auditorium because standing scenically around were bunches of lovely antique furniture—tables and chairs of the rough hewn variety. After vigorous investigation we were informed that they were the sets for the forthcoming Bainonian-Athenian production, "Abe Lincoln in Illinois", to be presented 17 days hence. Authentic reproductions, too.

Somewhere in this vast weekly periodical you will be interested in finding and perusing the opening chapter of what promises to be an authoritative weekly running commentary of what goes on in the various college centers of the nation. Fashionably speaking. Miss Bennett plans to let you know what you've been wearing and what you are wearing and what you should wear. But before Kittie gets going in full swing, we'd like to get in one last fashion item that caught our eye. We're in favor of the neat "bib" effect introduced by Cherie (which, being translated into the vernacular means Ruth Elizabeth) Curtis, and Sara Jo Boling. Sort of a button-on affair. Nice.

And we can't leave fashions without a mention of the attractive smocks that have been adopted by the waitresses. All sweet and green and checkered. Spring must be acoming in.

Our cultural life being of such a meagre nature we took our Guides to Music Appreciation in one hand and some of the mortgage money in the other and embarked on a field trip Monday. Numbering among other M. C. citizens and former citizens and a few Knoxvillians, we heard Lawrence Tibbett. We also saw him, exclusively from his left. We had lovely balcony seats where we could see, in addition to Mr. Tibbett, Coach and Mrs. Al Thomas, Professor Colbert and Sammy Cornelius, Mrs. Snyder, Edith Monroe, Miss Nancy Hunter, and Miss Grierson. No doubt we missed a few people, but the balcony is so far away from some sections of the house. We haven't got around to reading the critics yet—somehow we miss Commentator Hunt in more ways than one—but Mr. Tibbett can sing "None But the Lonely Heart" for this lonely heart's money any time we can borrow some. Money, of course.

Long before we came to East Tennessee (well, Topeka isn't in East Tennessee) we heard about feuds, but in all the years we've been here we haven't found one quite so violent so near to us. By that we mean we never had a speaking acquaintance with either the Martins or the Coys. Suddenly, quite unexpectedly, there came into our life a real, fightin' earnest feud. Understand we weren't there (see Standards and Regulations, July 1940, Section V, Rule 35, page 14) but one of our Gestapo, Operator 13 (Rees-Jones) reported that the clans in Carnegie basement are lined up agin one another and that Snell and Dewees are wearing war feathers after Laughmiller and Harwood. Isn't that exciting, right here in our midst? Duck, girls, a bomb just went by!

Now we have another claim to fame besides once having seen Tureck from a tabletop. Now we know someone who knows first hand about the Mardi Gras. Up until Band Sponsor Jeannie—with the Light Brown Hair—McCammon came back from New Orleans, we'd thought that the Mardi Gras was a song title, speaking of Light Brown Hair. But since Jeannie's recent peregrination, we've learned that it has something to do with a parade and trinkets they give away for good luck that Jeannie didn't get and another parade and—shhh! we'll cover it up with Parenthesis (champagne) and a mutilated foot and another parade. Jeannie thought it was a nice little show, and wondered if she couldn't have one for her birthday next year. Since we heard her story, we've got worried about whether they marched the American Legion all three times or not.

For years—well, at least since this column became part of our weekly stint—we've wanted to culminate our journalistic career with at least one spectacular scoop. Of course, such things really belong in C. Brewer's department, but after all, a girl has to think of her reputation, so we're going to release this with trembling and trepidation, for without doubt it will affect our career—one way or another. Last week when we went to the puppet show we were struck by the questions that the audience turned in for the mystic to answer. So immediately upon the termination of the evening's entertainment we risked fire, death, and even possible loss of limbs in an effort to get the questions away from Bill Cornelius, who is more agile than we and evidently had much the same idea about the subject as we. Bill being a gentleman, we got out of the encounter with a wrenched wrist, shattered watch crystal, and (here we clap the hero) the questions!

Of these questions we were horrified to discover that fifty per cent of those in male script asked concerning DuBois and any one of a dozen different articles of clothing. After some inquiry, we discovered that Brother DuBois collects cleaning. Well, Katherine Ogilvie is always so prompt with our cleaning that we didn't understand until some kind soul elucidated. Now we know, don't we?

Oh, and all those questions in the same handwriting and several signed with the names of our little playmates whose orthography we recognize and whose orthography wasn't on the question and people like Rod Brindley who wrote questions eight to the half dozen, honestly signing their own names (which brings up the awful thought of forgery again) and little messages like the one to Alf Davies from the college bell and questions about the two Maryville inevitabilities—meals and weather and the ones like "Is she in love?" covering everything from the Indies to the Andes and Merc's worried "Who killed Cock Robin?" and poor Jimmy Lee and his trig grade and Bill Klimstra and his point average next semester and Andy O'Conner who wanted the principal parts of a Greek verb. We'll tell Dr. Davis on you. That's no way to get your lessons.

work in most of the countries of the continent. After his many successes in Europe, Kipnis came to the United States as the star of the famous German Opera Company in which for nine seasons he sang principal bass roles. It was during the 1939-1940 season that he was welcomed as the most sensational addition to the Metropolitan Opera Company.

Since 1937 Mr. Kipnis has appeared many times before an American audience, the most publicized of these being that in New York's Town Hall during the 1938-1939 season. Concerning his recent tour the New Orleans Tribune says, " you have to go back to Chaliapin to find a basso by whom to measure Mr. Kipnis' art ." Certainly it is that few artists before the public today have enjoyed such universal admiration as this distinguished Russian-American singer. When it comes to fine musical entertainment his recitals are unrivalled.

In addition to a magnificent voice, Kipnis brings to the concert platform here at Maryville college an authority built upon assiduous, arduous study and thrilling experiences in every music center of the world. So it is that his concert program will be one of the most highly enjoyable presentations of songs that could possibly be scheduled on any artist series.

The program that Mr. Kipnis will present is as follows:

Selve Amiche	Caldara
Caro Mio Ben	Giordani
Wie Bist Du Meine Komigen	Brahms
Sonntag	Brahms
Feldeinsamkeit	Brahms
Mein Madel Hat Einen Rosenmund	Brahms
Vergebliches Standchen	Brahms
The Evening Star from "Tannhauser"	Wagner
The Song of the Flea	Moussorgsky
Intermission
The Pilgrim	Tschaikowsky
As the King Went Forth to War	Konnenman
Lullaby	Gretschaninoff
Death scene from "Boris Godunoff"	Moussorgsky
The Cloth of Heaven	T. F. Dunhill
Old Clothes and Fine Clothes	Shaw
Do Not Go My Love	R. Hageman
"Madamina" from "Don Giovanni"	Mozart

Professor George D. Howell, manager of the Artist Series programs, announces that tickets will be on sale approximately a week before the concert.

New Cold Storage Plant Built at Farm

Dept. of Ag. Finds Dairy Herd in Good Condition

Most of the equipment necessary for beginning the installation of the new cold storage system is here. The rest of it, mainly the metal window cases, are on the way. Another point of interest is the fact that United States dairy inspectors pronounced all the cows free from infection.

The cold storage room will be 6 by 8 feet and will be of cork and concrete construction.

The brine tank which is four feet long, twenty inches wide, and four and a half feet high will hold about 200 gallons of calcium brine and will be located in the back part of the cold storage room. The purpose of this brine is to cool the cold storage room and also to furnish a medium for the aeration of the milk.

A copper cooling coil is used to cool this brine.

The condensing unit has a capacity of about 7100 British thermal units per hour running time or a permissable 99,400 BTUs per day usage.

It will take 85,000 BTUs per twenty-four hours to cool 100 gallons of milk.

Alpha Sigma Nominates Officers For Semester

Alpha Sig will meet this evening in Alpha Sigma hall to nominate new officers and to discuss the play, "Pure As the Driven Snow." All members are urged to be present.

After the business portion of the meeting, the German Band will present several numbers.

"It makes things grow", was the unexpected reply.

A stern old preacher had issued to his people a command against dancing, believing it to be a device of the devil.

A few of the young people disobeyed and attended a dance given in the neighboring town. Finally it reached the ears of the preacher, and, meeting one of the culprits on the street one morning said in a stern voice:

"Good morning, child of the devil!"

"Good morning, father", smilingly answered the pretty miss.

Book By Dr. Crothers Was Published Recently

Recently word was received concerning the publication of a book by Dr. George D. Crothers, former instructor at Maryville. Dr. Crothers taught history here during 1930-31. At present he is teaching at Western College for Women in Oxford, Ohio.

The book is entitled "The German Election of 1907." In preparation for the writing of this book, Dr. Crothers studied in Germany between 1937-38. It is a development of work done for his Columbia Doctorate degree and is published by the Columbia Press in the Columbia Series in History and Political Philosophy. It traces the development of the German philosophy both before the first World War and since the rise of the present regime, to the elections that took place in 1907. The library has ordered a copy of this book.

Cross Breaks Swim Records

SPORT ECHOS

By BILL SWEENEY—Sports Editor

SADNESS descended over the campus this week when we learned of the death of Hubert Headrick, former left fielder on Coach Honaker's baseball team. It was a shock to everyone to learn of this misfortune : and it is with great reluctance and sorrow that we bid good-bye to this fine athlete and fine friend

WRESTLING . . . Coach Davis' wrestlers scored another triumph last night in their decisive victory over U-T. Tonight they grapple Western Carolina Teachers. In the win last evening Henschen gathered in a new college record as he pinned his man in 1 minute and 13 seconds, to clip four seconds from the old record. Congratulations are in store for Ed Ballinger, who did well for his first varsity appearance, Julius Nicely, who pinned his man in his first appearance, and Rex McCord, who put up a fine battle.

SWIMMING . . . Cross paced his swimmers in their defeat of Tusculum on Monday. Nice going, Frankie. Have you noticed the number of records that have fallen this year? The Scotties, while only having a fair season, have steadily improved with every meet and records have fallen every time.

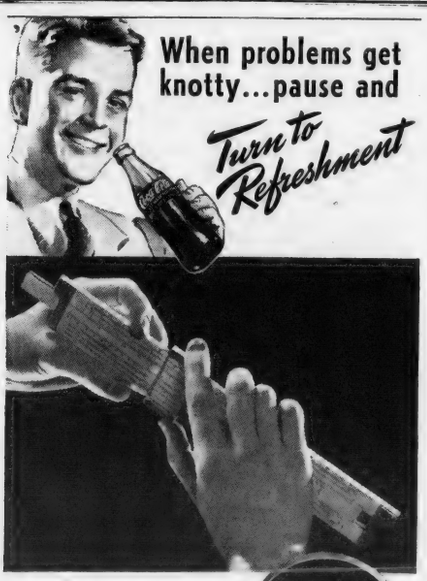
BASKETBALL . . . Scot played his best ball game to date, Bill played the steady brand he usually shows, Baby was good as usual, Bowyer held Nevils, and Lillard made the points. . . Result . . . Maryville 45, Carson-Newman 31. The three seniors mentioned first played marvelous ball to end their college careers on the hardwood. The one sad note in the ball game was the injury suffered by Bill Overly, popular freshman athlete, when he sprained his ankle. Bill will be on crutches for three weeks as a result of the fall. The game was one of the roughest of the year, but with Lillard's 17 and Scot's 13, the Highlanders finished up in great style.

★——★——★——★

ODDS AND ENDS . . . Tommy Mize is driving the occupants of the hospital crazy for he swears he's in tip-top shape and wants to get out. Baseball and track men are already warming up, so it can't be long until spring even if the weather man won't agree.

Wrestlers Defeat U-T as Henschen Sets New Record



For the second straight year the Maryville college wrestlers have annexed the state mat championship. Double victories over both Vanderbilt and Knoxville YMCA, and last night's 33-3 verdict over U-T give the Scotties undisputed supremacy in the state heap.

The Davis-machine mowed down the Vols with six thrilling falls and one clean-cut decision. The Orange and Garnet scored their three points when 155 lb. Sinafford won the nod in his bout with Ed Ballinger.

In the opener Phil Evaul slapped a pin on Shumaker in a time of 8 min. Bill "Red" McCord, freshman in his first varsity assignment, polished off "Man" Slaughter, for a referee's decision. Horace Justice tore through "Brother Rip" Slaughter and pinned his shoulder girders in 6 minutes and 37 seconds. Julius Nicely, senior, who had his first varsity chance last night, did a masterful job in pinning Sharp, 145 lb. Volunteer, in 4 minutes and 45 seconds. Sinafford won the Vols' only match as he gained a decision over Ed Ballinger, 155 lb. Highlander. Clemmie Hahn was awarded 5 points on a default because his 165 lb. opponent was a freshman at U-T. However, in the exhibition match with Pounders, a boy who has had considerable experience on high school and amateur teams, Hahn won the decision. Just barely under the stem of the stop-watch Capt. Wood Everett pinned Freeman in a time of 8:47 min. The heavyweight division was won by Hal Henschen of Maryville in a thrilling and very fast fall over Brooks.

Henschen's brilliant pin job over Brooks, clocked at 73 seconds, betters by four seconds the former Maryville college record. Fred Tulloch, one of the best wrestlers ever produced by the late Coach Bob Thrower, was the former record holder with a time of 77 seconds.

Last night's match with U-T marked the final home appearance of Captain Wood Everett, Clem Hahn, Hal Henschen, Phil Evaul, and Julius Nicely, and this afternoon's tussle against Western Carolina Teachers is the final match for these senior members of the Orange and Garnet state champions.

Scotties Defeat Emory-Henry, But Lose One To King

On their final invasion of enemy territory for this season, the Scotties broke even in two games with Emory and Henry and King early this week. Paced by Freshman Ray Lillard, they shellacked the Emory-Henry basketballers by a count of 57-54 Monday evening in Emory, Va. On Tuesday, they journeyed to Bristol, Tenn.-Va., where they bowed before the King college Tornado to the tune of 39-38.

As may be inferred from the score, neither team was very strong on defense in the Emory-Henry game. Lillard was high scorer for the clash, ringing up a total of 24 points. He was followed by Michael, Emory-Henry forward, who scored 20 points. Next high scorer for Maryville was Freshman Bowyer with 11 markers. Bowyer was also a standout at taking the ball off the backboard, snatching it time after time to start the Honakermen marching down the floor. Baby Baird, playing one of the best games of his long career, scored 10 points and proved himself nearly perfect in the ball handling department.

Emory-Henry took an early lead in the game, and at half time they had a 26-23 edge. However, the Highlanders staged a typical Maryville rally, gaining the lead midway in the last period and holding it for the remainder of the contest.

An interesting sidelight on the game is the fact that Kilbourne, Emory-Henry forward, was gunning for a new scoring record. Up until the Maryville contest, he had rung up a total of 405 points this season, just short of the old state record of 421 points. However, due to the almost impregnable guarding of Baby Baird, he managed to score only 8 points in the Maryville game, which is a pitifully meager total for a player of his caliber. (He came back on Tuesday in a game with Milligan to score 39 points and thereby establish a new scoring high.)

The King game, one of the closests played this year, was a heartbreaking loss for the Scotties. The lead seesawed back and forth for most of the game, but Maryville forged ahead in the last half and appeared to have cinched the win. However, King bagged a last-minute basket to take the victory. In the last few seconds of the game, Lillard took the leather and was dribbling down the court, apparently in the clear. However, he met with the unusual accident of stumbling over his own underpinning. This misfortune ended all hopes of a Maryville victory, as the game ended.

Bowyer, who scored 16 points, was leader of the Highlander attack. For the Tornado, Peoples, a guard, counted 23 times. Honaker and Lillard, with 8 points each, were also valuable to the Maryville offense.

CARSON-NEWMAN

The Highlanders repulsed Carson-Newman's Eagles Thursday night in a rough, hardfought game, 45-31. This contest was the last game of the season for the Honakermen, and was a fitting climax to a thrilling court season. Carson-Newman, traditional rival of the Scotties, had been preparing for this game for some time, and fought bitterly from the opening whistle until the final gun. This was Maryville's second victory of the season over Carson-Newman in as many games.

The Eagles took the opening tip-off, and Murray, Carson-Newman guard, drew first blood with a long, looping two-pointer. However, the homelings quickly rallied and gained the lead after a few minutes of play. They led throughout the remainder of the contest, the halftime count being 23-14.

Referee Toots Blazer called a number of fouls, and two Carson-Newman athletes were ejected via the four-foul route. Spills were numerous—it seemed that Baby Baird, Waitman Bowyer, and Ray Lillard were on the floor a good half of the time, so rough were their opponents from Jefferson City. Bill Overly, Maryville sub, received a rather badly sprained ankle. X-ray examination proved that the injured joint is not broken, but Overly will be on crutches for some time. Lillard was forced to retire from the game in the first half because of a bad jar he received in a skirmish under the Mary-

Corporal Tipton Leaves For Camp Close to Nashville March Sixth

Even with the headlines screaming their stories of national defense and the draft, with men receiving questionnaires and deferments, with army camps being built, one does not realize the graveness of it all until it strikes at home. Last Monday, February 24, 1941, the National Guard claimed our own Cecil Tipton for a year's service.

So he's in the army now and the army's gain is certainly Maryville's loss, for in Tip we had a "fine fellow". Tip, or now we must address him as Corporal Tipton, was one of the best liked and the most popular men on the campus both among the women and his fellow men.

Cecil, who hails from Walland, Tennessee, was elected not long ago by the members of the football team to lead them next year as captain. Now, however, he will be lost to the Orange and Garnet for a whole year, but he expects to return to Maryville after his year in the army. As Tip said, "It's a tough break, I guess, but shucks it'll only be a year."

For three years this six foot, 192 pounder has fought on the gridiron and the track field for his Alma Mater and has letters in both sports every year. On the football field he has played tackle and was elected just this past season as an All-Conference tackle. On the track field Tip holds the record for the Smoky Mountain conference in the javelin throw.

Mentioning the javelin brings to his mind the way in which Tip chose this sport. Originally Mr. Honaker claimed Tip for baseball his freshman year, but this was soon changed when Coach Bob Thrower watched him throwing from deep in the outfield. Walking over he asked Tip if he had ever thrown the javelin to which the reply was no. From then on Tip was no longer on the baseball team but was on the track team throwing the javelin.

Corporal Tipton was experienced on the football, basketball, and baseball fields before he came to Maryville three years ago. He played four years varsity at Porter high and was also captain of his team there his senior year. While at Porter he can remember playing against J. D. Hughes, "a cocky little guy in high school, but a good ball player", George Morton, George Garner, Bill Overly, Lloyd Taylor, Gene McCurry, Oliver Spears, Scot Honaker, and Clonninger. His first college game was played at Lexington against the University of Kentucky when he played opposite Kentucky's All-American center, Hinkebein. Cecil remembers an amusing incident from this game which he tells about E. B. Smith, former Maryville lineman. Tip said Smith was playing directly opposite Hinkebin when Kentucky came out of the huddle to start the play. Just before the ball was snapped, Hinkebin looked up at Smith and sneered, "Buddy, this play is coming right over you!" To which E. B. looked up mildly at the man opposite him and shyly replied, "Yes, sir."

So now we must lose Cecil Tipton to Camp Forrest near Nashville for a year, but before leaving Tip said, "Tell everybody so long for me, wish the team luck—aw, Bill, tell 'em something."

To end this story without wishing one of the grandest fellows all the possible luck in his army life would be an unpardonable sin, so from every member of Maryville college we say, GOOD BYE and GOOD LUCK, TIP.

Cross Breaks Two Records as Team Defeats Tusculum

On last Monday evening in the Maryville college pool the Scottie swimmers knocked off the Tusculum Pioneers to the tune of 39-36 for their first victory in intercollegiate competition. Frank Cross, one of Maryville's greatest splashers, set a new record for the 440 yard race and his 110.2 points marked a new all-time high in the springboard event.

The Scotties, represented by Bob Wilcox, Dud Moore, and Frank Miller, grabbed the opening five point lead by finishing the 300 yard medley in 3 min. 50 sec. Swimming for the Pioneers were Meldrum, Thomann, and Gallant.

The 220 yard freestyle went in this order to Semlear of Tusculum, Wells of Maryville, and Duryear of the Pioneers. Semlear's winning time was clocked at 2 minutes and 51 seconds. The score after this second race gave Maryville the nod on an 8-6 count.

The 50 yard freestyle went exactly as the preceding event, Tusculum first and third places, and Maryville a second. Morgan, Tusculum's star swimmer throughout the entire meet, copped first honors in a time of 26 seconds. Don Lowry, Maryville freshman, finished in the runner-up berth and Gallant crossed the finish line in third place. At this point the Pioneers took over the scoring lead by a lone point.

In the fancy diving event Frank Cross took first place, set a new college record in number of points, and almost doubled his count over runner-up Weiss' score. The judges awarded Cross a grand total of 110.2 points, 60.4 to Weiss, and 38.7 to Pool of Maryville. Once again the lead changed hands and the Scotties were on top of a 17-15 count.

Morgan took first place for Tusculum in the 100 yard freestyle race with a time of 58.2 seconds. Don Lowry took second honors, and third place went to Duryear. Back to the Pioneers went the lead as the scoreboard stood at 20-21.

Bob Wilcox swept the 150 yard backstroke race in 2 minutes and 13 seconds. Scherer took a third place for the Scotties, and Tusculum's Poggi and Bishop clipped the finish in second and fourth notches. The "now they are,

Intramural Fete Held Tonight in Bartlett and Gym

This evening the intramural department will present its first annual carnival. The affair has been planned to show the student body just what the group has done in its first year at Maryville and what it can expect from the group in the future. The event is in charge of Vernon Lloyd, Stan Mennning and Allan Moore and will last from 7:30 until about 10:15.

At 7:30, the Foul Balls, winners of the independent basketball division will battle Athenian on the floor of the Alumni gym for the honor of school champions. Both teams are equally strong and the fact that the Foul Balls twice had to play post-season games against the All-Americans means very little since independent league competition was keener than club ball.

Between the halves, the finals in the foul throwing contest will be held. Due to a tie of five fellows with nineteen out of a possible twenty-five, fourteen boys instead of ten will shoot in this match. In the preliminaries, Olly Spears led the way with twenty-four for twenty-five. Five girls will also shoot in an effort to increase interest in the affair.

At 8:45 the Baird brothers will meet the Short brothers in the finals of the horseshoe doubles. This match should be among the best yet played in this sport. At the same time a ping-pong exhibition will be held. Like basketball, these events will be held in the big gym.

At 8:00 the All-Star volley ball teams will meet in Bartlett in what promises to be the fastest game of the year. The club division seemingly has the upper hand but it will be a hard fought game no matter who wins. An exhibition of swimming, diving, and lifesaving will go on at the same time in the swimming pool. This event promises to be a highlight of the evening.

In the wrestling room at Bartlett, the doubles champions, Smith and Fichbach, will meet each other to determine the winner of the singles' hand ball tournament. As a team these two met little opposition and bowled over

The climax of the evening will be the club relay race in which seven clubs have entered thus far. This event will be held in the Alumni gym at 9:30. The runners will run against time, and the winners will receive points for their intramural record. With these nine scheduled events the intramural department will be presenting nearly every phase of sports.

Debating both sides of the query at this tourney will be Trevor Rees-Jones and Henry Wick; in the women's division will be entered Natalie Yelton and Janet Lindsay, also ready on both sides. Besides entering the impromptu and oratory contest, Hilton Wick will be the local entrant in the extemp contest on the general subject of the defense program. As in the State tournament, sub-topics of this general subject will be drawn about an hour before the contest and developed by the speaker. In the oratory contest Hilton will vie for honors with his speech on "Which Will Survive?". The third term question will be discussed in the contest in Stimulating Group Discussion. In this form of speaking the entrants appear as opening speakers before a non-collegiate group of citizens in any typical American town. The speeches are limited to five minutes and results are based on a clear presentation of the issues. Janet Lindsay is to enter the women's contest; Trevor Rees-Jones, the men's division. Delivering an oration on migration and its problems will be Natalie Yelton, who is also to enter the contest in Women's Problem Solving. In this contest the contestant is given a description of some problem confronting some group of students or citizens. Fifteen minutes is then allowed the entrant to prepare a solution in a speech of not more than five minutes. Henry Wick will enter the men's division in problem solving.

In the after-dinner speaking contest the entrants draw three subjects on one of which they must speak. The speeches, limited to five minutes, are humorous, stimulating, and suited to the occasion. Beth Pascoe is to enter this contest for the women, and Trevor Rees-Jones for the men. Beth Pascoe will also be the local entrant in the women's extemp and impromptu contests.

Practice debates are being held in the afternoons and evenings in order to fully prepare the local entrants for this tournament. Assignments for the other two tournaments will be made in the near future.

now they aren't" theory worked again, and the nod went to Maryville at 26-24.

Thomann and Curtis finished one-two for the Pioneers in the 200 yard breastroke, the former being timed at 3:03 minutes. Dud Moore tacked up a point for the Fischbach mermen. The "Frontiersmen" bounced back to a 27-32 margin.

Frank Cross continued his red-hot pace by winning the 440 yard race in a time of 6 minutes, 20 sec. This time betters by several seconds the former college record and marked Cross' second such feat in the meet. Semlear and Meldrum were second and third place winners for the visiting splashers.

With Tusculum leading by a scant 32-36 margin the 400 yard relay had to establish the winning team. From the referee's whistle Miller grabbed a substantial lead for the Scotties, and Wells, Cross, and Lowry swept through the course to take the verdict by ive yards. The winning time was clocked at 4 minutes, 27 seconds. This 7-point victory gave the meet to the fighting Fischbach mermen by a score of 39-36.

The Scotties home swimming schedule is now filled. On the 7th of March against the Emory University swimmers of Atlanta, the Orange and Garnet wind up the campaign. Nine or ten men will take the road on this last trip of the season.

Two cases of measles—Mary Ruth Baker, admitted to the hospital Monday morning, and Margaret Boretsky, admitted Monday evening—were the main mishaps of the week according to Mrs. Elizabeth B. Hall, matron of Ralph Max Lamar Memorial hospital.

Tommy Mize was admitted Monday afternoon to complete convalescence from a recent appendectomy. Reports on his condition are all favorable and it is expected that he will be released soon.

Paul Brown, while free to go to to classes and engage in other student activities, is still taking his meals at the hospital by way of recovering from his late prolonged illness.

BASKETBALL

ville basket, but he came back in the final period to take scoring honors for the game, amassing a total of 17 points.

Also prominent in the Maryville attack was little Scot Honaker, playing his last game for the Orange and Garnet court machine. He marked up a total of 13 points, and was also one of the most valuable players in the ball-handling department. This game was undoubtedly one of his best performances, and was a very fitting finale to his four-year reign on the court.

Two other Maryville men were on the floor for the last time—the long-to-be-remembered Baird brothers, Bill and Boydson. These boys have been two of the smoothest guards in this section throughout their college careers, and are two of the most popular athletes in Maryville history. Baby scored five points, and both he and Bill were perfection exemplified in advancing the ball down the floor.

Bowyer, towering freshman center, scored 8 points, and was a standout at taking the ball off the backboard. Baby Baird was also surprisingly adept in this phase of the game, taking the ball time after time to start a Scottie march. He probably takes more such rebounds than any other man of his size in this section.

Leader of the Eagles' attack was Nevils, their star center. This young giant counted 11 times, and also held up his end of the typical Carson-Newman rough stuff. Jones, forward, and Murray, guard, were other spark-plugs of the losers' machine.

Debaters Go To South Atlantic Forensic Meet

Maryville Debaters Take Top Honors in State Tourney at TPI

At the writing of this article the South Atlantic Forensic tournament is drawing to a close. Those from Maryville who have been taking an active part in all of the proceedings include Trevor Rees-Jones and Henry Wick, who have represented the college on both sides of the national Pi Kappa Delta question of union of the nations of the Western Hemisphere. Natalie Yelton and Janet Lindsay have done the same in the varsity women's division.

Entering other speech events were Hilton Wick who presented an oration on the subject "Which will Survive?" He was also in the impromptu and extemp contests. In the latter the general subject was the defense program. Beth Pascoe also made preparations along these lines as she was entered in the women's division of extemp which has the same general topic. Beth was, in addition, Maryville's entrant in the women's divisions of impromptu and after-dinner speaking. The latter speech had to be prepared shortly before the contest at which time the contestants drew three subjects each, on one of which they had to speak five minutes. The three requirements for the after-dinner speech are the qualities of humor, originality, and appropriateness.

In the men's division this contest was entered by Trevor Rees-Jones, who also stimulated group discussion as did Janet Lindsay in the women's on the question of the third term. In this form of speaking the entrants appear as opening speakers before a non-collegiate group of citizens in any typical American town. The speeches are limited to five minutes and results are based on a clear presentation of the issues.

In women's oratory Maryville's representative was Natalie Yelton, who delivered an oration on "Uprooted Americans" wherein the problem of migration now facing the U.S. is presented. Natalie was a contestant in Women's Problem Solving. In this contest those entered were given a description of some problem confront-

Frosh Debaters Win Tournament

Maryville not only won the State Debate tournament in varsity speech, but the freshman teams, competing in Cookeville at TPI also won honors in the freshman division. Both Maryville freshman teams took first place in their respective sections. In the freshman section there were some six colleges represented, all debating the national high school question, "Resolved: that the power of the federal government should be increased."

The men's freshman team composed of Hal Lloyd and Ben Lynt won first place in competition with nine other teams. Lloyd won second place in individual rating with a percentage score of 91.4. Kay Liddell won first place in women's individual rating with a percentage score of 89.8, and Ruth Aiken was second with a percentage of 85. They formed the freshman women's team, which also won first place, in competition with three teams, debating each team on both sides.

The freshman men's team brought home a travelling trophy which was the only one of the kind given out in the tournament. It was decided by the executive committee of the Tennessee Forensic Society that the freshman men's team winning it next year would claim it as permanent for their own school.

Schools competing in the freshman competition were TPI, Tusculum, Murfreesboro, Memphis State, and Carson-Newman, several of which sent more than one team.

Peters, Lloyd Read Monday

Next week on Monday, March 10, Margaret Peters and Vernon Lloyd will read in Work Shop. The former's selection is a satire, while the latter will read a short story. The meeting will be held in Miss Johnson's classroom.

Last week Janet Lindsay read several selections of poetry.

Carpenter Shop To Be Moved To Power Plant

Noteworthy of the work currently being done on the campus is the planting of shrubbery at various places which have been in need of beautification. It is rumored that the men doing the work are in the employ of a very old friend of the college who has done so much along these lines in the past. That section of the campus just to the rear of the Alumni gymnasium is enjoying a lovely transformation through the addition of shrubbery and other landscaping means. Similar work has been done around the entrance of the college and along the walk from Fayerweather to Carnegie.

Other work being done is the preparation being made for the removal of the carpenter shop from its present quarters to the building adjacent to the heating plant. It is planned to move the machinery in a few days. The new location will offer more commodious facilities.

Maryville To Have Chaucer Celebration

Two Public Programs Of Discussion on Life of Poet Planned

On Monday, March 17, the English and Art departments of the college will combine in presenting an extensive program in honor of Chaucer. Groups all over the world on this day will be celebrating the 600th anniversary of the birth of Geoffrey Chaucer, considered by many critics as the greatest author and most talented portrayer of human character that literary England has ever produced. As its part of the celebration Maryville college will present two public programs of discussion and exhibitions about the writings and life of the great poet.

The programs will be presented in the Elizabeth Gowdy Baker Memorial galleries in Anderson hall. The first of these is an afternoon meeting scheduled for 3:15. This program will consist of talks by three Maryville students who have made or are making a study of Chaucer's writings and a discussion by the head of the English department.

Miss Mary Orr will open the program with a talk entitled "Canterbury Cathedral and its Shrine", relating the cause for the famous journey of the Canterbury Pilgrims. Samuel Cornelius will interpret the musical background of the Chaucerian era by a speech on "Music from Chaucer's Day". Last of the student speakers, Edna Manrose, will describe the "Costume in 14th Century England." Dr. Edwin R. Hunter, who has made an extensive study of Chaucer, will close the afternoon meeting with a comprehensive discussion, "A Critical Text of the Canterbury Tales."

In the evening at 8:00 Eldon Seamons will open the program with a picture of "London as Chaucer Knew It". Atine Campbell will discuss the picturesque "Pilgrimage in the 14th Century"; Dr. Hill Shine, professor of English and of Chaucer, will speak of the "Biography and Bibliography" of Chaucer.

A highlight of the day will be an evening address by Dr. Roscoe E. Parker, professor of English at the University of Tennessee. Dr. Parker, who has spoken several times on this subject, will talk about "Chaucer's Use of the Pilate Legends".

A valuable addition to the speeches

Members of Debate Team to Broadcast

Wednesday night at seven o'clock the national Pi Kappa Delta subject, "Resolved, that the Nations of the Western Hemisphere should form a Permanent Union", will be debated by members of this debate fraternity when Maryville broadcasts over station WROL.

"Little David Play on Your Harp", a negro spiritual, by Wilson, will be sung for the first time over the air by the college choir on the Sunday Radio Vespers at 5:00. The choir will also sing "Today There Is Ringing" by Christensen. "My Faith Looks Up to Thee" by Palmer-Mason will be the hymn of the evening, and "Fairest Lord Jesus" will be the introductory and closing theme. Dr. Lloyd will present the last of the series, "The Four Best Known Verses in the Bible."

Alexander Kipnis Closes Maryville Artist Series Season Tuesday Night

Russian-American Baritone To Interpret American Folk Songs For Maryville Audience

"The younger generation does not desire music that is beautiful. It cares for the sensational . . . The composer is afraid now to put down what comes from his soul; he thinks that people will laugh at him."

So says Alexander Kipnis, world-known Russian-American baritone and leading singer of the Metropolitan Opera Company, who will appear on the Maryville stage Tuesday evening, November 11, for the second time in two years. This almost unprecedented second appearance will be undoubtedly one of the most enthusiastically received concerts that the Maryville college Artist Series committee has presented, as was Mr. Kipnis' first appearance in November of 1939.

Included on his program is a group of German lieder. These he considers a more proper part of his repertoire than American songs of similar origin. "A folk-song is such a national thing that a person who has not grown up in the country should not attempt to meddle with its folk music. I should hardly feel comfortable singing anything but Russian or German folk-songs." His hesitance in singing folk songs of countries other than Russia and Germany has been overcome it seems, since he will interpret for his audience several American folk-songs.

Continuing on this subject, "Some composers have created folk-songs while others have taken folk music and worked it into symphonies and operas. For example, Franz Schubert composed an art song called The Linden Tree, but for one hundred years now it has been as much a part of German civilization and culture as Stephen Foster's Old Kentucky Home has been in America. That is one side, yet on the other hand over ninety percent of Moussorgsky's Boris Godounoff", from which he has chosen a selection, "had its origin in folk tunes. Similarly, the familiar Andante Cantabile' of Tschaikowsky was taken from a song the composer heard a carpenter singing. As Tschaikowsky said, 'The people compose, we only arrange'."

Kipnis has recorded "The Linden Tree" for Columbia, and an album of Russian folk-songs for Victor, as well as Gretchanioff's "The Captive", a song with much Russian feeling, for the latter company.

Another interesting story about Kipnis is the one telling of his discovery of Kirsten Flagstad, one of the greatest dramatic sopranos of all time. In the summer of 1932 Kipnis was enjoying his vacation on Lake Como. He was, in fact, far out in the lake swimming

Mr. James R. Smith To Entertain Ministerials

The Ministerial Association will hold its regular meeting next Thursday evening at 6:45 at the home of James R. Smith, Public Relations Secretary of the college. Mr. Smith was formerly a minister at the Kirkwood Presbyterian church in Atlanta, Georgia, and will lead a discussion on "Problems of the Ministry." Refreshments will be served after the meeting. Mr. Smith's home is on Wilson Avenue.

Dr. Caldwell of the Louisville Seminary will be at the college on Tuesday and Wednesday. Men interested in questions concerning the Louisville Seminary and Theological Seminaries in general will have the opportunity of arranging interviews with Dr. Caldwell during this period.

Webster, Witt, Findley Speak At Law Club

Last Thursday, March 6, the Law Club held its regular meeting at 6:45 in Alpha Sigma hall at which time a program consisting of addresses by George Webster, James Witt, and Gordon Findlay was given.

Corresponding with the interests and purpose of the club, the context of the speeches was the different phases of the law and its relation to present influences. Webster spoke on "The World Situation and Law", Witt on "General Practice of Law", and Findlay on "The F.B.I."

Before the program a business meeting was held, at which time the club decided to order the Law club pins for its members.

11 Faculty Members And 123 Students of Maryville In Draft

Men at Maryville college of draft age who registered last October under the Selective Service law numbered eleven from the faculty and staff, and 123 from the student body.

By classes, the students were divided as follows: 51 seniors, 35 juniors, 22 sophomores, 13 freshmen, and 2 specials. Some of these received low numbers in the draft and have been so notified. Most of them, however, are completing the year under provisions of the law which allow college students to defer service until the end of the current college session. Six of those who registered have left college for various reasons, some of them to answer the call of the National Guard and one or two to enlist otherwise.

German Band Plays At Regular Club Meeting

The German club met Thursday evening in Athenian hall and was entertained by the German band. Plans were discussed for bringing a moving picture of "Emil Und Die Detektive" to Maryville. This book was read by the second year German class.

French Club Sings Songs

The French club will meet at 6:45 Wednesday evening in Miss Wilkinson's classroom. The program will consist of special musical numbers and round songs by the group.

Dr. Ralph W. Lloyd Visits Graduates

Wednesday afternoon, Dr. Ralph W. Lloyd left for New York where the meeting of the Department of Church Co-operation and Union of the Presbyterian Church of the U.S.A. is to be held. This group meets semi-annually to discuss such matters as the uniting of the various branches of churches and co-operation with other churches throughout the world. President Lloyd left by plane Wednesday afternoon and expects to return Saturday.

On Friday night he will be the guest of the fourteen college graduates who are enrolled at the Princeton Theological Seminary. These students include William Mooney, Vaughn Lyons, Robert Lamont, Edward Brubaker, George Hunt, Howard Davies, William Lewis, Edward Thomas, Charles Theal, Ernest Ensilin, Bruce Morgan, Earl Crawford, and Percy Buchanan. Crawford and Buchanan are doing graduate work at the seminary.

YWCA Announces Coming Programs

The next five programs of the YW are keys to the YW's wide influence as the speakers point out the phases of a young person's life that are built by religion and Christianity. These programs will show how it would be less advantageous for a person to go through life physically disabled than to be crippled in the Christian sense in any part of his personality.

The following are the programs, to be held in the YW rooms on Sundays at 1:30, coming under the general heading, "What It Means To Be A Whole Christian"; March 9, Mentally, Miss Elizabeth Jackson; March 16, Physically, Coach Fischbach; March 23, Socially, Mrs. R. J. Dollenmayer; March 30, Spiritually, Dr. John A. Gates.

On April 6 discussion groups will be led by four student leaders, Mary Darden, Mary Louise Cooper, Marianne Coleman, Helen Cone, and the faculty advisors, Mrs. McMurray, Mrs. Dollenmayer, Mrs. Williams, and Mrs. Cummings.

Plans Made For Dorm Parties On March 8 And 15

At the meeting of the Social Committee held last Tuesday, March 4, it was decided that the evenings of March 8 and 15 will be set aside for students having the consent of their supervisors, to hold dormitory parties.

Plans for future programs were also discussed. Among these are the amateur show in which students will participate, an "Indoor Games Evening" which will be held in the Alumni gym, an "Indoor Athletic Meet" in which toy instruments such as paper plates for discus or a paper bag for shot put will be used, an open swim, and an outdoor community sing.

As the Marionette show was not an outstanding success, the Social Committee will be unable to contribute a major project to the campus; however, plans are being made to install lights at the outdoor shuffle-boards.

As the type and quality of the social programs depend upon the attendance of the students to these functions, the Committee requests that more recognition of these affairs be shown in the future.

Frosh Debaters Speak Over WNOX Thursday

The members of the freshman debate team who attended the state tournament in Cookeville are to present on WNOX a discussion of the question which they have been debating, "Resolved, that the power of the federal government shall be diminished." It will be held on March 13, in Knoxville at 3:00. The participants, Hal Lloyd, Ben Lynt, Ruth Aiken, and Kay Liddell, will give a highly summarized debate, and answer several questions. Others on the squad debated Maryville high school Wednesday night on the same subject.

Jamarik Speaks to Vols

Paul Jamarik will speak at Student Vols Sunday evening on "Six Ways of Living the Successful Christian Life."

Julius Caesar Will Be Given As Senior Play

Shakespearian Classic Is Considered Best And Most Famous

"Julius Caesar", a classic drama by William Shakespeare, will be presented as the senior play for this year, it was announced this week. A Senior Class Play Committee composed of Harvey Lehman, Barbara Ann Swift, and Howard Dizney reached this decision on Wednesday after consultation and approval by Mrs. Nita E. West, professor of Dramatic Art. The committee discussed several plays as possibilities and considered records of the type and success of past senior play productions. Influenced by these observations, it decided that a classic type of drama would be remembered longer and be more appropriate and effective for the occasion on which the play is annually presented. The almost unequalled success of the senior class production of "Hamlet" two years ago suggested the advisability of another famous Shakespearian classic.

"Julius Caesar" will probably be scheduled for either Saturday or Monday evening of Commencement Week. Mrs. West will direct the production. Harvey Lehman and Elizabeth Moore are working to cut and arrange the text in form for most efficient production on the Maryville college stage. Tryouts for the acting parts in the production will be held on March 19 immediately after the presentation of the first mid-winter, and work will begin soon afterward. The play has several major and several minor roles and offers opportunities for many students to participate as actors.

Depicting a tragedy of ancient Rome, "Julius Caesar" will be staged this year, not in traditional toga atmosphere, but with modern dress, and properties and scenery of the present day. Still retaining the dignity and impressiveness imparted to the plot by Shakespeare, the play in modern setting will present characters not as Roman conspirators or Elizabethan knaves, but as gangster, dictator, and politician types of today's world.

The first presentation of "Julius Caesar" in modern setting dates back to a few years ago when Orson Welles, modern dramatic actor, originated the idea and carried it out with great success. Since then it has gained popularity through several such productions.

Considered as one of the most famous and best of the tragedies written by the world's greatest dramatist, William Shakespeare's "Julius Caesar" has had widespread and undiminished popularity since it was first performed in England about three and a half centuries ago. The plot is a familiar one, familiar through history if not through knowledge of the play itself. The rise of Caesar to power in Rome, the conspiracy and his overthrow by his enemies and by the patriotic Brutus, the resulting confusion, the suicide of the ghost-haunted and conscience-stricken Brutus provide adequate basis for the great tragedy Shakespeare has created.

Caesars dying "Et tu, Bruti?" and Anthony's funeral oration with its famous beginning, "Friends, Romans, countrymen, lend me your ears", are parts of tense, dramatic moments that have, with reason, become familiar phrases.

Dramatics Department Presents One-Act Play

Betty Clevenger, Rosemary McCartney, Melvin Johnson, Charles Foreman, and Mary Wessels gave again the increasingly popular one-act play, "Evening Dress Indispensible" at the Everett high school Wednesday morning.

Suspense was high while Melvin Johnson kept the cast waiting till he came down out of the clouds (Mel is an aviation student), but, as soon as he appeared, the play went on its rollicking way, and the audience rocked in their seats.

Dr. McClelland, who acted as chauffeur, also added the serious note to the morning's chapel by an opening devotional period.

College Quartet Will Sing at Triangle Club

At the regular meeting of the Triangle club Monday night at 6:45 in Bartlett auditorium the college quartet will furnish the complete program.

ECHO ANALYSIS

(CONTRIBUTED)

ARE THESE THINGS INEVITABLE?

War time is a time for youth to be concerned because:

1. Young people fight wars.
2. Great wars are followed by great depressions.
3. The loss of valuable training years may make the ex-soldier a citizen misfit.

We can take courage that these things are not inevitable. The extent to which we can alter the historical pattern will depend upon the vigor and intelligence with which we attack the problems.

Must we fight? To answer this question in the negative is to invite investives of "Fifth columnist", "Pro-Nazi", "Anti-American". The fact remains that many of us do not wish to go to war, to kill or be killed! Our schools and churches have taught us to believe that wars do not prove much. Why are pleas for negotiated peace howled down without any statement of the proposed basis for the peace? If young people want peace, let's hear from them. Let's talk up peace.

Perhaps we shall go to war. Great wars have always been followed by great depressions—Napoleonic wars, Civil War and World War I. Must we look forward to fighting another great depression after this war? Not if we strive intelligently to avoid it. Great post-war depressions have been associated with these phenomena.

1. The government, largest customer in war-time, suddenly leaves the market when peace is declared.

2. Prices rise swiftly during wartime. This is the result of many causes; large government buying, issuances of currency by governments to pay expenses, credit inflation, (all of these increasing the demand for commodities) and restrictions on production owing to shortages of labor and material. (These factors decrease the supply of commodities). Peace usually causes a swift lowering of prices bringing unemployment, panic, business failures and depression.

3. Government debts remain high after the war, necessitating high taxes on consumer incomes and economic stagnation. Sometimes governments resort to currency devaluations, resulting in restriction on consumers' purchasing power and business confidence.

It is patriotic to try to avoid these financial developments which have proven so disastrous at other times. In order to cushion the economy for the shock of the withdrawal of government purchasing power, a program of peace-time public works should be planned now. On a national scale the government should reduce its current public building program to the minimum necessary for national defense needs. State and local governments should cooperate by planning peace-time public works.

Price spiraling is disastrous in war time for two reasons. First: the cost of the army and navy procurement plans is raised as prices go up. Second: the greater the rise in war-time the more severe is the post-war decline in prices. The sources of price disturbance most likely to be important in the present emergency are government fiscal policies and increasing wage rates. Runaway prices can be controlled by:

1. Increasing individual income and sales taxes.
2. Transferring productive energies from unnecessary to emergency tasks.
3. Increasing corporation income taxes.
4. Government conscription of production bottlenecks.
5. Holding wage rates level.

The successful control of price levels is a partial solution to the problem of large government post-war debts. The more closely prices are controlled, the lower will be the cost to the government of the armaments program. Greater resort to financing by taxation will reduce the need for borrowing. Naturally, if the government can pay as it goes by taxation, the cost will be less than if interest is paid on borrowed funds. The extent to which we shall not have to pay for the war after it is over will depend on how much we are willing to sacrifice now in decreased consumption and higher taxes.

What will be the human costs of the war? Shall we muster out citizen misfits? No job? No training? No! That is, provided that we plan intelligently now for the future. In as many cases as possible young men should continue with their education until they are needed in the armed forces. Vocational programs should be instituted in the armed services. Students intending to enter engineering, accounting and administrative positions should try to gain war-time experience which will help prepare them for future work. Industry and government should plan to absorb men as they leave the armed forces. The jobs of young men taken by women and aged workers should be returned to them at the conclusion of the war.

Young people are fed with the inevitable and the emergency. This war was not inevitable. I, for one, am for peace. If we are going to have to fight a war, we should insist that steps be taken immediately to forestall the historical "inevitable consequences."

Scots and Soda

Having been informed by a reliable authority that Tom Cragan will be greatly insulted—even to violence—if his name doesn't show up in this column as a result of his recent performance in Shakespeare, we hereby hastily include it. With plaudits and orchids, too, to the rest of the talented performers who made the Bard enjoyable for those of us who were privileged to attend the Studio Tea last week.

Another of the social thrills we've had of late was being invited to a party held last week in the Y rooms. And we're not athletic enough to mean the "M" Club. Annalyn Ramey had a birthday; so Nancy Elizabeth had a party for her. Complete with food and flowers. Gathered to honor the natal date of Miss Ramey were the Misses Elizabeth Jane Bryant, Ruth Elizabeth Curtis, Kathryn Estes, Helen Williams, Elizabeth Moore, Margaret Clippinger, Kay Liddell, Jordy Meadows, Gerry Hogan, Betty Clevenger, Joan Humann, Miss Wood, and the guest of honor. We've often heard about parties like that, but we thought they were only in books. Hope somone else has a birthday soon.

After hearing so much about "Abe Lincoln" in Maryville, we took the bull by the horns and sneaked into the chapel to see what cooked one day this week. From our inconspicuous corner we could certainly see Dave Hall and we heard Dave McDaniels and George Tibbetts and Troye Moore and some more people. From our observations we have drawn a definite conclusion. We have decided to go again and get a good seat where we can hear more, because what we did see—and hear—looked pretty good to us.

We've been preparing ourselves for "Abe Lincoln in Illinois" in Maryville but we found him in something else Wednesday. Wandering aimlessly around the territory bounded by the football field, the hospital, Thaw hall and the chapel that evening we remembered the broadcast and when we got to the fourth boundary we beat on the door until Mary Felknor's boss and Melvin Magee let us in. And there was "Abe Lincoln in Earphones". How times have changed since Ann Rutledge was a girl!

And, incidentally, sitting in on the broadcast was quite a treat for us. It was so cosmopolitan and informal with Prof. Colbert trying to trip noiselessly over the squeaking floor boards and the aforementioned Mr. Smith whizzing through. And even though we thoroughly enjoyed everything on the program we were delighted at not having to clap. Inherent slothfulness, probably.

This week we thought to publish a tremendous—and authentic—scoop, but have given up all hope of becoming anything journalistically. Woman's place must be in the Old Maid's Home. The fates are potent against us. But let posterity know we tried. We got wind the first of the week from Harvey Lehman (thanking him profusely for trying to help a column which he doesn't read) of news on the senior class play. So we fled to Mrs.West and received official confirmation of "Julius Caesar" and went around with our collective nose in the air until Managing Editor Brewer sent Jean Barnes around to find out what we knew about it. So we relinquish our Laurels to Brewer. You're a better man than we are, Tippy Tin. Maybe we can get our comment in before he thinks of it, but it's a long chance we're taking. Wethinks this should do something toward establishing Shakespeare as a coming playwright; yea, verily.

Here's a little inside dope on what the well-dressed Pearsons' inhabitant is wearing—or was wearing—a night or two ago. According to Hester Santiago, linings are in style. Attired in the removable zipper lining of Mae Persing's winter coat, she presented a neat little figures that might make even the most particular of us sit up and take notice.

You shouldn't need it, but in case you'd like to have it, here's proof of what well-brought-up young ladies are found at Pearson's. It seems that last Sunday afternoon, Mrs. Snyder was suddenly and unexpectedly confronted by six stalwart braves who claimed to be outgrowths of the U-T athletic crop. In search of a young lady whose name they had forgotten but who had made a lasting impression on them last Christmas, they finally identified her through a series of eliminations. But they found her unavailable. (And here's where the test came in). So they tried to strike up an acquaintance with each and every girl who ascended the front stairs during their period of visitation, with no results whatsoever. Not one of the girls showed any signs of interest at all. That is, until U-T's young hopefuls up and left. Then the entire female population of Pearsons descended upon Mrs. Snyder like a plague, wanting to know who, where, why, when, how and why not. So just for variety, gentlemen, why not try again—on a week day?

TUESDAY, March 11

8:15—Artist Series—Alexander Kipnis returns to Maryville stage.

Edna, Beloved Canine Friend Of Campus, Passes On To Dog Heaven

At 6:30 on Sunday morning Edna, one of Maryville's most beloved canine friends, passed away after a brief illness. The news of Edna's death came as a sudden shock to all of his friends and acquaintances. Many did not know of Edna's sicknes until word of his death reached them.

Until the evening of Saturday, March 1, Edna was apparently in the best of health. Indeed, on Saturday afternoon Edna was in town on a shopping tour and was dashing about with his usual vim and vigor. It was not until supper time that Edna quite suddenly complained to Henry Millison of dizziness and of pains around his heart. Hank, never suspecting how near to them was tragedy, assured Edna that he must be suffering from plain old puppy love. Later, however, when Edna staggered off to bed without any supper, his roommates became worried. At 10:15 Alf Davies hurried out and bought some pills, but Edna was by this time too sick to take his own or anyone else's medicine. Edna's condition became worse, and throughout the long night the occupants of 134 Carnegie hall waged a losing battle against Death. In vain they strove to pull Edna out of the dumb stupor in which he lay. At 3 a.m. on Sunday morning, Edna took a fit, and with a sudden spurt of energy arose from his bed and dashed past his attendants out into the cold dark night. Howling from the terrific pain he was suffering, Edna ran around Carnegie several times, then fell to the ground in a motionless heap. His roommates removed him to the college farm where he lay unconscious until 6:30, at which time his soul departed to that place where good little dogs may chase bicycles and automobiles all the day long. At 6:30 a.m., Edna died of a fit with sledge hammer complications. At 7:10 a.m. Edna was taken to his final resting place, was planted at the foot of the Chilhowee mountains.

The loss of Edna will be greatly felt. Although Edna did not enter Maryville until second semester, he gained much popularity. During his brief stay at Maryville, Edna roomed at Carnegie hall in room 134 with Henry Millison, Tom Mize, Gabriel Williamson, and Alf Davies. Of his life before he came here we know little except that his mother was a distant relative of the Daschund and his father was a Great Dane—more or less. Edna was an honest lad. Never had he gambled until he came to Maryville. While here, he was forced to do a bit of mild gambling in order to have a place to lay his head at night. He and his four roommates threw fingers each night to find out who would occupy the three beds and who would sleep on the floor. Edna was a moral fellow. He did not smoke, swear or drink. In fact, there were times when he did not even eat. Edna was loved by all because he was one of the common people. He was loved because he was himself and made no attempt to mimic or steal the thunder of Scottie, the popular aristocrat on the Hill. Edna was, in truth, a friend to man.

Chaucer Week...

of the day will be the exhibition in the gallery of a group of picture entitled "The Canterbury Tales and Chaucer's England." These paintings are one of a series of illustrative sets from the Division of Museum Extension, Museum of Fine Arts, collected by Dr. Harold White of Boston University. The pictures illustrate visibly the impressions which Chaucer presents in word pictures. Chaucer himself, the individual pilgrims, scenes and settings appear startlingly real. The character of the architecture, the manners and customs of the period find visible interpretation. The exhibit is now on display in Anderson hall in the third floor studios, and is open to the public each day from one to four o'clock. On March 17 it will be transferred and shown in the Baker Memorial gallery.

The college library has also planned to participate in the celebration and will donate its resources in the form of books and pictures for exhibition and inspection.

Students, faculty members, and residents of the community are welcome to attend either or both of the programs and are invited to inspect the art collection.

Athenian Hears Readings By Cornelius and Umbach

Readings by Sammy Cornelius and Bette Umbach will be presented at Athenian tonight at 6:15. These readings are the same as those they presented at the Writer's Workshop at the last meeting. Other than this the meeting will consist of the usual routine of procedure.

NOTICE

Roy Crawford, treasurer of the sophomore class, announces this week that solicitation for second semester class dues of 50 cents will begin today. All sophomores are urged to give their money to either Roy, Jimmy Witt, Irma Russell or Phyllis Anne Cain.

ECHO SPORTS

THE HIGHLAND ECHO MARCH 8, 1941

SPORT ECHOS

By BILL SWEENEY—Sports Editor

BASEBALL... Coach Honaker has issued his first call for all baseball men to report to him for practice. It appears that he is going to have a hard time replacing such men as Nig Wilburn, Chuck Kindred, Hubert Headrick, and Jabo Pierce. However, second base is the only spot open in the infield that is not taken by an experienced man. Scot will hold down the shortstop post while J. D. and Tommy Cragan will take care of the hot corner and the first sack, and Shelfer will catch. The turnout thus far is not too promising, but there may develop some good players from the many freshmen who are out for the squad.

TRACK... Coach Davis doesn't have too many experienced men to start with for his track team this year as he lost too many men last year. Frank Heinz and Harlan Husk didn't return to school, Boydson Baird has decided to go out for baseball. Joe Etheredge was lost in the graduation exercises last year, and Cecil Tipton was taken into the national guard this week. Steakley, Nicely, Lloyd, Kent, Bill Baird, Alf Davies, and Gene McCurry however, are back to carry on this year. Sprinters are sadly needed by the new coach as well as weight men.

SWIMMING... The swimming team still has one more meet on their list for this year when they leave for Atlanta Friday morning to meet Emory. This will be the last meet for Bob Wilcox, as he is the only senior on the squad. The swimming team looks forward to a great season next year when almost all their entire team will report back. Frank Cross, Dudley Moore, Wells, Lowry, and all the other point-getters will be back for another season. The team lost a heart-breaker last week to Tusculum by one point.

INTRAMURALS... The festival is over. It appeared to be a popular attraction if we may judge by the number of people present. The Short brothers came through in fine style to beat the Bairds in the brotherly horseshoe pitching contest. The basketball game was won by the Foul Balls, but... should we mention the crip shots, Steakley, Howard? The boys relay race was quite popular, but we did feel sorry for Rock and Mair trying to run a four man relay all by themselves. It was tough that Rock stumbled in the last lap or they might have done all right for themselves even as it was.

ODDS AND ENDS... Bill Overly is "Glad to get back on my feet and off of those sticks." We too, are certainly glad to see Bill getting around with the aid of a cane. Tom Saffel's injury seems to be healed as we noticed him out for baseball the other day. As long as this seems a recovery column we are glad to point out that Tommy Mize has completely recovered from the results of his operation. Not much to report on the tennis team as yet, but the experience is not lacking for Van Cise, Kidder, Pratt, and Cooper are returning to take care of that racket. The courts and the diamond have been having beauty treatments in the past few days and they are shaping up very well for this early in the season.

Coach Davis Needs New Men For This Year's Varsity Track Team

With a highly successful first year in the wrestling wars behind him Coach J. D. Davis takes leave of his prize state champs in favor of the 1941 edition of the kiltie-klads.

Coach Davis' job in the next few weeks is not a very easy one. When in the last decade he was one of the leading athletes on the Hill, Davis was recognized as the best first baseman ever produced at Maryville college and one of the leading hitters in the South. After graduation Davis played organized baseball with the Alcoa Sheet Mill semi-pros and went up the ladder as far as the Toledo Mudhens, a class AA club in the American Association. It is no small wonder that Davis would probably prefer tutoring the diamond squad, and yet he is taking over the new situation in a masterful manner.

The season is hardly a week old, but already Davis has shown the men that he means real business. He has one of the hardest jobs ever to confront a coach. The situation was much the same in wrestling, but in that sport there were at least seven veterans for the eight weight classes. However, in track Davis must find men for the century dash, pole vault, high jump, broad jump, javelin toss, high and low hurdles, and mile.

The past record of the Scottie cinder-burners is probably the best of any smaller college in the state. Out of six years of Smoky Mountain Conference competition, Maryville bagged five titles, and in 1939 the Highlanders won the Tennessee State track and field championship and beat several large universities in this territory.

Last season the Orange and Garnet, after losing the services of the late Coach Bob Thrower, won second honors in the state meet held in Knoxville, and at the Conference meet in Johnson City they doubled the score on their nearest opposition.

The biggest loss to this year's track team is the absence of Joe Etheredge. Ex-captain Joe constantly cracked the clock in the century dash at 10 seconds.His high jump mark at 6 feet, 2 inches,. established in the Chattanooga meet last April, is the all-time college record. Etheredge also was good for 20 to 21 feet in the broad jump.

Also lost to the squad from last year's lettermen are Baby Baird, mile; Cecil Tipton, javelin; aHrlan Husk, high and low hurdles, pole vault, and middle dashes; and Cliff Proctor, middle distances.

Old lettermen include Bill Baird, captain, Steakley, Lloyd, Davies, Kent, Green, McCurry, Graham, and Nicely. Other old and new men reporting are Kell, Gaughan, Bryan, Simpson, Upshaw, Lockwood, Hedges, Laugmiller, Martz, Rudy, Fesperman, Justus, Williams, Roberts, Boyd, Conrad, Brown, Meineke, Collins, Ellis, and Barr.

The tentative schedule will include dual meets against Davidson, Tennessee, Sewanee, Tennessee Tech, and Chattanooga. The State track and field meet will be held this may at Sewanee, the College of the South.

"There," said the plumber. "in spite of all the silly jokes about us, we've not forgotten a single tool. My mate's here with me, and we've not got to go back for anything—".

"You've come to the wrong address," said the maid.

Clem Hahn Is To Attend National Wrestling Matches In New York

On March 28-29 there will be held in Madsion Square Garden in New York, the National A.A.U. wrestling championships. We at Maryville are not usually interested greatly in such an event in the sports world, but this year there will be a special significance attached to the event because Maryville will be represented by Clem Hahn in the 158 lb. class.

Four years ago there reported to Coach Bob Thrower an inexperienced boy who wanted to go out for wrestling. He had never wrestled before, but was willing to give it a try. That was Clem in his freshman year. He has been on the varsity ever since then and has wrestled everything from heavyweight down to the 158 lb. classes.

During these four years of wrestling on the college team, Clem has never been pinned. He has been beaten on points several times but his shoulders have never been pinned to the mat. This in itself is a remarkable record. However, in the matches he will run up against in the nationals he will have to use all the cunning tricks of his trade that he has learned in his four years at Maryville.

He will leave with Crawford from Appalachian and two wrestlers from Vanderbilt. They will be back about the end of the month as the meet lasts for two days. Clem has sent in the necessary two dollars and the registration blank and now all he has to do is practice and stay in shape for the big event.

In the weight in which he is entered there are three prizes awarded by the national AAU. Clem now weights 160 pounds and must take off two more to be able to get down to the class in which he will wrestle.

Last year Clem wrestled heavyweight several times and turned in commendable wins. He should be able to do well in his attempt to bring Maryville up into the big time in wrestling.

All Maryville is glad to see Clem get a chance to show himself and the school off in this meet and we should and must wish him all possible luck in his matches. If he shows the same type work in New York as he has shown on the mats down here, it is almost certain that he will do himself proud. The other guy will know he's been in a fight, no matter what the outcome.

Outlook Not Too Bright As Scots End First Full Week of Practice

Coach Honaker issued his first call for all varsity baseball players to report to the gym for practice at the beginning of the week. The call brought out many freshmen hopefuls and some old men. However, those out for basketball and other sports will not report until next week.

Coach has many holes to fill this year with the loss of Nig Wilburn's pitching, fielding, and hitting; Chuck Kindred's fielding, Jabo Pierces' steady defense at second, and Hubert Headrick's powerful bat. However, Coach has Mac back for the outfield, Cragan at first, Shelfer behind the bat, Scot and J. D. taking care of the hot corner and shortstop, and Short and Rock on the mound. The open spots seem to be at second and the outer gardens.

The first week of practice was spent mainly in getting the team into fairly good condition and learning some of the more fundamental parts of baseball. With the weather as rainy as it has been it appears as if the team will have to continue its stay on the boards.

Several good prospects have been uncovered. Baby Baird returning to the diamond after a year's absence for the track is in fine shape after a vigorous basketball campaign, Tom Saffel looks good, as does Bob Miller and Thompson. If these pitchers live up to expectation and Short and Rock do as well as last year, there is hopes of a good season.

Coach Honaker wishes to inform all new men and all old men to report as soon as possible and work some of the rough spots off while the weather is so bad and then the team should be in good shape when it takes the field. The boys have been put through a strenuous conditioning campaign in the past few days of practice and the old men will have a hard time catching up as far as condition goes.

Tusculum Defeats Scottie Swimmers On Road Friday

Tusculum's tankmen avenged themselves of an earlier defeat at the hands of Coach Fischbach's swimmers by taking a 38-37 victory at Greeneville last Friday evening. This one point loss was a heart-breaker for the rapidly improving Maryville squad.

Wells was a standout for the losers, taking first in the 200 yard event and second in the 400 yard. Also outstanding for the Scots was Frank Cross, who accounted for 10 points with first in diving and the 150 yard backstroke event. The only other Maryville first was taken by the 400 yard relay team—Miller, Wells, Cross, and Lowry—which swam the distance in 4:36.

Maryville met Emory yesterday afternoon in Atlanta, Georgia, in the last meet of the 1941 season. In the water for the last time was Bob Wilcox, senior swimmer, who has represented Maryville capably for several seasons.

Complete results of the Tusculum meet:

300 yd. medley: Tusculum

200 yd. swim: Wells (M), Semlear (T), Duryear (T).

50 yd. dash: Morgan (T), Lowry (M), Gallant (T).

Diving: Cross (M), Weiss (T), Pool.

150 yd. backstroke: Cross (M), Wilcox (M), Poggi (T).

200 yd. breastroke: Curtis (T), Thomann (T), D. Moore (M).

400 yd. relay: Maryville.

Only Four Letter-Men Report Back For Tennis Team

With only four veterans back from last year's unbeaten team, Coach Fischbach is anxiously getting the fourteen fellows who have reported so far into shape. Van Cise, Pratt, and Ted Kidder are the only lettermen who have returned. Consequently Maryville's future lies mostly in the hands of Ken Cooper, who saw action last year and several freshmen who have just reported.

Last year Maryville went through the regularly scheduled season undefeated and came in third in the state tournament. However, Morrow, number one man of last year's team, Akana and Stephenson, the other Maryville stars must be replaced by the new crop of players. The answer to a great deal of Maryville's trouble will be solved if Van Cise can replace Morrow in the singles and form a doubles combination equal to last year's. Last year Van Cise and Morrow were state doubles champs. The team won the Smoky Mountain Conference crown last year.

However, this year no special efforts are being made to play conference teams and there is hope that we can have matches with several schools in South Carolina. So far, games have been scheduled with Chattanooga, East Tennessee Teachers, Carson-Newman, Tusculum, Centre, Murray State Teachers of Kentucky, Tennessee, and LMU.

INTRAMURALS

Maryville's up and coming intramural department sponsored its first anual Intramural Festival last Saturday evening, with events taking place in the Alumni gym, Bartlett, and the swimming pool. Because of the very favorable response of the student body, this event promises to become a yearly affair.

Feature attraction of the evening in the big gym was the basketball clash between the Athenians and the Foul Balls for the intramural title. In an overtime period, the Foul Balls managed to eke out a 24-22 victory. Outstanding player for the victors was George Howard, who sank several good shots with the pressure on in the closing moments of the contest.

Short and Short took the horseshoe tournament by defeating Baird and Baird in the finals. Another attraction in the big gym was the second round of the foul pitching contest, which took place during the halftime recess of the basketball game. To date, the champion of this affair has not been determined.

In Bartlett gym, the society all-star volleyball team trounced the independent all-stars. Handball exhibitions in the wrestling room, swimming exhibitions, and ping-pong exhibitions completed the evening's program, which was planned to demonstrate the various phases of the intramural athletic program, which has developed so rapidly in its first year.

The next event to be sponsored by Coach Fischbach's department is the wrestling tournament. Art Peterson and Percy Martin, who have been assisting in taking entries, report that a great deal of interest has been shown in the event, and predict that much exciting action is due to take place when competition gets under way next week.

Most of the matches were played off this week in the ping-pong tournament, with only Oliver Van Cise and Ted Pratt remaining in the running. The doubles team of Faulkner and Van Cise captured that phase of the contest, defeating every opponent and showing some of the smoothest team cooperation yet seen.

Another intramural event to be staged soon is the swimming meet, which will take place as soon as wrestling is well under way.

Everett Breaks Records as Scots Defeat Teachers

The wrestling schedule of Maryville's Tennessee State champs was successfully concluded last Saturday afternoon as the Davismen chalked up a 21-13 victory over Western Carolina Teachers.

This final meet of the 1941 season, one which saw the Scotties unbeaten in collegiate competition and undisputed state champion for the second consecutive year, marks the last appearance for such able and unbeaten veteran seniors as Captain Woodie Everett, Clemmie Hahn, Hal Henschen, and Phil Evaul. Julius Nicely, senior, who against U-T in his first varsity chance provided the fans with one of the slickest pin-jobs seen all season, also will be lost through graduation.

Maryville's 21 points against Teachers came on three falls and two decisions. Phil Evaul, in the extreme lightweight division, pinned Harrell in two minutes flat. Horace Justus added 3 points for the Highlanders when he out-pointed Galloway for a clean-cut verdict. Warren Culver pinned Norris of WCT in 7.25 minutes, and Cemmie Hahn scored eight points to Goldschlag's two for a decision in the 165 lb. class.

In the 175 lb. division Captain Wood Everett, weighing in at 162 pounds, broke a week-old record by pinning Johnson in a mere 40 seconds. Everett's new college record betters by 33 seconds the mark set by Hal Henschen less than a week before. With these brilliant honors Captain Everett winds up his career as a Highlander; unbeaten in four years of varsity competition, the college record at 40 seconds for a fall, and captaincy of the 1941 state champs.

Lettermen are Everett, Hahn, Evaul, Henschen, McDaniel, Justus, Ross, and Manager Martin. Since this is his final year, the Athletic Board of Control very likely will recommend Julius Nicely with five points as a letter winner.

Kipnis Here . . .

idly when he spied a messenger from his hotel waving a telegram at him. The dispatch asked if he could hurry to Oslo to replace Ivar Andresen who had fallen sick. To help out the opera company, Kipnis made the long trip.

It was while standing in the wings at the dress rehearsal, waiting for his entrance in the second act of "Tristan and Isolde", that Kipnis first heard Flagstad's glorious voice, then singing the rapturous love duet. From others he learned that she was a local singer who had enjoyed a moderate success in Scandinavia.

At intermission Kipnis introduced himself and tried to talk with Flagstad. He tried French, German, Italian and Russian but they could not speak a common language. Through an interpreter Kipnis inquired if she had ever sung beyond Scandinavia, to which Flagstad replied she had not, adding that she would like to do so. Years later, when reminiscing on this first meeting, both artists were dumbfounded to learn that they had both known English and could have spoken enjoyably with each other from the outset.

On Kipnis' suggestion, she was offered several of the smaller roles in the famous Wagnerian Festivals at Bayreuth, Germany, which she accepted; and as a result she was engaged by the Metropolitan Opera Company. Although this engagement was to have lasted for only two performances, her overnight success after her debut there as Sieglinde in "Die Walkurie" brought her more performances than any guest star that season, and made the Wagnerian department the strongest in the repertoire.

Since that time, these two great artists have sung together often. In the summer of 1938 they were both touring in Australia, and so were able to have many pleasant meetings. During the past season with the Metropolitan in New York, Boston, Cleveland; and with the San Francisco Opera these two immortal singers have been responsible for some of the finest performances in the generation.

In January, 1940, Kipnis had a reunion in Winnipeg with Nathan Kushner. When he was just a youngster trying to eke out a meagre living with his resonant but untrained voice, Kipnis for awhile belonged to a strolling opera company in Czarist Russia. When the company went broke, Kipnis settled in Rowno where his voice attracted attention, and Nathan Kushner offered to train it and teach him to read musical notes. From here Kipnis worked his way into the Imperial Conservatory and from there went on to further successes; but in so doing he lost track of Kushner and was never able to repay him for his early help.

Twelve years ago Mr. Kushner went from Winnipeg to Chicago to see if the famous Alexander Kipnis could possibly be the "Nachem" Kipnis he had taught years before in Russia. Unfortunately, they missed one another. But when Kipnis gave a recital in Winnipeg the elderly mentor was on hand, listening intently in the gallery, searching for the fine, artistic, qualities he remembered in the sixteen-year-old lad. As the intermission approached he had nearly given up hope, when suddenly Kipnis sang Mephisto's Serenade from "Faust" as an encore. "Then I found him," he said delightedly. "There was a trick I taught him, and a mannerism he retained from his younger days that made me positive this was the same singer."

Backstage, Kipnis did not recognize his friend until the teacher greeted him by his old name, Nachem; and then the basso recalled it all—Rowno, the first singing lessons, the early friendship.

"I have wondered for years now whatever happened to Kipnis, so it is gratifying at last to find him, and to have him turn out to be such a fine artist and such a fine man. This is the best compensation a teacher ever gets."

The program that Kipnis will present will be one that merits such words as these and his numbers will be as follows:

Selve Amiche	Caldara
Caro Mio Ben	Giordani
Wie Bist Du Meine Konigen	Brahms
Sonntag	Brahms
Feldeinsamkeit	Brahms
Mein Madel Hat Einen	Rosenmund
	Brahms
Vergebliches Standchen	Brahms

The Cloth of Heaven	T. F. Dunhill
The Clothes and Fine Clothes	Shaw
Do Not Go My Love	R. Hageman
"Madamina" from "Don Giovanni"	Mozart

Tickets for this concert have been on sale at various times during the week, but there are still a number of seats left for those who may wish to hear Mr. Kipnis in the last of this year's Artist Series programs.

ing some group of students or citizens. Fifteen minutes were allowed the entrant to prepare a solution in a speech of not more than five minutes. Henry Wick entered the men's division in problem solving.

Last week the group from the Maryville squad walked away with the State Speech tournament held in Cookeville from February 27 to March 1. The women's varsity team won the championship in their division; the team was composed of Lucille Lynch and Phyllis Anne Cain. Both the freshmen divisions of men and women with Hal Lloyd and Ben Lynt on the latter and Kay Liddell and Ruth Aiken on the former, came out first in their finals. Along with this Lucille Lynch ranked first in the individual rankings of women varsity debaters with a score of 93, the highest possible being 95. Kay Liddell ranked first among freshmen women and Ruth Aiken second, while Hal Lloyd was second in the men's division with a score of 91.

In the other speech events Maryville took top honors in women's extemp and impromptu with Lucille Lynch achieving first place in both of these events. George D. Webster got second place in men's extemp, while Jack Zerwas was second in both his Peace Oration on "Man-Made Lights" on which he won $30 and also on his regular oration on "The Rise and Fall of the Italian Empire." Phyllis Anne Cain received second place in women's after-dinner. All in all Maryville compiled a total of 32 points out of a possible 82. The runner-up team was Memphis State Teachers college who had a total of 12 points.

On next Wednesday March 12, the debate squad will have charge of the 30 minute radio program lasting from 7:00 to 7:30 which Maryville now has. Professor Verton M. Queener announced this week that three debaters will take part. Phyllis Anne Cain will open with a discussion on the affirmative side of this year's national Pi Kappa Delta question: Resolved, that the Nations of the Western Hemisphere should form a permanent Union. George Webster will continue with a proposal of an Anglo-American union which is one of the alternative plans sometimes advanced on the negative side of the question. J. Edward Thomas will close with a discussion upholding the status quo relationship of the Western Hemisphere.

On the evening of March 27, girls from Virginia Intermont will be on the Maryville college campus. The program has not as yet been completely planned. However, there will be either a debate or debates or a panel discussion. Virginia Intermont debaters are considered among the best of top-rate debaters in the whole of the United States.

Alpha Sigma will hold its regular meeting tonight at 6:45 in Alpha Sigma hall. The newly-elected officers will be installed following which a musical and dramatic program will be presented. John Guinter will play a group of violin solos accompanied by his sister Ruth Guinter at the piano, and Melvin Gaughan will offer two tenor selections. The dramatic feature of the program will be a melodrama presented, directed, and acted by Charles Burgreen assisted by Thomas Gardner.

Dr. Ralph Frost To Speak at Y.M. Meeting

YM men will have as their speaker Sunday at 1:30 in Bartlett auditorium Dr. Ralph Frost, head of the religious department of the University of Tennessee. Dr. Frost will speak on "Requirements of a Christian". As part of the program, several cellists, also from the university, will play a few numbers.

"Abe Lincoln In Illinois" Is Great Success

Brink Turns In Splendid Portrayal of Simple, Homely Lincoln

CAST CONSISTS OF 32

June Morley as Mary Todd Gives An Excellent Interpretation

Robert E. Sherwood's play, "Abe Lincoln in Illinois," was presented last Thursday evening by the Athenian and Bainonian societies, to an almost full house. This midwinter play, the first to be given this year, was a very interesting and well-planned production with Frank Brink, veteran of many former successes on the Maryville stage, portraying the immortal figure of Abraham Lincoln.

The curtain opened showing Robert Short as Mentor Graham trying to teach Lincoln some of the more advanced subjects that he had never had a chance to learn. Brink, as Lincoln, thought not as tall and gangling as Lincoln was, made up for this absence of height by his conversation and apparent physical awkwardness, and was magnificent in his role. Dressed as a poor backwoodsman, he carried out his part, even to Lincoln's distinctive manner of talking, to the extent that he could not be mistaken for anything but what he was—a simple, homely, kindly man who wanted nothing more than to be left alone; but driven by his jockeys, he was forced into the most useful but to him obnoxious position that a man of his spirit could possibly be forced into.

In the Rutledge Tavern we see Ann Rutledge as portrayed by Frances John Hellums, anxiously awaiting word from her lover. When this word did come and it was not good news, we find Abe, as an understanding friend and shy lover, helping her as best he can. David Hall as Bowling Green, presented a most natural and lovable character when he entered the tavern with Ninian Edwards whose role was played by David McDaniel. Both these two friends not only looked their respective parts but acted them. This was one of many productions in which David Hall has played, but David McDaniel made his stage debut in this role, doing a very creditable job.

Benjamin Lynt as Josh Speed, close friend of Lincoln, was on the stage much of the time, and though he said little, his stage presence and poise was much in evidence. Clyde Brown portrayed the role of Seth Gale well; and

Dr. Edwin Hall Dies At Home in Maryville

On Monday, March 10, Dr. Edwin W. Hall, retired Presbyterian minister and former instructor at Maryville college, died. Last June the college conferred upon him the degree of Doctor of Divinity.

Dr. Hall was born in western Pennsylvania on April 4, 1864. As a young man he was licensed as an evangelist and in 1901, he was sent to East Tennessee as a Sunday School missionary. After four years of service in this work, he came to Maryville where he taught vocal and band music and also Bible. He directed the choir and arranged the music of the Alma Mater, changing it from a minor to a major key.

He remained at Maryville for nine years, leaving to return to the ministry. He continued this work until his retirement in 1936. He was famous in the community as one of the most useful and beloved ministers this territory has ever known.

Plans Evolved For Coming Holy Week

"Lead Me to Calvary" Is Theme for Series

At a committee meeting held Wednesday afternoon, plans for the coming Holy Week services were worked out under the leadership of John Thompson, president of Student Vols. It was suggested that the theme for this year's series of meetings, to be held each day of the Holy Week during the noon hour, be one with the emphasis on personal evangelism. "Lead Me To Calvary" was therefore the subject adopted.

The services will be held in the YW rooms at 12:35 for all members of the student body and those of the faculty who wish to attend. The program for each day's service will have a theme of its own which will tie-up with the central theme for the whole week which follows Palm Sunday. Special devotional music has been selected, and a tentative list of leaders and speakers has been drawn up.

It is expected that this year's series of daily meditations will be as well attended as those of the past have been. For this reason extra-seating plans have been worked out so that those who come late may be cared for.

In connection with these daily services, dormitory pre-prayer groups for each morning have been organized by Robert Watt, president of the Ministerials.

Barnes, Sophomore, And Short, Senior Take Scholastic Honors With 8.6's

Trotter, Thomas, Wick, Rawlings, Patterson, Williams, Brown, Duke Rank High

To Jean Barnes, sophomore, and Robert Short, senior, go top scholastic honors for the first semester, 1940-41. Each holding an 8.6 average, these two students lead the honor roll for this year. Representing the freshman class, Jane Trotter ranks next with an average of 8.4. J. Edward Thomas, senior, holds next highest place with 8.2.

Highest in the junior class are Henry Wick, 7.8, and Frank Cross, 7.7. Next in the sophomore class are Helen Rawlings with 7.8 and Jean Patterson and Evelyn Williams, both with 7.4. Sidney Duke rates second in the freshman class with a 7.8 average followed by June Browne with 7.3.

Thirty-six seniors are on the honor roll this year, three less than last year. Twenty-seven juniors are honor roll students as compared with the 33 of last year. Of the sophomores 28, two less than last year's record, and 28 freshmen, seven less than last year's list of 35, made the honor roll for this semester.

The complete list includes:

SENIORS—

Lois Alexander—honors work
Marianna Allen—6.8

Fine Arts Department Will Present Recital

Students of the Fine Arts department presented a music recital in Voorhees chapel, Friday afternoon at 4:15. Ten young ladies and one young gentleman of the department participated. Pieces were rendered on the Steinway piano, the new Wicks organ, from melodious voices and on the various violins. Following are the participants and the selections given:

Eloise McNeeley—"Habanera"—Ravel
Ruth Wynn—"Segriedia"—Albaniz
Dortha Jean White—"Perpetual Motion"—Vaber
Florence Barber—"Prelude G Minor"—Rachmaninoff
Janice Graybeal—Sonata by Beethoven, opus 31 No. 2 Allegretto
Louise Marshall—"Ave Maria"—Bach
Helen Rawlings—"Sonata in E Major", adagio and allegro—Handel
Estelle Farrow—"The Son of the Putsza"—Keler-Bela
Katherine Crews—"Concerto in G Major", adagio—Mozart
Sarah Swain—"Starry Night"—Hopkins.

College Equipped To Show Movies

McClelland and Smith To Show Pictures of M-C To High Schools

The college is newly equipped to show movies taken indoors. Under the supervision of Dr. Frank D. McClelland many scenes of campus life have already been taken. These films will be shown on the visits to be made by Dr. McClelland, Mr. James R. Smith, and others to the various high schools in this area.

In attractive technicolor the films include many shots taken in Pearsons dormitory, and one section from Dr. Hunter's classroom during one of his classes. Striking scenes have been taken of a wrestling match and a swimming meet—Phil Evaul in the former and Frank Cross dives in the latter.

Before the series is completed the movies will include pictures taken in the Home Ec department, the College Maid Shop, and the offices in Anderson. The chemistry lab and the library have already been shown in the movies made so far. In determining the College which they wish to attend, various high school students will be helped more by seeing actual places and happenings, and so Maryville has inaugurated this plan of showing films.

Athenians To Hear Of Spring Sport Prospects

Athenian will meet in Athenian hall to hear the results of the Athenian-Bainonian play, "Abe Lincoln in Illinois". All members are urged to be present.

After the business portion of the meeting, Coaches Lombe S. Honaker and J. D. Davis will speak on the prospects of baseball and track.

Wick And Orr Are YMCA Candidates

A committee appointed by Phil Evaul, YMCA president, this week made public its nominations for next year's YM offices. Election for these offices will be held some evening in the near future; voting will be open to all active members.

Hilton Wick and Charles Orr are the nominees for the presidency of the Y. Hilton Wick, varsity debater and business manager of the Chilhowean, comes from Scottdale, Pa. He is a former Echo staff reporter, a consistent honor roll student, and a political science major. President of the International Relations club, Hilton is one of the outstanding students on the Hill. Charlie Orr, biology major from Nashville, Tenn., is the president of the Nature club and a contributor to the Writer's Workshop. President of last year's sophomore class, Charlie is a member of the college acapella choir, a former member of the Echo and Chilhowean staffs, and also an honor roll student.

The other nominations are Allan Moore and Charles Foreman for the vice-presidency, Stanley Menning and Percy Martin for secretary, and Dave Kidder and Arthur Bushing for treasurer.

Nominations for the freshman representative on the Advisory Board have also been made by the committee. Those nominated to fill this position are Paul Jamarik, freshman debater and member of the Law club, and Hal Lloyd, also a freshman debater.

Many Visitors Fill Art Galleries To See Chaucer Celebration

Many interested students and faculty members and several townspeople filled the Elizabeth Gowdy Baker art galleries on Monday of this week to participate in Maryville's Chaucer celebration. An afternoon and an evening program were presented.

The afternoon program included discussions of the culture and customs in the 14th century, Chaucer's day. Slides illustrating medieval costumes accompanied a talk on 14th century dress given by Edna Manrose. Records of music popular in Chaucer's time were played to portray the musical background as explained by Samuel Cornelius. The group of pictures titled "The Canterbury Tales and Chaucer's England" provided background for the remaining two talks—Mary Orr's discussion of Canterbury Cathedral and Dr. Edwin R. Hunter's "A Critical Text of the Canterbury Tales."

The evening program, also well attended, consisted of papers read by Aline Campbell and Eldon Seamons, students; Dr. Hill Shine, English professor; and Dr. Roscoe E. Parker, guest speaker from the University of Tennessee. Tea was served to the visitors after this program.

Before and after the day's programs, the visitors inspected the pictures of Chaucer's England on exhibit in the gallery.

Debaters Will Go To Montevallo For Tournament

Lindsay, Lynch, Stringham, Zerwas, Wick, Lloyd Make Trip

Montevallo, Alabama, will be the scene of the next stand of the local debate squad. Pi Kappa Delta schools throughout the Province of the Southeast will be the entrants at the Provincial tournament to be held there April 2-5. Upholding both sides of the query concerning a Western Hemisphere union, for the men will be Jack Zerwas and Henry Wick; Maryville representatives in the women's division of debate will be Janet Lindsay and Lucille Lynch. Vernon Lloyd and Jeanne Stringham are to enter the tourney as extra speakers for the impromptu, oratorical, and extemp contests.

The last tourney on the docket of the local debaters will be the Grand Eastern tournament, sponsored by Winthrop college at Rock Hill, S.C., from April 9 to 12. This year Grand Eastern will see such entrants as Cornell, Princeton, Duke, Emory, Wake Forest, University of Florida, New York University, and Maryville. The schedule provides for ten rounds of debate and the various public speaking contests such as extemp, impromptu, oratory, and after-dinner. Also a distinctive feature of this tourney is its various new forms of speaking such as response to the occasion, situation oratory, parliamentary practice, problem solving, and news broadcasting.

Edward Thomas and George Webster will be the local entrants in the men's division and will debate both sides of the question; Natalie Yelton and Phyllis Anne Cain will be the women debaters. And Bill Felknor will fill the position as extra speaker, in which capacity he will enter the extemp and oratory contests. The extemp subject is World Affairs, and some 150 topics have been prepared on this general subject. Each entrant will draw for one of these topics about one hour before the contest. Subjects for impromptu will be drawn from distinct fields. There will be five rounds of oratory, the winners of each round meeting in the finals.

Local debaters returned from the South Atlantic tournament held at Hickory, N.C., March 6-8, with flying colors. In the field of debating Maryville won third place, Tennessee State and Wake Forest winning first and second. The men debaters at this tourney were Trevor Rees-Jones and Henry Wick; the women, Natalie Yelton and Janet Lindsay.

Beth Pascoe, extra speaker, won one first place and two thirds. The first was won in the after dinner finals

YWCA Officers Are Elected For Year Of 1941-42

Gammon, Hope, Patterson, Pratt, Williams Are New Leaders

GAMMON TO HEAD YW

YWCA officers for the school year, 1941-42, were elected Friday, March 14.

Succeeding Mary Orr as president of YW is Anne Gammon, a junior majoring in sociology, who comes from Missouri. Anne has made an enviable record her first three years here at Maryville, having been an active member of YW. Student Volunteers, and Bainonian each year. During her sophomore year, she was a Nu Gamma leader, secretary of Bainonian, and secretary of her class. She was also on the Echo staff her freshman and sophomore years. This year Anne was Nu Gamma chairman.

Roberta Hope, a junior this year who transferred to Maryville from Columbia Bible college her sophomore year, is the new vice-president succeeding Mary Darden. Roberta, born in Cameroun, West Africa, has been a cabinet member of both YW and Student Vols, treasurer of Bainonian, and a member of the pre-med club. Her major is biology.

Taking over Lily Pinneo's duties as secretary is Jean Patterson, a sophomore English major from Pennsylvania. She is a member of Bainonian, Student Vols, and has been on the Echo staff for two years. Jean, too, was a Nu Gamma leader this past fall.

Helen Pratt, a junior from Westerville, Ohio, succeeds Doris Smith as treasurer. Another Bainonian and member of Student Vols she also has been a Nu Gamma leader. Her major is religious education.

Anne Gammon relinquished her duties as Nu Gamma chairman to Virginia Margaret Williams, known on the campus as "Willie". Willie comes from West Virginia, is a Bainonian, program secretary for pre-med club, and secretary of "M" club. Her new duties will not be strange to her, for she too was a Nu Gamma leader this year, Willie's major is biology.

The new cabinet is not yet complete, but will be announced in the near future.

STUDENT VOLS HEAR MOORE

At the meeting of Student Vols tomorrow night Allan Moore will speak on the "Life of C. T. Studd", who was a missionary in China and Africa.

Practice On "Pure As The Driven Snow" Has Many Complications

Three o'clock. Play practice again. Everyone is supposed to be there promptly, so at 3:15 Jonathan Logan ambles in. Since practice can't begin with one person, Jonathan ambles out again. Soon the heroine, Purity Dean, bursts in the door. With her come Mrs. Logan, the hero, Leander Longfellow, the villain, Mortimer Frothingham, and various other personages. Everyone is here. Practice begins. "Jonathan on stage! Where is Jonathan?" Everyone shrieks. "Jonthan!" He springs in the door with his mouth full of some product of the "far too near for comfort" Y store. After a little lecture about not going on the stage with chewing gum in the oral cavity, the rehearsal goes on smoothly for about five minutes. Then, with a little prayer for peace, I gaze heavenward. Wrestling practice has begun again. I look hopefully at the plaster on the ceiling. It doesn't look any too substantial, so I stop looking at it and prepare myself for sudden burial. Because of the bedlam, the members of the cast begin to orate at the top of their voices. There is an unusual lull in the actvities above. Unaware of the silence, Purity screams at the top of her lungs, "YOU MUSN'T BE SO BOLD AS TO ASK TO HOLD MY HAND, LEANDER." Leander replies, "BUT PURITY—". Since his own voice blasts so embarrassingly against his ears, he continues meekly, "I love you."

Just as the villain Mortimer opens his mouth to deliver a scathing curse upon trembling Purity, bedlam begins again. This time, however, it is not from above, but from behind. Basketball must be a fascinating game. The groans, screams, sighs, thumps, and general crashing that it promotes seem to indicate that. Once more the already hoarse cast croaks away at its lines. When the commotion from the basketball practice dies down, the crackle of cellophane and rattle of Coca-Cola bottles is all too audible in the back of the auditorium. Once more there is a little lecture about eating during rehearsals. Then—peace reigns—for about three minutes.

Somebody in Bartlett has a radio that seems to induce the men living in the aforementioned building to sing at the top of their cracking masculine voices. The Bartlett dwellers are individuals. They have never yet agreed on a tune. Each goes his own merry way, much to the discomfort of everyone that isn't singing.

On stage the hero, Leander, towers menacingly over Mortimer Frothingham. Leander has the upper hand at last. After the magnificent delivery of his final speech, he turns and stalks out through the place where the wall is supposed to be. Realizing his mistake, he comes valiantly back to try again. This time instead of hitting the door, he crashes through the fireplace—but our hero comes out unharmed.

Between late starts, the Y store, wrestling, basketball, radios, would-be operatic tenors, and stray dogs, play practice is enough to turn even the best of us to the hair-raising sport of solitaire.

Go To Personnel Office For More Information About Your Career

So what if your Pop is a lawyer and is determined that you shall carry on his name? Or your Aunt Jennie thinks you'd be a perfect school teacher? That's no reason you should go around in a rut, 'cause the world is full of different things to do. Take, for instance, exploring.

You gasp, and say that you can't be an explorer because—and then you're stuck. You haven't any reason. You just haven't thought of it. There are a good many kinds of exploring; polar regions, stratosphere, bathysphere, industrial (looking for oil and things), animal expeditions (for zoos), or archaeological expeditions. There is private exploring and government exploring; so there is, after all, quite a field to look into. Qualifications? In the first place personality is an essential, and physical health a necessity. You should have at least two years of as many foreign languages as possible; you should be able to shoot a gun, and hit what you shoot at; your Boy Scout knowledge is going to come in awfully handy.

You're not interested in exploring? Well, if you're artistically inclined, how about clay working? Most of us haven't piddled around with clay since we were in kindergarten. But it is, nevertheless, a great industry. It's divided into four groups: (1) Business management; (2) ceramic engineering; (3) ceramic art; (4) the craft of the potter. The first of these groups included training for factory laboratories, testing, and teaching, and possible research, although that is not it's most artistic phase. But the making and pointing of clay products is still a very profitable business, and one of the oldest in the world.

But there are those who aren't artistic either. How about being a horse doctor? Did you realize that there is awarded in many universities today, a doctor's degree in this field? The general horse doctor, it is estimated, averages about $4,274 yearly. His practice isn't usually limited to horses, however, but extends to most of the common animals and pets. The veterinarian's schedule is similar to that of a rural physician, for you can't tell when a dog is going to catch cold. But in spite of these disadvantages, the veterinarian's position carries with it all the feeling that any doctor has when he saves a person.

Did you ever consider being a florist? An artistic trade; one which fills a place that nothing else could? Are you ever inclined to be diplomatic? We have a diplomatic service in the United States whose representatives, many of them, receive over $8,000 annually. It's hard work, with hard training, but the men in it are doing it because they like to; and that's what counts, after all.

Maybe none of these things appeal to you, and after all, you want to spend your life doing something you enjoy. Try the Personnel office for suggestions; they have 106 more.

Scots and Soda

In the way of introduction, we might mention that even if you haven't noticed the birds and bees and white shoes and daffodils and sunshine and showers, spring is here. Officially, now; and will be, for some time. So you might as well resign yourself to the fact that you've taken all your cuts, and get down to some concentrated study. Remember, comprehensives are only five weeks off—or a year and five weeks, or two years and five weeks, or three years and five weeks or—pardon me for being pessimistic—four years and five weeks off.

As far as this colum's concerned, it's going to just cease looking for the "best thing in life", because we've just found it. All prejudices aside, we mean "Abe Lincoln in Illinois". Among the various aspects which caught our fancy both at dress rehearsal and actual performance were, among the many . . Frank Brink's portrayal of the title role . . the ultra-unique programs . . the delighted sparkle in Mrs. West's eye . . Frank Brink's dramatic technique . . the grand, appreciative audience . . June Morley's characterization . . Frank Brink's make-up jobs . . the stage crew's quick changes . . . the costumes . . . the excellent casting . . the little boy's unorthodox, but highly effective, under-the-curtain exit . . . the toasted cheese sandwiches and coffee afterwards . . . Art Bushing's cigar . . . the combined talent of the entire cast . . . June Morley searching frantically for her own misplaced black skirt . . . Frank Brink. We repeat, just a few of the many delights.

Several Maryville college boarders have entertained guests during the past week. First of all came the rather unexpected visit from Mimi White's and Georgy Meadows' families, all the way from Pennsylvania. Surprises like that are always fun. And then there were the Wilson twins who arrived Tuesday and reported the college to have somewhat changed in appearance since they graced the campus as students. And we looked up in chapel and there was Helen McKay, who belonged to the class of '42, looking as attractive and chipper as ever. Helen, incidentally, is visiting Bunny Tontz and Phyllis Johns; the twins are here to see, among others, Marie Sheeley and Adrian Herron.

And we guess this is as good a place as any to express our awe and admiration for the three strangers from the North Countree, giving special attention to the one behind the foliage. We didn't see anything like them on our Christmas visit there, but then we never did get around enough. All from the University of Chicago, they're paying a social call on Helen Cones, who, it appears, plans to get herself related to one of them through the medium of her sister. Let's see—one from three leaves—? Do you follow me?

A few days ago we were quite casually confronted by an acquaintance who said say you don't have on anything green today. I said no I don't. Why? Should I? And after a moment of impassive reflection she said no I guess you don't need anything, at that. (Emphasis on you). It was St. Patrick's Day, we found out, later.

Such will power as I didn't know existed was brought to our attention not long ago by our room-mate, who asked for a bottle of fingernail polish. And she won't see a soul for days except the nurse. Well, we hope it goes well with the geraniums.

Here's the chance lots of you have been waiting for—"Gone With the Wind", and nothing reduced except the price. We'd planned to view it once again, but something changed our minds. To be more specific, when we dragged our weary selves toward the door after sitting through "The Philadelphia Story" almost thrice, the manager confronted us with that You-owe-me-for-back-rent look in his eye. So we're not taking chances. Anyway, we got our money's worth. That movie, by the way, rated almost as high with us as did "Abe Lincoln in Illinois". Just almost.

The amateur show scheduled for this evening ought to prove something along the lines of hidden talent. The student body might yield another Jack Benny, Fred Astaire, or Gypsy Rose Lee. And again, it might not.

Speaking of wholesale entertainment, you should have come along to the Chilhowean staff party at Dr. Griffitts. The lovely decorations and glorious refreshments all done up in green should have warned us about the approach of St. Patrick's Day. But anyway, you would, we are sure, have enjoyed seeing such campus dignitaries as Hilton Wick, Doris Smith, Dud Moore, Don Kent, the available class sponsors, and Charlie Orr combing the host's living and dining rooms in search of such hidden objects as a peanut, a thumb tack, a postage stamp or a straight pin; with Dr. F. A. BA MS PhD Griffitts himself stationed in the midst of it all, chortling loudly over the fact that "they were all hidden in plain sight and you cold stand in the middle of the room and see them." The wild scramble to find things reminded us of home—9:59 a.m., Sunday morning.

ECHO ANALYSIS

According to a report of Collegiate Broadcast Service, the Columbia Broadcasting System has scheduled a new program, "Jobs for Defense." The program began March 15. Sidney Hillman and William S. Knudsen, directors-general of the Office of Production Management, were the first to appear on the program.

Because of the great defense rush, several million workers must be hired within the next ten months by employers in defense industries. Many of the new workers will be badly trained and many of them will not have proper information as to where to apply for work. "Jobs for Defense", a weekly program, will try to give answers to the problem that the defense situation raises.

And now, moving over to the lighter side of radio, I'll give you a quotation from Collegiate Broadcast Service. It's about some Mexican who seems to have rather extraordinary vocal chords. You can have it for what it's worth. "Juan Arvizu, a 'silken-voiced' Mexican singer, famous throughout Latin America, has just been signed to a CBS contract. He will sing for listeners in all parts of the Western Hemisphere by long and short wave.

"Arvizu's voice 'brings' back the far away echoes of that other music which lives everlasting in our hearts—the singing murmur of our mountain streams, the imperceptible whisper of the forest, the mischievous symphony of the birds, the ineffable moment of idylls, that moment when the lips remain sealed to the beating of the heart'."

Personally, I don't believe that stuff word for word. You can do as you like.

I heard a choice morsel of melody the other night. The thing is called "Bolero in Blue". And as far as I'm concerned, ASCAP can go toss itself in the sky-blue waters as long as there are composers outside the thing who can dream up stuff like the aforementioned tid-bit.

TOO MUCH PEACE PROPAGANDA

Recently, the Echo office has been cluttered up with all sorts of letters and pamphlets sent out by various organizations, who wish, so they state, to keep America out of war.

The American Youth Congress is planning an anti-war strike on April 23. It is hoped by the organization that all students on America's college campuses would take part in this strike. They hope that at least 1,000,000 students will collaborate at 11 a.m. on that day.

Now, I'm certainly opposed to war; I don't like the smell of powder smoke and I'd get dizzy in a bomber and seasick on a boat.

However, there are worse things than those. In Europe there has been unleashed a relentless power of destruction which threatens to crush many of the things most of us cherish. Most of the Continent has fallen. Britain is the only strong power left facing the Axis. Should the far-flung British Empire fall, gone would be the screen that has so far stood between the Western Hemisphere and the Axis threat.

The Roosevelt Administration wishes to avert actual war. Still it is determined that Britain shall not fall, no matter what we may have to do to prevent it. Brilliant diplomatic strategy must be used to attain both these ends.

I think it was Lincoln who once said something about the inadvisability of yelling instructions to a man walking a tight rope. So far, President Roosevelt has been treading the diplomatic tight rope with masterful skill and courage, and the great majority of the American people approve of his policy. In fact, Gallup reports that over seventy per cent of the people approve the president's manner of handling the difficult situation.

Unquestionably, any great student peace strike at the present time would be out of harmony with the policy formulated by the Administration and approved by the people. And, furthermore, such a strike would be an indication of hysteria. Hitler would like that only too well.

Maryville Fashions

By KITTIE BENNETT

Contrary to what may be called popular opinion, Maryville college is as fashion conscious as the more elite schools. Maryvillians not only follow the accepted fashion of the season but originate their own particular fads. Sweaters, skirts and saddle shoes are as much of a tradition at Maryville as on any other college campus. Snap-brims, tweeds, reversibles (knee length for men), and long socks rate us as a typical American college. While Byrn Mawr girls were wearing British tweeds, Maryville co-eds took to wearing ensembles of red. At the same time a tartan scarf of plaid, to match the skirt, was draped over the left shoulder of the female populus of Connecticut University.

There is no doubt about it, Maryville has style, but what style trends will be most popular this spring is yet to be seen. Will saddle-tan take the first place on the color chart or will the patriotic triad survive? What do you think of the rumor that loafers will take the place of saddle shoes and that the popular jerkin is the first step back to the hip waistline?

The cycle of fashion is about to take a drastic turn but with so many and such conflicting influences it is impossible to predict the direction. Spring calls for flowers and frills but when the men wear uniforms the women dress like soldier boys with broad shoulders and tailored hips. When we know whether fashion is to be ushered in to "Welcome Sweet Springtime" or to the beat of drums, then we will know whether to take to military tactics or to rely on our feminine charms.

However, it is predicted, quote "Mademoiselle", that not only will the waistline be lowered but skirts will be narrow and shoulders sloped. If said prediction is correct by summer puffed sleeves and swing skirts will be as antiquated as last semester's ethics notes.

No fashion review could be complete without some mention of the most discussed of women's wearing apparel, that little article sometimes spoken of as a hat. Most popular for late winter is the true-to-the-navy sailor, now worn perched precariously on the back of the head. The most unique creation for spring is a rosette of ribbon (feathers or most anything you have) to be "placed on the head at any angle you would ordinarily put a hat." The result will not tend to quiet the fervor created by the doll hats but it will be charmingly feminine.

Speaking of unique creations, several Maryville college girls suddenly appeared wearing green checked gingham. This is purely local fad which may or may not spread to other campuses.

which were held at the banquet and broadcast over the local radio station. Her light, humorous speech was on the subject "Monuments". The two third places were won in the impromptu and extemp contests. Other members of the local squad also came through with honors. Janet Lindsay won second place in the contest in problem solving; Natalie Yelton won third place in women's oratory with a dissertation on "Uprooted Americans". Trevor Rees-Jones won three thirds; impromptu, after-dinner, and stimulating group opinion.

All in all the tourney, attended by some twelve colleges, was a great success. And all the more so since the local group returned with a few more feathers in the squad cap.

Maryville college will act as host to a group of Virginia Intermont girls on the evening of March 27. The program, to be presented under the auspices of the I.R.C., will feature a panel discussion or a debate.

SPORT ECHOS

By BILL SWEENEY—Sports Editor

BASEBALL... The Honakermen have taken to the outside after several weeks of conditioning in the gym. However, it appears that what the team needs now is a coach. Coach Honaker has been cutting practice the past few days to attend the basketball tournament which is being held at the high school this week. However, before leaving, Coach dished out several of his usual laps to Saffell, McGaha, and Shelfer. It appears that Shelfer is starting the year as he ended it up as far as the laps are concerned. They say Sport knows every cinder in the big track and every blade of grass around the bases by heart. The second base spot still appears to be the big hole in this year's infield and this appears to be taken so far by Lloyd Taylor who saw some action there last year. The diamond is rapidly getting in good shape and it won't be long until the team will actually get some defense work done. Added and needed power at the bat was found this past week in Tom Saffell. Tom belted several long ones deep into the outer garden and has continued to do so all week. Mac got hold of a couple too, and placed them out in the far track.

TRACK... The thinly-clad runners of this year's track team have also taken to the outdoors and one may see them running around the football field, etc., all afternoon. Steakley looks good so far, as do Alfy Davies, Red Kent, Floyd Green, and Bill Baird. Some of the freshmen are showing up well for this early in the season, but it is rather early to predict much. We asked Alfy what he thought we should say about the track team and he replied, "Tell them we're working hard—glory, yes!"

TENNIS... If the reports that Van Cise's illness is not as bad as thought at first, there is a chance that the tennis team may be able to do better than expected when the news of Oliver's sickness first broke. The tennis courts in back of Memorial hall are in fine shape, and due to the hard work of Ken Cooper and Don Campbell they will be ready for the team to get on them in the very near future. They have resurfaced them, and in fact, the courts have undergone an extensive face-lifting by these two workers. The team has not been idle, however, and have been working out every afternoon in the little gym in Bartlett. The team itself has also been hard at work on the courts along with the two mentioned before and it is because of this that the courts are in such good shape so early in the season.

INTRAMURALS... The softball season is not far off and some of the teams may be seen in a little pre-season practice on the football field already. This proved one of the most popular sports of the whole intramural program last year and if the amount of enthusiasm shown already this year is any indication, it will be even more popular this year. The swimming meet is next in line as far as the actual competition is concerned and this will be held next Saturday night in the college pool. As was the rule in the wrestling matches just completed, the contestants must have four practice sessions before entering the meet. The two fastest pins of the wrestling matches took place in the first evening of competition when Fred Shelfer pinned Carl Miller in 45 seconds, and Allan Moore pinned John Wallace in 50 seconds.

Track Team Works Out On The Track This Past Week

New Men Showing Up Well In Current Workouts

With the coming of spring and warm weather, Coach Davis' track team has taken to the outer cinders for the first time. Up until this week the team has been HARD at work getting their legs in shape and their wind. They have gone through a strenuous conditioning campaign and are in good shape for this early in the season.

The first meet is not scheduled until the 26th of April, but there are many possibilties that there will be another meet slipped in before then. Bill Baird, Steakley, Kent, Davies, and Green have been running every day and are in excellent shape.

According to Coach Davis the team is going to be trained scientifically this year, but as yet he has not disclosed what he means by this. If he means a training table by those words—well, it isn't a bad idea at that.

Coach Davis lost a good distance runner to Coach Honaker when he lost Baby Baird this year. Another loss which will be hard to make up is the loss of big Joe Etheredge. Joe was almost a track team in himself and together with the loss of Baby, this makes a big hole to be filled this year. However, several of the new men have been doing well and we learn that Meineke, Humphries, and Hedges are a few of the new men who look good.

There are about thirty out for the squad this year and the next few weeks will be spent in getting into tip-top shape for the campaign. As this week was the first that the team has been outside, it is almost impossible to predict anything, either in the way of the appearance of men or the chances for this season, but Coach Davis doesn't appear too gloomy when approached on the subject of this team.

Swimming Meet To Be Held Saturday In Bartlett Pool

The intramural office and the swim manager, Art Bushing, gave out some definite dope yesterday afternoon about the swimming meet next Saturday night, March 29. Four teams have entered the competition, one team from each class in college. Don Lowry is the freshman manager, Ken Cooper the sophomore manager, Warren Culver the junior manager, and Vernon Lloyd the senior manager. The teams are fairly well lined up, but some of the managers are still looking for men. Anyone who has not entered and who wishes to do so should sign up with the manager of his class team.

As has been stated before in this connection, all teams are required to hold at least four practice sessions before the meet.

Manager Bushing released the following list of events in which races will be held:

200 yard relay
150 yard medley
50 yard free style
100 yard free style
200 yard free style
Diving: 3 required dives—front, back, and half twist. 3 optional dives.
100 yard back stroke
100 yard breast stroke

The softball tournament is shaping up nicely, with several teams already going through workouts on the football field. Not least among those to be watched in the competition is the faculty. All team entries must be in by April 1. Play will begin on April 4.

Fourteen Players Working Out For Tennis Positions

Fourteen tennis players have been working out indoors for about two weeks, and if the weather permits will take the courts next week. Because of the warm, clear weather, work on the courts has proceeded faster than expected, and they are nearly in shape for play. The combined effort of the tennis players has speeded up work considerably.

Slated for the number one slot is Oliver Van Cise, member of the state championship doubles team last year. Van has been ill for over a week with scarlet fever, but it is reported that his case is a light one and that he will be able to begin play just as soon as he is dismissed from the hospital next week. Despite his late start, great things are expected of Van Cise this season, for he is one of the steadiest players in this section.

Holding down the number two position will be Ted Pratt, a veteran whose good play has counted many points for the Scotties. Behind him will be two more experienced men, Ted and Dave Kidder. Another man who saw some service last season but who did not win a letter is Ken Cooper who is expected to show a great deal of improvement this year.

The last two or three positions on the squad are open. Several freshmen have been working out and are expected to bid for these posts. Most outstanding freshmen thus far have been Hal Lloyd, Jim Hedges, Leighton Burquist, and Bob Hunter. Art Rowan, a junior, and Bill Felknor and Hal Henschen, seniors, are the other contenders for the squad.

Coach Fischbach announces that the team will play three or four matches per week for the four weeks of play, beginning just as soon as the courts are in good enough condition.

Intramural Heads Hold Successful Rasslin' Matches

Although this time of year is known as a temporary spring lull in athletics, the efficient and well-directed intramural athletic program is in full swing.

At the present time wrestling takes the spotlight, and already two rounds have been staged on the varsity mats. A definite forward step in this sporting realm has been the new requirement that all intramural wrestling hopefuls must either be enrolled in Coach Davis' physical education class or work out for four days with the varsity squad.

The first round was held on Monday, March 10. The opener, the 121 lb. event, was won on a fall by Roland Tapp over Harold Austin in a time of 1:40 minutes. Allan Moore pinned 145 lb. John Wallace in 50 seconds. Dave Butler and Olson Pemberton went the full route, and the final referee's count gave Butler the decision for this 145 lb. event. Red Meineke decisioned Cecil Eenes in the "55 class, and in the same weight division Wilbur Chapman took 5:45 minutes to register a fall over Don Campbell. Fred Shelfer set the fastest pace of the match as he pinned Carl Miller in 45 seconds.

In the opening event of the second round Bill Klimstra pinned Jack Fesperman in a time of 5:50 minutes. Dave Butler pinned Allan Moore in 3:05 minutes after scoring 8 points to his opponent's 0 by switches and a near fall. Wilbur Chapman fastened a pin-job on Red Meineke in 1:05 minutes, and Art Peterson decisioned Fred Shelfer as this 175 lb. event went the limit. In an exhibition match Clem Hahn, who leaves today for the National Wrestling Tournament in New York City, scored a decision over heavyweight Andy Richards.

Athletic Board Of Control Meets To Award Letters

Last Wednesday morning in Coach Honaker's office the members of the Athletic Board of Control conducted a regular business meeting for the purpost of selecting letter-winners in basketball, wrestling, and swimming.

Acting on the recommendation of Coach Honaker the Board voted to award "M" sweaters to seven members of the 1941 basketball squad. Those of Honaker's-Hustlin'-Hoopmen who were voted to receive letters are Captain Boydson Baird, Bill Baird, Scot Honaker, Stan Menning, Waitman Bowyer, Ray Lillard, and Bill Overly. The three senior basketeers, Baird, Baird, and Honaker, will receive sweaters with four year service stripes; Menning gets his second such award; and frosh Lillard, Bowyer, and Overly their first.

There were twelve letter-winners on Coach Davis' wrestling team, undisputed winner of the Tennessee state wrestling championship. To each of the five senior grunters, Captain Wood Everett, Hal Henschen, Phil Evaul, Clem Hahn, and Julius Nicely, the Board voted to award a garnet sweater and a letter. Because wrestling is still classified as a minor sport, although it has consistently won far greater inter-collegiate honors than any other Maryville team, only letters were awarded to the under-classmen, Dave McDaniel, Warren Culver, Horace Justus, Dick Boyd, Ken Ross, Red McCord, and Manager John Percy Martin.

From the varsity swimming squad the Board awarded letters to six men. Frank Cross, Bob Wilcox, and Dud Moore are the only men on the squad who have lettered in previous years. Freshmen to whom letters were awarded are Don Lowry, James Wells, and Frank Miller.

The Board also transacted other important business. A committee was appointed to investigate the much debated question of paying a regular salary to varsity managers. The Board voted to give a sweater and letter to the senior manager of the Intramural Athletic Program. This year the award will go to Arthur Peterson. Arthur Rowan was selected as varsity tennis team manager.

Colbert Will Direct Musical Radio Program

Following the same theme of "Fairest Lord Jesus", Maryville college will present its Sunday vespers tomorrow evening at 5:30 over WNOX, Knoxville. The acapella choir will present three selections: the hymn "Rock of Ages" and two anthems, "The Lord is My Saviour" and "Father Most Holy." Dr. H. E. Orr will speak on "The People Who Sent Jesus to the Cross: the Business People".

Baseball Players Practice Outside For First Time

Team Shapes Up As Coach Works Athletes Hard

Coach Honaker's baseballers moved outdoors this week with about thirty hopefuls reporting for practice each day. During the two weeks they have been held in the gym by weather conditions, the Scotties have worked on the fundamentals of fielding and throwing, and are now in condition for more strenuous work.

Of course, some cutting down of the squad will have to be done for the sake of convenience. Most of the new men reporting for practice are inexperienced, but several good prospects have already appeared. Bob Thompson, freshman, is a promising right-handed pitcher. When he gains control, he should be a consistent winner. Bowyer, another lanky right-hander, appears to have something on the ball. Tom Saffell, Roy Cloninger, Bob Hershberger, and Mack Wilson are other freshman standouts.

The team will be built around a handful of lettermen from last year, featuring a veteren infield of Tommy Cragan at first, Scot Honaker at short, and J. D. Hughes at third. Second base is the only open spot in the infield, with Lloyd Taylor given the inside track on that job.

Leroy McGaha is the only letterman in the outfield and is being counted on for some heavy stickwork this year. "Red" Rogerville is another outfielder with some experience.

The veteran moundmen are Bob Short, Les Rock, and "Lefty" Bob Mair. Unless reinforcements are found among the new men, the team will be weak in the pitching department. Behind the plate will be letterman Fred Shelfer, with Baby Baird on hand for relief work.

Aided by warmer weather, the moundmen have been working the kinks out of their arms, but few of them are yet ready to "cut loose". Coach Honaker has been spending his time ironing out faults in the hurlers—especially the inexperienced ones.

Meanwhile, light fielding drills and pepper games are in order for the other players, who appear to be having a big time of it all. However, the number of misjudged flys and muffed throws give indication to the amount of work ahead for the boys. Several of the athletes have complained of soreness and stiffness because of calisthentics and running forced on them this week.

Work on the diamond has been proceeding satisfactorily, and the infield will soon be in mid-season shape. As soon as work on the field is completed, infield and batting drills will start in earnest.

No definite schedule has been announced, but games are being tentatively arranged with several top-notch opponents. Plenty of action is in store for local fans, and the Honaker nine will be scrapping to win its share of games, in spite of the fact that several of last year's stars were lost by graduation.

"Abe Lincoln" . . .

Elizabeth Glover as the wife of Bowling Green, appeared on Voorhees stage for the first time. Billy Herndon was played extremely well by George Tibbetts, well-known for his role in Mr. Pim of last year, and evidence is that he has not lost any of his skill in the act of living his character's part.

June Morley as Mary Todd gave an excellent portrayal of the young lady of society level who, convinced of Abraham Lincoln's distiny, pushed him on to what she believed was his destiny, realizing as she did so that she would get no thanks, except from one or two close friends, for what she did. Giving this character of Mary Todd the firey, ambitious, lively spirit which the role needed was a difficult task, and was very well done. Particularly striking scenes in which Mary Todd appeared were the first, in which she announced her intentions concerning Abe to her sister, Elizabeth, and Ninian Edwards, and the other, the scene in the election room while returns were coming in. In the first she showed her high spiritedness and independence, and in the latter, her realization of the fact that though still independent, she could never hope to achieve what she had wanted and also have happiness.

Hal Lloyd as Stephen A. Douglas gave a good rendition of Douglas' speech, but this was overshadowed by Lincoln's answer. Frank McClelland as Jimmy Gale appeared with Lincoln, his father Seth Gale, and his mother, Aggie Gale. This last role was portrayed by Rosemary McCartney. Robert McClelland as Willie Lincoln appeared on the stage twice, once when his father was telling the boys stories, and then in the final scene when the Lincoln family was on its way to the capitol. Robert Seaton as Tad Lincoln appeared on the Maryville stage for the first time, but this seemingly was no disadvantage for he was very much at ease.

Robert Schwarzwalder as Ben Mattling gave the audience several of its most amusing moments at it watched the old man voice his dire forewarnings of the future; and Andrew Richards, Melvin Magee, and Robert Hunter as Jack Armstrong, Bab, and Feargus, acted the parts of the tough men of the town, appearing for the first time on the stage. Troye Moore as Elizabeth Edwards, quite matched the liveliness of her sister Mary, and portrayed the society matron, quite priggish and content with life as it was.

Robert Wilcox, Arthur Bushing, Charles Gilpatrick composed the convention sent to interview Lincoln concerning the candidacy for presidency, and portrayed the parts of Dr. Barrick, Grimmin, and Sturveson respectively. Mary Wintermute on short notice took Betty Moore's place as the maid in the Edwards' house. Edward Vaughn did double duty playing Gobey and also Jed. William Hargrave as Captain Kavanaugh and Paul Jamarik as the Major made their debuts as military men.

The play itself was very good, the costuming fair, but the scenery did not rank with the acting. Of those who took part in the performance, there are few who will not be back next year to put on other performances; those not returning are Frank Brink, Robert Short, and Robert Wilcox.

There will be other plays and other actors, but "Abe Lincoln in Illinois" is a play that will be remembered and listed as one of the most natural, personal, and human legends concerning Lincoln.

Dr. Roberts To Speak At Wednesday Chapel

The speaker at next Wednesday's chapel service will be Dr. Edward Howell Roberts, associate professor of homiletics at Princeton Theological Seminary. Dr. Roberts is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin and holds the degrees of A. B. (1919), and A. M. (1920). He then attended the Princeton Seminary and completed his graduate work in the same year as his graduation, Th.B. and Th.M. in 1923. He was ordained in this same year and went to an assistant pastorship in First Church in New Rochelle, N.Y. After some educational work in San Francisco, Dr. Roberts returned to Princeton as a teacher in 1930

Dr. William Jones Speaks at YMCA

Meeting To Be First Of A Three Weeks' Series

Dr. William T. Jones, a graduate of Maryville college and Vanderbilt Divinity School and now a member of the Sociology faculty of the University of Tennessee, will speak at the YMCA meeting to be held this Sunday at 1:30 in Bartlett auditorium on the topic, "Marriage."

This program dealing with marriage is the first of a three-week series entitled "Needs Every College Man Must Face," in which the subjects of marriage, vocation, and religion will be discussed.

Mr. Claude Curtis, instructor in the Maryville High school, will speak on the topic "Choosing a Vocation" at the second meeting of this series, held March 30, and Rev. Cowan, pastor of the Presbyterian church of Norris, Tennessee, will speak on "Problems of Religion" at the last meeting held April 6.

Following this series, the programs for the month of April are as follows: April 13, Easter Sunday—no meeting; April 20, Inter-Racial Program; and April 27, a joint meeting with YWCA.

Writers' Workshop Meets Council Discusses Noise

The regular meeting of the Writer's Workshop was held on Monday afternoon. The readers were Aline Campbell and Bette Umbach. Miss Umbach read a character sketch; Miss Campbell, a short story.

At the next meeting manuscripts will be read by Mary Orr and Howard Dizney.

"Pure As The Driven Snow" To Be Presented Jointly By Alpha Sig And Theta Friday Evening April 4

Ramey, Phelps Take Leads In Comedy Melodrama Presentation

HAWKINS IS VILLAIN

'Pure As the Driven Snow' Sundaes Featured in Advertising Drive

According to Mrs. Nita Eckles West, the Alpha Sigma-Theta midwinter, "Pure as the Driven Snow", is rapidly approaching the final stage of production. The comedy, which is to be presented at 8:15 on Friday evening, April 4, is modern but distinctly melodramatic, and full of clever and hilarious lines.

Annalyn Ramey as Purity Dean, the chaste young heroine, a working girl with a secret, and George Phelps as Leander Longfellow, the hero, are the leading actors in this swift-moving, side-splitting drama. In fact, the rehearsals take much longer than they should because the members of the cast just have to laugh at themselves.

"The sure way to plunge present-day audiences into gales of riotous laughter and effect prolonged and thunderous applause, is to show them the pure and down-trodden heroine being pursued by the black-hearted villain and when she has fallen into the rascal's clutches, bring on the manly-bosomed hero to foil the villain and rescue the heroine in the nick of time." So says a quotation from the preface of the play, "Pure As the Driven Snow", and its final production on April 4 will ascertain the truth of this statement.

Purity Dean will be pursued, and leave many narrow escapes from Mortimer Frothingham, the villain of the drama, who will dog her footsteps with the tenacity of an English bloodhound. John Hawkins will present this villain-

Lloyd Gives Report Of Wilson Accident

At the request of the Highland Echo, President Lloyd made the following statement about Mack Wilson's accident.

"We rejoice in the continued favorable reports concerning Mack Wilson's recovery. The promptness with which he was rescued from the water and given first aid and the early arrival and tireless and skillful work of the physician and those assisting him doubtless prevented the accident from becoming a fatal one at the time.

"Facts gathered up to the present by the officials of the College may be summarized as follows: For a considerable time during the earlier part of Saturday afternoon Mack Wilson played basketball in the gymnasium and softball on the field. He then joined the group in the swimming pool and had been in the shallow end for perhaps twenty or thirty minutes when he was seen to dive from the side at about the middle of the pool, start as though swimming under water, then without any outcry sink in so unusual a manner that two of the men dove after him. He was found helpless under water, brought out, and given first aid treatment; the doctor was called, blankets were secured from the college hospital, and he was hurried to the city hospital for further emergency care.

"Reports indicate that he was under water but a brief period, that he was not breathing when taken out but began to breath after about four artificial respiration pressures, that hemorrhage appeared immediately and increased markedly. After two days there were definite evidences of an improvement which we all pray will continue to full recovery.

"A licensed life guard was on duty, and it appears that reasonable safety precautions were being used at the pool, and that everything possible was done in meeting the emergency."

College Receives $52,000 Bequest

Legacy Becomes Part of Forward Fund

Maryville college has just received through settlement of a legacy the sum of approximately fifty-two thousand dollars, President Ralph W. Lloyd announced today.

The benefactor is the late Miss Augusta J. Boone, of Meriden, Connecticut. Her interest in Maryville college began many years ago. In 1928 she made a gift of $2,000 to the student-help funds. After her death, which occurred on December 11, 1939, it was announced that Maryville was the residuary legatee under her will, but the amount of the benefaction has proved to be much larger than was then anticipated.

In April 1930, she paid her only visit to Maryville. But her touch with the college was maintained in various ways, including her participation in the work of the Susan Carrington Clarke Chapter of the DAR in her home city. Maryville college has long been one of a number of educational institutions designated by the National Society of the DAR as "approved schools" in which the DAR take special interest.

Miss Boone's bequest of $52,000 becomes part of the New Forward Fund for which Maryville college is now conducting a special campaign.

"O Sacred Head" To Be Sung By Acapella Choir For Radio Vespers

"O Sacred Head," a chorale written by Hassler in 1601 and arranged by Bach in 1729, will be sung by the A-capella choir Sunday evening on the radio vesper program at 5:00. They will also sing Gluck's "Out of the Deep."

Dr. R. W. Lloyd will present the third in a series of sermonettes, "People Who Sent Jesus to the Cross: The Political People." The first two talks, the first by Dr. Lloyd and the second by Dr. H. E. Orr, were about the Religious People and the Business People who sent Jesus to the cross.

Psalm 121 will be used in the form of a hymn, "Unto the Hills." The words were arranged by the 9th Duke of Argyle and the music is by Charles Purday.

So far the general opinion of listeners has been very favorable toward the Sunday radio vespers. From time to time improvements are being made in the methods and production of these programs which will be continued until Commencement.

Provincial Meet Next on Docket of Local Debaters

Grand Eastern Tournament At Rock Hill, S.C., Closes Season

Local debaters will invade Alabama next week to be the guests of Alabama Beta chapter of Pi Kappa Delta, national collegiate forensic fraternity, at Alabama College for Women, Montevallo. This small city, in the "Heart of Alabama", will be the scene for the Southeastern Provincial Tournament, April 12-5, the Southeastern Province being composed of Kentucky, Tennessee, Virginia, North and South Carolina, Florida, Georgia, and Alabama.

Contests at this well-attended tournament, open only to members of Pi Kappa Delta, will be held in debate, extemporaneous speaking, impromptu speaking and oratory. There will be eight rounds of debate with three preliminary rounds and a final contest in each of the other events.

Jeannie Stringham and Vernon Lloyd will be the Maryville entrants in the various speaking events. A scorching indictment of the American educational system, entitled "Grafters", has been prepared by Miss Stringham and will be delivered in the women's oratorical contest. Vernon will vie with other entrants for honors in men's oratory with his composition "Air-Conditioning the Air Waves", a plea for better radio programs. Extemp speeches, from 4-6 minutes in length, will be upon some phase of the general subject: America's Preparedness Program. One hour before the contestant is to speak he will draw three topics and choose one. In the impromptu contest each contestant will be given an editorial 15 minutes before he is to speak; to this article he must make a response—suporting, answering, or developing it.

Local entrants in debate will be Jack Zerwas and Henry Wick for the men and Janet Lindsay and Lucille Lynch for the women. Both teams will debate both sides of the current query concerning a Western Hemisphere union,

Arlene Phelps and Jack Clinkman to Be Married

That Cupid's bow and arrow has delivered another fatal wound was revealed to Miss Jessie Heron in a letter received from Vernon Clark, a former Maryville student who is now a sergeant in the army camp at Tullahoma, Tennessee. Vernon's information was that two members of last year's graduating class, Arlene Phelps of Wakefield, Massachusetts, and Jack Clinkman of Chicago, Illinois, will be married April 3. Following the marriage, Jack will go immediately to camp. Arlene will be remembered by old students here at school as the designer of the original and clever linoleum prints in last year's Echo.

Lamar House, Historical Campus Landmark, Recently Torn Down

The Lamar house which was located back of the president's home and has been recently torn down, holds an historical relationship to Maryville college.

It was the home of Professor Thomas J. Lamar, second founder of Maryville college, from the time of his marriage in 1874 until his death in 1887. Then his widow, Mrs. Martha A. Lamar, continued to make it her home until her death in 1921.

The house was built at the same time that Anderson hall was being erected in 1869 and 1870. The accounts tell how Professor Lamar watched it being built. It was he who had been on the college faculty before the Civil War and who, when the war was over, had been the leader who secured the opening the college again and the money for putting up Anderson, Memorial, and Baldwin halls.

While these college buildings were going up, Professor Lamar, of course, spent time around them and probably climbed on the unfinished structures. He could see the house being built across the grounds. That was not then part of the campus and he was not building the house. It was being built by Rev. Ralph E. Tedford, who was recorder of the Directors and who was the father of the future Mrs. Lamar.

It was sometime after this that Professor Lamar married Martha Tedford. After a while this became their home and so it was known as the Lamar house.

The ground where the house stood and that which is now the golf course down to the road and the gate was all the private property of the Lamars. It was after the death of Mrs. Lamar in 1921 that it came to the college.

After her death it became the home of the college farmer because not far back of it was the barn which Profes-

Lloyd And Smith Attend Banquet

College President Visits Former M.C. Students

Dr. Ralph Waldo Lloyd and James R. Smith attended an alumni banquet held at the University of Cincinnati YMCA in Cincinnati, Ohio this Saturday.

After attending a banquet dinner at the University of Cincinnati YMCA this Saturday. Dr. Lloyd, Mr. Smith and Miss Geneva Hutchinson attended an informal meeting of alumni, their wives and husbands, and of former students. In one of the large halls, two reels of technicolor pictures of the college were shown to the group. Afterwards Dr. Lloyd spoke to the group very briefly. Then the chairs were drawn up in an informal circle and conversation constituted the largest part of the evening's program.

Various members of the alumni asked Dr. Lloyd a large number of questions pertaining to the college program in relationship to the effect of the national and international situations. Many were interested in what the attitude of the college was towards these situations. Numerous questions were asked about members of the faculty, and for the first time moving pictures of those members of the faculty who have been members for twenty-five years or more were shown. The pictures seemed to be a source of pride to those attending and were enthusiastically received.

There were about thirty alumni and former students present. Among these were Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hunt, (the latter is the former Eleanor Johnson), '36 and '37; James Patterson, Edward Green, '33; Robert Stevenson '33; Lincoln Hurst, '32; Simpson E. Spencer; Madison Byar, '35; Samuel A. Caldwell, '31; W. B. Johnston; Mrs. E. P. Vogel, '30; Robert W. Bishop, '26; C. L. Edgemon, '19; and Dr. E. R. North, '01.

Charles Smith, who is attending art school at the University and who is a son of a former Maryville graduate, was also present at the meeting.

Bob Borcer, class of '36, was prevented from attending because of the measles.

The meeting was arranged on short notice in order that the group might be able to hear Dr. Lloyd. For this reason many were unable to make arrangements to attend.

Sunday morning, Dr. Lloyd spoke to the student body at Western College for Women at Oxford, Ohio.

After crossing the Ohio River on their return trip to Maryville, Dr. Lloyd and Miss Hutchinson heard the college radio vesper program.

Student Council Holds Discussion on Corrupt Politics of Elections

On Monday evening the Student Council met in Dr. Hunter's classroom to discuss several timely matters. Various decisions were reached in addition.

The Student-Faculty Committe made a report in which they approved the Council's proposal for a new election system. Under this plan all the class elections will take place on one day at one central place. The voting will be secret, with the voters not being required to sign their ballots and at the same time their names will be checked off their class lists, thus eliminating any possible corruption. The committee reported that the matter of senior girls having one date in town a month was still pending. Procedure for securing sidewalks between Pearsons and the library and the other walks around the library which are so muddy during the rainy seasons has also been started.

The matter of the lack of attention in the dining room immediately before meals when thanks is returned and also the fact that unnecessary noise in the library disturbs others who wish to study, was brought up.

The Council will appreciate any suggestions from the student body as to ways to raise money to pay for the various medical expenses incurred by Scotty, Jr.

Dean Hunter Announces Changes In 1941-42 Schedule; School To Open Sept. 2 And Close May 18

New Set-up Makes Possible Completion of First Semester Final Exams Before 19-Day Christmas Vacation

NO CHANGE MADE IN FEBRUARY MEETINGS

Executive Committee Suggests Change As Practical Means Whereby Work on Various Courses May Be Made More Compact

Exhibiting a radical departure from the program of previous years, the college calendar for 1941-42 was released this week by the dean of curriculum, Dr. Edwin R. Hunter. In September 1941, several important changes will go into effect. Outstanding of these changes is the plan to have students complete all of the first semester's work by the Christmas holidays and to end the school year in May, about two weeks earlier than is customary.

Opening September 2

In order to satisfactorily execute this schedule, the date of opening for next year has been set for Tuesday, September second. Convocation and the first meeting of classes next fall will occur then on Friday, September 5. According to this schedule of events, the first semester examinations as well as the first semester itself will end at noon on December 18, a Thursday. At the same time—noon, December 18—the Christmas holidays will begin.

Compact Curriculum

Suggested by the executive committee of the faculty and approved by the faculty as a whole, this arrangement is welcomed as a practical measure, a means whereby the work on the various courses of the curriculum may be made more compact. That was the primary reason for the change. This system will remove the necessity for prolonging first semester work into a disturbed two weeks in January. Now if anyone comes back to recuperate from a hilarious holiday, he will not be faced with the task of excavating all the half-buried information he possessed in December; nor will he have to start the new semester much the worse for wear from the examinations of the old one.

Another advantage, it is believed, is that in this way the long stretch of activities and study from January to June will seem considerably shortened and easier. Commencement program will begin on May 15 and continue through May 18. This reduction of time is considered advisable in view of the fact that the college calendar does not provide for a spring vacation. Inclusion of a spring vacation in the college program, discussed many times, is considered impractical, because many of the students would not be able to undertake the added expense of the trip home and back.

February Meetings will continue to be February meetings; they will be held February 4 to 12, the only change being that instead of occurring immediately following the opening of a new semester, they will come a month after the opening of the second semester, which will be Wednesday, January seventh.

Monday Graduation

Another distinct change in the new program is in the day set for graduation exercises, which next year will be Monday, the eighteenth of May. This will be the first time that the graduation ceremonies have been on a Monday—every day having been tried but Monday and Saturday. This arrangement has been made partly in consideration of the convenience of parents who plan to stay in town for the commencement week programs. Second semester examinations will end two days before this; as usual, however, a student may leave as soon as he completes his last test. This offers the possibility of his reaching home as early as May 14.

As now planned the scholastic schedule for next year is as follows:

First Semester—1941

Sept. 2-8—Opening program

Sept. 2, Tuesday, 1:30 students report.

Sept. 3, Wednesday, 8 Registration of new payment of bills by

V.I. Debaters Here Thursday Evening

Refreshments Served In Y Rooms After Debate

On Thursday evening, March 27, varsity and freshmen debate squads were host to four members of the forensic group from Virginia Intermont who came with their coach. The debate was held in the Y rooms at 8:00. Making up the four were Shirley Kilgore, Marjorie Freels, Jane Forester, and Marjorie Rosel, the latter two meeting Janet Lindsay and Lucille Lynch of Maryville who were on the affirmative. Virginia Intermont has a well-deserved high rating as producing expert debaters and they showed this on Thursday evening. The custom of the audience asking the debaters questions following the regular rebuttals was inaugurated quite successfully. This added variety to the usual procedure.

Following the debate, punch and cookies were served to approximately fifty guests. Professor and Mrs. Verton M. Queener, Mr. and Mrs. Archibald Pieper, Mr. Kiger, and Miss Seedorf of the Maryville faculty were present.

Pre-Medical Exams To Be Given in May

This May the Pre-Medical students of the college, who are planning to enter medical school after graduation, will take a medical school entrance examination given by the American Medical Association.

This exam, which contains questions not only on medicine, but on all topics in general, is corrected by the A.M.A. and its results are sent to every medical school in the United States. Thus every pre-medical student's mark is recorded in every medical school, which makes the passing of this test both extremely important and practically necessary for entrance in a medical school.

The date for taking this exam, which was formerly in November, allowing the students taking the test to enter medical school the fall of that year, but requires them to wait a year. In this way the A.M.A. has more time to tabulate the results of the tests and send them to medical schools.

Things We Think

In our "king for a day" type of journalistic life, we'd like to make our single contribution to the editorial world in a short bit of praise, directed to those who originated, and those who participate in the twice weekly college broadcasts. These broadcasts seem to satisfy some vacancy that has, up until this time, existed in the routine of the college. Now we students of the college may sit back, relax, sigh, and realize with contentment that at last we are somebody, as far as the outer world of civilization is ethereally concerned.

First of rank in being radiogenic—photogenic, too, if you insist—we would place the choir. It's hard for us to realize, when hearing it's selections, that the whole idea is supposed to be on an amateur basis. And we, of SCOTS AND S—oops! sorry,—we of the editorial staff have heard only a very few other numbers that fitted our idea of perfection as does the choir. Included in that statement, needless to say, are the soloists.

Suiting our ideas, too, of what all vesper speakers should do, President Lloyd admirably takes charge of the verbal side. Concise and meaningful, the little sermonettes are really potent. And we seem to have discovered possibilities along that line in Dr. Orr, also.

Distinctly on the lighter side, and equally effective, the Wednesday evening programs give an excellent cross section of the life of the college. Dramatics, music, literature—anything you want. Well, within reason.

Any way you look at them, the broadcasts are doing an admirable job of keeping the college on its toes; and, to end this editorial as we hear all editorials should be ended, God bless them, every one.

ECHO ANALYSIS

Unquestionably, the high-light of the past week's war news came from the explosive Balkans, when Yugoslavia army leaders did a nice job of house cleaning on the pro-Hitler regency and cabinet, headed by Regent Prince Paul.

Experts are now wondering about the effect this move will have on Hitler's proposed invasion of Greece. And they are agreed that whatever he does will be wrong. There are two schools of thought prevalent on this question.

Some think Hitler will not dare invade Greece because he will not wish to risk a war on two fronts. They point out that Hitler, if he is to win the war, must invade the British Isles before powerful American material aid starts flowing to the British. Also, it is thought that America might actually enter the war on the side of England. Virginia's old fire-eater, Carter Glass, added emphasis to this thought when he said, "If they", meaning the Germans, "interfere with us, we ought to shoot the hell out of them." And Col. William J. Donovan, just back from England, has suggested that the United States convoy supplies sent to the British.

It is thought that Hitler will not risk a prolonged Balkan war, which would divide his striking power at the British Isles.

Furthermore, Hitler has no assurance of winning a Balkan war. Britain has moved her sand-toughened African army into Greece, where it can effectively meet any move Hitler might make. This army, made up of a seasoned conglomeration of battlers from all over the British Empire, made short work of Mussolini's plug uglies in the North African war. And now they are looking for tougher competition. This army, combined with the armies of Greece and Yugoslavia, might be strong enough to manhandle the Germans.

On the other hand, it is thought that Hitler must invade Greece or suffer the greatest diplomatic defeat of his career. After sending a large army into the Balkans, he can't very well permit them to come back home without firing a shot. His loss of face in such a move would greatly weaken his future diplomatic power. It appears that Hitler made his mistake in ever sending an army into the Balkans.

STRIKES MUST STOP

Here at home the Federal Government has put its foot wn on strikes that have been slowing up production of war materials. A new Defense Mediation Board has must start back to work or else.

MARY RUTH HEIL, Guest Columnist

With Abe Lincoln neatly tucked away and the coiffures of the other boys once more off the neck, we pause to find ourselves in a sort of lull before the storm—that's a good word. It leaves us wide open for a press statement by Mr. de Pue, who will vouch for purity when it's "Pure As the Driven Snow".

Speaking of storms and snows, (by the way, who was speaking of them?) there was a little wind here, but it's gone now. It took us also, with the rest of the herd. Among the impressions—a sharp, thin elbow in our ribs . . a shock now an then from a defective popcorn machine . . women planning to faint, but not being able to do it gracefully on account of the crowds . . pushes from the rear . . a bony arm around our neck . . sandwiches held up over our nose . . small orange tickets clutched in one hand . . Ballenger clearing a path but stopped by just people . . a news photographer across the street . . Hernandi's champion in the midst of the milling throng, taking it all in . . little boys selling their seats for a dime . . stiff neck and a red nose from sitting three rows from the front. But "Frankly, my dear, I don't give a (CENSORED)." It was worth it.

Just finished reading Hemingway's "For Whom The Bell Tolls." Which reminds me, for whom does the bell toll around here? There ought to be some shadows who could answer that query. The Hawkins-Hellums Corporation would know about it, as well as the Gehres-Simms alignment. Have you noticed the 'let's-linger-longer-look in the eyes of Cassin and Cox? There's a new angle in this romance business. Seems that at the first signs of Spring young men's fancies turn to the more romantic side of life. To wit: Snell and Geisler . . Martha M. and Brindley . . Flash! Nu Gamma leader and "Pop" . .

It was brought to our attention that our orchestra is an accredited symphonic organization. It performed before an estimated several hundred students and faculty. The ninety-seven who were present filled in with simulated applause, led by actor-announcer-pie-eater Brink. When Mr. Colbert was finally on the podium, the down-beat fell to the strains of an Hungarian dance. Singer Cornelius gave his usual faultless performance.

Signs of Spring . . . Henschen in all white . . . littul daffy-dils . . . lollers-on-the-grass at lunchtime . . . the tennis courts' annual pedicure . . . the new circular drive . . . light cotton clothes, to steal from Kitty's column . . . more littul daffy-dils . . . newly sprung frogs in the lily-pool . . . curtains flying out of Carnegie windows . . . .

Greetings to Cliff Proctor, fresh from Vermont. The place hasn't been the same since last year when Proctor and Webster roamed the halls and inhabited the library. Too bad the rains and the contemporary scarlet fever epidemic has to put a crimp on his visit. Nevertheless, we hope he has a lovely time.

And we might mention here the mutterings uttered by several of the campuswains. They had to do with the fact that they didn't see how Tex Lochausen rated a date with that ultra-delectable freshman. We can't explain it, either. We only work here.

There seems to be a spirit of independence here. Heischmann on his way to Atlanta and points south had to start over, when no ride was forthcoming from the traffic. Speaking of traveling, among those from thence departed are Humphries, Schwarzwalder, Twitchell, and Schimpf; to say nothing of such co-eds as Phyllis Johns, Helen Cameron, Marie Magee, and Vicki Hoole.

Faculty and students alike stepped to the footlights Saturday night to equal a performance of Major Bowes' best. Bob Hunter's tongue is needle-sharp, and though rather unwilling to burst forth in rapid conversation, he is not a bit reserved in the presence of high 'C's' and tempting triplets. Versatile Carl Miller, who slaps a bull-fiddle as well as he oomp-pahs a bass, proved his worth on the accordion keyboard. Talent—eh, wot? Sara Jo's sister combined the family vitality with voice to score. Eleanor Long's inimitable impersonation was especially appreciated by the waitresses. Phil Vance and his clarinet naturally set big toes to tapping. Burgreen and Cooper were able accompanists. Chopsticks in the style of Ballenger and Humann would have turned its honorable composer twice over in his honorable grave. Not to be outdone, the Chilhowee Trio sang well to receive an ovation and a prize. Hester and Aura never fail to charm their audience with their Spanish songs and an occasional yippee. Flowers for the week to the Social Committee.

At last the day is at hand. Had we a brass band we would bring it out. There is none, so we won't. Mrs. Hall is releasing her patients—three of them. No longer shall we see the shining countenance of the roommate peeking between geraniums. No longer will conversation be shouted through glass windows. But will we know her—she's peeling. Once again the suave Mr. Henderson and that demon on the racquet, Van Cise, will be at large. We are happy to have them with us, though, aren't we?

With threats from the table that it had better be good, and with not a little anxiey for the repute of Igor's column have these comments been cited. After all, what we say here will not be long remembered, but what they do here will live for ever. Yes, I guess. Ah, well, if you will but lend your ears not just yet to Marc Antony (production has only begun) but to SCOTS AND SODA next week, you will be rewarded. Cheerio and a happy April Fool.

TALK OF THE WEEK .... By Jean White

sor Lamar had in earlier days used for his horses and perhaps his cows. Ten years ago it was being used for the college dairy herd. Then the college came into possession of the forty or fifty acres out to the site of the present barn, doubled the barn that was on that property, and developed the dairy center there. The old Lamar barn was torn down some years ago.

The Lamar house was on which, from an architectural point of view and its location, was in some ways the finest and most impressive on the campus. However, the house was not a very substantially built one and it seemed impossible to remodel it so it could be put into use. Therefore, it was decided to take it down. Some day the college hopes to erect an imposing building on that location.

Professor Lamar was not only a professor before the Civil War, the second founder of the college, the man who secured much of the money for the first buildings and endowment, but he is also the one for whom the Lamar library was named and father of the child for whom the Lamar hospital was named.

ECHO SPORTS

THE HIGHLAND ECHO MARCH 29, 1941

SPORT ECHOS

By BILL SWEENEY—Sports Editor

BASEBALL... It has finally happened! J. D. Hughes finally came out for baseball and everyone figured there was going to be a game within the next few days if J. D. came out. Then the newly arrival got hit in the face with a bounding ball the first day out. Some more about Hughes and that'll be all for a while—it seems he is really hitting the rock so far, only on Wednesday the "rock" consisted of Fred Shelfer's head. J. D. was swinging a bat and Sport walked into it. On Wednesday the hardest hitting man on the field was Pitcher Hooker, but it appears that left handed batter Saffell will give the Honakermen a great deal of power that is sorely needed this year. Saffell is the one who is taking Jabbo Pierce's reputation over as the team's freshman bat breaker. If the dining hall wants to serve some fresh fruit they should see some of the baseball men within the next few days. It appears that coach had the boys sliding the other day and there are plenty of "strawberries" on display that the dining hall might get hold of for a nominal sum.

TRACK... If everyone notices the shortage of milk, etc., in the dining hall it is because the track men are using it all. They have a training table now and the football men had to leave and spread throughout the dining hall. The track team is still hard at work, but as Capt. Bill Baird said, there isn't much to say because it's too early in the season. The training table is a good idea, but it is a shame that all teams don't have the same privilege. Wouldn't it be a good idea for every team on the hill to have their own training table? There aren't many schools nowadays that don't furnish such a table for their teams.

TENNIS... Van Cise will leave the hospital on Monday and the hopes of the tennis team have soared way up again. We noticed the courts this morning and they are really in fine shape. However, if this rain and bad weather that we have had since Thursday keeps up it looks as if the team will never get to play on them.

MAC... A week ago this afternoon a rather unfortunate thing occurred in the swimming pool when Mack Wilson, popular freshman athlete, sank to the bottom, but was rescued quickly and rushed to the hospital. Mack still rests in Fort Craig hospital in a serious condition, but he is greatly improved and is continuing to do so every day. A few men on the campus volunteered their services and kept a steady watch over the injured man from Saturday afternoon until Tuesday. This column wishes to thank those men and also all the other students on the campus for their interest in Mack.

Track Team Still Working Hard To Get In Top Shape

With their opening track meet of the season a mere three weeks and a few days off, Coach Davis' crew of kiltie-klads are getting down to business with serious and strenuous training. Outdoor activities, directed from Coach's adopted headquarters in the southeastern corner of the track, are featured by muscle-conditioning exercises, practice starts, short sprints, and numberless laps around the cinder-oval.

Whether by chance or not, Coach Davis lot seems always to fall with a team which is or has been just about tops in their field. Like the beginning of the wrestling campaign when he had to take over a sport which had been so successful the previous year, Coach Davis tackles the cinder realm where in the last two seasons Maryville has finished state champion and runner-up respectively.

Coach Davis' extra-special worry thus far has been the alarming scarcity of outstanding sprint men. Joe Etheredge, number one dash man and one-man track team of last season, is no longer running wild for the Orange and Garnet. Frank Heinze, a very promising freshman sprinter and main understudy to Etheredge, did not return to Maryville this year.

Jack Fesperman, junior transfer from a Carolina college, is one of the standout candidates for the sprints and may develop into quite a star. Melville Gaughan is another experienced sprinter and hurdler, and although slenderly built, is extremely fast. Johnny Williams, "Red" Meineke, and Jim Hedges are a few of the most outstanding members on the thinly-clads.

Stride for stride and lap for lap, Jim Humphries gets the nomination for being the best looking prospect among the non-lettermen. Jim has one of the best strides in the business, and his killing pace looks like a record breaker.

Of the old lettermen everyone knows about what to expect. After a slight slip last year from his sophomore form, Alfy Davies seems to have again found himself this spring. Don Kent is knocking at the two-mile gait in near mid-season time. Vernon Lloyd, Doug Steakley, and Floyd Green are in great shape and probably will share a great part of the point-winning burden for the Davismen.

In the field events Bill Baird and Gene McCurry are the only returning veterans. John Ross is pitching the javelin with great skill and may get the call to show his wares. Julius Nicely will take over the high jumping and broad jumping duties, and Horace Justus looks like the man for the pole vault event.

Although there is a possibility that another meet will be wedged into the picture, the regular schedule calls for the opening date on April 26 against Tennessee in Knoxville. Other dual meets will include Sewanee, Tennessee Tech, Davidson, and Chattanooga. At the state meet held this May at Sewanee, the College of the South, Tennessee will compete as defending state champions and Maryville as runners-up.

Newly Originated Golf Team Loses To U-T Yesterday

Yesterday afternoon the newly formed Maryville college golf team met the University of Tennessee on the links. It is the first golf team for Maryville and the first match that they have had so the score of 18-0 isn't too bad. U-T has a good team this year as evidence of the fact that they have no defeated three straight victims including Maryville. They meet Georgia Tech this afternoon on the same course where the Scotties were defeated, Holston Hills.

Not many people know that Maryville is represented on the golf course with a varsity team, and this actually was the case until yesterday. The Scotties received an invitation from the university to play and Coach Fischbach accepted. The team consisting of Berquist, Graham, Hunter, and Schellinger have practiced on the college course and then at least once a week they work out on the country club course.

The results of the meet was all U-T as far as the records go, but this was to be expected. However, the Scots put up a good fight in everyone of the matches. The results were:

Allen (T) defeated Hunter (M)—3-0.

Law (T) defeated Graham (M)—3-0.

Wise (T) defeated Schellinger (M)—3-0.

Andrews and Law defeated Berquist and Hunter—3-0.

Law and Wise defeated Graham and Schellinger—3-0.

Tonight Bartlett Pool To Be Scene of Swimming Meet

Tonight at 8:00, the annual intramural swimming meet will be held in the swimming pool. Class teams will compete in the various events, and points will be added to the winners' intramural totals.

The following events will be staged: 200 yd. relay, 150 yd. medley, 50 yd. dash, 100 yd. dash, diving, 200 yd. free style, 100 yd. backstroke, and 100 yd. breast stroke.

Class managers Don Lowry, Ken Cooper, Warren Culver, and Vernon Lloyd report a sizeable number of entries. All prospective competitors are required to have at least four supervised practice periods, but, nevertheless, considerable slapstick will probably be pulled off by the inexperienced swimmers.

Supervisor of the meet is Arthur Bushing, who is being assisted by Intramural Manager Arthur Peterson.

Coach Honaker Works Baseball Aspirants Hard As Team Shapes Up As Powerful Hitting Club

It looks like another banner season for the 1941 edition of the Maryville college baseball team. For a short time following the death of Hubert Headrick, Coach Honaker's star right fielder, the diamond situation seemed likely to smack the doldrums. However, the addition of Baby Baird, Tom Saffell, and Wendell Bowyer, creates a brighter looking future for the Orange and Garnet horse-hide addicts.

Coach Honaker's biggest and toughest problem, the perennial headache of every team manager from the New York Yankees to the Knoxville Smokies, is the scarcity of able mound artists. The hole in the pitching staff caused by the loss of "Nig" Wilburn is serious indeed, and his replacement will necessitate many more worries.

On Wednesday afternoon Coach Honaker had his mound recruits training Bob Feller style in the distant gardens. With "Sport" Shelfer on the power end of the fungo the twirlers were chased all over the outfield snagging long, hard fly-balls. The huge turnout for the box position includes Bob Short, Bob Mair, Bob Miller, Bob Thompson, Leslie Rock, Melvin Malone, Wendell Bowyer, Paul Sieber, and Norman Hooker.

The personnel of the receiving department has been strengthened by several potentially brilliant catchers of the Bill Dickey-Gabby Hartnett variety. In this realm are such experienced mask and mittmen as Fred Shelfer, Henry "Blackie" Roberts, and Bob Hershberger. At the moment it seems that the heaviest burden will fall on last year's able and reliable first-stringer, Fred Shelfer. Should the occasion arise, ample assistance will be available in the stick-work of Roberts and in the receiving of Hershberger.

Disregarding the unforeseen, in the four infield positions, the diamond-Scotties peck their real power. These posts in all probability will be taken over handsomely by those masters of swat and swing, all lettermen and hard-hitting veterans of last year's nine, Tommy Cragan on first, Lloyd Taylor on second, Scot Honaker on short, and Captain J. D. Hughes on third. Bob Bennett and Wendell Bowyer are leading candidates for the first-sacker position if Cragan should be shifted to the outfield. "Baby" Baird has performed brilliantly around the keystone corner and in the outer garden.

In the outfield Coach Honaker has found an abundance of experienced men. "Mac" McGaha is practically conceded the leftfield berth by virtue of his splendid work last year and his outstanding hitting and fielding so far this spring. In frosh Tom Saffell, Coach finds some much needed portside hitting power. No matter whether Saffell goes eventually to the mound or to the outfield, he is given an excellent chance for first string duty. Baby Baird, after a layoff season spent with the Scottie cinder-burners, looms as the likeliest prospect for the third spot on the outer garden lineup.

When not on the pitching block Les Rock, Bob Miller, and Bob Thompson will be claimed by the outfield. Other candidates for the pastures are "Red" Rogerville, Ray Coada, Chuck Foreman, Sidney Duke, Marvin Mitchell, Fred Roth, and Alvin Goddard.

Several local independent teams have been booked to face the Highlanders in pre-season practice games. To see how his recruits and veterans stand actual fire, Coach will probably substitute freely. It will be the middle of April before the regular schedule brings Maryville against such teams as Tennessee, Lincoln Memorial, Hiwassee, Tusculum, and Emory-Henry.

Nancy Wood and Richard Watkins who have appeared on the Maryville stage before are to take the part of the Logans, Zamah and Jonathan, respectively. It is the Logans who keep the inn, where Leander, their nephew, lives with them. It is this inn to which Purity Dean comes when lost in the storm, penniless and out of work, to escape the clutches of the villain. Here for awhile she finds quiet and rest until the villain, by vicarious means, catches up with her. Then things happen fast.

Dudley Moore will take the part of Jed Lunn, an ex-convict, and Mortimer's unwilling tool. The part of E. Z. Pickens, owner of the pickle factory in which Purity worked, is portrayed by Melvin Johnson, and his haughty sister Imogene, by Betty Clevenger.

Other characters appearing in the play are taken by the following people, most of them making their initial debut on the Maryville stage in this production. Alice Jones appears as Mrs. Hewlitt; Rita Mae Fratti as Mrs. Hewlitt's daughter, Alison; Betty J. Kennedy as Faith Hogue, a guest at the inn; Sara Cameron, Faith Hogue's maid; and the part of Nellie Morris, a woman of mystery, is taken by Dorothy Harned.

The production staff has been hard at work for some time getting ready for the presentation of this mid-winter. The managers, who have chosen members of their own staffs, are as follows: stage manager, Charles Hildreth; assistant stage manager, Lloyd Shue; assistant to director, Georgia Meadows; costumes, Kitty Bennett and Linda Robinson; properties, Cumi Snyder and Kathryn Estes; activities between acts, John Ballenger and Virginia Berg; business manager, George Haynes; advertising manager, Anderson Haynes.

The production staff and stage crew have to do a large part of the work in presenting a play, and since they have already put a large amount of time in on the various phases of production, that in itself is indication of the work and planning necessary for the final success of the production.

At this point the advertising staff has gone so far as to have advertised a "Pure As the Driven Snow" sundae to be purchased in most of the downtown drug stores.

"Pure as the Driven Snow" is written in the spirit of the old and melodramatic dramas, and combining all of the sure-fire situations from the best of them, it is played in modern costume with an opportunity for everyone to get into the mood for an uproariously hilarious evening.

Debate Trip...

the first round coming at 8:15 Thursday morning, April 3.

Professor Archibald Pieper and the Maryville entrants will leave the campus early Wednesday morning, arriving at Montevallo in time for registration that afternoon. As a special opening program an informal party and mixer will be held in the field house that evening. Thursday night there is to be a fun program, and Friday the annual banquet and dance will be held.

The avowed purpose of the next tourney on the schedule of the local squad, the Grand Eastern tournament sponsored by Winthrop College at Rock Hill, S.C., April 9-12, is to bring into one unit of competition various forensic organizations over the United States, regardless of standing of institutions represented or position occupied by the contestants in forensic honor societies. Thus, the local men's team of Edward Thomas and George Webster and the women's team of Natalie Yelton and Phyllis Anne Cain will run up against such competition as Cornell, Clemson, Citadel, Duke, Dartmouth, New York U., and other prominent Eastern and Southern colleges and universities. The Grand Eastern, an invitational tourney, schedule provides for ten rounds of debate and five rounds of extemp and oratory. Also included in the docket are and situation oratory. Bill Felknor, such distinctive contests as problem solving, news broadcasting, response to the occasion, parliamentary practice, who will enter the various speaking contests, has prepared an oration entitled "Strike Hysteria", a plea for a better understanding of labor's place in America's defense program. George Webster is also to enter the men's oratorical contest for which he has prepared a work entitled "Flowers For the Living," an oration praising Cordell Hull and his stand as U. S. Secretary of State. The extemp subject is World Affairs 1940-41; each contestant will draw one of the 150 topics on this subject and will have one hour in which to prepare his speech.

This Grand Eastern tournament will be the fifth and last contest to be attended by members of the local squad this year. At the close of the debate season the annual banquet will be held following which comes the initiation of new members of Pi Kappa Delta.

Hawkins, Ramey, And Phelps Give Outstanding Characterizations In "Pure As The Driven Snow"

Appreciative Audience Is Well Pleased With Performance

CAST IS WELL CHOSEN

Humann and Her Quartet Add Much to Comedy By Their Songs

"Meller drammer" said the advertisements—and meller drammer it was. The three acts of Paul Loomis' side-splitting, rollicking comedy, "Pure as the Driven Snow", was presented to a most appreciative audience by the Alpha Sigma and Theta Epsilon societies yesterday evening in Voorhees chapel.

There was no lull between acts as the time was very ably taken care of by Miss Joan Humann with her "barber shop quartet" which sang among others "I'll Take You Home Again, Kathleen", "The Grandfather's Clock", and "Sweet Adeline.'. With the audience taking such enthusiastic part in the program, much was added to the general atmosphere of the real old-fashioned melodramatic comedy.

The sound effects and cutting up of the stage crew were quite in keeping with the general tone of the performance and added a great deal to the general hilarity. This time as never before, the stage crew—or parts of it—were in the public eye, gaining some of their public's applause first hand. The one setting was very well handled, and though the villain at his exit pounded a hole through the door in his hasty effort to escape, the rest of the scenery remained intact, looking in reality as if it belonged to an old fashioned inn somewhere in the wilds of Vermont.

One criticism would be perhaps that the true Vermont accent was lacking in many places; but since Tennessee is so far removed from this far northern state, and since New Englanders are known for their outlandish accents anyway, this wouldn't have been noticed except by those few who were familiar with the native twang.

Starring in the leads were George Phelps as the noble hero, Leander Longfellow, who fell in love with Purity Dean, heroine, as characterized by Annalyn Ramey. Both these parts were given their true characterizations, the first by the big-chested, apple-cheeked man of the moment, and the second by the sweet, chaste and chased, poor, pure working girl with a secret. Of course in the end Purity's secret was discovered, she found the solution of her troubles and so they lived happily ever after.

Starring in the role of the villain, John Hawkins as Mortimer Frothingham, played an outstanding part, and incidentally turned out an excellent performance. His make-up, tall hat, cloak, mustache curled at the ends, added much to the desired effect; but Hawkins himself put on the finishing touches, even to adding to his final ignominy by being caught in woman's garb by the village sheriff after having been exposed in all his meanness by Purity, Jed Lunn, and his wife, Nellie, who turned up at the denouement.

This production brought to the Maryville stage new talent in the persons of Rita Mae Frati, Betty Jean

Fisher To Address Art Club Thursday Evening

"Persian Art" will be the theme of the Art club meeting Thursday at 6:30 in the Baker art gallery. Mary Fisher will give first-hand information on the subject and will also have a novel display of silver, embroidery, carving, and other interesting articles from Persia.

At the last meeting Howard Dizney spoke about photography. The question, "Is Photography Art?" was brought up, and, after taking a vote, the club decided that photography should be considered an art.

Local Debaters Return Tonight From Montevallo

Debaters Have Only Grand Eastern Tournament Left on Docket

Local debaters will return to the campus this evening after their four day stay at the Southeastern Provincial tournament, sponsored by the Montevallo College for Women, Montevallo, Ala. Maryville entrants at this tourney, attended by Kentucky, Tennessee, Virginia, North and South Carolina, Florida, Georgia, and Alabama schools having Pi Kappa Delta chapters, were Jack Zerwas and Henry Wick in men's debate, Janet Lindsay and Lucille Lynch in women's debate, and Jeanne Stringham and Vernon Lloyd in the various extra speaking contests.

The four debaters had eight rounds of debate. Miss Stringham delivered her oration entitled "Grafters", and Vernon Lloyd entered the contest in men's oratory with his composition, "Air Conditionig the Air Waves". Jeannie and Vernon also entered the extemp and impromptu contests. Results of these and other contests have not been received by the Echo at the time of this writing.

With the Provincial behind them the local squad members have only one more tourney on their docket for this year. This is the Grand Eastern tournament, sponsored by Winthrop College at Rock Hill, S.C., April 9-12, the avowed purpose of which is to bring into one unit of competition various forensic organizations over the United States, regardless of standing of the institutions represented or position occupied by the contestants in forensic honor societies. Entered in this tourney are J. Edward Thomas, George Webster, Natalie Yelton, Phyllis Anne Cain, and Bill Felknor. George Webster has prepared an oration entitled "Flowers For the Living", a work praising Cordell Hull and his work. "Strike Hysteria", an oration presenting labor's place in our program of national defense, will be delivered by Bill Felknor, who will also enter the extemp, impromptu and various other contests.

Dr. J. McDowell Richards Interviews Ministerials

Dr. J. McDowell Richards, president of Columbia Theological Seminary, Decatur, Ga., will be on the campus next Wednesday to interview students who are thinking of entering Columbia following their graduation at Maryville. Dr. Richards will hold his interviews in Dr. McClelland's office.

Hovel Wins First Place In State Musical Contest

Professor Ralph Martin Hovel received first place in the Young Artists Group at the recently held State Singing contest sponsored by the Tennessee Federation of Music clubs. This contest, held at Ward-Belmont college, Nashville, March 28, brought together singers throughout the state to vie for honors in the different divisions. The judges were professors of music from Northwestern, Julliard, and Cincinnati Conservatory.

By capturing first place Professor Hovel, tenor, has the honor of being the state representative in the district contest also to be held at Nashville in the near future. At this contest he will meet contestants from the five states which comprise the Dixie district: Tennessee, Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia, and Kentucky.

Ministerials Sponsor Holy Week Services

Beginning Monday, April 7 and ending Saturday, April 12, the Ministerial association is sponsoring a series of Holy Week services to be held each day from 12:35 to 1:00 p.m. in the YW room.

In accord with the theme of the meetings, "Lead Me to Calvary", the speakers and their topics are as follows:

Monday—"Lest I Forget Thy Mastery"—David Young.

Tuesday—"Lest I Forget Thy Authority"—Robert Watt.

Wednesday—"Lest I Forget Thy Humility"—Jacob Bradsher.

Thursday—"Lest I Forget Gethsemane"—Percy Martin.

Friday—"Lest I Forget Thy Love to Me"—Alfred Davies.

Saturday—"Lest I Forget Thy Victory"—Roland Tapp.

Maryville Professors To Attend College Association Next Week

The Tennessee College Association composed of 49 colleges will have its twenty-second annual meeting next week on April 9 and 10 in Nashville, at Vanderbilt University. Several members of the local faculty will attend and take an active part in the proceedings.

Dr. Ralph W. Lloyd will address the opening session on Wednesday on the subject "In Terms of Support and Relation of the Colleges." Others taking part on this particular program are President James D. Hoskins of the University of Tennessee and Dean Baker of Sewanee College.

Dr. Edwin R. Hunter, Dr. Frank D. McClelland, Dr. David H. Briggs, and Miss Seedorf will represent Maryville college on Thursday participating in their various fields.

Following the college meeting there will be a meeting of the Tennessee Education Association, April 11 and 12.

Theta Alpha Phi To Present Entertainment In Chapel Tonight

Entertainment for the student body will be furnished by Theta Alpha Phi Saturday night, April 5, in Voorhees chapel at 8:00, under the auspices of the Social Committee.

A mono-drama of "Shadows" by Amy Lowell will be presented by Bill Gehres, with Virginia Berg as narrator, with emphasis placed on lighting effects. A scene from "Mary of Scotland" by Maxwell Anderson, will be presented by June Morley as Mary and Frances Jon Hellums as Elizabeth. The program will be concluded with scenes from "The Bluebird" by Materlinck and from "The Hunchback of Notre Dame" by Victor Hugo, as directed by Frank Brink with emphasis on make-up effects. The characters participating in "The Bluebird" will be Mary Esther White and Sarah Crider as the children and Rosemary McCartney as the witch transformed into a fairy. In "The Hunchback of Notre Dame", Dave Hall will be made up as the Hunchback, Quasimodo, and Betty Clevenger will be the gypsy maid, while Andy O'Connor will appear as the priest.

Maryville College Observes Holy Week

Good Friday Service To Be Held In Chapel

Maryville college will observe Holy Week in special services on the campus, April 6-12. Special observance will be in the daily chapel exercises, Holy Week meditations led by the Ministerial association at noon every day, Good Friday service, and a Holy Week broadcast on Wednesday evening, culminating with the Easter services on April 13.

Friday morning a special Good Friday service will be held in Voorhees chapel at the regular chapel period. Dr. H. E. Orr, professor of Bible and Religious Education, will conduct the service. Five minute meditations on "The Seven Words from the Cross" will be led by Professor Archibald Pieper, Dr. L. L. Williams, and Dr. John A. Gates.

Ruth Andrews will be soloist, singing La Forge's "Before the Crucifixion." The a capella choir, under the direction of Mr. Ralph R. Colbert, associate professor of music, will sing the anthem "Into the Woods My Master Went," by Lutkin.

Each morning the chapel exercises will consist of a short devotional service in which passages from the account of Christ's life during the last week will be read. On Tuesday morning, Dr. R. W. Lloyd will conduct the service; Wednesday, Mr. R. J. Dollenmayer; Thursday, Mr. James R. Smith; Saturday, Dr. Ralph T. Case. The a-capella choir will sing a special number every morning.

Directed by the Ministerial association the fourth annual series of Holy Week meditations will be held every day in the YW rooms in Thaw hall, from 12:35 till 1:00. The theme, "Lead Me To Calvary", has been selected from the hymn by Jennie Evelyn Hussey and William J. Kirkpatrick. Senior members of the association will lead the programs which will be of a devotional nature. David Young will be the speaker on Monday; Robert Watt, president, Tuesday; Jacob Bradsher, Wednesday; Percy Martin, secretary, Thursday; Alfred Davies, vice president, Friday; and Roland Tapp, Saturday.

Music for the noon programs is to be furnished by Ruth Lane, Charles Orr, Elizabeth Ann Huddleston, Robert Francis, Estelle Farrow, and Betty Parker. The committee in charge of the daily meditation is headed by John Thompson, assisted by Cecil Eanes, Guy Lambert, Benjamin Lynt, and Clyde Nash.

On Wednesday evening, during the regular college broadcasting time from 7 to 7:30 on radio station WROL, the college will present a program appropriate for Holy Week.

NOTICE

The college payroll for March will be paid in the Student-Help office on Thursday, April 10.

The NYA month closes Saturday, April 5. Please call at the Student-Help office to sign your payroll card before Tuesday, April 8

Wick, Moore, Kidder, And Martin Are Elected As YMCA Officers For 1941-42 In Annual Election

Lynch Wins T. T. Alexander Prize; Fichter Is Second

At the Wednesday morning chapel service, April 2, Lucille Lynch won first place with her oration on "The Resurrection" for the T. T. Alexander prize awarded annually to the best oration on some specified religious subject. Elaine Fichter won second using as her topic "Salvation Through Faith." Eliminations had been held previously; thus the finals only were given in chapel. Both speakers presented their speeches with feeling and sincerity as well as smoothness and poise.

In many other speech events Lucille has competed successfully this year. At the state spech tournament held in Cookeville the first of March, she was adjudged the best varsity woman debater in the state, making an average of 93, the highest possible being 95. In addition she placed first in extemporaneous speaking and in impromptu. Lucille's home is in Parkersburg, West Virginia. Her major is sociology; she is a member of the Student Council as well as being vice president of Pi Kappa Delta.

Elaine is a transfer student from Madison College, and her aim is to be a doctor. She comes from West Hazelton, Pa., and is now secretary to Mrs. McMurray in the College Maid Shop. Elaine is a chemistry major and made the honor roll this past semester.

The T. T. Alexander prize fund, established by a generous friend of the college, who desires to remain anonymous and to have the prize named in honor of one of Maryville's foreign missionaries, provides prizes to be awarded annually to the winners of first and second places of an oratorical contest conducted under the supervision of the Bible and Religious Education faculty. The subjects chosen for the contest are the following: The Diety of Jesus Christ: Christ's Atonement for Sin; The Resurrection; and Salvation Through Faith. By the plan of alternation used, the participants one year are men and the next, women.

President Lloyd Will Conduct Radio Vespers

Sunday, 5:00 to 5:30 over WROL (620 on the dial), President Lloyd will conduct the radio vesper services from the studios in Voorhees chapel. He will speak on "The Crowd Who Sent Jesus to the Cross."

The choir, under the direction of Professor Ralph R. Colbert, will sing the responses for the hymns, "O Wondrous Type" and "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name." The anthems will be "Hospodi Pomilui" by Lvovsky and "The Palms" by Faure.

Jamarik Is Advisory Board Representative Of Class of '44

WICK IS NEW LEADER

President Has Begun Task Of Appointing Next Year's Cabinet

On Thursday of this week, April 3, election of new officers for the YMCA took place in Bartlett hall. Casting votes from one to five, and from seven to eight o'clock, the YM members chose Hilton Wick as their president and leader for 1941-42. Also elected on Thursday were Allan Moore as vice-president, Dave Kidder as treasurer, and Percy Martin as secretary. Paul Jamarik, freshman, was elected representative to the advisory board for the class of 1944.

Hilton Wick, the newly-elected president, is a junior political science major from Scottdale, Pa. Outstanding in many campus activities and popular with the student body, Hilton has held positions as president of the International Relations club, varsity debater, member of the Student Council, and treasurer of his freshman class. He is at present chairman of the YM worship committee, and business manager of the Chilhowean. Scholastically, he ranks each year near the top of the honor roll.

Active this year as student manager of the Artists' Series, treasurer of the junior class, and member of the athletic committee of the Y, Allan Moore will assume the duties of the vice-president next year. Allan is a junior from Baltimore, Maryland. His interests have kept him occupied as a member of the Student Volunteer cabinet, psychology assistant, and treasurer of the Ministerial society.

David Kidder resigns his position as vice-president of the Y to take office as the new treasurer. Dave's home, formerly in Chefoo, China, is now in Maryville. Dave is a music major and is a member of the glee club and choir. His organ playing is a part of many chapel services and programs. He serves this year as junior class representative on the Student Council.

Percy Martin from Holtwood, Pa., will be the secretary. He is an English major, and is the present treasurer of the Ministerial society and a prominent member of Student Volunteers. Percy will also be a senior next year.

Freshman representative to the advisory board, Paul Jamarik hails from Hopewell, Virginia. He has already gained prominence as a freshman debater. He is a member of Student Vols and the Law club.

President Wick has just begun the work of appointing his cabinet. The oppointments, yet to be approved by the advisory board, will be decided and announced next week.

Men, Here Are The Uncensored Facts About What She Dislikes

Attention! For men only!

Since most of you men will probably never have the highly questionable honor of sitting in on a hen party, perhaps you would like to know some of the decisions reached at these meetings of the fair sex. Perhaps you would like to learn just how you rate with the Maryville women.

Of course, there are opinions and more opinions as to the importance of men on the campus. And there are a variety of criticisms ranging from the rather severe criticism of Willie Williams to the mild criticism of Mary Orr. Willie has only one comment to make about you fellows. There s just one thing she doesn't like about you, and that's your attitudes—all of them! Mary Orr's stand is more favorable. She likes Maryville men. She likes southern gentlemen. In fact, she even likes you-know-what-I-mean Yankees. She, poor misguided girls, is of the opinion that men are human beings—at times.

Dottie Harned's pet peeve is noisiness. She does not like her date to arrive all togged up in an outfit that can be heard four blocks away. There is something about a fellow garbed in a suit of unmatching tweeds, a striped shirt, a polka-dot tie, and a plaid overcoat that makes Dottie and 99 percent of us females wonder if men have any taste except in their mouths. Picture-book shirts and startling color combinations are equally repulsive. Wearing suspenders with a coat is out so far as the more fastidious ladies are concerned. Why? I don't know.

Margaret Clippinger has a particular grudge against boys who tell little secrets in huge big stage whispers that can be heard anywhere in Maryville and vicinity. She also dislikes her dates to tell about all the girls he has been out with on previous occasions. Which brings up a question—why do all you men feel as though it's your sacred duty to allow "that girl back home" to monopolize the conversation? Sure, it's all right to tell your date that you did leave and do love a girl back home, but must you spend the entire evening giving a character sketch of the lady?

What would you fellows think of a girl who arrived at chapel with her hair uncombed, her coat half on and half off, her shoes untied and her lipstick somewhere in the far-too-general vicinity of her mouth? Well, that's just what the girls think of any fellow who struts about the campus with his shirt unbuttoned and the shirt tails floating in the breeze; with a beard

Change Y Store

We have heard much talk recently concerning the combining of the Y stores in the book store for next year. Last year a proposal was made to combine the stores but due to a change in plans nothing came of the proposal. However, we hope that during this coming year, the stores will be combined.

At the present time the balcony in the book store is not being used and under any economic system unused capital whether it be in the form of land, money, or buildings is waste. This space might just as well be used by the Y stores as their place of business.

Under combined management the store could serve hot sandwiches in addition to their present line of goods. This would enable students to get something better from the standpoint of health than a bottle of milk and four cookies. Certainly there is more nourishment in a sandwich than in four cookies.

As the Y stores are operating now, many of the students go to the drug stores and stores nearer the campus to spend their money. This money does not come back to the school nor to the students. Under a combined management of the Y stores, students would find the same service that they receive in town and would spend their money at the more conveniently located Y store. This money would be returned to the students in the form of better recreational equipment, better speakers for the YM and YW worship services, and a better social program. Such benefits as these would certainly be advantageous to the college as a whole.

Perhaps another thing that we should mention is the fact that the students would be in a better environment. At the present time many students sit down in a booth in one of the stores to drink a "coke" and, having nothing else to do, pick up one of the many cheap magazines found in the racks at most stores in town. This certainly is not the type of literature for college students to read. In a combined Y store this practice could be stopped and a better environment would be found.

This combination of management in the book store would tend to take the place of a union building until a student center building can be built.

Of course, we realize that supervision would be necessary, but this should not be hard to obtain. If the managers of the store are chosen carefully, the supervision to a large part could rest upon their shoulders. Then, several of the faculty members have already expressed their willingness to cooperate with such a plan. This being the case, we see no reason why a combined Y store wouldn't be beneficial both to the students and to the college as a whole.

ECHO ANALYSIS

Usually this column deals rather inexpertly with the troubles of the whole blooming world. But this week I'm unhappy; so I'm going to crud about things closer home.

First I'm in a bad mood because I just now had to pay my weekly salary to the library. The amount was thirty-five cents. What with another thirty-five more cents for a ticket to "Pure As the Driven Snow", that more than adequately advertised production presented by Alpha Sig and Theta, it looks as though dad is going to have to pass the hat again in order to keep his boy in school.

And then the oversized drizzle that fell Friday morning brought up pants pressing problems. Upon dripping into chapel Friday morning, I smartalecked up to Miss Henry and suggested that the Student-Help office promote a campaign for the building of covered walks. She comes back at me with the suggestion that people should not walk on the paths that the campus workers are trying to blot out by sodding. Well, how about it? What if we are five minutes late to class? The campus would look much better without those mud-packed walks which just happen gradually because people are in too much of a hurry to get some place where they usually wish they weren't.

FIRE ESCAPES

Far be it from me to raise a stink about something which I know very little about. But it has been called to my attention several times recently that the fire escapes at Baldwin hall are not as safe as they should be. Since I was going that way anyway, I took time to look at the fire escapes on either end of the building. And I'm inclined to agree that Baldwin girls might be in a bit of a mess if a fire were to make it imperative that they evacuate the building in large numbers.

However, I have been informed that the fire inspectors declare the building to be safe. Certainly, the fire escapes at Pearsons are in very good condition; those at Carnegie are in good condition; and those at Memorial are at least adequate.

One way to settle the Baldwin question would be to have a fire drill. As far as I know, we haven't had such in recent years. Other schools have them. Why can't we? In addition to being an aid in determining the safety or unsafety of the fire escapes, a fire drill, being so unusual here, might provide a lot of fun. Perhaps the Social Committee could work out something on the thing sometime when ideas for Saturday night entertainment are scarce.

Elsewhere on this page you have doubtless already found a nasty crack about the roommate of C. Brewer. In a slippery, slimy manner it is intimated that George Webster (roommate in question) has done something for which he could be blackmailed. The whole idea is ridiculous. Why Webster is so clean, so honest, so pure. Why only Friday, he went down town and partook of a "Pure As the Driven Snow" sundae. Right on the spot George passed out. Dr. said those things were too strong for his stomach.

April Fools has past, and so has our week of being junior editor of this popular periodical. Fun while it lasted, but more fun now that it's over. Bob Fisher takes over this week, you lucky people; and it will be interesting, at any rate, to see just what does happen. And this is the logical paragraph in which to thank Mary Ruth Heil for manning last week's column, and tell her once again what an excellent job she did.

If you glanced at last week's paper, or went down town lately, or happened in at the chapel last night or have a roommate who did any of those things, you indubitably are aware of the fact that "Pure As the Driven Snow" happened last night in Voorhees. "Zukes!" to quote somebody; "it was quite some play." Perhaps it's getting a bit personal, but we'd like to nominate for SCOTS AND SODA'S "Face on the Barroom Floor of the Week"; Nan Wood and Hawkins, for their delightful characterizations. Hero and heroine were naturally good. And not having been acquainted with the dramatic ability of Dud Moore, we got a very pleasant surprise there.

We heard an interesting slant on the change of schedule affair. It seems that Hester Santiago has developed fears about getting back from Porto Rico on time for the advanced opening. In fact, she was worried to the extent of beginning swimming lessons, just in case she missed the boat. That's what we call being very practical.

Last week everybody was going away; now, to parallel the idea that what goes up must come down, everybody's coming back. Among those showing up are Phyllis Johns, Joe d'Antonio, Dave Humphries, Clemmie Hahn and Stuart Schimpf. The return of Schwarzwalder and roommate Dilliner is still pending. Inez Johnson finally made it back, and the reason for her delayed return was not what most of you think; that's just a rumor.

And the mention of Clemmie's return brings up the subject of Clemmie's brother. His name was Bob; he's about six feet tall, and he has brown curly hair, hazel eyes, and shoulders THIS wide. Might nigh as pretty as our Clemmie. When he left, Thursday night, the group of hospitable boys who took him to the train had to be back at ten on account of the freshman; so they bought him a magazine, found a blond for him to sit by, and kissed him goodbye. And I don't mean the blond.

Pardon us a moment while we get a bit personal again. It's our turn for a plug, now. Our appeal has to do with a lost article which happens to be a gray, that is, black and white striped, fountain pen of the Shaeffer variety; slightly warped and bulging at the rear end. The owners, that's us, would greatly appreciate any information concerning the whereabouts of this object. It doesn't write very well, but we have a very, almost fanatical, deep attachment for it. And the Rev. Umbach will probably beat hang out of us if we turn up without it. If anyone should happen to locate it, we can be contacted at the Echo office, the Chilhowean office, 410 Pearsons, the dining hall, the personnel office, section D, row J, seat 8 in Voorhees, the Home Ec lab, or the library. Thank you.

We mentioned it about two weeks ago, but just in case any of you bustling seniors have forgotten, comprehensives are only about three weeks off. And those interesting co-operatives for the sophomores. We juniors and freshmen feel all left out in the cold and hurt and neglected. Don't we?

Yesterday morning on our way to chapel, we peered through the deluge and saw Mary Ruth Copeland. We thought it was maybe a mirage or astigmatism. But when she turned up again right there in the seat in front of us, we were pretty certain, and awfully glad to see her back. She is, it appears, attending Muskingum College, in Ohio, and is now enjoying spring vacation.

For those two or three people who haven't already heard, we'd like to mention the fact that Mack Wilson is now back on the campus, at the hospital, and, to coin a phrase, is doing as well as can be expected. He won't be out and around for a little while yet, but it's nice to feel that at least he is among us again.

Speaking of people getting out of stir, we were happy to hear Jane Trotter telling about fumigation going on in the Trotter household, cause that means Helen will be back with us—soon now.

We're aware that the early morning Easter service is about the loveliest the college program presents. Even so, we're still thankful we don't have to get up that early every morning, even to be queen of the May.

Imagine our bewilderment when, upon searching madly through the closet for something to wear, we came upon the bathrobes of Oliver Van Cise and Bill Henderson. Guess my roommate gets around more than I gave her credit for.

And in closing we might add that if C. Brewer's roommate cuts anything out of the column THIS week, we'll blackmail him. Yes, and we're the ones who can do it, too.

TALK OF THE WEEK .... By Jean White

'Driven Snow' ...

those taking part in the work of education in high schools and colleges in the state.

Richard Watkins and Nan Wood added more laurels with their characterizations of Jonathan Logan and his wife, Zamah, who owned the inn in which the action unfolds. Jonathan Logan was a sympathetic, gullible old fellow, rather on the hen-pecked side, while Zamah was obviously boss. Nan Wood, in this characterization, portrayed a part which was well cast.

Dud Moore as the ex-convict and unwilling tool of Mortimer Frothingham, gave an authentic New York accent, and with an irrepressible sense of humor which rather showed through at times, didn't seem at all a formidable character. This was, no doubt, a consequence of the contrast of a well-dressed, far-heard Romeo of New York's tough gangs with the old fashioned, black-hearted villain.

Melvin Johnson presented himself in the role of E. Z. Pickens, son of the owner of "Pickens Pickles", with his usual aplomb and was conspicuous in his characterization for the absence of any evidence of self-consciousness, except before the mother of Allison, the girl he loved. Rita Mae Frati, making her debut, played the part of an impressionable girl in her 'teens who liked life and fun. Mrs. Hewitt, her mother, was played by Alice Jones, who has appeared in several dramatic presentations here on the hill.

Imogene Pickens, sister of E. Z., as characterized by Betty Clevenger, also a veteran actress, was a hardhearted, spoiled young woman, much in love with the hero. Betty Jean Kennedy and Sara Cameron as Mrs. Faith Hogue and her maid, appeared only in the last act of the play, but showed their stage presence and poise to good advantage. Dorothy Harned as Nellie Morris, a woman of mystery, gave a good characterization of the cloak model who was out to get what was coming to her from the villain who has caught her in "a moment of weakness".

The enthusiasm and appreciation of a full house were shown by the way in which the audience entered into the spirit of the program. The artless playing of Charlie Burgreen at the piano added to the between-time acts in which Joan Humann starred with Carl Miller, Jack Lippard, Harry Lisle, and George Devereau; and everyone seemed in a singing mood as they joined with this quintet and the actors in "Daisy, Daisy".

Of course, as is always the case, the villain was exposed, the hero and heroine found their difficulties smoothed out, and so in the good old meller dramatic way, as we have said before, "They all lived happily ever after".

THE HIGHLAND ECHO APRIL 5, 1941

SPORT ECHOS

By BILL SWEENEY—Sports Editor

BASEBALL... Coach's diamond proteges started their current season on Thursday when they played Bond-Woolf on our home diamond. Several things appeared apparent in this game. First was that the team needs more practice and needs more power at the bat. However, a big gun in the attack of the Highlanders was Sport Shelfer's long line drive home run into deep right center. Sport really nailed the rock and it soared high, wide and handsome far out into the garden. It was tough that Les Rock didn't straighten out that long foul of his for it would have gone for extra bases if fair. The irony of the game seems to lie in the fact that the opposing pitcher was none other than our old mainstay last year, Nig Wilburn. And here he was pitching against Maryville and proving just as effective against as for us. The rain played tricks yesterday and the game with Hiwassee was called off. However, the local fans will be able to see the Scots in action on Monday and Tuesday of next week.

TRACK... The rain didn't help the track team any too much the past week either in their time trials. Several were run off before The Rains Came anyway, but the squad still needs too many good men in too many departments. The weather has been a big factor in the athletes condition so far and it has not been too warm for the thin clad warriors. The next few weeks should and will show a definite improvement in the track team according to Doug Steakley, experienced member of the team.

GOLF... This is a new part of the column, but the golf team, although they didn't do too well against the University of Tennessee, did take a step in the right direction with the formation of the team in this sport. Since then we have seen Harry Graham and other members of the team on the college course several times. Mention was made of the college course for one reason. Why not fix it up and make it half decent instead of the condition that it is now? It certainly has the possibilities of a good course, but there are many improvements that should be made and right now is a good time to do it, isn't it?

INTRAMURALS... The softball season is about to start in full swing and the past few days the football field has been covered with players. We have seen Findlay, Tinley, Howard, Graham, Lochausen, Puncheon, Overly, Harwood, etc., out there almost every day getting into shape. I mean some of them need to get into shape... and we don't mean the round shape some of them are in now.

TENNIS... A new sight now greets our eyes as we walk towards the gym. It is the sight of the tennis team practicing on their outside courts for the first few times. Van Cise has returned to the clay and it appears that his illness didn't affect his play much as he is in top form already.

ODDS AND ENDS... Mack Wilson has returned to the college hospital and is to be allowed to sit up today. Mack had a close shave and now that he is on the road to recovery, let's all run over once and awhile and see him. He'll appreciate it a lot...

Baseball Season Began Thursday On Home Diamond

Shelfer Sparks Scotties' Attack with Homer

On Thursday afternoon the Highlanders played host to the Bond-Woolf team of Maryville. The game was not really a regulation affair, but it was a start for the Scotties to discover where they were weak, and what has to be done about it.

One big thing was the home run of Shelfer and the play of some of the less experienced men. The more experienced men were taken for granted, but now that Coach has learned who he can depend on there will be a constant and great improvement in the team's play.

The tentative schedule for the entire season was anounced this week. Twenty-two games are on the program in all, eleven at home and eleven on the road. Plenty of action is in store for the local fans, who will have an opportunity to see such teams as U-T, Carson-Newman, LMU, East Tennessee Teachers, and several other first-rate clubs.

Probably the high point of the home season will be on Saturday, April 19, when the Carson-Newman Eagles come to town. Maryville and Carson-Newman are traditional rivals, and always produce plenty of action in their diamond clashes. Carson-Newman builds baseball teams for one purpose—to beat Maryville, and the Eagles consider a season successful only if they manage to trounce the Scotties. They aren't very often successful, but they make a pretty picture in trying.

Next home game on the slate is on Saturday, April 12, with the opposition furnished by the Light House independents of Knoxville. This is said to be one of the best amateur clubs in East Tennessee, and should provide a good game.

The "big" team gave a good account of itself in the game Thursday afternoon, and has been rounding into shape swiftly during the past week. The infield of Tommy Cragan at first, Lloyd Taylor at second, Scot Honaker at short, and J. D. Hughes at third appears to be all set. The three best looking outfielders thus far have been Leroy McGaha, Baby Baird, and freshman Tommy Saffell. Behind the plate, Fred Shelfer is a dependable veteran who will carry the bulk of the work. Relief will be furnished by freshman Roberts, who has all the makings of a good receiver.

None of the moundmen have really cut loose yet, but those who have been showing up well in intra-squad games are Bob Short, Leslie Rock, Norman Hooker, "Lefty" Bob Mair, and Paul Sieber.

Lots of batting practice is on the menu for next week, for few of the athletes are really in the groove. Mack has been laying a few deep out into leftfield, Scot has been meeting the ball well, and Saffell continues to pole out long drives from the wrong side of the platter. On the whole, however, the squad leaves something to be desired in the stickwork department.

Work on the diamond is about complete. The infield is still a bit rough in places, and quite a few bad hops can not be avoided. Stands have been erected behind the plate and along the first base line, and there is plenty of room for several hundred fans.

Hahn Returns From National A.A.U. Championships In New York City

On Saturday, March 23, Clem Hahn left Maryville to go to New York to wrestle in the National AAU championship wrestling tournament. On Monday, April 1, he returned to Maryville from the wars and although he did not win the tournament, he did show up well and gained fame both for himself and for the college. It was not his fault either that he didn't go further in his quest for the championship laurels because he sprained his ankle in the middle of his last match and, although he went on with the injured ankle, to win his match by a decision, his ankle was too badly injured and the doctors would not allow him to go on any further in the bouts.

Before going on it appears best that we clear up the way in which the points were gained in this tournament. If a man got five bad points against him he was eliminated from the tournament, and if he was pinned he was also eliminated; now for the ways in which the bad points were racked up against a man: if a man was decisioned he got three points against him, and if he pinned his man he got one point against him. Therefore the only way to keep his slate clean was to pin every man that he ran up against.

After leaving here, Clem journeyed to Appalachian and worked out there and it was here that he learned a new pinning hold that proved its worth in the matches in New York. On Sunday he left Appalachian and arrived in New York on Monday, from where he went to Boston to train in the YMCA gym until Thursday when he returned to New York to be weighed in.

At 2:00 Friday afternoon Clem met his first opponent and was decisioned by the same. On Friday evening he met his second man, Charles Harris of the New Orleans A.C. and Clem pinned this man in 45 seconds for the record pin of the tournament. Friday evening he weighed in again and at 10:00 on Saturday morning he wrestled his third man and it was in this match that he hurt his ankle and had to withdraw from further competition.

When Clem pinned his man in his second bout it was with the hold that he had just learned at Appalachian the same week. In "Who's Who Among Wrestlers", published by the committee who took charge of the proceedings, we find this statement, "Clement Hahn comes from Iowa, was graduated from Worcester High, Mass., and is a student at Maryville College, Tenn., where he will graduate in June next. He has wrestled 32 intercollegiate bouts and won 30 of them and has never yet been pinned."

One of the highlights of the tournament, according to Clem, was to watch a small 14 year old high school boy wrestle a 145 lb. college man and actually force the college man to go the full ten minutes before he was awarded the decision. This youngster was just brought along by his coach to see what he could do and as Clem says, "He did a whole lot better than some of the college men did."

Well, that's the end of this story about one of our athletes' attempts to bring Maryville into the big time in sports, and next year Clem says he will try it again. Maybe this first attempt will urge others from here to try and let's all hope they do as well in their first attempt as Clem did in his.

Swim Meet Proves Huge Success As Sophomores Win

Last Saturday night in the Maryville college swimming pool the intramural committee held their annaul swimming meet between the four classes. This year it was the sophomore class who came through with the victory as they piled up a total of 33 points against their nearest competitors, the juniors, who scored 27 points. The sophs took four firsts, three seconds, and one third for their 33 points. The juniors took three firsts, and four seconds, the freshman gathered two seconds, and three thirds for their 11 points while the seniors ,placing last, received a first and one third for six points.

Parvin was the outstanding man for the sophs and it was due to him that

Track Team Holds Time Trials This Week And Next

Team Still Appears Weak In Many Departments

Rain yesterday prevented the kiltie-klads from completing their all-important practice time trials. Besides offering a fairly accurate preview of the Orange and Garnet cinder burners, Coach Davis had expected to determine from the winners his first string starters in the dashes, sprints, and hurdles.

Doug Steakley, one of the fanciest quarter-milers in the state, ran his one-lap specialty in great style and was clocked at 55 seconds. This mark betters by one second Doug's time for the quarter on the previous afternoon. Harry Kell, a junior transfer student, took second place honors with a time of 56 seconds.

Alfy Davies was tops in the field of duo-milers. His time clocked at 12.1 minutes, although not close to mid-season form and several minutes over the college all-time record, was encouraging for this early in the spring. Tracy Ellis, up and coming freshman who hails from Maryland, and Floyd Green finished at an equal stride and were timed at 12.2 minutes.

The new uncrowned king of the Highlanders' mile event is Jack Fesperman, who made the four circuits around the cinder oval in 5.6 minutes. This time is also good for so early in the campaign, but if he is to continue to finish ahead of Alfy Davies and Floyd Green, Fesperman will have to knock on a gait of less than five minutes.

Gene McCurry tossed the shot for a distance of 38 feet during trials in the field events. Although Bill Baird heaved the leaded-ball for 34 feet, he is not able to put his whole weight behind a throw because of his crippled shoulder. Until Brother William can get a more serviceable brace than the present one, he will not be able to come close to his two-year-old college discus record of 124 feet.

Another of the best marks to be established so early in the season is the 21 foot broad jump marked up by Julius Nicely. This leap is not far short of the existing college record set by Loessberg in 1935. Should his strides continue in the waxing direction both the college mark and Joe Etheredge's best jumps of last year are seriously threatened.

In the pole vault, high and low hurdles, and javelin Coach Davis is starting his team from scratch. Roy Laughmiller has the inside track on the latter event, but his tosses must reach the 140 mark for varsity competion. Justus and Simpson, both begin-that reminds us of how Moses, allergic as he was to the forerunner of the modern razor, would look were he still living; with dirty fingernails and long hair. Those of you who refuse to wear a coat to dinner are also social outcasts. And if you are now wearing a brown suit, don't look now, but if your shoes are black, you will be frowned upon by the women. Black and brown just ain't supposed to be worn together like that. Didn't cha know? Why not get out your white shoes? They are increasing in popularity.

Just because there is supposedly nothing new under the sun, do you boys have to bid farewell to originality? It seems to the gals that the situation has become very grave when one asks her date not "What are you going to do after college?", but "Are you a Ministerial or a Pre-Med?" Not bad enough that everyone of you have chosen one of two professions so entirely have you lost your sense of originality, that some of the women on the hill have threatened to post a notice, WANTED—A MAN WITH A NEW LINE. Some of the things about the present campus line that the ladies don't like might well be mentioned. First, there is the royal march. Don't look so dumb. That's the stride that says "I'm pretty good stuff, girls. Take a look at me." Second, there is the little sister angle. Maybe you are somebody's big brother, but that doesn't give you any license to assume a brotherly attitude toward every girl you meet. It doesn't go over the way you think it does. Next, don't presume on the lady's stupidity. It makes 'em mad when you expect them to fall for a line that is as conspicuous as an arm in a sling. When your line gets so long and involved that you trip on it and have to be rescued by the women, it's time to try to get a trade in.

Most of the girls who go steady are all for you. They like men, but—they don't like their man to take too much for granted. It burns them up to be forgotten women on special occasions—birthdays, Easter, concert nights, etc. They can't see why they aren't entitled to an explanation when their Romeo forgets a date. They aren't mind readers and they'd like to know whys and wherefores rather than have the gentleman feel that she's his girl and doesn't need any explanations. All in all, these girls are fond of you and take your part in hen parties.

Well, fellows, that is the humble opinion of you held by Maryville ladies. Of course, I neglected to mention some of your more common faults, conceit, laziness, unreasonableness, insincerity, and stubborness. Outside of that you're tops!

YM Will Have Annual Banquet On April 14

At 6:00 on Monday evening, April 14, the YMCA will hold its annual banquet in the home economics dining room. There will be room for 100 men at the banquet, Phil Evaul, president of the YM, announced. A Y officer will put up notices soon on the bulletin boards where those wishing to attend may sign. The first hundred men who sign may attend. The price per student will be twenty cents.

Musical Meditation At YM For Palm Sunday

The YMCA service tomorrow will have Palm Sunday as its theme and will be a program of musical meditation. Special music will be offered by Jean Heckman on the violin and there will be appropriate poetry readings by George Tibbetts. Hal Lloyd will deliver a short talk. This musical and poetical program will be presented at 1:30 in Bartlett auditorium.

Rev. J. Edward Kidder Will Speak At Vespers

Rev. J. Edward Kidder, missionary to Shantung, China, since 1920, who has returned to the States within the last month, will be the speaker at vespers Sunday evening at 7:00. The subject of Mr. Kidder's talk will be "The Situation in China and the Far East."

Mr. Kidder was graduated from Maryville college in 1916, attended the Western Theological Seminary, and received his M.A. from the University of Pittsburgh.

YWCA Cabinet Is Named by Gammon

Ready to take over the duties of their respective offices next month after Retreat are the members of the new YWCA cabinet, recently appointed by Anne Gammon, president-elect of YW. The new cabinet is composed of twelve girls who are now juniors and eight who will be juniors next year.

Having charge of the Y's athletic program are Marian Jenkins and Jeanne Stringham. Margaret Fain is the chairman of the devotions committee, and Jane Metcalf and Cornelia Jones form the house committee, which is responsible for keeping the Y rooms clean and neat. The YW lyceum representative is Marian Magill, while Ruth Duggan will represent the Y on the M book staff. Mary Ruth Heil and Jane Glass will take over the Y's program at Sunnybrook Mission, and Margaret Ash will have charge of the orphanage work.

The Y's music for next year will be in charge of Louise Marshall, and Doris Smith and Dorothy Barber will plan the programs. Pi Gamma Sigma representative is Helen Trotter; publicity agent, Aura Santiago. Taking over Dottie Jean Eslinger's and Betty McArthur's places in the Y Store are Helen Cone and Geraldine Hogan. The new social committee is composed of Beth Pascoe and Ruth Wynn, and succeeding Vivian Moore as World Fellowship secretary is Marion Avakian.

Nu Gamma leaders for next fall will be announced at an early date.

Smith Will Show Film At Athenian Society

At Athenian tonight, Publicity Director James R. Smith will show the pictures of campus life which have been taken during the year.

Plans will probably be discussed concerning the coming banquet.

SWIMMING MEET . . .

they were able to take the meet. This speedy two year man gathered a first in the 50 yd. free style in 31.6 seconds; a first in the 100 yard breast stroke in 1.39, placed third in the diving and was a member of the winning rlay team that took the 200 yard relay.

McDaniels and Culver were the two top men for the juniors as each was a member of the 200 yard relay team which placed third and each one won a race and placed second in a race. For the frosh, there was no outstanding man as several cooperated to gain their points.

The meet was held before a larger crowd than anyone had anticipated and this crowd was on its feet cheering and yelling several times when the races appeared close and the contest became more and more heated. The best part, perhaps, of the whole show was to watch this already mentioned Parvin lad shoot through the water. His stroke was a beauty and his opponents were usually left far behind at the end of the first turn. Another thing was that he never seemed to be tired. He would swim a fast race and then a few minutes later turn around and be in another without much rest at all.

The turnout of participants was not too great and especially for the seniors. It was for this reason that the old men didn't show up so well. They were only represented by four men and therefore were not able to enter in all the events. The freshmen had six men entered in the meet and they had the largest number out, while the sophs with only five captured the meet in fine style.

It appeared at first that the juniors were going to take the meet easily, as in the first three races they gathered two seconds and a first before the sophs were able to gather hardly any at all. However, after this the meet appeared all sophomore and well it was for in every event following that the sophs placed four firsts and two seconds.

If the weatherman is kind to him, Coach Davis will hold his belated time trials next week. At this time he must find several good men to take over the 100 and 220 yard dashes, high and low hurdles, and mile relay. The outlook is fair except for the situation in both hurdles events caused by an alarming lack of material.

The first track meet of the season will be April 26 against Tennessee. The opener, scheduled for Shields-Watkins athletic field in Knoxville, will find last year's state champs up against the Orange and Garnet runners-up. On May 2 the Chattanooga thinly-clads will oppose the Scotties, and on May 10 the Davismen travel to Sewanee for the state track and field meet. Still in the correspondence stage is a date with Emory-Henry for sometime in early May.

Professor Quiz Program Presented at Law Club

Last Thursday, April 3, at 6:45, the Law club held its regular meeting in Alpha Sigma hall and participated in a unique program modeled after the program of Professor Quiz with questions on legal terms of common law.

Plans for the next meeting were discussed, and it was decided that another mock trial envolving a libel case against the writer of Scots and Soda in the March 29 issue of the Echo would be held on April 17.

It was also decided that the annual banquet would be held May 15 in the Masonic hall in Maryville.

"Emil Und Die Detektiv" Featured at German Club

"Emil Und Die Detektiv", a motion picture, will be shown before the German club Thursday, April 10, at 6:45 in Miss Johnson's class room.

On April 17, a skit from "Faust" by Gounod will be put on. Mr. Ralph Hovel will sing selections from the opera. The first annual banquet of the club will be held May 2.

Brink Is In Charge Of Tonight's Entertainment

Come to Voorhees on Saturday and see drama at its best! Frank Brink, doing honors work in dramatic art, will be in charge of the Saturday evening entertainment, the social committee has announced. Members of the art department will be made up to take character parts in skits from well known plays.

IRC Will Hold Annual Election Of Officers

This Monday evening at 6:45 the International Relations club will hold an election of officers at its regular meeting held in Bartlett auditorium.

The candidates for office are as follows:

President, Janet Lindsay and George Tibbetts; secretary, Natalie Yelton and Phyllis Anne Cain.

VOLUME 26 MARYVILLE, TENN. APRIL 12, 1941 NUMBER 24

Local Debators End Season At Rock Hill, S. C.

Maryville's Contestants Take Fourth Place At Montevallo

Vieing with some 78 contestants from eighteen colleges and eight states the local debaters came out fourth at the recently held Provincial tournament, sponsored by Montvallo College for Women, at Montevallo, Alabama, April 2-5. The Wake Forest Deacons and the Tennessee State Forensicers won the two top places.

The Maryville women's team, composed of Janet Lindsay and Lucille Lynch won second place, Lenoir-Rhyne capturing top honors. Jack Zerwas and Henry Wick were the men debaters meeting such teams as Centre, Georgetown, Lenoir-Rhyne, Stetson, and others in their ten rounds of debate.

In the extra speaking contests Henry Wick won first place in impromptu and Jeanne Stringham and Vernon Lloyd reached the finals in the extemporaneous speaking. Jeanne also entered the finals with her oration indicting the American school system, "Grafters". The impromptu contest, consisting of four rounds, had such subjects as propaganda, labor, America's place in the next century, and teaching Spanish in the high schools. In the women's impromptu, following the subjects used in the men's section, third place was caputred by Lucille Lynch, who recently won the T. T. Alexander prize.

All in all, the Maryville debaters and their accomplice, Professor Archibald Pieper, report a very successful and entertaining tourney. On the return trip the group visited points in northern Georgia and Lookout Mountain in Chattanooga.

With a grand finale at the Grand Eastern tournament, sponsored by Winthrop College for Women, Rock Hill, S. C., the local debaters have written a finis to the debate this year. As of the present writing the results of this tourney, which started Wednesday of this week and closed some time this morning, are not known; the results of this and a resume of the other contests of the year will be presented in a future issue of the Echo.

Seniors George Webster, Edward Thomas, and Bill Felknor have delivered their last speeches in an official capacity for Maryville college. George and Ed have debated both sides of the Pi Kappa Delta query for the past

Rowley Announces Ministerial Banquet

Dr. Kidder and Dr. Davis Selected To Speak

Edward Reeves Rowley, chairman of the Ministerial association Banquet committee, announces that the annual formal banquet will be held at the Masonic hall in Maryville, the evening of Tuesday, April 29. Dr. Edmund Wayne Davis, professor of Greek and Latin and secretary to the faculty, has been secured as toastmaster for the evening.

As special speaker the association has the honor of hearing Dr. J. Edward Kidder, now on furlough from his mission work at Temple Hill, Chefoo, China.

The banquet committee includes, besides Chairman Rowley, Lawrence Stresbley, David Young, Allan Moore, Ralph Thompson, Philip Vance, and Gabriel Williamson. Reservations for the banquet may be made through any of the above-mentioned committee members on or before April 27.

Dr. J. B. Bernardin To Speak At YM Banquet Monday Evening at 6:00

The annual YMCA banquet will be held on Monday evening at 6:00 in Fayerweather hall. The guest speaker is to be Dr. J. B. Bernardin, rector of St. Andrew's Episcopal church. Dr. Bernardin will discuss college life in Europe. The program will also include recent motion pictures taken by Dr. Lloyd. The dinner will be served by the home economics department. The committee in charge of arrangements is comprised of Charles Baldwin and Clem Hahn.

Choir Goes To Chattanooga April 27

Mary College's A Capella Choir, under the direction of Associate Music Professor Ralph R. Colbert, will sing two special services in Chattanooga on Sunday, April 27.

On Sunday morning the Choir will sing a special service at the Second Presbyterian church. Dr. Robert M. Stimson, pastor of this church, is also a Maryville College director. The evening program will be at the Centennial Methodist church. The pastor of this church is a special friend of Professor Colbert, having performed his marriage ceremony.

The Choir will leave Maryville at approximately seven o'clock on the morning of the twenty-seventh. Travelling in private cars, the Choir will leave Chattanooga Sunday evening shortly after the last service and will arrive on the campus that night.

Atlantic Highlanders' Annual Meeting To Be Held In Washington

The annual meeting of the Atlantic Highlanders club will be held in Washington on April 19. This organization is made up of Maryville alumni from the Middle Atlantic district. The officers for this year include: George H. Osborn, class of '32, president; Mrs. Zelma McCann (Zelma Alexander), class of '31, vice president; Harold Holman, class of '29, secretary-treasurer.

The speaker at the banquet will be Judge Wiley Rutledge, associate Justice U. S. Court of Appeals. Judge Rutledge is a former Maryville student and was for several years the Dean of University of Iowa Law School. His wife taught Greek at Maryville from 1911 to 1914.

Dr. Lloyd is planning to attend the meeting.

President Lloyd Will Conduct Radio Vespers

Sunday 5:00 to 5:30 p. m. over WROL (620 on the dial), President Lloyd will conduct the services from the Maryvill College studios, and will speak on the subject: "Why Christians Believe on Immortality.'

The College Choir under associate Professor Colbert will sing the responses, the hymns, "Jesus Christ Is Risen Today" and "The Strife Is O'er, The Battle Done,' and the anthms "Christ Is Risen" by Hirsch and "On That Sabbath Morn" by Dett.

Junior Recital Presented Friday

Graybeal, Stiles, Barber, And Lane Perform

Janice Graybeal, Ruth Lane, Florence Barber, and Dean Stiles will perform in the junior musical recital, which is to be presented Friday, April 18, in Voorhees chapel.

Miss Graybeal at the organ will play "Bist du bei mir" by Bach, "Bourree and Musette" by Chenoweth, "Meditation" from Thais by Massenet, and "Gothic March" by Foschini. Miss Lane will sing "Alleluia in F" by Mozart, "All Souls Day" by Strauss, "The Hour of Dreaming" by Hahn, and "Lullaby" by Gretchaninoff.

Dean Siles, member of the choir, will sing "In Questa Tomba" by Beethoven, "To Scenes of Peace Retiring" from the Magic Flute, and "O Isis and Osiris", also from the Magic Flute, by Mozart. Later in the program he will sing "The Two Grenadiers" by Schumann, "The Clover Blossoms Kiss Thy Feet" by Vogrich, and "A Son of the Desert" by Phillips.

Florence Barber at the piano will play "Fugue in D major" by Bach, "Sonata Op. 10 No. 3 from Presto" by Beethoven. The last numbers on the program will also be rendered by Miss Barber and will be "Prelude in G Minor" by Rachmaninoff, "Nereid" by Rebikoff, and "Rhapsody in C Major" by Dohnanyi.

The regular Friday afternoon bi-weekly recitals will be discontinued during April and May.

Lochausen Sues Mary Ruth Heil

But Only In Mock Trial Don't Get Excited

Wesley (Tex) Lochausen is bringing suit against Miss Mary Ruth Heil in next week's term of Circuit court. Lochausen maintains that Miss Hiel printed an untrue statement about him in the March 29 issue of the Highland Echo.

Miss Heil wrote that Lochausen had dated "that ultra-delectable freshman". Neither Miss Hiel nor Mr. Lochausen has made any statement concerning the identity of this "ultra-delectable freshman."

On the date in question Miss Heil was the writer of SCOTS AND SODA, a column usually written by Miss Bette Umbach, and carried in the Echo every day except Sunday, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday.

Lochausen, who vigorously denies ever having a date with such a person as was described by Miss Heil, is bringing suit against Heil. He accuses her of deliberately writing the story with malicious intent. Sheriff Andrew Richards has already given Miss Heil her court summons and everything is ready for the trial, which is to take place next Thursday evening in Alpha Sigma hall at 6:45.

Jackson Kramer, Ed Lochner, and Roy Crawford will act as attorneys for the plaintiff. James Witt, Olsen Pemberton, and Bob Wilcox will represent the defendant, Miss Heil.

Maryville Males Have Definite Ideas About The Perfect Woman

Have you found out what the most interesting topic of conversation is? It's "women". Perhaps you girls haven't heard some of the things that the fellows have been saying about you. If you haven't, you will want to be enlightened on the subject.

Of course, one always finds extremes. For example, there is the fellow who thinks this article might help the girls to see what men like; and then there is the other fellow who says, "Since you can't expect a woman to change, why write such an article?" As one fellow put it though, it will at least give the girls something more to talk about. So, here are just a few of the many opinions of some of the men.

Perhaps we should begin with some of the more prominent people. We tried to get Hal Lloyd's opinion, but he refused to comment because he is thinking of starting a dating campaign and he doesn't want any of the girls mad at him. I guess he is trying to find out which type he does like. Anyway, we will have to find some other "man on the street" to discuss the problem with.

Here is Art Peterson, and he seems to have some opinions on the subject. Ah, yes! He likes sincerity. He has also confessed that a fellow is always looking for the same type of girl that his mother is. I guess from the looks of things he has already found what he likes.

Here comes Gabriel Williamson. Let's see what his ideas are. He doesn't mind fingernail polish or lipstick, but he hates to see them put on "sloppily". Then too he isn't fond of seeing girls wear bright red polish when they are wearing a light green blouse. The contrast just isn't what it ought to be.

There's Frank Barr over there. What are your opinions, Frank? He doesn't like duo personalities. There's no sense in being inconsistent. Make up your mind what "line' you are going to use and then use it. Thank you, Frank. Any other opinions you would like to state? Girls shouldn't break a date at the last moment, and they shouldn't take too long to dress. Perhaps this remark will be censored, but girls wearing short skirts should be more wearing short skirts . . . (it was). Thank you again, Frank.

"Let's find out what Dick Boyd's

Invitations Chosen For Seniors; Samples Will Arrive Shortly

The senior class invitations committee has met with the representative of the Charles H. Elliot Company and has chosen the senior class invitations for this year. While the invitations themselves follow the general form of preceding years, there are new pictures being used in the place of some of the older ones of last year; and the order of pages is being changed.

John Ballenger, chairman of the committee, Jane Carter and Jean White, members of the invitation committee, will have samples of these invitations shortly after the fifteenth of the month and will take orders until the twenty-fifth, at which time all orders must be in and money paid.

Freshmen may try-out for positions on the Echo staff next week. Those wishing to tryout should come to the Echo office Tuesday night at 6:30. The selections will be made by the editorial staff on or before April 28

'Julius Caesar' To Be Presented By Senior Class

Felknor, O'Connor, Schimpf, Moore, and Evaul Take Leads

Early this week the cast for the senior class play, "Julius Caesar", was chosen, and now the cast and production managers have started work.

The more important parts have been cast as follows: Brutus portrayed by Andy O'Connor; Portia by Elizabeth Moore; Cassius, Stuart Schimpf; Antony, Phil Evaul; and Caesar by William Felknor.

The remainder of the cast, though minor characters, are, nevertheless, important; and in several cases, where possible, the same person has been chosen to play two or three roles. This was made necessary by the small number of seniors who were able to try out for the play. The rest of the character roles to be played as as follows:

Calpurnia, Caesar's wife—Katherine Bennett

Lucius, a servant—William Gehres.

Casca—Jack Harwood.

Decius—Arthur Peterson.

Octavius—Melvin Magee.

Messenger to Antony, Servant of Antony; First soldier of Antony—Eugene Reid.

Trebonius; Voluminus—Joe Swift.

Metullus Cimber; Titinius—Richard Watkins.

Flavius; Messala; Marullus—John Astles.

Artemidorus; Second Citizen—John Thompson.

Soothsayer; Fourth Citizen—Barbara Swift.

Poet; Third Citizen; Second Soldier; Varro—Floyd Green.

Cina the Conspirator—Willard Klimstra.

Claudius; Strato—Jake Bradsher.

Cobbler; Pindarius; Lucilius—Frank Brink.

First Citizen—John Guinter.

Mrs. Frances Patterson Featured At Art Club

Mrs. Frances Patterson will give a demonstration with easel and charcoal on figure drawing at the next Art club meeting. She was art instructor here two years ago. The next meeting of the club will be at 6:30, Thursday, April 24 in the Baker Art Gallery.

At the last meeting Mary Fisher spoke about Persian art. She has lived in Persia and possesses some lovely works of art. Her silverware, tapestries and filagree works were admired by all.

Lloyds Open Program With Easter Breakfast For Band Members

BAND PLAYS AT 3:50

Students Given "All Day Dating Privileges" As Is Easter Custom

Beginning at sunrise and continuing through the day, several services in commemoration of the Resurrection and in celebration of Easter will be held on the campus tomorrow. Plans for Easter Sunday follow a definite routine according to a sort of traditional procedure established by custom and several years of use. The chief difference this year will be in the time schedule of the program. With Easter falling as it does, three weeks later than in 1940, the earliest portion of the services, always planned to begin shortly before sunrise, will occur about an hour earlier than it did last year.

As has been their practice for the past few years, President and Mrs. Lloyd will begin activities tomorrow morning at 3:30. They will entertain with an Easter breakfast at their home those members of the band, choir, glee clubs, and faculty who will participate in the services later in the day.

A sort of reveille of sacred music will begin at approximately 3:50. The band, from its place near the center of the campus, will play some of Bach's beautiful chorales. After about half an hour the band members will divide into two groups and set out for the woods, one part for the college cemetery and the other for Dr. Stevenson's home. There, at intervals during the next two hours, they will play antiphonal music, responding to each other with musical phrases across the woods.

At about 4:30 when the band leaves, the procession of students and visitors will start for the college amphitheater where the Easter sunrise service will take place. Considered by many persons as the most beautiful and impressive of the whole year's services, this meeting has for several years attracted many visitors and friends of the community. It is a simple and reverent service in which everyone may take part.

As the sun rises at 5:05, the quiet dignity of this devotional service will begin. The combined glee clubs and choir under the direction of Professor Ralph R. Colbert will furnish the sacred music for the program, opening with "Alleluia, The Strife is O'er". The Easter story as told in the sixteenth chapter of Mark, the story of the visit of the two Marys to the tomb and the subsequent appearances of Christ to his followers will be the

Feminine Half of Campus Finds Easter Provides Tough Problems

It's an expensive proposition—this week before Easter. Anyway it's expensive for the feminine element at Maryville. For some unexplainable reason, last year's clothes just won't do—the shape of the hat's all wrong; the coat fits like a lastex bathing suit; and the dress, well, it's just all wrong generally. And so, after many subtle letters to Dad and some not-so-subtle to Mother, your check arrives—such as it is. They quite evidently don't realize you can't buy a hat, coat, suit, and shoes for twenty dollars. But that seems to be the budget, and you do with it what you can.

Arriving home, proudly bearing your purchases, you yell "Lookit!" to your next door neighbor. But before you can explain, she drags you into her room and shows you her own Easter outfit. Although it is a rather sweet ensemble, it just can't match yours. And so you display your own, and wonder why she seems so uninterested—well, not uninterested exactly, but certainly not as profuse as you deserve. Roommate comes tearing in with a package slip marked (11) and you swallow hard. Her mother believes in sending a complete outfit, you gather—and you are quite sure when she comes staggering in, bent double by her load. As she excitedly tears off the wrapping, no less than the fifty-seven other girls in the dormitory come in—all conspicuously clad in their new finery—and patronizingly inspect roommate's new wardrobe (probably for future reference.)

Somehow, you don't feel as chipper as you had when you came in. The girl next door on the other side, sits beside you on your bed, and sighs audibly. You, of course, feel obligated to ask her what the trouble is.

"Do you suppose," she asks dreamliy, "that Stinky'll send me gardenias or carnations?" Suddenly, unexplainably, you feel sick. Flowers! In the first place, you know Elmer would never think of sending you flowers. And in the second place, if he did think of it, he'd be broke. It's chronic—his being broke. You rationalize yourself into thinking that flowers would look funny on your dress, but still don't feel much better. Your well-meaning friend turns to you and says sweetly:

"What do you think you'll get?" And when you answer "Daffodils!" they think you are kidding. The last straw, though is when another well-meaning friend looks at your stunning new Easter dress and says kindly:

"That's kinda cute. Is it new?" Oh, well. Elmer appreciates you!

Appreciation? . . .

Although our Maryville College Campus is somewhat a community in itself, we can't help feeling our dependence on the town of Maryville. The city officials have cooperated one hundred per cent with all college activities on every occasion. To them we give a rising vote of thanks.

But there are other ways in which we students can show our appreciation—we must support with our actions the things we say. The city offers us protection and cooperation. What do we give in return? Do we protect and cooperate with the city?

Consideration for the property and rights of others would be one way to show our appreciation. It is only justice and common sense. Yet, in spite of the knowledge our obligation, some of our fellow students take fiendish glee in destroying or purloining the property of other people.

Since the opening of school there have been several occasions when the street lights between the campus and town and near the campus entrances have been broken by students. Each of these lights uses approximately 2300 volts of electricity which makes them rather expensive to replace. Whether these lights were broken for fun or as a matter of convenience is immaterial. It is willful destruction. The student body should neither by approval nor indiffernce allow a minority of students to give the College a reputation for lack of cooperation and appreciation.

The Chilhowean . . .

One is reminded of the fact that school is drawing to a close by the appearance of the 1941 Chilhowean on Monday afternoon. The Echo wishes to congratulate Editor Don Kent and Business Manager Hilton Wick and their staff on this splended edition of the Chilhowean.

It is our opinion that there has never in the history of the college a group of more attractive class sponsors. It is noticeable that the uniformity of dress in their portraits does not interfere at all with their individuality. Wouldn't it improve the general appearance of girls' portraits in the annual if all of them were done in a similar way?

ECHO ANALYSIS

Early last Sunday the long-expected Balkan blow-up occurred. The mechanized might of the Nazis powerplunged its way into unprepared Yugoslavia and tiny battleworn Greece. The raw courage exhibited by the Yugoslav and Greek soldiers in defending their homelands has been no less than admirable. No matter what be the outcome of the war, the Greeks have already written pages of bloody heroic history of which their country may forever be proud.

SAME OLD STORY

However, so far it has been the same old story. Courage alone is no match for machines. Poland, France, Norway, Finland, Belgium, and the Netherlands all fell before superior mechanization.

There is but one hope for Yugoslavia and Greece. That is the British Expeditionary Force. It is thought that at least 300,000 seasoned British troops have been transported from the African battlefield across the Mediterranean to Greece. At this writing the main body of the BEF and Hitler's Panzer divisions have not come to grips. These British troops, fighting with the best equipment the British Empire has to offer, should provide a true test for the might of the Nazis. But more important, it will be a test for the British themselves. If the Germans are able to manhandle the British in the same manner they have the Yugoslavs and Greeks, the outlook for Britain will be dark, to say the least.

BATTLE OF THE ATLANTIC

Last Wednesday, Prime Minister Winston Churchill made one of the gravest speeches of the war. He as much as admitted that the Battle of the Atlantic was going against the British. Nazi U-boats, surface raiders, and bombers are seriously threatening to slash the British lifeline to the United States. If the Germans succeed in doing this, disaster for the British will be inevitable. Churchill didn't say so in so many words, but he indirectly placed the fate of Britain in the hands of the United States.

If Britain is to continue fighting, she must have food and fighting equipment from this side of the Atlantic. Furthermore, she must have ships to convoy this equipment. The U. S. alone is able to provide these ships. Undoubtedly, President Roosevelt would be more than willing to provide both ships and men to man them. But up to now he has been treading slowly, allowing time for public opinion to back him in his diplomatic moves. So far, the people of the United States have been reticent about taking any action that might involve us in actual warfare. Now perhaps the time has come when Roosevelt must act against the wishes of the people. Any action to be taken must be taken quickly if Britain is to be saved. Nazi U-boats don't wait for American public opinion to form.

For the past three weeks we have been blithely announcing the coming of spring; yet behind that seemingly confident pose there has lurked a trifle of a doubt, caused by rain, damp weather, and such things. But now we may state with a clear conscience and purity in our hearts that now that the shuffle boards are being used again, spring is really here.

And with spring has come the round of visitors, hunting their spring vacations right in our wistful physiognomies. We've welcomed back such former students of the local college as Elizabeth Hope, sister of Roberta, Terry Jones, Kemp Merriam, Wilbur Lish, and Harlan Husk. And among those not having a Maryville past are Arlo Gilpatrick, brother of frosh prexy, and Thomas J. Warman, visiting Bill Henderson. Also we, in general, Bob Watt in particular, are glad to have Betty Brimfield back on the campus for a spell.

Among all the coming and going and intake and output this week-end, we stumbled over Troye Moore, who was hung on the horns of a dilemma. With a great deal of practicality and self-sacrifice she had decided, after a terrific mental battle, against going home for Easter on the usual grounds. That is, until the mail came Thursday morning and she discovered that a friend of hers (ambiguous statement, isn't it? Well . . .) is home on leave, so by Thursday night Troye was all packed, ready to go. "There is a tide in the affairs of men. . . ."

Speaking of plans for Easter week-end, we might mention our across-the-hall neighbor, Peg Coats who, in anticipation of a hilarious time, brought home "Gone With the Wind", last night. Here it is, not even Sunday yet, and she's practically finished already. To take up part of tomorrow afternoon, we suggest "Anthony Adverse" and the first few thousand pages of "Mill on the Floss".

Since Mrs. West gathered her little crew of pseudo-Romans together Wednesday, we have had a lovely time overhearing conversations among such illustrious characters as Brutus (from Baltimore) O'Connor referring to the party of the second part as "Thou". And if anyone seeks us out in any of our haunts to relate the story about the number of apples Caesar ate—we've already heard it. Which for no good reason reminds us of the delight we experience when we hear efficient Lehman, (who never reads SCOTS AND SODA) who is stage managing the play, refer to it briskly as J. C. Probably we'll be calling Will Felknor "Julie" before we get through.

If you've noticed the silence that has settled over the school like the grasshoppers in "Brigham Young", we now have the cause ready for publication. Early—oh, very—Thursday morning, Professor Queener took a group of debaters—but why go into detail? There must be a story on it here somewhere. Among them, George Webster and J. Ed Thomas. Surely you have the connection by now and we mention J. Ed because after the group goes thru South Carolina like, as Webster put it, Sherman went thru Georgia, George and Ed are going to Washington to visit the points of interest, attend some kind of a convention, and have tea with Chief Justice Hughes. And possibly they'll return with another fascinating story about Mr. Hull. At least we can't picture them letting such an opportunity slip by, slip by.

We are fully aware that such topics as this belong in Sweeney's column, but we couldn't resist. According to first baseman Cragan, Bebe Baird shifted his attentions from track to baseball as a spring sport because he said that in track, he had to run around all day while in baseball he just had to sit on a bench. But Coach got even with him and put him out in left field. No rest for the weary, seems like.

Now we know what a career on the stage will do for a men's popularity. Who ever heard of Clark Gable until he got in the movies? We have been interested to observe—among our psychological research—that Harry Lyle's recent performance as end man in the quartet has made a difference. Thursday night after he had deposited a girl at Pearsons at 6:50 and another at 6:58 we inquired. And were gratified to learn that the waiting line was forming off down the road a piece. Who is this guy Gable, anyway?

Just in case some of you gals have forgotten, Easter and Baccalaureate Sundays have a special significance in our lives here. We hope you all started early to avoid the rush on man-power and if you made a particularly good haul and had some left over, we; including my roommate, can still be reached at the places mentioned in this column last week.

Will you please sign my annual?

PEN and INKLINGS of JOHN G. WINANT

JOHN G. WINANT

New England's Homespun Diplomat

by George MacConachie

AMERICA'S new ambassador to Great Britain, John G. Winant, is as far from the suave, wordy-wise, smooth-talking diplomat as the satin knee pants of the Court of St. James are from New England homespun . . . tall, slow-spoken, rugged man of New Hampshire, yet thoroughly at home in world capitals . . . Abraham Lincoln is John Winant's hero, and he resembles the Great Emancipator to a greater degree than any public figure in recent years . . . when Ambassador Winant sits down to puff over world problems with those other renowned cigar smokers, Prime Minister Churchill and Secretary of State for War, Anthony Eden, let us hope the words of William Makepiece Thackeray: "The Cigar harmonizes society," will become a living reality.

Easter Vesper Services Led By Dr. Stevenson

Vesper services for Easter Sunday are to be led by Dr. Stevenson, who will use as his text the question asked in the 35th verse of the 15th chapter of First Corinthians, "How are the dead raised up? and with what body are they come?". Special music will be provided by the choir.

The music will include the following:
Mozart's "Alleluia"
"Easter Alleluia"—traditional Russian.
"Alleluia, Christ is Risen"—arranged by Withol.
"Vesper Bells"—Rubenstein.
"Christ is Risen"—Kyne, a traditional Easter hymn.
"In Joseph's Lovely Garden"—Dickenson.

The choir will take part in a candlelight processional and recessional.

Workshop Members Hear Hunter And Fisher Read

The regular meeting of the Writer's Workshop was held on Monday afternoon at 3:00. Manuscripts were read by Bob Fisher and Dr. E. R. Hunter. Fisher read a character sketch entitled "Going Crazy"; Dr. Hunter read a short story.

The readers at the next meeting will be Beth Pascoe and Marian Jenkins.

Campus Workers Begin Work On New Tool Shed

On the college farm construction has begun on a tool shed which will be used to store farm implements. The shed is 75 feet long and 25 feet wide and is being built from materials salvaged from the old Lamar house, which was recently demolished. In addition to the necessary spring work on the lawns, considerable work has been done in the college amphitheatre, in preparation for Sunday's Easter sunrise service.

Student Council Talks Of Student Government

The two matters of importance discussed by members of the Student Council at their regular meeting last Monday night, April 7, concerned the problem of student government, and ways and means of starting a "forward fund" for Scottie. The Council would be more than happy to receive from the students any brilliant ideas they may have as to raising this Scottie fund.

BASEBALL... Either Hiwassee is terrible or we've got a good ball club this year. Not to say anything against the team, I'm afraid we will have to admit that Hiwassee "ain't so hot". Particularly encouraging, however, was the play of John David behind the plate in the absence of Fred Shelfer. What were the exact words you used there, Fred? At one time in this column we mentioned a member of the team's knowing every pebble in the track from taking laps, but since that writing another and greater lap taker has been discovered in Tom Saffel. Tom not only knows every pebble, he's on speaking terms with them all after his fifteen lap jaunt the other afternoon. Was it because of a miscue, or a broken bat? No, DEAN HONAKER docked poor Tom for cutting a class. Isn't it bad enough playing baseball without having to go to classes too? Les Rock is the lad, it appears thus far, to be the most consistent hitter on the squad and it looks as if Coach has really molded a strong team together for this early in the season.

TENNIS... Thursday afternoon we dropped around to the tennis courts for awhile and Coach Fischbach and Van Cise were playing the Jokers. Van Cise really looked in top form as he continually kept his two opponents on the hop with his smashing returns, but the prettiest return was made by the youngest of the Jokers, Ted, when Van Cise rushed in to cover the net and Ted passed him up with a beauty to his backhand which Van was unable to handle. If Van Cise continues to pick up where he left off and the Kidders keep improving, it appears as if the tennis team is going to win their share of the sports laurels this spring. We can't leave this here without saying something in behalf of Ken Cooper. Ken worked long and hard on his beloved courts only to wake up early one morning and find his number one court all dug up with footprints and whatnot. Let's give Ken and the courts a break and stay off them after a rain, at least.

TRACK... Coach Davis is still having troubles with this year's track team, but the material he does have is rapidly shaping up and if several inexperienced men can come along as expected there is a possibility that the team will be stronger than anyone thought. In the 2-mile run, Alfy and Woo-Woo are the two dependable men, but in Tracy Ellis, a freshman, there is great promise. Tracy showed up well in the run the other day and is working hard and continually improving every day. Steak is just about tops in the running class as is Bill Baird on the shorter distance runs. The javlin is a big problem as is the pole vault now that Justus is confined to the college hospital. While at the Hiwassee game the other day several fans were remarking at the stride and form of Jim Humphries as he circled the track. When Jim gets in tip-top shape he should be a good, dependable point getter. Good-nite, those legs are long enough....

ODDS AND ENDS... If you have seen Lloyd Taylor or Jimmy Witt around lately on bicycles, it isn't a direct result from PURE as The Driven Snow, it's just a good way to build up hurt knees. Reports from the hospital: Mack Wilson is improving rapidly and wishes to thank everyone for being so kind. Mrs. Hall says, "We almost have to lock the door in the afternoon so Mack can get some sleep." Let's keep it up and if any haven't been to see him yet, do it tomorrow.

Maryville Nine Beats Hiwassee In Game Tuesday

On Wednesday afternoon the Maryville college Highlanders opened their inter-collegiate schedule against Hiwassee and spanked the visiting Bengal-men by a score of 18 to 3.

Credit for the victory went to Bob Short, who pitched no-hit-no-run ball for the first four innings and faced a total of 12 stripe-legged batters. From the deliberate way he was whizzing his fast ball past the ears of the enemy stickmen, Short could have easily gone the entire distance for the Honaker-Hustling-Diamondeers. In the last half of the fourth stanza Mitchell was sent to the plate as a pinch-hitter for Short.

In the last five innings after Short retired, pitching duties were divided between Paul Sieber, Norman Hooker, and Bob Mair. Fred Shelfer started the game from behind the plate and was relieved in the fourth by Captain J. D. Hughes. "Blackie" Roberts, rangy frosh receiver, took over the mask and mitt after the proverbial seventh inning stretch and handled the last two pitchers.

Scot Honaker opened the Highlanders' half of the first with a sizzling single into short left field. Leslie Rock followed with a two-base hit that sent Honaker around to the third sack. When Lefty Wade of the Tigers pitched four straight balls to J. D. Hughes, the bases were jammed with Scotties. Tommy Cragan flied out to the catcher, leaving the bases still crowded. Baby Baird stepped to the platter and conected solidly for a scorching two-bagger that cleaned the base paths and put the Orange and Garnet into a 3-0 lead. Leroy McGaha drove Baird home with a long, hard drive into left-center that was good for a triple. On the following play "Mac" was nipped sliding back into third base for the second out. Fred Shelfer singled, but Bob Short ended the inning on a short fly-out to the left fielder.

In their second turn at the bat the Scotties started off again at the head of the line-up and before the smoke had blown away six runs were chalked up. The first six batters in order, Honaker, Rock, Hughes, Cragan, Baird, and McGaha got on base and made the grand circuit to score. Scot Honaker's opening hit, a long double, was the most outstanding stick-work in the second frame.

The Scotties picked up three more runs in the third, two in the fourth, two in the sixth, and one in the seventh for a grand total of eighteen markers. Hughes and Rock led the attack for the Highlanders, each crossing home-platter five times. McGaha, Baird, and Honaker each accounted for two runs, and Hooker and Cragan each bagged a run.

Hiawassee's three runs were scored by Shelton, Stickley, and Tritt. These same three men and Steele were the only Tigers who connected for base hits and they all came after the sixth inning. The Hiwassee battery was composed of Lefty Wade and Stickley.

This afternoon the Honaker-lads take on the Light House nine on the home diamond. Next week's schedule brings the Scotties up against Tennessee on Wednesday, at Cookeville against Tennessee Tech on Friday, and back home again Saturday for a tilt with the Carson-Newman Eagles.

Mack Wilson Recovering In The Hospital After Recent Accident

In the Ralph Lamar Memorial hospital in the room directly across from the front door lies a fine young feller who in the past few weeks has gone through more than most of us go through in an entire life. The fact of it is Mack Wilson's life was ended for the few short minutes he was underwater several weeks ago. Yet no matter who enters his room there is always that same grin and the cherry words.

On March 22 Mack decided to take advantage of the open swim period and take a dip in the college pool. Not being an experienced swimmer Mack remained down in the shallow end of the pool, but somehow he started into the deeper part and it was here that he made his mistake and the accident happened. Wee'll never know why he did this or just what happened to cause him to sink to the bottom for Mack remembers nothing whatsoever about what happened. All that remains to him is that he decided to go in swimming—the rest is a blank until he came to on Monday following the accident.

Mack was rescued as soon as it was humanly possible and rushed to the Fort Craig hospital where he remained unconscious until late Monday when he came to enough to recognize his father for a minute. From Saturday afternoon at four until Tuesday afternoon six college men stood over Mack and there was not one moment in those days that someone was not right by his side and administering to his needs. He had a day nurse and night nurse who were constantly with him. And if you would like to know more about Miss Stylles and Miss Woods drop in on Mack sometime, but be prepared to stay awhile as he really liked 'em—but then, who didn't?

This boy, according to one of the officials of the hospital, "came the closest to dying of anyone I ever saw. It's a wonder that he did pull through at all." That will give an idea of how serious and just how close to the pearly gates our Mack was, but to hear him now one would never beleve that he was the same boy they took down to the hospital three weeks ago today.

The other day when we went to visit Mack in the college hospital along with the many friends who have been pouring in to see him he said, "I want to say something for the Echo and thank everybody for what they have done for me. I think I'm well enough now that I can do this, don't you?" So Mack wants to thank everyone in his own words and here they are:

"Well, Bill, you don't have to take up much space on me, just want you to thank everybody for being so nice to me and everything. I want to thank everybody for coming to see me, and my table for sending me the fruit, and especially the boys who stayed with me. And to think I couldn't even appreciate it all 'cause I was unconscious. Oh well, just thank 'em for everything, p'lease.'

We certainly will thank everybody Mack, and it is with the deepest sincerity that the whole school wishes you the very best of luck and the speediest of recoveries. You've shown more spunk and taken more than most of us can handle and the ncome out of it wanting to give evryoyne else the credit. So as we end this story we want to turn the tables and thank you for everything you've taught us since your accident.

Intramural Games Begin As A Large Number Turn Out

With the first week of intramural softball play out of the way, Alpha Sigma sparked by Harry Graham and Gordon Findlay seem to be the team to beat for the championship. Undefeated as yet, Alpha Sig already shows mid-season form and has profited by their practice early last week. The other teams appear ragged and unorganized. However, by this time next week all teams should be ready to buckle down and play Grade A ball.

Highlighting the affairs of the week was the game between the Spears and the Deacons. The Spears, behind Lillard, managed to turn back the Deacons in a five inning game by a 12-10 score. However, Percy Martin, manager of softball, maintains that since Spears used Bryant who was out for track and had no permission to play and who also had not had the required 48 hours time pass since he joined the Spears' club that the Deacons have been declared winners by forfeit. This ruling has been affirmed by the intramural department.

Scores of the games through Thursday:

Friday, April 4—All games postponed, rain.

Monday, April 7—
Athenian 13—Y Cabinet 10
Faculty 6—Alpha Sig 18

Tuesday, April 8—
Glee Club, forfeit to Alpha Sig
Deacons, forfeit to Athenian

Wednesday, April 9—
(Friday's Games)
Alpha Sig 7—Alley Cats 6
Deacon—Glee Club, postponed

Thursday, April 9—
Alley Cats 9—Faculty 6
Spears forfeit to Deacons

Theta To Have Music And Poetry on Program

Theta Epsilon will meet Saturday at 6:45 in the Y rooms for a program of music and poetry. A joint meeting of Theta and Alpha Sigma is planned for next week.

Track Team Still Practicing As First Meet Draws Close

Under the watchful eye of Coach Davis, Maryville's track team is slowly rounding into shape. Having a green team, Coach does not figure on a perfect season by any means but he hopes that the team will be as good as can be expected.

In trial matches held Thursday, all runners showed improvement over earlier work, but there is still much to be desired before we can meet the University of Tennessee on April 26.

In the mile run Jack Fesperman who had some experience before entering Maryville, scampered home first just in front of Green and Humphries. The time for the mile was 5:12. Doug Steakley copped the 440 from Harry Kell and Vernon Lloyd. Huff in 11.1 and Steakley in 11.3, took first honors in the two heats of the hundred yard dash. In the 880 Bill Baird, closely followed by Lockwood, took first with 2:15.8. Vernon Lloyd showed the way to Miniki, Grosh, Williams and Huff as he took the 220 in fair time. Tracy Ellis bested Alfy Davies in the two mile run as he did it in 11.5 minutes.

Unless Emory-Henry agree to run a week from this Monday, our opener will be against U-T on the twenty-sixth.

Tennis Team Holds First Home Match Friday Afternoon

Yesterday afternoon on the Memorial courts the Maryville college tennis team met Murray State Teachers and defeated the Kentuckians by the narrow score of 5-4.

This match, the first on the heavy schedule lined up for the state runners-up champions, was the eleventh consecutive victory for the Fischbach-men in the last two seasons of intercollegiate competition.

Instead of the customary match consisting of five singles and two doubles events, yesterday's affair was run on a six single-three double basis. In the singles tilts for the Orange and Garnet were Oliver VanCise, Ted Pratt, Ted Kidder, Tim Hedges, and Ken Cooper playing in that order. VanCise and Ted Kidder rated the number one slot in doubles, Cooper and Hedges took second, and Pratt and Dave Kidder played in the third position.

The six singles events were split evenly between Maryville and Murray. Winners for the Highlanders were Ted Kidder 6-3, 6-2 over Holt; Jim Hedges 6-2, 6-4 over Martin; and Ken Cooper 6-3, 6-4 over Lewis. Teachers college winners were Hamilton, Wilson, and Ponczek over VanCise, Pratt, and D. Kidder.

Number one doubles went to Hamilton and Holt as they won two sets over VanCise and T. Kidder, 6-2, 6-4. Pratt and D. Kidder kept the Orange and Garnet in the race by smashing out twin wins over Lewis and Martin of the Number three bracket.

With the score tied at 4-4 the number two doubles event took the spotlight. Cooper and Hedges took the opening set at 6-3 and dropped the second at 1-6. Then in true photo-finish the Fischbach-swatters took control and finally won game, set, and match for the Highlanders.

Although unable to defend their Smoky Mountain championship, the Scotties will meet such teams as Carson Newman, Tusculum, LMU, Teachers, Tennessee, TPI, Sewanee, and Chattanooga. Still in the embryonic stages is an extended tennis trip to several colleges and universities throughout the deper Southern states.

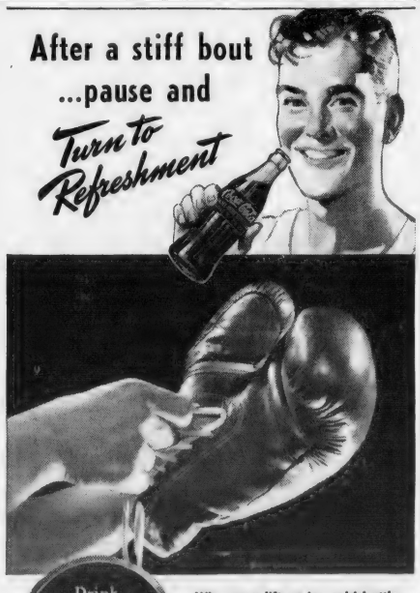
SUMMARY

Hamilton (MST) defeated VanCise (M), 6-4, 6-0.

Wilson (MST) defeated Pratt (M), 7-5, 6-2.

T. Kidder (M) defeated Holt (MST), 6-3, 6-2.

Ponczeh (MST) defeated D. Kidder (M), 6-3, 6-2.



Hedges (M) defeated Martin (MST), 6-3, 6-2.

Cooper (M) defeated Lewis (MST), 6-3, 6-4.

Hamilton and Holt (MST) defeated VanCise and T. Kidder (M), 6-2, 6-4.

Cooper and Hedges (M) defeated Wilson and Ponczeh (MST), 6-3, 1-6, 6-4.

Pratt and D. Kidder (M) defeated Lewis and Martin (MST), 6-3, 6-0.

NOTICE

As Easter is not a holiday there will be no extra privileges granted to the students. Following the usual custom, however, dating on Easter Sunday afternoon will be permitted.

There will be no YW service this week.

Dr. E. B. McGukin Will Speak At Chapel Service

Dr. E. B. McGukin, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Knoxville, will be the speaker at the chapel service this Wednesday, April 16.

scripture reading. The chorus will also sing the Lord's Prayer, the hymn "Fairest Lord Jesus", the "Cherubim Song" by Bartniansky, and "Haleluya', a popular Latvian melody. The band will follow the last amen of the choir and close the service with two more chorales.

Culminating their Holy Week services, the churches in Maryville will feature services of special Easter emphasis tomorrow, considering the meaning of Easter and of the Resurrection.

Considering Easter is not a holiday but rather a special holy Sunday, the college does not grant holiday privileges. Students are reminded however, of the "all day dating privileges", a relative phase of Easter Sunday activities.

Because of the many other observations of Easter, the YW and YM societies will not conduct their usual Sunday meeting tomorrow.

The idea of the importance of the Resurrection will be continued at the radio vesper program at 5:00. Dr. Ralph W. Lloyd has chosen as the subject for his radio sermon, "Why Christians Believe in Immortality". The choir will sing two Easter anthems, "Christ is Risen" and "On That Sabbath Morn."

Dr. William Patton Stevenson, college pastor for over twenty years, will as usual assist President Lloyd in conducting the Easter services. He will be the speaker at the evening vespers.

The senior play committee composed of Howard Dizney, chairman, and Barbara Swift and Harvey Lehman selected the play which has been cut and prepared for the cast by Mrs. Nita Eckles West, director, Elizabeth Moore and Harvey Lehman. The play has been modernized somewhat by the cutting of the longest speeches, but it has not yet been decided as to whether the costuming will be modern or that of Shakespeare's time.

Member of the production staff have not yet been selected, but the heads of the various committees are Harvey Lehman, stage manager; Howard Dizney, business manager; Ruth Goodson, costume manager; Marjorie Resides, property manager; and Barbara Swift, rehearsal manager. These committee heads will pick their committees some time within the next few days in order to start work right away.

Henry And Proffitt Attend Alumni Meet

Newly-Formed Bristol Club Hols Meeting

Miss Clemmie J: Henry, Director of Student-help, and Mr. Fred L. Proffitt, College Treasurer, will attend the initial meeting of Maryville College Alumni in Bristol, Tenn.-Va., on the evening of April 17. They will take with them the College's 16 mm. film projector to show the color movies recently taken on the campus. Because of the fact that many of Maryville Alumni return to the campus for Homecoming or the class reunions, the College is making an attempt to take the campus to the Alumni by means of these movies.

On this same trip Miss Henry and Mr. Proffitt will also attend a meeting of the Association of College Business Managers. Mr. Proffitt will be a speaker on the program.

French Club Convenes For Meeting In Woods

Last Thursday afternoon between the hours of four and seven, the French Club convened for an unusual meeting in the college woods. Refreshments were served and short business meeting was held.

After an Easter egg hunt the members of the club ate refreshments consisting of devils on horseback, potato chips, doughnuts, eggs, apples and coffee. Then plans were made for the annual French club banquet, which is to be held Wednesday May 7, in the Masonic temple.

Union Presbytery of Presbyterian Church Meets At Knoxville

Union Presbytery of the Presbyterian Church of the U.S.A. will meet in Knoxville, April 15, at the Park City Presbyterian church, of which Reverend Robert Wood, 1927 alumnus of Maryville college, is pastor. The duties of the Union Presbytery, which includes churches in Knox, Blount, Anderson, Sevier, Jefferson, and Monroe counties, are to license young ministers and to have charge of the young ministerials of this area. The moderator who will preside over this meeting is Reverend Stewart Butten of the New Prospect church, Knoxville, who was graduated from Maryville college in 1930.

Dr. John A. Gates, Dr. H. E. Orr, Dr. R. W. Lloyd, Dr. W. P. Stevenson, Dr. Ralph T. Case, and Mr. R. J. Dollenmayer plan to attend this meeting of the Presbytery.

Mary Morgan Elected Cotton Club President

Last Monday night, April 7, the Cotton club met and elected officers, and discussed plans for a membership drive to be conducted in the near future.

The officers elected were: Mary Morgan, president; Mary Jane Person, vice president; Leslie Gilbert, secretary-treasurer; Albert Flowers and Charles Burgreen, program secretaries.

ideas are. Girls are nice but they shouldn't all wear lipstick. Dick has a "phobia" for lipstick. Blondes have no need of such and so why wear it.

McFarland passed by while Boyd was speaking, and he doesn't like the idea of girls wearing kerchiefs to chapel. He thinks that is almost as bad as a girl wearing a gym suit to chapel. At least, take time to slip a dress over your gym suit before coming to chapel.

Here is Clyde Nash. He likes girls plain and simple with enough cosmetics to bring out the real thing. They ought to cultivate good taste in selecting harmonizing colors in clothing.

I dont know this fellow's name, but he seems to want to add something. Why can't all girls take a course in selecting clothes. Certainly some of them ought to pay more close attention to the color chart. Aqua blue and bright red just don't blend. Then there are some that insist on wearing bright red formals to an artists series program. A formal like that is all right for a dance hall, but not for an artists series program. Then, too, girls should not wear large flowery print formals to the programs, either. They should be worn to dances like the red ones or to some other less formal function. Of course, one must remember that to the more formal dances these types of evening gowns are still out of place. Many of the girls have black or white capes and coats that are very attractive when worn with the right type of formal. Anyway, that is my opinion.

I wonder what Curtis Wright has to say on the subject. Girls are nice. Of course, there are lots of little things that I don't like, but after all boys have a lot of things wrong with them, too. Therefore, I think I better keep quiet.

I understand that George Webster and Joe Dickinson are looking for Southern belles, and so I guess it won't do any good to talk to them.

Oh, my! Here comes another fellow with his own ideas on the subject. He doesn't want his name in print. However, he did make some new comments. He wishes that girls would brush their coats and dresses more often. He gets tired of seeing dandruff and hair over all the back of an attractive girls' dress or coat. I don't know whether he thinks they are all attractive or whether the other kind never bothers him. Then, too, he hates gossiping. That's the worst fault of all. Why run another girl in the ground? They have as much right to try to catch their man as you have. If they use a different method, that is their business. He made only one other comment. He hates too much perfume. A little is all right, but be careful not to spill the entire bottle on your dress.

After looking back over some of these comments the men have made, some of them seem rather strong. Some girls probably deserve them and others don't. Of course, there are faults in everyone, and so we have no hopes for building a super race of women by these comments; but we did want you to see that most men have ideas of their own on the subject of "wimmin."

three days, probably meeting such opponents as Dartmouth, Cornell, N.Y.U., Duke, Emory, and other northern and southeastern schools. Bill Felknor, local representative in the various extra speaking events delivered his oration on "Strike Hysteria"; George Webster also entered this contest with an oratorical praise of the work of the Secretary of State, Cordell Hull, entitled "Flowers For The Living."

In the women's division were sophomores Natalie Yelton and Phyllis Anne Cain debating both sides of the query. Natalie entered women's oratory, delivering an oration concerning immigration and its various problems.

With a finis written to the actual debating and public speaking the season will be brought to its close by the annual banquet to be held some time in May. After this banquet the new members of Pi Kappa Delta will be initiated. Maryville has the honor of having the Alpha chapter of this national forensic fraternity.

Debate Season Ends With Grand Eastern Tournament At Winthrop College; 50 Colleges Attend Meet

Webster Wins Webster Round of Oratory; Places Third

TEAM PLACES HIGH

Local Debaters Win State Tournament Held At Cookeville, Tenn.

With a grand finale at the Grand Eastern tournament, sponsored by Winthrop College for Women, Rock Hill, S.C., Apr. 9-12, Tenn. Alpha chapter Pi Kappa Delta has finished its schedule for 1941, still upholding the traditions laid by former Maryville forensic devotees. Local entrants in this tourney, attended by about fifty colleges and universities throughout the East and South, were George Webster, Edward Thomas, William Felknor, Natalie Yelton, and Phyllis Anne Cain. As a reward for the forensic efforts of these squad members Maryville was placed in the top ten, Dartmouth taking first honors at this well-attended tourney.

The men's team, composed of George Webster and Edward Thomas, won seven of its ten debates. The girls, meeting such competition as Duke, Michigan State, Northwestern, Lake Forest of Chicago, and Illinois State Normal, won six out of their ten debates. Only other honors were those won by George Webster with his oration on Cordell Hull. The oratorical contest was divided into rounds, the winners of each round meeting in the finals. George won the Webster round of oratory and captured third place in the finals.

Local debaters started off the year with the Smoky Mountain Men's tournament, a practice tourney sponsored by Lincoln Memorial University at Harrogate, Tennessee, February 1. Two affirmative teams composed of Vernon Lloyd, Frank Cross, Charles Foreman, and Bill Felknor; and a negative team, Trevor Rees-Jones and Hilton Wick, journeyed with Professor Archibald Pieper to this contest. Lloyd and Wick entered the extemp contest; Foreman and Rees-Jones, the oratorical contest. Teams from South Carolina, Virginia, Kentucky, and Tennessee were represented; no winners or honors were announced.

Next on the list was a women's tourney held at Virginia Intermont college, Bristol, Va., February 15. The negative team of Edith Monroe and Jeanne Stringham finished with a clean slate, winning three out of as many debates; Phyllis Anne Cain and Natalie Yelton, upholding the affirmative side, were the winners in two out of three clashes, Lucille Lynch and Janet Lindsay upheld Maryville prestige by winning third place in the relatively new form of debate, direct clash. Delivering an oration on "The New World Order", Phyllis Anne Cain was fourth in oratory; Natalie Yelton, delivering "The Hills From Whence Cometh My Aid", won fifth place. Beth

Mr. Robert L. Brown Awarded Fellowship

Mr. Robert L. Brown, graduate of Maryville college in 1935, and son of the college engineer, Mr. E. C. Brown, has been awarded a DuPont Reseearch Fellowship. Mr. Brown received this notable award to further his graduate work at Ohio State University, where he is working for the PhD. degree.

DuPont Research Fellowships are given annually to approximately 25 of the most promising advanced students of chemical research in northern and mid-western universities. The award is not binding in any way nor is it a teaching fellowship; the subject to be investigated by the winner is not dictated, and no specific work is required of him. Such grants usually approximate $750 and are for the purpose of helping such students as are chosen, to continue their work in some field of chemistry.

Brown received his Master's degree from the University of Tennessee and served as instructor of chemistry there as well as at the University of Kentucky. So far as is known, Mr. Brown is the first Maryville alumnus to receive a DuPont Research Fellowship.

NOTICE

The Chilhowean would like to clear all of its accounts with the student organizations by May 1. Likewise all accounts with individuals should be closed by the first. If you ordered an annual and have not obtained it yet, the book will be reserved for you.

BUSINESS MANAGER

Seventh Edition of 'Who's Who' To Be Released Soon

According to word received from H. Pettus Randall, editor of "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges," the seventh edition of this book is to be released the second week of next month.

Explaining the purpose of "Who's Who", Mr. Randall says the editors have four aims in mind: (1) to give students an incentive to get the most they can out of college; (2) to reward students for what they have already accomplished; (3) to set up a collegiate standard of measurement, which is comparable to Phi Beta Kappa and other national agencies; (4) to provide recommendations to the business world.

It is of interest to note that in a recent survey taken in 400 colleges on the preference of honorary organizations such as the collegiate "Who's Who", that publication rates first in 144 colleges, second in 110, third in 90, and fourth in 45 colleges.

Students who make the rating given to them by "Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities" are those who have a balanced college program, a combination of extra-curricular activities and high scholarship.

This year eleven seniors here at Maryville were chosen to receive "Who's Who" recognition. They are Philip Evaul, Charles Baldwin, Bill Baird, Vernon Lloyd, Boydson Baird, Ruth Andrews, Frank Brink, Marianna Allen, Scott Honaker, Douglas Steakley, and Elizabeth Ann Huddleston. Last year, Mary Orr, then a junior, received this same recognition.

Foresters Survey Campus, Woods

Policy Of Conservation Is Started In Woods

This week officials from the Division of Forestry in the Department of Conservation of Tennessee have begun a survey of the college woods and campus for the purpose of suggesting a policy of conservation.

Included in this policy, plans will be made for the treating, felling, and replanting of trees.

Along with this work, the Department of Maintenance has constructed a saw mill which is at present sawing the trees already felled in the college woods, and which will soon be ready to receive the trees condemned by the government officials.

Plans have also been made to build a fence enclosing the woods from the boards made by the mill.

This work, which is expected to be a definite asset in the conservation and upkeep of our college grounds, will continue most of this spring.

The Blossoms Are Blooming And Poison Ivy Is Still Poison Ivy

Spring is sprung,
The grass is riz,
I wonder where
The flowers is?

Well, the flowers are coming, but everyone on the Maryville college campus is way ahead of them. I know that spring is here, because, along with a beautiful case of poison ivy, I find that my perpetual case of spring fever has taken a turn for the worse. The campus these days is a veritable fairyland (if it just weren't for that poison ivy). It looks like a scene from "a magnificent, colossal, $1,000,000 production." Co-eds and admirers sprawl at 90 degree angles all over the campus. I sit on a bench now. The trees have poison ivy all around them. Everyone is playing shuffle-board before meals. I wish that I could play, but that little disk gets the better of me every time. I have ceased to try. I just sit around and look knowing.

Tennis is in full swing. In fact there aren't enough courts to go around. Ambitious people, my roommate included, get up before six so they can bang a little ball around. Girls aren't allowed out of the dorm until six o'clock, and, when that first bell rings, they pile out of the back doors and fly to get first choice of a court. I stay in bed so I can be in fine shape to watch tennis matches. It really is a lot less trouble, and I don't get hot at all.

The biology students know that spring is here because field trips begin, and they come back with some of the most unusual things. Well, the advanced students do. The first year students have only their frogs to tell them of the season. As spring advances the frogs deflate. My poor little Ferdie hasn't a thing left in his but his spinal cord. Pretty soon that will be gone, too.

The annuals are out and that, too, is a sure sign of the season when things get fancy. Everyone is going around with his Chilhowean tucked conspicuously under his left arm, while he brandishes a pen in his right hand. The pass-word seems to be, "Will you please sign my annual?" Everything about this particular annual is pretty all right. Good pictures, good copy, pretty covers, and—well—it's nice.

Did anybody notice anything unusual last Sunday? I did. I never before saw so many beautiful girls and so many handsome men. If there only had been some judges around, we could have had a fashion parade to equal that of Fifth Avenue. Spring plus Easter Sunday—mmmm—I wish that it happened more often.

With spring comes May and with May comes Mayday—May Queens—May flowers (because of April showers)—and Mayday programs. Some of the dramatic art students are going around mumbling something about themes, strong muscle movements, gestures in the upper plane. Never fear, they are just creating dances to please Maryville's Queen of the May. The dances are good, too. I watched when I wasn't supposed to: it was a lot of fun.

Workshop Chooses 12 New Members

Writers' Workshop met last Monday afternoon in Miss Johnson's classroom. From the names submitted by the membership committee the following twelve were chosen to complete the membership quota of 25 for next year. The twelve are Joe Dickinson, Helen Rawlings, Ed Rowley, Mary Ruth Heil, Jean Patterson, Jean Barnes, Trevor Rees-Jones, Dick Boyd, Carl Pierce, Marianne Coleman, Perry Bigham, and Phyllis Anne Cain.

The purpose of the organization is to develop creative writing ability and this is the basis on which members are chosen. Each semester all Workshop members read an original manuscript.

Next week Miss Jessie Heron and Don Kent will read.

Webster, Thomas Attend Meeting In Washington

Maryville Representatives Guests of Institute of Government

For the past week, from April 14 to April 18, the 1941 Institute of Government has been held in Washington, D.C., sponsored by the National Institute of Public Affairs and the United States Office of Education. The social science faculty of Maryville college selected two seniors, George D. Webster and J. Edward Thomas, from this college to attend as its official representatives.

The selection of these representatives was made on the basis of scholarship, character, and general activities as shown in the four years of college work. Both Webster and Thomas are political science majors and have made high averages throughout their college careers, Thomas making the highest average in the school several times. They comprised the debate team which represented the college at the Grand Eastern tournament this last week where they ranked among the first ten of fifty colleges entered.

The purpose of the Institute is to stimulate interest and knowledge concerning the machinery of the government. Forty-three colleges and universities sent delegates from distant points in the United States. Among those represented were Amherst college, Dartmouth, Kent State university, North Dakota Agricultural college, New York university, University of Missouri, and others.

First on the schedule for the week was the reception by Chief Justice Hughes in his chambers followed by a tour of the building and attendance at a meeting of the Supreme Court in session. On this day, Monday, Mr. Henry P. Chandler, Director of Administrative Office of the United States Courts, spoke concerning "Ad-

Mary Ruth Heil Declared Innocent

1941-42 Law Club Election Announcements Made

Last Thursday at 6:45 a stirring trial was witnessed at the meeting of the Law club in Alpha Sigma hall at which time Mary Ruth Heil was declared innocent of the charges made by Wesley Lochausen.

Miss Heil was declared by the jury to be innocent of the charges preferred against her when it was proved that her description in the Highland Echo of Wesley Lochausen's date as ultra-delectable was true, since the date was Margaret Gessert.

Those of the plaintiff who represented Mr. Lochausen in this libel suit were Roy Crawford, Jackson Kramer, and Edwin Lochner; those defending Miss Heil were James Witt, Robert Wilcox, and Olson Pemberton. His honor, David W. Briggs, presided over the Circuit Court of Blant County.

At this meeting announcements were also made concerning both the '41 and '42 elections in which the usual excitement and array of campign speeches, brass bands and other characteristics of big elections will be present, and the Law club banquet which will be held in the Masonic hall on Wednesday evening, May 14.

Senior Class Chooses Mary Orr As May Queen; Class President Steakley Will Reign As King

MARY ORR

Throne Will Be Placed In Natural Grassy Stage of Amphitheatre

DETAILS INCOMPLETE

Patriotic Theme Dealing With British-U.S. Ties To Be Carried Out

Maryville's traditional hail to spring, the annual May Day celebration, will take place in the college amphitheatre on the afternoon of May 1st.

On Wednesday of this week seniors elected the May Queen, while members of the freshman, sophomore, and junior classes voted for their class representatives to serve as the attendants to the royal couple. Reigning over the May court this year will be Mary Orr and Douglas Steakley. The king and queen will each climax an enviable college record of outstanding achievements as they take their positions on the throne. Each has been a member of Who's Who, writer on the Echo staff, and held numerous offices, elected as a popular choice of the students. Mary has chosen as her maids of honor, Lois Ann Alexander and Barbara Ann Swift.

According to the present plan, the throne will be placed on the natural grassy stage of the amphitheatre. At approximately two o'clock the class attendants will form in line and precede the king and queen in a slow and solemn procession to the throne.

Members of the court this year include as freshman attendants: Virginia Cain with Frank George, and Kay Liddell with Roy Laughmiller. Sophomores will be Ann Halsbrin with Wesley Lochausen, and Carl Pierce with Meredith Preston. Junior attendants will be Jean Blake with George Howard, and Ted Holman escorting Mary Agnes Carter. The ladies-in-waiting will wear pastel net gowns in colors according to their classes. Last in the procession will come the royal pair. The queen will be dressed in white taffeta.

After the procession the spirited May Day pageantry and festivities will be performed in honor of the king and queen. Details of the program are as yet incomplete, but will carry out a patriotic theme with special emphasis on the relationship between England and America. The idea will be developed with tableaus, music, and solo and group dances. Sara Jo Bolling and Polly Park will be featured as solo dancers. The second choir of the college will furnish a background of choral music and will assist in the tableaus. Present arrangements are mainly under the direction of Miss Evelyn Seedorf, instructor in dramatic art, and Mrs. Verton M. Queener, instructor in physical education, who is directing the dances.

'Melting Pot' Presented By Dramatics Dept.

Maryville college's dramatic art department presented "Melting Pot", a studio program, at 7:30 Friday night in Bartlett auditorium.

Divided into seven parts the program consisted of Negro, Jewish, Italian, Swedish, Georgian, Irish, and English character sketches and impressions of America. Irma Russell, Helen Airheart, Alice Jones, Doris Murray, Virginia Berg, Troye Moore, Georgia Meadows, Mary Wintermute, Elizabeth Glover, Sara Crider, Mary Wessels, Mary Esther White, June Morley, and Frances John Hellums were the readers.

Hosts and hostesses were Betty Clevenger, Marianne Coleman, William Gehres, Dorothy Harned, Charles Foreman, Frank Brink, Ruth Sutherlin, and Rosemary McCartney.

"The Silver Cord" To Be Presented By Senior Class

Play Chosen In Place Of 'Julius Caesar'

"The Silver Cord", a modern drama by Sidney Howard, was chosen by the senior class directly after chapel this morning. This play was decided upon after it became known that "Julius Caesar", the first choice, could not be given.

Elizabeth Moore, Frank Brink, Bill Gehres, Helen Williams, and Jean White will take leads in the play, which will be given May 31.

The production staff managers are announced as follows: Harvey Lehman, stage manager; Howard Dizney, business manager; Ruth Goodson, costume manager; Marjorie Resides, property manager; and Barbara Swift, rehearsal manager.

Reporter Expresses Notions On Senior Nightmare, Comprehensives

This article is written from the viewpoint of a gentleman. The ladies, no doubt, also become apprehensive about comprehensives; but such information has not been supplied to the author of this corny composition concerning comprehensives.

The freshman's only worry is whether or not he will have enough dinero to attend the Senior Ball; the sophomore can't understand why anybody would swipe his tennis racket and balls. The junior has one or two worries, such as, will Lil Abner ever get married or, when will I make SCOTS AND SODA? But the non-lowly senior has one super deluxe concentrated worry: COMPREHENSIVES.

For the benefit of those who do not know (therefore, those who do not read the Echo) comprehensives are nerve-wracking exams given near the end of a person's senior year and in such a manner that the senior has to cram anywhere from three years to three days, write for about six hours, and then either end it all or raise whoopee. After this procedure the above-mentioned senior, all being well, receives a B. A. from the powers that be, the federal government in the form of some khaki-uniformed gent with three stripes and a profuse slanguage takes his BA, adds a YONET, and presto—he's been shafted.

However, that being neither here nor there let's take the cosmopolitan senior and follow him through his days of cram and his hours of trial. (Correction by one of the aforementioned seniors—hours of cram—days of trial.)

The prototype of the M.C. senior gentleman is probably about six feet tall and his weight, including Alpha Sigma sweatshirt and dirty fingernails, is around 170 pounds (compliments of Sterchi's). His complexion is fairly ruddy. Eyes are full of vim, vigor, and vimmin. All in all, dressed in his roommate's new spring suit, he's a perfect specimen of humanity if not humility.

But all that was before he heard about some tests to which he was to be subjected in the near future. Upon realizing that all his cuts are gone and finding out that said tests are announced anyway, our senior hauls down a few enlightening books. The top book on his proverbial five foot stack is Charles Hartshone's "Beyond Humanism." Within this very concise, clear, and dusty work our friend of the none-too-comprehensive mind runs across "the totality of the irreducible dimension of the experienceable variability of experience is the totality of the irreducible dimension of existence." Straight out the window goes this masterpiece; senior wends his way to

Lack of Interest

The approaching sophomore tests have driven home a realization of the fact that Maryville students lack interest in the outside world. Unless we are forced by some such test, or by a course that requires it, we care little what happens outside the realm of our personal interests.

How many of us when reading the morning paper (if we read the paper at all) turn first to the funnies? We all know the latest doings of the Bumstead family, but how many of us know that last week Russia and Japan signed a non-aggression pact that seriously menaces the security and peaceful state of the United States? Most Maryville students don't give a hang what happens as long as it doesn't touch their immediate circumstances.

The point is—we should care; we should be interested in the news of the world. This news is not happening to people remotely distant, but to us. Sudden developments in the Far East, in the Balkans, at 10 Downing Street will very definitely affect our lives tomorrow. The billions that America is spending for defense now will affect our jobs, our incomes, the value of our investments, and the price of our food in the future. The discoveries that are made today in modern science and in medicine may change the course of our lives. The news of the world of which we are a part is big, exciting, and very near to all of us.

We all have access to a library that subscribes to 14 newspapers, a number of good news magazines, and most of us live within hearing distance of radio commentators. There is no excuse for not being well-informed!

ECHO ANALYSIS

When he took over the many duties of Prime Minister of Great Britain, Winston Churchill promised the people of England and the Empire nothing but blood, sweat, and tears. Thus the people were prepared for bombings such as were dealth upon Liverpool, Coventry, Sheffield, and other industrial towns of the Midlands. Incessant raids of the Luftwaffe served only to heighten the morale of the English and give them the grim determination which their leader possesses to the nth degree.

And now London, the world's largest and most historical city, the center of the far-flung British Empire, has been bombed mercilessly in what now seems to be the phase of this war that Hitler promised a short time back; unrestricted warfare. This gigantic air attack on London started Wednesday, and when the people dug out of their shelters and surveyed the wreckage, they burst forth with "Bomb Berlin. Show them we can kill, too." With these words ringing in their ears, the men of the RAF hammered back at the Nazis with a reprisal raid on the German capital, Berlin. Thus the British have shown their attitude to the actions of Hitler—a raid for a raid, a building for a building. How long this unrestricted bombing of homes, cultural centers, and civilians will keep on no one knows. Only one thing is certain: the British can take it and also dish it out.

Which immediately brings up the question of the effect of a raid on the people. As stated above, the British have come out of every raid with heightened courage. After all, the British, long before the present war had started, were told that their homes would be bombed. Thus they were prepared for any eventualities. But the Germans were recipients of words of optimism. Hitler, Goebbels, and Goering lulled them to sleep with their statements that German cities would never be bombed, that the people of Germany need not fear the RAF. Thus it was that bombing sallies by the RAF came as a complete surprise, a surprise which served to weaken morale and faith in their leaders.

As it must to all men, death came last week to one of the grand old boys of the U.S. Senate, Morris Sheppard of Texas. Thirty-eight years of service in the Senate to the people of Texas had given him a place among the lesser statesmen of the world. Author of the 18th Amendment, its repeal by President Roosevelt came as a sharp blow to him. As chairman of the Senate Military Affairs Committee his work was invaluable.

And with this we close:

Hitler's dictatorship must lose because it has only one leader. All the others are paralytic. They can only follow—blindly into destruction and catastrophe.

Democracy must win because its essential purpose is that everyone is a leader—in his own way, be it little or big.

Scots and Soda

We hope that you, too, noticed:

Janet Lindsay keeping quiet every possible bit of news for her "scoop campaign", during her week of playing Echo editor.

Art Rowan consistently refusing to inscribe the annual of Chilhowean Editor Kent because it made him feel so good when Kent kept asking for his signature.

Lucette deBarritt reporting her acquaintance with "For Whom the Bell Tolls" Hemmingway, describing his customary attire as "short short shorts."

All the women of the campus, anyway, a large percentage, flocking to Disc club the other night to hear Cliff Poole in the role of commentator.

Flem Griffith looking like he was having fun pushing around the overgrown lawnmower.

The surreptitious exchange of cigarets in the dining hall a day or two ago.

Jean Barnes, when told of her election to Writers' Workshop, getting white and cold and shaky about the coming initiation.

And Ed Rowley, when told of the same thing, rushing home to start some poetry.

John H. Ross making a tigh: but finally successful attempt to squeeze through one of the miniature windows flanking the front doors of Thaw hall.

Mary Ruth Heil making elaborate plans to carry out long suppressed desires to take over, in case of our man power being sent to help England, the position of street car conductor.

Edith George looking chic in a luscious rose colored slack suit.

Dr. Hunter coming into his own as a playwright as his Writers' Workshop play was presented on the Wednesday nite radio hour.

And Carl Miller, taking a part in that play, receiving from SCOTS AND SODA its vote of Best of the Week. What a voice! Hmmm—what a man.

Hester Santiago's twinkling eyes as she started to tell us a choice bit of gossip, and broke off with "Oh, I better not tell YOU that!"

Jack Lippard unintentionally buying a Hershey's chocolate bar and a coke together; then having to eat another chocolate bar to take away the taste of the combination; then having to drink a coke because the candy made him so thirsty; then having to—oh, but that went on for hours.

Andy Richards resplendent in a rubber "reducing blouse"; worn when taking exercise, its guaranteed to remove pounds. Actually POUNDS, my dear.

Dick Boyd taking time off in the softball game to execute a few handstands of his own, just to liven things up.

Marge Resides, ex-property manager for "Julius Caesar", woeful because now she won't be able to stab anybody in the back.

Aline Campbell doing her honors work all over fourth floor Pearsons. Literally ALL OVER fourth floor.

Brothers Wilcox, Pemberton, and Witt brilliantly defending the honor of Mary Ruth Heil and, incidentally, SCOTS AND SODA, at the trial Thursday night; the other side was good, too; but maybe we're just prejudiced.

All types and sizes of little children belonging to the townspeople and to the college having, it appears, an enormous amount of fun skating up and down the walks.

Ralph Irwin doing a rushing business over last (Easter) week-end.

Things we can't get off our minds:

Hunter's Play Presented Wednesday Over WROL

"The Vine and the Fig Tree", a drama by Dr. E. R. Hunter, director of Writers' Workshop, was presented over radio station WROL last Wednesday evening at the regular Maryville college broadcast hour.

Those taking part in the drama were: Carl Miller as Paul, Virginia Berg as Liza, June Morley as Marie, Betty Clevenger as Trudie, John Hawkins as Hans, Robert Swarzwalder as Max, Georgia Meadows as Jean. Frank Brink was the narrator and Williams Gehres furnished the sound effects.

Ruth Wynn played the piano for the musical part of the musical interlude in the program.

ministration of the Federal Judiciary." A buffet supper and social evening climaxed the day.

Most of Tuesday was left free for attendance at congressional and executive committee hearings and tours of government buildings. In the afternoon the delegates visited the Brazilian Embassy where they met the Ambassador and a group of Brazilian public employees.

On Wednesday such prominent leaders as Sidney Hillman of the Office of Production Management, who spoke on "Labor and National Defense", and Charles F. Palmer, Co-ordinator of Defense Housing, whose subject was "Housing Aspects of the Defense Program", addressed the group.

A tour of the White House was a high light on Thursday's schedule. In addition the delegates heard speeches by Leo S. Rowe, Director General of the Pan American Union, whose subject was "Inter-American Cooperation", as well as Mr. Laurence Duggan, Adviser on Political Relations. Following this they visited the Chilean Embassy.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation formed the center of interest on Friday. Of great value to all of these young social scientists has been this broadening of their actual knowledge and contact with the machinery and leaders connected with our government.

THE HIGHLAND ECHO APRIL 19, 1941

BASEBALL... The Highlanders defeat U-T. Doesn't it sound good to the ears of all Maryville students? The one noticeable thing, however, in the Scotties' last two games is the lack of batting power at the plate. True, the Scots have won their games, but the scarcity of hits by the Highlanders is particularly noticeable. Has anyone seen a pair of baseball pants running around lately? The only reason for the above advertisement is that Les Rock hates to run around the diamond minus a pair of pants. We've heard of men stealing second and third during the baseball season, but to steal a pair of pants—well. Hughes and Rock appear to be hitting the ball hard and getting more than their share of the hits thus far this season, but it appears that it is about time for the team to open up in the hitting department. The team was sorely hit when Bob Miller was confined to the hospital the other day. However, when we saw him last evening sitting on the edge of the bed putting away a meal as big as a house we think perhaps the illness is a rest cure.

TENNIS... This is the team that has made the headlines in the past week. First they defeat Chattanooga, lose to DePauw, and win from Tennessee Teachers. That match with DePauw showed the Fischbachmen real tennis. However, this same team went on to defeat the University of Tennessee by the same score and they already held victories of the same lop-sided score before hitting this college. Jim Hedges looked good in the number one spot and all around he is shaping up into one of the most valuable players the Highlanders have. This tennis team has the best trip of any team this year when they leave on a tour that will take them clean to the coast and will cover a whole week's time. Ain't they the lucky ones? This tennis is becoming more and more popular among the students as the days become nicer and longer. Every morning one may be awakened by the sound of the ball against the strings on any of the nine courts. The afternoons find every court on the place covered with players with lines waiting to start their game.

TRACK... It won't be long now until Coach Davis will be able to show his track team to the world when they meet U-T. Coach didn't have too much to start with and now with the illness and injuries starting to plaque him it appears as if he was in for a seige of bad luck. However, we may be sure of one thing when the team takes to the track against the university men—that they'll be out there as amateurs doing their best for their own enjoyment and for the advancement of their college. Good luck, track men, in your first meet and in all the meets to follow. We must also wish Coach Davis a lot of luck in this coming track season and hope that when the final count is taken that his team will have more points in the win column than in the other.

Tennis Team Defeats University Of Chattanooga On Monday Trip

DePauw Tames Racketeers Tuesday Afternoon

CHATTANOOGA TENNIS

Coach Fischbach's tennis team, last year's Smoky Mountain Conference champions, made it twelve in a row last Monday afternoon by trimming the Chattanooga Mocasins by the close margin of 4 to 3.

Jim Hedges, freshman winner of the intramural tennis tournament last fall, moved up to the coveted number one position and played magnificently in overwhelming Gill of the 'Noogans. Hedges won the first set comparatively easy with the count at 6-3, but in the second chapter the home-lad pressed closely only to be nosed out by Hedges 8-6.

Roosevelt Van Cise, completely over any ill-effects from his three weeks seige of scarlet fever, played rings around Hammill and turned in a 6-3, 6-3 verdict for the Orange and Garnet rasketeers. Dave Kidder played one of the greatest matches of his court campaign by upsetting Cloogman, number five swatter for the homelings, by a score of 6-4, 6-3.

When the final and deciding set in the number one doubles tussle was won by Hedges and Van Cise, the Highlanders walked off the courts with a victory in the bag.

Of little importance was the number two doubles match which eventually went to Chattanooga. Jones and Hammill won over Pratt and Ted Kidder 6-4, 6-2. In the singles realm Ted Kidder dropped a close decision to Jones 6-1, 7-5, and Ted Pratt lost to Copeland 6-1, 6-0.

TEACHERS TENNIS

Whether or not the Scottie tennis team lost to DePauw university under pressure of that number thirteen in a row jinx, the Fischbachmen made a brilliant comeback yesterday afternoon by sweeping all seven matches against East Tennessee Teachers.

The 7-0 final score paints an extremely lop-sided picture in favor of the Scotties. The real situation proves to be that on several occasions the Johnson City lads were much nearer to victory than the actual score would indicate.

Third-Term Van Cise celebrated his return to the number one starting berth by lashing out against Williams, his top-seeded opponent, and trimming him by a score of 6-3, 8-6.

Jim Hedges, although demoted to the second slot for this match, played heads-up tennis all the way and took two out of three sets for the verdict. Hedges trimmed Barker by scores of 6-2, 4-6, and 6-1.

Ted Pratt allowed Nave only five games in two sets to take the number three singles match. Ken Cooper, promoted in the absence of Ted Kidder from sixth to fourth place, beat Ellis of Teachers by 7-5, 6-2. Dave Kidder recorded a shut-out victory over Tauneurtz and won six-love, six-love.

In the two doubles events the Scotties had little trouble in disposing of the Buccaneers. Van Cise and Hedges gave Williams and Barker a bad beating and allowed them only three games in fifteen. Nave and Ellis dropped their match to Pratt and Cooper of the fighting Highlanders by a score of 6-3, 6-2.

In a tennis match played Wednesday afternoon on the Memorial varsity courts the Maryville Highlanders were overwhelmed by the DePauw University netters by a score of 8 to 1. Ted Kidder, playing in the number four position, was the only Scottie to win a round from the Green Castle (Ind.) team.

Ted Pratt and Dave Kidder, playing respectively in the third and fifth berths, were the outstanding players for the Orange and Garnet. Both Fischbachmen consistently forced their opponents into deuce and add games.

SUMMARY:

Souder (D) defeated Hedges (M)—6-0; 6-0.

Spear (D) defeated Van Cise (M)—6-0; 6-2.

March (D) defeated Pratt (M)—6-1; 6-3.

Kidder (M) defeated Likely (D)—7-9; 6-3; 6-4.

Reich (D) defeated Kidder (M)—1-6; 7-5; 9-7.

McNaughton (D) defeated Cooper (M)—6-4; 6-3.

Souder and March (D) defeated Hedges and Van Cise 6-2; 6-4.

Spear and Reich (D) defeated Cooper and Pratt—6-2; 6-1.

Winkler and Likely (D) defeated Kidder and Kidder—6-4; 6-4.

Intramural Heads Plan Extensive Golf Tournament

The intramural committee is placing into effect another step in the sports world of intramural sports at Maryville college when they posted on the bulletin boards last week a notice that an intramural golf match would be held on the college course in the very near future.

The committee has so successfully planned and carried out the other programs they have originated this past year that the tournament is almost assured to be a success. Judging from the names one finds on the list, among these that of John Schellinger, Junior Herrick, George Howard, and Howard Dizney, it seems that the play will be of the highest type. Schellinger was a member of the golf team who journeyed to U-T a few weeks ago to meet the University, while Herrick was a member of the aspirants for the same team and practiced with the team a great deal.

The list has been posted in the boys' dorm and in Bartlett so that all who are interested may sign. The list must be complete tonight and it will be taken down. The play will start as soon as the greens are put into tip-top shape. According to Art Peterson this will be within the next week and then the match play will start. The greens will be covered with a layer of sand and the cups fixed considerably to aid in the play.

Peterson also announced that there still remain on the intramural's plans for the rest of the year the annual track meet between the classes and the archery contest which originated last year.

Alpha Sig Leads Softball League With No Defeats

After the second week of play in the intramural softball tournament it appears that Harry Graham's Alpha Sigma bunch is heading towards the championship during the regular season. However, the official championship will be decided in the post season games to be played between the four leading teams. Because of their five straight victories and no defeats the Greeks are at the top of the ladder, but they are followed closely by the once beaten Athenians and the once defeated Alley Cats.

The Alpha Sigma team presents a well-balanced, high-spirited team on the field for every game and it is due to this that they have been able to win so many games. The Alley Cats or Rats put one of the best teams out as do the Athenians. These two teams pack power at the plate and a dependable defense to back them up. There will be many thrill packed games next week when the Alley Cats meet the up and coming Spears gang on Monday and Alpha Sigma meets Athenian on Tuesday. Then two more GOOD games will take place on Thursday and Friday when Alpha Sig meets Spears and the Alley Cats meet the Athenians.

On Monday of this week the Deacons were smothered by the powerful Alley Cats and Spears took theirs from the faculty. This day was not as important as far as the race goes as was Tuesday when the Athenians and Alpha Sig

U-T BALL

J. D. Hughes, Scottie third sacker, led his mates in a spectacular ninth inning rally here Wednesday afternoon ,giving Maryville a 5-4 victory over the dreaded Vols of U-T. Winning pitcher for the fray was Les Rock, who toiled the last inning after moving from left field to relieve Bob Short.

On the slab for the Vols was Ezra McGlothlin, right hander, who contributed nine free tickets to the Maryville cause. McGlothlin held the Honakermen to three hits, allowing no safe blows in the first six innings. However, his wildness and six boots by his mates overshadowed his effectiveness.

Pudgy Ike Peel, third baseman, was the offensive star for the Vols, blasting a couple of bingles to account for a brace of tallies. Tennessee drew first blood in the opening stanza when a hit by Peel drove one tally across.

No more scoring took place by either team until the first of the sixth inning, when Tennessee counted twice more. A bingle by Peel was responsible for one of these scores.

In the last half of the sixth, the Scotties broke the ice by virtue of a well executed hit and run play. Honaker walked to open the frame, and Lloyd Taylor, second baseman, delivered on the hit and run signal with Maryville's first bingle of the afternoon. Honaker scampered across the plate as Rock grounded out.

Tennessee's fourth and final run came in the eighth inning, but Maryville came back to match it in the last half. McGaha came through with the second Scottie hit, a clean, line drive off the shortstop's shins, and eventually came around to count the second run.

Rock moved to the mound in the top of the ninth, retiring the Vols without damage. Maryville went to the plate in the last of the ninth with the score standing 4-2 for the Vols. First up was Shelfer, who took three swings and retired for a drink of water. Goddard, a pinch-hitter, worked McGlothlin for a walk. Honaker walked Taylor walked. McGlothlin tugged at his cap, hitched up his pants, and faced J. D. Hughes. With the bases crowded, Hughes came through with

Track Team Works With Meet Only One Week Away

Maryville's track team already crippled from graduation of their key performers of last year is now crippled by the loss of several of their performers this year. Justus was counted on in the pole vault and has been confined to the hospital, as is Rudy. The other day Jack Fesperman pulled a muscle while running his specialty.

One good note, however, was the discovery of Bill Overly in the javelin department. Bill picked up the stick the other day for the first time and heaved it 130 ft. Since then Coach Davis has had the big boy out for this act.

The meets are coming up close for the Highlanders and Coach Davis is working frantically to get his team into shape to meet the competition. Thursday afternoon the team held some more time trials and Doug Steakley ran a 10.6 century dash while Huff was circling the track in the 220 in 26.4. This Huff was the lad who carried off all the honors in the intramural track meet last year but who has now transferred his ability to the varsity competition.

Julius Nicely, veteran broad jumper and high jumper sailed twenty feet through the air in the board jump, while Simpson went up into the air nine feet in his pole vault attempt. Two frosh milers, Tracy Ellis and Jack Fesperman were clocked in 5:6.5 and 5:7.0 on Thursday afternoon and it looks as if this Ellis is going to make a good distance runner for the Orange and Garnet. Harry Kell, slight-built transfer student, ran the 220 in 25 to beat out Huff by 1.4 seconds.

The first meet for the Highlanders will take place on the 26th of April when they meet the University of Tennessee Volunteers. U-T has one of their greatest teams this year and the Scots will really be in for a battle.

a long single to left center field, scoring Honaker and Taylor. Hughes went to second on the left fielder's error, Taylor stopping at third. With the count knotted and one man out, Rock was walked intentionally to load the sacks. McGaha, with the squeeze play on, worked McGlothlin for the ninth pass of the day, and the ball game was over.

Short allowed nine hits in the eight frames that he worked, and managed to keep them fairly well scattered except in the sixth inning, when the Vols counted twice.

HIWASSEE BALL

Maryville's baseball team downed Hiwassee by a 9-7 count on the Hiwassee diamond Tuesday afternoon. The game was featured by heavy stick-work on both sides and saw a host of pitchers in service. Outstanding at the plate for the Scotties was senior third baseman J. D. Hughes and pitcher Les Rock.

Hiwassee blasted the ball exceptionally hard, but seemed unable to connect in the pinches. Chet Smith, right fielder, and Pete Chance, second baseman, led the attack for the losers.

Consecutive singles by Baird, Honaker, Rock, and McGaha accounted for a pair of tallies in the third inning. McGaha singled again in the fifth, and Hughes smacked out a burning triple accounting for two more runs. In the top of the sixth, Maryville ran the score up to 7-0 by virtue of walks to Bowyer and Malone, and hits by Hughes and Rock.

Hiwassee counted twice in the last of the sixth, but the Honakermen came back in the eighth, when Scottie Honaker and J. D. Hughes rapped out singles for two runs. Led by Smith and Chance, Hiwassee counted five runs in the last two frames, but Fireman Leslie Rock was called in to extinguish the blaze.

Score by innings:

town to indulge in a few chocolate cokes and bemoan his fate.

But these town visitations do not keep on. Rushing through old blue-books, containing mostly red marks and ink blots, and eating up college outline series books, the now-conscientious senior assembles a mass of related facts and figures by 'lectric light and lamp light. Thus, with said knowledge plus the gift of bull the BA aspirant saunters into the room of his major professor around 1:00 on the afternoon of April 23. With semi-alacrity the following questions are answered:

1. Explain the effect of the tree-sitting epidemic of 1932 on the presidential election of 1932?
2. What is the difference between a Turkish bath and a Hungarian rhapsody?
3. There are two holes in a tree; one is ten feet above the other. There is a squirrel in the tree which continues to run from one hole to the other. The first trip took him five seconds. If he increases his speed one foot per second, how long will it be before he is sticking his head out of both holes at the same time? Also, find a misplaced modifier in question number 3.
4. Give a brief biography of the person who said any one of the following well-known phrases:
   a. Am I proud of my father? I'll say I am.
   b. What makes you so . . . ?
   c. Remember the Sugar Bowl.

And so one-half of the worries are over. Having attended the World Premier of Gene Autry in "Blazing Six-guns" at the Rat House Wednesday evening, our quasi-flunked friend again plants himself in the above-mentioned classroom on Thursday afternoon and receives the following questions:

1. Describe the secret bomb-sight now being used by the U.S. Navy Air Corps.
2. What is the connection between the jitterbug and the Brownian movement?
3. Who wrote the following?
   "Mary had a little swing,
   It isn't hard to find,
   And everywhere that Mary Goes
   The swing is just behind."
4. Describe the suboesophageal ganglion of an earthworm that has just received an electric shock of 1004 volts if the resistance of said worm is 58.9 ohms.

With the final word written to the final question the senior rushes out with a happy smile on a now worn-out chassis. He has lost about nine pounds; his clothes look as if they had been slept in for two nights; and his complexion has now a sallow midnight-oil-glow look. His blood-shot eyes are sunk so far back in his bulging head that his eyebrows are about to cave in. His hair, alas, is full of tangles caused by running tense fingers through the black locks in order to soothe his over-heated brain.

But there is always a bright side to everything. Now he can admire the trees which have budded during his period of seclusion. Now he can eat and enjoy what he is eating. Now he can brag to the frosh, sophs, and juniors that he went through Comprehensive Week without cracking a book. In fact, now he can start studying for next year's comprehensives.

Pascoe came out third in the extemp contest.

With two practice tourneys and hours of practice debates behind them the local squad next entered the State tournament at Cookeville and came out with a four-star record. The women's team of Lucille Lynch and Phyllis Anne Cain won the championship in their division; the men's team of George Webster and Edward Thomas was finally eliminated in the semi-finals. In other speech events Maryville took top honors in women's extemp and impromptu, Lucille Lynch winning first place in both of these contests. A second place in men's extemp went to George Webster; Jack Zerwas was second in both the Peace Oratorical contest and the regular oratorical contests, delivering an oration entitled "The Rise and Fall of the Italian Empire" in the latter. All in all, Maryville compiled a total of 32 points out of a possible 82. The runner-up, Memphis State Teachers college, had a total of only 12 points.

A third place at the South Atlantic tournament, sponsored by Lenoir-Rhyne, Hickory, N.C., March 6-8, was the next honor added to the list of the local debaters. The men debaters at this tourney were Trevor Rees-Jones and Henry Wick; the women, Natalie Yelton and Phyllis Anne Cain. Beth Pascoe won first place in the after-dinner finals delivered at the annual banquet, broadcast over the local station. Her light, humorous speech was on the subject "Monuments". She also won a third place in the women's extemp contest. Other members of the group also came through with honors. Janet Lindsay won second place in the contest in problem solving; Natalie Yelton captured a third place in the women's oratorical contest with a dissertation on "Uprooted Americans". Trevor Rees-Jones won three thirds; impromptu, after-dinner, and stimulating group opinion.

At the recently held Provincial tournament, Montevallo, Ala., April 2-5, another fourth place was won, this time by Jack Zerwas, Henry Wick, Janet Lindsay, Lucille Lynch, Jeanne Stringham, and Vernon Lloyd. Henry Wick having won first in men's impromptu while Lucille Lynch won third in the women's division.

Airplane Is Obtained For Ground School Of Civilian Pilot Course

In line with the regulations prescribed by the Civil Aeronautics Authority, the college obtained a Heath Airplane for the ground school of the Civilian Pilot Training course.

This addition of the plane to the pilot training course will enable students to include in their ground course study of the control surfaces, general construction, and materials for an airplane.

The airplane, which is not to be used for actual flying, will be assembled in Thaw hall, where the ground school will convene.

German Club Chooses Officers In Annual Elections Thursday

At their regular meeting held on Thursday evening in Athenian hall, German club members held their annual election of officers. Christine Fritz was elected president for 1941-42.

Other officers elected were Charles Gilpatrick, vice president; Jean Barnes, secretary; William Hargrave, treasurer; Eleanor Williams, working with Dr. Ralph Collins, faculty adviser, as program chairman; Dorothy Barber, pianist; Ollie Welsh, publicity chairman; and Warren Culver, chorister.

These new officers will be formally installed at a meeting in the near future and will aid in conducting the final meeting of this year.

Dr. Andrew Richards Is Vespers Speaker Sunday

The Rev. Dr. Andrew Richards of the Second Church of Dorchester, in Boston, Mass., will conduct the vesper services Sunday evening. Dr. Richards was graduated from Maryville college in 1918 and attended Princeton university; the Doctor of Divinity degree was conferred on him by Maryville college. He and Mrs. Richards are now visiting their son, Andrew, here.

John Baptiste Speaks At Nature Club Monday

John Baptiste will speak on "Taxidermy" at the Nature club meeting Monday evening at 6:45 in the organic chemistry lecture room. At that time plans will be made for the spring hike, on which only a limited number will be allowed to go. Those who wish to hike must sign up Monday.

Griffitts At Athenian Program Tonight, 6:15

A very unusual and pertinent program will be presented at the Athenian meeting tonight. Dr. Griffitts will speak on "Chemistry in National Defense." As national defense is such a vital matter, this program promises to be both interesting and instructive. Dr. Griffitts will discuss the large number of ways in which chemistry is affecting and aiding the great national defense effort now well under way. The meeting will be held at the usual time, 6:15, in Athenian hall.

1000 Spectators See Impressive Annual May Day Celebration In College Woods Amphitheater

Queen Mary Orr And King Douglas Steakley Get Burst of Applause

PROGRAM EXCELLENT

Second Part of Program Consists of Dances, Choruses, Tableaux

Before approximately one thousand spectators and five hundred cameras, the colorful and impressive annual May Day celebration was presented on Thursday afternoon. The stage of a patriotic looking college amphitheatre was the setting for the festivities which carried out a modern, patriotic theme.

About 2:00 the processional music, "Triumphant March" from Verdi's opera, "Aida", signalled the opening of the program. With this background members of the May court began the solemn procession to the white throne on the stage.

First to appear were Robert Hunter and William Hargrave, trumpeters, who took a dignified stand before the bridge and announced the approach of each couple. The freshmen led the group of court attendants, Virginia Cain and Kay Liddell with Frank George and Roy Laughmiller. The girls were dressed in blue net gowns and carried pink flowers. All of the courtiers wore white linen suits.

Sophomore attendants followed, Wesley Lochausen and Carl Pierce escorting Anne Halabrin and Meredith Preston who carried blue and white bouquets to contrast with their rose dresses. Junior ladies-in-waiting, Jean Blake and Mary Agnes Carter, wore aqua dresses and had yellow bouquets. They were accompanied by George Howard and Ted Holman. The queen's two attendants, Barbara Ann Swift and Lois Ann Alexander, dressed in lavender, followed the class attendants.

Last in the dignified train came the royal couple, Queen-of-the-May Mary Orr and King Douglas Steakley. At their appearance the audience burst into "Oh's" and spontaneous applause. White satin gown, long train, and deep red roses combined with Mary's lovely hair and smile to bring from all sides the admiring expression, "She really looks like a queen." To a lengthy fanfare from the trumpeters King Steakley, fitting companion for the queen, escorted her to the throne and placed on her head the crown of red and white flowers.

The second part of the ceremonies consisted of dances, choruses, and tableaux performed in honor of the May Queen. The program was called America's Heritage, and represented modern life in Amercia with special emphasis on the present relationship between England and the United States.

Three dances opened the program, called respectively, land, sky, and sea. Sara Jo Bolling, representing land, appeared in a green costume and gave a solo ballet. Georgia Meadows and Mary Felknor in long, pale blue dresses, gave an interpretative dance representing sky activities. Picturing the sea situation, Polly Park, dressed in red, white, and blue stripes, did a skillful tap dance to the music of "Anchors Aweigh."

The sun made a rather late entrance at this point and added to the beauty of the grassy stage with a pattern of light and shadow.

The first tableau, "America Receives English Refugee Children," showed Uncle Sam Bob Wilcox shaking hands with John Bull Gordon Findlay and receiving some refugee children from forlorn but youthful mothers. Eleven members of the women's glee club, looking somewhat like spirits of liberty, provided choral music to accompany this and the following tableau, "American Red Cross", where people industriously packed "Bundles for Britain."

Several co-eds seemed to blossom amazingly into flowers or butterflies or clinging vines to portray a typical garden scene. And a beautiful garden it was too.

Betty Clevenger made a handsome if not convincing gentleman professor in the campus scene where Alice Jones in modest red really polished the apple.

Short Plays Presented In Chapel In Honor Of This Year's May Court

May Day night at 8:00 in the chapel two short plays were presented in honor of the May Court. The first of these plays was "May Moon". Appearing in this play were Virginia Berg, Bill Evans, Ed Vaughn, Charles Gilpatrick, Harry Lyle, Irma Russell, Georgia Meadows, Mary Wessels, Marianne Coleman, Dorothy Harned, Hal Lloyd, Dave Hall, Doris Murray, Alice Jones, Mary Wintermute.

The second play was a Chinese play entitled "The Willow Plate." George Tibbetts, Andy O'Connor, Mary Esther White, Ruth Sutherlin, Lloyd Shue, Betty Clevenger, Fred DePue, Harry Graham, Dorothy Harned, Ruth Alexander, Virginia Williams, Beth Parker, Jean White, and Marian Avakian took parts in this second play. In the intermission Polly Parks played several selections on the xylophone. As a climax to the evening's entertainment the May Day royalty and the attendants made their final appearance climbing the dizzy heights of a snow capped, unspellable, mountain in China.

National Music Week Observed At Maryville

First Highlight of Week Is Orchestra Concert Tuesday Evening

In celebration of National Music Week, which is the first week in May, the music department had planned a music festival for this week end. However, the program has been spread over a period of more than a week taking in three junior recitals, two senior recitals, the orchestra concert, and the annual twilight concert of the Chilhowee Club.

The first highlight to come up this week is the orchestra concert on Tuesday evening, May 6. Schubert's Overture to Rosamunde is the opening number of this program, and it is followed by two numbers from L'Arlesienne Suite by Bizet, Minuet and Farandole. Following the intermission Ruth Duggan, junior music major, will play the solo part from Schumann's Concerto in A Minor with orchestral accompaniment. Hungarian Dance No. 6, by Brahms will close the program.

Friday evening, May 9, the first of the two senior recitals will be presented by Ann Elizabeth Biggs, Eugene McCurry, and Lynn Birchfiel, all voice students. Ann Biggs, soprano, will open the program with Cade la sera by Mililotti and the piece, "How Beautiful are the Feet of Them," from Handel's "Messiah". Her second group will consist of two French songs, "Si mes vers avaient des ailes", Hahn, and Connais-tu le pays from Thomas' "Mignon". For the closing numbers, Miss Biggs will present Non, je n'irai plus au Bois by Weckerlin; At Nightfall by Reddick; "If I Knew" by Speaks. and Charles' "A Wish".

Eugene McCurry, tenor, will render as his first selections Purcell's "Passing By", the number "Then You'll Remember Me" from "The Bohemian Girl" by Balfe; and "Bid Me to Love" by Bernard. The second group will consist of three numbers; namely,

Dr. James A. Kelso Speaks At Vespers

President James A. Kelso of Western Theological Seminary, Pittsburgh, will be the preacher at the college vespers at 7:00 Sunday night. He is a scholar and writer of great distinction.

Dr. Kelso holds degrees from institutions in both America and Europe, for many years was a professor of the Old Testament and of the Hebrew language, has served as lecturer in the American School of Oriental Research at Jerusalem, holds many important appointments, and has been president of Western Theological Seminary for the past 33 years.

He will be at the college for conferences with any interested in seeing him.

Dr. Blanche H. Dow Vists Maryville

Dr. Blanche H. Dow, chairman of the Division of Foreign Languages at Eastern Missouri State Teachers college, Maryville, Mo., was a visitor on the campus Thursday. Dr. Dow is a member of the accrediting committee of the National Association of University Women.

Maryville is under consideration for acceptance by this organization to their list of approved colleges. If Maryville is approved by the committee which Dr. Dow represents, women graduates of Maryville will be eligible for admission to the National Association of University Women. Dr. Dow was interested in the curriculum for women at Maryville and the rank and salaries of women instructors. The organization which she represents is primarily interested in advancing adult education for mature women and advancing study in special fields.

Thursday afternoon Dr. and Mrs. Lloyd entertained the senior women, the faculty wives, and the women teachers of the college at a tea in honor of Dr. Dow. In the evening she was entertained at a dinner attended by the Executive Council.

Brewer, Williamson Lead Sophomores in Current Affairs

Patterson And Campbell Top Class in Fields of English, Sciences

Results on the Sophomore Cooperatives, released this week, reveal that Carson Brewer and Gabriel Williamson top the class in knowledge of contemporary affairs. Jean Patterson in the field of English, and Donald Campbell in the field of science. This year's class has surpassed the efforts of previous ones on the English test; the average is 60.9 as compared with the national norm of 59.3. Likewise the Maryville college science norm is above the national one as the former is 55.76 while the latter is 49. Because of the wide variation from year to year, a similar comparison cannot be made in regard to the contemporary affairs test until results from the other colleges have been compiled; however, the median in this college is determined in respect to the women and the men. The median for men is 92 while that of the women is 57.

College Choir Broadcasts On NBC Program

Maryville college's A Capella choir, under the direction of Associate Professor Ralph R. Colbert, broadcast over the Red network of the National Broadcasting Company this afternoon at 5:00. The choir provided the musical background for "Defense for America", which dramatized the vital contribution of aluminum to national defense.

Broadcast in part from the Alcoa High school auditorium, the program was heard over the 97 stations of the NBC Red network, was broadcast by short wave to South America, and by delayed short wave to the entire British Empire. Besides the "pick-up" from the auditorium, the rest of the program was made from the sheet mill and from the Aluminum Company's plant in New Kensington, Pa. The local program was transmitted through station WROL.

Milo Boulton, master of ceremonies; Laurence Hammond, writer of "Defense for America"; Pat McAlleavy, his assistant; and Harold Nussbaum, musical director, were present for the broadcast.

Wendt Passes Oral Exams For Degree

Paul Francis Wendt, assistant professor of Economics at Maryville college, recently passed the final oral examinations and defense of his doctoral dissertation for the Ph.D. degree in Economics in the Division of History, Economics, Public Law and Social Science, Faculty of Political Science at Columbia University, New York City.

In addition to the general requirement that the candidate for the Ph.D. degree pursue graduate studies for at least two academic years at the university, candidates must pass preliminary written examinations in two foreign languages, pass certification examinations in two branches of the field of economics and oral examinations in four other branches of the field.

Professor Wendt's dissertation is entitled "The classficiation and financial experience of the customers of a typical New York Stock Exchange firm from 1933-1938." According to Columbia University's requirements, Professor Wendt will be formally awarded the Ph.D. degree as soon as he has concluded arrangements for the publication of his thesis.

Former Art Instructor Visits Club May 8

On Thursday evening, May 8, Mrs. Frances Rich Patterson, former art instructor of the college, will entertain art club members with a demonstration lecture on figure drawing. The meeting will be held in the Baker art gallery.

National Institute of Public Affairs Meets In Washington

For several years the National Institute of Public Affairs in coordination with the United States Office of Education has sponsored the Institute of Government held each year in Washington, D.C. The 1941 session, held April 14-18, was attended by over seventy-five undergraduate representatives from forty-five selected senior colleges and universities throughout the east and middle west, many of them attending on scholarships given by their institutions.

This year the theme of the program was the problems facing the various departments of the government as a result of the national defense policy. Open forum discussions were held with the leading men engaged in the rearmament effort.

One of the first offices visited was that of Sidney Hillman, Co-ordinator of Labor in the Office of Production Management. Speaking with a Lithuanian accent in the Board Room of the OPM, Mr. Hillman spoke chiefly of the strike situation in defense industries. Being a labor man himself, Mr. Hillman was naturally inclined to minimize the interference in production caused by labor unrest, saying that last winter 10 times the number of man hours lost by the recent strikes were lost by the cold epidemic among workmen. He ended the hour's discussion by pointing out that the government does not want restrictive legislation, and probably will not need to ask for it since the National Mediation Board set up four weeks ago has succeeded in settling every dispute presented to it.

Another one of the "Big Seven" with whom a conference was held was Leon Henderson, chairman of the Division of Price Stabilization. To illustrate how this section of the OPM is using its new administrative powers, Mr. Henderson told the members of the Institute that at 5:00 Wednesday afternoon the price of steel would be frozen and it would be a headline story in the next morning's Washington papers. His prediction was true, thus showing one more instance of increasing governmental control over defense industry.

A second phase of the week's program centered around the part of Latin America in defense. Probably the best authority on Latin American relations is Leo S. Rowe, with whom a conference was held on Thursday morning in the same room in which three days before Vice-President Henry A. Wallace delivered the Pan-American Day address to a nation-wide radio audience. Mr. Rowe spoke chiefly of the continentalizing of the Monroe Doc-

Carson Brewer Elected Editor of Highland Echo For Coming School Year At Staff Meeting

Journalism Course To Be Taken by New Editor at U. of Missouri

NEW STAFF SELECTED

Umbach, Lindsay, Felknor, Sweeney, Rees-Jones, Barnes, Cain Go Up

Carson Brewer, sophomore English major from Mooresburg, Tennessee, and present managing editor of the Highland Echo, was elected editor for the school year 1941-42 at a meeting of the Echo staff held yesterday afternoon.

This position as editor of the Echo climaxes a series of successes here at Maryville college. Serving as a freshman apprentice last year, Carson was chosen this year to serve as managing editor under both of the co-editors, J. Edward Thomas and William Felknor.

When Carson arrives on the campus next September to assume the many duties and responsibilities of his new position, he will have acquired a well-rounded knowledge of journalism. This summer he plants to enter the University of Missouri Summer school at Columbia, Mo., where he will enroll for courses dealing with news gathering, news writing, and editorial writing.

At a meeting of the student-faculty publications committee last Wednesday those who will constitute next year's staff were chosen and are as follows: juniors—Bette Umbach, Janet Lindsay, and Mary Felknor; sophomores—Jean Barnes, Phyllis Anne Cain, Bill Sweeney, Trevor Rees-Jones and Carson Brewer; and freshmen—Kay Liddell, Jordy Meadows, Bob Francis, Paul Cooper, Sidney Duke, Benjamin Lynt, and Mary Wintermute. It was this group which chose Carson as their editor for the coming year.

Seniors Work On 'The Silver Cord'

The senior play cast has been rehearsing for the production, "The Silver Cord", every afternoon for the past week. The seniors taking part are learning their lines as quickly as possible since there is such a short time from now until the date of production, June 2.

The cast was picked shortly after the class meeting two weeks ago by Mrs. Nita Eckles West who is coaching the play. Elizabeth Moore, a senior from Maine and English major, is taking the part of Mrs. Phelps, who is outwardly an unselfish mother but inwardly something quite different. The part of David, her son, is taken by Frank Brink, senior dramatic art major. Mrs. Phelps' younger son, Robert, will be portrayed by Williams Gehres, who is also majoring in dramatic art. The part of Christina, David's wife, is taken by Jean White, senior political science major, and that of Hester, Robert's fiance, by Helen Williams, senior sociology major.

Sidney Howard, author of this modern American drama, has been a well-known figure in American literature since his production of "They Knew What They Wanted" in 1924. The play, "The Silver Cord", shows an unusual situation, though not at all an impossible one, in the life of an American family, and the author develops the characterizations in a masterful and different manner.

Hunter Announces New Members Of Alpha Gamma Sig

Choices Made on Basis Of Personality, Character, and Scholarship

Dr. E. R. Hunter announced this week that the following members of the class of 1941 have been elected to Alpha Gamma Sigma, Maryville's scholastic honor society; Aline Campbell, George Webster, J. Edward Thomas, Philip Evaul, Edna Manrose, Paul Brown, Hal Henschen, Mary Orr, Vivian Moore, Bob Short, Warren Corbett, and Jack Zerwas.

In order to be eligible for election to Alpha Gamma Sigma, students must attain an average of 6.5 for three and one-half years. Election is made on the basis of scholarship, character, and personality.

All of the students elected from this year's graduating class are well qualified and have distinguished themselves in various ways. Aline Campbell is an English major from Vineland, New Jersey, who has been doing honors work in that field.

George Webster is also an honors work student, and a political science major, who is an outstanding member of the varsity debate squad, and is a member of Pi Kappa Delta.

J. Edward Thomas has distinguished himself as co-editor of The Highland Echo, and as a member of the debate squad. Recently, Mr. Thomas was elected to Pi Kappa Delta. He is a political science major and is from Maryville.

Philip Evaul is a biology major from New Jersey, he is a four-year track man, is doing honors work, and is the president of YMCA this year.

Paul Brown is a sociology major from Pennsylvania.

Edna Manrose is a German major, an honors work student from Columbus, Ohio.

Hal Henschen is a member of the Student Council, a chemistry major, is from Florida, captain of this year's wrestling team, and a member of the Athletic Board of Control.

Mary Orr, an English major, is president of the YWCA, and was May Queen.

Vivian Moore is a transfer student from Blackburn College. Miss Moore is a sociology major.

Bob Short is from Pennsylvania, a biology major and baseball star.

Warren Corbett is also from Pennsylvania and is majoring in political science.

Jack Zerwas is a transfer student from Blackburn and is a history major.

Eleanor Long Exhibits Work

From May 1 through May 14, Eleanor Long, senior art major, will present an exhibition of her work in the Elizabeth Gowdy Baker art gallery. The exhibit will consist of a group of portraits, landscapes, and abstract designs done in water colors and oils, a collection of all that she has done in her three years here. Eleanor has studied painting for several years, majoring in art while at Maryville under former instructors, Miss Rich and Miss Dolch, and under Miss Virginia Purinton, present instructor in art. She will also exhibit her art comprehensive problem which she has just completed, a sculpture in wood entitled the Ballet Dancer.

This display, called the senior exhibition, is given each year by the graduating art majors. The art department extends invitation to see the exhibit to anyone interested.

Art Exhibition Announced By Miss Purinton

Miss Virginia Purinton, instructor in art, has announced a general student art exhibition to be held during commencement week, beginning on May 27. The exhibit is an outgrowth of the usual custom of displaying the year's work done by students in studio art courses. This year the exhibit is thrown open to all students to enter any piece of painting, drawing, sculpture, or crafts that they have made this year. Each student taking art courses is expected to enter three works; any other student may submit from one to three entries for display. Miss Purinton requests that any student interested obtain an entry blank from someone in the art department before May 15, as all entries should be turned in on the 15th.

A jury, not yet selected, but to consist of three faculty members and two students, will consider each entry and choose those to be exhibited. This jury will also select what it considers the best production. Work will be judged on the basis of quality, design, and craftsmanship. The student whose entry is chosen as best will receive an award.

ECHO ANALYSIS

Now that the Battle of the Balkans is over with a victory for Hitler, the United States has found herself in a position where a quick choice must be made.

No one knows where Hitler will strike next, but it is highly probable that the next blow will come in the Mediterranean. It is thought that Hitler will strike simultaneous blows at Suez and Gibraltar, the doorways to the Mediterranean through which England now gets many of her supplies.

At any rate, the Battle of the Atlantic will continue with ever increasing fury. It is estimated that [illegible] per cent of American Lease-Lend aid is now being sent to the bottom by Nazi U-boats and surface raiders.

SOMETHING MUST BE DONE—

That is an enormous amount, but under the present set-up nothing can be done about it by the British. Still something must be done if our aid is to be real aid. And since Britain can't do anything, the job has fallen to the United States. And President Roosevelt has sought to mitigate the situation by providing American convoys as far as Greenland, newly acquired from Denmark.

Hitler has declared that ships, no matter whom they belong to, will be sunk if they carry munitions to the British. Germany considers the war zone to be within three miles of the Greenland coast. Consequently, it is highly probable that the Germans will start taking pot shots at our ships when they begin convoying aid to England. And if they start taking cracks at us, it is not likely that we will refrain from cracking back. That means war, actual war. Perhaps we will be in it only to the extent of our Navy, but that is a step and other steps may be expected to follow.

Roosevelt promised in his campaign that the United States would stay out of war. And it appears, so far, that he is making a strong effort to keep that promise. However, the fates of battle are stronger than the will of any one man. If worst comes to worst, Roosevelt may have to back down on his policy. But, after all, it is the fool who never changes his mind. Furthermore, American public opinion is becoming more and more in favor of entering the war. We don't want to get in if Britain can win without us, but if Britain can't win without us most of us would be willing to enter the war.

CAN'T MESS ABOUND TOO LONG—

The danger lies in our messing around too long to see if Britain can win without our aid. If we stay out until the British are completely wrecked [illegible] might as well stay out for all time—or at least till Hitler decides we are ripe enough to be plucked from the tree.

Scots and Soda

This column, as well as a great majority of the student body, has been happy to meet and see around for the past week Miles Snyder, who is as charming and versatile as his mother. He is greatly interested in everything about the campus, from the rocks upon which it was founded to the art and music it produces. Drop in again sometime, Miles; it's been nice having you.

We were interested to see, from our vantage point as second assistant in charge of opening coke bottles at the YW stand, all the people who went to see the May Day production. This was our first venture as a food distributor, and it offered a surprising bit of enjoyment.

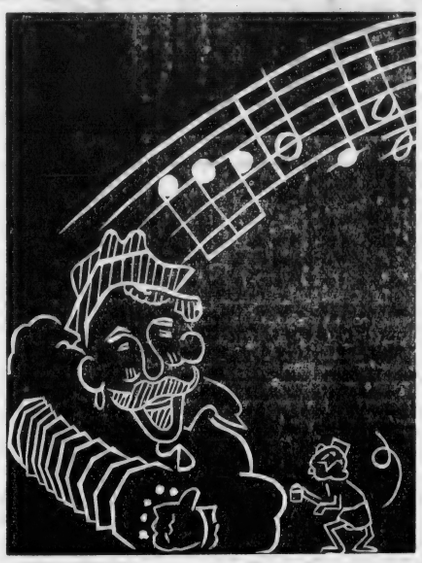
And speaking of surprises, we were afraid King Steakley was in for one when he hadn't gotten around to trying on his royal suit until about eighteen minutes before coronation time. But things went on smoothly, and everybody lived happily ever after. Who wouldn't be happy to crown such a lovely queen as Mary Orr. She might nigh took our breath away.

Still speaking of May Day, one of the dearest things we saw was little Peter Wendt, son of Prof. Paul F., solemnly viewing the colorful array from the top row of the bleachers.

For obvious reasons we hesitate to divulge any names, but I'll bet we could blackmail a little group of freshman girls (if we were that kind of people) who decided they would begin a seemingly dull day by attending breakfast via the fire escape. They got held up along the way though. Just lots and lots of gentlemen in the passing throng offered to brink their breakfasts up to them; but they declined all offers and waited until some stalwart lads helped them down. Some freshmen aren't so dumb.

And here is a new slant on this autograph collecting business, as introduced by Fred Rawlings. "Will you sign my annual?" eagerly he entreats, meanwhile opening the book with a flourish to the previously inserted adventures of "Little Orphan Annie" or "Flash Gordon", as the case might be.

The other day we were given an insight into John M. Magee's philosophy of life and love. Upon seeing several senior girls dressed up for the hat-gloves-and-shoes tea, he remarked something to the effect that it always surprised him to see how beautiful girls were, when they were dressed up. "It's just like being on a ship for a couple of years," he explained, "then landing and seeing a woman. She's beautiful, just because she's a woman". There couldn't have been anything personal in it, though; we had on our striped jacket.



One of the smoothest outfits we've seen lately was the one modeled by Miss Jessie Heron, May Day afternoon. It was all black and gold; and very becoming. The ensemble was completed by a syrup can which the wearer held in her left hand. What won't Schiaparelli think up next?

What she won't, Charlie Baldwin will. Judging, of course, from his May Day attire, too. (Somehow we can't seem to break away from May Day. But then, why should we want to?) Strolling nonchalantly over the greensward, he looked as if he might have stepped right off a yacht, or from an artists' colony. If you saw him, you will know what we mean. Indubitably.

And turning back to visitors, SCOTS AND SODA would like to say that it hopes Maryville College made as good an impression on Dr. Blanche Dow as she made on us.

Too, we would like to mention our approval of the tradition that was started Thursday night in the line of May Night plays. (See? We just can't help it. Must be in our blood). Unfortunately we were unable to attend, what with the strenuous activities of the afternoon; and classes all morning; and, incidentally, the Home Ec dress that was due Friday morning. But we heard from reliable sources—VERY reliable sources, we might say—that the idea, and the plays, and the presentation were splendid. We guess that makes May Day just about perfect; from now on out.

James", caused a general wave of amusement by her portrayal of the king's jester. Her effective use of the Hallowe'en horn, tumbles to the ground, and rueful attempts to gain attention made her an admirable court fool.

The traditional May Pole dance concluded the program. To the music of "God Bless America", the dancers wound red, white, and blue streamers around the pole in a striking flag effect. Court recessional ended the ceremonies.

In the usual aftermath of criticisms, students, friends, and visitors who watched the performance seemed unanimously to compliment Miss Evelyn Seedorf, Mrs. Verton Queener, and Genevieve Cowen for a smoothrunning and most attractive program.

trine, and the growing contribution of the South American nations to hemisphere defense. He stressed the fact that the Southern continent will be of increasing importance to the United States in the post-war world.

The other speaker on Inter-American relations was Lawrence Duggan, the political advisor of the State Department. Standing behind his desk on which were some of the same periodicals used by the local debate squad on the Latin American question this season, Mr. Duggan pointed out that this part of the world was only our second line of defense, while all-out-aid to Britain is the most important element in national defense.

Noticed throughout the entire week, in and around government offices, was the atmosphere of tension and emergency. The nation's capital is even more definitely pro-intervention than our own South.

Also included on the program were discussions with Ugo Cruesi, assistant Attorney-General; Harriet Elliott and Charles Palmer, two other members of the OPM; the first secretaries of the Brazilian and the Chilean Embassies; and a buffet supper with the daughter of the Chilean ambassador to the United States.

CAMPUS WORKERS AID IN BEAUTIFYING GROUNDS

With the coming of spring to the campus, the campus work last week consisted chiefly of general beautification of the grounds.

Along with cutting grass and clearing the grounds of the main campus, the workers also spent some time in erecting bleachers, a platform, and an amplifier at the amphitheatre for the May Day celebration.

SPORT ECHOS

BASEBALL... It looks like Coach really has a ball club this year. the Scots keep right on winning ball games by huge scores and big margins and it doesn't seem to matter who the teams are. Just this week the Highlanders ran up 53 runs to their opponents' 17. Tusculum fell 22-3, Teachers 9-0, Carson-Newman, 17-5, and the Highlanders lost their only game of the week and their second intercollegiate game of the entire season. Today the Clubbin' Nine takes on Western Carolina Teachers in a return game. Before the U-T struggle, the batting averages of the starting nine were figured out and we find that only three were batting below .400 and these well well up over the supposedly select .300 class. Is there any reason why the Scots shouldn't win ball games if they continue to hit like they have? The other day against Teachers college, Lefty Bob Mair started his first game and did a good job on the mound, and the day before with Tusculum, Paul Seiber showed he too had the stuff to win as he outpitched Tusculum to win his game.

TRACK... As far as the dual meets go, the Maryville track season is over. The state meet to be held next Saturday at Sewanee will be the last meet. The track team didn't have much luck in their two meets with the two universities—Tennessee and Chattanooga. The second meet was much closer than the first, and was, naturally, more interesting to watch. One thing in the meet with Tennessee was the high jumping of Julius Nicely who jumped two full inches over his head. That's really going up into the air. Yesterday he won this event and placed second in the broad jump. In the U-T meet, the Vols gathered every first place, but the meet yesterday was decidedly different in this respect, for Fesperman took the mile, Alfy took the two mil grind, Bill Baird took the half, and Nicely, the high jump. Congrats are in store for Coach Davis and his team, even though they lost both their meets by decisive margins. Starting with but a few experienced men on hand, the team has done well to show up as good as they did.

TENNIS... No word has been received from the wandering boys for quite a few days and therefore we are unable to find out how they are doing. However, if the first two days on the road are any indication of what is to follow, the Scots must be doing quite all right. All the way to the coast—some guys all the breaks.

Vols Beat Scots 9-5 On Thursday At Smithson Park

Thursday afternoon in Knoxville's Smithson Stadium, the University of Tennessee Volunteers defeated the Maryville college Highlanders by the score of 9-5. Bunzy O'Neil and Huffman worked the game for the victors while Short and Hooker toed the slab for the Honakermen.

Maryville took a 1-0 lead in their half of the first inning when Saffell and Taylor singled to score Honaker, who had walked. The Scots kept this slight advantage until the last of the fourth frame when Simonetti, U-T backstop, caught hold of one of Hooker's slants and rode it out for a home run. The next inning Tennessee scored four and one in the six to lead 6-0.

In the first half of the stretch inning Baird connected for a single and scored when Shelfer singled. Honaker drove in Sport who had advanced on Hooker's infield out. Huffman took the mound and immediately the visitors scored two runs when Huffman hit Taylor, walked Hughes, and gave up a single to Cragan.

In the last of the seventh, Short was nicked by three singles and a double by the same Simonetti, to end the game at 9-5.

Batteries—Maryville: Hooker, Short, Shelfer. Tennessee: O'Neil, Huffman, Simonetti.

Tennis Players Leave Monday On Full Week's Trip

Word received from Johnson City informs us that the Maryville college tennis team defeated the racketeers from the Teachers college on Monday by the score of 7-0. The five singles men took their matches with every man except Ted Kidder defeating their opponent with one love set. Van Cise won his first set six-love; Hedges, his first set 6-0; Cooper, his first set and Pratt, his second set by the same margin. The doubles teams had it a little harder in their matches, Van Cise and Hedges defeating Williams and Bean, 6-4, 4-6, 6-4; and Pratt and Cooper defeating Barker and Nave, 6-3, 6-4.

MARS HILL MATCH—

On Tuesday afternoon the journeying tennis team spanked Mars Hill college at Mars Hill, N.C., by the score of 6-1. The visitors were complete masters of the situation all afternoon and it was the second doubles team lost the only match of the day. The first doubles team had the easiest with their 6-1, 6-0 defeat of the home boys; Cooper and Kidder came from behind to win their respective matches. Kidder lost his first 4-6 as did Cooper, but came on strong to win their next two, 6-1, 6-3; 6-4, 6-4 in respective order.

SUMMARY: Singles, Van Cise defeated Shive 8-6, 6-3; Hedges defeated McMurray 6-4, 6-4; Kidder defeated Davis 4-6; Pratt defeated Buckner 6-3, 6-0; Cooper defeated Wilhite 4-6, 6-4, 6-4. Doubles, Van Cise and Hedges defeated Buckner and McMurray 6-1, 6-0; Shive and Davis defeated Cooper and Kidder 6-3, 7-5.

Law Club Chooses 1941-42 Officers

Amid much applause and confusion the Law club met in Athenian hall last Thursday at 6:45 and elected the officers for 1941-42. They are as follows:

President: James Witt.
Vice-prsidnt: Roy Crawford.
Secretary: Laura Weber.
Treasurer: Richard Watkins.
Sergeant-at-arms: Jack Kramer.
Faculty Adviser: A. F. Pieper

It was reported that plans for the annual banquet to be held May 14 are progressing. J. Edward Thomas, chairman of the speaker committee, has been fortunate in obtaining Harley G. Fowler, prominent Knoxville corporation lawyer, as speaker for the banquet, and Lucette deBarritt has arranged a musical program with Charles Orr as soloist. Janet Lindsay is in charge of the place cards, and Robert Wilcox will be toastmaster.

All those wishing to attend the banquet must make reservations with either Robert Wilcox or Roy Crawford by Monday, May 12.

University Beats Scots Friday In Decisive Win

Yesterday afternoon on the home track the Maryville track team was defeated by the University of Chattanooga by the score of 75 1-3 to 55 2-3. It was the last dual meet of the current track season for the Scots and the first home meet. The visitors, led by gray-headed Barbee, took eight first places to Maryville's four, which was a decided improvement over the U-T meet a week ago.

Freshman Fesperman took the mile run and Ellis, another freshman, came in second for the Highlanders. Jack circled the distance in 5:4.6. Bill Baird took the half mile run and Fesperman came in second in this department. Bill ran this event in 2:12.8. Alfy Davies captured the two mile run in 11:14 with Tracy Ellis coming in second for the Scotties and Julius Nicely took the high jump.

The Highlanders, besides their four firsts, took five seconds and eight third places. Steakley took a second in the 440, Ellis gathered a second in the mile and a second in the two mile, Kell got a second in the 220, Lockwood got a third in the 440, Huff a third in the 100, Simpson a third in the pole vault, high hurdles, and tie for third in the high jump; Lloyd, a third in the 220, McCurry a third in the shot put and the discus.

Fesperman with a first in the mile and a second in the half and Julius Nicely with a first in the high and a third in the broad jumps were high scorers for the defeated Scots, with Ellis with two seconds runner-up. Alfy Davies ran a nice two mile as did Bill Baird in the half.

Scots Defeat Tusculum, Carson-Newman, and Teachers This Week

C-N BALL

Paced by the heavy stickwork of Leroy McGaha, the Scottie nine defeated Carson-Newman, traditional Maryville rival, 17-5 on Wednesday afternoon in Jefferson City. Mac collected a walk, a single, and two blistering doubles to score three runs in his five trips to the platter. Maryville's powerhouse batting order completely outclassed three Eagle hurlers, collecting a total of eighteen safe blows. Meanwhile, Les Rock, McGaha, and Waitman Bowyer held Carson-Newman to five runs and seven hits.

The Honakermen took the lead in the opening stanza and were never again in reach of their floundering opponents. Scot Honaker, first batter of the game, drew a pass and scored on a hit by J. D. Hughes. Maryville added two more runs in the second inning, Baird's single, McGaha's walk, and Rock's hit accounting for the tallies. In the third inning, Tommy Cragan, batting cleanup because of his spectacular hitting in recent games, opened with a single. Baby Baird followed with a double, his second hit of the day, to score Cragan.

Shubert, Carson-Newman first sacker, and Guinn, Eagle right fielder, both doubled in the third. Aided by a single off the bat of Murray, these blows counted two tallies for the losers to make the score 4-2 as th frame ended.

Munger, Carson-Newman's starting pitcher, was relieved by Pierce on the slab as the fourth inning opened. Mr. Pierce was greeted lustily in the person of six solid hits; so he contributed three bases on balls himself to account for eight runs in all. The team batted around before a single man was retired, nine consecutive hitters reaching base safely. The outstanding hits of the inning were doubles by Cragan and McGaha, but they were assisted by singles by Honaker, Taylor, Saffe and Rock.

Hungry for runs but short on base hits, the Eagles had to make one lone hit do for two tallies in the last half of the fourth. Knight's single was the only hit of the inning, but Pierce, who reached base on an error, also scored a run.

In the sixth inning, Maryville broke loose again to send another battered moundsman to the showers. Baird drew a pass to open procedures, and he quickly scored as McGaha slammed out his second double of the afternoon. Rock followed with a single, good for another run. At this point, Pierce took his leave, much to the sorrow of the grateful Scottie hitters. Clover came in, but allowed a pass to Taylor and a

TUSCULUM

Though the event was scheduled to be a baseball game, Maryville's nine turned the affair into a track meet as they routed Tusculum by a 22-3 score last Monday afternoon. The Scotties banged out 21 hits off six Pioneer hurlers, and stole everything Catcher Hice had except his shin guards. The so-called game, played in Greeneville, was the best batting practice session of the year for the Honakermen.

While his mates were taking their 22 laps around the bases, Righthander Seiber held the opposition to 3 tallies and 4 hits during the entire nine innings. Seiber had little trouble with the weak-swinging Pioneers except in the sixth frame when they managed to push across two runs. Seiber had good support, to put it mildly, and was never forced to really bear down.

Big noise of the Tusculum attack (you had to listen intently to hear it) was Rightfielder Hartsell, who collected half the losers' four safeties. He also scored two runs, one in the 4th and one in the big sixth. Among his other accomplishments, Hartsell also took his turn on the mound. For that matter it seemed that about half the able-bodied males in Greeneville were exposed to the barrage at one time or another.

The Scotties started rather weakly, scoring only 3 runs in the feeble first. However, they really came into their own in the third as they blasted Glenn, starting pitcher, from the hill. From then on, the Pioneer mound staff looked like the Parade of the Wooden Soldiers, for no less than six hurlers took their respective chances on the slab. Maryville batted around and scored half a dozen markers in the last frame to end the affair in a blaze of glory.

Tommy Cragan, senior first baseman, was Maryville's leading stickman. Tom scored three times and connected for four safe blows in five trips to the dish. Leroy McGaha, polished centerfielder, was another sparkplug as he scored four runs on two hits and two walks. McGaha, a consistently good outfieldr, cam up with several sparkling catches.

The speedy Highlanders came up with the astoudning total of 17 stolen bases. Taylor, Hughes, and Rock led the way in the larceny department as they each swiped three hassocks. Hice, purportedly Tusculum's first string catcher, seemed to be utterly unable to toss the ball anywhere in the general vicinity of its destination.

single to Hughes before he managed to retire the side. All in all, four runs came across in the inning. McGaha's third hit and a single by Shelfer meant still another run in the seventh, Maryville's last score of the contest.

The Eagles threatened in the seventh when Guinn tripled, but they failed to score as Guinn died on third. They did manage to score one more run in the last inning when pinch-hitter Miller doubled and came across.

Leslie Rock received credit for the victory, and he worked the first six innings in capable fashion. McGaha held the Eagles scoreless during the seventh and eighth, and Bowyer allowed only one run in the 9th.

Tommy Saffell, freshman outfielder who swings from the south side of the plate, had a good day, bagging three hits in six trips to the box and scoring two runs. Outstanding stickers for the losers were Guinn and Shubert, who played a big part in scoring Carson-Newman's five runs.

TEACHERS

Maryville scored a decisive 9-0 victory over the Tennessee Teachers nine Tuesday afternoon on the local diamond. Lefty Bob Mair, who held the Bucs to four hits in the six innings he worked, received credit for the win, his first of the season. Melvin Malone, bespectacled freshman right hander, pitched the seventh and eighth frames, allowing only one hit. Stringbean Bowyer, another right handers, was called in to finish the game, and did an acceptable piece of work in retiring the Bucs hitless in the final inning.

Six Buc errors contributed substantially to the Scottie cause, but Maryville's eleven safe hits were enough to decide the outcome. Fred Shelfer, vet receiver, played his best game of the year. Sport had a field day at the plate, leading the attack with three hits in four times up. In the sixth inning, Sport was robbed of still another hit. He was the first batter in the frame, and lined a drive toward center field. Martin, Buc second sacker, dashed back and made a diving, glovehand stab at the ball to come up with one of the best fielding plays of the current season. Martin's performance drew a big ovation from the local fans.

Tommy Cragan, popular first sacker, who has been hitting just about everything offered in recent games, continued his fine stickwork and also pilfered two bases to play a big role in the Scottie run making.

The work of Mair was especially encouraging to Maryville supporters. Buc stickmen seemed to be completely baffled by Mair's wronghand offerings, giving rise to the hope that in Mair the Scotties have found the portsider they have been so sorely needing this year.

Music Week...

"Open the Gates of the Temple" by Knapp, "In a Monastery Garden" by Ketelbey, and "In My Garden" by Firestone.

Lynn Birchfiel will give six baritone selections, the first of which are "I Attempt" from "Love's Sickness to Fly" by Purcell, "Drink To Me Only With Thine Eyes", and Beethoven's "Nature's Adoration." Chopin's "Bacchanal", Foster's "Beautiful Dreamer", and Baines' "The Bagpipe Man" will be his three remaining renditions.

Florence Barber and Ruth Duggan will be the accompanists on this program.

In review of the junior recitals, the last of which was Friday evening, April 18, Ruth Lane, Janice Graybeal, Dean Stiles, and Florence Barber presented the first of the series of three programs. Ruth Lane, soprano, and Dean Stiles, bass, gave several vocal selections. Florence Barber played the piano and Janice Graybeal, the organ. Ruth Duggan and Mr. Ralph R. Colbert accompanied.

April 25, Johnnye Sue Long, Jack Gilmore, Janice Graybeal, and Ruth Wynn presented the second Friday evening program. Johnnye Sue Long at the piano and Janice Graybeal and Ruth Wynn at the organ rendered several instrumental numbers; while Jack Gilmore, choir member, presented vocal selections. David Kidder was the accompanist.

The recital last evening was presented by Louise Marshall and Ruth Wynn, pianists, Doris Smith, choir member, vocalist, and David Kidder, organist. Florence Barber and Miss Katharine Davies were accompanists. This program was the last of the junior recitals to be presented by junior students of the music department this season.

At 4:00 Tuesday afternoon in the chapel, the Chilhowee Club held their annual Twilight Concert. The program opened with Panis Angelicus by Franck, played by Mary Gilliespie, violinist; Alverda Rosel, cellist; Johnnye Sue Long, pianist; and Ruth Wynn, organist. Ruth Lane sang Allerseen by Strauss and The Hour of Dreaming by Hahn; she was accompanied by Louise Marshall. Katherine Crews, accompanied by Florence Barber played Bach's Arioso. Gordon Stone presented two of Chopin's Etudes; Jeanne Heckman, accompanied by David Kidder, played as a violin solo Sarasate's Zigeunerweisen. Ruth Cathcart, accompanied by Louise Marshall, sang two selections, a number from Les Deux Avares by Gietry and Godard's Lullaby. David Kidder closed the program with his rendition of May Night by Palmgren and Canyon Walls by Clokey.

Interestingly enough, ranking among the first ten in the English test were eight women and two men; on the other hand there are eight men and two women among the top ten scorers on the General Science test. On the former Jean Patterson had a grade of 82, Jean Stamp 80, Mary Knight 79, Cornelia Jones 78, Carl Pierce 78, Evelyn Williams 78, Annalyn Ramey 77, Jean Barnes 77, Mary Ruth Heil 77, and Ed Rowley 77.

The highest grades achieved on the General Science test were made by Donald Campbell with a score of 143; Lois King, 136; Wilbur Mudge, 125; John Hawkins, 118; Ed Vaughn, 110; William Purvis, 109; Fred Smith, 106; William Chappel, 115; Marjorie Gugger, 101; Leslie Rock, 103.

For the past four years Maryville has taken part with colleges throughout the nation in giving the Sophomore Cooperative tests. Last year 153 leading colleges of the country participated, including 13,497 students. These tests fulfill a general service of enabling the college to compare its ratings with those of other institutions. In addition there is the personal value to each student in offering guidance through the information it submits. The student also, particularly in connection with the contemporary affairs test, can learn just how closely he is keeping in touch with current happenings.

The Personnel office announces that any student who wishes to learn how he ranked in any of the tests may do so by inquiring at the Personnel office at any time.

Y Retreat To Be Held May 10-12

On May 10, 11, and 12 the officers and cabinet members of the YMCA and YWCA will hold their annual Y Retreat at Line Springs in the Great Smoky Mountains.

Opening with a banquet on Saturday, May 10 with Professor Pieper as the speaker, the activities of the trip will get under way. Worship services conducted by Dr. T. B. Cowan of Norris, and the discussion of plans for the coming year will constitute the remaining activities of the retreat.

Dr. and Mrs. Ralph T. Case will head the outing.

Student Vols Revise Their Constitution

At a meeting of the Student Volunteer cabinet held on Monday, committees were appointed to revise the constitution, and plan a contemplated "advance" for the old and new cabinets. The cabinet also instructed the executive committee to appoint a nominating committee of five seniors to suggest officers for the next year.

The revision of the constiution is being made to alter certain sections dealing with the relation of the Maryville group to the state union, which no longer exists. The proposed reorganization is in line with a desire of the group to be affiliated with an active national student missions organization.

The nominating committee, headed by Lily Pinneo, presented the following names for the consideration of the group as officers for next term:

President: Roberta Hope and Lucille Lynch.

Vice-president: Arthur Bushing and James Garvin.

Secretary: Margaret Fain and Jean Patterson.

Treasurer: Olson Pemberton and Ben Lynt.

Program secretary: Marian Avakian and Hester Santiago.

These nominations will be subject to the addition of others made from the floor at the annual business meeting of the group which has been set tentatively for Thursday, May 15.

At the meeting on Sunday, the speaker will be Mr. Lien-Chieh Li. The speaker is a well-known Chinese Christian, and is at present engaged in working for his master's degree at the University of Tennessee. He speaks Chinese, Knglish, and German, and has a knowledge of French. He has written twelve publications in the first three languages, and has been the coauthor of many articles published in scientific journals.

Dr. Lloyd Speaks At Radio Vespers

Sunday evening at 4:30 to 5:00 over radio station WROL, President Lloyd will give the third talk in the series "The Commands of Christ" entitled "Believe!"

Under the direction of Professor Colbert, the a capella choir will sing "A Legend" by Tschaikowsky and "The Glory of God in Nature" by Beethoven. They will also sing "O Worship the King" and "How Firm a Foundation."

In connection with Music Week, the chapel program Wednesday will be devoted to music. Professor Ralph Hovel will sing four numbers: "Le Roid'ys", "Am Feirabend", "Blue Are Her Eyes", and "I Love Life". He will by accompanied by David Kidder.

Recommendations Given To Student Workers By Student Help Office

The Student Self-help office now offers to students who have been engaged in this branch of work in the college a new service in connection with recommendations. Miss Clemmie J. Henry, director of Student Self-help, announced Thursday that an evaluation of a student's work can be secured from the office upon request. This evaluation is to be taken from the monthly grades of each student that have been turned in by his supervisor. The grades are filed, and any student may see his grades whenever he wishes. A summary of the grades is given and signed by Miss Henry.

This new service should be a great help to many students who are seeking work for the summer only, as well as those who are to be graduated and desire employment of a more permanent nature.

Alpha Sig And Theta Join Forces For Party

Alpha Sigma joins hands with Theta Epsilon tonight in the college woods as the girls entertain their brothers with a weiner roast. All loyal members of Alpha Sig are urged to choose their preferred sister and be present for this crowning glory of the joint activities of the year.

The orchestra concert planned for tonight has been postponed until Tuesday, May 6. No other entertainment has been planned, but dorm parties may be arranged.

Senior Recitals Presented Last Night in Chapel

Biggs, McCurry, Birchfiel Take Part In First of Senior Series

CONCERT PLANS MADE

Andrews And Huddleston To Present Second Recital Friday

At 8:00 last night the first of three senior recitals was presented in Voorhees chapel. Ann Elizabeth Biggs, soprano, Eugene McCurry, tenor, and Lynn Birchfiel, baritone, three voice students taking private lessons from Professor Ralph R. Colbert, presented the concert. They were accompanied by Florence Barber, Ruth Duggan, and Professor Colbert.

Ann Elizabeth Biggs opened the program with two selections, "Cade la Sera" by Mililotti and Handel's "How Beautiful the Feet of Them" from the "Messiah." Miss Biggs is a French major and sang half of her numbers in French, including the beautiful "Connais tu le Pays" from the opera "Mignon."

Eugene McCurry sang the next group of songs, a set of three love songs including "Then You'll Remember Me" which has been a favorite on the campus since the "Bohemian Girl", the opera from which it was taken, was presented here last year.

Lynn Birchfiel presented six baritone solos, among them the simple but impressive old melodies, "Drink To Me Only With Thine Eyes" and "Beautiful Dreamer", considered by many persons

Y Retreats Held At Line Springs

Indian Banquet To Be Held Saturday Evening

The annual YWCA and YMCA retreat will be held at Line Springs this weekend. The theme of this year's retreat is to be the motto of the Y for next year—"As He That Doth Serve." The entire program will center around this idea.

Those attending will include the cabinets of both the YW and YM for this year as well as next year, and also the Nu Gamma leaders for the coming year. The chaperons will be Dr. and Mrs. Ralph T. Case and Miss Phyllis Dexter. Part of the group left the campus this morning and the rest this afternoon. About ninety are expected to attend.

Saturday evening an Indian banquet will be held. The program will include talks by Mary Orr, Anne Gammon, Philip Evaul, and Hilton Wick. Jeanne Stringham will serve as toastmistress, and Mr. Archibald F. Pieper of the political science department will be the guest speaker of the evening. The program will also include group singing led by Charles Orr, a vocal selection by Doris Smith, and a reading by Allan Moore.

Sunday morning cabinet meetings and a meeting of the Nu Gamma group is planned. Through the weekend at various times worship programs will be given. Students leading these services will be Henry Wick, Helen Pratt, Margaret Lodwick, Bill Baird, and Philip Evaul.

On Sunday afternoon the group will be addressed by the Rev. T. B. Cowan of Norris. Sunday night, following the customary procedure, installation of YM officers will take place. Monday morning the retreaters have planned several hikes to the various points of interest near Line Springs. They are planning to return to the campus on Monday afternoon. Arrangements for the retreat were planned by a committee of which Philip Evaul and Mary Orr are co-chairmen.

Dr. J. Walker Malone Is Wed. Chapel Speaker

Dr. J. Walker Malone, pastor at the University of Illinois, will be the speaker at the chapel service this Wednesday, May 14.

Along with his duties at the University, which he has performed for the last twenty years, Dr. Malone is pastor of the McKinley Memorial Presbyterian church of the Westminister Foundation, a church recently built through the appropriations of Senator McKinley.

Sophomore Class Has Mock Wedding

Tonight at 8:00 the sophomore class is inviting all students and faculty of the college to be present at the wedding of Miss Andrew Richards and Mr. Don Kent in Voorhees chapel. Mr. Benjamin Lynt will perform the ceremoney; Mr. John Ballenger is to the best man while Miss Albert Flowers is to assist the bride as maid of honor. Miss Richards has chosen as her bridesmaids, Misses Fleming Griffith and William Hargrave. During the ceremony Sammy Cornelius will sing "O Promise Me". The little flower girls selected by the bride are Misses Carson Brewer and Harry Lyle, while Bobby Wilcox will be ring bearer.

Following the ceremony the bride's family will entertain with an informal reception presenting a variety of entertainment for their guests. There will be a jitterbug number by Mr. Tip Randolph and Miss Perry Bigham. "Maple On The Hill", a vocal duet, will be sung by Mr. Harry Lyle and Mr. Carl Miller. To climax the program the Maryville College Chorus Girls with their feature dancer Miss Johnnye Rogerville will exhibit several numbers.

Parish Project Wants Workers

The Maryville college Parish Project would like to do some week-day Bible School work next year in the nearby districts. Two years ago some of the Project's best work was done in this field, but this year nothing has been done with the public school pupils because of inability to get as many as five workers who could go out the same afternoon. Several volunteered, but there were not a sufficient number who could arrange their schedules so as to work on the same afternoon.

For next year, however, two itineraries for workers ought to be scheduled. It is suggested that students interested in helping in this type of ministry reserve all of Wednesday or Thursday afternoons; but in making out their schedules for next semester those students interested in the project should confer with Mr. F. R. Watt, who may be reached in the east entrance of Thaw hall each morning between 8:30 and 10:30.

The plan for the week-day Bible school work will be somewhat as follows. The Parish Project sends out the workers to the different schools, where the teachers are always willing to cooperate, and these public school teachers stand aside for the last hour in the afternoon while the Parish worker assumes charge and directs the public school pupils in a program of Bible school work. It is hoped that a number of students will volunteer for this type of work for next year, in view of the fact that schedules will be more easily arranged than heretofore.

Several Changes Made In Schedule For Coming Year

Dean Hunter Announces Many Courses Added To Curriculum

Dr. E. R. Hunter, dean of curriculum, announces several changes which have been made in the curriculum for next year. New courses have been added to and several others changed in the fields of Bible and religion, biology, economics, English, history, home economics, political science, and psychology.

In the department of religious education, course 213, Religious Education of Children, has been added. It is a study of the needs of the child and of the program and methods of Christion education as fitted for him. Courses 251, 252, Practicum in Religious Education, are to be directed by Dr. John A. Gates. This work under his direction is to be conducted on the conference and laboratory plan and is particularly for students who are working under the Parish Project or in other missions.

Biology course 212, Household Bacteria, is designed especially for home economics majors and is to be taught by Dr. L. L. Williams of the biology department. There is no prerequisite for this course.

In economics, the courses 205 and 206 which are now combined as a year course under the title "The Development of Economic Thought" are given slightly more specific titles. Course 205 is entitled "The Development of Economic Thought to 1850", and 206, "The Development of Economic Thought After 1850." A new course entitled Taxation and Public Finance, 312, which deals with the federal, state and local revenue systems in our country, is to be taught by Professor Paul F. Wendt.

In the English department, the major has been readjusted to make it possible for students majoring in that field to make a more complete coverage of the field of English study. The program for majors through the sophomore year is unchanged, but beginning with the junior year, the student is to take two English courses each semester in addition to the present courses in systematic discourse and English literature. Junior year, first semester, courses 331 and 336, The Old English Period and The Seventeenth Century: Milton, are to be taken. Second semester the courses are to be The Middle English Period, 332, and The Eighteenth Century: Dryden and Pope, 337. Senior year, first semester 338 and 339, The Renaissance Period: Shakespeare, and The Romantic Period; second semester, 334 and 340, The Renaissance Period: Shakespeare, and The Victorian Period.

Students who are not English majors may, of course, take these courses as

Students Express Opinions On Newly Formed Election System

If some one should suddenly walk up to you and ask for your frank opinion on an irrevelant question like, "What do you think about the price of eggs in the West?" do not become overly alarmed. It will probably be a reporter suffering from the poll-taking fever which the Echo has developed. This disease transforms quiet, disinterested newspapermen into Your-Inquiring-Reporters and Men-On-The-Street. Most of us like to know what the other fellow thinks about problems; so we have developed a unique way of prying into other people's minds and matters. I mean the poll-taking device. Poll-taking is like census taking only more so, because it is not limited to every ten years. A poll may be taken any time a person thinks up a vital question like, "What do you think about the plan the Student Council has devised for eliminating corrupt politics on the Maryville campus?", which is our question for this week.

This plan of the Council's for cleaning up politics is briefly this: sometime in May all the classes will, on the same day, vote for persons to hold all offices and positions for the following school year; various booths will be set up on the campus; at these booths voters will be provided with regular ballots which will not have to be signed for the simple reason that when you receive your ballot your name is checked off of the class roll by a Student Council member. Now that you have at least a vague idea of what this is all about we shall proceed by hearing the opinions of various students on this subject. Are you ready for the question?

What do you think about the Student Council's plan for eliminating corrupt politics on the campus?

George Webster—"It's a big step in the right direction toward clean politics on the hill—one of those many progressive movements sponsored by the Student Council! Sincerely speaking, we of Maryville believe it to be quite a victory for the Lord's side."

J. Edward Thomas—"The Council plan is the result of a long campaign against formidable opposition. There is no doubt that it is a step toward fair campus elections. The day of the secret committee and the stuffed ballot box is on the way out."

John Ballenger—"Politics are only corrupt in the opinion of those who have not been successful in the election of their candidates. Railroading is a favorite hobby of a few intellectuals and those who are not energetic enough to push their own leaders merely sit back and crud about the whole thing. Sure, something must be done about corrupt politics, but the only persons who claim a hand in this deal are those that are labeled corrupt politician themselves."

Roy Crawford—"I am not sure that

New Improvements To Be Shown At Carnegie Open House May 19

On May 19, from 7:30 to 9:30, Carnegie hall will inaugurate recent improvements made possible by Mrs. John Walker by holding its first open house since 1939.

With the men of Carnegie acting as guides and a welcome committee, and a committee consisting of Roland Anderson, James Witt, Jacob Bradsher, Quentin Myers and Fleming Griffith providing refreshments, a joyous time is to be expected.

Books donated by Mrs. John Walker, which deal with religious, educational, hygienic, and economic problems of college students, will be displayed for inspection.

Lucille Lynch To Lead Student Vols

Other Officers Elected At Business Meeting

Lucille Lynch was elected president of the Student Volunteer Association at a special business meeting held Wednesday evening, May 7, in the YW rooms shortly after prayer meeting.

The business meeting was opened by the retiring president, John Thompson, who entertained nominations for the several offices. Nominations were made, ballots cast, and the following were elected to hold offices for the ensuing year:

Lucille Lynch, president; James Garvin, vice-president; Jean Patterson, secretary; Olson Pemberton, treasurer; Marian Avakian, program secretary; and Mr. Louis Black, sponsor.

Refreshments were served after an announcement of the outcome of the voting had been made, and the meeting was brought to a close with a word of prayer from the retiring president.

A one-act play will be presented by students of the dramatic art department under the direction of Miss Seedorf Sunday evening in Bartlett auditorium, as part of the regular Student Vol program.

It has been announced that the outgoing and in-coming cabinets of the organization will journey to Kinzel Springs Thursday, May 15 for their annual spiritual "advance."

Lloyd Announces AAUW Membership

President Lloyd announced today that the college has been notified of approval for active membership by the American Association of University Women'

Maryville has been on the associate membership list for many years but had never applied for a place on the active membership list until April of this year. Its application was approved at the biennial convention of the AAUW in Cincinnati this week. Eleven American colleges were so approved, Maryville being the only one from Tennessee.

This action makes women graduates of Maryville college eligible to active membership in the AAUW and its chapters.

College Moving Pictures Shown To High Schools

A moving picture film recently made, cut and assembled under the title of "Let's Go To College", by Mr. James Smith, Public Relations secretary, is being shown to various high school student bodies and senior classes. This film consists of four sections, namely scenes of the campus, study activities, recreation and extra-curricular activities, and also of self-help activities.

These pictures are being shown with two general purposes—first to interest high school students in Maryville college and second, to give to these students some idea of just what college life is like in order that they may determine its place in their own futures. At this time the high schools of Everett, Maryville, Lenoir City, Loudon, and Sweetwater have seen the film while arrangements are being made with those of Greenback, Friendsville and others.

YW Hears Mrs. Cummings

The weekly meeting at 1:30 tomorrow afternoon will feature a talk by Mrs. Cummings, Bible instructor, on "Mothers of the Bible."

Juniors, Sophomores, Freshmen Hold Class Elections Wednesday; Student Council Conducts Voting

Hovel Receives Student Applause

Maryville's student body evidenced its approval of Professor Ralph M. Hovel's beautiful tenor voice by thunderous applause Wednesday morning when Mr. Hovel, accompanied by David Kidder, presented a short program in chapel.

For his first number Mr. Hovel sang the tenor aria "Vainement, ma bien-aimee" from the opera "Le Roi d'Ys" by Edouard Lalo. Alternating with the more classical compositions, he sang the more modern "Clouds" by Ernest Charles.

The third selection was "Am Feierbend" by Franz Schubert. This composition is one of a group of Schubert's "Lieder", popularly known as the "Miller Songs". This was followed by Wintter Watt's "Blue Are Her Eyes", the last song in the group. A spontaneous storm of applause by the audience demanded an encore number for which Mr. Hovel sang Mana-Zucca's "I Love Life", the most generally appealing number on the program.

Mr. Hovel has sung many times for various campus organizations but this was the first time he has sung before the entire student body. His wide range and fine tone quality mark him as a singer of unusual ability.

Bates Oratorical Contest Tuesday

Webster, Wick, Shue, And Tibbetts Take Part

Tuesday evening, May 14, at 7:30 the Bates Oratorical contest will be held in the philosophy classroom of Thaw hall. This annual oratorical contest was founded by the Reverend William H. Bates of Greeley, Colorado, who contributed the sum of $1000 to form a fund, the annual income from which is used to provide prizes. The contest is held one year for the women of the junior and senior classes and in the next year for the men of these two classes.

This year the contest is for the men. As of now four men have entered and will deliver their respective orations this coming Tuesday evening. George Webster and Henry Wick, varsity debaters, have chosen "America's Dangerous Opportunity" as their subject; the subject, "Preparations for Peace", has been chosen by two of the contestants, Lloyd Shue and George Tibbetts.

The interest on the above-mentioned fund usually amounts to $40 which constitutes the first and only prize. Last year, when the contest was open to the junior and senior women, Betty Moore, varsity debater from Maine, was the winner of this prize with her oration entitled "Creative Living."

Car Crashes Into Campus Gates

Sunday evening, at approximately 9:30 p.m., a car entering the campus from Jones street, crashed through the north gates, bending both of them back, and badly damaging one.

The gates, usually open, had been mysteriously closed and the car which struck them was traveling too fast for the unsuspecting driver to stop before he was upon them. Had the car been leaving, rather than entering the college grounds, the damage might have been less, for the gates swing open in that direction.

The damage will be repaired through the welding facilties of the school at not too great a cost, according to information released through the office of Mr. Louis Black, director of maintenance.

Mr. Black said that although no one was injured in this particular incident, future gate-crashers might not be so fortunate; for that reason it is hoped that no gates will be closed in this manner in the future.

Campus Workers Stack Lumber At Saw Mill

Campus workers, under the supervision and direction of Mr. Brown, have been busy mowing the college lawns, working on the new tool shed project, and stacking lumber at the college woods saw-mill.

Nominations Made From Floor at Wednesday Class Meeting

FROSH HAVE TROUBLE

On Wednesday morning following the chapel service freshmen, sophomores, and juniors held class meetings for the purpose of nominating candidates for next year's class officers.

Candidates for senior class president are Charles McCammon, Ted Holman, Don Kent, and David Kidder. For their other officers the juniors nominated—for vice-president: Doris Smith, Mary Agnes Carter, and Rachel McCall; secretary: Bina Ruth Brown, Janice Graybeal, Elaine Fichter, and Ruth Duggan; treasurer: Fred Snell and David McDaniel.

Sophomores will also elect the editor and business manager for the 1942 Chilhowean. Nominees for these positions are: for editor, Perry Bigham, Carl Pierce, Bill Sweeney, and Ted Pratt; and for business manager, Roy Crawford, Robert Calvesbert, and Arthur Bushing.

For their junior class officers the sophomores proposed the following names: for president, John Hawkins, Ed Rowley, Jack Kramer, and Wesley Lochausen; for vice-president, Martha Moore, Helen George, Natalie Yelton, Norma Perry, and Mary Ruth Baker; for secretary, Bob Lord, Jean Patterson, and Jean McCutcheon; and for their treasurer, Jean Barnes, James Garvin, and George McFarland.

Owing to some confusion arising in making its nominations, the freshman class failed to select its candidates on Wednesday. A special class meeting was held Friday morning between breakfast and chapel to complete the nominating. As a result of this meeting, candidates for sophomore class officers are now as follows: for president, Mack Wilson, Phil Vance, Sidney Duke, and Fred DePue; for vice-president, Betty Parker, Peggy Fisher, Anne Wright, Johnnye Gudel, Virginia Cain, and Victoria Hoole; for secretary, Betty Jane Miller, June Brown, Cumi Snyder, Carolyn Eberhardt, Kay Liddell, Mary Lou Holmes, and Eleanor Williams; and for treasurer, Tracy Ellis, George Beal, Robert Herzberger, Paul Jamarik, Claude Shell, Roy Laughmiller, and Guy Lambert.

The freshman class has adopted the resolution to use the majority system in its elections; all candidates elected

Casa Manana To Be Presented May 17

Casa Manana will hold its spring opening Saturday, May 17, in the Alumni gym at 8:00. It will be a two-act musicale, directed, as before, by Dave Hall and Kitty Bennett. A round-up of the outstanding performers of the year, the program will include stars in dancing and singing, as well as an orchestra as part of the extensive floor show. This final assembly of talent will form a fitting climax for the school year.

It will be the biggest production to be given this year, and will be under the sponsorship of the junior class. Kitty Bennett, senior, has charge of the dances and will be assisted by Bob Martin. Other committee heads are stage manager, Bill Cornelius; electrician, John Hawkins; decorations, George Howard; and clean-up, Ted Holman.

Montgomery And Kent Receive Scholarships

Word was received this week from Vanderbilt University that two Maryville graduates have received graduate fellowships. Mr. James Montgomery received a fellowship for the 1941-42 session to do graduate work in the field of sociology. He was graduated from Maryville in 1940, and while here he was an honors work student.

Mr. George Kent, also a Maryville graduate, received a graduate fellowship. Mr. Kent will continue his work in the field of biology. Kent received his B. A. degree from Maryville in 1937 and his M. A. from Vanderbilt University.

SATURDAY, May 10, 1941

Scots and Soda

To begin with, we'd like to say that we had a wonderful time at the Bainonian breakfast last Monday. We'd always heard about the glories of an early morning walk out in the open; and there we were, practically in the middle of the night, seeing what we'd always read about. And as far as we were able to tell, the reports hadn't been exaggerated one bit.

The life of an actor must be just too full of all sorts of interesting things. But when it comes down to outright excitement, we'll stick with property managers, of which Margie Resides is a living example. Her latest antic has to do with the time she went sofa hunting; she stood in the middle of a stupendous array of the same, with her hands on her hips, trying to find one suitable to the occasion. The clerk finally arrived, so Margie stated decisively: "I want one with ruffles." At which the clerk replied: "Sorry. You're in the wrong department."

Now that Corbett is out of hock again, we're glad—for two reasons. First, of course, for his sake. Second, Mary Louise must have found the ground outside the hospital hard sitting. That's hard to get used to, even after two weeks.

And that leads us naturally to say how sorry we are about the two little men on the campus who are suffering breakage. Willie Cornelius got in the way of falling timber and lost two ribs in the scuffle. And Hilton became a casualty while chasing a fly. Oh, the dangerous life of a biologist. Hurry up and pull yourselves together, boys. We could mention, in that connection, a broken heart; but that would be getting a little personal, don't you think?

An interesting experiment is being carried out on the campus which you might like to be in on. It is being conducted by Dudley Moore and Jean McCutcheon, and has to do with the amount of time it takes for a garment worn, without being washed, by a co-ed, to become—well, shall we say unwearable. The object being tested is a green dress, and at present it has stood the strain practically a week. Maybe we're just prejudiced, but if it were left up to us to find out, we'd be just as happy not to know. Nevertheless, it does offer interesting possibilities.

In view of the past few chapel services, it would seem to be a good idea to have music week every week. Now if we just don't lose Prof. Hovel to Metropolitan or Hollywood, or some other institution a little larger than Maryville, we have a chance of hearing him again sometime; and it can't be too soon.

Did you hear about the trip to Tapoco, N.C., given the Chilhowean staff, by Dr. Stevenson? It was just about perfect; complete with mountains, breathtaking scenery, a practically full moon, good company, fried chicken and hot biscuits. On thing that impressed us most was Business Manager Hilton Wick's offer of ten percent to whoever cut his chicken. Needless to say, Editor Kent was right there. And the thoughtfulness of—who was it? Crawford?—who sent the ash tray to Dr. Lloyd.

Have you ever seen anything like the terrific amount of banquets scheduled for next week? So far, we've been able to find only two organizations—the Echo staff and the IRC that don't have one cooked up. Maybe they just forgot; it couldn't be that they didn't want one.

Also, have you ever seen anything like the lovely sunsets we've been treated to lately? And incidentally, the roses are acomin' out, loud sing OOhhhhhh! how lovely. The moon, too, comes out pretty regularly so what; which will make Retreat this year something pretty special, as far as the moon is concerned.

We might say, to no one in particular, that the back row choir looks pretty depleted now that Ted Pratt is no longer with it. Which, in itself, is a shame.

ECHO ANALYSIS

GUEST COLUMNIST—RIT ANDERSON

THIS INSIDIOUS GOD: NATIONALISM

In the past few months, we have heard nothing but nationalism preached from every street corner, newspaper, and radio in the country. Regardless of anyone's views of democracy, American thought, as it is now, is nationalistic. And every song that has been written, every word that has been printed or spoken for this national feeling has built an attitude in the American people that is strongly against any ideas expressed, which are trying to fight this Force, which is creeping into the lives of Americans just as it did in the lives of Germans a short time ago. The ideas of democracy, as practiced through the past generations has also done its part in defeating the true spirit of democracy. Our government was built with the ideals of Christianity, consequently Christianity and democracy, as it has been practiced, have been identified in the minds of the people as one and the same thing. Anything that is labeled with the tag of democracy is accepted by the nation's individuals as Christian. One of these concepts has said that if man kills for the state, he is not responsible in the sight of God. The state takes the burden on its shoulders. To me this is nothing but sheer rationalization, as each of us knows that we are personally responsible to our God for our indivdual actions, and murder will always be murder to Him regardless of whom we murder for. But here is one of the places where the insidious nature of nationalism can be noted, it runs along the side of a Christian ideal until we identify it with, or rationalize it by a Christian principle.

True, both Christianity and democracy are guided by the same ideal: the greatest opportunity for the individual to realize the self. But the essences of the two are very much at variance. This lies in their different concepts of self-realization. The democracy says that self is best realized through egoism, where each man goes after all that he can get for himself. In brief, it is centering all life around a selfish basis.

The essence of Christianity is far different. The Self here, is best realized when lost in the group. Not lost in the sense that Personality is deadened, but where it is enriched to the place where each individual has found his place in the group, and serves it with a life centered around the concepts of Christ. Incidentally, this is the way to happy life also, say the latest psychologists. Then, what is the essence of Christianity? It is altruism. The sharing of real values, such as love, wisdom, goodness, etc., will bring about a realization of the self which can be found no where else.

When democracy was first formed, man was supposed to have above all, freedom of conviction. And we Christians feel that anything that interferes with these convictions is necessarily evil. Yet, a group of young men, willing to fight for their convictions, were imprisoned because they felt that the draft was anti-Christian. Seven young men, hearts trying to cling to their ideals, were thrown rudely into prison because they refused to let go of their Christ for a moment. Freedom of religion??? Here's a marvelous example of democracy at work. Is it in keeping with the democracy of our forefathers? However, let us keep our minds on the root of the problem. Americans are too quick to place the blame on individuals. Our fight is not against Roosevelt, Willkie, Lindbergh, Knox, no not even Adolf Hitler. For an individual could not defeat an ideal like Christianity, or even put up a good fight. It is the ideal or insidious spirit that has crept into the hearts of the American people that we must conquer. It is the putting of wrong things first, or trying to serve two masters. Nationalism or Americanism, is putting itself before the ideals of God Almighty. This is brutishly blunt, but I can also make it starkly realistic. Walk down the street whistling "I Am An American" and watch the people's expression as you pass them by, they swell and feel proud. B-U-T, walk down the street whistling "Onward Christian Soldiers" and watch the sneers and grins that you invoke. If you talk Americanism to a group, you are patriotic; if you speak of Christ, you are a fanatic. Is Americanism the same thing as Christianism? Decidedly not. And if nationalism is kept first in the minds of Americans we may as well wave farewell to Christianity and its ideals, UNLESS

WE INTEND TO DO SOMETHING ABOUT IT.

Democracy like happiness is the by-product of activity, or rather it should be. The reason is that if attention was focused on the democratic state as an end, the ideals and principles will vary according to the party in power, or the situation now at hand. No, it must be a by-product of activity, and this activity is carried out with lives centered around the principles of Christ, and eyes focused on the Kingdom of God. Do we have to junk democracy? Of a certainty we do not. But our lives, instead of being centered around Americanism will be centered on Christ. Democracy is the only type of government that is consistent with Christian principles, but when its essence is nationalism and not Christianism, it can not nor will not work.

"Render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's; and to God the things that are God's". Often this quotation from our Leader has been used as a spur to bring Christians in line with a principle entirely and definitely un-Christian: KILL. If Christ taught that we should kill our enemies, or even His, you can call this article all tommy-rot. But if He didn't—beware, for you are unwittingly helping an anti-Christian ideal to feed this terrible anti-Christ. Government is needed of course, to keep people united. It demands rightfully your money, observance of its laws, cooperation with it, AS LONG AS you do not give that life of yours, which is pledged to Almighty God to another god, which is strangely enough saying that it is fighting to protect our God and His principles. Christ proved to us that God never had to kill an enemy or never will to protect Himself.

You are saying to yourselves, "What are we going to do about Hitler?" But I answer as before, can you kill an ideal, by killing a part of the men who believe in it? Nationalism is too insidious to be defeated by killing mere men in the first place. And in the second, unless we put our trust in something else besides the power of men, we are natiionalistic ourselves. No, we'll never kill nationalism with the sword. Men must see that there is a God which is stronger than mere man; a Force which is stronger than any man-made force: a Spirit which defeats armies, bombs, etc. Can you see this; if not, it is you who are defeating democracy more than Hitler with all his power ever could.

As Christians it is our business to put the ideals, taught by Christ, first in our lives. All the strength of America in the past, has been due to her strong faith in God, and these principles which were so characteristic of the early American peoples. Where is your faith, America? Is it in man alone? Is it in shells, bombs, armies, navies or any other product of the genius of man? Nationalism is the result of the belief that man is all-powerful and all-sufficient. Are you taking part on this side, or are you going to renew your Blessed Faith, Oh America. "PROTECT US BY THY MIGHT, GREAT GOD OUR KING."

A Sonnet to A Maryville Baseball Player

You run and work, the sweat rolls free; you throw,
you stretch and strain,
You do your best, but then you hear, "You're worse than when you came!"
You practice hard, you take your swing, you get your share of raps,
You take the field and one sails by, "Hello,
you start your laps!"
Again you take a husky swing. CRACK!!
In pieces three
The bat you held in your hand breaks,
"There goes your ten bucks fee!"
You think you've handled fine a ball
careening off a bat,
"To learn this game the rest of you, do opposite from that!"
But then think back of other guys, of those you long to see
And fun you've had on trips and things, and then you'll say, "Well, gee,
It ain't so bad as I put on. Although we've had mishaps
I'll hate to quit when the time comes to hang up spikes and caps.
And when he starts to cuss me out, he isn't all to blame,
He's not just there to make me mad—
he's there to win that game."

BASEBALL... Maryville scored seven runs in the 7th and eight in the 8th. Final score: Maryville 18—Tusculum 12. Need we say more? After losing their third intercollegiate game to E-H ,and winning the second, the baseballers were given a token of appreciation by Coach—10 laps! Think what he'd done if they lost both of 'em.

TENNIS... Team gone again state championships reports from Sewanee say Van Cise in semi-finals One thing we'd like to mention Pratt continues to sparkle and win on courts if not in the choir.

INTRAMURALS... Alley Rats 17, Alpha Sig 1 ... that's enough about that ... Next week this column will carry names of softball All-Stars ... Juniors win track meet as Peterson and Butler star.

TRACK... Eight men left today for state championships at Sewanee four lettermen, four new ones four will have a nice week end; four will have a nice weak end.

ODDS AND ENDS... Faculty men beat faculty women ... in softball of course ... Wick and Eanes still going around with broken bones and black eyes ... ain't this softball an easy game?

Scots Beat LMU, Centre College Here This Week

Coach Fischbach's netters scored an easy 5-2 victory over LMU Monday afternoon on the local courts. With most of the varsiyt squad taking a day off, the Scottie second-stringers came through in fine style.

Ted Kidder celebrated his brief reign in the number one position by defeating Wade of LMU 6-2, 7-5. Ken Cooper performed in the second spot and also won a hotly contested battle with Isbell of the Railsplitters. Coop's score was 7-5, 6-4.

Bob Hunter and Leighton Berquist, freshmen netters who have not seen much varsity service, came through with victories in the number three and five singles. These two players promise to develop into very capable inter-collegiate performers.

Maryville pulled a brother act in the number one doubles match, entering Ted and Dave Kidder, who came out on the short end of a very fine match.

SUMMARY—

T. Kidder (M) defeated Wade (LMU) 6-2, 7-5
Cooper (M) defeated Isbell (LMU) 7-5, 6-4
Hunter (M) defeated White (LMU) 6-1, 6-2
Snodgrass (LMU) defeated Henschen (M) 6-2, 6-4
Berquist (M) defeated Fleenor (LMU) 6-2, 6-0
Wade and Isbell (LMU) defeated T. Kidder and D. Kidder (M) 7-5, 8-6
Rowan and Berquist (M) defeated White and Snodgrass (LMU) 6-1, 6-4

In the best home match of the season, Maryville's netmen downed Centre college 5-2, Thursday afternoon. This contest was the last dual affair of the season, and featured the longest and best singles battle witnessed on the local courts in a long time.

Oliver Van Cise, Scottie number one player, downed his Kentucky opponent 6-3, 4-6, 12-10. Van was trailing 2-5 in the third set when he suddenly found the range and ran the set to a total of 22 games, finally edging out a victory. Ollie undoubtedly displayed an almost perfect game as he battled his top-notch opponent in the final set. The large crowd of spectators gasped time after time as one of the players would make an almost unbelievable return of a hard smash. Van Cise displayed the effective backhand stroke that made him a state champ last year, and scored many points as he came to the net to kill a short return.

The number one doubles match, in which Van Cise and Jim Hedges triumphed, was almost as exciting. The third set ran to 11-9, to set a season's record for length. Van Cise and Hedges, who have been outstanding singles men all year, appear to have coordinated their doubles game at last, for their opponents were two of the best doubles players to perform on the Memorial courts.

Hedges, freshman star, won his number two singles match, running the third set to 8-6 before ending it. Ted Kidder, playing number three, won handily, as did Dave Kidder in his match. Dave's win was the most decisive of the day, for he appeared to have his opponent outclassed.

Ted Pratt, number four, suffered the only singles defeat for Maryville. The number two doubles team, composed of Ted Kidder and Ken Cooper, also went under.

As soon as the match was completed, Coach Fischbach left with four of his players for the state meet at Sewanee. Van Cise, Hedges, T. Kidder, and Pratt made the trip, and will be entered into singles competition. In the doubles, Van Cise and Hedges will compose the choicest entry and should go far in the affair. The two Teds, both capable performers, will also enter that department of play. The state meet is the last competition of the year for the Scotties, who have won the most of their hard schedule. Placing high in the state last season, and capturing the state doubles crown, Maryville will be a threat in this year's contest. Van Cise was a member of the championship team last year and will be one of the top-seeded players.

YW TENNIS

The YWCA singles tennis tournament which has been in progress for the last three weeks, was won Wednesday by Dottie Jean Eslinger, senior biology major from Fairview, Pa. She has been a member of the band for four years, a member of the YW cabinet for two, and is assistant manager of the YW store. She intends to continue her education at medical school next year. Runner-up was Joan von Nordheim, a German major, from Kingston, N. J.

This Week's Intramural Sports

Alley Rats And Athenians Come Out on Top

Last Monday afternoon the Alley Rats defeated the league-leading Alpha Sigmas by the overwhelming score of 17-1 in the first game of the afternoon, while the Athenians defeated the Y Cabinet, 16-10 in the nightcap.

The first game was a masscre all the way for the winners when they hopped on the offerings of Roger Graham to score the only win on the Greeks all season. The game was marked by many and much—shall we say chatter—at the umpire by both sides, but particularly by the losers. For the losers, Junior Herrick was the star in the hitting department, when he blasted one of Klemstra's pitches for a home run.

Klemstra's pitching was consistently good all afternoon and he allowed the usually hard-hitting Greeks but three bingles, among these the home run of Herrick's which came in the closing innings of the ball game. The power that the Alley Rats have shown all year proved in good stead as they blasted ball after ball over the wall for the ground rule double.

The second game was marked by the fight of the Y Cabinet. Going into the last inning of this game the Y was in the possession of one run, but at the end of their turn at bat nine big runs had crossed the platter. This was not, however, enough to win the ball game and overcome the 16 runs of their opponents. Zerwas went the distance for the winners and Bob Fisher for the losers. The rest of the games scheduled for this week were rained out and will be played next week. The winner of this series will play Alpha Sigma for the championship of the school.

Track Team Goes To Sewanee Today For State Meet

This morning at 6:00, eight members of the track team left for the State track meet which is held this year at Sewanee. The eight members making the trip are Steakley, Baird, Kell, Ellis, Nicely, Simpson, Lloyd, and Fesperman. Manager Bob Martin will accompany the team.

Of these only four have represented Maryville before this year, while the others are transfer students and freshmen. The team plans to enter competition in the 440, 880, mile run, two mile run, half mile relay, mile relay, broad jump and the high jump.

The team will leave and join the tennis team which left Thursday night to take part in the tennis matches which are also taking place at Sewanee this year. The teams left this morning and intend to leave tonight after the meet to return home.

Juniors Defeat Seniors in Track

The junior cindermen edged out the seniors in the intramural track meet Thursday and Friday, taking 50 points to win while the seniors counted 45 to place. High point man for the seniors and for the entire meet was Art Peterson, who counted 24 points for over half his classes' total. Peterson won firsts in the high jump, shot put, and discus, while taking second in the 220, 120 hurdles, and broad jump.

Led by Dave Butler, George Tibbetts, and Roger Graham, Manager Warren Culver's juniors edged out the seniors in a closely contested battle as Butler took first in the broad jump, the 440 yard dash, and the 880 run. He also took third in the mile for a total of 16 points. Tibbetts, diminutive speedster, captured the century dash, placed third in the 220, and third in the broad jump and low hurdles. Graham, an experienced hurdler, took that event and also captured the 220 dash, while coming out second in the 440.

In charge of the event was Vernon Lloyd, who was assisted by Warren Culver, Ken Cooper, and Mel Gaughen.

COMPLETE RESULTS—

100 yd. dash—Tibbetts, Hahn, Culver—11.8
220 yd. dash—Graham, Peterson, Tibbetts—27.5
440 yd. dash—Butler, Graham, Watkins—59
880 yd. run—Butler, Watkins, Culver—2:26
Mile—Hahn, Roseborough, Butler—5:29
120 low hurdles—Graham, Peterson, Tibbetts—15
Pole vault—McDaniel, Hahn, Martz—9 ft.
Broad jump—Butler, Peterson, Tibbetts—17 ft.
High jump—Peterson, Lillard, Ballenger—5 ft. 4 in.
Discus—Peterson, Graham—80 ft.
Shot—Peterson, Henschen, Miller—32' 11.5"
1-2 mile relay—Juniors, Seniors.

Highlanders Beat Tusculum, E-H, Teachers' College

Yesterday on the diamond at Maryville, the Scots defeated the Tusculum nine in the last two innings by the score of 18-12. The visitors at one time held an advantage of 10-3, but the home team gathered seven runs in the seventh inning and eight in the final.

For Maryville, Hughes was the leading batsman with three hits for five trips to the platter, while Honaker and Rock had two for four. For the visitors the big man at the plate was Spargo with a home run and a single for five times at bat.

The Tusculum team went ahead in the very first inning when they scored two runs to the Highlander's one. In the second they added five more runs to their total while the Scots were blanked for two straight innings. It was not until the fourth that the Scots were able to score, when Shelfer and McGaha scored two runs. In the 5th the visitors again crossed the plate and this time added three markers to their already large total. The Scots went runless in the 5th and 6th.

In the lucky seventh the uprising started. Miller made the first out for the Orange and Garnet, but then three successive singles by Hughes, Cregan and Baird started things going. Mac made the second out, but this was again followed by four straight bingles. When the inning was over the score read: Tusculum 10—Maryville 10.

It started again in the 8th when 5 runs crossed the platter mixed in with 2 errors, two walks, and 2 hits, before a single out was registered. Two more runs came in on four hits and a fielder's choice. The final score was: M-C 18—Tusculum 12.

TEAM TRAVELS—

On Monday and Tuesday the team took a trip to Johnson City and Emory, Va., and defeated Tennessee Teachers 6-2 on Monday and Emory and Henry 6-2 in the second game of a twin bill on Tuesday after losing the first, 9-5.

In the game with Teachers Scot Honaker led the team with two hits for five trips to the platter. Bob Mair pitched his first full game of the season and allowed the opposition only six scattered hits. Mac slapped out another of his numerous four baggers in the seventh while the best their hitters could do against the southpaw slants of Mair was a double in the second.

On Tuesday in the first game Emory and Henry, Coach Honaker started Mc-

These courses are Contemporary Poetry, 241, to be taught by Dr. E. R. Hunter; Contemporary Drama and Novel, 242, to be taught by Miss Nathalia Wright; and Shakespeare, the reading and study of ten or twelve of the better-known plays, 319, to be taught by Dr. Hunter.

The three courses now offered in American History, American History: The Colonial Period, The Early National Period, and The Later National Period, are telescoped into two courses, course 215 is to be called American History: The Beginning to 1865, and course 216, American History: The Later National Period.

The Advanced European history course is also reorganized. Instead of two courses as formerly, there will be three as follows: 221, Europe, 1789-1815; 222, Europe, 1815-1870; 314, Europe since 1870. The former year course in Greek and Roman history is compressed into a one semester course, History 308, which is to be a stipulated item in the history major. Two new advanced courses are 333, Diplomtic History of the United States, and 334, History and Historical Writings, both of which are to be taught by Dr. Verton M. Queener.

The Home Economics department has added two new courses designed especially for students preparing for hospital training: 323, Quantity Buying, to be taught by Miss Gertrude Meiselwitz, and 324, Diet in Disease, to be taught by Miss Mary R. Armstrong.

Course 202, State and Local Government, an extension of the course in American government, is to be added to the present curriculum of the political science department. Mr. Archibald Pieper will teach this course.

Genetic Psychology, 319, a study of the problems arising from the hereditary background, is a new course to be added to the psychology department. Dr. David H. Briggs will add this subject to his teaching curriculum.

Gaha, but Hooker was rushed in the third and finished the game. The winners outhit the visitors 9-7 as Honaker gathered four of the Highlander's seven with Shelfer and Hughes gathering three. Scot had a perfect day at bat with four hits for four times up. Shelfer also increased his percentage with two for two and High School, with one for four.

The Highlanders came back in the second game to out-hit and out-score the Wasps 7-4 and 6-2. In this game Cragan with two doubles for three chances was tops. Hughes, Baird, and McGaha had one for two. Hooker pitched this game as well as the last part of the first for the Highlanders and received credit for the win.

Alpha Gamma Sig Installs Members

Yesterday morning's chapel service was devoted in large part to those few seniors who had been elected into the membership of Alpha Gamma Sigma, Maryville college's own honorary scholarship fraternity.

In the absence of an outside speaker, Dr. E. R. Hunter, himself a student of high rank while at Maryville college and the secretary of the society since 1934, kindly consented to deliver the address for this the seventh annual recognition service, a number with a Biblical significance, Hunter took as his topic the relation of higher education to life. In conclusion he stated that a liberal education, as can be had here at Maryville college, has three values: it provides a basis of culture, develops a faculty for creative thinking, and sets up an attitude toward life.

Janet Lindsay—"I think a lot about it!"

Don Kent—"Of course, I'm not interested in elections; only in the way they turn out. And to be frank, the idea doesn't look fair to me. Why, you won't have a chance to get your candidate elected if you can't vote three or four times for your absent friends, and can't have a couple of allies on the counting staff to change votes when necessary. No, sir, politics is a nice dirty game the way it is now. Let's keep it dirty."

Cumi Snyder—"The idea is exclusively good!"

Henry Wick—"It seems the aims of this plan are to eliminate any possibility of unfair elections, and to conduct elections in an efficient, business-like manner. If the Student Council carries out the plan as they have said, unfairness would be eliminated to a greater extent than under the present systems; but the efficiency of the plan is not by any means proven."

Lura Mae Laughmiller—"I agree that the new system to control elections is a good thing; it can be carried out effectively and eliminate any confusion and corruption which now has a tendency to exist."

George Phelps—"It's a darn good idea, I hope."

Art Rowan—"What was good enough for my forefathers is good enough for me—why change the constitution anyway?"

Dave McDaniel—"Very good idea—it deserves a chance—it can't be much worse than the system we now have."

Edith Monroe—"I am of the opinion that much of this talk about corrupt politics is just so much ballyhoo. However, if the politics are as dirty as they are supposed to be, they need a good washing."

Bob Moore—"The idea of an election day with its ballots and a regular system is O.K. I do think, though, that it's asking too much to fill all the offices at one time. Two such election days, one each semester, might be better."

Marian Avakian—"Here's hoping it does away with a lot of things we've had under the old system."

Neil Proffitt—"Who ever heard of politics not being dirty? It would be a miracle, but I'm all in favor of a miracle."

Nettie Rose Spraker—"Ever since I've been here at school, I've heard a lot about the crooked politics that go with all the big elections. I think this plan of the S. C.'s ought to do away with what corruptness we do have. I hope it works."

Libby Ann Huddleston—"The idea of a big election is all right, but I doubt if every office could be filled at one time. There would have to be some allowance made for those who drop out at the end of the first semester.

Disc Club Presents All Mendelssohn Program

This Thursday evening, May 16, at 6:30, the Disc club will present an all-Mendelssohn musical program in the Fine Arts studio. The program is as follows:

Italian Symphony
Concerto in E Minor (violin solo by Fritz Kreisler)
Peter Van Blarcom will be the commentator.

A special variety program is planned by Frank Brink for the last meeting of the club held May 29, in which the music of Claude Debussy will be featured.

Bainonian Meets at 6:30

Tonight at 6:30 in Bainonian hall the regular meeting of that society will be held. Following the business session, Betty Jean Kennedy will present some readings.

as the most beautiful of Stephen Foster's songs. In contrast to these were the "Bacchanal" by Chopin and "Nature's Adoration" by Beethoven.

Ruth Andrews and Elizabeth Ann Huddleston will give the second concert, a joint recital, on Friday evening, May 16. Miss Andrews will sing eight alto solos, opening with "Before the Crucifix" by LaForge. Her part of the program will include two German numbers by Schubert, "Der Tod und Das Madschen", and "Du Bist die Ruh"; the French compositions, "Mon Coeur s'ouvre a ta Voix" by Saint-Saens, and "Lovely Flowers, I Pray" from the opera "Faust" by Gounod; and close with the American songs, "Go Down, Moses", "Mah Lindy Lou", and "When I Have Sung my Songs to You."

Miss Huddleston's soprano selections will include "Marie Antoinette Slumber Song" by Jacobson, "Les Filles of Cadiz" and "Bell Song" by Delibres, the "Elegie" by Massanet, and "Solvejg's Song" by Grieg.

Present plans set the following Friday, May 23, for the annual spring concert of the glee club.

On the following Tuesday, May 27, the third recital is scheduled to be given by Louise Marshall, soprano, and Samuel Cornelius, tenor. Of special interest on this program will be the two duets which Miss Marshall and Mr. Cornelius will present. They will sing two operatic numbers, "Torna Mia Dir C'he m'ami" from "Don Pasquale' by Donizetti and "O Soave Fanciulla from the first act of "La Boheme" by Puccini.

Miss Marshall will also sing, "Se Tu m'ami" by Pergolesi, "Chant Hindu" by Bemberg, "Ave Maria" by Bach-Gounod, "Pastorale" by Bizet, "Un Bel di Vedremo" from "Madame Butterly" by Puccini, "Morgen" by Strauss, "A Memory" by Ganz and the popular "Four Duck on a Pond" by Needham.

For his solo numbers Mr. Cornelius will present "Alma del Core" by Caldara, "Blessed Redeemer" by Bach, "If With All Your Heart" from "Elijah" by Mendelssohn, "La Reve" from "Manon" by Puccini, "Where'er You Walk" by Handel, "Il Mio Tesero" from Mozart's opera "Don Giovanni", and "Una Furtiva Lagrima" from "L'Elisir d'Amore" by Donizetti. In addition to these operatic selections he will sing "Rhymes of a Rover", "Nocturne", and "Contemplation."

CLASSES ELECT OFFICERS FOR YEAR OF '41—'42

Sidney Duke Selected President By Freshman Class In Run-Offs Held By Student Council Friday Morning

Peggy Fisher Elected Vice-President; June Browne, Secretary; And Robert Herzberger Is Chosen Treasurer

Two Elections Necessary To Obtain Majority For Officers

Sophomore class president for next year will be Sidney Duke, with Peggy Fisher, vice-president; June Browne, secretary; and Robert Herzberger, treasurer, as his fellow officers.

At a meeting held last week the freshman class passed the resolution that all candidates elected to office in the freshman class must have a majority vote for their election. Because of this system of voting, the freshmen were unable to elect any one of their nominees at the regular election on Wednesday. At the Wednesday voting the minority candidates for election were eliminated, however, and the choice for officers limited to Mack Wilson and Sidney Duke for president, Betty Parker and Peggy Fisher for vice-president, June Browne and Cumi Snyder for secretary, and Tracy Ellis and Robert Herzberger for treasurer. The Student Council held a second election for the freshman officers at special polls on Friday morning between breakfast and chapel.

As president of the incoming sophomore class, Sidney Duke adds one to a growing list of achievements. This year he has gained recognition through his position as assistant sports editor for the Echo. Duke, a Texan, is planning to major in chemistry. He ranks near the top of the honor roll with one of the highest scholastic averages made this year.

Peggy Fisher, the new vice-president, is active in the music department, being an experienced violinist and a music major. Peggy is also a member of the orchestra and glee club. She comes to Maryville from Warsaw, New York.

Member of the Student Council, Nu Gamma leader, and honor roll student, June Browne adds the distinction of being class secretary. June is an English major from St. Louis, Missouri.

Robert Herzberger from Kenmore, New York, will be the treasurer of the sophomore class. Bob started off this year by becoming a member of the 1940 Scottie football squad. He also is planning to major in chemistry.

Mrs. John Walker Entertains Seniors

Party Is Expression Of Appreciation

Mrs. John Walker gave a party at her home in the woods last Monday evening, May 14, with the present senior class as invited guests. It is the first time Mrs. Walker has given a party for the senior class as such, and was done by her in appreciation for the fact that the 1940 Chilhowean was dedicated to her.

Mrs. Walker received her guests in the sun room, and with her in the receiving line were Dr. and Mrs. Ralph W. Lloyd, and Miss Viola Lightfoot. Standing at the entrance to meet the guests was Mrs. Norman Davis, niece of Mrs. Walker. With her were Miss Clemmie J. Henry, Mr. and Mrs. Ray J. Dollenmayer, and Miss Katherine Davies. Upstairs, Miss Annie Robinson and Miss Mary McHenry, house guests of Mrs. Walker, showed the guests where to place their wraps, and escorted them around through the rooms on that floor.

After a tour of inspection, the seniors were asked to present themselves in the dining room where they were served refreshments of all kinds.

Ministerials Elect Moore As President

Alan Moore was elected president of the Ministerial association for the coming year at a very spirited meeting held Tuesday night, May 20, in Athenian hall.

The other officers elected to serve with Moore are: Ken Leishman, vice-president; Edward Rowley, second vice-president; Olson Pemberton, secretary-treasurer; and sergeant-at-arms custodian, Ben Lynt.

All nominations were made from the floor, and the voting was done by secret ballot. Precedent was broken in that none of the retiring officers was elected to the office of custodian, a job usually held by the past president. The reason given for this year's departure is that the retiring president, Bob Watt, is a senior and expects to graduate.

It was decided by the association that the last meeting of the year be an outdoor supper, held in the college woods, with an eye to fellowship and installation of officers. A committee was appointed to plan such a meeting. There being no further business, Phil Evaul led in prayer, and the meeting was brought to a close with the benediction.

Everybody Out For Pearsons' Auction

Hear ye! Hear ye! Inmates of Pearsons hall, about to go bankrupt or crazy or home, are going to acution off their property. Anything goes—from old shoes to boudoir lamps and Pearsonized rugs. Here is the long prophesied chance of a lifetime—everything sold for a song, or at least for a small sum.

The action will take place next Tuesday, May 20, in Bainonian hall. Seniors who wish to dispose of any articles or furnishings which they have accumulated during their four years will bring them to the hall for sale at this time. All underclasswomen are invited to come and acquire. Each article will have on it the name of the owner and the minimum price which the purchaser will be asked to pay. The sold article will be taken back to the owner's room, where the actual money transaction will take place and where buyer and seller will make arrangements as to when the transferring of ownership will take place, the articles probably remaining in Pearsons until the end of the year.

Skillful auctioneers will chant the auction sales-call and attend to the cries of the mob.

Nature Club Hears Evaul Speak On "Mushrooms"

Monday night at 6:45 the regular meeting of the Nature club will be held. Phil Evaul will speak on "Mushrooms" and will show some slides which he has done for his honor's work. At this meeting the Nature club officers for next year will be installed. The officers are: president, John Baptiste; vice-president, Muriel Geisler; secretary, Betty Winton; treasurer, Ralph Parvin.

Sophomores Elect Bill Sweeney To Editorship Of '42 Chilhowean; Crawford To Be Business Manager

Class Selects Lochausen As President; Baker, Vice-President; Patterson, Secretary; And Garvin, Treasurer

Bill Sweeney and Roy Crawford were elected editor and business manager for the 1942 Chilhowean on Wednesday. At the special election polls set up on the campus, sophomores at the same time voted for their junior class officers and elected Wesley Lochausen, president; Mary Ruth Baker, vice-president; Jean Patterson, secretary; and James Garvin, treasurer.

Bill Sweeney's capacity for editorship of the Chilhowean is shown by his position as sports editor and his two years as writer on the Highland Echo staff. Bill has the ability for skillful writing and for organization. A glance at his notable record shows him as head cheer leader this year, and basketball player. Bill's home is in Norwood, Pa.

Roy Crawford takes over the duties of the business manager after a year as sophomore assistant of the Chilhowean business staff. In his freshman year he served as member of the business staff of the Echo. His efficient service as class treasurer this year and his new position as vice-president of the Law club prove him worthy of his election as business manager.

President of the 1941-42 junior class will be Wesley Lochausen. "Tex" was treasurer of his class last year and was a May Day attendant this May. At present he is a member of the Student Council and is newly-elected vice-president of the Pre-Medical club. Tex is from Sanderson, Texas.

Mary Ruth Baker, vice-president, is a home economics major from McMinnville, Tennessee. As member of the Student Council and Athletic Board of Control, Mary Ruth has offered valuable service in various campus activities.

The new secretary for the coming junior class, Jean Patterson, has also just been elected as secretary of the Student Volunteer cabinet and to the Writers' Workshop. "Pat" has been, for two years, a writer on the Echo staff. She is an English major. Pat's home is in Orangeville, Pennsylvania.

James Garvin, new treasurer, is from Bethesda, Maryland. He is the genial vice-president of the Student Volunteers and also holds a position as a member of the Student Council.

Pi Kappa Delta Holds Banquet At Chilhowee Inn

Theme of Program Centers Around Present War; Queener to Talk

On Tuesday, May 20, Pi Kappa Delta will hold its annual banquet at 7:00 at the Chilhowee Inn on the Walland road.

A timely program has been planned by the officers of the organization, Henry Wick, Vernon Lloyd, and Lucille Lynch. Its theme will be "The Place of Speech in World Affairs" and will center around the war. In fact, the first three speakers have worked out their topics keeping in mind the three letters occurring in the word war. George Webster will speak on Winston Churchill; Janet Lindsay on Adolf Hitler; and Jack Zerwas on Franklin Roosevelt. Following this, Hilton Wick will present his subject which is "Forensics in a Warring World".

Along with the presentation of awards, Professor Verton M. Queener, debate coach, will say a few words. As a special part of this section of the program the George Alan Knapp plaque will be presented. On this plaque are now being engraved the names of those who have made contributions to the George Alan Knapp fund by winning prizes in various speech events. The fund is, of course,

Bates Oratorical Contest Won By George Webster

Wick, Shue, Tibbetts Are Entrants in Contest; Winner Gets $40

George D. Webster, varsity debater, member of Pi Kappa Delta, and recently elected to Alpha Gamma Sigma, was declared the winner of the Bates oratorical contest held last Tuesday evening in the philosophy classroom of Thaw hall. Other entrants in this annual contest were Henry Wick, Lloyd Shue and George Tibbetts.

First speaker of the evening was Henry Wick, varsity debater and president of the junior class, who chose as his subject, "America's Dangerous Opportunity." In developing this timely subject, Henry brought forth that America should refrain from pursuing a policy of isolation, a policy whereby we enclose ourselves in "ivory castle to await the ice age". Instead, the United States should develop realism and leadership, should take advantage of her dangerous opportunity to mold a new world order.

Centering his thoughts around the work of the Secretary of State, Cordell Hull, "the gentleman from the earthy democracy of the hill country", George Webster also chose the subject, "America's Dangerous Opportunity". After enumerating the deeds of Judge Hull and his putting into effect the economic

Elections Held Wednesday From 8:30 To 5:00; Student Council Supervises Voting; New System is Effective

Casa Manana Held Tonight In Gym

Junior Production Will Feature Jazz Hits

Casa Manana, sponsored by the junior class, will have its spring opening tonight in the alumni gym at 8:00. The object of the two-act musical is to present a comparison between semi-classical music in the first act, and modern jazz, featuring current Hit Parade numbers, in the second act.

This program of music, dancing, and comedy sketches under the direction of Dave Hall, will feature among others, Joan Humann who will sing several solos, as well as duets with Charles Orr. The guest singer of the program will be Carolyn Bolling, other featured singers being George Devereux and Jack Gilmore.

Dance routines, modern and classical, will be under the direction of Kay Estes and Joe D'Aantonio. Eloise Zimmerman is in charge of costumes. Mary Felknor will be the guest dancer, and several tintypes, comparing the past and the present will be spotted in both acts.

The theme song of the first act will be "Beautiful Dreamer" and for the second act, "I Hear a Rhapsody". Other hits heard will be "Rhumboogie", "High On a Windy Hill", "Down By the River", and "Amapola". Betty Jean Kennedy and Tom Gardner will do a comedy sketch.

Carnegie Hall Holds Fourth 'Open House' Monday Evening, 7:30

Monday evening from 7:30 till 9:30, Carnegie hall will hold its fourth "Open House". The 250 men who make Carnegie hall their home join with Mr. McCurry, proctor of the hall, in extending invitations to all ladies of the college and faculty members.

This is the first time since 1939 that the women and faculty have had a chance to go through Carnegie to obtain first hand information of how the men of Maryville live.

Special guest of the evening will be Mrs. John Walker, well known friend of the college, who has made possible many new improvements in Carnegie. These new features include the drapes and shades in the lobby and the library which will be on display in the proctor's office. Also several new chairs have been ordered for the lobby.

Guides will be on hand to show the visitors through the building and see that none get lost. Refreshments will be served by the men to all guests. Refreshment tickets will be given at the door.

Holman Is Science Major From Millerstown, Pennsylvania

Voting from 8:30 until 5:00 on election day, Wednesday, May 14, juniors elected Ted Holman to be president of the 1941-42 senior class. Mary Agnes Carter was elected vice-president; Janice Graybeal, secretary; and Fred Snell, treasurer.

To Ted Holman will fall the duties of senior class president. Ted is a science major from Millerstown, Pa. He is majoring in chemistry with the intention of entering Vanderbilt university and becoming a medical doctor. Ted has served this past year as vice-president of Alpha Sigma society and is now an active member of the junior class committee for Casa Manana. He was chosen this year as junior attendant for the May Day celebration.

Mary Agnes Carter, who will take office as the new vice-president, is from Hubbard, Ohio. Mary Agnes is an English major and is planning to teach English in a high school in Ohio. She was also chosen as junior class attendant for 1941 May Day.

Janice Graybeal will officiate as senior class secretary. Janice is a music major and lives in Knoxville. After graduation from Maryville, she plans to teach music and to become a church organist in Knoxville. Janice was a Nu Gamma leader this year and also holds the record of having been an honor roll student several times.

Senior class treasurer will be Fred Snell. Fred, whose home is now in Nashville, was born in China where his father was a missionary-doctor. He is a pre-medical student, a chemistry major, and has several times been on the honor roll. He has served this year as laboratory assistant for the general chemistry course. Fred is the newly-elected president of the Pre-Medical club in which he was treasurer this past year. He was also program chairman of the Nature club this year.

Senior Invitations Have Now Arrived

Ballenger, Carter, White Work On Cocmmittee

On Tuesday of this week the senior invitations for commencement arrived and fully half of them distributed to those who had ordered them. So many of the seniors gave last minute orders that the ten percent extra invitations were sold by Thursday morning. One order has been sent in to the Charles H. Elliott Company, who printed the invitations, for some extra ones which they have on hand. There are still some of the Dutch folds left, but none of the other two varieties—the leather bound or cardboard booklets.

The leather booklets and cardboard booklets are the same except for the outward appearance, the leathers being of maroon and the cardboard of white with a maroon colored tassel. Two new pictures were added to the invitations that were not in last year's invitations. The first was the scene of to the top of the book store through the trees, and the other is a scene taken in the Smoky National Park looking toward the Chimneys. The Dutch folds are simply announcements with the printed program.

Each year the class has its choice of two new pictures being added or replaced, and this year two of the oldest pictures were replaced by the new ones. The committee who worked on the invitations consisted of John Ballenger, chairman, Jane Carter, and Jean White. Their work consisted of gathering the information contained in the invitations and sending it to the company. The style was decided upon, orders taken, and invitations finally distributed.

Kent, Tapp at Athenian

Donald Kent and Roland Tapp of the Writers' Workshop will read to Athenian tonight. This is their first appearance at Athenian.

Dave Hall's "Casa Manana" Carnegie Hall's "Open House" Dished Out To Expectant Public Within Three Nights—Sunday Excluded

OPEN HOUSE

Next Monday evening the women of Maryville and the faculty will have their first chance since 1939 of seeing for themselves what actually goes on in the men's dormitory.

The main features of the evening include the new drapes and shades and library given to the men by Mrs. Walker. Another attraction of the evening (to those who don't have to watch the scales) will be the refreshments, served and furnished by the 250 hosts.

Arrangements are being made to obtain special guides, familiar with the sights of interest, to show the visitors through the hall. Things not to miss include:

1. Room 303 in which A. O. Kressler and John White have demonstrated their originality in interior decorating.

2. Room 406 in which reside Dave Kidder, traveler, lecturer and explorer; Dave Hall, traveler, lecturer and explorer; and Quentin Myers, explorer. Included in their collection of curios from the four corners of the earth, is a teak wood chest lined with camphor.

3. Room 6 where John Guinter and Bob Martin live and where will also be found the sales room and manufacturing plant of "Guinter's Archery Equipment, Ltd."

4. Room 215 which represents the latest in modernistic furnishings. Occupants: Fred Rawlings and Harold Austin.

5. Room 117—something new has been added. Ask anyone.

6. Room 317 contains Ted Kidder, Olson Pemberton and a reproduction of the United States fleet in miniature.

7. Room 414 contains Hermit Dudley Moore. All are warned when passing this spot to beware. He doesn't like to be bothered.

These represent only a few of the attractions which will be found within the walls of Carnegie. The management guarantees that if visitors look long enough and hard enough every shape, form and mode of room will be found.

Of special interest is the well grounded rumor that the three best rooms will be picked by a group of unknown judges.

CASA MANANA

Well, it's Dave Hall's "Casa Manana" again. Saturday evening will culminate hours of practice on the part of the cast. I had to put that in to make it sound good. Hours of something have been spent anyhow. Everything was going along most beautifully until Dave got over-domestic and burnt himself to pieces. All with a little pan of candy too. He comes to practice looking like a martyred soldier, but everyone knows the truth now. For many, many evenings now the gym has been filled with embryonic artists, dancers and otherwise. As for the dancers—well, Mary Felknor, Joe D'Antonio, and Bob Martin are my idea of perfection. Such grace, such poise, such rhythm, such—dancing. There is a chorus. In the midst of people yelling about dips, turns, and other phrases much too technical for poor clumsy me, I heard Joan Humann. She and Charles Orr are cutting fancy capers on the scales. The old-fashioned quartet—or maybe it's barber shop by now—are cutting up, too.

Somebody told me that Casa Manana was Spanish for the "house of tomorrow." They had to tell me because, as far as I can see, the only Spanish thing on the program is "Amapola". They are using Japanese parasols, good old American songs, and an extra classy master of ceremonies. Do they have masters-of-ceremony in Spain?

I hope that Phil Vance will ride on "Swanee River" for all you audience the way he did for the cast. It will be enough to warm your hearts. Even if you're not from the South, you'll forget the Civil War and yell for more. Casa Manana will make poets out of you, too. If you don't know what I mean, read the second sentence back. I'd love to be more subtle about it, but after all I want you to know what I am talking about.

If you don't think that you ought to come and spend a couple of wonderful hours at the gym this evening just ask Ralph, Miss Seedorf, or Dave Hall. If you plan to ask Dave, you had better take your lunch. He absolutely waxes strong on the subject.

Good-bye

This being the 28th issue of the 26th volume of the Highland Echo, it becomes necessary for the present editor to say adieu. In keeping with the editorial policy of this semester it shall be short and to the point.

In closing, there seems to be no more concise and clear expression of my thoughts than to say that I hope I have added, in a small way, to the traditions, activities, and classes of which, I feel, I have become a part; and no higher wish for the coming classes than to hope that they too shall grow to feel that they are a part of Maryville.

To the members of the present staff, I wish to express my appreciation for the cooperation that has been shown and for the work done on the paper.

ECHO ANALYSIS

(Contributed by George Webster)

In the first place we should define our terms and distinguish between militant nationalism and American nationalism. The former is that now practiced in the totalitarian nations of the world, admittedly offensive, and having as its primary purpose, the organization of the peoples of one race into one super-state; the latter, as any common school text tells us, is that kind under which the United States has grown from the ill-organized thirteen colonies to the position in 1941 of the most potentially powerful nations the world has ever known. Despite this unparalleled growth, and despite this retention of insidious nationalism, a nationalism which allegedly permits no other god, we have in America today over 45 million professing Christians! Certainly, nationalism has not destroyed freedom of religion in our country—in fact, when the real truth of the matter is told, nationalism, as an agency of force, has permitted freedom of religion to exist. So it is today, American nationalism is that fiend which motivated us to build a two-ocean navy, to conscript the so-called flower of our youth, to extend all-out aid to Britain—the only bulwark against the satanism of Adolf Hitler; indeed, the only real protection now afforded for the Christian faith. These elementary facts should be remembered in any consideration of a fact of political science.

LET'S LOOK AT THE RECORD—

Now, about this matter of our seven friends from New York who have seemingly lost their freedom of religion. Here, the facts tell the story. As we all know, the Selective Service Act provides for conscientious objectors—it states very specifically that a man does not have to go to war against his will, and all he has to do, legally speaking, is to register—certainly a small thing for an able-bodied man who has been receiving all the benefits of a government for more than twenty years. Not wanting to do this is certainly a personal whim or desire for publicity rather than any greater belief in Christ than you and I hold. Even after the trial proceedings, these theological students were given an opportunity to register, but seemingly, the illusion of martyrdom seemed too great. This was no loss of freedom of religion; this was a criminal offense and should be punished as such. It's a credit to our government that these boys were sentenced to serve a year in a jail—any government must do that, if it hopes to remain sovereign.

WHAT IS OUR FIRST LINE OF DEFENSE?

The very purpose of our present foreign policy is to protect America against the insidious god, Militant Nationalism which is now stalking the continent of Europe. Admittedly, in every great crisis Christianity has bolstered the morale of the American people, but blind faith alone will not stop one panzer division, let alone the more than 150 which now comprise Germany's blitzkrieg army. God gave us the ability, materials and ingenuity to construct our defense.

To fail to do this is to risk losing all the progress made toward democracy since 1215. Nationalism must be retained if freedom of religion is to remain a privilege of the American people. This is the only farsighted and realistic policy whch we can follow in the face of the world revolution which is enslaving two continents.

WE SHOULD LEARN FROM FRANCE—

For the 10 years prior to September 3, 1939, the French policy was dictated by pacifists, peacemongers, and appeasers, and as an inevitable consequence, France met the Vandal hordes of Germany unprepared. They told the French people that nationalism was an enemy of democracy, that it was the antithesis of Christianity—they wanted "peace at any price"—today, they are paying that price at the rate of 9 million dollars a day to support the German army of occupation.

It's the same old story—we saw it fail once, so completely and utterly in France, and at least 98 percent of the American people don't want to try that policy here. They want to be realistic, practical, and use some common East Tennessee horse-sense—they want to make America strong, to make her defense impregnable—so that the only sure way of protecting freedom of religion can be maintained—the retention of American nationalism.

Scots and Soda

Things like this never fail to amuse us: Ann Elizabeth Biggs got so wrapped up a doing her honors work that she went down to the phone and, because she was hungry, ordered a quart of strawberry ice cream. That's an awful lot of ice cream for such a little girl.

Now that it's nearly time for graduation, a lot of the home folks are coming down to check up on their kinfolks, just to make sure they're getting big things accomplished. So we have with us now, Mrs. Bryant, checking up on Betty; and Frances Moore, watching out for her sister, Vivian.

And whether or not graduation has anything to do with it we don't know, but quite a few ex-students are back, just visiting around. So far we've seen Tex Pyle, who was in for just a day or two; and Martha Sherer, who had to leave at the end of last semester; and Jimmy Jarrel, who might better be called an alumnus.

We're pleased to report, with a great deal of satisfaction—and we say satisfaction because having a roommate in the leading role ought to give us some claim to the production—that the rehearsals of "The Silver Cord" have been promoted from the little stage, in Bartlett, to the grownups' stage, in Voorhees. And it may be deduced from that step that the play is coming along as well as could be expected.

And on one of our tours of observation of the various phases of the play, we ran across Lloyd Calvin Shue in the attic of the chapel one afternoon. From him we gleaned a noteworthy bit of philosophy that he claims to have arranged all by himself. It is this: "A nose by any other name would smell." Isn't that logical? While up there we were able to collect, along with Shue's maxim, some velvet and some chiffon for our Textile File—also a square of cotton print that we discovered, too late, to be Shue's shirt.

What with Pearsons' auction following just a few days after Carnegie Open House, maybe we'd better give a word of advice. Just remember that these lovely boys are opening their homes to you, girls, and are trusting you to leave everything exactly as you found it; so don't get any ideas about stocking up on things to offer at the auction. And anyway, no men's hats, ties, shirts or other wearing apparel, or shoes over size 8½, will be accepted at the sale. But if anybody sees a slightly warped, grey-striped lifetime Schaeffer's fountain pen, well——it's merely a suggestion.

If we seem to have fallen short in our duty to bring you the best news first, let us say just a word in defense We tried to warn you in the last SCOTS AND SODA that Beatrice Burns was arriving; but bigger things interfered, we're told, and we couldn't get word to you. But if there is anyone on the campus that hasn't heard, whoever you are, and wherever you've been, you ought to be told Now! So, the attractive visitor on the campus for the past week has been Miss Beatrice Burns, known to her many friends as Bece, of East Orange, New Jersey. She attended this college for one year, the school year of 1938-39, at which time she was a freshman. She had not been back until last Saturday, when she arrived for her vacation. And we hope—don't you?—that she won't wait that long before she comes back again.

Did you hear what we heard about the breath-taking adventure of Don Hopkins? It seems that on the choir picnic he tried to get too friendly with a black bear and for almost three hours they chased each other through the lesser traveled trails of the S moky Mountains. As you probably have guessed by now, our Donald was the winner.

We happened in on Casa Manana rehearsal the other night, and were astounded by the bustling activity. The only calmly organized person we could see was Jack Gilmore, who was concentrating on some manuscript up in the middle of the bleachers, all by himself. Joan Humann was practicing her vocal numbers, looking and sounding just lovely. Phil Vance was doing sensational things to the "Swanee River" that, we'll wager, never were done to it before. And Joe D'Antonio was executing one of the fascinating D'Antonio specialties. It looks like when it all gets put together, it'll be nice.

Our class had a party. We've been good all semester, so Mrs. King let the Child Care class entertain. We all went out in town and invited somebody to play with. Lots of lovely people were there—like Barbara Thrower, and the Shine twins, and Eddie Briggs. And you should have heard some of the stories they told about their relatives—especially about Uncle J. D. Hughes and Aunt Gracie Ridings, and Uncle Roy Crawford. The only trouble I had with my playmate was when he wanted the lily from the middle of the lily pool, and almost got it.

We hate to gloat, but for special distinction of the week we'd like to nominate ourselves, that is, all of us in 410 Pearsons. We bet it isn't everybody that gets serenaded by Harry Lyle, at practically midnight, too. We don't know what it was he sang, but it had a locomotive whistle in it. And it was just lovely.

SPORT ECHOS

By BILL SWEENEY—Sports Editor

BASEBALL... The mighty LMU team rolled into camp for a two-game series on Monday and Tuesday with high hopes for a clean sweep. Monday night found them on the losing end, 10-5; and Tuesday night, on the wrong end of a 6-3 ball game. A tough part, combined with the losing of the two games, was the fact that their catcher and second basemen were rather painfully injured. The former was spiked in the first game and the latter hit in the nose by a bounding ball in the second game. For the home team, Baby Baird caught a peg from the catcher—right in the face. The big guns of the games were McGaha with his booming home-run and triple and J. D.'s four bagger. The Scots have a game with Hiwassee today and two next week with the same LMU—and that'll be all.

INTRAMURAL... Alley Rats won the second round of the softball tournament, defeating Alpha Sig, Athenians, and the Y Cabinet; and will now meet Alpha Sig for the championship. Upset of the week was the defeat suffered by the Greeks in their game with the Y Cabinet. Robert L. Puncheon, Alpha Sig moundsman, pitched airtight ball until the last inning when the Cabinet finally scored their winning runs. In the archery contest held Thursday and Friday, John Guinter was the outstanding entry as was to be expected. Betty Robinson, the only girl entry, did well for herself as she placed third in the Columbia Round. The Intramural managers, together with a representative from the Intramural committee, elected the softball All-Stars for the past season. Only managers from the Alley Rats, Athenians, Spears, and the Y Cabinet were present at the called-for meeting and the following is their selections for the All-Star team:

FIRST TEAM—Pitcher: KLEMSTRA, Alley Rats; alternate: HARRY GRAHAM, Alpha Sig. Catcher: HOWARD, Alpha Sigma; Infield: DEWEES, Alpha Sigma; KENT, Athenian; BROWN, Athenian; SWEENEY, Alpha Sigma. Outfield: WILLIAMSON, Alley Rats; BALDWIN, Y Cabinet; GEORGE GRAHAM, Alley Rats; BOB THOMPSON, Athenian.

SECOND TEAM—Pitcher: FISHER, Y Cabinet; alternate: ZERWAS, Athenian; Catcher: BILL CORNELIUS, Glee Club. Infield: CRAWFORD, Y Cabinet; WENDT, Faculty; SCAPELLATI, Alley Rats; LILLARD, Spears. Outfield: ROGER GRAHAM, Alpha Sigma; FINDLAY, Alpha Sigma; HARWOOD, Alley Rats; CULVER, Athenian.

ODDS AND ENDS... A particularly noticeable thing around the athletic fields these last few weeks has been the abundance of men trying out for Sigma Delta Psi, the national athletic fraternity. Several men have almost completed their tests in the past few days. Some of these are Bill Baird, Culver, and Butler.

Intramural Heads Have Extensive Files Concerning Sport Awards

On venturing over to the Intramural office we were confronted by a file containing hundreds of cards and papers which, Art Peterson explained, is the extensive and complete record of every intramural man and every intramural game played this year.

In these files are kept the man's points which he gained throughout the entire year along with his record on the teams for which he has played. At the final chapel when the awards are to be given out, the Intramural committee will give the high scoring man a special award and the next ten men in line will also receive awards. As yet these awards have not been made public, but according to the senior manager, "they's plenty nice."

This is the first year that such an extensive and far reaching program has been installed here at Maryville. Next year this plan will be continued with a few variations. That is, several sports will be added and several of the ones tried this year will be abolished. Art Peterson is the senior manager and is in line for a varsity manager's sweater. For next year the two eligible men for the job are Curt Wright and Perry Martin. Both of these men have served as junior managers this year under Pete. The sophomore managers which will be voted on are Art Bushing, Ollie Van Cise, John Shellenger, Olson Pemberton, and Bob Weldon.

In previous years the members of the all-star teams were the ones to receive the awards, but this way insures a man that the outstanding participant in both actual games played and actual games won will be selected for the awards. The points are given as follows: 5 points given to a man if the team wins, 2 points if the game is forfeited or if the team loses.

The intramural committee is planning for next year already and it is desired that all men who would like to officiate at the intramural football, softball, or basketball games next year turn in their names to Coach Fischbach or to Arthur Peterson. This should be done as soon as possible to assure you of a chance to officiate and give the committee a chance to get things started so the program will get under way smoothly next year.

Alley Rats Win Last Half Race

Last Tuesday afternoon the Alley Rats defeated the Y Cabinet by the score of 11-5 and Alpha Sigma beat Athenian 10-6 in the nightcap. On Thursday the Alley Rats defeated the Athenians 13-2 and the Y Cabinet upset Alpha Sigma, 6-5. This week's play assures the Alley Rats of the second half title and another crack at Alpha Sigma, winner of the first half, in the final.

The Alley Rats' power was too much for the Y Cabinet in the first game Tuesday afternoon, and it was due to this that the Cabinet was defeated. The Alley Rats' batting order packs power from the first to the last man. In the second game of the afternoon Bob Puncheon pitched and won his first game on the mound by defeating the Athenians for the second time this year, 8-6. Findlay starred at the plate for the winners and Thompson for the losers.

In the second day of play the Athenians and the Alley Rats put on a good ball game for the first five innings and then the Rats' power broke loose and swamped the Athenians. In the first five innings there was not a single man on either team able to reach the first sack. In the second game Puncheon was winning his second game of the year up until the last inning when two runs crossed to win for the Cabinet. Fisher looked exceptionally well against the Greeks all afternoon.

This ends the regular season for all teams. However, the Alley Rats will play Alpha Sig next Monday in a one game series. The winner of this game will be the official softball champion of the school.

Guinter Wins The Columbia Robin

On Thursday and Friday afternoon, the second annual archery tournament was held on the football field. This year John Guinter captured top berth in the Columbia Round on Thursday. Second was Floyd Bryant, a freshman, third was Betty Robinson, defending champ, and Melvin Malone, a freshman, was fourth.

Betty Robinson deserves a word here as she was the only girl entered in the competition. Betty was, therefore, shooting against men and must be congratulated on placing as high as she did.

On Friday afternoon, despite a strong tail wind, the archers again took to the range for their second day of competition. Ed Vaughn was the lad who took first place in the flight shot. Ed's arrow traveled 216 yards before coming to earth. The shooters stood over in the practice football field and let their arrows fly towards the regular football field.

Coach Fischbach emerged victorious in the clout shot and he also took another first in the tiger hunt. Leighton Berquist was the winner of the William Tell novelty event.

The archers were handicapped by this bad tail wind and this had a tendency to keep the scores low. However, the scores made this year were considerably higher than those of the previous competitions. Due to the gym classes and many enthusiasts, the sport is growing more and more popular on this campus every year. The tournament attracted a number of entrants, but the women could have stood a few more entries. However, the intramural committee can rest assured that another popular sport tournament promises to be an annual affair from here on.

Maryville Enters Track and Tennis Teams at Sewanee

Last Friday and Saturday afternoons the Maryville track team and the Scottie tennis team competed in the state championship meets held at Sewanee, Tennessee. In the tennis division, Van Cise advanced as far as the semi-finals, but was eliminated by Jervey of Sewanee, who won the tournament. The Maryville doubles team, consisting of Hedges and Van Cise, got as far as the quarter finals before bowing to Collier and Meachem of Southwestern, 6-2, 6-3.

The track team scored when Ellis, Maryville distance man, took third in the two mile; Fesperman, miler, took third in his event; Bill Baird, took second in the half, Julius Nicely took second in the high jump, the mile relay team (Steakley, Nicely, Kell, Baird) took second, and the 880 yard relay got a fourth. Tennessee was the team to take first place, followed by Chattanooga, Sewanee, Maryville, and Tennessee Tech. The mile relay team in taking second place actually clipped a second or two from the school record.

The tennis team was at Sewanee a day longer than the track team, leaving late Thursday night. In the singles Hedges defeated Hamill of U-C, 6-2, 6-4 in the first round; but Thrasher of Sewanee eliminated him in the second round, 6-3, 6-4. Ted Kidder and Ted Pratt were both eliminated in the first rounds by Meachem and Jones, respectively. Van Cise defeated Grimball, Sewanee, in the second round, 6-1, 6-2 and Collier, Southwestern, in the quarter finals, 4-6, 6-3, only to lose in the semis. In the Chattanooga Times Van Cise was given credit for the upset victory of the tournament in defeating Collier of Southwestern.

Scots Defeat Highly Touted LMU 10-3, 6-3 In Final Home Games

Hooker Wins First And Short Takes Second

Maryville's powerhouse batting order opened with a rush against LMU Tuesday afternoon and managed to plow the Railsplitters under by a 10-5 count. Thanks to the four-run homer of Leroy McGaha, Maryville scored 5 runs in the home half of the first stanza, giving Norman Hooker a comfortable working margin. Hooker limited the visitors to 6 hits and 5 runs, despite 6 Scottie errors, pitching hitless ball during the first four innings, and being touched only in the fifth and ninth.

With one away in the first inning, Lloyd Taylor hit safely. Hughes, Cragan, and Baird followed suit, scoring one run and loading the bases. McGaha laid one of Nidiffer's slants into the far corner of left-center field, clearing the sacks and making the score 5-0.

Nidiffer served up another home run ball to open the third frame to J. D. Hughes. Cragan reached base on an error, and was brought in by Baby Baird.

The highly touted Railsplitters came to the dish in the fifth inning trailing by 7 tallies. Determined to do something about it, they made 2 hits good for 3 runs. Johns, first baseman, doubbaseman, reached first on errors, one led. Perry, shortstop, and Pratt, second of them by Moundsman Hooker. Catch-Litton connected to clean the sacks, making it 7-3, Maryville.

Maryville put the game on ice by tallying three more times in the last of the fifth. Taylor doubled, and Hughes followed with a scorching triple. Nidiffer, just a little too cautious not to groove one for Mac, hit him in the side. Rock singled to score J. D. and Mac, the final Honaker tallies.

LMU did not threaten again until the 9th frame, when 3 doubles accounted for two runs. Bowen, Johns, and Perry were the offenders. However, Lefty Bob Mair came to the slab and retired the side without further damage.

SECOND GAME—

Bob Short turned in a splendid 5 hit performance here Wednesday afternoon to stifle LMU, 6-3. Bob's win gave Maryville a clean sweep of the two-game series with LMU, highly touted as champ of the SMC.

Maryville counted one tally in the opening frame, but was held in check by Bolinger until the 8th, when five runs came across to decide the fray.

Short, who went the entire route, pitched shuotout ball for the first six innings, allowing only one hit. In the top of the 7th LMU forged ahead 3-1, but the Scots slugged out three hits and five tallies in the next frame.

LMU's three runs in the seventh came as a shock to everyone, even to the Railsplitters themselves, it seemed. Van Huss, center fielder, opened by working out a walk. Raker hit, but was forced by Lavan. Litton, playing right field, hit safely to score Van Huss and Lavan. Perry tripled to count another run, but Nidiffer flied out to center to end the frame.

In the home half of the 8th, Honaker, first up, singled. Miller, sub for Taylor, followed with a similar blow. Cragan was passed, and all three men scored on Baird's double. Rock walked, and was given a free ride the rest of the way around the bases before the side was retired. In all, five runs were scored to put Maryville in commmand of a 6-3 lead.

The Honakermen's other tally had a free ride the rest of the way around the bases before the side was retired. In all, five runs were scored to put Maryville in command of a 6-3 lead.

The Honakermen's other tally had come in the first inning, with hits from the bats of Lloyd Taylor and Tommy Cragan responsible for the marker. In the fourth, Leroy McGaha blasted a hit to deep center field, apparently for a home run. When Van Huss stumbled in chasing the ball, Mac eased up in coming around the sacks. Van Huss, however, made a remarkable recovery, nipping Mac at the plate on the relay. The blow was officially credited as a triple.

Short's pitching was the outstanding feature of the game. His wide-breaking hooks and his elusive drop fooled LMU all afternoon. Short's chief support came from McGaha's two hits and from Baird's timely double in the 8th. LMU boasted the same team that had defeated such nines as Carson-Newman, Teachers, U-T, and many others. In gaining a sweep of the series, Maryville became the only club to trounce the Railsplitters twice this year. Nidiffer, who hurled for LMU in the first game, handcuffed U-T earlier in the season, but was freely touched by the Scotties.

This game was the final home affair of the year for the Scotties, though they still have three invasions left on the card. They journey to Harrogate on next Tuesday and Wednesday to meet Coach Floyd Bowling's Railsplitters on their own diamond.

Among those helping in the dining room were Miss Nancy Hunter, Miss Margaret Ware, and Miss Phyllis Dexter. Miss Nellie McCampbell, secretary to Mrs. Walker, was here and there throughout the evening, ushering people in and out, receiving, and making sure everyone had a good time.

There were games in the Gossip Room, and during the evening several beautiful records were played. Downstairs in the living room, several of the seniors and a few underclassmen entertained at various times with vocal and musical numbers. Vocalists were Sam Cornelius, Eugene McCurry, Ann Elizabeth Biggs, Ruth Andrews, Elizabeth Ann Huddleston. Accompanists were Florence Barber and Louise Wells. The string quartet, composed of Miss Alverda Rosel, Estelle Farrell, Katherine Crews, and Mary Gillespie played several numbers, in addition to solos by Mary Gillespie.

Seniors wandered throughout the house, some reaching the kitchen, and some going out onto the terrace which was doubly beautiful with the bright moonlight. Despite the fact that it was a bit cool to remain out doors long, a few people wandered around to the Tea House where logs were burning in the fireplace. Here they sat for awhile to catch the heat from the fire before enjoying their walks around the grounds further.

Though this was the first senior class party given by Mrs. Walker, she had a dinner for the Chilhowean staff last year out in the Tea House. The staff at that time thoroughly enjoyed themselves, and the senior class on Monday evening also had a wonderful time.

Alpha Sig Gets Surprise

Alpha Sig will be presented with a surprise program tonight in place of the trip to the mountains which had to be called off. In addition to the regular program there will be the installation of officers.

'The Silver Cord' Now Being Rehearsed From Monday Through Fri.

The senior play, "The Silver Cord" by Sidney Howard, which will be presented Monday evening, June 2, is being rehearsed every afternoon from Monday through Friday by the entire cast. Work has started on the third and last act which is to be learned by Monday. The costuming and properties committees have already started work, and in another week the other committees will be in full swing.

The play itself is a modern drama with an unusual plot and well-drawn, well-contrasted characters. The cutting of the play was done by Mrs. Nita Eckles West, director, in order to shorten it and to take out parts which were not essential to the action or characterization. This was necessary because of the short time left before the actual production and presentation of the play.

New Members Initiated Into Writers' Workshop

The regular meeting of the Writers' Workshop was held on Monday afternoon in Thaw hall. Miss Elizabeth Jackson read a paper on John Masefield.

The next meeting will be held on Monday, May 19 in the college woods. Initiation of new members will take place, and a picnic supper will be enjoyed. Miss Beth Pascoe is in charge of the arrangements and J. Donald Kent is in charge of the initiation ceremonies. The group will leave from the front of Pearsons hall at 4:00.

Law Club Holds Annual Banquet In Masonic Hall

Last Thursday evening, May 15, the Law club held its annual banquet in the Masonic hall and had the privilege of hearing for its speaker Harley F. Fowler, prominent lawyer of Knoxville.

Mr. Fowler, who has gained reputation throughout the South as a lawyer, gave a witty and interesting address on the law profession. In his speech he gave some insights of the practice of law, stressed the need of the modern lawyer to cultivate diligence in his work, and pointed out the importance of the law profession in the continuance of government.

The program, high lighted by the address of Mr. Fowler, also consisted of two piano selections by Lucette de-Barritt, and short talks given by Robert Wilcox, president of the club, James Witt, president-elect. Professor Archibald Pieper, faculty adviser, and the seniors present at the banquet.

Guests at the banquet were Dr. and Mrs. Lloyd and Mr. and Mrs. Pieper.

New members of Pi Kappa Delta will be initiated at this meeting, and there will also be an election of next year's officers. George Webster is chairman of the initiation committee; and in charge of decorations is Janet Lindsay, chairman of a committee composed of Natalie Yelton and Phyllis Anne Cain.

Members of both the freshman and varsity debate squad will attend the banquet, and also faculty members. Among these last to attend are Professor and Mrs. Verton M. Queener, Dr. and Mrs. E. R. Hunter, Dr. and Mrs. Ralph W. Lloyd, Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Pieper.

Black Attends St. Louis General Assembly Meet

Mr. Louis A. Black, director of maintenance, will attend the 153rd meeting of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church U.S.A. at St. Louis, May 22 to 28. Mr. Black will go to the assembly in the capacity of commissioner from the Union Presbytery of the Synod of Tennessee and will also represent the Presbytery at the Pre-Assembly Conference on Evangelism, May 20 and 21.

The Assembly meetings will be held in the St. Louis Municipal auditorium; the meetings of the Pre-Assembly Conference, in the Second Presbyterian church of St. Louis.

Saturday morning, May 24, a special Maryville college breakfast will be held for all former students, graduates, and friends of the college who will be at the General Assembly.

Those representing this section in addition to Mr. Black, although not in the capacity as commissioners, are Dr. and Mrs. Ralph W. Lloyd, Dr. E. R. Hunter, and Rev. J. Edward Kidder.

Council To Have Picnic

A special meeting of the Student Council was held on Tuesday night in Dr. Hunter's classroom. Final plans for the election were discussed and preparation was made for a picnic to be held in the near future.

and political policy of reciprocity, George concluded that Hull was the man to lead America through the trying days ahead.

"Preparations for Peace", delivered by Lloyd Shue was a plea for "a peace with justice, which is synonymous to eternal peace". George Tibbetts also chose this subject. Examining the present problem of preparing for a just peace and reiterating the precedent set by World War I, George also made a plea for a peace with honor. In conclusion he stated that "we cannot long keep our heads in the sand because the subject is distasteful, or when the war comes to an end we will be the center of ignorance and mere bystanders instead of taking our rightfully expected place as the pillars of the country!'s opinion and leaders of the world's peace".

This annual oratorical contest is the result of a gift of the Reverend William H. Bates of Greeley, Colorado, who contributed the sum of $1000 to form a fund, the annual income from which is used to provide a first and only prize. The yearly income or interest on this fund usually amounts to $40; it is this amount which will be awarded to Webster at commencement time.

Mr. Archibald Pieper, instructor in political science, served as director of the evening's program. The judges were the Reverend J. Edward Kidder, now on furlough from his mission work in China, Miss Elizabeth H. Jackson, instructor in English, and Dr. E. R. Hunter, professor of English.

Miss Elizabeth Moore was the winner of last year's contest, which was open to the women of the junior and senior classes. Her winning oration was entitled "Creaative Living."

Ellis Has Operation; But It's All A Pre-Med Fake

Last Thursday, May 8, the Pre-Med club held its annual party in the Maryville High school gymnasium. Entertainment was provided by Drs. Lochausen, Duke, and McCammon, who operated on and removed a conglomeration of organs from the patient, Tracy Ellis.

Lindsay And Cain Elected By I R C

Janet Lindsay and Phyllis Anne Cain were elected to the positions of president and secretary, respectively, at the last meeting of the International Relations club The retiring officers were Hilton Wick, president; and Elizabeth Moore, secretary. No plans have been made for the immediate future, but the new officers are looking forward to a big year next season.

VOLUME 27 MARYVILLE, TENN. SEPTEMBER 6, 1941 NUMBER 1

Director of Maintenance, Black Lists Extensive Renovations And Campus Improvements

Anderson Remodeled; New Drive Finished; Dormitories Painted

As is the custom every year the college campus underwent a general renovating this summer, with many improvements being added, under the direction of Mr. L. A. Black, director of maintenance, Mr. Ernest Brown, campus engineer and their co-workers. However, the improvements have not been as extensive as had been hoped and planned for because of the shortage of student help and general labor conditions. The maintenance crew started out in early summer with a crew of five; a few weeks later it had been reduced to one. Outside labor had to be secured which was less experienced.

Nevertheless, the road making a circle around the campus has been completed with minor finishing up yet to be done. An extension of this paving was the hard surfacing of the Corduroy while the old roads, such as the one by the hospital, which will no longer be used are being plowed up. The general plan which will be worked out is to have the central campus circled by one drive with no roads crossing over. This means that in the future the main road in front of the post office will be eliminated.

In addition to road building one of the principal activities has been keeping the extensive lawns of the campus mowed and in good shape. The three bank lawn mower has been used continually all summer; the golf course and lawns thereabout are particularly smooth and rolling.

Of all the buildings on the campus Anderson has undergone more changes. On the first floor the administration offices have been switched around, the two rooms in the Annex thrown into one and the whole re-plastered, sanded and painted. In this new enlarged room the Treasurer's office will be located. The Printing office is now situated directly across from the Student-Help office and will be under the supervision of Miss Clemmie J. Henry. As tentative plans stand, Dr. Hunter's Office of Curriculum (temporarily situated in the room formerly used by Mr. James R. Smith) will be in the present office used for the Treasurer along

Theta Makes Plans For Rush Week

Past, Present, Future Of Freshmen To Be Theme This Year

Mary Felknor, president of Theta Epsilon, has announced the following plans for Theta Rush week which, following the usual custom, will be held next week. This year the general theme of the entire program is to center around the past, present and future life of a Maryville freshman girl.

The first event will emphasize the past, particularly the high school days of a freshman. It will take the form of a watermelon cutting, location of which is to be kept secret. Johnnie Gudel and Lucille Gaultney will be in charge of the program for the day.

On Thursday Rush week will continue with the traditional splash party to be held in the college pool. One of the major attractions of the party will be a style show featuring new fall clothes and the proper attire for the present students. Phyllis Johns and Mary Lib Karg are making the arrangements while Lynn Becker will be the commentator. The entertainment will also include a swimming exhibition by Kay Liddell, Vicky Hoole, Frank Cross, and Dudley Moore.

The grand finale of the week will be on Saturday night when the formal opening will be held, carrying out the future division of the theme in anticipation of some of the freshmen becoming future Thetas. A variety show has been planned by Polly Parks, Jordy Mendows, and Bobilee Knabb. Members of Alpha Sigma will assist and the best of the campus talent is to participate.

Lloyd Addresses Convocation

What Colleges Expect of Their Students Is Theme

On Friday morning, September 5, the college held its one hundred and twenty-third convocation service in the chapel. President Ralph Lloyd, Dean of Curriculum Dr. E. R. Hunter, and Dean of Students Dr. F. D. McClelland took part in this service which formally convenes the college. Under the direction of Professor Ralph Colbert, the choir sang "O Morn of Beauty" to the tune of Finlandia by Sibelius.

Dr. Lloyd who gave the address reversed the usual thought that students have uppermost in their minds at the first of a college year, that is—what they expect of a college, and presented the theme, "What Colleges Expect of Their Students." In following out his subject he suggested seven attributes that a college can reasonably expect its students to possess. Each of these seven qualities began with a letter which is found in the word "college." Thus, the seven stand as—C for capacity, O for objective, to give purpose to one's life, L for leadership, L for loyalty to the principles the college stands for, E for effort, G for growth in all possible directions, and E for equity and true honesty.

YW Holds Annual Reception Tonight

Gammon To Speak at First Worship Service To Be Held Sunday

Tonight at 8:00 the YMCA will hold its annual pow-wow at the natural amphitheatre in the college woods.

The evening's entertainment under the direction of Master of Ceremonies Allan Moore, will begin with speeches by football players, by captains of coming varsity teams, by Art Peterson, manager of last year's intramural sports, and by Coach Fischbach, who will explain the intramural sports system.

Continuing the fun, Bill Sweeney will lead in some school cheers, Dave Hall will direct some familiar songs, and the Alpha Sigma and Athenian societies will present humorous sketches.

In conclusion, a truckload of watermelons will be distributed among those present.

Other activities of the YM for the week are the first meeting of the new "Freshman Fellowship Club" held on Tuesday evening at which time Hal Lloyd will show movies of college scenes, and the first Y service held on Sunday at 1:30 in Bartlett auditorium when Hilton Wick will bring the message.

College Friend

The Echo would like to voice the appreciation of the students to Mrs. John Walker. Mrs. Walker has, for many years, been one of the College's best friends and has been responsible for many of the improvements and conveniences in recent years. At present we are particularly grateful for the new draperies and furniture in the office and lobby of Carnegie and the renovation of the parlor in Baldwin.

Faculty Reception Will Be Held Monday Evening

On Monday, September 8, at 8:00 the Faculty Reception will be held in the library. At this time the entire student body will be given the chance to meet all the faculty members. The reception line will be headed by Anne Gammon, president of the YWCA, and Hilton Wick, president of the YMCA. They will be followed in line by President and Mrs. Lloyd, and Dr. W. P. Stevenson. The reception is formal and light refreshments will be served at the end of the evening.

Hopkins, Cooper New Business Mgrs. Of Echo

Publications, Student Council Committees Choose Two Juniors

With the announcement of the Echo's new editor comes also the news of the election of two business managers, Don Hopkins and Ken Cooper. This election took place last June 2, before staff members left the campus for the summer, but too late for the publication of the last issue of the Echo. Participating in the election were the Publications Committee and a committee from the Student Council.

Cooper and Hopkins assume their duties as co-business managers this week for the first time, but, both having served the Echo as assistants to the business manager for the past two years, they bring to their office a wealth of experience.

Ken, a junior biology major from Phillipsburg, N. J., is one of Maryville's tennis stars and was a member of last year's varsity tennis team. He is also active in most of the intramural sports, especially football and basketball. Last June he was awarded a Maryville monogram because he was among the ten men having the highest number of points in the intramural activities. Ken is an Athenian and a member of the Y cabinet.

Don Hopkins, likewise a junior, comes from Fort Lauderdale, Fla. He is an Athenian, a member of the glee club, college choir, and the choir basketball team. During his first two years at Maryville Don was one of "Brownie's" carpentering crew. Don is an English major and a ministerial, but on the campus he is probably best known as a member of the novelty vocal trio, The Three Flats, composed of Hopkins, Pratt, and Parvin.

Last Year's Echo Editor Married On August 15

At Least Ten Other Couples Marry During Summer

Of interest to members of last year's student body and especially to members of the Highland Echo staff is the following announcement which appeared in the August 21 issue of the Maryville Enterprise:

"On Friday evening, August 15, at 6:00 Miss Dortha Jean White, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Alexander White, became the bride of Mr. James Edward Thomas, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Thomas.

"The wedding took place at the home of the bride's parents with the Reverend Oliver R. Tarwater, pastor of the First Methodist Church, officiating. Only a few friends of the couple were present. The home was beautifully decorated with white gladiolas and tube roses . . . "

"J. Ed" was the editor of the Highland Echo last year, after serving his first three years on the paper's staff. On the campus Ed was known as a top honor student. He was a member of Alpha Gamma Sigma honorary society and, as a debater, a member of Pi Kappa Delta. He is now working in Alcoa. Dortha has registered as a junior and plans to complete her course as a music major.

Gladiolas and roses seem to have played a large part in the summer activities of many of last year's students. At least ten other couples rated the society column this summer.

On Commencement day Bill Overly and Ruth Dickson, both Tennessee freshmen, were married in Chattsworth, Georgia. At about the same time Warren Corbett and Mary Louise Cooper were married in Peck's Chapel, a short distance from Maryville. Warren now holds a teaching position in the South.

June also held the weddings of David Humphreys of Clarks Summit with Wileme Lane, and Alma Mason and W. Boyd Rich, seniors. Rich is employed as a TVA employee; he has been assisting this week in the treasurer's office. Alma finds handy a B.S. in Home Economics.

On June 14, John Gunter was

Radio Vespers Continues On Sunday Afternoon

College Radio Vespers which were continued throughout the summer from the chapel will be broadcast tomorrow afternoon at 4:15. Dr. Lloyd, director of the broadcast, will deliver a sermonette, "The Great Teacher," Miss Katharine Davies, Associate Professor of Music, will play the organ for the musical portion of the broadcast.

Many improvements have been made in the broadcasting equipment by Mr. James R. Smith, Public Relations Director. Among these improvements are facilities for broadcasting from the chapel auditorium and the Fine Arts studio at the same time.

Library Receives 150 New Books

Throughout the summer over a hundred and fifty new books were added to the library. Of these, about 25 will be added to the Reading Room collection. They include several popular novels and well-known autobiographies.

Among them will be Richard Halliburton's autobiography; Winston Churchill's "Blood, Sweat and Tears," a collection of his speeches; "Lanterns on the Levee," an autobiography written by William Alexander Percy. Also on the shelves will be Phyllis Bently's "Manhold," Eric Remarque's "Flotsam," which has been recently filmed, John Buchan's "Mountain Meadow," Ellen Glasgow's "This Our Life."

"H. M. Pulham, Esq." by John P. Marquand, and Eric Knight's "This Above All" are some of the better known books purchased. The books on the war include Paco Kleffer's "Juggernaut Over Holland," Robert Nathan's "They Went On Together", a refugee story; and "R.A.F. in Action," a book of war pictures.

Among the books added to the general collection are a number of very fine music books as well as a number of others.

Umbach Heads Echo, Result of Special Election

Size Increase Permits Use Of Much Additional Material

As the result of a special staff election carried out during the summer under the supervision of the Chairman of the Publications Committee, Dr. F. A. Griffitts, Bette Umbach, senior home economics major from Elizabethton, Tennessee, is the new editor of the Highland Echo. Bette fills the editorial position left vacant by Carson Brewer, who has transferred this year to the journalism school of the University of Tennessee.

Bette steps into her new duties with three full years of Echo reportorial and special column work to her credit. Last year she conducted the highly successful—and, incidentally, probably the most read—colmun, Scots and Soda. At the end of her sophomore year Bette was elected to membership in the Writers' Workshop, and last year she was a member of the Chilhowean staff. To her editorial duties this year Bette adds those of the secretary of Bainonian of which she has been a member since coming to Maryville.

Plans for the paper this year have been going forward rapidly. Of notable importance and difference in the publication is the size, which has increased from a six-column to a seven-column layout, an improvement which will permit much additional material.

'Talk of Week' Artist

The Echo staff wishes to express its appreciation to Chuck Dunning who will design the blocks of "The Talk of the Week" for the coming year.

Dunning, although not a staff member, was selected from a group of art students to design and cut this block. Chuck is a sophomore from Elmhurst, L. I., is president of the Art Club and an active member of the stage crew.

Faculty, On Vacation, Stays Home Goes to School, Mountains, Seashore

Coach Lombe Honaker Turns Decorator; Dr. Williams Loses Weight; Colbert, Collins Make Daring Expedition Thru Smokies

A random census of the ever-busy faculty disclosed that their summer activities included the very normal expressions of the ordinary citizen on vacation. Most of those interviewed spent a good part of their time right here, on or near the campus. A few ventured as far west as Illinois or Ohio, or as far east as the Carolina coast, but more preferred the pleasures of free hours spent in leisure here in East Tennessee.

Coach Lombe Honaker spent the first three weeks of vacation doing some very modest home "interior decorating"—painting woodwork, walls, etc. He spent the rest of his time in getting up each morning at dawn to prepare breakfast for his two sons who worked at the Alcoa plant. He managed to get off to go to Johnson City for a week to attend a football coaching school. One other week he spent in visiting friends and relatives in Illinois.

Teaching at the University of Tennessee summer school occupied six weeks of Professor Colbert's free time this summer. The rest of the time he was content to laze away at home, though he said that he did manage to rouse himself from his lackadaisical lethargy long enough to hike from Newfound Gap to Mt. LeConte and back, with Dr. Collins as companion. The hike, so says the prof, wore out the good doctor, but had no such effect on him.

Mr. McCurry, genial host, mentor, and dean of Carnegie hall, reported that he spent most of the summer at his home and desk in a most unexciting manner, as is his custom. His one venture away from the placid beauty of this part of East Tennessee was an excursion to near-by North Carolina where he attended the marriage of his son Gene, one of the outstanding members of last year's eleven.

The entire summer, with the exception of nine days, was spent by Mr. Louis Black, director and administrator of the NYA, at his desk, and at home with his wife. The nine days constiuted a trip to Boston, where he and his wife saw their daughter Lois, married. On their return from New England, the Blacks stopped off in New York and Washington, D. C.

Dr. Griffitts found that the business of completing the records for last year's publications, and of preparing for this year's issuance of the ECHO, took up considerably more time during the summer than he had thought at the beginning. He personally conducted the correspondence and other business concerned, issuing more than sixty letters in all. In the month remaining, Dr. Griffitts found time to take a short trip to the Carolina coast, where he dunked himself in the surf, and generally floundered about. He also participated actively in the addition of a few more rooms onto the "house professors are building" under the surveillance of Dr. Sisk.

Dr. Williams lost twenty pounds during the summer, working about the campus aiding Dr. Hunter in bringing about the many improvements on the grounds and buildings. He spent one week in the Carolinas visiting with his family.

Professor Howell was reluctant to reveal any details of his summer's pursuits, blanketing them all in the broad statement that he had spent the summer at home in East Tennessee, working about the house.

Dr. Ralph Waldo Lloyd found the summer all too short for the many things which he wanted to do, and was content mainly to do those things which demanded the most immediate attention, with a plea-

Barker, Stellwagen, And Lane Are New Members of Faculty As Three Old Teachers Resign

New Supervisors Added To Baldwin, Memorial Staffs

President Ralph Waldo Lloyd has announced the appointment of five new members to the college faculty and staff to fill vacancies occurring during the summer.

Lincoln Barker, B.A., M.A. has joined the Maryville college faculty as Associate Professor of Psychology and Education to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Associate Professor Newell T. Preston. Professor Barker's undergraduate course was taken in Washington University, St. Louis, and Westminster college, Fulton, Missouri. His advanced study has been done in Westminster college, Princeton university, Princeton Theological seminary, Washington university, and New York University. Two years Professor Barker served on the faculty of his Alma Mater, Westminster college, was eleven years Professor of Psychology, Education, and Philosophy at Arkansas college, and for five of these years served also as Dean of the College. He has been for the past seven years Dean and Professor of Psychology and Philosophy at Westminster College, Salt Lake City, Utah. Professor and Mrs. Barker have two sons, one of whom is enrolling as a freshman in Maryville college and the other as a senior in Maryville High school.

Dr. Preston is now Director of the Psychology Workship in New York City, a workship he established during the summer. His work deals with psychological data in relation with churches, business houses and other organizations.

Dr. John Hibbard Stellwagen will hold the position of Assistant Professor of Spanish formerly held by Professor Robert L. Smith. Dr. Stellwagen received his education at the University of Minnesota and Harvard university, earning his Ph.D. at the University of Chicago. After graduation from college he was in business for four years with the Ford Motor company training for foreign service. For one year he taught at the University of Minnesota. For the past two years Dr. Stellwagen has been on the faculty of Baldwin-Wallace college, Ohio, teaching Spanish and French.

Mr. Smith is resting at his father's home in Danville, Ky., in an effort to improve his health.

Miss Ruby Violet Lane will succeed Mrs. Virginia Crider King as instructor in Home Economics. Miss Lane will teach certain courses and give supervision to the Home Management House program. Miss Lane attended Maryville college and the University of Tennessee, receiving her master's degree at the university in 1941. For three years she taught Home Economics in a high school in North Carolina. Miss Lane's sister, Frances Ruth Lane, is now a senior in Maryville college.

Mrs. King decided against undertaking the full time instructorship offered her by the college and to now living in her home beyond the Maryville college woods.

Mrs. Jessie Franklin, a former matron in Baldwin hall, returns this year to be an assistant to the Head of Baldwin hall, a position vacated by Miss Mary Miles. Mrs. Franklin is from Knoxville.

Miss Miles is now in charge of the Westminster House at the University of Kansas, a religious center for Presbyterian students at the university. The present war makes impossible her return to Japan as a missionary, and the Presbyterian Boards of Foreign Missions and Christian Education are cooperating in her present appointment.

Filling a second vacancy in dormitory supervisors, Miss Anne S. Dempster of Knoxville, will replace Mrs. George H. Lowry as Assistant to the Head of Memorial hall. Mrs. Lowry has returned to the supervision of her home and farm near Maryville.

Miss Geneva Hutchinson, secretary of the Printing and Publicity office since 1938, resigned this summer to begin work with the TVA. She is now doing secretarial work in the offices near Murphy, N. C.,

YM Has Pow-wow In College Woods

Freshman Fellowship Club To Be Held On Tuesday Evening

This evening at 8:00 on the lawn in front of Thaw hall the annual YWCA "big sister-little sister" party is to be held. The party, which is the first big YW event of the year, is a Draft party. All freshman girls are to be drafted for the evening. These "draftees" will be escorted to the recruiting center by the "big sisters" who are army officers for the night. Later both officers and draftees will be stationed at camps throughout the college campus. All arrangements are being made by General Beth Pascoe. Distinguished soldiers will be granted public interviews during the course of the evening. Army food, it is reported, is unusually good. Draftees will have an opportunity to verify this statement.

Although this is the first function of the YW as a whole, the organization has been active since Freshman day. Members of both the YM and YW cabinets were on the campus early Tuesday morning to welcome new students. From 3 until 5:00 Friday afternoon Pi Gamma had a tea in the YW rooms for the new girls of the college.

Sunday afternoon the regular meeting of the YWCA will be held in the Y rooms at 1:30. Anne Gammon, president of the YW, will speak. After this meeting the Nu Gamma groups will meet with their leaders.

Hunter Announces Addition of New Courses This Year

Dr. Edwin R. Hunter, Dean of Curriculum, has announced six new courses which have been added to the curriculum and will be offered to students this year.

A sort of laboratory course has been added to the field of Bible and Religion called Practicum in Religious Education, 251, to be taught by Dr. John A. Gates. Students taking this branch of religious education will have individual conferences with Dr. Gates and will work in religious centers and projects in the community.

The field of English now includes a study of contemporary writings numbered 241. Dr. Hunter will conduct the first semester course, Contemporary Poetry; Miss Mabel Nathalia Wright will teach the second semester study of novel and drama of the present.

Professor Archibald F. Pieper will teach this year a Diplomatic History of the United States, 333. The course is a study of America's foreign relations from the adoption of the Constitution to the present day.

A course in Quantity Buying, Home Economics, 323, will be offered this year. This course, under the direction of Miss Gertrude Meiselwitz, will consist of a study of large-scale marketing in relation to institutional cooking and management.

Three members of the music department faculty will cooperate to present the new course in music, Literature of Music, 315, a survey of musical expression and compositions. Professor Ralph R. Colbert will teach one unit, Miss Katharine Davies another, and Miss Genevieve Cowen a third.

Dr. David H. Briggs has added a class in Genetic Psychology, 319, to his psychology courses. This study will consider problems of growth and of behavior in their relation to the hereditary background of individuals.

Chatterbox Opens

It has been announced that the Chatterbox, which was recently moved to the college grounds, will be opened sometime next week. The building which is situated on the Baldwin grounds has been completely redecorated and will house both the YM and YW stores.

In The Beginning—

It is gratifying to know that, despite high water and the proverbial hectic state of affairs existing in the not so proverbial world, Maryville college calmly began another school year with English placement exams and a rained-out picnic supper. It is only natural that an institution such as this would take in its capable stride any disturbances, however widespread or chaotic; it is only natural that a student, new or old, should look to this college with the confidence that it deserves.

To a student entering college for the first time, there may, and probably will, be situations and set-ups that seem undesirable. It wouldn't be possible to avoid them. But to the student who has the will to find his place in the student body and on the campus, these situations present no problems.

The fact that every student has the ability to so adapt himself is made evident by his presence here; so it is up to the individual to adjust himself wherever necessary, to make the essential personal contributions to the group, and to find the college life that is here for him—that he has every right to expect.

We see college life as a three-sided existence in which the faculty, the upper classmen and the freshmen pull together, each group presenting its own set of problems, and each helping to straighten out those of the others. However forlorn, insignificant, helpless, or unimportant the freshman group may be made to feel by the barrage of humorous implications that are inevitably made, we hope they realize that that is merely an upper classman's way of saying, "Hi, bud; someday we're going to turn things over to you completely—we're depending on you—"

Theta Rush week starts

Highland Fling

To start the year with a bang, we bring you the astounding news that Lucette DeBarritt has finally grown up. In a long interview with her she revealed that her plans for this, her senior year, had two main points: that she would spend this year in Pearsons, with the big girls; and that she would leave the freshman boys alone. Isn't it amazing?

We were quite disappointed to learn that Dr. Shine abandoned his newly-acquired teaching front. Somebody must have put up a stiff argument to convince him that the out-in-the-open method of attack was more effective than the camouflage.

Have you heard about the exciting summer spent by Bob Schwarzwalder and John Dilliner just outside an air base? Airplanes kept flying in the windows and crawling under the covers with them. And there was the one ingenious advertiser that sent little bags of flour up on a bomber; but something went wrong and the contents got scattered too freely over the countryside, to say nothing of the unfortunate inhabitants.

And while we're on the subject of national defense, we've heard rumors to the effect that such campus celebs as Spote Shelfer, Dudley Moore, Bob Wright, and Hilton Wick are marked men. They'll certainly be missed. There's something radically wrong with the meter of the song, but the little number, "Goodbye Dear, I'll Be Back in Two and a Half Years" still seems pretty potent.

And by the way—if any of you girls had big ideas in your heads, you can just get straightened out on this one point: Micky Nethery has a job teaching which stations her just off campus. So there.

To head the "Two Minds With But a Single Thought" department, we nominate Bill Henderson and Mel Johnson. It's a lovely thought, too. We think she's a freshman.

Have you ever seen the like of break-ups, and shifts, and swaps and whatnot? Romantically speaking, of course. It just isn't a good idea any more to walk up to a student and ask genially, "Say, do you still get seven a week from Caroline?" You're liable to get ignored; or, (in a rare and violent case) slapped.

While we're on the subject, we might get in a word about the moon. We bear special reference to the Thursday night performance; of course it might have been as bad on Wednesday or Friday—we won't argue with you. But we did see it Thurs. It reminded us of a college version of "Thanks for the Memories", which began: Thanks for the memories of the moon we couldn't use, of Sunday evening blues, and so on. But see what we mean?

Seems like all we have heard lately is rumors. There's that nasty one that's been circulated about George Webster. Something to the effect that he's joining, or entering, or trying out for a seminary—however in the world you get in one. Whoever started it better look out, or he'll get himself sued for libel or defamation of character. It's positively shameful!

Get a load of Jane Trotter's practical idea of How To Keep Them Down on the Farm: pigtails, no less.

One of the most charming things we've seen since Christmas was pretty Margaret Bailey McCurry, just out of Home Management class, rushing to her little home out Wilson Avenue way to fix Gene's lunch.

Doesn't it look natural to see H. Clark Dizney gracing the landscape? And, for that matter, it looks natural to see lots of people—such as Harriet Miller, Otto Pflanze, Fred Rawlings, John Fisher, and Bill Felknor. We hope you'll stick around a while.

Along the hospital line, we might mention the unfortunate case of Ada Summers. She got tangled up in an automobile accident, and won't be at school for a while yet. But eventually.

You've seen the freshman class, haven't you? Well, what do you think about them? Arent' they cunning?

Maybe you've noticed, too, the South Sea Island influence as shown in the simply gorgeous tans worn by quite a number of the students. Such people as Ruth Carter, Professor Pieper, Ruth Sutherlin and Phyllis Johns. Going along with this native coloring is the long necklace wrapped round and round. Who is it that takes choose along because the necklace, made of macaroni rings, might happen to come in handy. Inez?

Marriages

married to Ethel Sylse. John and Ethel have an apartment near the campus on Cate Street. John is enrolled this year as a senior and is also working in Alcoa. He still maintains his craftsman's shop and employs a possible free hour making archery equipment for the college. Ethel is now employed in the treasurer's office. The following day marks the wedding of Gene McCurry and Margaret Bailey. Gene also finds occupation in Alcoa at the aluminum plant. Margaret has registered at the college as a senior and plans to complete her Home Economics major.

Ruth Jones, another senior living in Maryville, was married to Howard McClanahan, former Maryville student who is now employed in the Maryville post office. Floyd Green, from Lockland, Ohio, and Linda Robinson, Maryville junior, make the ninth couple. Floyd leaves here a name as senior track star. Jacqueline Klauber, sophomore, and Bob Claflin were married soon after the close of the school year and have a new home a few miles from the center of town. Also among those who were who were married this summer is Bruce Wilds, a junior from Lincoln Place, Pa. Bruce is back in school this year but is no longer working in the post office.

Completing the list come Alfred Davies and Ione Youngs. "Mom and Pop" were seniors last year. Alfie is at present attending Princeton Theological seminary.

Vespers Sunday Evening

Dr. William Patton Stevenson, retired College Pastor, will speak at Vesper Services tomorrow night at 7:00 in the chapel.

Dr. Stevenson came to the Maryville College pastorate in 1918 after a very successful pastorate in Yonkers, New York. He served actively on the Hill until 1940, when he retired. Although Dr. Stevenson is 82 years old, he drove his automobile on a 10,000 mile trip through the Canadian Rockies this summer. Still young in heart and mind, Dr. Stevenson is a favorite speaker on the campus and is beloved by all students who hear and know him.

SIMON PURE SCOTTIES...

For the first time since way back in 1926, Maryville's Highlanders will not be in the fold of the Smoky Mountain Conference this year. When the Scots moved out into the cold, cold world last spring, their action "was based on what we believe to be unjustifiable practices in connection with subsidization and recruiting of athletes." In other words, Carson-Newman, Cumberland, et al, just don't play fair.

Nevertheless, the football schedule for this year looks very much like that of the past fourteen. It will be interesting to see what the Scotties are able to do against this "professional" Conference competition. It's a good bet that they will win as many games as normally—maybe.

MILITARY NEWS...

Uncle Sam's draft boards seem to be agin us. First of all, Captain-elect Tipton was called up. Now Captain-elect number two, Hooker, is "out on probation." "Spote" Shelfer managed to get a short deferment. Rogerville, who lettered last year, was unable to return. Peace....it's wonderful!

ON SCOTTIE EXES...

Bill (Family-man) Overly has been a frequent visitor at early Maryville grid workouts. Bill is one of the several thousand local residents who spend their time converting pots and pans into pursuit ships....Jimmy Witt, erstwhile blocking back of the Scotties, has transferred to U-T. Jimmy's knee injury, a little reminder of last year's gridiorn campaign, is improved. However, he was the victim of an Alcoa plant accident receently...Cecil Tipton is still doing time at camp....."Tub" Murr may or may not play football this year, but here's hoping.

CLONINGER RIDES AGAIN...

Ray (Twelfth-Man) Cloninger has moved from the line and is trying valiantly to fill the hole at fullback. You'll remember that Ray is the boy who talks more than most teams and who gets as many tackles from the bench as most players do on the field. By the way, Ray managed to get off some good kicks during practice this week.

THE OUTLOOK ? ? ? ?

A number of new names will appear in the Scottie lineup this year. As usual, Coach Honaker doesn't have much to say, but frankly he doesn't look very happy. He may be able to mold a potent attack around "Spote" Shelfer, Rock, Spears, Taylor, Hooker, and the few other old men, but it's a real job. Graduation, the draft, Cupid, etc., have taken a heavy toll, and the outlook is rather shaky.

ACTION TO SPARE...

If spirit means anything, our Scots would go to the Rose Bowl, but it takes a little more than that to win football games. Tennessee, Vandy, and those evil SMC schools manage to get most of the material, it seems. Wonder how?

Whatever the team is like, Wilson Field will be the scene of some good, fast football. The start of the season is only two weeks off. With eleven men on the field, two or three thousand rooters in the stands, and Cloninger on the bench, we might go places. So when the first game rolls around, grab your best gal and come on to holler your lungs out. It might help the boys a lot, and one thing's sure--THEY'LL NEED IT.

Fischbach Plans Wide Intramural Athletic Program

Tennis Competition To Be First Sport; Football Follows

Coach George Fischbach's intramural department, going into its second year, will sponsor an ambitious program of intramural athletics this year. About twenty events are tentatively listed on the program, and it is hoped that every man of the college will take part in some phase of the activity, Fischbach says.

First event of the year will be the tennis tournament, including both singles and doubles contests. Announcement will be made on the various bulletin boards soon as to entries and pairings. Last year's singles honors went to Jim Hedges, who later went on to gain intercollegiate distinction.

Soon after the tennis tournament, the touch football races will begin. This sport probably draws more interest than any other. Quite a number of entries are expected, and teams will be organized in the near future.

Curtis Wright is senior intramural manager this year. He will be assisted by junior managers Arthur Bushing and Oliver Van Cise, and also by seven sophomore managers —Tom Gardner, Don Lowry, Horace Scherer, Dexter Rice, Hal Lloyd, Stanley Crews, and Claude Shell. The YMCA assists in conducting the various activities, and is represented by Ken Cooper and Charles Foreman.

A handbook of intramural sports, the purpose of which is to explain the intramural program to freshmen and new students, has been prepared and distributed.

Thomas Resigns To Become Head Hiwassee Coach

Al Thomas, who served last year as line coach of the Maryville gridders, has resigned to accept a position as head coach of the Hiwassee College Tigers of Madisonville, Tennessee. As tutor of the Maryville forward wall, Thomas took a few veterans and a number of inexperienced freshmen and molded them into one of the strongest lines in this section.

Thomas is a former University of Tennessee football great. As a Volunteer, he was one of the stalwarts of a great team during all of his three years. Though he was not given as much publicity as some of the other Vols, Thomas stepped up to fill a gap in the line of the 1938 Orange Bowlers, sparking his mates to a victory over Oklahoma in the Miami classic. In his senior year, Thomas really came into his own as he took the place of an injured All-American in the Rose Bowl tussle. The fact that Tennessee was defeated detracted little from Al's great game.

At Hiwassee, Thomas will take charge of a team that has been none too successful in the past. It is expected that he will install the famous Neyland system of play. Hiwassee is Maryville's first opponent of the current season, and Thomas' position will afford an interesting sidelight to the game.

Aspiring Frosh Candidates Dominate Highlanders' 1941 Football Squad

Thirty-four Gridders Turn Out To Prepare For Opening Game

One of the smallest squads to turn out in years reported for its first practice session on Labor day. Only thirty-four men answered the call of Head Coach Honaker, who promises regulation equipment is available for at least twenty-five more players. Any fellows, with or without experience, who are interested in playing football are asked to report to the Bartlett offices at the earliest possible time.

Afternoon rains are fast becoming a daily habit. These of course have slowed down practices but the boys have been busy in skull practices and light drills outside when the weather permitted.

With Hooker and Shelfer the only returning senior lettermen, more than half of the squad will be made up of freshmen. The team will greatly feel the loss of Jimmy Witt, dependable sophomore fullback, who cannot return this year. Jack Kramer, husky tackle and letterman, returns to his duties after his lay-off of last year. Hooker at center, Murr and Cloninger at the guard positions, Mitchell at tackle, Rock and Bennett at the ends complete the lettering linemen. Lloyd Taylor, lanky junior galloper and Oliver Spears, versatile sophomore back, are the only returning backfield lettermen. There is a possibility of converting Roy Cloninger into a much-needed fullback and he is showing some promising power and punch at the new position already.

Great things are expected of the two reserve backs, "Cafego" Miller and "Turk" Graham, although the reserve line is admittedly weak. Ends are simply not to be had and Andy Richards is holding down the only tackle position. Garvin, Herzberger, and Mack Wilson fill the guard positions.

Among the freshman ranks, Webb and Talbott, an Everett High combine, look impressive at the ends. Long, a Toledo boy, promises strength in the center of the line as do Breazeale and Easter, a pair of stalwarts hailing from Loudon. Wagner of Maryville High and Bayless of Rossburg, Ohio, are both candidates for the line also. The freshmen backfielders include Lattimore from Madisonville, Burris, a Mulberry, Fla., boy, and our inherited Ross Honaker, brother of the unforgettable Scot and son of our own Lombe S.

Although the team will feel the loss of Line Coach Thomas, Coach Honaker has the able assistance of Coach Davis and they both are hard at work getting the boys into shape and drilling plays into the minds of the gridders. Heavy practice will begin early next week when the boys will don pads and helmets for scrimmage. Only two weeks remain before their first game and there is much to be done. The Scotties are still homeless orphans in the conference world but the schedule shows all their previous opponents and rivals. At present, the coaches have no predictions or claims to make, but we know the team will be one of the liveliest, "fightingest", and most loyal aggregations ever to don the Orange and Garnet jersies.

with the Public Relations office. Mr. Smith is now in the Maintenance office. The stock room on this floor has been refinished, and the general storage capacity enlarged.

Of the dormitories Carnegie and Baldwin have received most of the paint and new furnishings with general repairs completed in Pearsons and Memorial. The lobby in Baldwin had particular attention and also the back of the building is being repainted. The red shingles are to be painted white; if this proves successful the same will be done to Memorial.

In Science hall Room 204 has been re-floored and generally fixed up to be used by the Science department as a whole. One specific use will be the showing of all movies used by the biology, chemistry, or physics departments. In addition, the tables in the biology laboratory have been topped with inlaid linoleum.

Additional broadcasting equipment has been provided in the chapel under the direction of Mr. James R. Smith, Public Relations Director. Other renovating work completed in the chapel was the sanding, refinishing and improving of several music rooms.

On the third floor of this building the Home Ec department has benefited by having a great deal of papering done and the floors refinished.

At the farm the money allocated for the purpose of building a new cow shed has been spent for the necessary cinder blocks, supplies, etc. However, the work is yet unfinished because of the lack of experienced labor to complete it. Nevertheless it will be built soon.

The art studio on the third floor and Anderson is to be changed into a classroom for modern languages. Other arrangements will be made for this studio.

Registration

Exact figures are not available at this time, but the enrollment at Maryville college is expected to be close to normal this year. However, because of the draft and the fact that defense industries have offered attractive positions to several of our upper-classmen there will be more new faces than usual. There are a few more applications now under consideration.

Miss Belle Smith Wills House To Be Used By Art Department

New Art Studio Located on East Edge of Campus

STUDIO NOW IN USE

Art House Complete With Furnishings Given By Donor

The attractive and interesting house at the east edge of the campus which was the home and art studio of the late Anna Belle Smith, former teacher of Art in Maryville College, is to be used this year by the Fine Arts Division of the College, President Lloyd announced this week. Dr. Lloyd's full statement follows.

"The studio house, furnishings, and contents, including many beautiful and valuable paintings by Miss Smith and art articles gathered by her in various parts of the world, were transferred as a gift to Maryville College by Miss Smith January 3, 1931. But it was the understanding that she or her sisters, Miss Elizabeth Smith and Mrs. John M. Alexander, the latter long-Professor of English in Maryville College, and her brother-in-law, the Rev. Dr. John M. Alexander, who is a Director of the College, would keep possession of the house as long as they desired during their lifetimes. It is through the generous courtesy of Miss Elizabeth Smith and Dr. Alexander that the College is now given active use of this valuable center. Miss Anna Belle Smith died on May 8, 1939; Mrs. Alexander's death had occurred a year earlier.

"All of the classes in art will be held in the studio house and the Fine Arts Division will make other various uses of it, as there are some six rooms containing furniture including a piano, besides the paintings and art objects. The largest room is a most interesting one with high vaulted ceiling, impressive fireplace and tall chimney, and a large northern skylight. The house is painted brown outside and is adjacent to the large white house which is the home of Dr. Alexander, Miss Elizabeth Smith, and Miss Nan Cheney, a life-long friend of Miss Elizabeth Smith and her sisters.

"Anna Belle Smith, the donor of the studio house, was born in Connecticut and received her academic and art education not only in New England but elsewhere in America and several foreign countries. Among the places she studied were Boston, Baltimore, New York, Paris, Egypt, and Palestine. From 1914 to 1921, "Miss Belle", as she was called by most, was on the faculty of Maryville College as teacher of Art and Head of the Art Department as it was then organized. About 1919 her interest in books and people led her to give her effort to building a city library in Maryville. In 1921, she closed her teaching work and gave full time as librarian in the city until her

Varsity Debaters Discuss Plans Tuesday Night

All Interested In Public Speaking Urged To Try Out

Getting off to an early start this year, Maryville's debate class held their first meeting Tuesday night at 7:00 in charge of Professor Verton M. Queener. This was a short meeting designed merely to discuss a general program for the year. Next Tuesday at the same time the class will start organizing in earnest.

Over twenty persons were present, the great majority of them being girls. Thus it is that opportunities for openings are greater this year for boys than has ever been the case in previous years. The class is still open for all those who are interested in debating and other forms of public speaking. These people are urged to come out next Tuesday night.

The class decided they would follow a program similar to the one used last year. Meetings will be held on Tuesday night at 7:00 and on Wednesday afternoon at 1:10 in the philosophy classroom; for the first few weeks Doctor Queener and Prof. Archibald Pieper will lecture, following this the students will take part in general discussion groups and in making speeches.

The change in the semester arrangement will cause the tryouts for the varsity squad to come earlier this year. However, there will be an added advantage after Christmas when there will be no examinations to interfere with preparation for the first tournaments. The varsity squad, of course, is chosen from the class; last year eighteen were selected and the number will probably be around that again this season.

The National Pi Kappa Delta debate question which is the one used by the local group during the year and which is usually used in tryouts will not be announced until around the first of December. Until that time various other topics of current interest will take its place.

Last year's squad had a satisfactory season, attending all six tournaments including Men and Women's Smoky Mountain meets, State Tournament (where they won the state championship), the Provincial Tournament of the Southeast at Montevallo, Alabama, and the Grand Eastern at Rock Hill, South Carolina.

Seventeen New Choir Members

All Soprano Singers Are Tennesseans

Following tryouts for the first of the week, Professor Ralph R. Colbert announced the selection of 17 new choir members. The size of the Maryville College choir now stands at forty-five members. For the most part they come from many different states. However, an unusual fact in this connection this year is that all nine of the sopranos are Tennesseans. In addition there are only eight of the seventeen who are freshmen; the sophomores number eight; and there is one junior, a transfer student.

Wick Speaks at YW

The program of the YWCA tomorrow at 1:30 in the Y rooms will be given by the officers of the YM. Hilton Wick will speak on "The Silence is Deafening" as the main feature, and the other officers will present the rest of the program. All freshman girls are urged to attend.

Maryville May Have CAA Quota Again Next Spring

Ten Maryville College Pilots Are Now In Army Or Navy

Earlier this summer it was felt that many schools, previously assigned CAA quotas, would not be re-assigned them this fall because of the need for retrenchment. At this time, too, it was thought perhaps, that Maryville College would not be assigned one. On Wednesday, September 10, a letter from the Regional Office in Atlanta said definitely that Maryville would not have a quota this fall. Dr. E. R. Hunter, Dean of Curriculum, said that the college was hoping that it might be possible, however, to have a quota in the spring.

The record of the Maryville branch of the CAA under the direction of Miss Louise Carson, has been exceptionally high. Of the 32 people who have received pilot's licenses, ten are now serving in either the army or the navy. Five others have tried but have been rejected only because of some small physical defect.

Out of the CAA class of 1941, Clement Hahn, Bob Ballinger, and J. D. Hughes are in the Navy Air Corps, and Douglas Steakley and James Stewart in the army. Steakley is in Randolph Field, Texas. Of the class of 1940, Bill Baird is in the navy and Herschel Pyle in the army.

Disc Club Will Expand Program

Supper Concerts Of Light Classical Music To Be Inaugurated

At the first meeting of the Disc club committee at Miss Davies' home on Tuesday night, two new ideas were presented and adopted. The one which all students will be interested in is the new supper concerts for Wednesday nights. The programs will appear in the ECHO the week before they will be played; they will also be posted in the lobby of Pearsons hall on Wednesday nights. The concerts (from records, of course) will be light-classical in nature. The concert next Wednesday will be made up of Strauss waltzes. Future concerts will include the music of Rudolph Friml, Victor Herbert, Stephen Foster, Ferdi Grofe, Gilbert and Sullivan, and many other favorite composers.

The other innovation grew out of the students' increasing demands for more listening time. The Disc club realized this need and persuaded the music department to turn Miss Cowen's old studio into a Music Lovers' Room. This room will be provided with recording equipment, but the records must be drawn from the music librarian, Johnnie Sue Long, in the same

Honor Roll Headed By Snell

Rawlings and Trotter Also Rank High

Standing at the head of the honor roll for last semester was Fred Snell, present senior, with a straight A average, and Helen Rawlings, who is a junior this year, with a tally of 8.6. One freshman and four seniors also had averages above 8. The freshman, Jane Trotter, turned in an 8.1 average. Among the seniors, Edna Manrose and Katherine Ogilvie each had an average of 8.5, while Warren Corbett scored 8.2, and Bob Short, 8.4.

Altogether, there were 139 students who "made" the honor roll. Roughly speaking, this number of students was about 17 percent of the student body last year. The senior class, having 60, led in the number on the list; the juniors followed with 31; next came the sophomores with 26, and finally the freshmen with 22.

Has Many Speaking Engagements Here In This Area

President Lloyd has been in Tennessee throughout the summer except for a week spent in Chicago at his mother's home and two or three trips of two and three days each for speaking or other appointments. He has conducted the radio vespers every Sunday except three.

In June there were young people's conferences and synod meetings on the campus for three days. Dr. Lloyd gave the vesper addresses during five days of one of the young people's conferences and was in charge of the program at the joint meetings of the Presbyterian Synods of Tennessee, Alabama, and Mississippi and the women's Synodical Societies of the same synods, held on the campus from June 17 to 20. He attended also part of the international convention of the Kiwanis Clubs of the United States and Canada held at Atlanta, attended a meeting of the Board of Directors of the YMCA of the Southern area held at Blue Ridge, N.C. As secretary, he attended a two-day meeting of the Conference of Church-Related Colleges of the Southeast in Asheville, being responsible for general arrangements, and was also one of a group of about fifty educators of the South who participated in a two-week Work Conference of Higher Education at the University of the South (Sewanee) in July. This Work Conference made a study of the possibilities of higher education in the south. Its expenses were borne by the General Education Board of the Rockefeller Foundation.

Dr. Lloyd's speaking appointments, in addition to the radio addresses, included addresses at the Pineville and Berea, Kentucky, Kiwanis clubs, the Knoxville Rotary club, the Second Presbyterian Church and the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church in Knoxville, the Mt. Auburn Presbyterian Church in Cincinnati, community union church services in Maryville, the commun-

Dr. Case Conducts Radio Vespers Sunday Afternoon

Choir Not To Take Part For Few Weeks; Broadcast Over WROL

In the absence of Dr. Ralph W. Lloyd, Dr. Ralph T. Case will conduct the regular Sunday afternoon radio vespers program scheduled for 4:15, Sunday, September 14.

The radio vespers have grown to be a popular part of Maryville life since their instigation last semester. President Lloyd has conducted these services in the past, and it is planned for him to continue to do so in the future so long as he is not prevented, by duties of office, from being on hand at the scheduled hour.

Announcing for the college station on tomorrow's program will be Vernon Lloyd, honor graduate of the June class of '41. The choir will not participate in the first few radio vesper programs this semester until the new members are sufficiently orientated and can perform with a reasonable amount of ease and perfection.

There has been some talk of shifting the hour of presentation of these programs from 4:00 to 4:30 instead of last semester's schedule of 4:30 to 5:00 p.m. No definite decision has yet been reached by the Knoxville City Council regarding the matter, and any plans proposed by station WROL are merely tentative.

M-C Men High In Sophomore Test

Students Are Above Median In English And Science Exams

Maryville's temporary standing in comparison with the national norms of those colleges giving the National Sophomore Cooperative Examinations was printed in the Echo late last spring. At that time, however, all colleges had not reported. The following figures and statistics show Maryville's standing among the other colleges after all results were in.

In the contemporary affairs test, Maryville men did exceedingly well. On the basis of national results, ranked in the sixty-fourth percentile. The national average for all sophomores taking this test was 73; Maryville men averaged 87. Maryville women, however, turned in a different record; in fact, they fell below the national average. They ranked in the 37th percentile and averaged only 63.

In both the other examinations, Maryville students exceeded the national average. The national general science test average was 49, but Maryville sophomores scored 56, and ranked in the sixty-second national percentile. Maryville percentile rank in English was also the 62nd percentile; the national average in English was 58.3; Maryville's 61.

Chatterbox To Be Opened Soon Under YM & YW Joint Control

Chatterbox Moved From Original Site To Center Campus

HOURS ANNOUNCED

Helen Cone Manages Store; Will Have Several Assistants

President Lloyd this week made the following statement to a representative of the Highland Echo.

A joint YWCA-YMCA store will be opened in the Chatterbox on the campus as soon as the building is ready and the store organization perfected. This should be within a few days.

The Chatterbox, its contents and the lot on which it has stood near the northeast entrance to the campus for the past two or three years was purchased by the College during the summer vacation. This action was first announced by the College through its August bulletin sent to all students.

A few days before the opening of college the Rowe Transfer Company of Knoxville jacked the building up, backed a large moving trailer under it, hauled it up the road beside the golf course and across the campus behind Pearsons and set it down on temporary supports between Baldwin and Pearsons halls. Since then the College has had workmen busy laying a concrete and brick foundation, remodeling and refurnishing the building, and making connections for gas, water, and electricity in preparation for use as a "Y" store.

Ownership of the building and present equipment rests in the College, but responsibility for the operation of the store under the plan being developed will be in the YW and YMCA. It has seemed best both to the College and to the YM and YW to combine the two stores into one, which will be operated under a business plan carefully worked out by a faculty-student committee. Details of the organization and operation will be announced when fully developed. The store will be conducted basically as a refreshment center, not as a restaurant.

The location between Baldwin and Pearsons was selected partly for architectural reasons and partly for utilitarian reasons. The College's architects favored this location since a small frame building such as the Chatterbox would be architecturally incongruous on most parts of the campus. But centering with Baldwin, also a frame building, it is not out of proportion. Also experience through the years has indicated that the best store locations are near the dining hall.

The cost of purchasing, moving, and conditioning the Chatterbox has been considerable. The bulk of the expense is being borne by the College, but contributions to it have been made by the YWCA and YMCA, by Mrs. Walker, who is interested in making it both useful and attractive, and by certain other interested persons.

Musical Composer Pays Visit To College Campus

The history of the Maryville College Alma Mater is an interesting one. The words were written by John Woodside Ritchie of the class of 1898 shortly before his graduation. He took as his theme of course the College as the Alma Mater, but in the words speaks also of the Chilhowee mountains, which are the first of the ranges we see as we look toward the Smokies, and of the large number of cedars that then grew on the campus, most of which are now gone.

Dr. Ritchie, as he is now called, continued his study at the University of Chicago, came back to Maryville as the first teacher of biology and served on the faculty for two years, 1898 to 1901. Later he taught in the Philippines and at William and Mary College, Virginia, and for many years now has been book editor for the World Book Company. He is the author of various textbooks and the editor of many others. He visited Maryville at commencement time in 1936 when the College conferred upon him the honorary degree of Doctor of Humane Letters.

The music was written by Miss Leila M. Perine, now Mrs. William L. Sawtelle, of Scranton, Pa. The name is listed of course, as Leila Perine. She was instructor in piano and organ at Maryville College from 1897 to 1899, having come from Syracuse University where she had graduated. She called upon Dr. R. W. Lloyd at the College a few weeks ago while she was on trip into Tennessee. She told him that the words had been written by John Ritchie, then a student, and that the glee club which was going to sing in another town, wished some music to which to sing these words. She says she wrote the music, taking as a general basis the Alma Mater of Cornell University. She quoted one of the tenors in the glee club of that day saying, "Please give me a good tenor part so I can be heard." Mrs. Sawtelle's husband, who died in 1926 was a Presbyterian minister and for ten years before his death, pastor of the large First Presbyterian Church in Scranton.

The music of the Alma Mater was some years later revised by Professor E. W. Hall, who from 1912 to 1914 was choirster and instructor in

Bainonian Begins Military Rush

Freshmen! Have you received your questionnaire? Notices are being issued to all freshmen and transfer girls. Call for your questionnaire on Monday at your local Bainonian Draft Board. Failure to report to your draft board will mean the loss of a lot of fun. For maneuvers begin at 4:00 on Tuesday afternoon. Be sure your knapsack contains that tin cup!

Camp Bainonian will hold a preview of the new winter fashions on Wednesday night at 7:30 in the Bartlett Parade Ground. (Mess served on the ground.) See what the best-dressed draftee will wear during the coming year. Are you chic? Is your uniform up-to-date? Learn from your superior officers.

Draftees! Draftees! Now is your chance! Come to Bainonian Service Club in the alumni gym. The U.S.O. is offering entertainment from among the camp celebrities. Delicious food will be served—with flags on top. Be sure to wear your dress uniforms. And remember—in the army, the person who is punctual gets ahead!

YM to Hear Hamilton

Dr. Robert B. Hamilton, of the Fourth Presbyterian church in Knoxville, will speak at the Sunday afternoon YMCA service at 1:30. The subject of his talk has not yet been announced. The officers of the YM urge the attendance of all freshmen.

"Gee How We Have Grown" —So Has Dr. Briggs

Mention was made in last week's Echo of the increased size of the paper this year, a fact that upperclassmen no doubt noticed before reading about it. There should be a reason for this change—and there is. In keeping with everything else during this hectic war period, paper prices have mounted with little or no concern for the feelings of the Highland Echo. Consequently, the Echo this year takes a price jump of five dollars per issue, meaning at least one hundred and fifty dollars more per year. But it's still an ill wind that blows no one any good, for, with the rise in price, it has been possible to increase the size of the paper to seven columns (for the same amount). Technically speaking, that eighty more inches. This extra column on each page will serve the double purpose of carrying far more advertisements, which will partially cover the increased publishing price, and slightly increasing space for ordinary Echo material.

Speaking of a changing Echo, we rambled through the Echo files the other day. In fact we started with Volume I, number 1. We were supposed to be looking for statistical material—and we found it, but there were other things more interesting. After we conscientiously discharged our statistical duties, we'll come back to those "other things".

This first issue of the Echo, edited by J. C. Walker and managed from the business end by Pat Quinn, came out on November 4, 1915. It was a small, five-column paper, having a total space of 680 square inches. We looked with interest at the arrangement and content of the paper. Like the Echo today, the third page was evidently intended as a sports page, but the third page of this particular issue was entirely insufficient for the stupendous news that Maryville had really kicked the pigskin around and had defeated Chattanooga, 13-0. At least one-half of the front page was devoted to this colossal achievement, an editorial was written about it, and even the special column was

Miss Davies Adventures Out West Intrigued By Historic Sites

"Out West" was the vacationland of Miss Katharine Davies, Professor of Music, this summer. Miss Davies left Maryville on June 18. Her first stop was at Chicago for study with Louise Robyn at the American Conservatory of Music. Next Miss Davies journeyed to Salt Lake City, Utah, her former home. It was here that she hard the Salt Lake Tabernacle organ which is one of the largest in the world and which broadcasts each Sunday morning.

There are two famous national parks in Utah, Bryce National Park and Zion National Park. At the former Miss Davies and her party were met at the gate by Ed Ballenger, a Maryville student, who presented them with complimentary passes to the park. The second, Zion National Park, was approached by the very new and unique Mt. Carmel highway. This highway is indescribably scenic and has numerous tunnels which cut through the mountains. Formerly Zion Park was a favorite haunt of the Indians.

Boulder Dam was one of the sights which impressed Miss Davies most. She described it as "a most remarkable achievement in modern engineering" and also "the hottest spot in the U.S.A."

A town typical of the Easterners' picture of the West is Las Vegas, a "wide-open" Nevada town and a true part of the wild and wooly West. Miss Davies informs us that the average street corner has a marriage bureau on it where people can be divorced and married easily and painlessly. It was here that Judy Garland and Dave Rose were married this summer.

At San Diego preparations for war were in full swing in the aviation department. In an apartment above, the harbor planes could be seen landing at the airbase every few minutes. Also to be seen in this busy city were the Navy activities.

From San Diego Miss Davies traveled to Los Angeles. Here she visited the famous Forest Lawn Cemetery in the chapel of which is the famous stained glass reproduction of the "Last Supper". It was

There've Been Some Changes Made

Some vaguely inspired writer of popular songs went to great lengths to inform the waiting public that important changes were forthcoming. He must have started the officials of the college planning and thinking, because all you have to do is to glance at the campus and you can see, if you are at all familiar with the landscape as it was last spring, that everything just isn't like it used to be. Not only have the outward appearances of the college changed, but management, personnel, locations, and all sorts of important aspects are different this year.

For instance, one of the most noticeable changes, to us, is the student body itself. It seems a little hard to believe even yet, that an entirely new group of personalities is here, partially taking the place of the older group upon which we had learned to depend. In all probability we depended on that group to a much too great extent; and in adjusting ourselves to this new situation, we've got to wake up—and grow up.

Next to the student body, the changes on the general campus, as before mentioned, seemed quite outstanding. We could go on for hours about how much better the appearance of the general campus is, but that seems unnecessary. The results speak so ably for themselves.

Were you as surprised as we were to see the Chatterbox turn up in the unexpected position it now holds? What with all the little bunches of bricks and mortar and sand and lumber and tar and tools that were at first heaped about in great profusion, the change seemed almost too conspicuous. But now that the workers have things under control, it's beginning to look more like home. It won't be long before the final arrangements will be taken care of, and the Chatterbox will be open to patrons of its arts.

It would be almost impossible to mention some of the changes that have been made at the college without giving due consideration to those concerning rules. There seem to have been several important adjustments made, one in particular affecting the entire student body. That is, the new cut system. You undoubtedly have discussed this system, and have heard it discussed pro and con. Most of the comments we have heard have been con. It naturally seems unhandy at first, and perhaps even a little unpleasant; but could you honestly say that it's unfair? Of course not.

Another change of rules has to do more specifically with the students at Pearsons hall: it allows radios during study hour. Can you imagine anything quite so blissful?

But for the most breath-taking change of all, we suggest the enlargement of the Echo. For the details of this, we heartily recommend that you consult your weekly newspaper.

As I See It

By JANET LINDSAY

"The American college student must play a vital role in our defense efforts. His attitude toward peacetime conscription and the totalitarian menace to civilizations is acutely important . . ." "What college men have told me, what I have learned from their conversations, and what I have gleaned from their student publications and organizations, have left me convinced that a large proportion of American college men face th brutal facts of today's world without realism. They live in a dream-world of escape formulae, self-centered in little greeds and shallow cynicisms. One looks among them for the enthusiasm and generous dedications associated with youth and occasionally one finds these things . . . But more often one finds a caluculating, haggling mentality."

Such is the substance of an article written in a recent magazine concerning conscription on the campus. The author, a college professor himself, goes on to point out that the American college student is shirking his responsibility to the government. He cites many examples of the collegiate attitude toward the draft as being—don't send me, send the CCC boys, the unemployed, but not the college students.

In answer to the article Garth S. Kennington, a 1940 graduate of the University of Wyoming defends the position of the student by asking the question, "Is the American college man a coddled larva, safe in his university cocoon, feeding on nothing but dreams, afraid to burst the covering of escape formulas, greed and unrealism?" and then proceeds to answer it by indicating that such accusations are false. He points out that many college men in the United States work either partially or wholly their way through college; many of them work before attending college and during summer vacations at back-breaking jobs. Mr. Kennington maintains furthermore that if American youth is not prepared to meet the present emergency it is not their fault but rather the fault of the training they have received from the very ones who accuse them So argument goes on.

Nevertheless prepared or unprepared hundreds of college students throughout the country instead of returning to "ivy-covered halls and football gridirons" are facing a sentence in an army camp.

An interesting sideline on the effect of the draft includes the fact that in 1941 is a banner year for the marriage bureaus . . . in the first half of the year in New York City more marriage licenses were issued than in any other year recorded, including 1917.

Maryville has had its share of students "caught in the draft." Although there are no official figures available on the subject, at least two would-be seniors did not return because Uncle Sam wanted them elsewhere; likewise several underclassmen were affected. In a less direct sense, the male enrollment was decreased by the Selective Service Act in that the jobs left vacant by draftees provide excellent opportunities for college-age men. In a certain respect a college degree is not as essential to the obtaining of a good job as it once was. And who can blame a man for not returning to college when he can earn fifty dollars a week—

There seems to be one major fallacy in the whole set-up in regard to the matter of deferment. In some cases the very fact that a person goes to college seems to be cause for deferment, some boards defer only pre-medical students while others seemingly refuse to defer ANY students. Certainly in a country with such high education standards as this country prides itself on, there is something wrong. General Hershey has suggested that the local boards consider carefully the appeals of college students but many boards have ignored his suggestion. In any event, the lack of uniformity throughout th ecountry should be remedied. Naturally those of us who realize the value of a college education believe that some sort of system should be evolved whereby students could continue their education. A vacation (?) for one year did not so seriously handicap the continuity of one's education, but a lapse of two and one-half years and maybe longer makes the task of beginning where one left off considerably harder.

Old Spice

By JEAN BARNES

It was quite a cute sign someone thoughtfully tacked on Miss Ware's door, a picture of a beautiful faculty member returning in evening gown—carrying two shoes. And don't we all? Anyway, the faculty reception certainly was and looked charming, the sort of rainbow floating in and around to the tune of the Rhapsody in Blue, lovely ferns, no rain. And what a good reception room the library makes, minus tables, papers, and the tops of three hundred heads. Just a few chandeliers and powdered wigs and we'd be ready for George Washington. According to Mac, it looked like the punch method in progress. "Ouch!" "Well . . . look, this is so-and-so." "Oh, how DO you do?'

And speaking of lines, four years ought to bring us a degree as ladies-in-waiting. It's hard to decide which is worse, waiting one hour for a book that isn't in or two for a class that's full. Of course, Anderson can't offer a case of writing paper, college seals, and post cards with a lean-on-able railing thrown in extra. But, as Andy Richards said, "It only took me an hour from the water cooler," and that should afford plenty of time to get a really satisfactory drink of ice water for once, before reaching the Personnel office. Our artist soul longs to paint the facial expression as individual 433 joins the end of the line. We do wish we could summon a few laurel wreathes for Miss Lightfoot and Miss Dexter for excellence in patience.

A reasonable facsimile of the Associated Press has reported the following: Psychology classes have made a profound impression on certain of their-ah-inmates. Room 126 Carnegie is now open as a busy clinic. So pack your inferiority complex, dreams, and what have you and register in. . . . Misses Taylor and Brooks are planning a stupendous housewarming when they emerge from under their furnishings, everything from congas to cocktails, or should it be vice versa? The Four Hundred are invited—if they can all fit, of course. A certain Miss McConnell was rubbing her foot with rubbing alcohol the other day. The aforesaid Miss M. was observed to set the bottle down suddenly and get the hiccups. There must be some psychological term to cover the relationship; power of association or something.

Now that the Chatterbox is painted with black letters and assignments glare from the paper in the waste basket, there doesn't seem to be much to live for.

We wonder if the college could afford to publish a casualty list. It became rather dangerous playing Bid-for-a-Booth every afternoon. Do drug stores have to be so hospitable? And delicious? And air-conditioned?

There doesn't seem to be much progress or change anymore. In the spring a young man's fancy, so they say. In the summer ditto. And in the fall, well—as we just said, there doesn't seem to be etc. While we're on the subject, and who isn't? we might mention a new course. We hear Lawrence Stresbley has a popular course on marriage as the perfect aim, or love and leap. Enrollment fees are reasonable too.

And isn't it something to have two "Pat" Pattersons on the campus? Aside from minor differences on the blonde-brunette, male-female, freshman-junior angle, they're terribly alike.

Have you toured the circle drive yet? We figure maybe we have something to rival the three-times-around-the-deck constitutional. Try it twice around some rainy morning at six. Incidentally, some of the sunrises, if there is such a word, are worth seeing these days.

vocal and band music at Maryville College and later a minister in this territory until his death in 1940. He did a great deal to make the Alma Mater the most popular of all college songs. During the last year some further revisions in the music were made by Miss Dorothy Horne now Assistant Professor of Music in Maryville College.

On May 24, 1941, the Alma Mater was copyrighted under the title Alma Mater, listing the lyric composer as John Woodside Ritchie and the music composers as Leila Perine and E. W. Hall. Steps to having it copyrighted were handled by the Rev. James R. Smith, Public Relations Secretary of the College, for the immediate purpose of permitting the Alma Mater to be played and sung over the radio. The reason that it was not used last year was that the radio requires that there be a copyright if a composition be used.

entitled, "On the Gridiron". Business Manager Quinn, by the way, is today the circuit judge of this district, the fourth judicial circuit of Tennessee. During the last World War, he was a second lientenant in the A.E.F.

About those "other things"! The freshman class in that year of 1915 had a president, who was widely-known "on the football field where his good nature kept everything lively; in the classroom where he was a star, and in the debating circles where he was feared". The freshman class president had one vice, according to the earliest Echo: enjoyment", and he always gave a "good account of himself" in them. Want to meet this fellow? You'll find him in the present psychology department in Thaw hall. His name is David H. Briggs.

Dutifully returning to the boring field of statistics, we next looked for the first issue of a six-column paper, which was published on September 12, 1936, Volume 22, No. 1. And would you believe it? Just like a bad penny which always turns up—there was the name of D. H. Briggs staring us in the face. This time with a B.A., M.A., and Ph.D. plus several years of teaching experience at the University of North Carolina, University of Georgia, and the Florida State College for Women, he was coming back to Maryville as head of the psychology department. All of which has what to do with the changes in the size of the Echo? Nothing, nothing at all—but it is psychologically true, is it not, that people are more interesting than plain old statistical history?

The organization of this new combined Y store is separate from the YW and YM and will be supervised by an operating board composed of the presidents of the Y's and by one faculty member. Actual operation will be in the hands of a manager, an assistant manager, and two helpers all of whom are appointed by the faculty from names submitted by the presidents of the two student organziations. Any profits or deficits at the close of the year will be shared equally by both the YM and YW.

For the present, the hours of opening are as follows: 7:30 a.m. to 8:00 a.m., 12:10 p.m. to 12:20 p.m., 12:40 p.m. to 1:05 p.m., 3:00 p.m. to 4:30 p.m., 6:30 to 7:00 p.m. The store will carry much the same type of items as last year with some additions. At such times as may be specified by the faculty committee on student business management, the store may be opened after intercollegiate athletic games, and on Saturday night after general social events.

at the Cathay Circle theater in Hollywood that Miss Davies saw the much talked of "Fantasia". "The Stokowski-Disney idea of the Bach d Minor Prelude and Fugue was quite satisfactory, but the Beethoven 'Pastoral Symphony' was grotesque," said Miss Davies.

The chapel at Palo Alto of Stanford University Miss Davies credits with being one of the most beautiful college chapel. It is in memory of young Leland Stanford, who died in France at the age of 16. The walls are lined with Italian mosaics and inscriptions in stone chosen by Mrs. Stanford.

In San Francisco the usual visits to the bridges and to Chinatown were made. Enroute north there was a stop made at San Anselmo seminary and then through the great redwoods of California. Later, coming out of Portland, Oregon, came the picturesque Columbia River drive which is beyond a doubt one of the most scenic trips to be taken in the west. Its beauty is due in part to the huge waterfalls visible along the drive. At Bonneville Dam on the Columbia River the salmon day Evening Post was seen parallel with the boat locks. A most unusual sight was seen at Eugene, Oregon, where all the men in the town were wearing beards preparatory for a pageant, "Oregon Trail". The men called themselves the "whiskerlantes."

Next came a visit and a prolonged rest from travel at a ranch which lay west of the Glacier Park on Flathead Lake, the largest fresh water lake within the boundaries of the United States. Miss Davies tells us that the Glacier Park should be given a lengthy visit to afford opportunity to hike and ride from the highway to the many glaciers. The St. Mary's highway on the face of the mountain in the park itself is a marvel of road engineering, costing a million dollars a mile to construct. In Montana a trip was made to Fort Peck Dam, the largest earth filled dam in the world. This dam was constructed to control the flood waters of the Missouri River. Miss Davies reports that the North and South Dakota sections formerly included in the "dust bowl" are producing bumper crops this year.

At the conclusion of this very beautiful and interesting trip thru our United States, Miss Davies still feels that "East or West—Home is best!"

SNAG THOSE SABERTOOTHS...

One week from tonight our Orange and Garnet Frank Bucks have an engagement with those snarling Tigers from Hiwassee and we all hope they can bring 'em back alive—but just barely. This will be the initial test of our warriors in several ways. It will be their first game of a new season of supposed de-emphasis and rule changes. It will be the first grid encounter since their resignation from the Smoky Mountain Conference last December. And basically, it will be their first performance as a team—a smooth working unit made up of both old and new players striving together for a common cause—a lively, hard game with every player doing his best to win.

WORK, WORK, WORK...

If you don't think our boys are hard at work, take a stroll over to the practice field any day from three to six. Coach Honaker and Coach Davis are really pushing their boys—drilling fundamentals and play positions into them. Dummy scrimmage has begun and daily skull practices have started. Still, there is much work to be done in the coming week learning plays and stressing tackling, especially.

OLE MAN HARD LUCK...

The old man has so far spared us of many injuries. Kramer was forced to take the sidelines for a couple of days when his legs started playing tricks on him and wouldn't work anymore—he's back at work now. Too bad about Easter, the big freshman guard. He has strep throat and will be out for a while. We've been lucky so far, though, and hope the injury jinx misses our camp in the coming weeks.

WON'T BE LONG NOW...

'til we'll all be yelling Howee-how, Chilhowee, and the band will be swinging out on the Washington Post March. That football spirit that has been lying dormant in our veins throughout the spring and summer is beginning to creep out in all of its former ardor and zip. We're yet to feel that welcome chill and briskness of the air that goes with a football game but the idea of filling the stands with a happy and excited group of fans to witness a hard-fought fray is thrilling—to say the least. Incidentally, we'd like to stick in a plug for our booster gang, pep committee, or whatever you call it. When asked how the band was shaping up this year, the much-quoted Colbert quoth "It's going to be loud." Unquote. But the cheerleaders are hard at work preparing for a loud and noisy season and there's evidently some new and interesting talent among the twirlers. We're all glad to have Virginia Beth back and we can expect great things of our "batoneers." There's absolutely no reason why we can't, with four or five good twirlers, an improved band, and a string of active cheerleaders, do our part in cooperating with them to give our fighting team that necessary spark this year.

HERE AND THERE...

Those intramural managers really work!... it seems the race for positions on the football team is about as hotly-contested as the one between the Cards and Dodgers... did you see one of our coaches clad in shorts tinkering with his Chevvy lately?... did you ever stop to think how the Vols escaped the draft so completely—they've got over four complete teams ... the Army feels quite confident that they'll still want Joe Louis after the cosmic-punch Nova fight ... the tennis courts here have to ask for volunteers for their fixing up—and the use they are getting!!!

INTRAMURAL DOPE

The 1941-42 intramural athletic season will be off with the toot of a whistle next Tuesday afternoon at 3:30 on the touch football field behind the Alumni gym. Football is, chronologically, the first of the 20-odd sports on the intramural calendar; and last night marked the deadline for the entry of teams and eligibility lists.

The organization of leagues this year is the same as that of last year. The Club League is made up of teams from campus clubs and organizations. At the time of this writing, it is known that there are an Athenian team, an Alpha Sig team, and a Ministerial team in that league. Others will show up. The Independent League is composed of teams drummed up by free-lance managers and entered under any assumed name. The big-shot Independents seem to be Art Rowan's squad, which, incidentally, includes the captain of last year's championship team, Leroy McGaha. It's a fair guess, however, that Rowan will have something to worry about in the two all-freshman teams organized by frosh Joe Fowler and Bill May. In this league, too, others will show up.

During the season each team plays only the other teams in its own league, and the rating is made according to the percentage of games won or lost. A play-off between the winners of each league decides the championship.

Scheduled games will begin at 3:30 Tuesday afternoon, September 16, and will continue on each Tuesday and Friday afternoons during the season, weather permitting. Printed schedules of the games will be posted, and announcements about them will be made.

To put the matter briefly, it will be worth any full-blooded guy's time to be hanging around the ball field Tuesday afternoon around 3:30.

TENNIS

Last Thursday afternoon Intramural Director Fischbach said a thing or two about the tennis tournament. It sounded something like this:

The entry list is to be signed by all who want to play in either the singles or the doubles bracket will be posted Wednesday of this next week, and will remain open for signatures until Friday afternoon. Important fact is that no one man may enter both the singles and doubles. He must sign for only one of the two brackets. Play will begin on the variety courts Monday afternoon, September 22. Entrants must have signed by Friday the 19th.

Some good news to bashful tennis players is that a consolation tournament will be run off among the losers in the first round of the regular tournament. Every fellow will play at least twice. So don't be shy; sign up.

List of Frosh Given This Week

In order that the students may become better acquainted with the freshmen it is the intention of the Echo to print, a few at a time, the names and addresses of the members of the freshman class. At a later date the names of transfer students will also be published.

Former Student Of College Now Naval Ensign

Special to the Echo

CHICAGO, Sept. 13—After three months of intensive study in the Naval Reserve Midshipmen's school at Abbott Hall, Northwestern University, James B. Lee, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe E. Lee of 1071 Monague road, Park Hills, Covington, Ky., was commissioned as Ensign in the U. S. Naval Reserve in a colorful ceremony here today. He expects to be called to active duty aboard one of Uncle Sam's men-o'-war.

Lee was one of a class of 680 who received their commissions. Under the tutelage of naval officers of long experience, all these youths have qualified as deck officers. They hail from 42 states of the union.

Yell Leaders Hold First Tryouts

Squad Headed By Sweeney; Perry And Lynt Return

Preliminary tryouts for cheerleaders were held Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons on the football field under the supervision of Bill Sweeney, head cheerleader in charge. The cheerleading situation is more acute this year than it has been in the past because two members of last year's squad failed to return to school, and a third member found it impossible to come out. Mary Lou Holmes, freshman girl leader of last year, and Nan Wood, sophomore of last year are the two not returning. Bob Mair, a junior this year, finds that his schedule will not permit him to participate actively as a leader of cheers.

Those members of last year's squad who reported for the preliminary test were Bill Sweeney, junior; Norma Perry, junior; and Ben Lynt, sophomore. Ann Hunter Wright, sophomore from Florida, tried out for the first time.

The freshmen candidates are: girls, Jean Huddleston, Ann Jones, and Beverly Jackson; boys, "Icky" Hardin and two other unidentified freshmen.

The squad has to work hard, receives no recognition, and no thanks. They are taken on one trip a year—this year to East Tennessee State Teachers college. The work is really strenuous, though it may not appear so.

Theta Epsilon Receives Gavel

Tonight at its formal opening Theta Epsilon will be presented with a solid ivory gavel, the gift of Mr. Fred Hope, alumnus of Maryville and Alpha Sigma and for 30 years missionary in Cameroon, West Africa.

Mr. Hope brought the gavel back from Africa, when he returned to the United States last May. When Margaret Ash, past Theta secretary, asked Mr. Hope to purchase such a gavel for her as her gift to the society, Mr. Hope insisted as an alumnus of Alpha Sigma that the gavel be his gift to the sister society.

Margaret will formally present the gavel to Mary Felknor, Theta president, who will at the end of her official term present it to the next president. This act will carry on the society's tradition of the presentation of the gavel to each in-coming president, but supplanting the old oak gavel with the new and very valuable ivory one.

Favorable Weather, Lack of Injuries, Eagerness of Gridders to Play Ball Result in Hard Practices All Week

Highlander Forward Wall to Be Strong At Guard and End Spots

BACKS PASS, PUNT

Oliver Spears Triple Threat Man Displays Accuracy With Throws

Hot but favorable weather has made hard practices and try-outs the order of the day out on the football field. There's no question that the Scotties are lacking in experience this year. But what they lack in experience, they're trying awfully hard to overcome with downright stubbornness and fight. Every gridder out there is showing quite a bit of that well-known intestinal fortitude. Our backfield has been drilling extensively on passes and punts this week.

The team will feel the loss of Bob Miller, a potential backfield threat, who decided to give the intramural teams a break with his talents. Ollie Spears, popular halfback, has returned from his Florida trip now and is working out hard every day getting into shape. Already he's showing his customary flawless passing and kicking. Taylor has been accurate with his passes and punts also. Cloninger, ruddy line-smasher, continues to show power, as do Graham and Morton. Burris, Brand, and Bayless may develop into a clicking three B combine for the Highlanders in the backfield. One hundred fifty-five pound Sam Lattimore, the stockyk Madisonville Marvel, is proving his worth as an up-and-coming triple-threat man.

The line has been working out strenuously under the tutelage of Coach Davis. This novice was impressed with the way big "Mitch" his that tackling dummy. Mack Wilson, rugged reserve guard, is showing marked improvement and fire in his position. Jim Garvin and 152-lb. Bill Wagner are both looking good at the guard positions. The latter seems to have plenty of drive for such a light lineman. Walt Proffitt, 185-lb. Alcoa boy, is going to be another tough guard. Chambers, a big 6-foot-4-inch, 200 pound tackle, will help the brawn problem on the line. Richards, Edwards, Murr, Herzberger, Hooker and Breazeale are all looking better in the center of the line.

We may be safe in numbers at the end positions. Shelfer, Rock, Bennett, Webb, Talbott, Long, Wiley and Pepper have all been on the snagging end of Spears' and Lattimore's heaves.

Pieces Added As Band Holds Year's First Rehearsals

New Twirlers Will Provide Color At Gridiron Contests

Professor Ralph Colbert promises us the best band we have had in a number of years. Despite the fact that over one-third of the band are new members, it is much better balanced, and three new twirlers along with Polly Parks should give plenty of action out in front. In the twirling division appearing for the first time are Robert Solomon and Lucia Moore, a vivacious little freshman from Greeneville, Tenn.; Miss Virginia Beth Sperry, a sophomore, is returning after a year's absence.

Last Tuesday evening Dean Stiles and Mae Persing were elected president and secretary respectively, and the sponsor who was chosen will be announced at the first pep meeting. At that time Mr. Colbert announced that the band would go to Johnson City for the game with East Tennessee Teachers. The one and only worry of Mr. Colbert in regard to the band is that drum major Dud Moore is more than likely to be called to the army in the near future.

There are forty-eight members in the band this year, making a definite increase over last, and fifteen new horns have been ordered. Besides the athletic events, they will play at the sunrise service Easter morning, and will give a concert some time next spring.

Ministerials Have First Meeting Thursday Night

The first get-together meeting of the Ministerial society was held at 6:45 Thursday evening in the YW rooms. President Allan Moore greeted the newcomers and extended a hearty invitation to them to consider seriously the matter of membership, after explaining the purposes and principles of the organization. About forty men were present. Of this number, twenty were new men.

Light refreshments were served, and a period of real fellowship followed the short business meeting.

D.A.R. Officials Visit Maryville Campus Thursday

President-General National D.A.R. Visits Miss Henry

On Thursday Maryville was honored by a visit from Mrs. O. D. Heavenrich who is the Michigan State Regent of The Daughters of the American Revolution; Miss Harriet Simons, National Chairman of Approved Schools in Michigan; Mrs. Charles Mooney, State Corresponding Secretary of the Michigan DAR; and Miss Karolina Fox, Michigan State Historian of the DAR. While at Maryville the guests were shown around the campus and entertained by Anne Gammon and Hilton Wick. They have been touring the country and stopped to visit Maryville enroute to Michigan. Maryville is, and has been since it originated, on the list of colleges and universities approved by the DAR.

The Daughters of the American Revolution have always shown a great interest in the progress of Maryville. This summer Mrs. W. H. Pouch of NYC, who is the President-General of the DAR, the highest ranking officer in the organization, spent a short time on the campus. She was accompanied by Mrs. Heaton of Miss., the National Chairman of the Children of the Revolution.

Lois Wilson To Address Vols On Work In Syria

Miss Lois Wilson, daughter of President-emeritus Samuel Tyndale Wilson, will address the Student Volunteer group Sunday evening at 8:00 in the YW rooms, on the general topic of the work in Syria. Miss Wilson has been amissionary to Syria for a number of years, representing the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions there. This will be the second meeting of the Student Vol group this year with the new cabinet in charge.

The first cabinet meeting of the organization was held Wednesday afternoon in Pearsons hall with Lucille Lynch, new president, presiding. Plans for the year were discussed; it was decided that emphasis this year would be placed on prayer for foreign missions, concentrating on a new field each month.

Distribution of funds, and a project with that in mind were discussed, but no action was taken. A picnic, to be held sometime in October, was suggested as the outdoor meeting for this semester. The meeting was closed with prayer.

manner one would borrow books from the library. Every student, by this new plan, will be able to listen to good music each day from four to five in the Music Lovers' Room.

What the Disc club ultimately hopes to do, however, is to acquire a library of its own. It hopes to stimulate enough interest in better music to convince the Carnegie Foundation that our campus deserves the Carnegie Music Set. This set is granted by the Foundation on the basis of need and interest. It is a collection of records valued at over one thousand dollars and includes the finest equipment for playing the records.

One way of showing interest in these plans is to appear at the first meeting of the Disc club, Thursday evening, September 18, at 6:30, at which time a petition will be signed to present to the Carnegie Foundation. The opening program with the sponsor, Miss Cowen, as commentator, will be a variety program designed to please all.

It will include the Nutcracker Suite by Tschaikowsky; Liebestod by Wagner; and the Schwanda Polka by Weinberger.

The Disc club committee is composed of Ruth Sutherlin, chairman, Helen Rawlings, Cliff Poole, and Gabriel Williamson.

AUDIT COMMITTEE ORGANIZED HERE

In an effort to assist in the correlation of record-keeping methods of student organizations, the Faculty Committee of Auditors for Student Organizations and Publications has been organized and enlarged to seven members as the Faculty Committee on Student Business Management. Members of the committee are C. J. Henry, chairman, L. A. Black, J. A. Gates, F. A. Griffitts, E. R. Walker, P. F. Wendt, and L. L. Williams.

Two will at regular intervals audit the books, as in the past. Each of the five added members will act as counselor for a small group of organizations related in purpose. His function will be to work out with student officers a clear, uniform system of record-keeping and to advise them at any time on business matters.

Lloyd's Summer...

ity Independence Day exercises in Madisonville, and others.

During the last few days President Lloyd's speaking appointments included: Sunday morning at Graystone Presbyterian church, Knoxville; Sunday afternoon, the radio vespers; Tuesday night at Shannondale Presbyterian church where President Lloyd preached the sermon and Dr. Stevenson gave the charge to the people at the installation of the Rev. Edward F. Dalstrom as pastor there; Wednesday night, an address in Knoxville before the annual Conference of the Tennessee Bankers Association.

These activities, in addition to the full program of administrative work, made the summer vacation busy months.

Andrew Maisano Addresses International Relations Club To Be Held Monday Evening

Student Present In Norwegian Battle Last Year

GUNFIRE AT NARVIK

Will Relate Graphic War Experience Before Group

Andrew Maisano, freshman from Wilmington, Delaware, who has personally experienced the full fury of the present European war in the Battle of Narvik, will be the speaker at the first meeting of the International Relations Club, held this Monday evening at 6:45 in Bartlett auditorium.

(ED. NOTE: The following article was taken from the Friday issue of the Knoxville News-Sentinel).

Torpedoes churned the water and machine gun bullets spattered around as Andy Maisano of Wilmington, Del., and another seaman swam for shore at Narvik.

Maisano, entering Maryville College as a freshman two years later than he had expected, told something of his experiences.

He got a job on a Norwegian freighter which he thought would bring a cargo of sugar from Cuba to Philadelphia. Instead, it went to Norway. Then the freighter went after a cargo of manganese which was being taken to Norway.

Caught In Cross-Fire

Caught in cross-fire at Narvik, the ship sank. Maisano and others started ashore in a lifeboat, which was struck by a shell. In a "fiery atmosphere," Maisano swam to shore where Germans questioned him.

"I had lost my passport, but my birth certificate had fallen into my pajama pocket," said Maisano. "I was able to convince them that I was an American, and, with the help of an American foreign correspondent, I was released. The birth certificate may have saved my life."

Maisano, with only five flesh wounds, said he made his way thru Sweden, Russia, Japan, Shainghai, and to the Philippines. He said he was glad to reach America again.

He said civic clubs for 200 miles around Wilmington had called on him for talks on his experiences.

Orchestra Plans Year's Activities

The Maryville college symphony orchestra has been organized with the following personnel: violins—Katherine Crews, Bob Calvesbert, Harold Eakes, Estelle Farrow, Ermina Fisher, Ted Kidder, Frances Lane, Helen Rawlings, Jessie Reed, Willa Reed, and Lenore Wise; cellos—Helen Cone, Lois Graf, and Bina Ruth Brown; trumpets—William Hargraves, and Bob Francis; clarinets—Phil Vance and Richard Hobart; flute—Claire Messner; horns—Nettie Rose Spraker; trombone—Mae Persing; bass—Carl Miller.

The orchestra promises to be one of the best Maryville has ever had. Plans for a big year are under discussion.

It has been announced by Prof. Ralph R. Colbert that there are in the music department two musical instruments, a bass violin and a cello, which are not in use at present. Any students who would be interested in playing either of these instruments are required to see Professor Colbert to make arrangements for their use.

Presbytery Meets

Union Presbytery held its annual fall meeting at the Fort Sanders Church in Knoxville on Wednesday, September 17. Those attending from Maryville College were President Ralph W. Lloyd, Dr. H. E. Orr, Dr. Ralph Case, Dr. John Gates, Mr. R. J. Dollenmayer, and Mr. Louis Black.

VOLS HEAR DEFOREST

Frank DeForest will address the Student Volunteers at 8:00 in the YW rooms Sunday night. He will speak on Alaska, where he has done missionary work. The program is in charge of Marion Avakian.

Sweeney, Perry, Preston and Lynt Are Cheerleaders

Pascoe And Boyd, Frosh Leaders, Also Chosen at Pep Rally

As a result of the election held at the first big pre-game pep meeting (without a band) Thursday evening, this year's squad of cheerleaders will be Bill Sweeney, Norma Perry, Merideth Preston, and Ben

BILL SWEENEY

Lynt, upperclassmen; Ellen Pascoe and Lester Boyd, freshmen.

Bill Sweeney will head the squad for the second year, adding this to his many other duties, one of which is editing the Chilhowean. It was his enthusiasm and hard work which kept the squad together last year when illness and sprained ankles threatened to disband it.

Debate Tryouts Set For Late November

Thirty-one members attended the meeting of the varsity debate class last Tuesday night, but there is still room for more people who are interested in this work. Since the first semester ends earlier this year, the tryouts for the varsity debate squad will be held sometime in the last part of November. The national Pi Kappa Delta question, as previously announced, will not be out until the first of December, so the tryouts will be on some question chosen by the class. This topic will probably be chosen at the next meeting and will be on some subject of social, economic or political interest.

The general work of the class this semester will include study of the various magazines and newspapers, and giving speeches.

Chilhowean Opens Subscription Drive

Two important announcements concerning the 1942 Chilhowean have been disclosed this week. One is the opening of the subscription campaign, which will begin next week, when the first payment for the year book will be received by any member of the business staff. The other is a plea to all seniors to have their pictures in to the Chilhowean office before the deadline, September 26. New snaps and reprints alike are to be 3 1-2 inches by 5 inches, glossy print, and can be secured at any studio.

Mondays And Thursdays For Various Meetings

A word now near the beginning of the school year may prove to be helpful in keeping a clear and an accurate calendar of events, both academic and social. Here are a few simple directions:

1. All affairs of general interest are to be scheduled in Dr. Hunter's office. These include all athletic events, oratorical contests, debates, Artists Series, and other programs that are for the entire school.

2. All purely social group activities should be scheduled in Mrs. Snyder's office. These include all parties, picnics, banquets, hikes, special suppers in the YW rooms or in the college woods, and the like. Also all programs attended by mixed groups should be scheduled. These include joint meetings of the societies of the YM and YW and other similar programs. In scheduling of these activities it is necessary to fill out an activities permit card stating time, place, and chaperon.

3. All schedules should be filled five days in advance of the event.

The authorized clubs meet according to a fixed schedule which is designed to conserve the time program of all concerned by confining club meetings to two evenings each week and still to make possible reasonable variety in club participation.

Club meetings are to be terminated in time so that those attending may be in their dormitories by 7:15. Generally this will mean that the meeting can extend from about 6:35 to 7:10. Permission for an occasional

Dr. Lloyd Explains New Cut System To Be Enforced

Allowed Number Absences Made More Stringent

The Summer Student-Bulletin, sent to new and returning students early in August, called attention to the fact that the Personnel office had been directed by the faculty to apply more carefully the absence regulations as stated in the published booklet "Standards and Requirements". The following paragraph is quoted from the Bulletin:

"It was the original purpose of the absence regulations to provide a certain allowance (section 23, paragraphs 2 and 3) to cover necessary absences of the usual nature, such as brief illnesses, necessary home visits, interviews about employment or graduate study, and the like. Only in cases of unusual misfortune, such as prolonged illness, or death in the immediate family, was it intended that adjustment be made (section 23, paragraph 5) for more than the allowed number of absences. Many students have developed the practice, however, of taking, without good reasons, the allowed number of absences, and then of expecting adjustments to be made for all other absences of varying degrees of necessity. In the future, a stricter application of these regulations will be made, and all students should see that the allowance is used only for absences that are actually necessary."

In further explanation the Personnel office states that excuses will not be issued by the heads of dormitories in the same manner as in previous years. Instead, a record will be kept in each dormitory of all absences due to illness or other emergency. In case a student should exceed the allowance in any class for unavoidable causes, an adjustment may be made at the Personnel office, provided such adjustment is applied for as soon as the student returns to classes, and provided also it can be shown by dormitory records that each of the previous absences was because of illness or other emergency. Out-of-town students rooming off the campus will report necessary absences to Mrs. Snyder or Mr. McCurry, as the case may be.

In the case of town students, statements from parents with regard to absences are to be filed immediately after each absence at the Personnel office, where they will be available for consideration later should an adjustment be requested.

In connection with the absence procedure, these points should be carefully noted: (1) All unnecessary absences are at the student's own risk; therefore, (2) no absences should be taken except because of illness or other emergency; (3) all necessary absences should be reported immediately to the head of the dormitory for record, or, in case of town students, to the Personnel office; (4) the Personnel office is instructed to make an adjustment only when it is applied for immediately upon return to classes.

As heretofore, absences above the allowance are penalized by a deduction of one-half semester hour of credit for each excess absence. This deduction is made from the student's total credit, and not from any particular course. A similar penalty is given for each class missed on the two days immediately preceding and following an announced holiday or vacation.

The regulations just described do not apply to "authorized" absences, that is, absences on authorized trips by athletic teams and other approved organizations, or other authorized services in the interest of the College.

Attention should be called to the fact that tardiness at classes or chapel is recorded as absence, unless the student makes proper excuse to the instructor or chapel monitor at the end of the period. Chapel attendance is recorded at the ringing of the second gong.

The absence regulations are based upon the principle that attendance at classes and other required exercises is important, and that no absence is justified except by necessity.

Phyllis Johns Announced Band Sponsor At The First Pre-Game Pep Meeting

PHYLLIS JOHNS

DUDLEY MOORE

First Appearance At Hiwassee Game Saturday Night

NEW BAND SPONSOR

Two Drum Majors And Three Twirlers Adds Color to Band

Climaxing the pep meeting Thursday night, Dudley Moore, master of ceremonies, introduced the band's selection for their sponsor to serve during the coming year. Phyllis Johns from Baltimore, Maryland, is the popular senior who is succeeding Jean McCammon. An attractive redhead majoring in psychology, Phyllis spent her first year of college at Flora McDonald College in North Carolina. Last year the juniors selected her as their class sponsor; she is also a member of the B. G.'s.

The new sponsor will make her first appearance with the band on Saturday afternoon when the band marches through town as is its usual custom and again Saturday night at the football game with Hiwassee College.

This year the band will present a more collegiate showing with additional twirlers and another drum major. Dudley Moore, a senior from Ohio, is back (for as long as the U.S. army sees fit) and will be assisted by Robert Solomon who is new this year. Polly Park, last year's twirler, Lucia Moore, a freshman from Greeneville, Tennessee, and Virginia Beth Sperry, who was here year before last, complete the trio of twirlers.

At the same election that the band sponsor was chosen, held Monday night, September 8, Dean Stiles was re-elected captain, as was Mae Persing, secretary. At that time Mr. Colbert announced that the band would go to Johnson City for the game with East Tennessee Teachers.

Minstrel Show At YM Frosh Club

Moore's Mighty Minstrels occupied the center of the stage at the second meeting of the newly formed YM Frosh Club, held Tuesday evening at 6:30 in Bartlett Hall. The meeting was well attended by upperclassmen as well as by freshmen.

Hilton Wick, president of the Y, acted as interlocutor, and was supported by four black-faced end men: Lawrence Stroshley, Allan Moore, Arthur Bushing, and Bill Hargraves. The rest of the program consisted of musical numbers by Betty Parker and her accordian and a trio of men who go by the name of the "Three Flats", namely Parvin, Pratt, and Hopkins.

An interesting highlight of the minstrel itself, was supplied by winsome George Tibbetts in the role of a female hero.

The purpose of the YM Frosh Club is three-fold: to recruit new members for the Y, to aid the freshmen in becoming acquainted with each other and the school, and to promote interest in the YM intramural program. Thus far, the club has been justifying its existence in achieving its aims—new men have been reached, old friendships renewed, new ones established, and the intramural program stimulated.

These meetings have been sponsored by the Y through the fellowship committee, with the central idea of creating an air of lasting fellowship here on the hill, for this reason all business has been set aside, and the gatherings devoted entirely to social affairs.

Dr. R. C. Rankin To Address Wed. Chapel Service

Rev. Raymond C. Rankin, D.D., pastor of the Watauga Avenue Presbyterian church of Johnson City will be the speaker at the Wednesday morning chapel services.

Dr. Rankin is a graduate of Tusculum College where his father was a professor for half a century. He received his seminary training at Presbyterian Theological Seminary in Chicago. His own ministry before coming to Johnson City was in Wichita, Kansas, and Detroit, Michigan. He has served as moderator of the Presbyterian Synod of Tennessee and is now chairman of the important Synod committee on National Missions. Dr. Rankin was a speaker on one Wednesday last year.

M Club Spends Last Week End On Camping Trip

Were their faces red! Did they burn! From embarrassment??? No, that was merely the sunburned condition of the fifteen members of the M Club when they returned to the campus last Sunday after spending the week end at Big Ridge park. There's no need to mention names, because you can still spot an M Club member as far as you can see.

According to all reports, the gals had a wonderful time. They and their councilors—Mrs. Queener, Miss Dexter, Miss Lightfoot, and Miss Hunter—spent the night in a Scout camp big enough to accomodate fifty people. Just imagine a mess hall with electric stoves and ice boxes, and running hot water. Camp never used to be like that! The party still hasn't stopped talking about the food, and who blames them? How many of you stay-at-homes had pie a la mode for dinner Sunday? Besides eating the party had swimming, boating, and horseback riding to take up their time. And as for the impromptu square dance in the mess hall Saturday night—just ask Mrs. Queener about that.

The club did manage to settle down long enough to transact one bit of serious business, which was the election of some one to fill the office of president, left vacant when Ruth Wynn did not return to school. Marian Jenkins, vice president, was elected to that position, and Becky Jones was chosen as the new vice-president. The club is looking forward to a very successful year, but regrets as a whole that week ends such as the one just past come but

ANNE GAMMON SPEAKS TO YM

Anne Gammon, president of the YWCA, will be the speaker at the YM service held tomorrow, Sunday, at 1:30 in Bartlett auditorium. Her topic will be "Victory Through Love."

27 Students Begin New Bible Course

First Meeting Held 6th Period Tuesday In Gates' Classroom

With the first meeting on Tuesday, September 16, at 2:05 in Dr. Gates' classroom, Bible 251 became an official part of the regular school curriculum. Some twenty-seven students registered for the course which gives two and a half credits, and meets each Tuesday during the sixth period and Friday evening at 7:00. The one-half credit is given for the Sunday parish work.

These 27 young people will receive their instruction in the classroom of Dr. Gates, and their guidance on the field from Mt. Watt. They are responsible for the spiritual growth in twelve different communities in the Blount County Presbytery supplying pulpits and instruction in Sunday school work. In addition to these Sunday duties, some taking the course will assist Dr. Gates in the religious instruction being carried on by him in the local primary and secondary schools.

At the first meeting of this group certain tentative aims and goals were set toward which the group might strive. They include:

1. Furthering the Kingdom of God in a group of rural fields.
2. Providing opportunities for practical experience in so doing.
3. Leading in a ministry to the social and recreational life in these communities.
4. Imparting a fuller knowledge of the Bible; and
5. Growing spiritually through serving.

This Year's Crop of Freshmen Hits Maryville Campus

By JORDY MEADOWS

September 2—DEAR DIARY

About 9:00 today I somehow managed to get to the bus terminal in Knoxville. From then on I just followed a crowd of people who looked as if they might be going to Maryville, and pretty soon I got on the right bus. Almost everybody on the bus was a "frosh", so I just sat there and looked furtively at them—wondering whether any of these strangers would ever be my friends. About that time I began to be very sorry that I wasn't with the old crowd that was sure to be congregating at the drug store sometime soon. I hadn't had much time to think about them before someone yelled, "Hey, that must be the campus." I looked up just in time to see a blur of trees go by. Everyone was craning his neck, so I did too. I still didn't see anything. In a couple of seconds the bus pulled up in front of a building that proved to be the Book Store. Finally I managed to get off, but when I did there wasn't anything to do but just stand there. I tried awfully hard not to look too green; I don't suppose that I succeeded because a girl who looked as if she knew something about the place came up to me and asked me if I knew where I was supposed to go. She was a big help and in a very short time I had found my dorm and had had a little talk with the head of the dormitory. Then she took me to my room. One look at that room and I decided that I wasn't going to like college. I knew that it would be useless to unpack. I really didn't see how I could live in the place. At just the crucial moment my roommate came in. She looked like loads of fun and somehow just having someone to talk to made me feel less homesick. At 1:00 we all had to start taking tests. I was tired before I started and by the time I got through I felt like something that the cat wouldn't drag in. After that I unpacked a little and then roomie and I went to dinner on the lawn. You could tell everybody that was a freshman because they all looked sort of desolate. And then, too, all the upperclassmen would go tearing up to people and scream and hug each other. They all looked as if they were having so much fun, and I got a big lump in my throat because I just knew that it wouldn't be that

Last Year's Graduates Receive Variety Of Jobs

By MARY WINTERMUTE

Where are last year's seniors? Also why, who, and what?

Well, I've been told that they're all out in the cruel, cruel world. Out in the senseless, lawless, matronless world trying to make good—and a bit of money on the side. Being staunch Maryvillians, they do not tremble with fear when things go wrong. Instead they sing to keep their spirits up and their feet down. The songs they sing are numerous and varied. Within their repertoire are comic, serious, old, new, and off key tunes. Here are a few of the most popular songs. First there's that old campus favorite—

"Not the preacher nor the pastor, but it's me, oh, Lord."

This song is chorused by a vast number of Maryville men. There are some Princeton Theological Seminary students, Rit Anderson, Charles Eble, Bob Lamont, Bob Watt, John Thompson, and Stuart Schimpf. Paul Brown, Ken Duncan, and Dave Young join the chorus from Western Seminary at Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. (In case you don't know where Pittsburgh is, the Wick brothers tell me it's a suburb of Scottdale, Pa.) Hank Millicent is also in Pittsburgh—at Xenia Theological Seminary. Jack Zerwas and Eldon Seamans are in Chicago attending Chicago Theological Seminary. Last year's YM president, Phil Evaul, is in seminary in San Francisco. Art Peterson left this week for Emory University in Atlanta. Melvin Magee is at Columbia University in Georgia. And last, but never least, there is George Webster at Union Seminary.

"An apple for the teacher."

But this is a hard year for the teaching profession. There seems to be more teachers than there are apples. And, according to Micky Nethery, who is school ma'aming it in this county, there are more apples than there are desks. (A tragic situation!) Also in Blount County we find Grace McCammon, Edith Hitch, and Marie Griffith. From Kentucky we hear schoolmaster Sam Cornelius, and school mistresses Ruth Andrews and Mary Hatcher. In our twin sister town, Alcoa, Marianna Allen is teaching. Bob Short is teaching at Sewanna Prep school. Betty Moore is telling to some boys and girls in Maine a few fundamentals of those very fundamental three r's.

"I want to be a sailor, sailing out to sea."

Thus warbles Warren Stringer, who is in the Naval Reserve. No one knows just where. Must be another

SATURDAY, Sept. 20

It's The Spirit

Now that the first pep meeting of the school year has happened, and the first football game of the season is practically on, you students are full of pep and exuberance and other gratifyingly enthusiastic feelings. There are few things as deeply appreciated by the athletic department of a college, players and coaches alike, as a solid backing of student interest, given audible and visible expression. But it might be well to put in a word here to the effect that all such exhibitions of said school spirit go a long way in giving the school its reputation. Good or bad, this reputation is up to you.

In the past Maryville college has held an enviable record, as far as sportsmanship is concerned; and this sportsmanship was exhibited in all kinds of situations. The Scotties didn't win all the time, nor did they lose consistently—they have made just a normal college record. But they played straight and hard, confident of the fact that no matter how the score was chalked up, for or against them, they would have the loyal support of the students.

It's so easy, when we're losing, to adopt the loud, unsportsmanlike attitude commonly known as "cruding" or "griping"; and, backed by a victory, it is hard not to "rub it in" the defeated side. Both of these attitudes are unnecessary, as well as undesirable. The Highlanders are playing clean for you—let's do the same for them.

Hold It, Please

Are you going to elope? Or break a political tradition? Or be a football hero? Or write a best seller? Or come out? Or stop Hitler? Or do anything that would put you under the classification of current news? If you are, we'd like to make a request. We feel that there is one thing which would help immeasurably to make the Highland Echo of more interest to those who receive it each week. And since it's our idea to try to promote that interest, we're making our appeal to you who, individually and collectively, are news. What we are getting at is this: we want pictures in the paper; but not just any pictures—we want YOURS. We want this to be your personalized weekly, and with a bit of preparedness and cooperation on your part, it can be. So if a reporter puts in an application for your pictures, if he wants it for purposes other than for publication, naturally that's out of our territory; but if he's doing his journalistic duty, contribute, won't you?

Another side of the pictorial idea concerns personalities and events which are not directly connected with Maryville college, but which may be of interest to the student body in general. We hope to publish each week at least one such item in pictorial form; this item may be in the field of international affairs, of sports, fashion, or of whatever seems to be of most interest from week to week.

Old Spice

By JEAN BARNES

Not that we have any objections; we just wish we could have seen it—Miss Purinton and Lloyd Shue making mud pies and liberally dabbing everything within throwing distance, including Miss Purinton and Lloyd Shue. It seems Shue obtained some good old yellow Pennsylvania clay from home and started preparation for some super sculpture outside the new art studio this week.

We hear George Tibbetts was quite a sensation the other night as heroine of Moore's Minstrels, a diminutive dream, Gorgeous Georgia and all that.

And while we're on the George line, if by any remote chance you haven't already heard it, ask George Devereaux his joke about the squawbury Shortcake. It's plenty gooey.

Professor Barker, we've discovered, has a set of rules which should prove a milestone in the advance of laboratory technique. 1. "Assent readily with an air of complete intelligence to all the instructor says. Make no effort to understand his explanations yourself, but trust to your partner for the conducting of the experiment. 2. Call upon the instructor at the slightest provocation. If he is busy, stroll about the laboratory until he can attend to you. Do not hesitate to offer advice to other students who are already working. 3. Do not study the laboratory directions before you begin working; or, if you do, be sure that you vary them in some degree at least. By so doing, you will show independence of thought and make a great impression on the instructor. 4. Work as noisily as possible. Converse with your partner in the pauses of the experiment upon current politics or athletic records. Get thoroughly roused up and and excited before you proceed with your work." Wouldn't it be?

Having Science hall arranged in first class odor helps a lot too.

What matters it, say me, if the Baird tradition is broken. Looks as though the Brown brothers will do all right. We're glad to see Joseph Matthew following Paul and Clyde. It's also a pleasure to see Frank Barr's "little" brother Jim on the campus. There is a boost for the tall, strong, and handsome theory.

This calls for a little indignation they told us. We ones what spend our evenings in cleaning goldfish bowls, polishing nails, and sketching faculty members are being dubbed fritterbugs. Some obscure allusion to frittering away the time. And we do mean obscure.

Which brings up the problem, are all freshman notebooks alike? Bible—blank page, biology—letter home, English—drawing of Scottie, history—list of modern dates, and French, conjugation of etre (we're partial.)

Have you seen Neil Proffitt? Isn't he just the sweetest thing? And he's only 1040. It seems Neil celebrates his birthday every Monday. But then it's something to be born a Proffitt. Ask the first dozen people you meet, and you're bound to find out. If we had a more delicate sense of finesse and savoir faire, we'd refrain from adding, "A Proffitt is not without honor . . ."

Not to be unusual, how do you like the new Chatterbox? Or haven't you pushed your way in yet? We as Helen and Bob did a furious housecleaning Wedstood and pondered; it was so peaceful, so touching, nesday morning.

Not mentioning any names of course, weren't they beautiful toppers? Charlie Burgreen, Phil Vance, and Paul Cooper came home from town in brilliant red caps and figured shirts picturing everything apparently from teddy bears to the national fleet. We don't know what the trio calls itself, but we're open for suggestions. (We also need very badly a philosophy of life for religion class.)

May we close (as all good things must occasionally) with

As I See It

By JANET LINDSAY

During the past week practically every columnist in the country has discussed either seriously or in a jesting manner, the movie probe now taking place. Not to be outdone, after perusing some of these columns, I'd like to add my two cents.

It seems to be rather difficult to get the actual facts of the situation, since the majority of the columns and news stories I read, were definitely pro or con. However, as I understand it, a resolution was introduced in the Senate to the effect that there be an investigation of the movie industry. This resolution charged the industry with flooding the country with war propaganda; it was referred to the Interstate Commerce Commission whose chairman is Senator Wheeler. Chairman Wheeler then appointed a committee to investigate the matter to see if a Senate investigation should be necessary. The committee was made up of notable isolationists (like Senator Wheeler himself) with Senator Nye as chairman. The committee then proceeded to launch a press campaign (this isn't part of it) against the movies and to subpoena various members of that industry. Their next step was to call and closely question a variety of witnesses and "the investigation to see if there should be an investigation" proceeded with Mr. Wendell Willkie upholding the motion picture industry.

One of the people to discuss the effect of the movies was Senator Nye—as TIME puts it, "he publicly accused the companies of trying to make the U. S. 'punch-drunk' with propaganda to push her into war." The list of movies condemned by Senator Nye as warmonger propaganda include such films as Escape, Sergeant York, and Convoy. When asked if he had seen these movies, the Senator was forced to admit that he had not seen them all.

It is rather interesting to note what some of the better-known columnists and public figures say concerning the matter—

Dorothy Thompson's column, ON THE RECORD, compares the investigation to the famous Dreyfuss case in France wherein the anti-Semitic officials in the French government framed a French officer. She accuses the America First Committee, working through the United States Senate, of framing the motion picture industry of the country. She even goes so far as to suggest that Senator Nye is, in a sense, blackmailing the motion picture officials into throwing off its boards of directors, all executives who do not please the America First Committee.

General Hugh S. Johnson maintains that the whole thing is not justified. He said in his column on September 16, "the moment a move is made to curtail freedom in expression of the printed, the spoken, or the visualized word, we begin to lose the most essential basis of democracy—freedom of opinion, debate, and expression."

At one time during the investigation, there was so much laughter that it was difficult to maintain order. Senator Tobey remarked, "A little nonsense now and then is relished by the best of men." Hollywood Columnist Jack Moffitt added, "It's the best explanation to date of the investigation as a whole."

Westbrook Pegler commented thus: "Everyone who has ever had any relations with the movie industry knows that in spots it is unimaginably foul. Some of its business ethics would shame a dope peddler, and it reeks of nepotism, discrimination and favoritism, but the movies have not treated the only anti-Hitler propaganda. The most powerful propaganda against Nazi Germany is to be found in the daily record of events in Germany since Hitler began to rise . . . No fictioneer invented the horrors of the concentration camps . . . The reason why we have no Nazi films is that in the record of all Hitlerism there isn't enough favorable material to make a short."

When President Roosevelt was asked his opinion of the charges that the government had brought pressure on the film industry, he replied that the government was a very broad word but that the head of the government certainly had brought no such pressure. He pointed out a cartoon which appeared recently showing Charlie Chaplin with a senate committee subpoena in his hand and saying, "Now what could I possibly tell those past-masters about comedy?"

In my opinion I am inclined to think that the whole thing can be best described as "a little nonsense." It appears to be most trivial when compared to the various foreign complications that the United States is in today. Undoubtedly in times like these, the time, the money, and the intelligence of our leaders could be used to better advantage elsewhere.

TALK OF THE WEEK ... By Charles Dunning

For the third time since entering Maryville, Norma Perry has looked forward to a football season viewed from the cheerleaders' bench. Norma has been largely responsible for the development and training of this year's crop of freshman aspirants—giving her time and energy in the interest of a better squad and more pep. Norma restrained herself somewhat for the first time on the field as she auditioned before the entire student body for a place on the squad.

Following the try-outs of all competing, ballots were passed and the students present cast their votes. While the voting was in progress, Dudley Moore asked the football squad to come down and appear before the crowd. He next called on the senior members of the squad for a few words as to the prospects for the coming season.

Those commenting were Norman Hooker, captain, and Fred Shelfer, senior letterman from Quincy, Fla.

A high spot of the evening was the announcement of the band sponsor, chosen at a meeting of the band on Tuesday, September 9. Dudley Moore made it known that Miss Phyllis Johns of Baltimore, Md., had been selected. Much cheering for Miss Johns and the band (not present) took place.

When the noise subsided, Coach Honaker was called on unexpectedly to speak. His address consisted of five or six stories, a comment on the lack of experienced material in this year's squad, and a plea for support from the student body and faculty alike. Coach Honaker emphasized the importance of team work off the field as well as on and stated that if everyone from the humblest custodian of Bartlett to the president himself would pull together for the boys in uniform they were bound to win one or two games in the season in spite of their greenness.

With the coaches words still ringing in their ears, the students rose and were led in the singing of the Alma Mater by three members of last year's cheering squad.

NOTICE TO FRESHMEN!

Any member of the freshman class interested in being considered an applicant for a position as freshman business assistant of the ECHO should turn in a written application, giving such personal data relative to the place, to Dr. F. A. Griffitts, chairman of the publications committee, in the near future.

And we'll find Harvey Lehman, Bill Klimstra, and Lois Ann Alexander watching the adventures of the little wigglers. All three scientific minds are doing graduate work in biology at the University of North Caroline. Frank Brink is at the University, too. Frank is continuing his study in the field of drama.

"Doctor-Brent-call-surgery-Doctor-Brent-call-surgery-Doc—"

This we call the chant of the med students, all seven of them. Mae Porter and Margaret Peters are the only chantresses. Mae is at U-T Med school. Margaret is studying at Woman's Medical College in Philadelphia. At Temple we find Joe Swift and Bob Puncheon. Jacob Bradsher is a student at Duke. Fred Rawlings is at Vanderbilt. Hal Henschen is going to Emory University.

"Oh, he floats through the air—"

Much as we would like to we can't add "with the greatest of ease", for according to official reports flying is a most difficult task. If you have soft teeth or flat feet, you just can't fly. It must affect your bouyancy—or something. The difficult job of piloting a plane for Uncle Sam has been instrusted to such daring Maryville fellows as Clem Hahn and J. D. Hughes, who are in the Army Air Corps, and John Ballenger and Bill Baird, Navy Air Corpers.

"We're in the army now—"

It's a trio this time, Tom Cragan, Roland Tapp, and Boydson Baird. They also are acquainted with that old ditty and horrible reality, "Beans, beans, we'll all have beans—"

"Tin Pan Alley Blues."

This song is sung to the tune of "Aluminum, fair aluminum." Taking the solo numbers are Bill Felknor and Ed Thomas, co-editors of the Echo last year, and Bob Moore, who was this paper's business manager. Mary Orr, YW president and May Queen, is at Alcoa doing her bit for defense, too. Other patriots at Alcoa are James Bennett, Joe Mizer, Vernon Lloyd, Scott Honaker, Tom Taylor, Gene McCurry, and Howard Clark (as in Gable) Dizney.

There they are, last year's graduates, standing out in the big wide world and singing as a grand finale, "I'll never smooch again at old Maryville."

Student-Help Grading System Unique At M-C

Will Increase Efficiency; Also For Recommendations

New students particularly will be interested to learn that the Maryville College Student-Help department has a system of grading the students on their work which so far as is known is unique here. This program, inaugurated last February, is the result of graduatl development and growth originating from the experience of the College in its desire to improve the general level of the institution.

The two primary objectives of the more detailed records covering each individual's work are first to bring the quality of work up to a college level, and second to have objective records for recommendation for students when they are no longer in school.

Several aspects were taken into consideration in finding the total grade, namely: quality, quantity, regularity, initiative, and attitude. Of course, exact accuracy cannot be attained, but these grades give some indication of the efforts of the different workers. In order to get as true as possible an idea, the student is sometimes graded not by his supervisor, but by some other person who comes in contact with his work. This gives a broader viewpoint and greater variety.

The grades give a concrete basis on which good work may be rewarded and thus creates greater incentive to do the best possible work. In this way it enables the first objective to be carried out by helping raise the work program to the same level as the academic program of the College. It raises the student as well as the school because it is now possible to promote him when the opportunity arises since his status has been determined. Participants in the Student-Help program, which has been a part of the College life since the institution was founded, have always shown fine cooperation and appreciation of the entire work.

The exact methods used include a time sheet card to be filled out by each student weekly, a schedule card showing the hours he is to work, and the work report. The general material for the permanent records has been consolidated, enabling the four years' grades to be kept on one card.

Chilhowean To Open Subscription Drive; Price Same

Bill Sweeney, editor of the 1942 Chilhowean, has announced that the annual subscription drive will open soon. The advance deposits show an increase over last year at this time; and, from all indications, a much larger number will be sold. Despite the fact that prices have gone up on most of the essential materials, the Chilhowean retains its regular price of four dollars.

A unique plan has been worked out this year with Scottie, our little mascot, introducing all the sections. There will be a larger section of informal pictures and more action pictures in the athletic section. The photographer will be on the campus in about ten days to take the informal shots.

The senior division opens Monday, September 29; the other classes follow in chronological order.

THETA

On September 27, at 8:00 p.m., Theta Alpha Phi will present its first performance of the year in Bartlett auditorium. This opening meeting of the experimental theater is to be especially for freshmen and new students who are interested in or who have had experience in dramatics. Two hundred invitations will be available for those interested. Mrs. West, head of the dramatic art department, will read "The White Cliffs of Dover" by Alice D. Miller. Appropriate music will complete the program.

How True!

Divorcees think that they are the cream of society because they have gone through a separator.

Math?

One and one at first were two.
Then one met one one day.
One wooed one for weeks and weeks,
And stole one heart away.
One asked one to be one's bride.
And right away he won;
Parson tied a lovely knot:
Now one and one are one.

Collector: How many times must I climb three flights of stairs to collect this bill?

Debtor: What do you expect me to do? Rent a place on the first floor to accomodate my debtors?

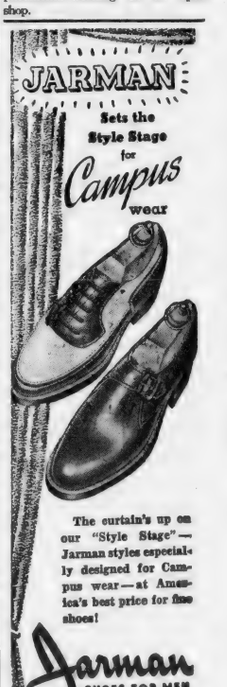
Advice (Ahem!)

All of you: Don't waste your time any longer. If you can't wear your roommate's clothes, move out!

Don't start off the year by being too ambitious about cleaning the room. Maybe yours is the one who loves to assume responsibility.

Don't display all those little luxuries from home: all Americans are luxury lovers—Maryvillians no exception.

Don't be surprised if the bushes in front of you start wiggling while you're dating Johnnie or Susie. That is what the nightwatchman is paid a salary for.



For the men: Don't mind the footballers. They're as seasonal as watermelons. After them come the basketball players. You still have a chance.

Don't pick a girl friend with a healthy appetite; you may be in need of an extra meal book.

For the girls: Competition is just too, too terrific, but you'd be surprised what a liberal allowance can do for you.

Don't forget that three cents and a letter with news of homesickness will do wonders to hold the boy friend back home.

And of course you've heard of the non-union man who caught pneumonia working in an open shop.

SCOTS AND TIGERS TANGLE TONIGHT

MEMORIES...

When we size up the backfield material this year we can't help but think how fortunate the Highlanders were last season. No fooling, though, the Scottie backs of the '40 season really lined up into a formidable array of power, speed, razzle-dazzle, and trickery. First of all, our captain, J. D. Hughes. It'll take more than a decade of backs to replace "Shoey". His offensive leadership will never be forgotten and his defensive play was—well, even better than that. Then our co-captain, Scott Honaker, who by the way, is giving some valuable time and effort to the Scotties this year. Scott's passing, punting, and directorship were unsurpassed by many rival backs last year. You can see him out there these days passing on tips and hints with his rifle throws and spiral punts. We could tell from Baby Baird's play last year that he'd make good in some air service. He was always so much at home in the air. You remember how he leaped over the whole forward wall at various times. B. B.'s exceptional running ability was entirely unquestioned by opposing tackles. We can't forget George Morton's power either. He was a fullback—as tough as they come. We surely could use George Garner and his punts this year, too. We could go on recalling our '40 stars, but we'll just mention their names. On the line, Ken Duncan, "Merk" McCurry, and Tommy Cragan were all stand-outs. Uncle Sam plus industry, Danny Cupid, and various other 'ole meanies have deprived us of such valuable gridiron talent as Tipton, Rogerville, Overly, Cunningham, Saffel, and Witt. We're sorry also that some of the returning boys don't have the time to participate this season.

HISTORY...

The Hiwassee Tigers have always occupied a mediocre position on our schedule. Two years ago, the Scotties invaded the Madisonville lair and came home victorious 19-7. In last year's opener on Wilson Field, Coach Youell's proteges held our Highlanders to a 14-7 win. It is interesting to note that this year our own Al Thomas is heading the Hiwassee eleven. Knowing him, we can expect a tough battle all the way. Let's make history Saturday night with an A-1 contest ending with the Scots 'way ahead.

HOW THEY LOOK...

Scrimmages and dummy play practice gave evidence of great improvements in several players. Taylor, first-string tailback, started rambling on several occasions. Bayless, a freshman playing the same position, broke away for several long gains in an early scrimmage. Morton, stocky freshman wingback, showed ability as a pass receiver and line plunger. Both Lattimore and Honaker looked good in the running plays. But why should we go all through this? All of you that attended the rousing pep meeting Thursday night, heard all about the football team from Coach Honaker. True, he did speak "all about" it—but he never did get right to it. We heard from Captain Hooker and Spo't Shelfer and all of them agreed on a couple of points. We have a young and inexperienced squad, but all thirty-three of them are really burning to get out there on the gridiron to fight for their's and our school. The most we can ask of them is their best and hardest play. In return, they're all counting on us, the student body and faculty, for our heartiest support and spirit. Let's give it to them!!

OUR NEW FOOTBALL PROGRAM...

An absolutely new, super-duper, eight-page football program has been prepared by our business managers this year. A great deal of credit goes to them for their generous time and effort. (They trudged miles through local and Knoxville streets in search of ads.) The program will sport an entirely different and colorful cover with the inside being made up of our '41 schedule, several yells and songs, a picture or two, and the different line-ups and rosters. These will again be distributed free to the fans before the home games.

NOTHING TO DO...

Are you troubled by—nothing to do? Well all right, all you athletes and sports fans. Now that Maryville has acquired a brand new set of bowling alleys, there'll be plenty of fun and good times. We hear there are eight—no less—shiny new alleys somewhere to the north-ard in town. All you bowlers who have been getting out of shape after an active summer — here's your chance. Come to think of it, we're plenty lucky around here in the line of recreation. Word has come of possible improvements on our golf course (it surely needs them), which will make all you club-swining golfers anxious to get out there on the greensward and sock the little ball around. Come to think of it again—that fifth hole up there surely makes a swell driving range—oh, for a golf ball or two! Or three! Then tennis. More and more students are finding our tennis facilities useful. There is much to be done, and we hope it will be done, but as they are, the courts are being used by many on-coming racketeers, girls and boys alike. The popular intramural tennis tournament is scheduled to begin as soon as the courts "get in shape". We hope Monday. And for all you splashers and swimmers, the pool is already in use. Swim periods have been announced and more students are taking advantage of our fine pool. Now, have you trouble spending your leisure time? If you get tired of bowling, golf, tennis, or swimming, you might run over to the football field and partake in a "breather" of touch football in that "tough" independent league.

HERE AND THERE...

It seemed to us there was an abundance of talent trying out for cheerleading Thursday evening. Definitely—some kind of talent, anyway. It was painfully difficult to try to narrow it down to two freshmen ... that tumbling duo looked good in spots, too—with a little more work, we can have an amusing and entertaining intermission at our games ... did you notice the newly-painted scoreboard? ... It will be interesting to notice little Sammy Lattimore showing his home-town pals the tricks he's learned at Maryville ... there's talk of a Knoxville sportscast for our games this year, but of course we'll have the regular public address system to inform the spectators of players, plays, and yardages ... a lot of credit goes to Brownie for the bleachers, Charlie Clark for the lights, and Jimmy Smith and Mr. Bryant for the radio and P. A. work.

Band, Twirlers, Sponsor, Cheerleaders, Lights, Scoreboard, P. A. System—Squad Rarin' To Start Season Tonight

Colorful Prospects As Orange - Garnet Clash With Maroon and Gold

ONE FROSH TO START

Captain Hooker, Senior Letterman, Promises Scrappy Line Play

The 1941 edition of Maryville's Scotties will make its debut tonight on Wilson Field at 8:00, with the Hiwassee Tigers furnishing the opposition. The Tigers, who hail from Madisonville, Tennessee, are coached by Al Thomas, but are somewhat of an unknown quantity.

Defense has been stressed in this week's final pre-season workouts, and Coach Honaker's lads are primed to hold Hiwassee gains to a minimum. The line, with several heavyweight frosh in reserve, has looked especially good. Capt. Norman Hooker, who last year won all-conference honors at the pivot position, is expected to come through with the greatest season of his career. Along with Murr and Wilson, two experienced soph guards, the middle of the line is well-protected.

Another all-conference performer will start at the left end slot—Fred Shelfer. "Spo't" has been playing his usual good defensive game in scrimmages, and in addition has shown considerable improvement in the pass-receiving department. At the other terminal position will be speedy little Les Rock, who is also a letterman.

"Big Mitch" Mitchell, a local product who lettered at left tackle last season, will again protect that sector. At the other tackle spot is Jack Kramer, who lettered two seasons back and who is returning after a year's absence. Jack has lost considerable excess weight—he is now down to 175—and is showing up very well. A formidable reserve tackle is "Big Red" Richards, who has also pulled a reducing act and now tips the beam at 210.

The Highlander attack centers about 160-pound Ollie Spears, a triple-threat sophomore whose spectacular runs have caused railbirds to gasp at every workout this year. Spears is also a fine passer and a good punter, and is being hailed as one of the best all-round backs in this section, none excluded. Ollie is being supported by Freshman Sam Lattimore, another triple-threater. Lattimore is a native of Madisonville, and will be anxious to make a good showing against his cousins from Monroe county in his first college game.

Lloyd Taylor, who was hampered with injuries most of last season, is expected to display the ability that won him recognition as one of the best prospects Maryville has seen two seasons ago. Taylor will start at the wingback position. Cloninger, a transfer from the line, has been showing up well in the fullback hole.

Only freshman in the starting lineup will be at the blocking back position, in the person of either

In Memoriam

A fa tal accident this summer cut short the life of perhaps Maryville College's outstanding athlete of all time. John Stone White was drowned one night in July when the boat in which he was fishing capsized near his home in Jenkins, Kentucky. John S. White left Maryville in 1932 after completing four years of football and basketball, and three years of baseball. Faculty members probably will remember him best as "Sleepy" White, the foremost athlete on the Hill during that four-year period. Coach Honaker, who coached "Sleepy" throughout his successful college days, pays tribute to him with these meaningful words, " 'Sleepy' was, without exception, the best and smoothest basketball player that Maryville College ever boasted of." Records show why he won high-scoring honors throughout the South; it was not unusual for White to ring up 18 or 25 points in one game. That was back in the days when we beat VMI and other larger schools. In addition to his stellar performances as a basketball forward, John White was a dependable end on the football team. He is also remembered for his outstanding work as the first bagger on the Highlander baseball team. Certainly, we would have a difficult time finding a more deserving and sportsmanlike athlete to which to pay tribute than John Stone White.

New Bowling Alley To Be Completed In Near Future

College Students Will Be Organized For Competition

Maryville college students and local residents will have their first real opportunity to engage in the fast-growing sport of bowling when Mr. F. A. Greene's new alleys are completed. The new establishment, located just off south Broadway, will probably be open about October first.

The alleys will be housed in a new brick building, and Mr. Greene also plans to install a streamline grill and soda fountain. Eight new Brunswick alleys, the best type now in use, are being put in place.

According to present plans, two or more college teams will be organized for regular league competition. This will enable enthusiasts on the Hill to have an opportunity to bowl regularly.

Bowling claims a vast number of fans throughout the nation, and is one of the fastest growing of all sports. For several years, bowlers in Maryville as well as those here in the college have expressed the wish that a first-class alley would locate in the city. This new establishment is being very well equipped, and is expected to meet a real demand. College students will certainly welcome this additional form of diversion.

CUMBERLAND GAME

The football game with Cumberland College scheduled for the fourth night in October was cancelled last week by Cumberland officials. Lack of sufficient and suitable material forced them to discontinue intercollegiate footgall for the time being. Negotiations have been carried on with Transylvania College up in Lexington. There is a good chance, Coach Honaker said, of the Kentuckians filling our schedule that night on Wilson Field. The rest of the Maryville schedule has remained intact.

Complete Figures On Registration Made Public

Enrollment Is Sixty-One Less Than Last Year

A recapitulation of the first semester enrollment shows a total of 743 persons now registered, as compared to 804 for the first semester last year, a decrease of 61.

There are 436 women students, which is 9 fewer than were registered a year ago. There are 307 men, which is 52 fewer than were registered a year ago.

Most of this difference is in the enrollment from the local community. All dormitory rooms for both men and women and the dining hall are filled. The supplementary "College Cottage" is being used again for women. However, the number of students who live off the campus is smaller than last year.

The principal decrease is in the freshman class, there being 40 fewer freshmen than last year. The number of freshmen from the local community is just half the number a year ago, and the number of freshman men from the local community is but one-third the number a year ago. However, each class is slightly smaller, there being one fewer sophomores, 9 fewer juniors, and 12 fewer seniors. In the senior class there are at this time 76 women, 18 more than were in the senior class of a year ago; but there are but 37 senior men, 30 fewer than were seniors a year ago.

Facts explaining these differences have not yet been collected and analyzed. Most of the explanations will doubtless be found connected with the national defense situation. It is known that some men, especially upperclassmen, have already been inducted into military service; that others anticipating induction, are uncertain or have jobs which they feel they should retain. Work is plentiful for girls also. A study now being inaugurated by the Personnel office may discover other explanations.

The chapel is full each morning; the college program is getting well under way, and the campus spirit appears to be earnest and hopeful, in spite of all the clouds of war and uncertainty over the nation.

September 6—DEAR DIARY:

I'm sorry that I haven't had time to write in you for so long, but I just couldn't seem to find a minute. I have been standing in so many lines and meeting so many people. It has all been so much fun. Everyone here is so friendly and the seniors don't mind if you mistake them for freshmen. Classes started today, and I didn't get lost once. I was scared to death when I first saw the sheet that told where all the different classes were meeting. I didn't see how I was ever going to find out where I was supposed to be when. But I did! Our room is all fixed up now and it really looks like. I think that we have the cutest room on the floor. Maybe I ought to study interior decorating. I must have innate talent. Golly!

I never thought that I would get to know so many people in such a short time. I just love college and I sure am glad that I came to Maryville.

P.S.—Don't be too disappointed if I don't find time to write in you very often. I seriously doubt that I will. Have too many other things to do.

INTRAMURAL DOPE

On two afternoons this past week the eight intramural football teams have been on the fields behind the Alumni gym showing what sort of stuff they're made of. After the shouting had died away and the dust had settled yesterday, it was seen that the Blanks, the Athenians, and the Alpha Sigs were made of good enough stuff to keep their standings at .1000. The 45's and the Cream Puffs each won a game and lost a game, coming up with a percentage of .500. The Questionmarks, the Frosh, and the Ministerials have hit it tough and claim of percentage of .000.

A look at Tuesday's game results shows that the Athenians trounced Joe Fowler's Frosh 25-0. Bob Hunter was principal man for Athenian, while no one even threatened for the Frosh.

Alpha Sig took Allan Moore's Ministerials in a close one, 6-0. The literary boys and the preachers are both pretty big and pretty tough teams, and they were as even as the score shows.

The 45's scored up 26 points against the Questionmark's 0. Those are both freshman teams, and on Tuesday it was the better organized and better sparked team that won.

Finally Art Rowan's all-powerful Blanks blew the Cream Puffs away to the tune of 31-0. If there's any team that the Independent League is afraid of, it's the Blanks, with Rowan, McGaha, Cooper, Pratt, Justus, and a number of other powerful and frightful men, including the blond frosh, Pat Patterson.

Yesterday afternoon's results read something like this:

Alpha Sig 31, Frosh 0. Once again Joe Fowler's lineup couldn't click either offensively and defensively. Their offense never scored, while their defense allowed 5 touchdowns and 2 extra points. Harry Graham ball across three times for 6 points each and once for 1 point. Bill Sweeney carried it across once and Miller duplicated. Incidentally, take a look at those new Alpha Sig Dude shirts out there on the field. Good looking stuff, no less.

Friday's second game went to the Cream Puffs by virtue of a forfeit from the Questionmarks. The Questionmarks could muster up only 7 men—and some of them rather weak—so they signed the game away without playing.

Athenian 12, Ministerials 6. And that was a thriller—for Athenians, anyhow. The Ministerials started out with a clicking offense and an even neater pass defense. Early in the second quarter they completed a nice pass to Ray Swartzback into the end zone for 6 tallies. The extra point try failed. Then in the third quarter Athenian changed its defense, and its offense started clicking. Bob Hunter threw pass after pass to ends Curt Wright and Bill Hargraves, who did beautiful jobs of snagging. Six points early in the fourth quarter — Hunter to Wright—and six more later in the same quarter—Hunter to Hargraves—gave the Athenians the lead and finally the game. A third Athenian touchdown was run across by Hargraves after a long pass from Hunter, but the referee, Ben Lynt, ruled that Hargraves stepped out of bounds. Ben later admitted a mistake in his ruling, but could not allow the touchdown to count.

In Friday's nightcap Art Rowan led his Blanks to a powerhouse drive over the 45's by a score of 32-6. The 45's stayed in there and kept playing and gave the Blanks a scare when Smith lay out on a sleeper and caught a long pass for a 6-point score. Bill Adams, handsome freshman, fast and full of spirit, was a sparkplug for the 45's. But Ken Cooper, scoring two touchdowns, and Horace Justus, Ted Pratt, and LeRoy McGaha, each scoring one, put the Blanks way ahead. Also Pat Patterson and Jim Hedges racked up an extra point each. More proof that that's the teach to watch.

TENNIS—

The intramural tennis entry sheet was closed yesterday afternoon, and immediately Coach Fischbach and tennis manager Horace Scherer made out the first round brackets for both singles and doubles. A printed copy of the brackets will be posted Saturday night, and play is to start Monday morning.

Twenty-two fellows entered the singles and ten teams entered the doubles tournaments. Two singles men — Hunter and Lloyd — were seeded, and three teams—Rowan and Hoelzer, Hargrave and Justus, and Bushing and Culver, were seeded in the doubles.

Weather permitting, the first round should be played off by Wednesday night. Contestants are to play on the varsity courts at any time convenient to themselves, no referee being needed. All results must be reported to Horace Scherer, 105 Carnegie.

Coach Fischbach urges all players to observe closely the rule which prohibits the wearing of basketball shoes on the courts. Smooth-soled tennis shoes must be worn. No one will be allowed to play without them.

Another note from Coach Fischbach is concerning the system of signing in and out at the open periods at the swimming pool. Each swimmer should sign in and not fail to sign out also. The system is for the sake of safety, to guard against accidents and drownings, and it must be observed by all swimmers.

Football . . .

Burris or Morton. Both of these lads are small but tough scatbacks, and great things are expected of them. Burris, who lives in Lakeland, Fla., will probably get the nod. Despite the lack of experienced reserves, the first team is made up of two seniors, two juniors, six sophomores, and only the one new man.

An interesting sidelight to tonight's fracas is the role of Al Thomas, who resigned as line coach here to accept the Hiwassee job. Al will be anxious to score an upset over his former mates. The sparkplug of his squad is Captain Kilbourn, a hard-driving fullback. Al boasts a steady running attack built around this man, and a good line, with Dawson at tackle and Hicks at center outstanding.

Bleachers have been put in place, lights installed, and the field is generally in good condition for the back-to-work contest. Additional touches have been put on the new sound equipment, and it is expected to have a good season, along with the team.

The annual presentation of the new band sponsor will take place at the half, and the band will be supplemented by the activities of the freshmen present. This should prove to be a spectacle in itself.

Donizetti Comic Opera, 'Don Pasquale,' to be Presented By All-Star Cast on Oct. 25

Smash Hit Of Metropolitan Opera This Past Season

GIVEN ON OCT. 25

New York Times Says "Amusing And Artistic"

It's coming to Maryville Saturday evening, October 25, and it's going to bring down the house. "It" is the smash hit of the Metropolitan Opera during the past season, the comic opera, "Don Pasquale," written by Donizetti and produced by Charles L. Wagner. The opera itself, according to the New York Times, is "entertainment of the most amusing and artistic sort"; but that's not all, for the opera will be presented by an all-star cast.

Singing the role of Norina is a young English-born girl, Stella Andreva, a soprano start not only of the Metropolitan but also of the Royal Opera, Stockholm, and the Covent Garden in London. The "fat and fatuous" wealthy Don is impersonated by Oscar Lassner, whose name is well-known in Europe. Bruno Bandi, who assumes the role of Ernesto, is universally known in this role.

Francesco Valentino, a native American, is a semi-crafty go-between and "fixer-upper", named Dr. Malatesta. His voice is one of skill and beauty.

Directing "Don Pasquale" is Giuseppe Bamboschek, general musical secretary of the Metropolitan Opera for seventeen years. Thirty years ago he made his own debut in "Don Pasquale." Stage director is Desire Defrere.

Besides the aforementioned leading roles played by some of the foremost artists of the profession, minor roles and the chorus are composed of superior American artists.

"Don Pasquale" has exuberant melodies, detailed ensembles, humorous characterizations, and rich costuming. As previously stated, it will be presented here at Maryville on October 25 at 8:00 in Voorhees chapel; it will thus inaugurate the Artist Series for the current school year.

Fall Exams Slated To Be Given On December 13-18

Program Crowded Into Four Days Of Two-Hour Exams

The examination schedule for the fall semester announced today by Dean E. R. Hunter, Dean of Curriculum, will begin on Saturday, December 13, at noon and close on Thursday, December 18, at noon. Because of the shortened semester the examination period has been correspondingly compressed from the usual six days to four days. As the second semester is longer, this particular schedule will probably not apply next May.

On each one of the three full days during the period three examinations are scheduled. However, no exam may last longer than two hours. The schedule is as follows:

Saturday—2:00—E, F, x classes
Monday—8:30—a
11:00—A
3:00—b
Tuesday—8:30—bx, B
11:00—c
3:00—cx, C
Wednesday—8:30—d
11:00—dx, D
3:00—e
Thursday—8:30—f

Workshop Elects New Members

Lindsay To Head Governing Board

Edith Monroe, Brasher Bailey, Ted Pratt, and Art Bushing were elected members of the Writers' Workshop, when the organization held its first meeting of the year last Monday, September 22, in Thaw hall. These new members filled the vacancies made by students chosen last year who have not returned to school.

In addition to the election, the governing board, consisting of Janet Lindsay, chairman; Carl Pierce, secretary; Dick Boyd and Miss Heron, was selected. Also Dr. Hunter, Miss Jackson, Ed Rowley and Jean Barnes were named as the membership committee.

Next Monday at 4:00 the next meeting will be held in Thaw hall, at which time Joe Richardson and Dick Boyd will give readings.

Theta to "Hold Court" for Frosh In College Woods

Theta Epsilon will "hold court" tonight for freshmen and transfer pledges, who will thus be informally initiated into the society.

Theta members will meet in front of Pearsons at 6:15 and will proceed to the college woods from there. Girls are requested to wear slacks and they are required to wear their rat hats. Refreshments will be served.

Next week formal initiation will take place in Theta hall.

Pep Committee Membership Is Now Complete

Group To Meet Each Wednesday After Chapel Services

The membership of this year's Pep committee is now complete. The seven people named to the committee this year are: Bill Sweeney, representing the cheerleaders; Virginia Williams, who is the band representative; Mary Agnes Carter and Dexter Rice from the student body at large; and Mr. Hovel and Miss Heron, who are the faculty representatives.

The duties of the Pep committee are many, but are chiefly centered in the instigation and stimulation of that most elusive element—Maryville College spirit. To this end they plan the activities between the halves of football games which have been so successful in the past. The annual mixed frosh barefoot race is conducted under the supervision of this committee.

In meetings held each Wednesday morning after chapel, they conduct the business necessary for the provision of new megaphones and sweaters for the cheering squad and for the proper decoration of the football field for home games, distributing this labor among the four classes.

Arrangements are also made by this group for the homecoming festivities, and the success or failure of many similar activities depends on their efforts. They are responsible for the accommodation of visiting bands and cheering sections from the local high schools.

Student Volunteers Consider Change

The Rev. Mr. J. Edward Kidder will address the Student Volunteer group on Sunday evening when they meet at their regular after-vespers-hour in the YW rooms.

Mr. Kidder will speak on the China missions, following the Student Volunteer program for the year, of a "mission a month"—discussing a different mission field each month. Under this plan, prayers will have been offered, by the group, for each of the nine mission areas of the world.

The Student Vol cabinet has been considering making a change in the affiliation of the organization (and the name) from the Student Volunteer National movement to the Student Foreign Mission Fellowship. The general secretary of this comparatively new organization will be a guest of the local chapter of the Vols for the Sunday of October 5. At that meeting, explanation of the aims and purposes and advantages of the FMF will be made.

Thomas To Speak At Wed. Chapel

Rev. Dr. John T. Thomas, pastor emeritus of the First Presbyterian Church of Springfield, Ill., will speak at the chapel service this Wednesday, October 1.

Dr. Thomas, who for many years had been an active pastor of this church, retired two years ago, and now makes his home in Knoxville, the native city of his wife. Although retired, Dr. Thomas is still a prominent minister in Chicago and the Presbyterian denomination there, and recently has been called to give addresses in the North.

Eight Seniors Do Honors Work

Opportunity Is Given For More Extensive Work

Eight members of the senior class in five different departments are doing honors work in their respective fields this year. The honors work program, inaugurated several years ago, provides for more intensive study along lines of particular interest to the individual student. Another value of this research work, aside from giving opportunity for wider knowledge in certain fields, is the training in method it affords students planning to do graduate work.

The seniors who desire to do this work first apply to their specific department and if recommended, their names are passed on to the faculty committee. With the approval of this committee preparation for the study is then initiated. The report is presented in book form and is kept in the library following completion. In order to qualify to do honors work, a student must have an average of 4.5 for his college work so far and an average of 5.5 in his major subject.

The following students are doing the work in the class of 1942:

John Hoelzer of Babylon, N. Y., is writing on "Polar Curves and Other Curves Associated with a Given Curve. Dr. Augustus Sisk is his supervisor.

Marian Jenkins whose home is in Erie, Pa., has selected the topic "A Comparative Study of Some Common Pathogenic Misero-organism" in following out her major field of biology under the supervision of Dr. L. L. Williams.

In the English department, Mary Hathaway Jenks is doing work under Dr. E. R. Hunter on "The Development of the Tristram Story in Enflish." Her home is in Groten, N. Y.

Mary Louise Marshall is doing honors work in music, making a study of "Comparative Styles in Piano Literature", with Miss Kath-

IRC Hears Maisano Speak On War At Opening Meeting

Student Rounds Globe After Being In Norwegian Battle

Cut courtesy News-Sentinel
ANDREW MAISANO—IRC Speaker

On Monday night, September 21, the International Relations club held its first meeting of the year. The club got off to a good start by having as its first speaker, Andrew Maisano, who can discuss certain phases of the war from first hand experiences.

The meeting was opened by the president, Janet Lindsay, who introduced the speaker. Maisano, as interesting and entertaining a speaker as a more experienced lecturer, told of his experiences "Under Fire at Narvik."

The speaker sailed from Wilmington, Del., on November 4 of 1939 for Cuba where the ship he was on changed plans and went on to Norway instead of Philadelphia, as he had understood was to be the case. These were the circumstances that took him to Narvik, by way of England, Scotland, Oslo and Bergen, and which enabled him to witness the Battle of Narvik (actually be in the midst of it). In addition he experienced handling by German officers and also the restricted living conditions of the country. In the end he finally obtained a passport to leave Norway, but had to do so by way of Sweden, Russia, and Japan. He came in close contact with economic situations in the various countries, discovering that in Russia eggs are 20c a piece. Having been gone less than a year, he arrived again in Philadelphia in the fall of 1940.

Dramatic Art Department to Present 'Charley's Aunt' On November 21

Mrs. Nita E. West To Select Cast From Dramatic Art Students

FOUR LOVE SCENES

Jack Benny Now Starring in Movie Version of Play

MRS. WEST—Play Director

On the evening of November 21 in Voorhees chapel the first big production of the Dramatic Art department this year will be presented. At that time the play, "Charley's Aunt" is to be given.

The play, which is a revival of the original play, was modernized in 1933. "Charley's Aunt" was first produced in the year 1892, long before automobiles, telephones, and airplanes were known to man. From Notes on the Present Copy we read, "The world has been completely revolutionized since the days when the play was written and almost the only link between the present time and the 'nineties is this most extraordinary everlasting play."

The play has been made into a movie of the same name. Jack Benny takes the leading role in the movie version. The play itself is still running in New York.

The play has been passed by the faculty censors and the books have been bought. Next week the cast will be chosen from students in the Dramatic Art department.

The scene of the play is in Oxford, England. There is a cast of twelve players and the play includes four love affairs. Mrs. West has said, "There are more laughs in 'Charley's Aunt' than there were in 'Pure as the Driven Snow'."

College Receives Scholarship Fund In Cates Bequest

1881 Maryville Graduate Leaves Memorial Grant

Maryville College has received the bequest provided for in the will of the late General Charles T. Cates, Jr., who was graduated from Maryville College in 1881.

General Cates specified that the bequest is to establish a fund to be known as "the Charles T. Cates, Sr. (Class of 1857) and Martha V. Cates Scholarship, and the income from which shall be used, under the direction of the College authorities, for deserving boys and girls attending said College from and born in Blount County, Tennessee. This scholarship is to be in memory of my father and mother."

General Cates was graduated from Maryville College 24 years after the graduation of his father from Maryville. He became an eminent attorney with offices in Knoxville. At one time he served as Attorney General of the State of Tennessee, and as is the custom of this section of the country gained the title of "General".

At the present time the Attorney General of Tennessee is Hon. Roy H. Beeler, graduate of Maryville in the Class of 1906. He was given an honorary degree of Doctor of Laws by Maryville in 1940.

S-H Office Gives Annual Report

The annual report for the year 1940-41 has just been released by the student-help office. Out of a total enrollment of 812, 608 students received some form of help.

There were 230 men and 290 women employed, making a total of 520. The total payroll was 40,670.04, with salaries ranging from $5 to $450 for the entire year. The average earned per student was $78 and the average monthly payroll was $4,500.

Loans were issued to 166 men and 167 women, making a total of 333, and the total amount loaned was $44,277.90.

Council Election To Be Held October 3

Frosh Officers Will Be Elected Shortly

The Student Council, with George Howard as president, promises to be one of the most efficient organizations on the campus. Their duties will be greatly expanded this year, and all elections will be more closely supervised.

The following elections will be conducted within the next few days: on Wednesday, October 4, the freshman class will remain after chapel for the purpose of making nominations for class officers and a member of the Council. At the same time other classes will meet at places to be later designated to nominate Council representatives. On Friday, October 3, the general election for all classes is scheduled. On Monday, October 6, the new Council will meet for the first time.

One Act Plays To Be Presented

On October 25 two one act plays "The Maker of Laws" by John Ward Bayly and "What Never Dies" by Percival Wild, will be presented in the Experimental Theater. The cast for the most part will be made up of the new students in private interpretation. This cast will be announced at a later date.

All admission to the studio performances this year will be on complimentary tickets issued upon the student's request.

News Received of Former Students

Two In Harvard Medical School For Present Year

Dr. Green received news this summer of several former students of Maryville College. For one, Dr. Ethel Fanson, who graduated from Maryville in 1913, was doing special work at Harvard Medical school and will probably continue her studies this winter. She received her doctor's degree from Rush Medical school in Chicago and at the present time is on the staff of a sanatorium in Southern California. When she returns to California she will also be connected with the General Hospital in Los Angeles.

Dr. Carl Haub who was here in 1932-33 and who received his degree from Temple University, is also doing post-graduate work at Harvard Medical school.

Dr. Green also received news that the father of Miss Hope Buxton, who was formerly connected with the Dramatic Art department, died. Miss Buxton is now living in the northern part of Maine, carrying on her father's business.

90 Students Are Present At First Disc Club Meeting

Club Hopes For Carnegie Music Set Donation

A petition, verifying the interest in better music on the Maryville College campus, was signed by the more than 90 students who were present at this year's first formal meeting of the Disc club. This petition has been sent to the Carnegie Foundation in the hope that the Foundation will find Maryville deserving of the splendid Carnegie Music Set, which consists of a library of the finest recordings available and an excellent machine for reproducing them.

The Disc club, long the favorite of music lovers at Maryville, meets every other Thursday evening at 6:30 in the Fine Arts studio in the chapel basement. The club will meet next on the evening of October 2, when Rimski-Korsakov's "Scheherazade Suite" will be offered in response to numerous requests. This suite is based on the romantic "Arabian Nights" tales and will be further explained in the remarks of Ruth Sutherlin, president of the club and commentator for the evening.

Radio Vespers At 4:15

Dr. Lloyd will conduct the regular radio vesper service Sunday afternoon at 4:15, taking as his theme, "The Condemnations of Christ." The choir, under the direction of Professor Ralph Colbert, will sing hymns at the beginning and end of the service, and also an anthem, "Today There is Ringing" by Christiansen.

First Meeting Of New Social Committee Held

On Monday afternoon in Dr. McClelland's office the first meeting of the social committee was held. The committee was unable to organize, but plans were discussed by those members of the committee who were present. In the near future another meeting of this committee will be held at which time a chairman will be selected and plans for activities will be made.

CABINET OFFICERS ON YW PROGRAM

The cabinet officers of the YWCA will present the program Sunday at 1:30 in the YW rooms. Each officer will tell something of his part and duties in the organization.

YM Frosh Club Disbands for Year

Last Meeting Held Tuesday At 6:40

The last regular meeting of the Y Frosh club was held at 6:40 Tuesday in Bartlett auditorium. At that time it was decided by all those present to disband the organization for the year inasmuch as its major objectives have been accomplished. The purpose of the club was to acquaint the new men on the hill with the YM program, with one another, and with the intramural scheme.

No further business was transacted at this meeting, and the frosh were adjourned with the instruction to meet later the same evening for refreshments. Over 70 men, and Anne Gammon, presented themselves at the YW rooms at 10:00 when the festivities began. Three-quarters of an hour of fun, fellowship, food, and drink followed.

The leaders of the fellowship committee of the YMCA feel that this year's Y Frosh club has been a great success, and they are looking forward now to the next outing which will be the annual Y hike to Mt. LeConte.

Major Price Of TMI To Lead YMCA Service

Major Price, head of the Tennessee Military Institute in Sweetwater, will lead the Sunday program of the YMCA. The topic of this discussion has not been announced. The program will be at 1:30 in Bartlett hall.

Your Paper and Your College

Here it is, Saturday afternoon again, and there's another volume of the HIGHLAND ECHO to be put to bed, in the quaint language of the press. We've been approached by several authorities—one, anyway—on publications, who informed us that it's about time we formulate and make known to the reading public a few general ideas about this year's ECHO. And so, backed by one definite journalistic ambition, we'll state our aims.

Our one ambition: to publish each week a paper that will be a credit not only to the staff, individually and as a whole, but also, and more specifically, a credit to a college of the type represented by Maryville. In accomplishing this, there are several more definite aims, a few of which we'd like to mention.

WE AIM: to maintain an acceptable sense of propriety. There are two set-ups we try to avoid; the prudish, stilted attitude which characterizes a prudish, stilted institution, and a wild, unrestrained attitude which, likewise, portrays a wild, unrestrained institution. We choose the more natural, moderate course of expression which we believe is truly representative of this college.

WE AIM: to give you each week as complete a detailed report of campus activities as is practicable and possible. It is along this line that we'd like to again make a plea for student cooperation. We realize that we have a staff of active reporters, and that the business of those reporters is to collect the current happenings—"that's what they're getting paid for". But it's entirely possible that in their frantic scramble for news, they may overlook something of note. So how about you helping out by mentioning to a reporter any story you think rates publication?

WE AIM: to editorialize calmly. We dare not attempt to write on purely controversial issues; but shall limit our efforts to writing only on ideas which we believe would be of general benefit, of educational value, or would help to further the close relationship which exists between the faculty and the student body.

WE AIM, finally: to at least equal, if not better the student publications of colleges having a similar rank and standing. That, we believe, speaks for itself.

An emperor of ancient times, after winning a great battle, said this: "One more such victory, and I will be ruined." His losses of men and material had been so great that victory left his people weary, exhausted, and low in morale.

As I See It

By JANET LINDSAY

In a time of national crisis, the president in power, of course, assumes added responsibility. President Roosevelt, possessing more power than any president who has preceeded him, seems to be doing all that one man can possibly do. However, he is not alone in his leadership of the country. He relies on a number of men who remain close to him, who guide his actions.

Closer to the president than practically anyone else outside his immediate family is Mr. Harry L. Hopkins, administrator of the Lease-Lend program; as LIFE heads it—Harry L. Hopkins: Lender and Spender. "As President Roosevelt's closest friend and confidant, he is probably the second most influential man in the country."

Although he is only able to work four hours a day, he lives at the White House with only a study separating his bedroom from that of the President's; able to closely advise Mr. Roosevelt's diplomatic moves. Hopkins' rise to such a responsible and trustworthy position is quite phenomenal. Nine years ago he was still an obscure social worker at which time he was head of the New York Tuberculosis and Health Association. From 1933 up until the present he has been working under Mr. Roosevelt. For a short time he served as Secretary of Commerce. Last January when the President needed someone to go to England he sent Hopkins, who spent a month there closely observing the situation and conferring with Winston Churchill.

In an article about Harry Hopkins, Felix Belair says, "From his association with the younger man (Hopkins), Mr. Roosevelt derives renewed self-confidence, a dogged determination to carry on when the going is toughest, a belief in himself that enables him to bear up under a strain that has killed more active men."

Also in a key position is John Gilbert Winant, our ambassador to Great Britain. According to Charles Rumford Walker, writing a biographical sketch of him in the ATLANTIC MONTHLY, his outstanding traits of character are, "a love and understanding of the common people, administrative ability and political foresight. In the realm of practical experience he is also well-qualified for the job, for he has served as governor of the state of New Hampshire, as Director of the International Labor Office at Geneva, and as Chairman of the Social Securities Board. He started his political career at the bottom, his first office being that of state senator. In those early years of his career he was a notoriously poor speaker. One New Hampshire woman who had heard him said, 'His serious, hesitating manner was one reason we voted for him. We got so tense, sitting on the edge of our chairs and praying for him to get the next word out, that we got to wanting him to win. And we knew he meant what he said'."

During his administration as governor he distinguished himself by installing an ultra-modern state budget system and by the passage of much state social legislation.

His position as ambassador will try his ability and endurance, but both his friends and his enemies maintain that he works better under pressure.

In many administrations, even in times of particular stress, the vice-president has been merely a figure-head with very little power, but Henry A. Wallace has made a real job of it. Recently BUSINESS WEEK carried a picture of the Vice-President demonstrating a pair of cotton socks. Under the picture was the following: "As publicity-maker for socks of American cotton, Henry Agard Wallace submits to still another demonstration of the manifold uses of a vice-president in the newest of New Deals. 'Throttlebottom' in 'Of Thee I Sing', looking for his place under the political sun, no longer serves as a model for the high office filled—or overflowed—by its present willing occupant. As Mr. Wallace adds the chieftaincy of the new Supply Priorities and Allocation Board to the chairmanship of the Economic Defense, to the leadership of the Good Neighbor concert, to his job as agriculture prophet, tie-breaker for the Senate, and utility man for many services, . . . he has quite an aggregation of impressive functions."

It is upon men like Mr. Hopkins, Mr. Winant, and Mr. Wallace that the destiny of this country depends . . . . the men who hold responsible positions, who advise the Chief Executive as to the most strategic and diplomatic moves.

VESPERS

This Sunday, October 5, Dr. Ralph W. Lloyd will bring the message at the regular evening vesper service, and will speak on the subject, "We Live By Hope."

Roosevelt Urges College Men To Continue Studies

A letter received recently by President Lloyd from Dr. Guy E. Snavely, Secretary of the Association of American Colleges, calls attention to a statement made by President Roosevelt last month, as follows:

"The message I would emphasize to you this year is that America will always need men and women with college training. Government and industry alike need skilled technicians today. Later we shall need men and women of broad understanding and special aptitudes to serve as leaders of the generation which must manage the post-war world. We must, therefore, redouble our efforts during these critical times to make our schools and colleges render ever more efficient service in support of our cherished democratic institutions."

This and similar statements made from time to time by the President and other national leaders, indicate the recognition given to the important functions of colleges in the national emergency. Reports indicate that legislation now before Congress proposing deferment of college students until the end of the school year in which they are called, is receiving favorable consideration in Washington.

Point System Girls Begin Activity As 72 Report

Seventy-two girls reported Thursday afternoon as Mrs. Queener inaugurated the point system for 1941-42. Under the direction of "Willie" Williams, these girls will participate in a varied athletic program leading to various awards at the end of the school year. Twelve junior and senior girls, fourteen sophomores, and forty-six freshmen indicated their desire to take part.

To all those who win 300 points during the year, a monogram will be given. A letter is given for 400 points, and a sweater for 500. All girls who win four hundred or more points are admitted to the "M" club, a women's athletic organization of limited membership.

Competition in soccer, the first sport of the year, will begin on Tuesday. Other sports on the program include basketball, indoor baseball, volley ball, aerial darts, swimming, tennis, stunts, and track and field. On Monday the strictly-observed health rules go into effect.

One of the big activities of the program is hiking, each girl being required to walk eighty-four miles during the year. The 7-mile loop is a popular trip for the women athletes.

A reluctant conscript was asked by the army oculist to read a chart. "What chart?" asked the draftee. "Just sit down in that chair and I'll show you." "What chair?' asked the man. Deferred because of bad eyesight, the draftee went to a nearby movie. When the lights came on he was horrified to discover the oculist in the next seat. "Excuse me," said the conscript as calmly as possible, "does this bus go to Shipley?"

Little Claude's mother had reluctantly allowed her precious child to attend a public school. She gave the teacher a long list of instructions. "My Claude is so sensitive," she explained. "Don't ever punish him. Just slap the boy next to him. That will frighten Claude."

Two thoroughly inebriated men were driving like mad in an automobile. "Shay," one fumbled his words, "be sure to turn out for that bridge that's comin' down the road toward us."

"What do you mean, me turn out?" the other retorted. "I thought you was drivin'."

A well-known New York hostess was saying good-bye at one of her large parties to a number of guests, and a young man who had crashed the party found himself in the line. "Good-bye," he said cooly. "It has been a marvelous party."

"So glad you liked it," said the hostess cordially. "Remind me to ask you next time."

A Hollywood writer with a reputation as a Lothario tried to refuse when a witty hostess invited him to a charity affair, pleading that he was working on something important.

"Oh, in that case just bring you work with you," the lady suggested. "We'd love to have her."

The weather man needs to be told about "he who hesitates' etc." Why doesn't he hurry up and send us that football weather we've been waiting for! Oh, well, football weather or not, the Scotties certainly gave Hiwassee the run-around. We hope they do the same thing for Union tonight.

Naturally, the football season consumes most of our attention these days. What else could you expect with such a swell team, good cheerleaders, and the tumblers. They're wonderful! Not to mention lovely band sponsor Phyllis Johns, twirlers Polly Park and Lucia Moore. And Solomon and Al are doing their part so thoroughly that the Maryville citizens don't venture out when the Scotties' band comes to town unless their insurance is paid up. It isn't safe with batons flying out among the innocent bystanders. Solomon got the blame for such an incident Saturday, but another twirler admitted that he was really the offender.

New clothes were all over the place for the game. Johnnie Childers looked collegiate enough in a plaid wool dress, Katherine Woodward sported a blue and brown suit, and Margie Field proudly wore the green sweater she knitted (notice the unusual cut of the sleeves sometime), and—why I can't begin to tell about the good-looking clothes the frosh wore! During the barefoot-shirttail race we noticed one girl participant who now probably thinks that Talon should make better zippers.

Several alumni have returned to the hill for brief visits lately. We sat behind Kitty Bennett '41, at the game. Also saw Kathryn Estes, John (Bandmaster) Ballenger, Jo Magill, Ensign Jimmy Lee and Bob Wilcox. Another alum. Bob Moore, bid one and all adieu Wednesday as he was leaving for New York where he has accepted a position with International Telephone and Telegraph. But Thursday he showed up again—he couldn't have left any unfinished business!

Did you by any chance see Miss Mary Sloane Welsh in the Student-Help office Wednesday? When we looked at her left eye all swathed in bandages, we couldn't help wondering what the other gal looked like. It actually wasn't what this small talk sounds like, but it looked authentic while she had it.

All the rushing is finally over. Bainonian and Theta took in about the same number of girls. Pledges were all over the place in Bainonian's "Sam Browne belts" and Theta's blue and white rat caps. Theta's newest pledge is Scottie.

Have you heard Roy Laughmiller and Fred Depue impersonate their business predecessors? "They sell bus tickets!" While we're about it there are several things we would like to get cleared up. Is it an Oriental influence that makes Dr. Wendt bow when he says hello? Oh, don't be self-conscious, Prof, we think it's distinctive. And believe it or not, one faculty member has made a confession! Dr. Orr admitted to the ethics class that he needed another button on his coat to be in style.

Several interesting things take place in the dining hall. There was a red-headed Hi-Trail initiate who wore his house slippers Tuesday—and he looked so, so tired. Then there's the familiar sight of Walter Proffitt wending his way back into the new dining room. Somebody evidently made a little mistake about the orange juice the other morning. It was so unusual that Bud Pierce took one swallow and dropped his glass. Disregarding the fact that he had drenched himself and a couple of other people, he sat there seemingly petrified, while his waitress calmly moved his arm, put a napkin under it to absorb the liquid, and went about the task of cleaning it all up.

Wedding bells will ring this week for another Maryville romance when Jean Blake and Toots Blazer say "I do" Wednesday night in Spartanburg, S. C. They are building an attractive home in Lincoln Park (Maryville) which will be finished sometime in November.

The subject of romance at Maryville is a pretty broad one, so we'd better wind up this brief course in Campusology and save the rest for another time. Class dismissed!

SPORT ECHOS

HERE WE GO...

way out on the proverbial limb. (Note to editors and coaches: Please omit this paragraph). Just to make things interesting, we'll stick our neck out right here in the first paragraph and pick Maryville to beat Union tonight on Wilson Field. Next to nothing is known about the mountain boys from Kentucky, but the Scotties looked pretty good against that kind of competition last week as they trimmed Hiwassee 32-6. It's a cinch that it won't be so easy tonight, but come on out and keep your fingers crossed for us, won't you?

CONGRATS...

To Sammy Lattimore, Bob Morton, Ross Honaker, and all the other freshmen who showed up so well last week in their first college competition. Unless the draft takes too heavy a toll, some of these boys are going to make football history in a few years.

To Coaches Honaker and Davis for the way they are molding so many inexperienced men into a polished and promising eleven.

To Publicity Director Jimmy Smith (or to whoever was responsible) for the swell writeup given the Maryville-Hiwassee game in last Sunday's Knoxville paper. We rated an eight-column streamer, just like U-T. Can you believe it?

To the junior class for the fine job they have done in decorating the field for tonight's fracas.

FOR MEN ONLY...

Mrs. Queener's thinly-clads begin their point system activities next week. In addition to the scenic attractions afforded, this little business has another attractive angle... The gals aren't supposed to eat between meals! If you're having trouble balancing the budget, just set your sights on one of these Amazons and see if it doesn't pull you out of the red.

Here's a special message from "Willie" Williams, director of the point system: "If any of you guys think it's easier for a girl to win a letter than it is for you, you can go jump in a lake!"...End of quote.

OBITUARY DEPARTMENT...

It begins to look as if the Scotties pulled out of the SMC just in time—like rats from a doomed ship. Because only three member schools now have football teams, the Conference has dismissed Chink Lowe, former commissioner in charge of gridiron activities. Maybe they just couldn't get along without us.

HELP WANTED ! ! !...

Positions open for men experienced in use of steam shovel, blasting equipment, and steam roller. Anyone interested, please report to Coach Fischbach for work on the tennis courts—on a volunteer basis, of course. Honestly, a tourist mistook Memorial court number one for Mt. LeConte the other day. You can take that for what it's worth, as Miss Jewel would say.

ODDS AND ENDS...

Captain Kilbourne of the Hiwassee Tigers showed plenty of the well-known intestinal fortitude last Saturday when he played the entire game with enough tape on his head to bulldog a Texas longhorn. This recalls a boast made by Jimmy Witt, who was a fugitive from the Tiger lair. Bragged Jimmy: "Down where I come from the people are so tough that they had to shoot somebody to start a cemetery." By the way, we were all glad to see Jimmy in the stands Saturday as his Monroe County cousins were thoroughly trounced.

Union Bulldogs To Provide Second Test of Scotties

Word comes of a dogfight over on Wilson Field tonight at 8:00. Yessir, a rip-roarin' dogfight between the Union College Bulldogs and our own Maryville Scotties. Information about the Bulldogs is scarce this year. We know very little about them, since they did not appear on our schedule last year. But Coach J. R. Bacon has consistently turned out an efficient and scrappy squad of Bulldogs that can not only bark but can bite as well.

Their record for last year boasts five victories, one deadlock, and only one defeat. That record was not made with ease. They had a hard-fighting bunch that "went, saw, and conquered." The squad will probably be small as usual but will definitely be out for a win in their opening game of the current season.

The Methodists originate in Barbourville, Kentucky, and compete with some of our own opponents. Emory-Henry, Tusculum, Transylvania, and Hiwassee are all foes of the Orange and Black this year. The squad is made up mostly of sophomores and juniors, with 155 pound end Malcolm Armstrong the only senior on the squad. Two freshmen have taken over the tackle spots with sophomore Flem Shoupe at center. Bill Hearne and Cleo Pursiful are a couple of hard-running soph backs to watch. Little Jackie Peace performs the scat duties in the backfield. All in all, the squad looks young and fresh, and probably will dish out a great deal of speed on both the offense and defense.

The Highlander squad, yet unhampered by bad weather or injuries, has resumed practice with its usual vigor. Coach Davis has had his linemen hit the tackling dummy so long and so hard now that each lineman is fighting to see who is the first to tear it down.

Webb and Talbott, local ends, continue to show probably the hardest tackling of the lot, with Hooker and Bennett really rocking the posts, too.

Coach Honaker's backs have been working unusually hard this week, perfecting their blocking, running, and passing. The frosh who showed up so excitingly last week, continue to unleash clever runs, although much work is needed before they will be ready for first-class competition. Spears, Taylor, and Cloninger display their valuable game experience with brainy footwork, long kicks, and sharp passes.

The line, two or three deep, is prepared for heavy duty after two-on-one practice and work on the "sled". Mitchell, 220-pound tackle, surprised everyone by leading his fellow tacklers down the field in a speed drill. Burris, Rock, and Lattimore showed real speed in pulling away from their running mates in the race also. If uninterrupted by rains or injuries, our squad will be in excellent shape to take on the Orange and Black team from Barbourville tonight.

Morton, Taylor, Spears, and Lattimore Spark Scottie Machine in 32-6 Victory

Almost Entire Squad of Honaker-men See Service in Game; Wealth of Backs Displayed; Hiwassee Tigers' Kilbourne Stars in Fray

Maryville College's reserve power overcame the Tigers of Hiwassee College last Saturday night by a score of 32-6. A crowd of 2000 witnessed the season's opener on Maryville's Wilson Field. Coach Thomas' eleven proved to be no match for the Honaker-men as both old and new backs ran wild over the Tigers. There were the usual first-game fumbles, but penalties were at a minimum and blocking and tackling was exceptionally good for both teams.

Spears and Taylor led Maryville's attack in the first period. With persistent line plays and end runs the Scotties marched down to the Tiger 12-yard marker. From here, Morton, the freshman wingback, took the ball on a clever reverse to the left and scored standing up. Oliver Spears' kick was good. Big Mitch stopped Hiwassee's sustained counter-march with a timely recovery of a fumble. Again the Honaker machine started rolling, this time with a beautiful 23-yard trek by Taylor and a 23-yard pass from Spears to Shelfer.

The second quarter found a mass of Highlander freshmen entering the game. Lattimore and Honaker led the drive which placed the pigskin on the Hiwassee 4-yard line. Lattimore slashed over right tackle for the score. Ollie's kick was low this time.

Playing against Hiwassee's seven-man line, the Scottie forward wall quickly dug in and stopped every play before it reached the secondary. Hooker, Murr, Garvin, and Kramer all were consistent tacklers. Mitchell and Richards soon discovered the play which for a while had given the Tigers a series of first downs. Captain Kilbourne of the visitors would fake a pass, whirl, and charge the center of the line only to find over 400 pounds of Scottie brawn coming at him.

Hiwassee's only score came when Kilbourne intercepted a Scottie pass and neatly romped 67 yards through the entire Maryville team for a score. The try for extra point failed. The first half ended before another threat by either team was made.

The intermission activties proved popular with the fans. The band did a neat bit of marching and the frosh race was, if slightly informal, an indication of the speed, alertness, and pep of the class of '45.

Maryville scored twice in the third quarter. Taylor, on a beautiful 27-yard jaunt off tackle, and Cloninger on a one-yard plunge. Hard and fundamental blocking paved the way for both tallies. Proffitt, Chambers, Herzberger, and Bennett gained valuable experience on the line.

Hiwassee unleashed a passing attack in the fourth quarter but the Scottie defense refused to let them gain much ground. A 43 yard jaunt by Spears and a 32-yard run by Graham moved the ball into scoring territory, only to have the ball go to Hiwassee on downs. But the scrappy line of the Highlanders again refused to give up so easily. A blocked kick recovered by the home team on the one-yard marker set up the last touchdown. Honaker scored the six points, but failed on the try for the seventh. Kilbourne without a doubt was Hiwassee's standout both offensively and defensively. Morton, Spears, and Taylor were the stars for the Scots although little Sammy Lattimore showed up well on defense as well as on offense. On the line, McNabb, Tucker, and Blevins played heads-up ball for the Tigers.

Coach Honaker gave almost his entire squad a chance for some action and each accounted for himself in creditable style. Webb, frosh wingman, made some beautiful tackles to swamp plays before they got under way. He and Talbott may force the best out of Spo't and Les to keep their coveted first-string end positions. Of course, our lines and backs have yet to be under the pressure of a smooth-working and clicking machine. And a look at the results of C-N, East Tennessee Teachers, et al, should serve as a warning and a challenge for the things to come.

Frosh vs. Ministerials 4:15
? Marks vs. Blanks 3:30
Cream Puffs vs. 45's 4:15

Tuesday of this past week saw the number of unbeaten teams in the two intramural football leagues reduced to two, one independent and one club team. The Blanks didn't disappoint anyone when they romped to their third victory in the Independent League, and the Alpha Sigs surprised only the Athenians when they kept their Club League record perfect. At this writing Friday's game have not been played; perhaps their results will change the records. The results and standings through Friday are in the summary insert accompanying this column.

But a few things happened on Tuesday which are worth mentioning—and then some.

Blanks—59; Question Marks—0

And that's no joke. Rowan's nine men literally rolled over the frosh Question Marks time after time without giving them a chance. The statistics show that Chuck Foreman made 3 touchdowns, Ted Pratt made 1, Elbert Upshaw made 1, Horace Justus made 2, Bill Evans 1, and Jim Hedges 1. Alan Rock accounted for two extra points after touchdowns, and Ken Cooper, Bill Evans and Jim Hedges for one each. That was the third straight victory for the Blanks, and it means that they have played and defeated each of the three other teams in its league. What's more their scores have been something like 31-0, 42-6, and 59-0. No danger there. It all adds up to the fact that the Blanks are favored in the Independent League. It will be worth watching to see if and when anyone in that league, or the other one either, beats them.

Alpha Sig—14; Athenian—0

Bob Miller was the Alpha Sig hero in the temporary settling of the bitter rivalry between his society and the men of Athens. Both teams started the game with confidence they would come out on top, but Miller's two touchdowns changed the picture as early as the middle of the second quarter. After about 5 minutes of play Bob snagged a pass in the end zone for six points. The try for extra point failed. In the second quarter with the ball on Athenian's 2-yard line and in the possession of Alpha Sig, Miller carried it through the line without being touched and tallied another half dozen marks. And on a third occasion Sweeney broke thru the Athenian line and tagged the runner for a touchback, 2 points. In the second half Alpha Sig lost scoring power and ended the game with but 14 points. Athenian threatened to score more than once, but never did push it over.

That leaves Alpha Sig as the undefeated aggregation in the Club League. Their scores have been lower than the Blanks, but they've won each time and are favored to keep on doing so.

Frosh—12; Ministerials—7

The surprise of the day came when Joe Fowler's lighter and inferior-rated frosh pushed into pay dirt twice to the Preachers' once. John Neff scored both times for the Frosh, once on a spectacular catch and forty-yard run alone. The Ministerials did everything possible to turn the tables, but just didn't have what it took. Their seven points came from Joe Suitor's scoring after a nice run and Harvey Overton's extra point. At the end of the game the Ministerials had the ball in mid-field trying desperately to score on a long pass before the timekeeper ended their chances. But the final play, run off with but seven seconds to go, failed to pay off, and Alan Moore's gang left the field with still no win to their credit. Those three straight losses look bad, but the preachers are better than that and are expected to prove it before long. The victory was the first for the Frosh, and may make a football team out of them yet.

45's—7; Cream Puffs—6

The closest and arguing-est game of the day was the nightcap in the Independent League. The 45's played a hard one and chalked up 7, while the Cream Puffs bucked the 45's enough to make 6, but no more. Dave Smith made the touchdown for the 45's and Bill Adams racked up that awfully precious extra point. Mac Purifoy scored for the Cream Puffs, but the point failed. In the third quarter the Softies came dangerously near to another six points when they pushed the ball to the 45's 3-yard line and then were held for four straight downs. Both teams had occasional arguments with Referee Professor A. Pieper, but the professor wouldn't give in and brought the game to a peaceful end.

TENNIS—

The first rounds in the singles and the doubles tennis tournaments were completed by Wednesday night. In the singles 16 matches were scheduled for play. Nine of them were byes, which automatically sent the contestants onto the second round. The other 7 were disposed of with rather one-sided scores. The second round matches run something like this: Hunter vs. Phillips (Hunter won and passed into the third round), Upshaw vs. Pemberton, Weizalis vs. Miller, Eveland vs. Auten (Auten won and went into the third round), Adams vs. Long, Smith vs. Parvin, Earp vs. Seagraves, and Pool vs. Lloyd. As things are now, Hunter is favored to take the tournament, but there's lot of time yet.

There were eight matches in the first round doubles, six of which were decided with byes. The second round shows Rowan and Hoelzer vs. Ross and Evans, Wick and Wick vs. George and Anderson, Bushing and Culver vs. Foreman and Faulkner, and Losher and Smith vs. Hargraves and Justus (Losher and Smith won and went into the third round.) Rowan and Hoelzer are the favorites, but again there's lots of time yet.

The consolation tournament will be organized and announced early next week. Losers in the first rounds are urged to watch for that announcemnt.

Lippy's at It Again!

Undaunted by a recent fine for arguments with the umpire, Leo (Lippy) Durocher, manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, is shown (right) as he and Jimmy Wasdell, Dodger outfielder, expressed their scorn for Umpire Reardon's decisions. They lost the debate and were ordered off the field, but the Dodgers nevertheless won two games from the Phils in Philadelphia.

Freshman Final Election Monday

VOLUME 27 MARYVILLE, TENN. OCTOBER 4, 1941 NUMBER 5

Freshmen Hold Primary Election Of Class Officers, Sponsor Student Council Members

Special Election To Take Place Monday Morning

CANDIDATES CHOSEN

Top Nominees Include Anderson And Swartzback

On Friday of this week the freshman class held its primray election of class officers. According to the plan adopted for freshmen elections last year, the voting at this time was held to eliminate some of the names from the long list of nominees and to narrow the competition to those two candidates (four in the Student Council lists) receiving the highest number of votes. The Student Council will conduct a special second election for freshman officers on Monday morning.

The following list of candidates will be voted upon at the Monday election: for president, Ray Swartzback of Baltimore, Md., and Lloyd Anderson from the Belgian Congo, Africa; for vice-president, Peggy Caldwell of Tallahassee, Fla., and Louise Henry of Maryville; for secretary, Mary Curtis of Chattanooga, and Catherine Scott of Canton, Ill.; and for treasurer, Donald Black of Camp Hill, Pa., and Bill Long of Steubenville, Ohio. Out of thirteen candidates, two names remain to be voted on for freshman class sponsor: Mary Ellen Northrop of Council Bluffs, Iowa, and Jane Hayes of Beaver, Pa.

The remaining candidates for the Student Council membership are Jessie Fowler, New Philadelphia, Ohio; Jean Walter, Eclanger, Ky.; Una Black of Maryville; Shirley Montgomery of Birmingham, Ala.; and Andrew Maisano, Wilmington, Delaware; John De Forrest of Dedham, Mass.; Bill Seagraves of Charlotts, N.C.; Bill Wagner of Mary-

English Dept. Introduces New Plan for Majors

Individualized Nature Makes For Better Work, Fewer Papers

The English department is introducing a somewhat new plan of special studies for juniors and seniors majoring in that field. Heretofore, in each course in the "300" group, the advanced student has done a very exacting term paper. Since each major student takes normally eight "300" courses in his last two years, this means eight such papers.

The new plan providing for one extensive paper each year (1) reduces the number of papers to two; (2) makes possible a more careful and thorough piece of work than the former papers could do; and (3) brings the instructor and student into more frequent conference as to the plan and progress of the work. One of the catch words in current educational discussions is "Individualized Instruction." This plan of the English department is of that nature.

Each junior and senior English major carries through each of his last two years a year-study project in lieu of term papen assignments in separate courses.

For the present, the groups will be divided arbitrarily so that one-half of each classification works with Dr. Shine, and the other half with Dr. Hunter, and in the following year those who worked with the one in the preceding year will work with the other.

The project may consist of wide reading in some period or in a more extensive following up of some type other than the courses provide for. Or, it may be a research study on some topic. In any case, it will entail the principles of bibliography and documentation.

The work is to be carried forward steadily and to be in such a stage of progress at the end of the first semester that a grade can be assigned to it. This grade is to be made a factor in the setting up of the grade in each "300" course being carried by the English major. In the same manner, the grade on the completed work is to be made a part of the second semester record.

A minimum of four or five hours or periods of conference with the supervising instructor is to be arranged by each students each semester. Students doing honors work will be excused from the program outlined above.

I.R.C. To Meet Monday Evening

Lynt, Lynch, Wick To Lead Discusion

On Monday night at 6:45 the International Relations Club will meet in Bartlett auditorium. The program will center around the current discussion now going the rounds in the nation concerning the repeal of the Neutrality Act. This week, Secretary of State Hull and President Roosevelt have worked together on the needs and possible drafts of a bill for either revision or repeal, while is is expected to come before Congress within the next few weeks.

Three students will speak concerning different phases of the subject. Ben Lynt will give something of the background of the Neutrality Act; Lucille Lynch will follow in support of repeal; while Henry Wick will discuss reasons why the Act should not be repealed. All students are invited and urged to attend.

Dickinson, Boyd First Readers At Writers' Workshop

Monday afternoon at 3:00 in Dr. Hunter's classroom the regular meeting of Writers' Workshop was held. This was the first meeting of the semester at which original works were read and criticized. Dick Boyd read a play entitled, "Call Him Blessed." A poem, "Autobiography of a Brick Building", was read by Joe Dickinson. Miss Heron was the critic.

The readers for the next meeting are Miss Johnson and Jean Patterson.

Triangle Club Holds Meeting

Last Monday evening, approximately 175 students attended the opening meeting of the Triangle Club, held in Bartlett auditorium.

The evening's activities got under way with a short business meeting, were continued with a musical program consisting of songs by Margaret Lawson, numbers by the well-known Vance-Burgreen duo, and a tap dance by Barbara Writham, and were concluded by the teaching and singing of the Triangle song, "I'm a Hayseed."

Mrs. West Selects Production Staff Of 'Charley's Aunt'

Chuck Dunning Appointed As Stage Manager

On Friday Mrs. West announced the production staff for "Charlie's Aunt", to be presented in Voorhees Chapel on November 21. Stage manager is Charles Dunning and his assistants are Lloyd Shue, Brasher Bailey, Charles Hildreth, and two others yet to be supplied. Ted Kidder is the Business Manager, and Neil Proffitt will head the advertising staff. John Hawkins has been chosen as the electrician.

The tryouts for the play are still in progress and the cast will be announced next week. Mrs. West is pleased that so much interest has been shown by the college as a whole in another farce.

Debate Question For Tryouts Chosen This Week

Government Control Of Labor Unions To Be Subject

From a list of suggested topics handed in by members of the debate class at their last meeting, Professor V. M. Queener, debate coach, and the officers of Pi Kappa Delta selected the debate question to be used from through tryouts by the class. The question chosen was: Resolved that the Federal Government should regulate by law all labor unions.

This action was taken because the national Pi Kappa Delta question which has been used in former years will not be chosen until sometime in December. This will be too late for the local class in tryouts, as the tryouts will take place on November 22 and 24 this year. The temporary topic is the same one selected by the National Association of Teachers of Speech.

DR. LLOYD TO ADDRESS FACULTY CLUB

With Dr. Lloyd as the speaker, the Faculty Club will hold its first meeting of the year in the home economics tea room Monday evening, October 6. The subject of Dr. Lloyd's address is "The Southern Association Work Conference on Higher Education." This conference was held in July 1941 in Sewanee, Tennessee.

Faculty Club dinners held at each meeting will follow an international theme this year. The menu Monday night will be Hungarian

YM Completes Program Plans For October

Series To Include Speeches on Drama Art, And Music

The YMCA plans a series of four programs to run through October under the following titles: "Religion in Literature," "Religion in Art," "Religion in Drama," and "Religion in Music." The last is to be a joint meeting with YW, and the first is to be presented tomorrow with Dr. Shine as speaker.

There has been a record attendance during the month of September, with an average attendance of sixty per meeting. There seems to be more interest this year among the freshmen because of the very successful Frosh Club, which Hal Lloyd conducted. All young men who have not attended a meeting yet are urged not to miss this new series.

New Excise Tax Levied On All Campus Activities

Ten Percent Increase On Amusements Here

On midnight, September 30, the new federal excise tax went into effect. On the campus, in view of this tax law, all entertainments and athletic contests will be taxed 10 percent of the admission fee, except committments which have already been made. That is to say, the Artist Series and all games this semester will not be taxed. However, next semester there will be an 11c tax on each of the Artist Series programs. The tax to be paid at the various games has not yet been announced. At all plays and entertainments a tax of 10 percent will be paid in addition to the admission fee.

This new tax is touching every American pocketbook. Most of the new excise tax is levied on the basis of the manufacturer's price, rather than on retail sales price. The exception is made in the case of the new tax on furs, jewelry, and cosmetics. These articles are 10 percent of the retail price. Among the new taxes levied were those on sporting goods, luggage, electrical or gas and oil appliances, typewriters, rubber articles, optical equipment, and electrict light bulbs.

Taxes were increased on automobiles, auto parts, slot machines, bowling alleys, and musical instruments. Tickets to church and charitable entertainments which were formerly exempt from tax are now

Kemp Merriam Training At Randolph Field

RANDOLPH FIELD, Texas, Oct. 5—September means the opening of the fall term for mose of America's great universities, but at the "West Point of the Air", where new classes start every five weeks the year 'round, it brings the graduation of Class 41-I, the ninth class of the year and the last which will receive its wings in 1941.

Two hundred eighty-five aviation cadets will complete their ten-week period of basic training at Randolph Field on September 27, and move on to advanced fields as the final step toward their wings and commissions in the Army Air Corps.

Approximately 80 per cent of these potential pilots are former students or graduates of colleges and universities, 126 different schools being represented in Randolph's latest graduating class.

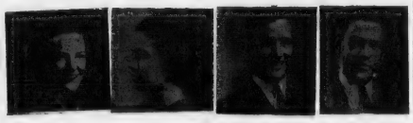
One Maryville College student who'll leave the "West Point of the Air" for advanced schools this week is Kemper W. Merriam, Lakewood, Ohio, 1939-40.

Search For College 'Seal' Unsuccessful

By BEN LYNT

You've heard the rumor about the Grand Canyon and the Scotchman's fruitless search for a lost penny; well, weren't you reminded of that when you saw Brownie's boys laboring on the pool in front of Science hall this past Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday? Or perhaps your thoughts went winging back to this time last year and the presedential campaign, as the muck was daily piled higher and higher—shovelful after shovelful.

For the benefit of the frosh, let it here be stated that there is absolutely no truth in the rumor circulated that the lads were searching for the college seal, or that the Art department had run out of modeling materials. The college seal is kept in the pool behind Anderson, and Lloyd Shue has been responsible for keeping the Art department supplied with ample mud for its modeling.



Oldsters on the campus recall that the murky depths of this unassuming pool have not been disturbed in such fashion since it was built to these many years ago by the prep class of 1922. One of the men on the campus tells a story in connection with the pool, of a lad who, like Brodie, never refused a dare or a wager. It seems that some years ago this chap was urged by his classmates, to do two things, which, if not exactly risky, were a definite departure from the norm in Maryville decorum. One was to dive from one side of the pool to the other, with all his clothes on—passing under the concrete partition in the process; and the other feat was to ride a bicycle across the pool on the partition which halves the structure. He did both, so the story goes, with no trouble at all. But then, it was easier in those days. One did not have to eat goldfish raw to be recognized as a college stude.

While their home was being remodeled, from the ground up, the seven little mama fishies and their respective schools were removed from the pond and temporarily housed in an aquarium in Mrs. Green's biology lab, where they seemed to be doing nicely. The two truck-loads of sediment were removed from the pool that the water lilies might have a fresh start, and that the goldfish might cease losing their color. New boxes were placed, fresh soil and manure dumped into them, and, those water lilies, which have bloomed so beautifully yellow and pale blue and white and delicately pink in the past, were transplanted into them. All of this was being done by the campus crew in an attempt to permit a better circulation of water in the pool by confining more strictly the soil to certain definite locations.

The mud has been cleared away, the water in the pool is gradually settling itself out, and thoughts of only one pair of boots between the three dredgers no longer torment the powers that be. Once more this quiet little spot of charmingly simple beauty rests undisturbed in the moonlight—and so it shall remain until other campus crews shall be directed by other administrators of public good in the cleaning and rehabilitation of it; until other schools of goldfish shall lose their color, and other daring students have plumbed its depths in search of gay, light-hearted sport.

So be it.

Pratt, Fain, McDaniels, McCammon Are Senior Student Council Members

General Election Conducted By Central Poll

HELD AT PEARSONS

Yelton, Williams, Kramer, Hawkins Represent Juniors

For the second successive year the Student Council has conducted a general poll for the elections of all four classes. All during Friday, folowing the nominations in class meetings on Wednesday, October 1, the general election was held. The poll was located at a table between the post office and Thaw hall until rain forced the booth to move onto Pearsons porch. The purpose of this first election of the year was to choose student council representatives from the various classes, the freshman class officers, and also class sponors. The latter will not be announced until Barnwarming.

The seniors selected Dave McDaniels, Charles McCammon, Margaret Fain, and Helen Pratt to represent them on the Council. Both the boys are Tennesseans, Dave being a pre-med student from Lenoir City and Charles, a chemistry major from Maryville. The former is captain of the wrestling team this year culminating three successful years of varsity wrestling.

Of the girls from the senior class, Helen Pratt is a religious education major whose home is in Westerville, Ohio, while Margaret Fain who is majoring in home economics comes from Chattanooga, Tenn. Both are Bainonians, Helen being vice-president of the club this year, while Margaret is treasurer.

In the junior class Willie Williams, Natalie Yelton, Jack Kramer, and John Hawkins were elected. A native of Alderson, West Virginia, Willie is a member of M Club and head of point system. She is also a biology major and the Nu Gamma chairman in the Y Cabinet this year. Natalie, a history major, is likewise in the M Club. Her activities at Maryville include active participation on the varsity debate squad last year, membership in Pi Kappa Delta and on the Social Committee as well as being assistant

Seventy Students To Hear Concerts In Knoxville

G. Moore, Krisler, Opera, H. Trauble, Symphony, Ballet

Seventy students and faculty members of Maryville College have purchased tickets to the Artist Series to be held at the University of Tennessee auditorium this year. Many others have obtained season tickets to the Knoxville Community Concerts, including twenty faculty members who have been for many years members of this group.

In the University series there will be concerts by Grace Moore, Fritz Krisler, the Ballet Russe, and the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra. Miss Moore is the only artist to appear before Christmas, the others coming during the second semester. Students will go to and from these concerts in buses chartered by the school for the purpose.

The Community Concerts will be held in the Knoxville High school auditorium and will consist of four concerts. First will be Helen Traubie, noted Wagnerian soprano, thought by some to be the greatest singing artist of the day. Francescotti, world-famous violinist, and Bronsky and Babin, duo-pianists, will give the next two concerts. The fourth will be a Juilliard Nine O'Clock Opera presentation. It will be Mozart's "Marriage of Figaro" done in modern dress and presented in the same novel way with a commentator that the play "Our Town" was presented. There will not be special buses to these programs.

Professor Ralph Colbert is making arrangements for those students who wish to get tickets to either series of concerts. The new 10 per cent tax now in effect on the tickets, making them slightly more expensive than those bought before the first of October.

Kiberd, Vance Will Entertain Alpha Sig

Alpha Sigma will hold a regular meeting at 6:30 tonight. "Bunny" Kiberd, accompanied by Phil Vance, will dance. All men of the college are cordially invited to attend. Refreshments will be served.

Former Students Gain Distinction

Echo Staff Member Obtains Position As Journalist

To prove that Echo training is not in vain, Miss Ann McCambridge, former Maryville student and a former Echo staff member, is now reporting for the Bergen Evening Record at Hackensack, N. J. She attended Maryville for two and a half years, during the years 1933, 1934, 1935, and 1936. She was associate editor of the Echo during that last half year.

Miss McCambridge's home is in Ho-Ho-Kus, N. J. After leaving Maryville, she took her major work in journalism at the University of Illinois where she graduated in 1937.

Her present job is of three years tenure, and is reporting in its real sense. She covers all the court cases—city, county, and police—and works in divorce and murder cases on the side. This is no small job either, for the paper has a circulation of over 30,000.

Despite her success with a degree in journalism as a background, she does not advise the aspiring reporter to take a journalism course. Instead, she says, take a general course, and learn your journalism on the field, where it really counts.

Another, but more recent graduate, John "Nig" Wilburn, formerly from Loudon, Tenn., is also doing Maryville credit. He has just recently been appointed assistant coach at Maryville High school, and will replace Steve Boretsky as line coach. Nig was a popular baseball and football player while in school here, playing four years on Maryville teams, selected all-conference for three of them.

When asked about the condition of the thirty-odd players at Maryville High, and prospects for the coming year, Nig said, "Good! And you can quote me on that!"

Dean Sollmann of the Western Reserve University School of Medicine, writes to President Lloyd that David K. Heydinger, A.B., Maryville, '40 has been unconditionally promoted to the second year class and at this time ranks fourth to fifth in a class of 75 students, with an average of 89.0 percent.

Student Vols To Hear Hawkins

Neill Hawkins, executive secretary of the Student Foreign Mission Fellowship, will address the Student Vols Sunday evening, October 5 in the YW rooms, when this group assembles for its regular worship service. Mr. Hawkins, a native Texan, is coming to Maryville from the Philadelphia headquarters of the FMF on a good-will and business tour of the South.

At the cabinet meeting held on Wednesday, the problems of a project and a picnic were again discussed. It was decided that at the close of this month's series of meetings on the European missions, a book called "Dynamite in Europe" would be reviewed by one of the members. The tentative date, subject to change, of October 18 has been set for the excursion into the college woods.

New Orchestra Music Purchased

Of interest both to members of the orchestra and to lovers of orchestra music here on the hill is the fact that several new pieces of music for the orchestra have recently been purchased

Frosh Tryouts For Echo Staff In Progress

Total of Twenty-Six Aspiring Journalists Enter Competition

Early next week, at a combined meeting of Echo editors, faculty committee on publications, and the Echo committee of Student Council, freshmen will be chosen to fill the greater part of the vacancies for freshmen reporters on the Echo editorial staff.

Changing the custom of previous years, only part of the vacancies will be filled from those in the 103 English classes, while the remaining vacancies will be filled by students in the 101 classes.

Since the opening of school, tryouts among the freshmen have been held for these vacancies. At present, 26 students from the 103 classes remain, and from these the committee which meets next week, will choose most of the reporterrs. The remaining reporters will be chosen from the 101 classes in the near future.

The 26 freshmen from whom the reporters will be chosen are as follows:

Jeanne Bellerjear, Camille Brent, Jessie Fowler, Agnes Lodwick, Agnes Peterson, Hope Betti Pleyl, Carleen Ramsey, Cathryn Scott, Martha Jean Shaw, Sibyl Tallent, and Ernestine Ulmer.

SCOTTIE: To Be or Not To Be

Were you at the ball game last Saturday night? The Saturday before that? And were you delighted by the sight of Scottie, the little canine mascot, scurrying around the field during the half? Without a doubt he is quite fascinating; but, little as he is, he is presenting quite a problem which must be dealt with somehow.

It all began a few years ago when Scottie was secured to fill the position of mascot, a position which had been vacant quite some time. He was brought here by the members of the Triangle Club, who believed that such a mascot would do much toward increasing student interest and spirit. The plans of the club as first proposed included procuring the mascot, and assuming all expenses that would be later incurred by him. These were very commendable plans; their only fault being that they were not carried out as completely as they should have been.

One of the greatest problems in connection with Scottie was his dwelling place. A little dog like he couldn't be allowed to just run loose on the campus, with no provision made at all for his bed and board. But that question was settled by Miss Jessie Heron, who is on the Pep Committee; she took Scottie in her home, and gave him the best possible care. Scottie's diet was to be supplied by the Triangle Club; all Miss Heron was supposed to do was to see that he was fed, bedded down every night, and, on Scottie's big days, see that he was fittingly costumed and presented at the proper place at the proper time.

That arrangement should have worked out admirably; but it didn't. At the present time, the Triangle Club, from which have graduated practically all the original sponsors of the plan, has from all indications given up all claims and responsibility where Scottie is concerned. The entire expense of his upkeep has been left up to Miss Heron, who has done many times more than her part in keeping the college provided with a mascot. It is about time something constructive is done in connection with the maintenance of Scottie. One suggestion has been made that would, from the economic standpoint, be the most practical. This suggestion is to do away with Scottie after the football season—that's really when he ceases to function in an official capacity; at the beginning of every school year, then, a similar mascot could be secured for the duration of that football season. This plan would do away with the necessity of keeping the mascot during the winter, spring and summer months.

What do you think about this? Does having a permanent SCOTTIE mean enough to you to influence you to do something concrete about it? Or are you satisfied with the idea of having a stranger every year? Or have you a better and more practical plan?

Let's hear about it.

Old Spice

By JEAN BARNES

"Oh well, it was swell while it lasted." But here it is October, or to be more specific, time for first exams, dust in your eyes, falling leaves, and another full moon. Well, well.

Who said mass migrations are over? The Frontier is now moving East—via stretcher as mode of travel. And no bones bleaching by the wayside either. Incidentally, the fainting technique is improving with practice. All we need are cushioned halls and velvet walls. Anyway, it sure is fun, they all agree, this jogging along on a stretcher. (Though why can't they sing anything else but "Yo Heave Ho," or "Where will we all be a thousand years from now?") All you can see is stars (presumably real); all you can hear are the cheers of the mob; and all you can think is "Gulp."

What are doctors for anyway, we wonder. Overheard at the clinic: "Well, hello there, how are you today?" "Just fine; how are you?" "Oh, I'm fine." Huh?

Before we stop this fascinating subject, may we make a suggestion? Pat Howarth, Julia Cody, Sara Holland, and Catherine Tomlinson are mighty fine; but maybe you'd better be sure you can either afford a cook or live on love. These four would-be cooks went to the Y rooms to try their hands at a chicken dinner. Anyway it turned out to be a raw deal. The ornery chicken didn't fry right; so, cooperative to the bitter end, each of the four obligingly got sick and sympathized with each other.

If you are ever stuck for something to say, ask Jeannette Householder. The refrain goes thus, "And I quote, in other words, i. e., to-wit, that is to say." Sounds good backwards, too.

It seems roommates Elwell and Crews were really taken for a ride in more ways than one on the way home from Knoxville the other night. They traveled by thumb and hope for a while and then made up for it by dashing all over the countryside looking for the dazed chauffeur's hat. But ask them; we lack the dramatic technique.

As I See It

By JANET LINDSAY

ONE OF THE most striking aspects of the present war is the part that women are playing. The magazines and newspapers are full of articles telling how women have stepped in and filled the places vacated by the men of the army. The natural question that follows from that lead is: what can the women of the United States do to aid the national defense program that the country is concentrating on?

WORK ALONG THESE lines has already begun. The Red Cross has intensified its program; over a million women have offered their services to this work. The variety of things that they are doing is most interesting. They are divided into eight groups which include clerical jobs, home service (particularly in the homes of men in service and of veterans), surgical dressing department, disaster canteen corps, nurses aides, army hostesses and recreation directors, Braille work, and the motor corps. Besides these groups, there is a vast program of sewing and knitting in progress. Recently a new department has been added whereby blood banks are built up. All our Navy ships carry a consignment of dried plasma in a sealed container as well as sterile water to be used for emergency blood transfusions.

ALONG A LITTLE different lines Mrs. Roosevelt is organizing defense work for women, particularly women between the ages of 18 and 24. It would include such work as learning switchboard operation, nurses aide, hospital work, buying and preparation of food, automobile driving, map reading, sewing, and budgeting as well as such mechanical skills as they wanted to learn.

IN REGARD TO the particular part that college women can play I would like to quote Miss Harriet Elliott, associate administrator in the OPM. She writes in an article on College Women and Defense: "The national program of total defense has two parts: first, military preparedness and aid to the democracies; second and equally essential, the strength of our own people and the effectiveness of our own institutions.

"Colleges have particular responsibility and opportunity to take part in the second aspect of this program.....

"The defense job of college women and college faculties is to apply their utmost in imagination, in knowledge, and in realism toward the understanding and constructive shaping of the future. This great task demands the best resources of every field of knowledge. There is a job for each in her own field of learning and interests. The college student who is equipping herself to make responsible and constructive use of traditional knowledge and understanding is thereby taking her place in defense. The student or faculty member who not only uses traditional knowledge but pushes back the frontiers of her field is at work in the first line of defense. For only by fresh thinking and new understandings can we meet the new problems that confront us and build the new society which must emerge from the present struggle.

It is not easy for students, eager to participate in defense, to reorganize the classroom and the laboratory as the first lines of defense, it is not easy for them to feel the importance to defense of their day-to-day ground."

IN ADDITION TO this emphasis on age-old values, it is more than ever important today that the students be aware of their power as individuals. They must be equipped with the basic tools—intellectual power, integrity, a social viewpoint, perspective and ability to sacrifice when necessary. For all these skills are essential to the kind of individual that can make effective a modern democratic society.

STILL ANOTHER PHASE on defense work by women is suggested by Dorothy Thompson. She points out that the future of the country depends on the morale of the men who defend it. "American women," she says, "can make the Army either the most loved of professions or the despised. It is up to them."

AND SO THERE are then very concrete things that students right here on the Maryville campus can do toward National Defense. Are we doing our share?

That is what you'd call super-utilitarianism. Tt the Echo staff picnic Bob Francis enticed some of the smaller uninvited guests to return with him—via the pickle jar—to be zoological specimens. Sermons in stones, ants in the sugar, and good in everything. Or is our Shakespeare in the realm of those things better left unsaid?

Also worthy of commendation was Ken Cooper's sudden interpretation of "Invictus." In the fell clutch of circumstance and all that.

First, the approved list of the Association of American Universities, then the National Association of University Women, and now this. The Sunday supplement of the Knoxville Journal last week pictured typical Maryville campus scenes. Janet Brown in Miss America pose, so we hear, has been clipped from scores of papers and now graces various select places on the above-mentioned campus. Me miserum!

Pearsons-panacea-for-all-problems. Sounds good, no? And all it is is crackers and peanut butter. Why don't more people get more boxes? Or have you tried the roll out of bed with a smile act without the inspiration of the Sunshine Sisters? Or seen Betty Haines yet without a smile?

He "shot an arrow into the air; it fell to earth" and whoops! Beautiful rings are reportedly much in evidence in the neighborhood of Margaret MacMillan, Fran Merker, Kay Liddell, Rosemary Park, and Louise Darden—to remember past and present.

Ronald Easter, freshman candidate for class president, arranged his platform around the theme, "A rabbit in everybody's hat," so the publicity managers say. Wonder if that includes Sunday mornings or just week days. We can picture a rabbit festival at Sunday school.

Having Flucy Brooks in the hospital with some unheard-of, unspellable whatsis, (always original, Flucy) is hard on everybody. It seems her room was a sort of community dispensary for Sinful Soul perfume. And it's really potent, too. Ask anyone within yelling distance. And the answer is one word.

Nobody at the Writers' Workshop seemed to mind a bit when Joe Dickinson told them that he was a brick building. Joe's new poetry is really easy on the ears.

Future progress on the campus is to be purely of the cultural type. With new stop signs every seventeen seconds (statistics courtesy of Jamarik) travelers will probably develop an inhibition complex. We only stop green cars, do you?

Gauding To Speak At Nature Club

On Monday night at 6:45 in Science Room 204, the regular meeting of the Nature club will be held. H. H. Gauding, principal of Maryville High school, will show moving pictures of both Yellowstone and Glacier National Parks. All students interested in seeing these travel pictures are invited to the Nature Club meeting.

Exchange

By KAY LIDDELL

—Definition: A convention is what a hotel puts back revolving doors after.

—A rookie, lately arrived at the army camp, was curiously inspecting the mules at too close a range and one of them kicked him cold. His buddies placed him on a stretcher and started for the infirmary. Regaining consciousness, the rookie felt the swaying motion of the stretcher and cautiously lowered his hands over the side.

"Gosh!" he moaned, "I haven't hit ground yet!"

—The race is not always to the swift, nor the battle to the strong but that's not a bad way to bet.

BONERS (At Maryville?)

—To remove the air from a bottle, fill the flask with water, tip the water out and put the cork in quick.

—"The lark that soars on dewey wing" means that the lark was flying so high and flapping his wings so hard that he broke into perspiration.

—Homer was not written by Homer but by a man of the same name.

—A cat is a quadruped, the legs as usual being at the four corners.

—All brutes are imperfect animals. Man alone is a perfect beast.

—The feminine of bachelor is lady-in-waiting.

—Pax in Bello—Freedom from indigestion.

SIDNEY DUKE—TED PRATT THE HIGHLAND ECHO OCTOBER 4, 1941 Page Three

SCOTTIES SMASH UNION 47-0

UNION . . . Our 1941 gridiron heroes make history Saturday night! That's right, in beating the Union College Bulldogs 47-0, the Highlanders shattered a ten-year record for the season's high score. Back in '31, the Maryville warriors downed another Union team 51-0. Then when we looked back a bit farther, we found another astonishing score. Again it was a Union aggregation which fell before the all-powerful Scottie eleven 103-0! That score appears to represent the ultimate in offensive and defensive power. But we all should surely be proud of the 1941 edition of the Scotties. So far, they have displayed a remarkable team spirit and have played enough real ball to roll up impressive scores over two opponents. Let's help them to continue this sportsmanlike fight throughout the remaining "heavy" end of our schedule.

WE'RE TOUGH! . . . We have still been relatively fortunate in our injury department. Jack Kramer, regular tackle, suffered a pulled ligament in his right arm, and was forced to the sidelines all week. Of course, this will keep him below par for tonight's fray, but it is possible Jack will see some service. Les Rock, our speedy veteran end, has missed several practice sessions because of a bad cleat cut on his right hand. His services, too, will probably be limited in tonight's game. Cloninger, our plunging full, has been sporting a taped-up eye for the past week but he's ready and willing tonight. "Tub" Murr is also fully recovered from his brief illness.

Ken Spurlock, the sophomore end from Union who was part of a collision in the first quarter, was treated at Fort Craig during this week for a slight brain concussion. Too few practices and poor physical condition may be blamed for some of his trouble, but we surely hope he recovers quickly. We're glad he could go back to his team-mates with word that some of the Maryville players visited him at the hospital.

INTRAMURALS . . . We think a great deal of credit should go to Hal Lloyd for his weekly Intramural Dope column on this page. His column holds the interest of every boy in the school and gives accurate information regarding the games, standings, and players. Incidentally, our Intramural system, with Coach Fischbach at its head, is to be featured on this page soon. Coach Fischbach's untiring energy and effort has built up this phase of college athletics to a very high degree. Your cooperation can make the system operate even more efficiently.

LOOKING AHEAD . . . If you will quietly take a peek at the remaining teams on our schedule, you will come to realize that they stand as looming barriers over which our Highlanders must leap. For instance, the Emory-Henry machine—ten lettermen and a flock of veterans returned this year to make an experienced and strong squad. King College is usually successful in molding a strong team together to worry their opponents. Carson-Newman's power is never questioned and this year's encounter with the boys from Jefferson City will probably be one of the hardest-fought and hotly-contested battles of the season. Tusculum and Teachers have been highly-rated in the papers and may be a bit on the tough side. Maryville has, for a number of years, found the Teacher team hard to beat but we're all pulling for an upset this year. Let's go get 'em!

IN THE SPORTS WORLD . . . This week has been an outstanding week for sports. On Monday night, Joe Louis said goodbye to his fellow pugilists for a while with a single stick of dynamite set off underthe chin of Lou Nova. Too bad Lou couldn't find time to exhibit his cosmic punch and we'd wager he wasn't using his mathematical formula when Arthur D. was calling off the digits. Wednesday found the Bums of Brooklyn losing the first game of the World Series 3-2. If the results of the first two days continue, we ought to have an interesting series. The Duke- Vol game today caused a little talk, too. Just wait'll Alabama comes up to test the Vplunteers!! There were pletny of other tough games today, among them the Transylvania—they played Cincinnati this year—Maryville game.

HERE AND THERE . . . Have you seen Tumbler Allet dive? He's out for swimming and seems to be a natural! . . . . Red Meineke and N. Hooker looked happy about the fight anyway The Scottie football squad appears to be in good physical condition—they surely look "purty" doing their calisthenics every day—and they're hard to keep down in a game, too Our football programs add quite a bit of color to our games—some improvement!!! "Oil for the greens—sands—of our golf course"—that's our slogan. Coach Fischbach hopes to have one green oiled every day One hears the "queerest odds" on this Series Mrs. Walker would love to see the use her "Carnegie lobby" received around noon on these Series days! Have you seen the classy little blanket the Maid Shop is making for Scottie? It's really good-looking and sports the letters "M C" on both sides. Watch for it!

All Around Offensive and Defensive Play Enables Scotties to Defeat Union In Thrilling 47-0 Rout Saturday Night

Union College was crushed by a devastating Scottie gridiron machine last Saturday night on Wilson Field, 47-0. Ollie Spears and Lloyd Taylor led a Maryville team that was never in trouble and that rolled up long gains time after time to show its clear superiority.

Lloyd Taylor found a hole over left tackle early in the first quarter, and carried the pigskin through it to make the score 6-0. From then on Coach J. R. Bacon's boys from Barbourville, Kentucky, were clearly beaten; but the merciless Highlanders pounded through again and again to roll up the lopsided count.

A few minutes later Taylor again found a hole, this time around right end, and carried the ball to the Union twelve yard line. Bob Morton went over on a reverse, but the play was called back due to a penalty. On the very next play Taylor went over the right side for his second touchdown. Ross Honaker came in for Spears and kicked the extra point, making the score 13-0.

Ollie Spears uncorked one of the prettiest plays of the game early in the second quarter when he scampered through the right side of the line, reversed his field, and outran the entire Union secondary to go over standing up. Ollie also attended to the conversion, to run the tally up to 20-0.

At this point, Coach Honaker began wholesale substitution of scrubs and freshmen; and during much of the second quarter there were 11 frosh on the field. One of the brightest spots of the contest to Scottie fans was when this untried squad managed to push the leather across for still another marker. Pushed deep back in their own end of the field, the helpless Union team fumbled and Maryville recovered on the 12 yard line. Lattimore carried the ball over, and Honaker kicked his second extra point.

As the second half opened, Union's kick was taken by Spears, who ran the ball back about forty yards. Just as Ollie was hit, he lateralled to Captain Norman Hooker, who scampered down the sideline and across the double stripe just like a star backfielder. This unusual play made the score 34-0, as Spears again converted.

Charles Pepper, freshman back, ran 38 yards on a reverse play in the fourth quarter. Honaker's kick was too low. Soon afterwards, Brand scored the final Maryville marker. Tis time Honaker's kick was good, making the tally 47-0.

Every man on the Scottie squad saw action, 33 players in all. In addition to the brilliant play of the first-stringers, Maryville's promising freshmen continued to look like football players. Brand, who scored in his first college game, Morton, Lattimore, and Honaker figured in several good plays, as did Pepper and Webb.

Union's offense was notoriously weak, and the Bulldogs never had the ball long enough to roll up much yardage. Their only first down came from penalties called on overanxious Highlander linesmen. Pursiful shone as linebacker for Union, and figured in many tackles, due to the fact that Maryville's ball carrier usually got through to the secondary before being stopped. Left end Armstrong, captain of the losers, was also among the better players on the field.

Starting lineups:

Maryville (47)		Union (0)
Shelfer	RE	Armstrong
Mitchell	RT	Ford
Herzberger	RG	Bostic
Hooker	C	Shoupe
Wilson	LG	Reese
Kramer	LT	Smith
Rock	LE	Rice

Transylvania To Test Scots Tonight

Heavy Pioneer Squad Favored Over Locals; Game Starts At 7:30

Our unbeaten Scotties tangle with the Transylvania Pioneers tonight at 7:30 on Wilson Field. Despite the fact that they will enter the contest as underdogs, Coach Piney Page's boys from Lexington, Ky., are highly respected. They were defeated 43-0 by Cincinnati University in their only start this season.

The Pioneers boast a wealth of experienced, with five seniors in the starting lineup. Last year they won five games, lost three, and tied one against such competition as Dayton, Georgetown, and Centre. It is interesting to note that the Pioneers tied Union 0-0 last season. Maryville defeated Union by a lopsided score last week-end.

Sparkplug of the Transylvania attack is James Miller, 165 pound halfback who hails from Gary, Ind. His running mate is Harry Fritz, a 165 pound scatback from Wheelersburg, Ohio. Both lads are seniors, and their flashy running and steady defensive work gives the Pioneers a capable secondary. Billy Lockridge, 155 pounder, calls signals from the quarterback slot, and is a junior star.

Two mammoth tackles and a 200 pound guard will give the Pioneers one of the heaviest lines that Maryville has faced this year. Carmen Biazzo and Dan Barr, a 220 pound giant, are the starting tackles, while Ken Warren, who tips the beam at 200, is one of the heaviest guards in the section.

Transylvania also has a stalwart brother combination in Louie and Ashley Hatchett of Elkmont, Ala. Louie is the starting center, and Ashley is a reserve guard who sees lots of action in most contests.

Maryville will enter the game at near-top strength, despite the numerous slight injuries incurred in the torrid Union contest. Les Rock still sports a bandage on his right hand, but will be ready to go at top speed. Roy Cloninger, most seriously injured Scottie last Saturday, missed practice most of this week, but will probably be able to start tonight. His eye was closed for several days, but is now healing satisfactorily.

Jack Kramer injured an arm in practice Tuesday, but the wing has healed quickly. Ernest Murr, who was sick and unable to play much last Saturday, is also fully recovered.

Tonight's fracas is the last home contest for Maryville until the homecoming game with Carson-Newman on November 1. Next week will see the Scotties tangle with King at Bristol. On October 25 they will encounter Emory-Henry at Emory, Va. On November 8 they journey to Johnson City for a game with E-T Teachers, and on the following week they engage Tusculum at Greeneville. The last game of the season is with Western and will take place on Wilson Field.

Kickoff time has been moved up to 7:30 due to the change back to standard time. Halftime color will be furnished by the Maryville band, as usual, and the field has been decorated by the sophomore class in crimson, Transylvania's school color.

Probable starting lineups:

Maryville	Pos.	Transyl.
Shelfer	LE	Thomas
Mitchell	LT	Barr
Murr	LG	Howard
Hooker	C	L. Hatchett
Wilson	RG	Warren
Kramer	RT	Biazzo
Rock	RE	Rapier
Spears	QB	Lockridge
Morton	HB	Fritz
Taylor	HB	Miller
Cloninger	FB	Thornberry

Twenty Scottie Tankmen Report

Coach George Fischbach called the first swimming practice for Friday, September 26. Husky hopefuls reported for practice in the pool. Three days a week, Coach Fischbach said, is plenty of practice at the beginning. Getting into shape for a strenuous swimming season should be gradual and thorough.

Of course it is hard to predict as early as this, but a bunch of frosh and new swimmers have reported for duty who are willing to work hard for a good season. Carl Allet, tumbler, moves his tumbling act right out on the board and looks promising. Ray Swartzback showed style and speed with a smooth crawl. Roberson, Coleville, Zimmerman, Sidner, Hogue, Robison, and T. Smith are among the new spray-makers. Weiss, Elwell, Malone, Devereaux and J. Walker return for a new season of swimming. With twenty or more boys out—all eager to work hard for a successful season, the Scottie aquatic squad should show us some real meets this year.

INTRAMURALS

TENNIS—

Intramural tennis took the spotlight this week as the singles and doubles tournaments approached the final brackets. Weather has been good, and the matches have been played in quick order, with several upsets on the record.

In the upper half of the singles tournament Bob Hunter has taken every one of his matches with very little trouble. Ed Wiezalis has done the same thing and Hunter and Wiezalis are scheduled to meet in one of the two semi-final matches.

Another local student is Jack Kramer whose major is political science. Jack is a member of the varsity football squad in addition to being secretary in Hi Trail. Electrician on the campus is John Hawkins of Port Jefferson, New York. John's major is phillisophy and his preference as to the societies is Alpha Sig.

The sophomores selected are Roy Laughmiller, Fred DePue, Betty Jean Miller, and Mary Evelyn Waisman. Roy's home is in St. Petersburg, Fla.; Fred's is in Bangor, Pa. The former was a freshman May Queen attendant last year and is also on the business staff of the Echo. Fred, a member of Alpha Sig, is a political science major.

Mary Evelyn Waisman, better known as Shorty, is from Knoxville. In addition to being a member of Bainonian, Shorty is a Nu Gamma leader this year. Her colleague, Betty Jean Miller belongs to Theta and is majoring in French. Betty Jean's home is in Roselle, New Jersey.

This system of having all the voting take place at one central poll rather than in individual classes was inaugurated last year by the Student Council and has proved highly successful. It is an advance in systemized method and is greater assurance against the elimination of certain undesirable practices.

Every ticket which is issued on the campus, as well as elsewhere, is required to specify the price of admission, the amount of tax and the total admission. This information must be either stamped or printed on each ticket so that the public can know just how much tax it is paying for what.

As this federal excise tax is a new tax, further information concerning it will be sent out at various times. The tax law, as it now stands, may be changed from time to time. These changes will be made known to Mr. and Mrs. America immediately, since knowledge of the general public is one of the first steps in protecting it from "tax profiteers" who are apt to spring into existence.

Intramurals . . .

Hunter is still favored, but anything might happen. The match will probably have been play by tonight, weather permitting, and one of these two boys will be in line for final honors.

In the other half of the singles, blond freshman Bill Adams has dodged and smashed his way into that semi-finals match. Bill is fast on his feet and hits the ball with plenty of push when he needs it. His last victory was over Jim Smith, also a freshman who has been showing up well. On Thursday afternoon Hal Lloyd defeated Charley Earp to move into the semi-finals against Adams. The winner of the Lloyd-Adams match will meet the winner of the Hunter-Wiezalis setup in the tournament finals probably Monday afternoon on the Memorial courts. If Hunter and Lloyd are the players, the match will be another incident in a long-standing rivalry. No matter who the men are, the games will be worth anyone's time to see.

In the doubles tournament Ken Ross and Bill Evans upset Art Rowan and Johnny Hoelzer to take their place in the semi-finals against the Wick brothers. And Chuck Foreman and Jim Faulkner are scheduled in the other semi-finals match against Loesher and Smith. Those matches will be hard fought —all of them—and will have been completed by Saturday night.

The finals of both tournaments will be played Monday afternoon, barring inclement weather, Manager Horace Scherer said last Thursday.

FOOTBALL—

The intramural football season is more than half gone, and the favorites in each league are fast excluding the possibility of anyone's beating them out. Alpha Sig in the Club League and the Blanks in the Independent League haven't lost a game yet (Thursday) and apparently don't intend to.

Last Friday the Blanks rode the Cream Puffs 20 to 0, with Ken Cooper, Bill Evans, and Alan Rock pushing the ball across. Rowan hung up two extra points. The Frosh continued their winning streak by taking Athenian 13 to 6. It was Art Miller, John Neff, and Sam Pemberton for the Frosh and Warren Culver for Athenian. Alpha Sig outdid the Preachers 16 to 6, with Sweeney, Graham, and Howard for Alpha Sig and Alan Moore for the Ministerials. The Question Marks forfeited to the 45's.

The games on Tuesday of this week looked something like this:

Blanks 19—45's 6—

After actually trailing in score during part of the first quarter the Blanks eked out three touchdowns and a point to keep their record clear. But for a while the 45's rather worried Art Rowan's steamrollers. The 45's scored first on a long pass to Smith. The point failed. But that touchdown pepped the underdogs up to lots of enthusiasm and great ambitions and goaded the invincibles until they were mad. So Bill Evans, Chuck Foreman, and Jim Hedges followed each other across the goal line for 18 points, and LeRoy McGaha stuck in his two cents with one point. Commentators said that the Blanks just weren't up to par, but their par is high enough to give them a little leeway. That freshman, Loesher, is a pepper for the 45's. Watch him

Cream Puffs—

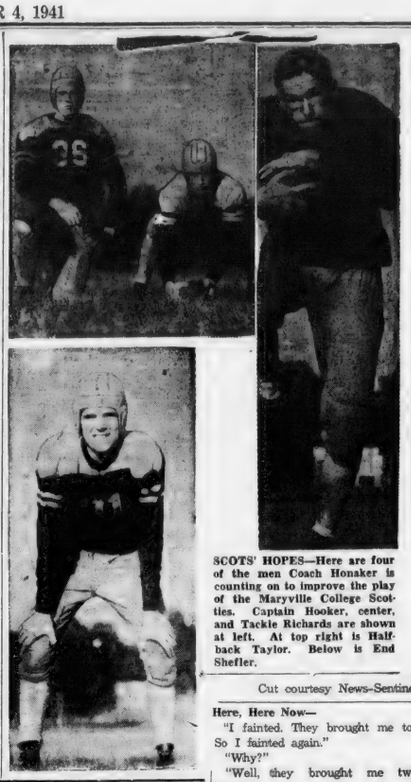
These Question Marks are the team with the least hope in either league. The best they've been able to show for a week or more is a forfeit to each opponent. Their percentage still stands at .000.

Alpha Sig 38—Frosh 0

The Frosh went off their winning streak and lost a game after two encouraging wins. But on Tuesday they lacked something so that the Alpha Sig fellows hardly had to work for those 38 tallies. George Howard crossed the big stripe twice, John Tinley twice, Ted Holman once, and Bob Miller once. Extra points came from Bob Mair and Ray Dewees. But the Frosh have shown that they've got the makings of a good team, and this defeat by the league leaders isn't a particular disgrace. Alpha Sig has a percentage of 1.000 and is looking toward the league championship.

Ministerials 8—Athenian 0—

Finally the Ministerials beat Athenian. The Athenians can't stop losing; so the Preachers took advantage of them and humbled them for the second time. Dick Boyd hung up 6 of the points for the winners, and Joe Suitor blocked an Athenian punt which scored a safety and two more.



GOLF—

Coach Fischbach said this week that the golf tournament would wait for the repairing of the greens on the campus course. Old oil is being placed on the nine greens so that they will be in shape for some decent putting in the tournament. The fall tournament is to be a doubles affair in which the aggregate scores of each team will be counted on each hole. Scoring will be according to match play. That is, it will be according to holes and the total number of strokes will not be considered.

The greens will be ready within ten days or less. Entrees planning to team up will do well to get in a few practice stroke sthis week. Detailed announcements about signing up will appear late this week or early next week.

Trueblood at Chapel

Dr. Hill Shine Publishes Book

Title: 'Carlyle and the Saint-Simonians'

Last week Dr. Hill Shine, associate professor of English, received the first issues of his new book, "Carlyle and the Saint-Simonians," just off the press. Dr. Shine has written several previous studies about Carlyle; this is the most recent one and concerns the concept of historical periodicity. The book was published by the Johns Hopkins Press of Baltimore, Maryland.

Of great assistance to Dr. Shine in writing his book was the use of microfilm. This is coming in greater and wider use as it enables valuable manuscripts and rare books to be circulated as they could not otherwise be. Each page can be photographed on the film which is extremely small and can be easily projected with the proper machine at a cost of less than a cent a page. Cost of the projecting machine has also been rapidly decreasing—and is now only $35 although it has been around $70. Many libraries now use microfilm extensively; the Maryville library possesses some. The microfilm will be of even more value because of the disregard of rare publications in European centers resulting from the war.

Ted Pratt To Fill Junior Vacancy On Echo Staff

Freshmen Selected To Occupy Eight Apprentice Positions

Early this week at a combined meeting of the Echo editors, the faculty committee on publications, and the publications committee of the Student Council, one junior, Ted Pratt, and eight freshmen were chosen to fill the same number of vacancies on the reportorial staff of the Highland Echo.

As a result of the tryouts among members of the junior class, Ted Pratt was chosen to be the new staff member. This additional member was selected to fulfill the regulation which requires a minimum of three juniors on the newspaper staff. Ted is from Westerville, Ohio. He is on the YM cabinet, and he is also a tennis player and photographer.

Precedent was pushed aside when only a portion of the vacancies were filled from students in the 103 English classes. The remaining vacancies will be filled in the near future by selected students from the 101 classes.

Since early in the school year tryouts have been held among freshmen of the 103 classes. Last week at this time twenty-six students from the 103 classes remained in the annual freshman struggle for journalist superiority. Journalist mortality rate was high among these contesting students during the week; thus we find eight remaining students filling the same number of positions.

Those chosen to write for the Echo are Lester Boyd, Camille Brent, Charles Chapman, William Jarnagin, Paul Kolter, Carleen Ramsey, Willis Sanderson, and Ernestine Ulmer.

The new Echo members attended their first staff meeting Tuesday evening at 6:45 in the chemistry lecture room. All staff members introduced themselves, and Dr. F. A. Griffitts, faculty advisor for the Echo, spoke briefly. The meeting ended with general staff assignments.

At the last meeting, Miss Johnson "The American Minerva" and Jean Patterson read "Doomed."

Davis Completes 25 Years Teaching; Receives Honors

Dr. Lloyd Praises Davis In Speech At Faculty Dinner

Dr. E. W. DAVIS

Cut courtesy Knoxville Journal

At the Faculty Club dinner last Monday night Dr. Edmund Wayne Davis was honored for his completion of twenty-five years of teaching at Maryville College. In keeping with the importance of the occasion Dr. Ralph Waldo Lloyd made the following speech before presenting Dr. Davis twenty-five roses, symbolizing his twenty-five years of service:

"At the first meeting of the Faculty Club last year we paid special honor to the eight members of our faculty and staff who had then completed twenty-five or more years of service to Maryville College. In order of seniority they were: Mrs. West, Miss Green, Mr. Proffitt, Mr. Walker, Mr. Brown, Miss Jewell, Mr. Ellis, and Mrs. Wrinkle.

"At commencement time last June another member of our group completed twenty-five years at Maryville. His achievement brings the membership of the active Twenty-Five Year Club to nine. He is but the twentieth person in the whole history of Maryville Col-

YW Hikers Spend Afternoon In Smoky Mountains

Campfire, Odd Menu, and Group Singing Add to Fun

This afternoon at 1:00 one hundred girls and 20 members of the faculty and their wives forgot their academic duties and worries while they inaugurated the fall season with the annual YWCA hike. Leaving the campus after lunch the group went by chartered bus and auto to the Sinks on the Gatlinburg highway. There they left the cars and took a trail leading to Buckhorn Gap, this being one of the most scenic trails in the Smoky Mountains National Park.

An afternoon snack of apples and candy bars served to stay the pangs of hunger until the hikers reached their destination. At the camp ground they cooked supper over the camp fires. The menu included such delicacies as "angels-on-horseback," potatoes, doughnuts, apples and coffee. After supper there was group singing and a program of campfire fun.

Among the faculty members participating in the hike are Dr. Orr, Dr. Williams, Dr. Griffitts, Mr. Barker, Dr. Briggs, Mr. Hovel, and Dr. Collins.

Marian Jenkins, member of the YW athletic committee, was in charge of all the arrangements for the hike.

The group will return to the campus about 10:00 tonight.

Fine Arts Department Entertains With A Tea

On October 8 from 3:30 to 5:30 an open house reception was held at Isnala, the new college art studio. The reception was given by the women connected with the Fine Arts department. Mrs. Lloyd, Miss Davies, Mrs. West, Miss Horne, Miss Purinton, Miss Seedorf, Miss Cowen, and Mrs. Davis were in the reception line. The guests at the tea included the trustees and faculty of the college and friends of art from town. Girls who are majors in the Fine Arts department served the tea.

Artist Series To Include 'Pasquale', Kiepura and Kitain

First of Presentations Opens October 25 With 'Don Pasquale'

The management of the College Artists Series has recently made an announcement concerning the selections for the 1941-42 Series which opens October 25, with Donizetti's "Don Pasquale." In addition to "Don Pasquale," the season will include Anatole Kitain, pianist, and Jan Kiepura, tenor, appearing on Voorhees' concert stage the evenings of February 23 and March 16, respectively.

Donizetti's opera, "Don Pasquale" will be received with particular enthusiasm by those who enjoyed "The Barber of Seville" in the past season. "Don Pasquale" is under the musical direction of Guiseppe Bamboschek, and is staged even more elaborately than "The Barber" by the same manager, Desire Defrere. It includes an all-star cast augmented by selected voices from the Metropolitan Opera Chorus. The principals include three Metropolitan stars, Stella Andreva, soprano; Bruno Landi, tenor; and Francesco Valentina, baritone; and a highly recommended newcomer, Oscar Lassner, gifted basso buffo, a refugee artist who, in happier days, has sung leading roles in all the important European festivals and under the greatest conductors.

Anatole Kitain, a young Russian pianist now a permanent resident of this country, has had noteworthy success abroad and comes to Maryville on a return American concert tour. Born in St. Petersburg, the son of a professor at the Academy of Music there, he made rapid progress at piano in the Imperial Conservatory under Blumenfeld, a pupil of Rubenstein. His numerous concert tours in his native Russia, the Far East, and Western Europe have been brilliantly successful; and criticism has been glowing, especially in regard to his solo performance with such organizations as the London Philharmonic, the Pasdeloup Orchestra in Paris, the Lisbon Symphony, and the Concertge-

College Is Represented By Miss Nancy Hunter

Maryville College was represented at the meeting of the Tennessee American Association of University Women Workers' Conference yesterday and today by Miss Nancy Hunter, secretary to President Lloyd.

Since Maryville was accepted into this organization last spring this is the first meeting at which the College has been represented.

The meeting was held at Standing Stone State Park in the north central part of the state. Dean Agnes Ellen Harris, new vice-presidnt of the Southeast Central Region and Dean of Women at the University of Alabama, was the speaker at the meeting.

Music Department Presents First Student Recitals

Program To Include Vocal, Piano, and Violin Selections

At 4:15 on Friday afternoon, October 17, seven students taking applied music will present a student recital in Voorhees chapel. This recital will inaugurate a series which will be held in the chapel every other week.

The program Friday will feature two voice students, two piano students, and a violin solo and duet. Louise Marshall and Carl Miller will be the vocalists; Ruth Duggan and Florence Barber will play the piano selections, and Katherine Crews the violin solo. The Reed twins will play a Bach concerto for two violins.

These student recitals are presented as a part of the requirements for music students, and attendance is required of all students wishing credit in applied music. The Music Department cordially extends invitation, however, to anyone who may wish to attend.

Cosmopolitan Atmosphere Invades Maryville College Campus

By MARY FELKNOR

From the Atlantic to the Pacific, from the Gulf to the Great Lakes; and from Iran, China, Peurto Rico, and Africa we come to make Maryville College our Alma Mater. There are 33 states and four foreign countries represented in our student body, Tennessee, Pennsylvania, and New York heading the list. It is not uncommon to find students from California and Tennessee, Brooklyn and Birmingham, Massachusetts and Mississippi, or Texas and Ohio rooming together.

Ordinarily such a situation would present a difficult problem but at Maryville there are few noticeable differences among students. For example, Charley's Aunt—er, pardon me, Dave McDaniel, senior from Lenoir City, Tenn., says he finds that students from different sections of the country seem to get along better (at Maryville) than they do in most schools. Dave was born near Tupelo, Miss., moved to Cleveland, Ohio, then back to Lenoir City—so he's qualified to make such a statement.

Frank Cross, senior from Birmingham, Ala., and Ethics assistant, swimmer, etc., agrees with Dave and comments on the prevalence of a democratic influence on the campus. From a Southern Gentleman's point of view, Frank declares that Southerners are "amazingly tolerant"—then he wants to know why during his four years at Maryville he has never been able to get a southern roommate!

"Spote" Shelfer, football star from Quincy, Fla., shares Frank's preference for Southerners, but he, too, is surprised to find everyone "getting along."

Lee Hernard, California transfer who rooms with Norma Perry, has had little difficulty in adjusting herself to the "east." She is only amused by the way we talk!

As for selecting one's close friends, Carl Alette, the agile tumbler from Philadelphia, Pa., says that students seek their friends among people from their own section of the country. "However," he stated, "it makes it particularly interesting that there are so many places represented here; it tends to make the school less provincial."

Ruth Sutherlin, Cincinnati, Ohio, who is doing honors work in Religious Education, expressed much the same idea in saying, "this variety of contacts is one of the best points of Maryville College because there is much to be learned from people that come from so many different places." Natalie Yelton, junior, of Raleigh, N. C., Pi Kappa Delta debater, has certainly learned her share along this line. As a freshman Natalie roomed with a girl from Wisconsin. It seems that it took them several weeks to understand each other's slanguage and ways. Once they caught on, however, both were as happy as could be!

Meredith Preston, junior cheerleader from Binghampton, N. Y., stated a somewhat typical Yankee view, "It does away with the northern idea that you can't speak to anyone you don't know. It makes it much easier to meet people." Bina Brown, senior from Laurel, Miss., doesn't worry about meeting people, it's WHO she meets. And she compares the advantage of meeting people from "everywhere" to meeting those of just one state as is often the case in state schools.

Dean Stiles, senior choir member from Beverly, Mass., sums the situation up very well in saying, "There is a slight tendency for sectional paring off, but on a whole the student body mixes very well. This pairing off is more obvious in boys or boy and girl relationships than just among the girls."

This is the impression of the upperclassmen. Now Freshmen and Sophomores, what is yours?

Glee Club Needs Basses and Tenors

Miss Cowen, director of the Glee Club, says several more basses and tenors are needed to balance the more numerous girls in the organization. There will be a meeting on Tuesday night at 7:00 in the chapel; all who wish to try out are welcome. Competitors must be able to read music by sight.

Dean Stiles has recently been elected president of the boys' glee club, Horace Justus, business manager. Becky Jones, president of the girls' club, was elected last May.

The Glee Club has been singing secular songs and will continue to do so for a while; however, they will soon start preparing for the annual presentation of "The Messiah," which all of us are eagerly anticipating. Considering the number of excellent singers at Maryville, we should have a very successful and entertaining Glee Club this year.

Mrs. West Announces Cast Of 'Charley's Aunt'

Dave McDaniels Has Lead In Year's First Production

TO BE GIVEN SOON

Hellums, Airheart, White, Berg In Feminine Roles

"Charley's Aunt" is now in production as Mrs. West finished casting the play last Tuesday. David McDaniels, a senior sociology major from Lenoir City, Tenn., received the part of Lord Fancourt Babberly, or "Charley's Aunt." Dave is on the wrestling team and was elected to the Student Council last week.

The part of Bassett is to be played by Dudley Moore. Dud has had ample experience with farce as he was a member of the cast of "Pure As the Driven Snow." Dud is a chemistry major from Lorain, Ohio.

Robert Schwarzwalder, an art major from Willow Grove, Pa., has been cast as Charles Wykeham, 'Charley.' Bob is program secretary of the Art Club, a member of the tumbling team. He has won several of the prizes that have been offered to the art students. Bob was a member of the cast of "Abraham Lincoln" last year.

Melvin Johnson, a chemistry major from Worcester, Mass., is to play Jack Chesney. Mel got his wings in the CAA course that was offered here last year. He was cast in "Pure As the Driven Snow," and has taken an active part in many other plays at Maryville.

Kitty Verdun is to be played by Francis John Hellums, a dramatic art major from Rotan, Texas. John had a part in "Lincoln" and is taking an active part in all the dramatics on the campus.

Mary Esther White, a dramatic art major from Beaver, Pa., is to play the part of Amy Spettigue. Mimi has also been an active participant in all the dramatic work here.

Fred DePue, a sophomore art major from Bangor, Pa., is to play Sir Francis Chesney. Fred won the prize for his oil still life, "Pink Dogwood," last year at the art exhibit held in the library.

George Tibbetts, a senior history major from Newportville, Pa., has been cast as Stephen Spettigue. George is president of the Triangle Club this year and he has also been active in the dramatic department.

Richard Boyd, an English major from Trenton, N. J., is to play Farmer. Dick is a member of the Writers' Workshop and has been a member of the Ministerial Association.

The part of Donna Lucia d'Alvadoreg, Charley's real aunt, is to be played by Virginia Berg. Virginia is a dramatic art major from Belmar, N. J. Virginia is a member of Theta Alpha Phi, and this year took the vacancy left by Frank Brink as Mrs. West's assistant.

Ela Delahay is to be played by Helen Airhart. Helen is also a dramatic art major and she comes from Scottsboro, Ala.

Mrs. West announced that additions to the staff have to be supplied for costumers, properties, assistant to the stage manager, assistant to the business manager, and assistant to the director. These positions are to be filled by Betty Jean Kennedy, Betty Clevenger, Georgia Lu Meadows, Mary Wintermute, Ruth Sutherlin, and Alice Jones.

Speech Group Holds Debate Tuesday Night

On Tuesday evening the varsity debate class will hold their first practice debate of the year. The question will be: Resolved, that the Federal Government should regulate Labor Unions by Law.

Upholding the affirmative will be Natalie Yelton, Frank Cross, and Charles Foreman. The negation will include Phyllis Anne Cain, Janet Lindsay, and Henry Wick. Hilton Wick is to be the chairman for the evening. A critic decision will be given by J. Edward Thomas, a former varsity debater.

Disc Club Program To Be Presented by Professor Colbert

Flagsted, Trauble, Maynor Recordings Are Scheduled

Professor Ralph Colbert will take charge of the next meeting of the Disc Club on October 16, at 6:30. He will present his three favorite women singers, Kirsten Flagsted, Helen Trauble, and Dorothy Maynor in some beautiful and varied selections by such composers as Grieg, Schubert and Handel.

The "Prof" will not only provide his own records but also his own very special commentation. No word need be said for the greatest soprano of our times, Kirsten Flagsted; and those who were fortunate enough to hear Dorothy Maynor in Knoxville last year will welcome the opportunity to hear this fine negro singer again.

Helen Trauble is appearing in Knoxville very soon, but there is no need to envy those who have the two dollars to hear her; for here is the chance to hear her best selections at the Disc Club.

We are very grateful to Prof. Colbert for not only the opportunity to hear his fine recordings but to have him tell us about them.

The Disc Club has been having record attendance. There were over a hundred present at the last meeting. It is encouraging to find there are so many interested in hearing good music. This fact, alone, speaks for need on the campus for the Carnegie Music Set. Everyone is invited next Thursday evening at 6:30 to the Fine Arts studio in the chapel.

Scott, Long and Caldwell Are Other Officers Chosen

On Monday morning, October 6, the freshman class held a special election to elect officers and student council representatives to run off the primary which was conducted the previous Friday.

Lloyd Anderson of the Belgian Congo is the newly elected president while Peggy Caldwell of Tallahassee, Fla., is vice-president. The secretary will be Catherine Scott of Canton, Ill., and the winning candidate for treasurer is Bill Long, whose home is in Steubenville, Ohio.

The class chose as their representatives for the coming year on the Student Council, Andrew Maisano of Wilmington, Delaware, and John DeForrest of Dedham, Mass.

WHAT PRICE SCOTTIE?

Remember our Scottie problem of last week? As far as any definite solution is concerned, we're still at a loss. But several of the campus dignitaries have offered suggestions and opinions which we believe would be of general interest to the student body. Here they are:

HELEN PRATT, who is the present vice-president of Bainonian, treasurer of the YWCA, and newly-elected Student Council member, says: "Scottie has become dear to all of us; but that's just it—he gets 'dearer' all the time. Since the floor is open for discussion, and since the Triangle Club gave us (or gave Miss Heron) the dog, why can't they, with Miss Jessie, find a new owner for our present mascot? Then why couldn't all the state clubs go together to see about a new Scottie? Each club could share the responsibility of his keep, and in so doing would feel an even stronger attachment to the dog. Think, too, of the publicity for your club when you could say, "We gave Scottie his bath this week', or 'We bought Scottie his last cold tablets'."

HENRY WICK, who has held too many student positions to mention, sees it this way: "Maryville has always been a civic-minded community; now is the time for some friend of the College to do his part. A small classified ad in the Enterprise and Times stating that one refined, trained Scottie dog (a good watchdog) needs a cultured, well-educated family, should bring results. The only string attached to the offer would be that Scottie is to have a few evenings off a week, for pep meetings and football games. A Scottie dog is valuable, and quite a few people should jump at the chance to get something for nothing."

This is what CHERIE CURTIS, secretary of Theta Epsilon, thinks about it: "A club is not of present members only, nor do obligations graduate with older students. I believe the Triangle Club should care for Scottie until arrangements can be made by the club or others for another organization to take the responsibility. Several groups could share the expense, or a 'Scottie Club' could be formed. Orchids to Miss Heron for her contribution. Don't let her down, kids."

KEN COOPER, the treasurer of the Triangle Club, is of this opinion: "Scottie means a lot during football season, but—if all the clubs would cooperate, the state clubs especially, in setting aside a budget for that specific purpose, then I'd say keep this Scottie. But if they wouldn't ALL cooperate, get a new one every year."

POLLY PARK, charming band twirler, has this to say: "Even a dog ought to be rewarded for faithfulness—Scottie has been faithful. Somewhere and somehow, a fund must be provided. He is trained to fill the position and adds much to the spirit of the College. Let's keep Scottie."

ANDY RICHARDS, star of the Scottie eleven, expresses himself this way: "The Army has its mule and Yale has its bulldog, and Maryville must have its Scottie. These world-famous institutions think their mascots important enough to find a way to keep them permanently, so surely Scottie should mean enough to us to do the same.

"The solution? Just because one club fell down on its obligations, it doesn't mean some other club, or group of clubs, would not be willing to care for the feeding of our Scottie. If, however, the clubs can't see their way clear to aid, why not have a coin box in the Y store, or even ask for contributions from those students who are willing and interested enough to aid. Scottie IS Maryville, and neither must disappear."

BETTY DYER, typical cottage freshman, says this: "Maryville without Scottie would be like bread without butter. I definitely do not approve of giving up Scottie as our mascot, but I do believe that we should do something about the problem. If the Triangle Club cannot maintain the expenses of the little fella, then I think that it is up to them to furnish some kind of entertainment and let the proceeds be for the upkeep of Scottie. If anyone can, I'm sure the Triangle Club could and would find some solution to the problem."

And JOHN BOGOSIAN, our dark-haired tumbler, says: "Let's not only have Scottie for our football games, but retain the spirit of him on the campus throughout the year. Why not use Scottie as mascot for other sports instead of just football? If the student body is interested enough in keeping Scottie, I'm sure that funds can be raised through the help of our Student Council. We can originate a Scottie Fund which will enable us to keep him from year to year without making a large hole in any one person's pocketbook, if everyone will do a small part financially. What is a college without a mascot? Let's give Scottie our support!"

These have been the opinions and feelings of others. What are yours?

As I See It

By JANET LINDSAY

Dr. Edwin R. Hunter, Dean of Curriculum, Professor of English, and Chairman of the Division of Languages and Literature, has been kind enough to review Dr. Shine's recent book. His review follows:

CARLYLE AND THE SAINT-SIMONIANS, Shine, Hill, Johns Hopkins Press, Baltimore, 1941. Pp. vii-xiii; 1-191.

The writing of biography has undergone much change in the past generation. It is no longer a matter of dates and events merely, but of an effort to recover the circumstances which shaped the man, which led to his choices and motivated his actions. Especially notable is that type of biography which has sought to trace in the man the development of ideas; to trace back to its inception a characteristic idea and then to follow it through the stages of its emergence, its shaping and fitting into the larger patterns of his thought, and its growth and development in his speech or writings.

This method has a new and brilliant example in Professor Hill Shine's book, just published, in which he records the history of one of the characteristic ideas of Thomas Carlyle. The study is made with admirable thoroughness. Patient running down of all possible sources of information is there, represented by the tracing to the manuscript vault of the Yale University Library of the unpublished ninety-page fragment of Carlyle's HISTORY OF GERMAN LITERATURE, left unfinished in 1830. Notable too is the use of the most modern aids to research in securing from Paris of microphotographed copies of many of the publications of the Saint-Simonians Society, which was active in post-revolutionary France in the late twenties of the Nineteenth Century.

The idea, the history of which is traced, is the idea of the periodicity of history, which means "that human history shows not a constantly straightforward progressive development, but a periodic alternation of (1) eras of advance and (2) eras of recession. After an epoch of advance regularly comes an epoch of recession; then advance; then recession, and so on." (p. 1, n1) Professor Shine's principal point of proof is to show that this idea, in the course of its development in Carlyle's thought, was definitely influenced by the writings of the French Saint-Simonians, an active group of social and religious thinkers whose writings came to Carlyle's notice in the summer of 1830. At the same time he is careful to make clear that before this first view of the Saint-Simonian publications Carlyle had an idea of periodicity already in the process of development, perhaps out of the ground of his association with Coleridge and that later he found confirmation of the ideas in the writings of Goethe who denominated the alternating periods of history as periods of belief and unbelief.

The crux of the proof, then, is to show, with the proper care against claiming too much, that the contact with the Saint-Simonian writings and with the members of the group which Carlyle met in London, was an influence in the shaping of the idea. In this Professor Shine shows admirable caution and scholarly integrity. Would Carlyle have come through into his active period in the thirties with a fully developed idea of periodicity had he never had the knowledge of the Saint-Simonians? This question the author answers with a carefully guarded affirmative. Indeed one of the best statements in the book is on this point; it comes, as Professor Shine's pupils will not be surprised to discover, in a footnote. After remarking in the text (p. 69) that in the months when SARTOR RESARTUS was taking form, Carlyle had at last found in the Saint-Simonian writings a decisive systematic exposition of historic processes, he concludes in the note: "Incidentally, we may observe in this experience a parallel to other experiences in Carlyle's intellectual history. More than once his long gropings were finally polarized by the discovery of his desideratum lucidly expressed and by his adoption of the expression that he found."

We feel strong confidence that this study will receive general acclaim among scholars in the field. It commends itself for many excellencies; notably for its lucid style and careful documentation, but chiefly because it deals faithfully with the one point of focus, the biography of an idea. In the years between 1829 and 1841 Carlyle lived as all men do; ate, slept, transacted business, met people, went on journeys, had things happen to him; but those matters, often the warp and woof of biolgraphy, do not engage us here. Only an idea, incubating, emergening, groping—then polarized and given lucid form in language—and then, through ten years, developing. That is the story. And it is set down for us, once and for all, in this very attractive little book. —EDWIN R. HUNTER

YM Selects Date For Annual Jaunt To Great Smokies

Menning And Evans To Cook for Group At Chimney's Camp

October 18 and 19 was chosen for the annual YMCA hike, one of the high spots of the Y program. The Chimney's camping ground will be the base for the hikers and all hikes will proceed from there.

Approximately 55 men can be taken, but if more express a desire to go, an attempt will be made to accomodate them. To make sure of your place on the hike, pay your 50c (to cover part of the expense) to Stan Menning, 225 Carnegie; or Henry Wick, 315 Carnegie, as soon as possible. The group will leave from Carnegie hall at 1:00 Saturday afternoon and will return to the campus Sunday evening in time for supper. Transportation is furnished to the Chimneys.

Approximately ten different hikes may be taken to points of interest from the proposed camp ground, the best known being the hike to the top of M.t LeConte. The Smokies will be especially beautiful at this time of year, and all who can do so, are urged to go. Another attraction is expected to be plenty of good food cooked by a staff of chefs under Stan Menning's and Jimmy Evan's direction. Miss Meiselwitz has cooperated in helping arrange a suitable and satisfying menu. The worship committee has planned to have Dr. Case lead the devotions on Sunday morning, and several other men faculty members will accompany the hikers. Announcements will be made later as to the equipment each man should take.

Old Spice

By JEAN BARNES

Take a deep breath; say the magic words, turn around twice, and see where that gets you.

And here it is another Saturday to mark off the calendar. In case you wonder why everything is so dismal tonight, remember a hundred of the world's best signed up for the YW hike to the Sinks. And what a day for it!

Dr. Gates' lectures are really magnetic it seems—even the animals. A bird came dashing in late to class on Tuesday, apologizing profusely, and fussed around for the longest time—wanted a front seat. (And John Hawkins had it.) Distracted the philosophical scholars too, and they started to follow the Look Upward slogan and turned unanimously to nature study.

And speaking of looking around, delivery to your door is reportedly sometimes rather round about. Harold Eaken's efficiency is only exceeded by his generosity. But when he starts delivering Baldwin mail to Carnegie, that's too much of a good thing.

Carnegie, huh? And in this corner we have—. And in this corner—Shucks! we can't see for the crowd. Anyway the Philip Wye shearing ceremony seems to have been a rather unevenly matched affair. The situation reminds us inevitably of "Believe me if all those endearing young charms, Which I gaze on so fondly today, Were to change by tomorrow . . ."

Oh, incidentally, remember it rained just twice this year? Or recall Charlie Burgreen's "heavy dew" of last Saturday about chapel time? Is it an unfailing stimulus? Everytime a storm cloud sees a crowd come pouring forth from a building? A case of out jumps Jack and swish!

If you ever get to thinking the gentle sex is too gentle, amble over to the gym some Tuesday or Thursday afternoon. The Point Systemers really engage in a Spartan game of soccer. You're up; you're down; you're limping for a week; you're embracing your opponent in no intentional or gentle manner; while referee Willie Williams stands blowing the whistle like a crazy.

If we may snatch a little bit of glory from the editor's topic, there is Scottie. Sure he looks cute tailing around Anderson and the chapel, or gossiping politely in the teachers' lounge in Thaw hall. All right it's propaganda, but wouldn't you hate to see the band parade without Scottie? And it won't look cute to see a skeleton with a little draggled hair slowly putting one foot ahead of the other or see Miss Heron in the doghouse. Not that anything so unvital is going to happen all at once, but the problem is standing before us "like a little man," and we really ought to give it a hand. Or everybody give a nickel or a dime, whatever the new plan is to be.

"Pardon me, Boy, is this the Chattanooga Choo-choo?" Everybody really seems to be happy anymore to judge from the vocalizing in the halls, in the showers, and en route to everywhere. All week nobody has wanted to set the world on fire; everybody is crazy for Jim, and shouts a decided preference for blue champagne. It makes wonderful harmony when it all comes at the same time, via whistle in monotone, baritone in the minor and soprano with the champagne. It's so peaceful in the country.

Oddenda:

Tip to the sophomores: No one has ever died from systematics yet....

Becky Jones reportedly has the swellest blue eyes on the campus, Pat Carter the slickest ankles, and Lester Boyd the speediest Providence accent.....

Campuscenery: Baldwin sophomores comparing reports on Dr. Shine's exams; Lloyd Taylor kangeroo-stepping over the football field looking like a monopoly on the adhesive tape market; the German band at full steam.

Why don't they do this more often? Dr. Davis delighted his pupils by giving an exam (wait'll we finish) and then losing the papers.

This one is going around; try it once. Origin, Dr. Lloyd's address at the faculty banquet Monday night. In a certain town there were an insane asylum and an accredited college in the same neighborhood. It so happened that the architecture and building of the institutions, etc., were practically identical—with the result that mistakes of various kinds were frequently made in visiting the two. The question was finally asked just how the two institutions could really be distinguished. And the answer: "In an asylum you have to make some progress before you can get out."

There are theories and theories, but have you tried the Welsh theory? Ollie hadn't realized she had so many converts until, returning to her room the other night, she found every available wall space covered with advertisements of the "Famous Welsh Theory." Nationally known is nothing; this will be world-famous. To which — your dutifulsonClaude.

Nu Gamma Transfer Tells of Weekend In Smokies

By CATHRON HOBBS

The week end of October 4 was packed with fun for the Nu Gamma group headed by Elaine Fichter. The group, composed of 13 transfers, left Saturday afternoon for the Barber's cabin at Emert's Cove. On arriving, the members' first desire was to make for the swimming hole which was a part of the Little Pigeon river. In spite of the fact that the water was icy cold, everyone enjoyed an hour's swim.

That night we took our food to a nearby island and cooked supper—a hamburger fry. Tumbling exercises followed, and after several spills, a short hike in the moonlight was taken. By the way, do you remember that glorious moon last Saturday night? While Maryville was watching the football game, we were swimming in the moonlight. It was one of those experiences which one ties a ribbon around, stores away, and brings out again in the future.

The next morning we had a 10:00 breakfast of hot cakes and coffee. The cakes went as fast as the cooks produced them.

After a devotional and Sunday School lesson presented by the Nu Gamma group itself, we started off for the Smoky Mountains National Park. We hiked along the trail toward scenic Porter's Flats, and visited the Hiking club on the way up.

All the hiking made us ready for dinner which was served about 4:00. And then for one more splash before we started back to Maryville. We wanted to make it super special so we had a hair washing fight in the river. It gave us a luxurious feeling, making us remember that we were as lucky as Pharoah's daughter who also used a river for a bathtub.

A beautiful drive in the moonlight climaxed our trip and brought us back to Maryville—and back to earth—for in reality we had been in the skies for the week end.

GIANT KILLERS? ? ?

Fresh from a victory over highly touted Appalachian State, the King College Tornado is set to blow our unbeaten Scotties off their lofty perch up at Bristol tonight. Paced by "Frenchy" LaVanche and Capt. Kursavage, the Tornado is more than a mild breeze, but we'll have to stick by our old Alma Mammy for another week at least. Here's the guess, and your's is as good as ours: MARYVILLE 20, KING 7.

KRAMER ON SHELF . . .

Jackson Kramer went into last Saturday's fray with a bum right arm and came out with a broken finger on his left hand. Those big bad Transylvania boys probably put our right tackle out of action for several weeks, but with such capable replacements as Bob Bennett and Andy Richards, his loss should not be too big a blow to Scottie hopes.

BIG RED RIDES AGAIN . . .

Speaking of Andy Richards recalls the splendid goal line stand put up by the Scots last Saturday night. Backed up to their goal line early in the first quarter, Maryville appeared to be completely overwhelmed by the Pioneer line thrusts. But in came big Andy, and down went the Transylvania backs on their posterior extremities—three times in a row! This marked the turning point of the game, and Andy deserves a world of credit for plugging the gap.

PUDDLE SPLASHERS BEGIN SPLASHING . . .

This week marks the opening of workouts for this year's swimming team. Most of last year's lettermen are not back in school, and Coach Fischbach is already moaning over his prospects for another mediocre season. In reality, the Scottie tankmen are consistently improving from year to year, but the competition in this section is just out of Maryville's class. Several school records were broken last year, and yet only one or two meets were marked up in the win column. Swimming is one of the longest and hardest grinds on the local sports menu, and the lads who stay out for a whole season deserve plenty of credit.

COUNTING OUR CHICKENS . . .

. . . before they hatch (and the eggs may not be any good). The athletic department hopes to be able to purchase a filtration system for the swimming pool next summer. This apparatus, if installed, would insure that the water be clean and properly regulated at all times. Such an improvement would undoubtedly stimulate interest in swimming on the Hill. Another proposed addition to the swimming pool is more adequate dressing room facilities for open swim periods.

ATTENTION, VAN CISE . . .

Several of the varsity tennis players have been reported a bit uneasy about their positions since the intramural tournament was run off. In winning the doubles championship, Chuck Foreman and Jim Faulkner showed all the polish of veterans, and Bob Hunter came through to win the singles in fine style. Several good intercollegiate players have been discovered in the Y tournament, notably Jim Hedges of last year's team. Who knows—maybe it'll happen again some time.

Cross Sparks Team As Swimmers Prep For Tank Season

Coach Fischbach's tankmen began preparations this week for another swimming season, with four lettermen from last year's squad reporting for practice.

Frank Cross, Dud Moore, Frank Miller, and Tom Mize are the only experienced men on the team, and will compose the nucleus around which the squad will be built.

New men reporting for practice include Ray Swartzback, George Devereaux, Jimmy Walker, C. Calville, J. Hogue, W. Roberson, B. Sidner, C. Hogran, Mel Malone, and T. Smith. None of the frosh are very experienced, but Fischbach hopes to be able to develop some good swimmers from the group.

Cross set a new college record in diving last season, and also holds the records in the 220 and 440 yard dashes. Frank is one of the most brilliant performers in this section, and is expected to be a leading point scorer in intercollegiate competition.

Dud Moore is an experienced breaststroker, Mize will enter the diving events, and Miller is a dash man. This year's schedule is not yet complete, but meets have been tentatively arranged with Tusculum, Illinois Tech. and U-T.

Horse Wins Hearts Of Judges In 'G-L-B' Contest

Declared Irregular, Zither Awarded To William Segraves

Last week's girl-I-left-behind-me contest was a miserable disappointment to the many aspirtants for the famed Athenian zither last Saturday night when they saw their heart's desires placed in the background by the charms of a gorgeous, brown-eyed horse. The contest was easily swept by the equine features of George Tibbetts' four legged friend whose personality so enhanced the judges that she won at a walk.

Because of the irregularity of the situation, the prize was placed in the hands of Hilton Wick who was forced to forfeit the coveted trophy because his pride and joy had taken first honors last year. The third and final possessor of the zither was William Segraves, whose brunette with the toothy smile placed ahead of the other entries.

The Athenian zither, for the benefit of the uninitiated, is a musical instrument, more or less. It was presented to, or rather shoved off onto, the Athenian society by Paul Brown of the class of '40 and pressed into use as the prize for the annual girl-I-left-behind-me contest.

The losers were consoled somewhat by the apples that were served for refreshments.

TEAM TRAMPLES TRANSY 16-6

Pepper, Cloninger, And Spears Lead Team-mates To Thrilling 16-6 Victory Over Transylvania Eleven Saturday

Teams Well-Matched; Highlander Forward Wall Credited With Holding in Check the Threatening Offensive Power of The Heavier Pioneers

Under the glaring lights on Wilson Field Saturday night, a stubborn Transylvania College eleven went down to defeat at the hands of a hard-fighting Maryville College team 16-6. The game was packed with trills and spills with both teams displaying real offensive power. The Highlanders' stiff forward wall stopped the first Transy march on its own ten yard marker. After an exchange of punts, the Scotties, led by fullback Cloninger and tailback Taylor, rolled down the field to the Pioneer 23 from where their two scoring opportunities came in the second period. Webb, big freshman end, reached into the high altitudes and came down with Taylor's long pass on the five yard line. Chambers, big end for Transylvania, smacked through to throw Taylor for a five yard loss on the next play. Again the Scotties took to the air, this time with a pass from Ollie Spears to Spote Shelfer in the end zone. Surrounded by the opposing secondary, Shelfer made a beautiful snag for the score. Spears' toe was perfect and the ball soared between the uprights to place the Scotties ahead 7-0.

The Highlanders were only getting warmed up it seemed. There was no doubt that this second quarter was their quarter. Captain Hooker set up the second score with a timely recovery of a tough Transy fumble on the Pioneer 35 yard stripe. Angered over their loss, too many Pioneers piled up on Hooker. This cost the visitors 15 precious yards and gave the Scotties a definite break. Pepper ran ten and Spears drove for four. On the next play, Little, 180 lb. halfback raced up to intercept Spears' aerial on the 3 yard line. But the Scotties were not through. Thornberry, the stand-out fullback for Transylvania, failed to gain a yard through the tight Scottie line, and was forced to punt to his own 37 yard line.

Starting from here, the Scotties again pushed ahead toward the goal line. A reserve backfield, composed of Pepper, Lattimore, Honaker, and Graham drove the ball down to the 3. Sammy Lattimore, speedy tailback, slashed through tackle for the score. Ross Honaker's kick was good. The whistle ending the first half momentarily stopped the revengeful march of the Pioneers.

The third period found the Highlanders pushed way back into their own territory. They never penetrated deeper than their own 41 yard line while the inspired Pioneers rolled up three first downs to put them on Maryville's 19. Thornberry again did most of the offensive work as well as carrying the brunt of the defense. Fritz, 155 lb. Pioneer halfback, scooted around end and thru tackle time after time for considerable gains. The same Fritz took over the punting duties and after a kicking duel with Taylor, took one of the latter's punts and raced to the Highlander 31. It was Fritz again who slid off tackle on the second play of the final quarter, showed some beautiful broken field running, and scored standing up.

The little halfback received his best blocking of the evening and wriggled his way 19 yards for the tally. His kick was wide.

Some nice runs by Taylor and another unnecessary roughness penalty against the Pioneers placed the pigskin on the Transy 39. Each exchange of plays was a valiant attempt—on the one hand to overcome a lead, and on the other to defend a goal line and to perhaps protect the lead with more points. When Thornberry was injured, the Transy eleven saw their best defensive man and a dependable ground-gainer leave the field. Barr, Hatchett, and Frain also played sterling games on the line.

Another fumble set up the last score for the Scotties. This time Shelfer was in fast to cover the bounding ball on the 41. Lattimore, Pepper, and Spears moved the ball down this time only to have a pass intercepted on the 16. Webb and Easter, freshmen linemen, stopped two plays for no gain. Then on a double lateral play, with their backs to their goal, Transylvania fumbled again. This time Ollie Leathers, diminutive Transy guard, found the bouncing pigskin but was tackled in the end zone, thus giving the Scotties a safety and two points.

The Pioneers gained possession of the free ball after the kickoff from the 20, but on the first play Ollie Spears grabbed a Transy pass and ran from the 27 to the Pioneer 49. Two plays and the whistle sounded, bringing to an end one of the most exciting and hardest-fought games to be witnessed on Wilson Field for several seasons. Maryville's entire line played bang-up ball while Cloninger, Lattimore, Pepper, and Spears starred in the backfield. Miller, Fritz, Thornberry, and Herman were best for the visitors, with Hatchett, Barr, Frain, Fox, and Leathers standing out on the line. The figures that follow represent the evenness of the two teams and give a fair account of the hotly-contested fray.

King Geared For Real Battle With Undefeated Scots

A Tornado is brewing up Bristol way. Officials are expecting it to hit tonight and to hit hard. The King College Tornado will attempt to blow the Maryville College Highlanders clear off the Bristol field tonight at 8:15.

The speedy King aggregation is attempting one of its most strenuous schedules in years and seems to be doing all right with the whole matter. On recent roadtrips, the Tornado humbled the Catawba Indians 14-6, who, incidentally, won nine of their last season's ten games, and an equally tough Appalachian State Teacher eleven.

The King machine is made up for the most part of freshmen and underclassmen. Sixteen of the 32 member squad are freshmen, six or seven are juniors and seniors, and the rest are sophomores. The team is fairly big, with a regular line average of 175 lbs., and a lighter backfield which averages 155.

Coach Young, like most college coaches in this section, has had to build his team around younger and relatively inexperienced men, but several of them have turned out to be fast and flashy runners.

Frenchy LaVanche, a converted halfback, carried the fullback's duties in the Catawba fray and displayed a great amount of shiftiness and speed. A diminutive 140 lb. sophomore, the Flying Frenchman is expected to spark his teammates tonight in the tough contest with Maryville. Blake Atwood, second-year man from Mountain City, Tenn., and a dependable ball carrier, will probably replace King's injured triple-threater Eugene (the Jeep) Quillen. Ramsey, a sophomore from Ohio will call signals. The giant veteran end and captain, Vic Kursavage, is back for his last season for the Cardinal and Blue and has been alternating at the tackle spot. He may be found in either or both slots tonight.

Wampler, 180 lb. freshman, is starting at the center position, while 200 lb. "Hoot" Gibson starts at tackle. The Tornado, with a fairly heavy line and an array of flashy backs, will probably roll tonight. Coach Young has his boys fired up for a real battle and it will take heads-up ball on the part of the Scotties to stop them.

The Scotties are also prepared for a tough battle. Coaches Honaker and Davis have concentrated this week on blocking and play execution. Kramer is still idle with a banged-up arm and wrist, but the team as a whole is in good physical condition. Herzberger and Garvin, reserve guards, have looked good in practice as have Breazeale and Long, frosh centers. Graham, Burris, and Bayless are all improving in the backfield. Every Scottie out there on the Bristol Municipal Stadium Field (capacity—6000) will be giving his best with the thought of a record to keep clean. Undefeated in three attempts! Let's preserve and lengthen that record!!!

TENNIS—

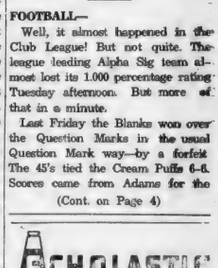
It was Shakespeare who said, "Man who puts more shots in court wins tennis game." Bob Hunter, together with Chuck Foreman and Jim Faulkner, proved that the old playwright was right this week in the intramural tennis tournaments. On Wednesday afternoon Bob Hunter came through to defeat Hal Lloyd in the finals of the singles shindig, 6-2, 4-6, 6-3, and Charles Foreman and Jim Faulkner pulled up from a slow start to take Ken Ross and Bill Evans, in the doubles, 1-6, 6-4, 7-5.

A look at the Hunter-Lloyd fray shows that Bob took the first set of the three-set decision fairly easily by winning 6 to Hal's 2 games. Bob lost the first game, took the next four, lost another, and took two more to take the set. In the second set Hal set out with a more careful style of play and more determination, and finally won it to tie the match up at one apiece. Through the third set the boys stayed just about even until the games were 3-3; then Bob stepped forward to take the last three games, the third set, and the match Referee Van Cise gave some interesting facts about the match after it was over. Among them was the fact that 174 points were played during the three sets. Hunter, the winner, took 90 of them; Lloyd, the loser, took 84 of them. That shows pretty close competition!

So the intramural managers declare Bob Hunter the 1941 intramural singles tennis champ.

The Foreman, Faulkner—Ross, Evans doubles match took a sudden turn after the first set, and the winners ended up on top after taking two close sets from the losers. Ken Ross and Bill Evans sailed thru the first third of the match with what looked like an easy 6-1 victory. Chuck and Jim changed their minds or their tactics or something and gave Ken and Bill something to think about by winning the second set 6-4. The third set was the tough one. Neither team gave an inch until the games were tied up 5-5. Then Chuck and Jim put over enough good ones to take the last two games, and left the courts on the top end of a very close score.

So the intramural managers declare Chuck Foreman and Jim Faulkner the 1941 intramural doubles tennis champs.



The consolation tournaments are coming along pretty well—almost. In the doubles Fowler and Miller are scheduled in the final tilt against Hargrave and Justice. In the singles little playing has been done yet. Manager Horace Scherer urges that those entered in that tournament play their matches off as soon as possible. The courts will remain playable for a couple of weeks; and the consolation tournaments count just as heavily on the intramural records as the original ones. Consolationists—get to work!

FOOTBALL—

Well, it almost happened in the Club League! But not quite. The league leading Alpha Sig team almost lost its 1.000 percentage rating Tuesday afternoon. But more of that in a minute.

Last Friday the Blanks won over the Question Marks in the usual Question Mark way—by a forfeit. The 45's tied the Cream Puffs 6-6. Scores came from Adams for the lege to serve as long as twenty-five years. One hardly realizes the significance of a quarter of a century of service until he considers that in 122 years at a college where the personnel is remarkably permanent, there have been only 20 quarter-century persons, of whom nine are now serving.

"I presume that various factors have contributed to the achievement of these twenty, such factors as chronological longevity, patience (perhaps 'mutual patience' is the proper description), good companions, good temper, a friendly spirit, efficiency, belief in the work and ideals of Maryville College, joy which the individual has in his own profession and tasks.

"But I have not named the one whose silver anniversary we are celebrating. It is Dr. Edmund Wayne Davis, Professor of Greek and Latin and secretary of the Faculty.

"Dr. Davis was reared in Illinois, has taken degrees at Missouri Valley College and Harvard University, and has done further study at Michigan and elsewhere. He came to Maryville College first in the fall of 1915, three months after the writer of this sketch graduated. He taught here for four years, then spent a year away teaching at Knoxville High school, then in 1920, twenty-one years ago, came back to Maryville to stay. Thus his service has extended over twenty-six years and has fallen into two terms, the first of four years, the second of twenty-one years. For the past ten years he has served also as the efficient and interesting secretary of the Faculty. Four years ago the Directors and Faculty of Maryville College conferred upon him the honorary degree of Doctor of Letters.

"Doctor Davis, you have been a teacher for thirty-eight years; you have been a teacher of Greek and Latin for thirty-four years, if my information is accurate; you have been a teacher at Maryville College for twenty-five years. In behalf of the Directors and of your colleagues on the faculty, I am pleased to greet you and Mrs. Davis, to tell you that we are glad you are here, to congratulate you upon this occasion, and to wish for you continued health and usefulness as you continue your service with us. These twenty-five roses symbolize our high regard and good will."

45's and Lockwood for the Cream Puffs. A note on the score sheet in the intramural files says that the 45's won by a play-off. Alpha Sig beat Athenian 12-0. They almost didn't make it, remaining scoreless until the 4th quarter. Then it was Sweeney and Graham who racked up the 12 points. Finally Ministerial made 7 to the Frosh's 0. Preacher Overton carried it across for Ministerial, and Deacon Suitor converted (made the extra point).

It was on Tuesday that the Alpha Sig Dudes almost met their Waterloo. Tuesday's results look something like this:

Alpha Sig 6; Ministerial 0—

During the first half—in fact, during the first three quarters—Ministerials held Alpha Sig scoreless. Both teams were passing and running with the hope of putting over just one scoring play. The time was getting short and the side-line rooters were on the edge of their seats when a bullet pass from Bill Sweeney to Bob Miller ended up in the end zone and forced the score-keepers to write a 6 on the official paper. And that's the last scoring that was done. The Preachers couldn't manage to influence the score-keeper. With the football schedule almost completed, the Alpha Sigs have a percentage by which they can't lose the league championship, no matter what.

Athenian 24; Frosh 6—

The Athenians pulled out of their losing streak to defeat the Frosh soundly. Curt Wright and Bill Hargraves snagged passes for the winners while standing on wage-returning soil (pay dirt), and Hilton Wick earned time-and-a-half for them by carrying the ball across twice. Hilton's second shindig was a brilliant interception and length-of-the-field run a couple of minutes before the end of the game. None of the tries for extra points clicked. The six tallies for the Frosh were made by John Neff after a beautiful catch of a long pass.

Blanks 19; Cream Puffs 0—

Art Rowan's power team isn't far out of a cinch for the league championship after Tuesday's win over the Cream Puffs. Chuck Foreman scored once and Horace Justice twice to make 18 of their 19 points. Leroy McGaha chalked up the 19th. According to the percentage figures in the Independent League the 45's could tie the Blanks for the league championship if the 45's win all the rest of their games and the Blanks lose all the rest of theirs. Or so things stand as this is written. By publication the thing may have been decided.

Finally the 45's got 24, the Question Marks 0. Loesher carried across twice for the winners; Smith did it once, and McKelvey once. It's those freshman 45's who will give the Blanks their closest race before the season's over. They haven't looked so bad.

GOLF—

The entry sheet for the intramural golf tournament was posted Friday. All entries must be in by Wednesday of next week. Play will start on Friday. Any fellows interested are urged to get a partner and sign up. Competition is open to students and faculty members alike.

beouw in Holland. His recordings for Columbia and his appearance in New York last December have brought high praise of his virtuoso technique, his remarkable fingering, and his sensitive interpretation. Sergei Koussevitzky especially recommends this young pianist to American audiences.

Jan Kiepura, the Polish tenor of world-wide acquaintance to concert, radio, and film audiences, is already a personage to some patrons of the Artists Series. Educated to the law in his native Poland, he early turned to opera and was one of those "immediate sensations" in his debut as Faust at the Warsaw Opera. Since then he has had his choice of all the major opera companies both abroad and in America, where he first appeared with the Chicago Civic Opera Company in 1930. He has had what has been called the most successful motion picture career of all the opera stars, and his films, largely foreign-made, are well patronized in America. Some of his pictures are "My Song For You," "I Love All the Ladies," "Give Us This Night," "The Charm of Bohemia," and "My Heart Is Calling." In the last-named picture he co-starred with Martha Eggerth, who is now his wife.

Volunteering in the Polish Army in France at the beginning of the present war, he was demobilized when Warsaw fell and was sent by the Polish War Ministry to America to raise money for the Polish Relief Fund by means of his voice. He has thus already secured over $100,000 for the Fund, being recognized for this public-spirited service by various European decorations of honor.

As a concert artist he comes with an unusual record of personal charm and force and with superlative critical praise for his extraordinary voice and unforgettable musicianship. The Kiepura concert provides an excellent conclusion to the 1941-42 College Artists Series.

Dr. W. H. Crothers Speaks Sunday At Vesper Service

The vesper speaker for tomorrow night is the Reverend W. H. Crothers, D.D., now of Maryville. Dr. Crothers was secretary of the Board of Christian Education for ten years with headquarters in New York. His duties included visiting and speaking to a great many colleges in the United States. For several years he was pastor of the Utah College; then he visited India and the Philippine Islands where he spent three years in connection with religious education.

Upon returning from the Philippines, Dr. Crothers became the pastor of the New Providence Presbyterian church in Maryville and held this position for ten years. He is now living, retired, in a new house near the College.

The speaker graduated from the Princeton Seminary and has accumulated a great deal of knowledge from his experience, all to make the Sunday night program a treat indeed.

Athenian Hears Dickinson Read

At 6:45 tonight, the regular meeting of the Athenian society will take place in the Athenian room in Anderson hall. Any new men, especially freshmen, who wish to join are invited to be present for the reception of new members.

The feature of the evening will be Joe Dickinson's reading of some of his original poems. The quality of Dickinson's poems is well known. They have been well received in the past.

Scores of the intercollegiate football games of the day will also be given.

TRIANGLE CLUB HOLDS MEETING

On Monday evening at 6:45, the Triangle Club will meet in Bartlett auditorium. The evening program will consist of a tap dance by Polly Parks, a jitterbug dance by Bill Sweeney and Ginny Williams, dance by Mary Felknor and Joe D'Antonio, and will be climaxed by the popular dance team, "Shorty" Waisman and George Tibbetts.

There will be a short business meeting following the program.

IRC Plans Reorganization And Greatly Expanded Actvities

Plans For Formal Organization Begun At Latest Meeting

NEW CLASS FORMED

Class To Study All Current Affairs Of Present-day World

The International Relations Club is making big plans for reorganization and for promoting a revitalized program. Its purpose is the stimulating, strengthening, and directing of the interest and knowledge of Maryville students in current happenings in the world today. At the last meeting steps were taken to give the club definite organization by declaring those present charter members of a new club with other members to be elected as should later be decided, this new club to form a nucleus to provide the college with effective programs concerning international relations. An executive committee was appointed by the president, Janet Lindsay, to study the necessary proceedings, and certain proposed activities for the club, and revise the present constitution. The committee is composed of Ben Lynt, Malcolm Thompson, Ted Pratt, and Natalie Yelton, and Hilton Wick. The advantages accruing from a definite organization including the payment of dues are evident, for in this way better speakers can be obtained. Most IRC's in other colleges are based on these principles.

The outstanding feature of the club's program this semester will be the sponsoring of a Current Affairs class to meet every Monday night for one hour beginning at 7:00. All who desire an opportunity to get other viewpoints on the general scope of current happenings as well as an effective review of the week's events (which will serve the pur-

'Makers of Laws' To Be Presented

Hal Lloyd To Take Lead Opposite Troye Moore

At eight o'clock on Friday night, October 24, the Experimental Theater will present its second performance. The first two hundred persons to request complimentary tickets will be entertained by two one-act plays enacted by Dramatic Art students.

"The Makers of Laws" will present Hal Lloyd as an irritable but self-important king of Egypt and Troye Moore as his self-assured queen. Mary Esther White will slink around in the role of the seducer, while Fred DePue tries to keep four thousand and ninety-one laws straight. Harry Lyle, Neil Proffitt, and John Hawkins come in for their share of the acting in the roles of herald and guards. Helen Airheart, as director under Miss Evelyn Seedorf's supervision, knows all the exits, entrances, and cues that go with the production.

The same may be said for Betty Clevenger who is directing "What Never Dies." Her cast in this play is quite another caliber. In spite of their "hoity-toity ideas", the feminine characters are all cleaning women in a stock market office. Alice Jones and Betty Jeane Kennedy prepare the audience for the entrance of Nancy Russell, whose son in the play, Ellis Burcaw, constitutes the fourth member of the cast.

All the scenery that will be used for this evening's presentation of two plays is being constructed by the students in the Dramatic Art department. They are learning to handle implements from hand saws to paint. There will be 18 new flats hinged together to form six screens, which will be used to substitute for the missing proscenium in Bartlett auditorium.

Tickets for these plays will be available on Wednesday, October 22, between 5:00 and 5:30 in Pearsons lobby.

Dr. Norton Writes Flower Study

Article Appears In Current Publications

Dr. George F. Norton, the father of Mrs. Queener who is in charge of physical education for women at Maryville, has written an interesting article on the fringed gentian. The article, "Thirty-Five Years With the Fringed Gentian," has appeared in the "Better Homes and Gardens" magazine, the New York Times, and a booklet on wild flowers published by the government.

Dr. Norton found this rare fringed gentian in the vicinity of Round Top Mountain, Greenwich, Conn. He took some of the seeds to New York and started to grow the plant in that state. Since his article was published, he has answered the requests of over 2500 people for seeds. He will send free seeds and planting directions in season to anyone who has the proper planting conditions. Dr. Norton has received requests from the Philippines, Bermuda, Dublin, Germany, France, England, and all parts of North America. Due to his work this rare plant is being scattered all over the world.

German Club To Hold Hamburger Fry In Woods

On Thursday, October 23 at 3:30, the German Club is holding a hamburger fry in the College Woods. Because the date is so near to Halloween, Dr. Collins, who is the faculty advisor of the German Club, will speak on "Halloween in Germany." Games such as baseball will be played and the group will be led in folk dancing by Dr. Collins. After the hamburger fry, there will be group singing around the camp fire.

Admission is 15 cents per person. Everyone is invited to attend the fry, regardless of whether he belongs to the German Club or takes German. There are papers posted in each dormitory for all those who wish to sign up.

Law Club To Elect New President Soon

Last week the Law Club held its first meeting. Plans were made for the election of a new president. The next meeting will be held Thursday evening.

All freshmen interested in this organization are most cordially invited to attend.

Three Metropolitan Stars Appear in First Artists' Series

Comic Opera 'Don Pasquale' Here Next Saturday

Second Opera To Be Presented In Voorhees Chapel

Next Saturday night at 8:15 the curtains of Voorhees Chapel will open on the Metropolitan Opera performance of "Don Pasquale", the first of the Maryville College 1941-42 Artists Series.

This is one of the most colorful operas ever presented on the College stage. The Metropolitan Opera Company has experienced great success during the current season with "Don Pasquale" which it recently revived.

Full of fun and laughs for everyone, this comic opera has received the enthusiastic acclaim of all the dailies, especially the New York Times which calls it "entertainment of the most amusing and artistic sort."

Performers who have contributed to the success of the revived opera are the ones who will compose the cast here one week from tonight. Stella Andreva, Metropolitan soprano with both European and American triumphs, will sing the role of Norina. Bruno Landi, tenor, also of the Metropolitan, will sing the role of Ernesto, which he has sung in every important opera house in Europe. Oscar Lassner, bass-baritone from Vienna, is famous in Europe for his impersonation of the fat and fatuous Don. Franscesco Valentino, who is a baritone singer of the Metropolitan Opera Company, has attained fame through his performance of Dr. Malatesta in the opera's current revival.

Under the direction of Guiseppe Bamboschek, who is also accompanist for Jeannette MacDonald, the opera stars are accompanied by a chorus composed of a double quartet. They also bring with them their own stage crew consisting of property handlers and electricians.

There will be a brief comment and explanation of the opera with certain recordings at one of the chapel hours next week.

Queener's Treatise On GOP Published

Historical Publication Runs Article on GOP History in E. Tenn.

In the most recent publication of the East Tennessee Historical Society, an article appeared by Prof. Verton M. Queener, head of the Division of Social Sciences. "The Origin of the Republican Party in East Tennessee" is the subject of the discourse which forms a part of Professor Queener's treatise written for his doctorate last year.

Originating at the time of the Civil War the Republican party in this section has since proved to be an interesting and unusual factor in state politics. Thus Professor Queener has centered his date around a particularly significant development in East Tennessee. This article concerns an analysis of pre-Civil War parties out of which the Republican party later sprang and a detailed account of the events and influences both during and after the War which caused the permanent change of politics in most of the East Tennessee counties.

SMITH TO SPEAK AT SUNDAY VESPERS

Mr. James R. Smith will be the speaker at Sunday evening vespers this week. Mr. Smith is the public relations director for the College. He has been a member of the college staff since August, 1940 when he came here from a pastorate in Atlanta, Ga. He graduated from Maryville College with the Class of 1935.

Social Committee Elects Stringham, Garvin Chairmen

At 8:00 tonight the Social Committee will sponsor a football game on Wilson Field. Members of the Maryville College scrub team will play the squad from Porter High school. The game will be played before students and faculty as a part of the Saturday night series of programs.

At its first meeting of the year held recently, the Social Committee elected officers to head the organization for 1941-42. Jeanne Stringham and James Garvin will be co-chairmen this year; Mary Proffitt, secretary, and Arthur Elwell, treasurer.

The Social Committee is composed of five faculty members and seven students, the remaining students being Natalie Yelton, Stan Menning, and Arthur Bushing. It is organized to plan and schedule various programs and activities, providing many of the entertainments which take place on the campus throughout the year.

Wednesday Chapel To Be Led By Dr. T. B. Cowan

This Wednesday, October 22, the morning chapel service will be conducted by Dr. Thomas B. Cowan, pastor of the Norris Religious Fellowship in Norris, Tenn.

Dr. Cowan, a native of Scotland, has attended Maryville College, Vanderbilt University and Yale Divinity School, has had pastorates in Chattanooga and Norris, and along with this work, has taken an active role in speaking at colleges and universities.

Brasher, Becky, And Ballinger Have Solution for Lonely Hearts

By MARY WINTERMUTE

The title of our little playlet today is "The Birth of a Bureau." The opening scene takes place in the dining room at Pearsons Hall. It is suppertime on soup, crackers, and fruit-on-lettuce night. As the scene opens we find Becky Jones seated at the table partaking of the humble repast. Nearby are Ed Ballinger and Brasher Bailey.

BECKY—Hello, you cute things. What are you all looking so worried about? Come, kids, tell me all about it.

ED—It's this old campus problem of what to do about the freshman girls and other hers. Also what to do with freshman boys and the college men.

B.B. (who has received amazing inspiration from his portion of cracker crumbs)—I have a most excellent idea. You remember that dating bureau we talked about last year? Well——

Whereupon Brasher, Becky, and Ballinger begin laying the foundation for the Dating Bureau B3.

The next scene takes place in Carnegie Hall up on 3rd floor. First we see Allan Moore carefully weaving his way into Bailey's room. We notice that his teeth have been carefully parted for this grand occasion, and we realize that his face is as red as Streshley's new tie, which is more-or-less tied more-or-less loosely around Moore's neck.

MOORE—Hi!

B. B.—Hi!

MOORE—Hi!

B. B.—Is there anything I can do for you—that won't cost me?

MOORE—Well, yes, there is. It's about this dating business of yours.

B. B.—Are you interested? Well—

Whereupon Moore finds himself describing the type of girl he would like to date. On a card Bailey records the vital statistics—the height, weight, color hair and eyes, interests and home state of this girl whom Moore feels is his type. This card is put on file and saved for future reference. A similar procedure proceeds in Pearsons Hall, room 408, where Becky is kept busy filing cards for girls who tell her just exactly what kind of a date they really care for, even specifing the key his speaking voice should be pitched in.

The next scene takes place in the lobby of Pearsons Hall. The time is just any old time after supper and before the pep meeting on Friday, October 10. This is the first night that the dating bureau has functioned and we are anxious to see just what will happen.

FIRST BOY—Say, I have a date with a freshman girl. She's supposed to have blue eyes, blonde hair, tall and willowy. Have you seen her around here anywhere?

Five Dormitory Offices Are Filled in Pearson Election

Girls who live in Pearsons Hall as a "House" organization, elected the following officers at a recent election. Jane Metcalf was elected vice-president; Christine Fritz, secretary-treasurer; Martha Williamson, second-floor chairman; Elizabeth Bryant, third-floor chairman; Betty Winton, fourth-floor chairman.

Rachel McCall, House President of Pearsons Hall, was elected by a ballot taken last spring. It is the custom for the girls residing at Pearsons to have such an organization for convenience at social functions, and as a help in maintaining good order in the dormitory during study hours. The president is elected each spring from the girls of the senior class. The vice-president, secretary-treasurer, and floor chairmen are elected by secret ballot in the fall.

Former Student Writes Year's Funniest Book

Dramatized On Radio Sunday at 4:30 Over Station WROL

From a line in Lewis Caroll's "Alice in Wonderland," Mrs. Edward Howard has taken for her book what has been called by publishers the perfect title, "—and Beat Him When He Sneezes."

Mrs. Howard is a graduate of Maryville College, class of 1920, and the daughter of Mrs. McMurray, who is director of the College Maid Shop.

The book, which she has written under her maiden name of Claire McMurray, has been widely praised by critics and reviewers both in New York and Chicago; being called "the year's funniest book" by Sterling North in the Chicago Daily News. It was first published on May 23, 1941, and the second printing was made on June 10.

Claire McMurray has for four years been a columnist on the staff of one of Cleveland's (Ohio) leading newspapers, the Cleveland Plain Dealer, and has selected some of her better columns from this paper for this collection printed in book form under the catchy title.

The articles in her book are written about her three boys—Dave and Stu and Dick, and about her husband, whom she called "her favorite gentleman," in a style which is easily read and chuckled over by adults and young people alike.

One of the things which makes the book so attractive is the accurate recording of incidents and conversations in her sons' lives; for example: "You know what Bobby learned to milk at his camp?" asked Dick in admiration. "A whole cow!"

The radio rights to the book were sold by the author to the Vick's Company which sponsors a Sunday afternoon program heard following the College Vespers over the local network. Mrs. Howard does not appear on the broadcast, as all of the

The meeting is scheduled for 6:35.

Echo Staff Goes To Knoxville, But Not Just For The Ride

By BEN LYNT

Dust, hot lead, scrap paper, broken pencils; noise, smoke, confusion, pictures; coke bottles, jangling phones, and sweating pressmen; dark rooms, darker cat-walk stairways, acid bottles; jumping and chattering A.P. machines—all of these things, and more, combine to bring into being an issue of the Journal (one of Knoxville's leading newspapers), or so a group from the Echo staff was told, in newspaper jargon, as they were towed on an educational and character-building tour through the Journal plant last Wednesday evening by a vigorously robust gentleman of the press, Mr. Gene Derieux.

The educational part of the tour began early in the evening for the freshmen apprentices (and others) as the front-page ladies present rearranged the seating set-up to suit their own fancies, and the structural limitations of the station wagon.

Some twenty-odd young people there were in the group, philologists and Rothschilds all, who left Maryville campus that night hot on the trail of adventure and bent on rejoicing in their evening of off-campus in the company of sympathetic faculty supervisors.

The distance to Knoxville was accomplished with a minimum of backseat wind resistance and driving, considering the handicaps which all involved had to labor—four people and nine knees! etc.

After a sumptuous meal in the S&W style, the freshmen were served in one minute roastings on the spit of impromptu address. Out of the mouths of the frosh, upperclassmen learned about the "Importance and Placing of Monuments," "Burning a Candle at Both Ends," "What is Wrong With Maryville Women," and the "Presentday Problems of the Portuguese."—with appropriate gestures.

The hop from gaiety and good food to grim, stark business-life reality was accomplished in six short blocks as the group legged it from the S&W to the Journal's home.

The most amazing element about the Journal plant was the apparent incongruity of efforts displayed by the employees; and the question of how order is nightly brought out of chaos to produce each edition of the paper was foremost in the minds of many, and for that reason they

Students Ask Many Questions Concerning European Situation

Mr. Charles Morgan, of London, England, world-famous novelist and dramatic critic of the London Times spoke at the chapel services on Friday morning. Mr. Morgan was educated as a naval officer and has served in both the Atlantic and China fleets. He resigned from the navy in 1913 to become a writer but rejoined in 1914 for the duration of the war. In 1919 he attended Oxford University where he received high honors. He then joined the editorial staff of the London Times, where he was from 1926 until the outbreak of the present war the dramatic critic.

His first novel appeared in 1930, when he won the Femina-Via Heureuse prize for his novel "Portrait In a Mirror." In 1933 he received the Hawthorn prize for his novel, "The Fountain." "Sparkenbroke" was published in 1936. Last year his novel "The Voyage" appeared and became one of the year's best sellers. He is also author of a play, "The Flashing Stream," which had a long run in London just before the present war, and various other writigs. His works have been translated into fourteen foreign languages. He has traveled extensively and has received many honors, which include Legion of Honor in France; he is also a Fellow of the Royal Society of Literature.

He is lecturing under the auspices of the International Institute of Many 1941 Seniors Do Graduate Work; Others In U.S. Army

All the graduates in the Class of 1941 who filed applications for work with the College last year have received positions. Of the 136 members of the class twenty-three are now enrolled in theological seminaries.

Many more graduates are now engaged in graduate work in the various colleges and universities thruout the country. Some of these students have received assistantships or fellowships. Several men of the class have been called to active army duty.

At the present time there are possibilities of places open, and the College does not have applications from graduates who can fill these positions.

More About Scottie

During the past week we have been informed of two projects that have been arranged on the campus, both of which are to be carried through for the benefit of Scottie, Maryville mascot.

The YMCA is the sponsor of one of these projects. It's plan is to present on the campus the YMCA Minstrel Show, which, through several performances, has gained considerable popularity. This Minstrel will be given as a Saturday evening feature; and the entire proceeds, which will be derived from the slight admission charge, will be donated to the needy, and very appealing, cause of Scottie. We wish to extend our appreciation to the YMCA for coming forth promptly and generously with an offer that will do a great deal towards solving the problem that has been presented by the upkeep of a mascot.

The other organization which has made constructive plans toward this same objective is the Student Council. This is a natural and expected move, since the student body so obviously is in favor of having a permanent mascot, and since this group is the only existing group which truly represents the student body. The idea the Student Council has in mind is setting aside one day for "Scottie Day", and at this time, giving every student a chance to contribute to the fund for Scottie.

What these two organizations are working toward is something for the student body—as a whole, and as individuals. It was plain that something had to be done; things couldn't be left as they were any longer. Since the Triangle Club, through its consistent silence, made it clear that it was unable to do anything further toward the preservation of the mascot, it was up to someone else to see that the proper arrangements were made. Now that others have taken the initial steps, it's up to you individuals to see that their plans are carried out. Are you game?

By JEAN BARNES

Now that our future is all taken care of, we have just nothing to worry about—or even complain about. Social security number 109438, accident insurance policy 8046, and date of the week number 92. Anyway the new triumvirate variously known as the dating bureau, the Date of the Week club, and the you-describe-her-we'll-bribe-her-office, has reached the point of recognizability. In fact the topic is almost exhausted. The master mind behind the incredible maneuver is hardly evident in the simple instruction: just specify, time, place, degree, and man, and sign on the dotted.

Which topsy-turvy ideas remind us, people are so cute, no? And the rules for the etiquette of affection have us all confused. The proper way of meeting for an afternoon date, say, is hide and go seek according to the Aimee-Baxter tested and approved. You see the other party some; so you slyly start to slide around the tree, till he tears his hair and wears out three watches. Then you appear, just like a ray of sunshine out of a stormy and so forth.

Also two junior girls were observed the other night walking a sweetest freshman back to Carnegie where a slightly surprised but adequate Mr. Mac politely asked them in—to the door. Pardon us if we seem to be in a rut; it's the weather or something.

At any rate some ingenious soul we hear settled the problem of the three to four-fifteen afternoon class. Four o'clock sharp in the organic chemistry lecture Wednesday a super loud alarm clock began a super long reveille. To which Professor Howell said, "I guess somebody was asleep, class excused."

Speaking of Echo (some coherence here) in case you haven't heard all the details, the Echo staff went to Knoxville to visit the Journal Wednesday night, bit by bit, bite by bite, and better and better, to list the three stages. The new staff members entertained at what may be honored and certainly surprised by the name informal banquet. We mean picture if you can Bill Jarnagin seriously trying to tell just how he distinguishes his relatives from apes, or Ted Pratt explaining with appropriate gestures (roommate included) how to make an afghan or how to "make" an Afghan, and ad infinitum with painful results.

You know it is worth being on time to chapel every Tuesday to see Dr. Shine come striding over the campus with Tiny wagging his coat tails behind him. The twins and the Stradivarius-ette really rate the front row.

Living next to twin is not a case of double trouble as you might think. Especially when Mrs. Reed makes such delicious home-made doughnuts.

And speaking of violin duets, we were glad to see by the Echo last week that the Music department cordially invited to its student recitals anyone who might "wash" to attend. Emily Post applied. Oh yes, and it was a huge crowd of first-nighters which gathered at Disc Club to meet Prof's three women. Rather dusky beauty perhaps, but nevertheless very charming.

But then there is a time and place for everything. Look what comes up now, a system of organized griping. The dramatic art department we hear has a perfectly equipped "crud box." The price for using is a total of one cent, for which small fee you can fuss and fume and swear and stew to your heart's content. Appreciative audience guaranteed.

Which reminds us, we meant to feel like the poem about see the happy moron about now. Did you ever see such a look of utterly nothing as when some people take exams? Or on Superman MacMartin in his inspired moments?

We were advised to wonder too why Andy Richards is genially giving out cigars. And so we do. We've also been informed that seeing as how square dances are all the rage, why don't we. And also that some of the hill-billies, if any, are really "solid" on the do-se-do.

Have you heard the one about—Oh good, "time is up; deposit another nickel please."

As I See It

By JANET LINDSAY

The Maryville Artist Series have always been outstanding but this year we are particularly fortunate in being able to both see and hear Donizetti's Don Pasquale. Those students who saw The Barber of Seyille are looking forward to witnessing another comic opera. In order that those of us who do not understand Italian may follow the story I would like to review the plot of the opera.

The cast of characters include Norina, Ernesto, Dr. Malatesta, and Don Pasquale. The scene is laid in Rome where we find Don Pasquale in a rage with his nephew Ernesto, because he will not marry to suit him. Dr. Malatesta, his friend and physician, who is also very fond of Ernesto, evolves a plot in the latter's interest. He goes to the Don and urges him to marry a lady, pretending that she is his sister, though in reality she is Norina, with whom Ernesto is in love. His next move is to inform Norina of the plot. He carefully instructs her how to play the part; he tells her she is to consent to the marriage contract. Then she is to so harass the Don that he will be only too glad to get rid of her and will allow her to marry Ernesto.

The second act opens in Don Pasquale's house where Ernesto is bemoaning his fate. The Don enters handsomely dressed for the marriage. Norina appears with the Doctor and pretends to be reluctant to enter into the contract. Finally she signs it where upon she drops her assumed modesty. Ernesto who is still present is bewildered by the state of affairs; however, a signal from the Doctor keeps him from asking any questions. Meanwhile Norina refuses all the Don's affection and declares that Ernesto is to be her escort. She summons the servants to her and lays out an elaborate scheme of housekeeping. This enrages the Don, who declares he will not pay the bills for such expenditures. Norina insists that she is now mistress of the house.

In act three we find Norina entertaining milliners and dressmakers. Don Pasquale enters, and learning that she is going to the theatre, forbids it, which leads to a quarrel, during which Norina boxes his ears. As she leaves the room she drops a letter which adds pangs of jealousy to his troubles. The Doctor enters to console him. The Don tells him that Norina is to quit his house at once. In the next scene he accuses her of having a lover concealed in the house, and orders her to leave. The Doctor tries to persuade him to allow his nephew to marry Norina; and in the course of the conversation and explanations the Don discovers that the Doctor's sister and Norina are the same person and that the marriage is a sham. He is only too glad to escape a quarrel with the Doctor for his plot. Then the happy couple (Ernesto and Norina) are speedily united with the old Don's blessing.

Critics who have seen the opera say that its particular charm lies in its comic situations and the gay and colorful music with which they are illustrated. Some of the numbers of special beauty include the exquisite serenade in the last act, "Com 'e Gentil," two duets and a quartet.

It is interesting to note that the author spent only three weeks in writing it. It is said that when it was in rehearsal its fate was uncertain, the cast, the orchestra received it without enthusiasm. However, when it was produced with a few additions it was an immediate success.

TALK OF THE WEEK ... By Charles Dunning

Morgan Here ...

Education, as was Mr. Donald Grant, who spoke here last year.

The theme of Mr. Morgan's address was the "Stream of History." In his introduction he explained that he had been away from England but five weeks. This particular lecture is an introduction to a series of lectures which he expects to give throughout the United States, the title of the series being "The Preface of the Future." He pointed out that any major turning point in history is marked by a shift in human values, and explained that although we cannot prophesy, we can influence the preface to the future, which is ourselves. We are able to choose relative values; and he gave as examples the choice between serving one's God and one's country, and the choice between serving one's contemporaries or posterity. England was forced to choose between the social betterment of the country and going to war, thus condemning this generation in order that England might not perish from the earth.

Moral, political and social issues depend upon our scale of values. Likewise, the differences in peoples of various countries depend on this scale of values.

A change of values is taking place in England today. Victory means for them an opportunity to replant, to safeguard the early growth but with a new emphasis on the quality of life instead of emphasis on the dollar.

Mr. Morgan's lecture was followed by a period of questioning. In answer to the question, "Why does England not help Russia by invading the continent?", he explained that in order to do so, England would have to have command of the air, which she does not now have. Furthermore, at the present it is strategically wiser to use the necessary materials elsewhere.

The next question asked was, "What happened to France?" Mr. Morgan was well qualified to answer this question, as he served in the French Admiralty during the last war. He pointed out that, first, France had thought in terms of defensive strategy; second, she was unable to make progress because of the neutrality of Holland and Belgium at the time; third, the corruption of French politics; and fourth, France was worn out with continual warfare.

In regard to the question concerning the uprising in the various conquered countries, Mr. Morgan expressed the opinion that it would have been better if they had not happened so spasmodically.

Discussing school life and ducation in England during the war, he said that education in the primary grades was proceeding little hindered by the war. However, many of the colleges were empty of students. In some cases, English scholars are being permitted to continue their studies unhampered by war service.

In answer to the question, "What has happened to Rudolph Hess?" Mr. Morgan said, "It is the best kept secret in the world."

When asked about Britain's attitude toward Germany and the kind of peace England has in mind, he recalled one of the points in the Roosevelt-Churchill agreement that mentioned the disarmament of the aggressor peoples, noticeably omitting the disarmament of the victors.

Concerning what the average Englishman expects of America, he maintained that England only expects of America what they expect of themselves for their own betterment.

In discussing labor in Egland during the war, he pointed out that politically, cooperation throughout the country is complete. However, he did say that spasmodic strikes existed. One of the permanent results of the war, he thought, would be permanent cooperation between capital and labor.

Mr. Morgan left for Kingsport, Tennessee, where he spoke on Friday afternoon.

Workshop To Hear Miss Jackson, Cain

Phyllis Ann Cain and Miss Jackson will be the next readers at the Writers' Workshop. The meeting is to be held Monday afternoon at 4:00 in Dr. Hunter's classroom.

At the last meeting, Carl Pierce read a short story, "The Autobiography of a Low Priced Car," and Helen Rawlings read some poetry. The critic was Dick Boyd.

The editors of News Week magazine have offered to furnish student groups attempting such a class, copies of their magazine at five cents each, accompanied by tests in order that it may be used as a textbook. Certain faculty members have agreed to conduct the class, except on the first Monday night of each month when a student will probably perform this function.

There will be a registration fee to cover the cost of the magazines which will probably be sent to one address and then distributed.

60 Leave on Y Hike For Chimney Mt.

Dr. Case In Charge Of Sunday Morning Worship Service

At 1:00 this afternoon approximately 60 men started on the annual YMCA hike. The group traveled by bus to the Chimney's camping ground, which will serve as a base for the hikers. Ten different hikes are expected to be taken to points of interest, the one to Mt. LeConte being the best known.

Dr. Case, member of the faculty accompanying the men, will lead the devotions Sunday morning. The hikers are expected to return to the campus Sunday evening in time for supper.

Stan Menning and Jimmy Evans will serve as the chief cooks for the group. The main dishes for the three meals include for Saturday supper: three hamburgers each; Sunday breakfast: scrambled eggs, ham, fruit; and for Sunday dinner: steak and French fried potatoes.

The Y is sorry it was unable to accomodate all the 80 men who signed to go. The expense of each person going on the hike is about $1.40, of which 50 cents is paid by the person himself and 90 cents by the Y. For this reason the Y felt it necessary to limit the number to 60. Accordingly, the first 60 men paying their money first were chosen to go. All those who were unable to go and had paid, may get their money from either Stan Menning, 225 Carnegie, or Henry Wick, 315 Carnegie.

Athenian Will Not Meet This Evening

Because of the YMCA hike, there will be no meeting of Athenian this evening. It will meet as usual next week.

The officers wish to call attention to an error made last week. Philip Wye won the trophy in the Girl-I-Left-Behind-Me contest instead of Bill Segraves as it was announced.

KING FOR A NIGHT

Remarks about the King game last Saturday night dropped around by various qualified and unqualified Sunday coaches, downtown quarterbacks, rail-sitters, et al lead us to the conclusion that that particular game was a very peculiar and odd contest. A heavy fog sealed the large Bristol Stadium and made following the ball difficult. This may have had something to do with our untimely fumbles, which, without question, were the complete downfall of the Scotties. Twice our backs juggled and lost the ball inside the 9 yard line. We realize the King aggregation was plenty tough to begin with, but their after-game story spread the tidings of the most thrilling, exciting, and hard-fought exhibition of real ball-playing King had shown this season.

WHY, DADDY?

Some students always ask "What was the matter?" Well, we think we can give three good reasons for our poor showing against King. First, King has a top team with a heavy line and an array of flashy backs. Second, over-confidence of a few resulted in hapless blocking and tackling on our line. Third, the first away-from-home game in unfavorable conditions found several of our young squad members a bit nervous and careless.

SUN-LAMP AND LINAMENT

Pulled tendons and strained muscles have been causing our Highlanders a little trouble lately. Mitchell is recovering from a knee injury incurred before the King game. Spears, Taylor, and Lattimore, a trio of hard-running Scottie backs, all suffered minor leg injuries in the King game. Kramer, with his broken finger and ailing arm, is expected, with all of the others on the casualty list, to be ready and willing to go for the Emory and Henry game after an open week-end.

DANGER AHEAD! !

The entire Scottie squad of thirty-three journeyed to Bristol to tempt the King Tornado. That still does not disprove the idea that supporters rooting for their own team have a definitely beneficial effect on the gridders out on the field. The squad travels about 30 miles northeast of Bristol next Saturday to test the highly-touted Wasps of Emory-Henry. To date the Wasps have conquered Hiwassee, split games with East Tennessee State and lost to a strong High Point eleven. They take on the Union Bulldogs tonight on their home field in Emory.

The Emory-Henry Wasps are by far not the only remaining threats on the Scottie schedule. Carson-Newman boasts of an experienced and strong team this year and the East Tennessee squad appears to be as strong as usual. Sad experience also tells us that those Teachers are never beaten until the final whistle is blown.

HERE AND THERE

A small group of experts are springing from the weekly score-picking contest in Room 102 Carnegie. Their percentages, sad to say, range anywhere from the low 50's to the high 80's. Someone wanted to see the World Series in the column. Here it is! Ping pong has been revived in the YM game rooms and an increasing amount of interest is being shown. Too bad we can't send our one man cross-country team around the state to challenge all on-comers. By the way, the newest sporting event in the school, so we're told, is exemplified in the new dating bureau. Some sport, huh! We bet some of those Y hikers are wishing they had tried to get in shape before the hike.

Alpha Sig Edges Blanks 12-6

Club Team Overpowers Independent League Champs In Exciting Play-off Friday Afternoon On Wilson Field

Dewees, Graham, Sweeney Spark Alpha Sig Attack; Hedges, Foreman, Justus Star For Losers; Long Passes Featured

The Alpha Sig Dudes snatched the intramural football championship title from under the nose of the Independent Blanks yesterday afternoon when they completed a pass in the last two minutes of play to win the season's crowning game, 12-6. It was the play-off game between the winners of the Club league and the Independent league, and was played on Wilson Field before a cheering crowd of nearly 100 students. Both teams entered the fray undefeated, and they proved to be evenly matched all the way.

The team line-ups were as follows:

Alpha Sig	Pos	Blanks
Dewees	LE	Cooper
Laughmiller	LG	B. Evans
Moore	C	A. Rock
Tinley	RG	Pratt
Holman	RE	Foreman
Sweeney	B	Rowan
Graham	B	McGaha
Miller	B	Hedges
Howard	B	Justus

Subs: Bob Mair, Fleming Griffith, for Alpha Sig.

It was in the second quarter of the game that the scoring started popping. Alpha Sig's ball in the middle of the field; Bill Sweeney dropped back from the line of scrimmage, carefully picked a receiver, and hurled a long, beautiful pass intended for Ray Dewees. Dewees made a lovely over-the-shoulder catch, and raced 15 more yards beyond the Blank's safety man for the six markers. The attempt for the point—Sweeney to Howard—failed.

Then in the third quarter, with the score still 6-0, Chuck Foreman made a name for himself by intercepting an Alpha Sig pass and galloping 20 yards to cross the double stripe for the Blanks and tie the score up 6-6. The try for extra point failed.

With two minutes to go, the game looked as though it would end all tied up, when Sweeney dropped back again, picked a receiver, and let go another deadly hurl. Harry Graham was waiting for it on the 2-yard marker, took it, and stepped across for the winning touchdown. The last seconds were full of frantic passes, spectacular interceptions, and flashy runs that kept the crowd on its feet, but when the final whistle blew, Alpha Sig still led, 12-6.

Outstanding for the winners were Harry Graham and Ray Dewees, not to mention Sweeney's passing. The Dudes had a tricky play which gained needed ground more than once. It was a forward pass faked to a man far down the field and thrown short to a halfback waiting behind the scrimmage line and free to make a good run.

Best for the Blanks were Jim

Scots vs. Porter

Saturday night at 7:30 on the College field Maryville's scrubs, and less experienced men, will play Porter High's first team. The game will be the first night game for practically all the freshmen Scotties and is offered primarily to give them experience while the first string is on "vacation." Porter will meet the Scotties with the rather good record of only one loss for the season, and in addition their team is well-trained and heavy. It is coached by a former Scottie star, Charles "Chuck" Kindred.

Coach Davis is going to use only 13 men from the reserves to give as many playing minutes as possible to the team.

Maryville lineup:

LE—Wiley; LT—Proffitt or Breazeale; LG—Easter; C—Long; RG—Wagner; RT—Edwards; RE—Talbott; QB—Burris; HB—Lattimore; HB—Bayless; FB—Brand. Substitute—Smith.

First Wrestling Practice Called For Monday 3:00

Coach Davis has issued an order for all wrestlers to report for the number one practice Monday afternoon at 3:00 in the wrestling gym. His services will be needed, of course, on the football field for several weeks yet, but he expects every boy interested in wrestling to report Monday to the gym for the fundamental training and getting into shape. Our wrestling program has always been a "major" minor sport here and there has already been much interest and enthusiasm shown.

Bainonian To Hear Music And Reading

At the Bainonian meeting tonight at 6:15, Troye Moore will give a reading, and Betty Robinson and Aura Santiago will furnish the music. There will also be a business session.

King Tornado Tames Fumbling Scots By 28-7 Score

Fumbles On Foggy Field Make Odd Spectacle for Crowd

King College's Tornado maintained its excellent record by bowling over our hapless Scotties 28-7 at Bristol last Saturday night. King's scoring was concentrated in the last half, and the Tornado led only 7-0 at the midway point. Maryville fumbled away two scoring opportunities in the second quarter thru careless ball handling and listless blocking.

The game, played in Bristol's huge municipal stadium, was witnessed by some three thousand spectators, and took place in a heavy fog that made it difficult to distinguish the player's numerals. The scene was made no less dreary by the biting cold which seemed to put a damper on the Maryville athletes.

Early in the opening period King drove to the Maryville 24 yard marker on a long pass completed from James "Frenchy" LaVanche to Ted Berry. From that point, LaVanche secred on a beautiful spinner play over the right side of the line. Captain Vic Kursavage kicked the extra point to make the count 7-0.

The Highlanders came back after the kickoff to threaten twice, but were unable to cross the double stripe. The first threat came on a third down pass from Lloyd Taylor to Les Rock, who was stopped on King's 15 yard line. A fumble in the backfield gave King the leather, and Rizzo punted out of danger. Two downs later Taylor carried to King's eight on a beautiful lateral play, but immediately after the second quarter opened, Maryville again fumbled the ball.

A pass completed to Fowler gave King the ball on Maryville's ten late in the first half, but this time the Scottie line held to take over the offensive. Ross Honaker kicked beautifully all the way to midfield as the first half ended.

Maryville took the opening kick of the third quarter, but was unable to advance the ball, and Taylor booted to the King 45. The Tornado drove fifty-five yards from that point to tally its second touchdown. The long drive, sparked by Gen Quillen, was culminated when Rotenberry opened a big gap in the left side of the Scottie line and crossed the goal. Kursavage's kick was good, making the score 14-0.

Standing on his own ten yard line, Oliver Spears faked a pass and broke through the King line for a 50 yard gain. Spears' sparkling run gave the Scotties a first down on the King 39, but on the next play Rotenberry intercepted a flat zone pass and ran it back to the Maryville one. LaVanche scored easily, and after Kursavage converted the score became 21-0.

Maryville's only touchdown came

INTRAMURAL DOPE

Do you suppose we could blame it on "Wheaties" at Pearsons breakfast last Tuesday morning? In case you remember the All-American cereal but don't get the connection, let the intramural statistician tell you how many points were scored in the final four games of the touch football season. Mascot Intra Mural said that there were a total of 112 points scored in the 4-game series. That would give each team an average of 14 points, but such would mean four tie-ups, a gross error to winners Blanks, 45's, Alpha Sigma, and Ministers. Here are the details:

BLANKS 42; ? MARKS 0—

If this score doesn't mean a record of some sort or another for the powerful Blanks of the Independents, somebody is certainly misinformed or badly mistaken. This score of 42 points doesn't quite measure up to the 59-0 score previously recorded by the Blanks in a game with the ? Marks. However, the Blanks did record some sort of a record when they registered exactly six touchdowns and converted 100 per cent or exactly six extra points. A quick glance at the score sheet shows that the touchdown column was nicked in order by Justus, Hedges, Rowan, Hedges, Hedges, and Justus. Ted Pratt scored the first and sixth extra points, and all the rest were credited to Leapin' Leroy McGaha. This victory gave the Blanks a clean sweep of the campaign and the right to meet the winners in the Club-Society League for the college championship.

ALPHA SIG 19; ATHENIAN 6—

With this final victory over the Athenian gridders the Alpha Sigma Dudes emerged victors in the Club-Society League. This game, traditionally a rough and tough fracas, lived up to old times and was a thriller from whistle to whistle. The Dudes early went into the lead on beautiful six pointers by Holman, Tinley, and Graham. The winners' lone extra talley was recorded on a pass from Sweeney to Miller. The touchdown by the Men from Athens came when Hargraves snagged a bullet pass from Bob Hunter and outsprinted Miller to the goal line.

45's 26; CREAM PUFFS 0—

Victory in this final game with the Cream Puffs established the 45's as undisputed runner-uppers in the Independents. Only the champion Blanks were able to whip this scrappy bunch of freshmen. Living up to the old style of the "indies" the 45's went on a scoring jamboree and wound up with four touchdowns and two extra points. Big star for the winners was Mac McKelvery, who scored three of his team's touchdowns. Hogue scored 1 touchdown and one extra point to take second in scoring honors and Smith racked up the final extra point.

MINISTERS 13; FROSH 6—

The final regularly scheduled game of the season was played by the Ministers and the Frosh, the former winners by 13-6. Although handicapped by the absence of star lineman Suitor, the Ministers went on to win on touchdowns by Boyd and Moore. Overton converted the lone extra point for the Preachers as he snagged a quick pass and ran over the goal line. Outstanding for the losing Frosh was Wayne Stevens, eel-hipped scatback and super broken field runner, who learned his grid technique at East Rochester, New York. Incidentally, come next spring Stevens might promise to be that long-sought-for twirler for Coach Honaker's diamond nine.

VOLLEYBALL

Now that football and tennis records have been packed in mothballs, volleyball is the next major sport for the intramural program. Entries are now open and will remain in that state until October 27. Play will follow on October 29, two days after entries close, with the customary two leagues, club-society and independent.

According to Webster and the Intramural front office "volleyball is one of the most popular sports on the intramural program and each year the number of players increases. Enthusiasm for the game increases immediately after one starts to play, for team work, exercise, skill, and fun are all included in this splendid sport."

Now, fellows, certainly the above paragraphs speak for themselves.

HORSESHOES

Signed up so far in the horseshoe doubles tourney are 24 potential ringer-flingers. However, entries will be open until October 24 and there is still room for a lot more fellows. Play begins on October 27; so get yourself a partner and sign up on the Carnegie bulletin board.

GOLF

In the intramural golf tournament already under way we find that top favorites are the teams of Berquist-Henderson and Evans-F. Miller. Representing the faculty in the tourney are Hunter-Wendt, Queener-Case, and Hovel-Fischbach.

As to regulations, "match play shall prevail—aggregate total number of strokes of a team constitute number of strokes for the hole. U.S. G. A. rules shall govern play."

B'ball to Begin

It has been announced by Coach Lombe Honaker that basketball practice will begin this Monday, October 20 at 3:00 in the Alumni Gym. All men who are not out for football and who have some basketball ability, are requested to be present.

C-C RACE

NO CROSS COUNTRY RACE

Due to the lack of interest, there will be no cross country team this year. Only one boy showed up after the announcement in chapel about the event; consequently Coach Davis has had to drop his plans and tentative schedule and is going to begin work with his wrestling team where there WILL be and is already a high degree of interest.

SECOND LAD—No, but if I had I sure wouldn't tell you. That's the type of gal I'm scheduled to date tonight. Say, what's the matter with that fellow over there?

FIRST GUY—Him? Oh, he's just a fellow who has a date, he hopes. She sent him word that he could recognize her by the green plaid skirt she would wear. And he's been trying to claim every cute little green plaid skirt that goes by. I wish my date would come.

ENTERS BECKY.

BECKY—Are you fellows having trouble? Well——

Whereupon Becky finds for the two lads their dates and everyone lives happily ever afterwards except the fellow who asked his date to meet him on a bench and forgot to specify which one. And he was the exception which proves the statement.

Thus ends the story of "The Birth of a Bureau." For any further details concerning Dating Bureau B3 we would advise you to consult anyone of the three managers. Incidentally, they give their services free of charge. Their purpose is to serve the school and to solve the dating problem on the campus.

assume that the solution lay within the presses, for the presses were unique that night, in that they alone lay silent.

Men poured molten metal, set type, re-wrote, developed pictures, engraved, read proof, answered phones, smoked, talked, joked, and performed for their little hour expressly for the benefit of the Echo staff on that one grand night in Knoxville. Having seen every cubicle, nook and cranny of the plant, and watched the building of a paper from the editorial rooms on down through the composing room to the press room, and having paid its respects to the guide, those who emulate the toilers upward through the night left Knoville for the peace and quiet of Maryville.

It was on the way back that the character was built as each in his own peculiar manner set about not setting the world on fire—some by a detailed resume of the tour, others by the historical approach. The outing ended on this elevated educational plane as once more the stars winked down on a group of tired but happy college students wending their several ways homeward.

early in the fourth quarter when, after halting another Tornado drive on the five yard line, Ollie Spears intercepted a pass and returned it beautifully to the King 22. The score came on a fourth down pass from Spears to Les Rock. Spears' kick was squarely through the goal posts, and the score at this point read: King 21, Maryville 7.

King scored its final touchdown late in the game when a drive sparked by Rizzo carried to the Highlander two. Atwood scored through the middle of the line, and Kursavage kicked his fourth straight point.

Billy Mitchell's Son Enlists

John L. Mitchell, son of the late Gen. Billy Mitchell who was court-martialed out of the army because of his criticism of the army in regard to the use of aviation, is shown (seated) as he enlisted in Milwaukee as a private. He joined the field artillery. Standing are Maj. J. J. Zoffard, and Capt. Roscoe Latham.

Intramurals

Hedges and Horace Justus, who threw laterals and intercepted passes in a worthy play.

The game was a wide open exhibition, if there's ever been one. It was played largely in the air, and was sparked by frequent interceptions. Yardage gained from scrimmage was high, and lots of first downs were chalked up for both teams. This kept the number of punts down to two or three—the ball either going over on downs or being taken by interception. Both lines did a great piece of work. It was a clean game, unusually clean, but with lots of bodily contact and real punishment.

Referee for the game was Mr. Archibal d Pieper. Field judge was Gabriel Williamson.

The Alpha Sigma Club League team is the 1941 intramural football champion.

Student Council Discusses Scottie

Means of Providing For School Mascot Are Considered

At the meeting of the Student Council, held last Monday evening, October 13, in Thaw Hall, urgent business was discussed concerning the payment for the operation of Scottie.

Two suggestions were made as to how to pay for the operation performed last summer on "Scottie", the school mascot. One was the instituting of a "Nickel Day" in which students would donate nickels for the cause; the other was the holding of some entertainment, the proceeds of which would be used for this expense.

Other business transacted was the choosing of the Student-Faculty Committee and the discussing of a plan for the providing of picnic equipment to all organizations needing it.

College to Welcome Alumni For Annual Homecoming Next Saturday, November 1

Feature of Day Will Be Barbecue On Baseball Field

C-N BALL GAME

Former M-C Athletes To Be Honored At Pep Meeting Friday

REV. J. EDWARD KIDDER

The annual Homecoming for old grads will take place this year on Saturday, November 1, the day of the Carson-Newman game. The main event of the day as far as the alumni are concerned, will be the barbecue which will be held on the baseball field at 5:30 Saturday afternoon. Although the exact details of the program have not yet been worked out, the band will play and there will be a bonfire. Also at this time the alumni can obtain tickets for the game at half price (which is 55c this year because of tax). At any time other than at the barbecue, they will have to buy the regular full price ticket.

On Friday evening previous to Homecoming day, all former athletes of the College will be honored at the Pep Meeting which will take place then. All those wearing their "M" will receive free tickets to the Carson-Newman game.

President of the Maryville College Alumni Association this year is Rev. J. Edward Kidder of the Class of 1916 who is at present living in Maryville. Mr. Kidder is a missionary to China now on furlough and unable to return to his field because of conditions in the Far East. His two sons, Dave who is a senior and Ted a junior, are well-known to Maryville students. Other officers of the Association are Louise Wells '41, vice-president; Winifred L. Painter '15, recording secretary; and James R. Smith '35, executive secretary.

'Yesterday Today' Mrs. Barker's Book On Ozark Mtns.

Presentation of Case Histories of Backward Mountaineers

In isolated sections of the Ozark Mountains there are still remnants of the eighteenth century life and culture. Little note has been taken of this fact. It seems high time to fix the present situation in some permanent form....." so begins "Yesterday Today," a vividly descriptive and captivating true-to-life story of the peoples of the Ozark Mountains who in many respects resemble the more backward of the Smoky Mountain folk. The author of this fascinating and well-written book is Mrs. Catherine S. Barker, wife of Associate Professor Lincoln Barker of the College faculty.

Mrs. Barker writes that she lived for several years in a small college town at the foothills of the Ozarks, with little chance of knowing the mountain natives. Then, as a case worker for the FERA she was sent to the mountains to visit mountain homes. Hence, all of her information so attractively presented is first-hand. Catherine Barker was welcomed and trusted because of the nature of her work, and was consequently afforded many opportunities to learn the customs, ways, and in general the total life of the Ozark mountaineer.

In a statement concerning the book, Caxton Printers say that after living among the quaint people of the hills Mrs. Barker came away with crude generalization and without sentiment. Many of the cases presented are pathetic in respect. The life of the Ozark mountaineer is the existence of the pioneer, which has lasted because of his natural isolation. We find a differ-

IRC Holds First Meeting of Current Events Class Mon.

Periodical "Time" To Be Used As Basis For Study

Monday night at 7:00 in Bartlett hall the first meeting of the class in Current Events was held. This class is under the sponsorship of the International Relations Club. Approximately 75 students attended this meeting and expressed their interest in the class. It was decided that the class is to meet every Monday evening from 7 to 8. The periodical which will be used in the class as a basis for study is TIME. Anyone interested in current events is welcome to attend the meetings.

Janet Lindsay presided at the meeting and introduced Professor Verton M. Queener, who summerized the main topics of interest for the week. Following Mr. Queener's summary, the floor was open for discussion.

The next meeting of the Current Events class will be on Monday evening. The commentator is to be Mr. Archibald Pieper.

Dr. Case To Speak...

At 7:00 on Sunday evening the regular vesper service will be held in the chapel. The speaker is to be Dr. Ralph Case. The college choir will sing several anthems.

Tribute Paid To Dr. Stevenson By Knoxville Church

Special Services Honor Fine Work Of Retired Pastor

On Sunday morning at the Shannondale Presbyterian church, Knoxville, there will be held a special service honoring Dr. William Patton Stevenson, retired College Pastor of Maryville College. Dr. Stevenson has served as minister of the Shannondale Church for the past 20 years, traveling to Knoxville each Sunday morning and preaching there, while at the same time conducting his work and services at the College. He has done this because of his desire to be of as much service as possible in this territory.

Last spring he told the church that he did not feel he could do this longer and asked them to make other arrangements. The church, therefor, called Rev. Edwin F. Dalstrom, who is now living in the manse by the Shannondale church and serving as pastor. The church took an unusual action, that of electing Dr. Stevenson as pastor-emeritus although he had never really been an installed pastor. The Presbytery approved of this and the service on Sunday morning will be a recognition of him as pastor emeritus. President Lloyd will make an address concerning Dr. Stevenson.

Lynt to Review Book Sunday

'Dynamite In Europe' Title of Mission Travel Story

The book, "Dynamite in Europe" will be reviewed at the Student Volunteer meeting Sunday evening at 8:00 when this group assembles for its regular weekly meeting in the YW rooms. This meeting will wind up the October series of meetings which have been placing emphasis on the European mission field and its needs.

"Dynamite in Europe" was written by Eva Stuart Watt as a record of her four months' journey through Europe in the spring and summer of 1939 in the company of James Stewart, one of the leading independent mission workers of all time. It has been widely read, and has become the source of inspiration for many aspiring young missionaries both in this country and in England.

The book will be reviewed by Ben Lynt, sophomore English major and ministerial candidate from Washington, D.C., who has been active in the Student Vol group here since first coming to Maryville.

Practice Organ Installed in Chapel

Fine Arts Dept. Can Now Care For New Organ Students

The newest addition to the Fine Arts department this year is the practice organ which has been installed in the southeast corner of the balcony in Voorhees chapel. The College bought this organ because of the number of new students who wished to take organ lessons. The one organ in the chapel could not accomodate all these students because they could not find enough time for all of them to practice. This new organ will offer a complete solution to this problem.

The organ has two manuals and two pedals and complies in all measurements to the American Guild of Organists requirements. There are four sets of reeds, two swell boxes, one expression pedal, and the tremelo. The organ has perfect repetition and staccato response. This new practice organ has already proven a great asset to the Fine Arts department.

Debaters Practice On War Question

Tuesday night at 7:00 in the philosophy lecture room the class in debate will meet. At this time the question, "Resolved, that the United States should declare war immediately," will be debated. Benjamin Lynt, Paul Jamarik, and Lucille Lynch are the speakers on the affirmative side of the question. Debating on the negative side are Albert Baxter, Hal Lloyd, and Edith Monroe. The chairman is to be Dick Boyd. J. Edward Thomas, former varsity debater, will act as critic-judge.

At the next meeting of the debate class at 1:00 on Wednesday afternoon the question, "Resolved, that a uniform system of price control be adopted," will be the subject for debate. The affirmative speakers are Jack Kramer, Margaret Clippinger, and Ruth Aiken. Jean Boyd, Pat Carter, and Roy Crawford are the speakers on the negative side. The chairman will be Grace Jarnigan. There will be an audience decision.

Maryville Alumni Enter Wide Range Of Occupations

Forty-seven Grads Continue Schooling; Ten In Army

Last year Maryville College presented the B.A. degree to seventy-three men and sixty-one women, making a total of 133. Of this number ten are in the army, 24 are in seminary, 13 are in graduate school, and most of the remainder are employed in a wide range of occupations. The following have entered military service, some by choice, and some through selective service: Roland Tapp, Thomas M. Cragan, Douglas Steakley, William Baird, Lynn Birchfiel, Charles E. Baldwin, William E. Huff, Clement F. Hahn, John Ballenger, and Robert Wilcox.

In medical school are Dorothy Jean Eslinger, at Hahnemann Hospital in Philadelphia, Margaret P. Peters at Woman's Medical College in Philadelphia, Frederick P. Rawlings at Vanderbilt, Robert Puncheon and Joseph Swift at Temple, Jacob Bradsher at Duke, Hal Henschen at Emory University, and Robert Short who has a fellowship at the University of the South.

In seminary are the following: Lily Pinneo at Moody Bible Institute, Roland W. Anderson, Alfred H. Davies, Charles R. Eble, Robert J. Lamont, Andrew Francis O'Conner, Stuart R. Schimph, John H. Thompson, James Robert Watt, Oliver K. Williams, all at Princeton; at Chicago are David M. Humphries, Jack L. Zerwas, and Eldon Seamons; at San Francisco are John B. Astels and Philip O. Evaul; at Western are Paul L. Brown, Kenneth Duncan, and David T. Young; John M. Magee and Eugene W. Reid are at Columbia; Ralph P. Thompson is at Louisville; Barbara Ann Swift is at Times Have Changed— Maryville Too

By PAUL KOLTER

While recently thumbing through the 1885 files of The Press, northern Ohio newspaper, the following article was brought to light. "An alarming custom which seems to be growing among girls is the practice of walking the streets during the evening. We believe in walking, and think young people require plenty of exercise; but surely an hour's brisk walk after sunset will effect this purpose.

"Modest girls should not be seen on the streets, unless necessity compels it, after dark.

"Girls are too often inclined to get up 'little flirtations' with the gentlemen they meet. Sometimes it is no more than an interchange of glances, a wave of the handkerchief, a cough, but these little departures from maidenly modesty lead to greater and more dangerous ventures and we shudder to think of the abyss on which they unwittingly stand."

If the above advice was to be followed by the Maryville College Miss, there would be some changes made here. Since the time and times have changed, if MC Miss wants any supper, she is compelled by necessity to walk the streets of the College to the dining hall in order to get herself a bite to eat. The above article states that "girls are often inclined to get up little flirtations with gentlemen they meet." Very, very true, of course. But that should be stopped! How? By a very simple process to which all in college here have access. Simply go to the nearest telephone and call the Date Bureau, and they will fix everything. Thus, when suppertime comes around, the MC Miss is compelled to go to the dining hall, there will be at her side a Maryville College Boy who will make sure that she doesn't wave her handkerchief at some gentleman she happens to meet.

When the evening meal is over, Boy and Girl have two choices of places to go. First of all, they may return immediately to her dorm where she would politely bid College Boy goodnight and quickly disappear into the building. Or, they might add a more modern touch to the evening and select a bench under one of the many trees on the campus. At this stage of the game it might be felt that the advice in he article of 1885 would be a little bit out of date. If such are the thoughts of Boy and Girl, more timely advice would be necessary, and might well be—"The love bug will get you; if you don't watch out the night watchman will too."

Howard To Head Student Council

At the first meeting of the newly elected student council, held in Dr. Hunter's classroom Tuesday evening, October 7 at 8:00, George Howard, senior from Wellsburg, W. Va., was elected president; Lucille Lynch, senior varsity debater from Parkersburg, W. Va., vice-president; and Mary Ruth Baker, junior from McMinnville, Tenn., secretary-treasurer.

Following the election of officers, a business meeting was conducted by the president, just elected, who had been acting-president since last semester. This meeting concerned itself with an explanation of the purpose of the council and the duties of office of its members, a discussion of a petition from the freshman class which protested the inefficiency of the council.

The freshman petition was adjudged, by the council, as unworthy of investigation, on the grounds that announcement of the day and hour for voting in the freshman class election, had been given sufficient publicity, and the negligence lay with the frosh, and not the council.

George Howard is an active Alpha Sigma members, a member of the Alpha Sig "Dudes" football squad, was a member of last year's athletic board of control, and was a member of the football squad.

Lucille Lynch is a member of Pi Kappa Delta forensic society, a Bainonian, president of the Student Volunteer group, a sociology major, active member of the International Relations Club, and was one winner last year of the T. T. Alexander prize.

Mary Ruth Baker is vice-president of the junior class, member of Theta Epsilon, and the B. G.'s, and is an home economics major.

Spanish Club Elects Officers

Thursday evening the first Spanish Club meeting was held. This is the first time a Spanish club has been inaugurated among the college activities for many years.

Although the first meeting was to discuss the business in the new organization, thirty students attended, thus proving its popularity.

Officers were chosen for the ensuing year. They are: president, Aura Santiago; vice-president, Bob Lord; social chairman, Fleming Griffith; treasurer, Fred DePue; secretary and program chairman, Bina Ruth Brown.

On Friday, October 31, the Spanish Club will have a picnic. Everyone is cordially invited. The cost is 20c per person, payable to any of the officers.

Faculty Members Visit Knoxville For ETEA Meeting

Mrs. Grace P. Snyder To Lead Discussion On Dean's Duties

Mrs. Grace Pope Snyder, Dr. David H. Briggs, Dr. Edwin R. Hunter, Mr. George F. Fischbach, and Mr. John A. Davis, as special representatives of Maryville College, will participate in the program outlined for the annual meetings of the East Tennessee Educational Association to be held in Knoxville this week. The ETEA is an organization of college instructors, public school teachers, and officers; professors and administrators from thirty-four counties in eastern Tennessee, formed with the object "to encourage and promote educational work in Tennessee." The association will hold its thirty-seventh annual session on the campus of the University of Tennessee from October 30th to November 1st.

Dr. Briggs is chairman of the college department of the organization. He will present a report to a discussion group on Friday morning and will lead a discussion at the meeting of the Teachers of Education and Psychology on Friday afternoon. Dr. Hunter will present a talk, "Improving College Instruction Through Honors Work," to the college departmental session.

At the departmental session—Deans of Women and Girls—held Friday afternoon, Mrs. Snyder will be chairman of the panel discussion, "The Dean—Her Qualifications and Responsibilities." Mr. John A. Davis, instructor in Physical Education, is chairman of the division called the "Tennessee State Association for Health, Physical Education, and Recreation." At the meeting of this department held Friday afternoon, Mr. Fischbach will speak on "A Comparison of the Defects Found Among Men Draftees in 1917-18 and 1940-41."

The guest speaker for the opening general session of the organization this year will be Congressman Martin Dies, Chairman of the Committee for the Investigation of un-American Activities, Washington, D. C. His address, to be delivered in the University of Tennessee Memorial auditorium Thursday evening, will be entitled "The Trojan Horse in America."

Another speaker of note will be His Highness, Archduke Felix of Austria, who will speak Friday evening. Son of the late Emperor Karl of Austria and famous authority on European affairs, Archduke Felix will discuss "Europe Today and Tomorrow."

All Out For National Defense! Maryville Animals Must Do Their Part

By PHYLLIS ANN CAIN

"City Pigeons Work on Defense Job Now"—so read a headline in the New York Times this week, and the story continued, "Flocks of hitherto shiftless pigeons that used to loaf around the eaves of downtown skyscrapers have been put to work sorting raw ergot from raw grain at a government-owned warehouse on Staten Island. Officials learned that by spreading out the grain on a table and leaving a big window open, hundreds of pigeons would fly across the bay from the Manhatten skyscrapers to the warehouse. The pigeons eat the good grain and spit out that containing the ergot."

Latent opportunities toward adding to the defense program zeal sweeping the country now such as the one taken advantage of in New York have not as yet been discovered on the Maryville campus. I refer to the shameful waste of reserve animal power now floating around loose. That the lower animals are willing, and need only be drafted or allocated to perform maximum service can be seen by the splendid response to duty shown by the above mentioned pigeons.

Likewise the willingness exists in Maryville; however, an outlet has not been found and the situation is steadily becoming more serious. A few weeks ago certain of the canine species were anxious for serious occupation only to the extent of attending chapel. Last Monday, however, David, a lively if somewhat odorous pup, thrust himself into Mr. Mac's education class to offer his fullest aid, consisting mainly of handlickings and tail waggings. The notable fact about this case is that David volunteered not during the ordinary routine, but at the first serious crisis in the class—the emergency being the first hour test of the semester. Another example of this splendid morale is the eager nightly convoying to and from the hospital of Pearsons girls who take milk.

This ambitious spirit is not shown merely by the canine division but also by the squirrels, black cats,

President General of DAR To Speak At Dedicatory Rite

MONUMENT PLACED

Sixth President To Present History Of College Founding

The celebration of Founder's Day will be unusual this year in that the services will not be held at the college, but at a point some 25 miles north of Maryville.

On Sunday, November 2, at 2:00 p.m., a service of dedication will be held at the place where Isaac Anderson established in 1802 and conducted until 1812 Union Academy, which may be considered the predecessor of Maryville College which he founded in 1819. The place is on Murphy road about seven miles north of downtown Knoxville.

Isaac Anderson came from Virginia to that location in 1801, acquired this land as his farm and lived there until he removed to Maryville in 1812. He willed his farm of at least 215 acres to his grand-daughter Rebecca Anderson who sold it in 1859 to Samuel K. Harris, whose daughters are members of the Simon Harris Chapter of the DAR which will cooperate in this dedication.

In recent years the land has been divided and sold to different persons. The present owner of the land on which the marker is being placed is Mr. I. Wayne Longmire of Knoxville. The present owner and occupant of the land on which the Union Academy stood is a Mrs. Holmes.

Isaac Anderson was pastor of the Washington Presbyterian church a few miles beyond his farm from 1802 to 1812; in 1802 he built a large log school building on his farm and conducted Union Academy there until 1812; in Maryville he continued his academy work until 1819 when he founded the institution which became Maryville College. He conducted some school steadily from 1802 until near his death in 1857.

For this reason Maryville College may be said to have started actually in Union Academy whose location is to be marked on November 2.

The principal speaker at the dedication services, November 2, will be Mr. William H. Pouch of New York City, President General of the National Society of the DAR. Other participants in the program will be officers of the Simon Harris Chapter of the DAR (Knoxville), President Lloyd of the College, Judge S. O. Houston, Chairman of the Directors of the College, and a number of college students.

A six-ton marble boulder from a nearby marble quarry is being placed near the road on the ground where the Isaac Anderson home is said to have stood.

The location of the school building was about 700 feet west of this spot and from the present road, a tablet will be attached to the stone bearing the following inscription:

"One Eighth of a Mile West of This Spot There Stood the Building of Union Academy, Generally Called, "Mr. Anderson's Log College", which was Conducted From 1802 to 1812 by Rev. Isaac Anderson, Founder and First President of Maryville College of Which Union Academy was the Predecessor."

"This Tablet Is Erected Under Auspices of the Simon Harris Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution. By Maryville College This 2nd Day of November, 1941."

Appalachian Club To Elect President

The Appalachian Club will hold its first meeting of the year Monday, October 23, in Alpha Sigma hall at 6:45. There will be an official business meeting since the office of president, vacated by Bill Overly, has to be filled. Those who are eligible for membership are students from Kentucky, Tennessee, Virginia, West Virginia, North and South Carolina. All these are cordially invited.

Concerning a Chronic Ailment

Allow us the privilege this week, which most editors seize upon at every opportunity, of preaching a short sermon.

There has recently been organized among the ranks of lower classmen an Unofficial Society for Chronic Gripers. No B average is required for admittance, which is a pity; no activity points are necessary, a greater pity. Pledges are selected and tapped on a basis of the depth of the furrow between the brows, the general lowering expression of the face, the whining quality of the voice, and general ingenuity, as displayed in readiness in thinking up things to gripe about. The Society has no regularly scheduled meeting time or place, but the members gather quite frequently, every day, in fact, in little knots all over the campus.

The general procedure calls in the time-honored manner, first, for all old business—under which heading comes condemnation of food in the dining hall, the uniform, rules and regulations in general. New business is then brought before the gathering—which includes vehement denouncement of roommates, the mail situation, the bus schedule, absence of room service, the pitiable condition of she who must remain at school over the week-end, outside reading, unreasonable professors who actually expect one to study, and the slowness of the Goose-girl—who after all, has only several hundred students to wait on.

As in former years, the Society for Chronic Gripers gathers only a minority of 1200 students to its banners, but these concentrate on making plenty of noise, on being seen and heard. It never occurs to them to take their complaints to the people who might rectify them, to air their opinions on the food to the dietician, whose earnest aim is to please; to consider that they accepted the uniform when they signed their names to the registration card; to talk it over with the roommate to her face, rather than behind her back; to look around them at the busy girls who never get away on week-ends; to remember that college professors are having somewhat of a time of it, anyway, in cultivating the vast areas of their somewhat blank minds.

MSCW should blacklist the chronic griper, and relegate her to the Victorian era, where she belongs.

Old Spice

By JEAN BARNES

If-we-only-had-a-camera complex has been strong this week. Everyone has been so charming. In the first place there's "D. J." She wouldn't tell us what she did to her arm, but it surely was touching. There stood Miss Taylor, beaming smile, bandaged arm delicately outstretched, and talking away vigorously, while Frances Bowman cheerfully poured on water and did a tremendous scrub up and down, up and down, the good arm. It was all powerfully suggestive; we expected any minute to have her put up a "$35 down" sign and drive her away.

Picture number two was on the YM hike. It seems a certain bunch of floating leaves was not dry land after all. So there you have what is left of Sidney Duke—to-wit, one face above a broad expanse of mountain stream, while somewhere below two feet suddenly made a forced landing.

On the technicolor side comes Ina Jussley. Portrait by the freshmen chemistry students. Oriental influence. Evidently Ina as an assistant was not fully appreciated; so someone tried his best to "blow her to China." At which Ina emerged with yellow powder over her face, dark skin, and craters in various parts of her dress. And incidentally fully convinced of the potency of oxygen at the wrong times and places.

Maybe we shouldn't miss this one either. the animated sort. There was Mary Esther White running around with her little mad dog, Hal Lloyd, on a very tiny leash, a slightly elongated watch chain. Must have been late for the blue ribbon show.

There are caddies and caddies, but few so efficient. Dr. Collins toured the course this week with his small daughter, Erica. Erica insisted—delightfully to be sure—on carrying the club at the most inopportune times or else helpfully held the ball.

There will always be a weather as long as there's you and I and nothing to say. Or else a general atmosphere, i.e.' Are you going tonight—whatever shall I wear—see you quarter of eight—and so forth and so on served with curlers and showers and new ties, I'll bet it's good. pin this for me, bells ringing, and prayers for no rain. We've been advised by the fashion expert to take a double glance tonight at Mary Knight in pink and black and to wait for Jane Glass in extra special red and white. But if you'd rather, wait'll Mac McKirdy appears in top hat and tails.

Whether malice aforethought on the part of the typewriter or a form of intelligence test for the post office staff, Dr. Briggs' package for the psychology department this week was addressed to Dr. David H. Buggo. Maybe entomologists should investigate.

We hear the art studio has taken under its wing the latest campus arrival, the little black kitten soon to be christened Satan. Its best friend seems o be Fred DePue. Tish, tish; such company.

As I See It

By JANET LINDSAY

Today the United States stands alert for approaching war from both directions. Since September 11, the people of the United States, through the power of the press and the radio, have been made to feel that declared war feared and awaited for many months, is rapidly approaching reality. Events occurring in the past week would lead one to believe inevitably in the immediate declaration of a state of war in the United States.

Looking to the Far East, Japan is on the verge of declaring war on the United States. The rise of the new cabinet in Japan under the direction of General Tojo and the downfall of Premier Konoye have greatly aggravated the situation. General Tojo is the leader of the faction that believes strongly in the idea that Japan's ultimate destiny is to rule all East Asia. Tojo has the Emperor's commission to carry out this and has resolved to do it with "speedy action and iron will." Hitler's attack on Russia provides him with an excellent opportunity to accomplish his (Tojo) purpose. The United States would strenuously oppose this conquest, perhaps to the extent of war, since a Japanese conquest would interfere with American aid to the Russians which might, in turn, be the downfall of Russian resistance. As the UNITED STATES NEWS puts it, "What happens to the United States depends upon what happens to Russia. If Russia holds out against Hitler, then Hitler will be occupied for the winter in Eastern Europe and Japan will hesitate to move. But if Russian resistance collapses or dwindles, then Hitler will be able to free powerful armies for use elsewhere and Japan will have an incentive to grab while the grabbing is good." The vicious circle idea——.

In the Atlantic the situation is equally grave. On Tuesday the President, in a press conference, announced that two more United States-owned ships were sunk, one of which was flying the United States flag. The President said at that time, that no ship of any nation could any longer be considered safe anywhere on the Seven Seas. He explained that according to preliminary information, the Lehigh was traveling from Bilboa, Spaint to a Gold Coast port in ballast. Emphasizing that the vessel, owned by the government and operated by the United States Lines, and was on a trading mission well outside recognized war zones, the President held that the attack constituted piracy. The immediate effect of the two additional sinkings making the total to date (Thursday) of ten, coupled with the extension shoot-on-sight order has served to add impetus to immediate action on the proposed revision of the Neutrality bill now in the Senate. At the same time the President outlined what he called "the Victory program" under which national defense is speeded up still further; it provides that by 1944, 125,000 airplanes will be turned out and the production of tanks and munitions of all sorts will be more than doubled over the present capacity.

TIME, in discussing the attitude of the people of the U. S. towards the war up until now, says, "Somehow, but Americans knew not how, the fate of the United States was involved in this ghostly contest. Sometime, though they knew not when, Hitler's triumph's were to stop, the unrest of the conquered countries was to grow, United States' supplies to invaded countries would be enough and the Nazis would go down; by some means, though they knew not what they were, the daily round of their own familiar United States life was to be made uneasy by the outcome . . ." Then describing their attitude at present, say, "Nowhere in the democratic world are there signs of imagination or just plain capacity to match the mad audacity of Hitler. The United States, like a man coming out of an opium dream, had barely waked up to the knowledge that it could not count on anybody else to fight its battles, that it had to achieve its own survival."

These are the things we love—perhaps,
Those—ah—little things of life;
Our worn out ink eraser,
Our "S & W" knife.
Two minutes after seven
The blessing Sunday noon,
The last bus in from Knoxville,
The new song, "Elmer's Tune."
Or getting down to finer things,
Frank Cross asleep in class,
Pat's "Oh, my aching bunions!"
The noon sprawl on the grass.
Phyllis Johns in general,
The mail boy! And by dint
Of much heartbeat and yearning,
The smile of Benny Lynt.
Ollie's new Ward catalogue,
The waiting line for showers,
Al Flowers' systematic speech
Which lasted on for hours.
Being bashful or just snobbish,
Kathryn out with "Tip".
Dave Kidder's organ playing,
Gab sessions—drip to drip.
The prayer meetings in Carnegie,
Miss Avakian's middle name,
The jokes you hear Don Hopkins tell
That leave you not the same.
We could go on forever:
Some things are so inspiring;
But we dread the implication
Our column has grown tiring.
If your heartache is no better,
And it's solitude you seek,
All we say, unquote, is don't
Tune in again next week.

(such as the one visiting in Carnegie), rats, etc. Moreover, I do not want newcomers at Maryville to feel that these activities are wholly unprecedented. They are following in the true Maryville animal tradition; David has as forerunners a certain zebra-like mule, who possessed a sacrificing spirit and passed away some years ago, and a far-sighted flock of turkeys who thought themselves parachute troops and went on maneuvers with the philosophy classroom in Thaw as a base.

However, the time has now come when a "step-by-step" policy is unwise. Without a doubt, some of the more imaginative and resourceful minds on the M-C campus can speed up production of ingenious ideas to put to work the unued animal power. The draft range might become as comprehensive as to include dogs, cats, squirrels, mice, horses and even the cows at the college farm if necessary, although I believe that the latter's service is of such strategic importance as to grant them deferment—at least until the emergency becomes too great.

A sample suggestion: that convoy-dogs be transferred from routes to and from the hospital to those in the central area of the campus (more or less). I am sure their protective services would be appreciated by Dot and Guy and others too numerous to mention, (the purpose of defense being fulfilled in a more general sense in this instance.) However, more pertinent and valuable suggestions than this can doubtless be worked out.

Lie Detector Will Be At Cotton Club

The Cotton Club will meet Monday night at 6:35 in Athenian hall. All old members and all new students from the states of Georgia, Florida, and Alabama are invited to be present. Dr. Briggs will demonstrate the lie detector which is owned by the college. This should prove an interesting program to all present whether they have seen the demonstration before or not.

At a recent meeting new officers were elected. Dick Watkins was elected president; Mary Jane Person, vice-president; Margaret Clippinger, secretary; Al Flowers, treasurer; and Charley Burgreen, Ralph Parvin, and Peggy Caldwell, program committee. The meeting Monday night will be the first one presided over by the new officers. The new president said that he hopes to make the club as large as any state club on the campus.

Barker Book ...

ent set of morals, customs, manners, from those which we experience in a more civilized type of life. Yet, in many respects the homely charm of the Ozark mountaineer—his neighborliness, his kindness, valiance, self-satisfaction, and unpretentious goodness are on a higher scale than much city existence.

The book itself is well-written; there are numerous pictures and illustrations of life in the Ozark country. The story is depicted in sixteen chapters with revealing bits of verse introducing each chapter. Beginning with the actual physical description of the mountains and its people, the total life of the mountaineer is portrayed. Such colorful topics as architecture, ancestry, marriage, education, family life, health, superstitution, and character of the hill folk are among the chapter titles. Into her writings the author has introduced the actual speech of the mountaineer as most of the stories depicted are related in the tongue of the native Ozark.

Some of the mountain inhabitants, especially the women, have never been out of their immediate neighborhood.

"Great numbers have never seen a train, many have never ridden in an automobile, and some have never seen one . . .

"Most men who own a wagon make at least an annual trip to town. But the wagon may be loaded high with cotton on the way in, and with a winter's supply of provisions on the way home, so that, year after year, there is never any room for the women folk.

"Many cars are being run in the hills with license tags several years old. Recently a man drove into a county seat in a car bearing a 1912 license. When questioned he asserted that he had understood that a new tag must be obtained only at the time when an automobile was purchased . . ."

But these are only snatches of the picturesque life of these hill folk as set down by Catherine S. Barker. Though poverty and illiteracy may be chief characteristics of the inhabitants, the spirit of the mountaineer is not broken. As the author states, "They have no desire to leave the land, poorly as it has treated them. It is the only life that they know—and maybe next year they will fare better."

SPORT ECHOS

BY TED PRATT

ECHO SPORTS

Wouldn't it be swell if we could crowd in Bruno Landi, Stella Andreva, et al and all migrate Emory-ward? The game between the Wasps and the Scots appears to us to be a natural. Their squad is generously sprinkled with standout runners such as Atkins, Neal, Kilbourne, and Hagy. Coach Pidney Porterfield's boys have worked hard to hang up an impressive record. The Wasp squad was hit by early-season injuries but most of their men are all set for the go tonight.

AFTERTHOUGHT . . .

And think of the esthetic sacrifice our gridders had to make tonight. Our big bruisers like to sit and hear light operas just as well as the next guy. And there they are alone, out there on the field, lined up against an equally bruising and fearful bunch of smack-em-downers. Come to think of it, we believe the Met stars that are performing here tonight would sincerely enjoy a good old college football game. But we just can't be two places at once—so skip it!

An amusing conversation was overheard at the scrub game last Saturday night. Several non-student males were making quite a fuss over our Scottie, who was grazing—is that the word?—around on the turf. One said, "Who's dog is that?" Another quickly answered, "That's Dr. Queener's." (Note: Dr. E. H. Queener, local veterinarian). As is in doubt, a third inspected Scottie's inoculation tag on her collar and said earnestly, "Aw no, she isn't; Dr. Queener just initiated her." Don't make me label this a play on words, either.

Plenty Of Pepper In Pepper . . .

Charlie Pepper, our newest fleet-footed wingback, has had an interesting pre-college history. Charlie was graduated from Antigo High School in Antigo, Wisconsin, and took an extension course the following year from the University of Wisconsin. He played only one year of football at Antigo High, lettering at end as a senior. This in itself was an achievement because a broken foot forced him to remain on the sidelines for half of that season. He also lettered in hockey and baseball and won several skating races. Charlie is 19, a pre-med majoring in chemistry, and stood high in scholarship among his Wisconsin classmates. 149 unopened packages of chewing gum make up the unique hobby of Charlie.

When he came to Maryville this year, he decided to try out for football. Coach Davis realized his apparent backfield prowess after only two days at the end position, and much against Charlie's will, switched him to the backfield. With much protesting, our speedy sophomore accepted his backfield duties and lately has shown some of the best broken-field running that has been seen here. In scrimmage the other day, Charlie advanced the ball downfield and after reversing his field, scored on a beautiful 28 yard run. His speed and agility have already netted him a pair of touchdowns this season in this, his second year of any kind of football.

ODDS AND ENDS . . .

Professors Hovel, Collins, and Queener seem to have the right idea out on the golf course—they all brought their own caddies from home . . . the irony and heartbreak of unbeaten Clemson being knocked off by mediocre S. Car. almost floored us . . . we hope for Ohio State and Michigan, but we have to pick Northwestern and Minnesota for today . . . the plea of the intramural managers is "Please replace shoes in box after play", referring to the approaching horseshoe tournament, of course . . . the good old game of golf is still one of the best tests of religion . . . old Uncle Sam is taking a lot of our pugilists such as J. Louis, Ray Cochran, and Maxie Baer—too bad we can't put gloves on the aggressors and show 'em a few tricks . . . brevity is the soul of journalism—let's quit!

Hard Working Tankmen Look Good In Tryouts

Although the first scheduled swimming meet is at Tusculum on January 27, our swimming team is already being whipped into shape. Due to the loss of many of last year's stars there are many new recruits. But the team is hard-working and is evenly balanced, so a good showing can be expected of the Scotties.

The probable lineup for the swimming events:

DIVING—Frank Cross is the only representative. It is hoped that he will even beat his last year's record.

BREAST-STROKE—Dud Moore, Crews and Miller are trying out again this year. Schwartzback is a newcomer.

BACK-STROKE—Cross, Scherer (veterans), Roberson, May (new men).

FREESTYLE 220-440—Cross, Elwell, Malone, Beall, A. Moore(veterans).

FREESTYLE 50-100—Miller and Cross (vets). May Colville, Johnson, Schwartzback (new men).

We have plenty of good talent from the new students. In the future they should prove a very good aid to our team.

Although the graduation of lettermen will be a handicap, the team has an excellent aquatic star in Frank Cross. At present he holds the diving record and 220-440 yard freestyle distance record.

Four Lettermen Gone as Rasslers Begin Practice

Wrestling practice is now well under way. Four of last year's star wrestlers didn't come back for a new season. They are: Evaul, 121 lbs., Hahn, 165; Everett, 175; and Henschen, heavyweight. None of these four boys met a single defeat last year. All were lettermen, and their loss will be greatly felt.

Most of the men in the middle class are back again this year. New talent is needed on the light and heavy ends at present. After the football season, more are expected to come out, for at least five wrestlers are on the football squad.

Anyone at all interested in this sport is urged to come to practice. There is a good chance to make the team. Practice sessions are held every day at 3:00.

Here are the team members so far:

Dick Boyd, junior, 128, letterman.
Bob Bryant, frosh, 146.
Wilbur Chapman, junior, 155.
Horace Justus senior, 145, letter.
Warren Culver, senior, 145, letter.
George Losher, frosh 155.
Bill McCord, soph, 121, letterman.
Pat Patterson frosh, 128.
Ken Ross, soph, 135, letterman.
Joe Suitor junior, 165.

The first wrestling meet will be held with Illinois State Normal U. on January 18. The second will be with the University of Illinois on February 12.

Scots Invade Wasp Nest For Battle With Emory-Henry

Maryville Favored to Down Virginians in Homecoming Fracas

Maryville's once-beaten Scotties invade Emory, Va., tonight for a game with the Wasps of Emory-Henry college. This is the 1941 homecoming game for Wasp supporters, and they are buzzing for revenge on the Highlanders, having been defeated 12-0 in last year's game.

Jack Kramer, regular right tackle, is the only Maryville player out with injuries, and Coach Honaker will be able to start a well-conditioned ball club. Bob Morton, brilliant freshman wingback, was unable to start in the King game due to a leg injury, but he is now back at top form.

The most potent sting of the Wasp attack is furnished by "Bear" Atkins, 175 pound halfback from Abingdon, Va. Atkins was a marked man last season when he led his mates onto Wilson Field, and was effectually bottled up from the opening whistle to the final gun. Tonight, however, it may be a different story, for Atkins has been running wild against his early season opponents.

Stalwarts of Emory's forward wall are End Maie Keuster and Captain Joe Shafer, a tackle. Shafer is out with injuries, however, and may not see much action tonight. Elmo Early, starting right end, is the alternate captain of the squad and will lead his team in the absence of Shafer.

Comparative scores point to a very close game, giving Maryville a slight edge. Emory-Henry defeated Union last week by a 41-7 score, but Maryville was two touchdowns better against the same foe, winning 47-0. Another common opponent was Hiwassee, and this comparison gives the Scotties an even greater edge. Maryville downed the Tigers 32-6, while Emory managed to eke out a 14-7 win.

Emory-Henry has been the victim of a last quarter jinx all season, having lost two games in the closing minutes of play. Taking advantage of the Wasps' notoriously weak pass defense, the High Point Panthers scored three touchdowns late in their game with Emory to win, 20-7. A last quarter safety gave East Tennessee Teachers an 8-6 triumph over the Wasps in the second meeting of the season between these squads. These two games are the only blotches on Emory's record.

In their opener with E-T Teachers, the Wasps came through with a 6-0 win. They went on to down Hiwassee in a close game, and steamrollered Union. Emory's offensive power appeared to be at its best against the Bulldogs last Friday night, with each of six touchdowns being made by a different player.

Maryville's long-dormant passing attack may come to life tonight against a team that is known to be weak against such an offense. The overhead game has been stressed in this week's drills, with Ollie Spears and Lloyd Taylor doing most of the throwing.

The splendid showing of the Scottie reserves in their battle with Porter High last week end is encouraging to Maryville fans, and may mean that some of the second and third stringers will see considerable action tonight.

Records thus far:

	MARYVILLE
32	Hiwassee	6
47	Union	0
16	Transylvania	6
7	King	28
102		40

Hoopmen Begin Work This Week

Coached by Capt. Stan Menning, the 1941-42 basketball squad took the practice floor this week in preparation for the coming hoop season. Only two lettermen are returning, but with a promising bunch of freshmen and some of last year's reserves coming up, the outlook is far from bad. For the first time in five years the team will take the floor without the services of the Baird brothers who were lost by graduation.

Ray Lillard, last year's high-scoring freshman is back, and he, with Captain Menning will be the nucleus of the team. Doug Roseborough and Bill Sweeney are men who have seen varsity service. At this early stage, the freshmen who look best are Dave Smith, Don Schafer, Warren McKelvey, and Bob Solomon. Howard Meineke, a sophomore, is also likely to be used.

Fourteen men have reported for practice thus far. A few more are expected as the practice sessions continue. Those who have reported are Doug Roseborough, Howard Meineke, Dave Smith, Bill Sweeney, Ray Lillard, Joe Fowler, Warren McKelvey, John Bogosion, Alan Rock, Al Murrian, Don Schafer, Bob Solomon, Dan Eveland, and Stan Menning.

Scottie Pups Whip Kindred Eleven From Porter, 26-0

Maryville's scrappy Scottie pups took the spotlight from their fame-seeking varsity brothers last Saturday night on Wilson Field when they worked out a well-earned 26-0 victory over a tough Porter High eleven. The game, a child of the Social Committee, gave our unsung freshmen a chance to show their ability and was witnessed by a good-sized crowd.

Although off to a shaky start, the scrubs soon overcame their nervousness and exhibited a well-balanced team that promises much for the future. On the defense, the vicious tackling was outstanding while the downfield blocking and sensational running marked the offense.

The score at half-time was 6-0, the only score being the result of a 10 yard run in the first quarter by Bob Bayless. The Scots drew away in the second half when Sam Lattimore ran from the thirty, Jim Burris crossed the line on a 75 yard punt return, and Lattimore returned to scamper 60 yards for the final tally. Extra points were kicked by Lattimore and Burris.

The team as a unit functioned well. Individual stars on the line were Bill Long at center, Easter at the guard post, and Proffitt at tackle. Manager Don Campbell showed his versatility and ability by donning a uniform and playing a good game. In the backfield, Sam Lattimore stood out with Bayless and Burris.

Porter High came to town with a good record but they were no match for the heavier college boys.

INTRAMURAL DOPE

It takes a good many people and a good many kinds of work to keep a program like that of the intramural department running at the speed at which ours has been running. That means that there are lots of folk whose work is never published—unsung heroes, in a way. So the intramural department is asking a paragraph or two today to say "Thank you" to a few of those who are making our program click.

Thanks, first of all, to Ted Pratt, Sid Duke, and the Echo in genral, who have given us space and publicity galore on a really swell sports page. That means about as big a boost for intramurals as any other one thing from September to June, and we appreciate it.

Also flowers to these touch football referees. It's a hard job calling one of those games, but several fellows have stck with it and have hung up a good record. Gabriel Williamson, Ben Lynt, and Mr. A. F. Pieper have been outstanding, and Chuck Gilpatrick, Chuck Foreman, Ken Cooper, and Dave Hall stepped in when help was needed. The linesmen and time-keeper and score-keeper have been on the job, also; it's fellows like that who keep the games going.

Thanks are due finally to the workers who have lined off the football fields and the tennis courts and have recovered from the undergrowth the horseshoe pits and the golf greens. Those were jobs! Incidentally, the golf course looks pretty good now. Follow some of the matches around and see for yourself. "Squawky" Hawkins has been working for intramurals in a big way this week. He's helping to fix up our new Bartlett hall office in the room which used to house the YM store. Various cleaners and painters and carpenters are making it look good. They hope to have it ready by the first of next week.

So besides the championship teams and star players, a good deal goes on behind the scenes of intramurals.

FOOTBALL—

Touch football finally wound itself up this week with three play-off games to decide second, third, and fourth places in the College championship race.

45's 13; Athenian 7

The 45's made themselves the heroes of the Independent League last Tuesday afternoon by becoming the only independent team to soundly whip—or whip at all—its Club League opponent. They set up a smooth offense and a tight defense and put across two touchdowns and a point to the Athenians' one. The Athenians started out in good form by taking the kick-off and marching 60 yards for 6 points and an extra marker in five plays. Stan Menning took a pass from Bob Hunter for the touchover, and Bill Hargraves did the same for the point. But the 45's began completing passes, making nice interceptions, and pulling spectacular runs until they had chalked up 13 points and threatened several more. It was a hard and fast game and well won.

Ministerials 20; Cream Puffs 0

The Preachers took third place in the college championship by defeating the independent Cream Puffs 20 points to the good. For the winners, Beall made 6 points, Rowley 6, Swartzback 6, and Pemberton and Suitor 1 each. It was a fast game, and the Cream Puffs didn't look as bad as the score indicates. One pass after another was intercepted—by both teams—and the ball traveled up and down the field at a really confusing rate. First the Softies on top, then the Preachers, then the Softies, ad infinitum. But the score still ended all one way.

Frosh 13; ? Marks 0

Fourth place went to the Frosh, another Club League team, when they took the Q.M.'s by the traditional unlucky number of points. When the teams lined up and the crowd had a chance to look them over, it looked as thought the losers should have a chance to come out on top. But nuthin' doin'. Joe Fowler's men put on steam and scored their first touchdown on a long pass to a sleeper who galloped across without being touched. Another touchover and a point ended the scoring. It was Don Conkle and John Neff for the Frosh, with Stevens hanging up the point.

So the curtain rings down on the football season. Alpha Sigs (Club League) are champs; the Blanks (Independents) take second; the 45s Independent aggregation, third; the Ministerials (Club League) fourth; and the Frosh (Club League) fifth.

GOLF—

The golf tournament is well under way. By the time of the issue of this paper the first round will have been entirely completed, and the second round started. The second round should be played off by Wednesday evening of next week. It is too early yet to pick favorites; your guess is as good as anybody's. When guessing, don't fail to consider the faculty teams a real threat. Let us put in a request, incidentally, that those who are not playing matches move around the course at a fairly steady pace anyhow. A straggling double or foursome is a nuisance to match players.

HORESHOES—

Some 35 teams have already signed up for the barnyard game, all of which promises a bang-up tournament. Play is to start on Monday of next week. Watch for announcements.

VOLLEYBALL—

All volleyball entry blanks must be completed and turned in by Monday of next week. Scheduled play is to begin on Wednesday. Head manager Curt Wright predicted on Thursday of this week that there would be at least ten teams entered. They will be divided into leagues similar to the division of the football teams.

For convenience of the varsity practice, the swim periods have been shortened slightly to the following schedule:
Monday, Wednesday, Friday, Saturday—
Girls—3:00-3:45 Boys—3:45-4:30

Bowling is rapidly becoming the most popular intramural sport in northern and eastern colleges and universities. Maryville College now has a chance to become equally progressive. We suggest organizing a College Bowling League of six teams, composed of five players and an alternate each, as follows: Freshmen, Sophomor, Junior, Senior, Athenian and Alpha Sigma. A like league for women bowlers, including Bainonian and Theta Epsilon teams, should be organized. Organize at once and you will become charter members of Maryville Bowling Association, soon to be affiliated with the American Bowling Congress.

Twelve Alumni Held Reunion

Meeting At Chapel Hill, N.C.

Twelve Maryville alumni who were in the vicinity of Chapel Hill, N. C., October 5, met at the University of North Carolina for a reunion.

Members of the Class of '41 who were present were: Lois Ann Alexander and Harvey Lehman, who have graduate assistantships in zoology; Bill Klimstra, who has a graduate assistantship in botany; George D. Webster, who is at Union Theological Seminary in Richmond, Virginia; Louise Darden of Athens, Georgia; George B. Clark who is doing graduate work in political science at the University of North Carolina.

Eugene Orr, '40, the only member of his class present, received his Master's degree from the University of North Carolina last year and is doing further graduate work there. From the Class of '38 were Clara D. Echols, who is taking graduate work at the U. of N.C., and G. R. Hernandez, who now lives near Chapel Hill. Alma Whiffen, Class of '37, was also present. She is now a member of the faculty at the University of North Carolina, having received her Ph.D. degree from that school. In receiving this degree she also received the North Carolina Academy of Science award in recognition of her fine work.

Twenty-Five Hundred Copies of 1941 Alumni Bulletin To Be Mailed This Week

Various Changes Feature The 1941 Alumni Bulletin

Extensive Section Of Pictures Adds To Bulletin

Mr. James R. Smith, Public Relations Secretary, received from the printers this week the new copies of the Alumni Bulletin. Twenty-five-hundred copies of the magazine have been printed this year.

The Bulletin is the usual sixteen pages long. This particular issue is replete with pictures. Mr. J. Edward Kidder, president of the association, Winifred Pointer, recording secretary; Louise Wells, secretary; Mr. Lincoln Barker, Dr. John H. Stellwagen and Miss Ruby Violet Lane, new faculty members; and Dr. Edmund Davis all have pictures in this issue. The new studio art house, Ignala, is also represented in the picture section.

Various changes have been made in the physical makeup of the book this year. The front and back pages of the booklet are printed in blue instead of the usual black. The back page contains a large reproduction of one of the wooded scenes from the 1941 Chilhowean.

Among the thirty-two articles in the Bulletin are some of particular interest to the student body. First is a message from the Alumni president telling about the changes that have come to the campus since he was a student here. An article appears about the completion of the paving of the roads and the other general improvements around the campus. The new faculty members are introduced in one of the features. Several books written by old students are reviewed, including Mrs. Lincoln Barker's book, the new book by Dr. Hill Shine, a textbook in biology written by John W. Ritchie, a graduate of '98, and the book written by Claire McMurray Howard. The new loans and scholarship funds are mentioned. Also included is an article on the improvements made on the college dairy. As is found in all college alumni bulletins, there is a long list of marriages of graduates.

The Bulletin is printed about the time of the Homecoming celebration. Mr. Smith stated, in connection with Homecoming, that this evening at 5:00 in Bartlett auditorium the colored moving pictures of the college will be shown for the pleasure of the graduates. At 5:45 there will be a barbecue on the baseball field. At 8:00 tonight Maryville will meet Carson-Newman on Wilson Field for the Homecoming game.

Library Develops Labeling System

Browsing Made More Convenient By New Plan

The library has just completed a new system of labeling in order to make the organization and exact location of books in the stacks clearer to the student using his stack card privilege. A card on the end of each row has been put up at about eye level and lists the field or subject and the general number of books in that row. This will help the student who is browsing to find what he is looking for more readily and without recourse to the card catalog.

Douglas Steakley Completes Training At Randolph Field

RANDOLPH FIELD, Tex., Nov. 1—With the graduation of another class of Aviation Cadets from Randolph Field, Texas, on October 31, the Air Corps pilot training program continues at "full throttle in high pitch." This class, 243 strong, represents 30 states and 150 colleges and universities. Among them is a former Maryville College man. He is Ralph Douglas Steakley, Jefferson, Ohio, '37-'41, B.A.

Members of the tenth class to receive their basic training at the "West Point of the Air" during 1941, these pilots-to-be came from all walks of life. Some were clerks and salesmen, others, football heroes and engineers, but all are now vital cogs in the United States' fast-growing air arm.

Reporting to Randolph Field just ten weeks ago after completing primary training at an elementary school, these men had mastered the fundamentals of pilotage in rugged low powered training planes. Sixty-five hours aloft were logged in this type of craft. Now they have added an additional 70 hours in Randolph's speedy 450-hp. monoplanes. This secondary phase of the Air Corps 30-week course has included night flying, aerial acrobatics, cross-country, instrument and formation flying. Ground school subjects, weather, military law and engine maintenance, have added greatly to their skill as pilots.

Yesterday, these cadets completed their basic training schedule and are now ready for a final ten weeks at a specialized Air Corps school. Later they will be commissioned 2nd Lieutenants in the Air Corps Reserve and will go on duty alongside veteran pilots of the Air Force Combat Command.

Randolph Field trains 4500 student pilots annually as a part of the present pilot training program that calls for 30,000 military pilots each year. Classes report every five weeks, and the huge Texas field, manned by 550 officers and more than 3500 enlisted mechanics, is operating on a 24-hour basis.

During the thirty-week training period, Aviation Cadets are paid $75 monthly, plus food, clothing, quarters, medical and dental care. After completing the course, pay jumps to $205 plus quarters or $245 if quarters are not provided. If the young officer returns to civil life after his tour of duty with the Air Force, he is paid a bonus of $500 for each year he has served as a flying officer.

Frosh Sponsor Hill-billy Ball

Amid a typical Hallowe'en setting with corn shucks and pumpkins the Freshman Hill-billy Ball got under way last night at 7:30 in the Alumni gym.

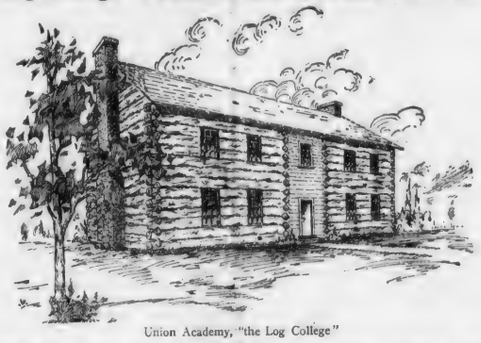
The evening's festivities began with a "get-acquainted" game called "Snap," continued with a number of country dances and games, neared conclusion with a variety program and ended with a square dance. The program consisted of tap dances by Icky Hardin, several English monologues by Trevor Williams, the playing of the record "Old Sal," and the awarding of the Grand Door Prize to the person with the lucky door number.

Those on the committee are as follows:

Ray Swartzback, chairman; Jean Richmond, refreshments; Jane Hayes, publicity; Carole Robinson, posters; Edgar Potts and Al Murrian, decorations; Abner Richard, Jessie Fowler, and Betty Uhler, program.

Radio Vespers at 4 P.M.

On Sunday afternoon at 4:00, Dr. Lloyd will conduct the regular radio vespers service. His theme will be "The Beginnings of a Christian College."



Lie Detector To Be Shown At Law Club

A demonstration of the school's lie detector will be the main attraction at the next meeting of the Law Club. John Ross will explain the machine and show how it is used in the criminal law courts.

President Pat Carter will appoint a member of the club as a delegate to engage outside speakers for future meetings of the organization.

A special invitation is extended to any new members and to all who have an interest in law.

"Log College" Featured in Dedication Service

Union Academy, "the Log College"

Pictured above is "the Log College" of Union Academy, which was conducted from 1802 to 1812 by Isaac Anderson, founder of Maryville College. A replica of this "Log College" has been made, and will be used in the Founder's Day service. This service of dedication will be held Sunday, November 2, at the place near where Union Academy was situated.

Sophs Also Have Hallowe'en Party

Radio Broadcast Theme of Program

Friday night at the Broadway Methodist church gymnasium, from 7:30 until 10:00, the sophomore Hallowe'en party was held. Only members of the sophomore and senior class were invited to this party, which was, as all Hallowe'en parties, highly informal.

The theme of the program was a radio broadcast, the battle of the sexes with the college's best entertainment appearing between rounds of the conflict. Appearing on the program was Bob Schwarzwalder and his tumbling team. Mel Gaughan sang several solos. Moore's minstrel was also starred on the program. This minstrel show which has given more than one performance for groups off-campus has been described as momentous, marvelous, mirthful, and moth-eaten. In addition to the endmen and the interlocutor, the minstrel show has such talented stars as Clyde Brown and his dancing feet, Betty Parker and her accordian, and the three Flats, Parvin, Pratt, and Hopkins. Appearing with the show for the first time were Bob Hunter and Polly Park. Betty Parker was the chairman of the entertainment committee.

Following the entertainment, refreshments were served, cokes and doughnuts. Sidney Duke and Jim Felknor were in charge of the refreshments.

The faculty chaperons were Dr. and Mrs. F. A. Griffitts and Dr. and Mrs. Ralph T. Case. Nettie Rose Spraker was in charge of the location arrangements.

Medical Aptitude Tests to Be Given

Applications For Tests Made At Dr. Hunter's Office

The Association of American Medical Colleges' Aptitude Test will be given on December 5 under the direction of Dr. E. R. Hunter, Dean of Curriculum. This is a special test given specifically for those students who failed to take the test last spring when it was given here, but who are planning to apply for admission to medical school during 1942.

Students who make this test should make application immediately to Dr. Hunter's office in Anderson hall. The time of the test will be December 5 at 3:00. The place will be Room 213, Thaw hall.

A fee of two dollars is required of each student taking the test and must be paid at the time he takes the test.

Alpha Sig To Take In New Members

Last week, names were taken at the Alpha Sigma society for those who wished to join. Tonight at the regular meeting, to be held at 6:45, a final list of names will be taken. So anyone who wants to join this organization should show up.

New members will be formally initiated on Saturday, November 15.

MISS KELLER AND MARIAN JENKINS READ AT WORKSHOP

For the Writers' Workshop last week Miss Jessie Heron presented a book review and Dr. Edwin R. Hunter read several of his parodies portraying characteristic styles of famous poets, such as Poe, Sandburg, Wordsworth, Masters, and Housman.

Next Monday afternoon at 4:00 in Dr. Hunter's classroom, the Workshop will meet again and Miss Mary M. Keller and Marian Jenkins will read, with Miss Heron as critic.

Dean McClelland Addresses Council

Cut System and Transportation to The E-TT. Game Discussed

At the meeting of the Student Council, held last Monday in Thaw hall, Dr. McClelland spoke on the present cut system, and several items of new business were discussed.

Dr. McClelland, in his speech on the cut system, explained each detail of the new set-up and asked for any suggestions, concerning the improvement of the system, which he might put before the faculty.

The possibility of getting a bus to transport students to he E-TT. football game on November 7 at Johnson City, and a system whereby students are to have a chance to conduct the vesper service once a month were the other important items of business considered.

Discussion was continued concerning the creation of a "Scottie Day" in order to meet the payment of Scottie's operation, and the possibilities of obtaining cooking utensils for use on picnics and hikes.

Current Events Class to Interpret Foreign Events

This Monday evening at 7 p.m. the third meeting of the Current Events Class, under the direction of Janet Lindsay, will be held in the YW rooms.

Aiding in the discussion, George Tibbetts will speak on current events in North Africa, Malcolm Thompson on South America, Gabriel Williamson on Europe, and Margaret McKirdy on the Far East.

The Current Events Class, which is an outgrowth of the International Relations Club, met last Monday night at which time Professor Pieper lead the discussion, Ben Lynt was elected treasurer, and new members were considered.

Dr. Orr To Lead YMCA Meeting Sunday

Dr. Orr, head of the religious and philosophy department, will take over the worship service tomorrow at the the YMCA's regular Sunday meeting in Bartlett hall.

The general theme will be "Dependability." The time for this meeting has been changed from 1:30 to 1:15.

Staff Selects New Frosh Apprenties

Tennesseans Fill Business Positions

At a recent meeting of three committees, the Faculty Committee of Student Business Management, the Faculty Committee on Student Publications, and the Student Council Committee, three new business staff apprentices were appointed to the Highland Echo staff to assist Ken Cooper and Don Hopkins. The apprentices that were elected were Mary Curtis of Chattanooga; Frances Lane of Knoxville; and Richard Scruggs of Sweetwater. This is the first time in many years that any girls have been appointed to this position; it is also interesting to note that all three of these students are from Tennessee.

Students on the business staff are in charge of the details in regard to the makeup of the paper, such as the size of the sheet, quality of the paper stock, number of columns to the page, and the number of issues to be printed. They are also responsible for all contracts and all advertising.

Dr. Orr To Adress Vesper Group Sunday

Dr. Horace Orr, professor of religion and philosophy, and chairman of the Division of Bible, Philosophy, and Education, will conduct the vesper services tomorrow night. He takes his text from the 23rd Psalm which will also be sung by the choir. Dr. Orr has been at Maryville for twenty-two years, having begun his duties here the second semester in 1929.

Knit Two, Purl Two, Purl Two, Knit Two, and Repeat.....

By MARY WINTERMUTE

If you are an observing soul you have no doubt noticed and wondered at the suddenly increasing number of coeds arming themselves with knitting needles. You have probably noticed Mary Ruth Baker and Ann Halabrin wandering around the campus with knitting bags dangling from their arms and wondered just what the point of the sudden trend toward handiwork might be. The immediate cause for this revival of the long dormant art of knitting is Phyllis Johns and "Bundles for Britain." If we go back farther we find that there is a reason for the cause. The reason is the American Red Cross.

It was 'way back in 1881 that the American Red Cross was founded by Clara Barton. The purpose of the Red Cross society is to help all those who are in need because of circumstances of calamity, economics, or war. This means that Red Cross functions during times of international peace as well as during times of war. However, it is generally during war days that the Red Cross gains the public attention and approval which it at all times deservies. It is the American Red Cross association which is now calling the American people to help relieve the sufferings of the British people and all people who are victims of this second World War. Many ways are there in which people can cooperate with the Red Cross in its attempt to give aid to the warring nations. One of these ways is to knit "Bundles for Britain."

Now to return to the immediate cause of campus knitting circles. She lives on the fourth floor of Pearsons and is the official Red Cross wool distributor of the campus. Anyone who wishes to help the war victims of Britain by knitting should see Phyllis Johns. Phyllis will give the plan and instructions for knitting the garment and also the wool. At present the knitters are trying their skill at woolen scarfs 72 inches long. For the not-so-ambitious knitter there is wool and directions for little sweaters, size two. At the time ones receives the yarn and specifies what the yarn is to be used for a card is made out, recording this information. Each person is resopnsible for the yarn which she takes and must within a reasonable time return either the yarn or the knitted garment.

If you should happen upon Evelyn French, Ruth Meineke, and Pat Haworth sitting calmly under a tree knitting furiously—as fast as one

Doctor Clifford Barbour To Lead February Meetings

President Lloyd to Attend Meetings In Chicago, Ill.

Next Wednesday and Thursday, November 4 and 5, President Ralph W. Lloyd will attend meetings of the Deartment of Church Cooperation and Union in Chicago. This department, of which Dr. Lloyd is a member, consists of fifteen men from various parts of the United States.

The first meeting, on Wednesday, will be held at the McCormick Seminary where the Department will meet for its business sessions. This will deal with all question of relationships between this denomination and all other denominations.

Thursday the meeting will be a joint conference with a similar commission of Protestant Episcopal Churches of America. For the past two years the two denominations have been carrying on discussions as to methods of closer cooperation and possible union. The Episcopal group is made up of bishops, members of the clergy, and laity of different parts of the U.S.

Dr. Lloyd is one of a committee of three members which was formed jointly by the two denominations, a Committee of Colleges and Schools. He is also chairman of a Committee of Presbyterian Reformed Bodies.

Movie Party Held By Junior Class

Weather Forces Party Indoors

The juniors celebrated Hallowe'en last night with a theater party in town. Because of a turn in weather conditions resulting in a drizzly day, the original plans for a weiner roast and blanket party at the College farm were forced to be changed.

The general program of procedure was under the direction of the class president, Wesley Lochausen. The class and the seniors who accompanied them, left the campus in a body at 7:30 and proceeded to town where some of them went to the Capitol and others to the Park theaters, depending upon which show they wanted to see. At the Capitol "Sergeant York" was showing while at the Park the feature was "Kitty Foyle."

Following the movie refreshments were served in the basement of the Presbyterian church. Anne Halabrin and Mary Jane Person were in charge of this important part of the program. In accord with the original picnic idea, hot dogs and cider were served.

Rev. Stringham To Conduct Songs For Twentieth Year

66TH MEETING

Leader Is Popular Knoxville Pastor, Author and Speaker

The leader of the February Meetings for the sixty-sixth year since its beginning will be the Rev. Clifford E. Barbour, Ph.D., D.D., pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church, Knoxville, Tennessee. This is the second time Dr. Barbour has rendered this great service to Maryville College. He was the leader four years ago.

The singing will be led again by the Rev. Sidney E. Stringham, pastor of the Shaw Avenue Methodist Church, St. Louis, Missouri. This will be the twentieth year of service for Mr. Stringham, so that he is well known to all Maryville people except the new students of this year. Dr. Barbour has spoken on the campus in recent years but his leadership of the Meetings was before the present seniors entered college.

Dr. Barbour was born in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, forty-six years ago. He graduated from high school, the University of Pittsburgh, and Western Theological Seminary, all in the city of Pittsburgh. Later he studied a year or more on two different occasions at the University of Edinburgh, Scotland, where he received the degree of Doctor of Philosophy. Maryville College conferred on him the honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity in 1934.

He was for two years Assistant Minister at the Shady Side Presbyterian Church, Pittsburgh, giving particular service to students in the University of Pittsburgh and Carnegie Institute of Technology, and was three years pastor of the Heron Avenue Presbyterian Church, Pittsburgh. For the past thirteen years Dr. Barbour has occupied his present pastorate, one of the most important in the South. He iso one of the most popular ministers ever to serve in Knoxville. His hold on university students is very strong. His services are crowded, many present being from the University of Tennessee, where he is much in demand by various groups. For example, during the recent years of the University's noted football teams he has served each year as toastmaster at the varsity football banquet.

During the first World War he served as a religious leader among soldiers in France and Italy. Dr. Barbour is the author of a book entitled "Sin and The New Psychology" and of many articles and pamphlets. For ten years he was a member of the Presbyterian Board of Christian Education, sitting in the Board's meetings where plans for the denomination's Sunday Schools, colleges, and other educational work were made. He is in wide demand as a speaker in colleges and universities as well as in churches and young people's conferences.

Disc Club To Hear Opera Recordings

More Familiar Parts of Gilbert and Sullivan Opera To Be Played

Thursday night at its regular meeting, the Disc Club will present the ever-popular Gilbert and Sullivan comic-opera, "The Mikado." This charming travesty of Japan includes some of the best known Sullivan melodies, while the libretto contains some of Gilbert's finest wit. Because of the limited amount of time only selections will be played. They will include A Wandering Minstrel I, I've Got a Little List, Three Little Maids from School, The Sun, Whose Rays, A Song of the Sea, My Object Most Sublime, The Flowers That Bloom in the Spring, and others. Cliff Pool will be the commentator.

SATURDAY, November 1, 1941

Welcome, Alumni

Of all the "special" days on the Maryville College calendar, there is one that carries more signficance and rates more preparation and planning than possibly any other. This day to which we have all been looking forward is Homecoming.

On this particular day, the student body, the faculty and the campus itself experiences a general loosening up of tension, and takes on an air of congenial fellowship. Each individual looks forward with pleasure to this day on which he can welcome old friends back to the college.

With the return of former students, there are new acquaintances made; and old acquaintances that may have lagged through the medium of correspondence are re-established through personal contacts.

Homecoming is a day of pride on the part of us students—pride, above all, in seeing the former students and knowing that they went from an educational environment such as ours into success. In them we see an encouraging slant on answers to our "After graduation, what?" questions.

We feel proud, too, of what these graduates have done in making this college what it is. And it is the sincere desire of every present student that these returning grads feel the same pride in those of us who are following their examples, and are living by their works.

Old Spice

By JEAN BARNES

We might just as well say see last week and let it go at that—explosions and duckings are so unexciting anymore. But laugh! we thought we'd die (and be original). Model diving exhibitor this week was Malcolm Thompson....Esquire....and the place the Fayerweather private pool. Brilliant but gullible they say. Among other things Malcolm apparently swallowed the yarn about the college seal and proceeded forthwith. Time: two minutes later. Scene: the same. Theme music: A! Enter Thompson wringing out his coat tail. The end. Modern drama!

P. S. The method of approach was backward versus eyes shut. And MacMartin, cheerful cherub, refused Jarnagin's kind offer of fifty cents for "Go, thou, and do likewise."

Speaking of out of the way places to be, we'd like to recommend Donnell Bailey for guide on your next round-the-world. You get the idea this way. Donnell has a deluxe, free for nothin' tour of the cottage that's worth while any day. You meet the famous people; you see the famous sights; you do the famous things; and guaranteed passport home in time for the next war.

Which reminds us somehow, two lucky students picked the right little minute to go see Dr. McClelland not long ago. It seems it was Miss Lightfoot's birthday, and Mrs. Cummings suddenly appeared with a cake—with candles yet. And in marched the two callers at the Personnel office, just in time for tea for two. And everyone slightly surprised.

While you're on the birthday party-line, one in the dining room the other night had a table centerpiece worthy of note. For Helen Rawlings' birthday party, her goldfish resided in the middle of the table (presumably in water). But to it were added two new live fish, a frog, a turtle, and a swan—the latter at cut rates. Climax of the evening was not a goldfish swallowing episode. Nor, strange to say, did the three little fishies swim over the dam.

We wouldn't know of course, but they say that now and then there's a rare and tear in Carnegie in those mystical wee small hours that raises your hair, and the rest of you too, out of bed with a groan. Town girls too attractive, investigators diagnose; so people come dashing in at the silliest times, only to find the door locked in sweet repose—and the roommate likewise. So the only thing to do is raise—um—a fuss.

But ha! they said with a mutual smirk; we've got the solution. It's the dating bureauls (sorry, DATING BUREAU'S) fault; they got us into this. But wait. Next week in his very spot, latitude degrees, longitude degrees, will appear a judiciously sweet column on advice to the lovelorn or how to get out of the soup by co-authors Ballenger, Bailey, and Jones, we doubt.

The German band continues to grow and blow in popularity. With Maestro Tibbitts it took a tour down to give a performance at Fort Craig school Tuesday night, and really gained the encores. Mae Persing makes a charming hero when finally equipped with sideburns, pants, Tyrolean jacket, black derby, and tricky trombone. Like the Fort Craig kids, we want to know, "Are you a man, or ain't you?"

Not only does Mae shove a trombone around, but her arm is pretty handy with the tennis racket. She pounded out a close second in the YW tennis tournament. Incidentally, we're still being properly amazed at Nancy Russell, freshman, champ of the tournament. She has a low and fast return that works to perfection. But she lives so near the courts she can't help but win; so they say.

Coming up now really belongs in the beautiful-and-she-can-cook-too category. For several weeks the bulletin board carried the invitation to come to Miss Henry's office and get any kind of thread you might want. So there sat spools and spools of thread of every color imaginable, but no mobs of people. Ruth Perrin and Roberta Hope took the matter in hand and are now equipped with long necklaces of spools, and very cute too. But then you'll find most anything around a person's neck—from noose, two arms, to chains of nuts, to lei. Some sense of humor.

Along with the above comes the revival of that worn out line from the world's greatest dramas, "knit one; purl two," on a patriotic basis. If you're not knitting a bit of B. for B., what good are you? Routine involves seeing Phyllis Johns for general theory and dropping in on Mary Ruth Baker and Anne Halabrin whenever you're stuck.

In contrast, Thursday marked another session of wham! sock! and whoooops! And the freshmen captained by Carol Robinson won the soccer championship, limped home, and lived happily ever after.

Twelve o'clock, Cinderella.

Oh, thanks so much, but we really must go. That ride on the broomstick last night was a little too much.

As I See It

By JANET LINDSAY

Last Saturday evening, the Maryville Artists' Series opened with the presentation of Donizetti's comic opera "Don Pasquale." It played before a full-to-overflowing house and a very enthusiastic audience. The action was fast-moving, the sets and costumes colorful, and the singing superb.

The principals are all good, most of them singing their roles with perfection. Oscar Lassner's Don Pasquale was an extremely amusing buffo characterization. His acting plus his rich voice created a thoroughly satisfactory character. His make-up was good, as was his costuming. Throughout the opera, he kept the audience amused, and displayed an understanding of humorous operatic technique.

Perhaps the most outstanding singing was done by Fransesco Valentino in the role of Dr. Malatesta. His voice exhibited warmth and expression.

The tenor, Bruno Landi, as Ernesto sang beautifully in his upper register, however when he hit the lower tones his voice was a trifle rough. His poorly-applied make-up created a grotesque rather than a romantic effect. His acting was unconvincing, his gestures stereotyped, and even his costume did not measure up to those worn by the rest of the cast.

Finally we come to the heroine—Stella Andreva. Mr. Malcolm Miller, the music critic of the Knoxville Journal commented on her thus—"Stella Andreva.... a beauteous blonde... Her Norina was ravishing, gorgeously costumed, utterly delightful. Parenthetically, I'd timidly like to suggest that she used a bit too much blue eye shadow.

"Andreva's voice was of lovely lyric quality, true to pitch, and she sang with rare discrimination. Her acting was a joy to behold—coy, shrewish, flirtatious, romantic—she did every thing well."

We heartily agree with Mr. Miller but we would like to murmur that she looked much more ravishing in her last two costumes which had sleeves, than she did on her first entrance when the awkwardness of her arms detracted from her performance.

The double quartet was worthy of commendation as were the duets which were excellent.

The staging proceeded smoothly with the minimum delay between scenes. The sets were elaborate and contributed considerably to the general effectiveness of the whole.

The accompaniment by the two pianos was satisfactory, Mr. Bamboschek doing a good job of unobtrusive conducting.

In contrasting "Don Pasquale" with last year's opera, "The Barber of Seville," the concensus of campus opinion seemed to be that this year's production was definitely superior. The singing was undoubtedly better; the acting more expert and the entirety better co-ordinated. Nevertheless, Rossini's opera in itself is an opera, the music more memorable and the plot less typed.

However, Maryville was certainly fortunate in being able to witness so fine a production. Professor Howell and the Artists' Series Committee deserve a vote of thanks for securing such a well-trained company.

TALK OF THE WEEK ... By Charles Dunning

Dr. Callaway Will Address Pre-Meds

On Thursday, November 6, at 6:15 in the chemistry lecture room, Dr. Lea Callaway, prominent Maryville physician, will address the Pre-Med Club on some field of specialized medicine.

The last meeting of this newly popular club was most successful in taking on the form of an open forum discussion of the Problems of Medicine. During the discussion, the topic of Socialized Medicine was touched upon, as was Modern Medicine and the Draftee.

The officers of this club for the current semester are Fred Snell, president; Wesley Lochausen, vice-president; Warren Culver, secretary; Dudley Moore, treasurer; and the program secretaries are Willie Williams and William Henderson.

This organization is planning to picnic with the Triangle Club some time in the near future.

can with two needles and a ball of bluish blue yarn—why, they aren't getting in practice for the life of a spinster. No, indeed! It's just "Bundles for Britain." And if you should meet Betty Clevenger or Kay Sullivan dashing through campus waving knitting needles—why, don't you jump to the conclusion that they are getting in practice to meet would-be invaders in the manner prescribed by the brave Netherland ladies who met the foe with pitch forks. It's nothing like that. It's just "Bundles for Britain." Or we might call it "Knitting with a Worthwhile Purpose."

BETTY PARKER TO PLAY AT THETA

Betty Parker, sophomore biology major from near Chicago, will play popular selections on her accordian at the Theta meeting this evening.

Miss Parker will play request numbers in addition to a program of old favorites, including "Until Tomorrow" and "Margie."

Betty is an active YW members, a Bainonian, and a Parish Project worker. It is in her parish work that she customarily plays her accordian, although she has played for organizations and clubs on the hill from time to time since first coming to Maryville as a freshman last year.

Miss Seedorf Reads To Triangle Club

At the meeting of the Triangle Club last Monday night at Bartlett hall, Miss Seedorf, instructor in dramatic art, gave several readings. Two of them were war readings; a third was a poem.

Plans were made for a picnic to be held on November 8 in cooperation with the Pre-Med Club.

The next meeting will be held Monday night, November 10. Visitors are welcome.

YW To Hear Grierson

Miss Ruth Grierson, the assistant librarian, will speak at the YWCA Sunday. She will base her talk on the autobiographies of six people. Everyone is cordially invited to attend.

The meeting will be held at 5:00 p.m.

Anderson To Tell Of Belgian Congo

Student Vols Plan Series of Meetings On Mission Field

A first hand story of life in the Belgian Congo will be related by Lloyd Anderson, president of the freshman class, when he addresses the Student Volunteers on Sunday evening after vespers in the YW rooms.

This meeting will begin a new monthly series of meetings emphasizing some one foreign mission field for special consideration and prayer.

Last month European missions were discussed, and in the month of September, the Far East was stressed for knowledge, prayer, and work.

It is the plan of the Student Vol group to have some speaker for each Sunday evening meeting whenever possible.

Faculty Club Hears Miss Purinton Speak

On Monday, November 3, the Faculty Club will hold its regular monthly banquet as has been the custom for the past ten years. Miss Virginia Purinton, instructor in art, will be the speaker, and her subject will be on art. Miss Gertrude Meiselwitz has a unique plan worked out for the dinner; each month the dinner represents some national diet. Last month it was Hungarian, and this month it is to be Swedish.

German Club To Hear Dr. Collins

Thursday night at 6:40 in Bartlett hall the German Club will meet. Dr. Ralph S. Collins, associate professor of German and French, will speak on "The First German Settlers in Pennsylvania." The Club will sing German folk songs and play recorded pieces.

Three widows were tearfully and regretfully talking of the death of their husbands a few weeks back:

"Mine died from the lack of breath. Poor man."

"Mine died because he just simply couldn't live any longer."

"Yes, it's too bad. So many people have died this year who have never died before."

He wrote no single line.
And yet she knew
Without a single word, or look, or sign—
The gentle breezes told her heart
Although they seemed so dumb;
So she put on her sweetest dress,
And then, naturally, he didn't come!

GO GET 'EM

Perhaps one of the keenest and longest rivalries in this section of the South is our own Maryville—Carson-Newman series. The Eagles and the Scots have been at it since 1905 when a heavy Highlander eleven steamrollered the helpless Eagles 45-0. But in recent years the contests have been intense and scores have been close. The 1941 edition of the Carson-Newman Eagles appears to be a potent power and the game tonight should be one of the best. Following is a record of the scores for the twentyyears in which these two schools have met:

Year	Maryville Scotties	Carson-Newman
1913	3	17
1914	0	3
1921	5	0
1924	7	10
1926	10	6

BLONDE BOMBER

He is the only freshman who has shown enough good ball playing to land on the starting line-up this season. Bob Morton, or Mort, as he is called by some, hails from Kenmore, New York, where he was graduated from the local high school in 1940. He had quite an athletic career at Kenmore Hi, lettering in track, football, wrestling, and boxing. His speed is proved by his 10.3 average for the 100 yard dash. Our twenty-year-old blondie is extremely interester in all sports and is looking forward to the coaching field. His 165 lbs. are full of energy and power which he uses continuously at his wingback position. A left-hander, he has some ability as a passer, but his main worthiness lies in his running skill and speed. Just watch him!

The week lay-off seemed to have a beneficial effect upon our Highlanders. After a careless exhibition of football in the King game, which they lost 28-7, the Scotties enjoyed an open date. They practiced hard and long for the next two weeks and their labors were made evident and rewarded when they turned on the steam to down a fighting Emory-Henry eleven 20-14 on Saturday night. For the information of alumni and others we print the 1941 schedule and scores:

Sept. 20	M-C—32	Hiwassee—6
Sept. 27	M-C—47	Union—0
Oct. 4	M-C—16	Transylvania—6
Oct. 11	M-C—7	King—28
Oct. 25	M-C—20	E-H—14
Nov. 1	M-C——	Carson-Newman——

FOOTBALL AT UNION

The grid season at Union College, Barbourville, Ky., has been terminated because of injuries and lack of material. The small squad has been over-run by every opponent and many injuries have handicapped the Bulldogs. College officials pointed out that all athletic scholarships were abolished several years ago and the number of freshmen candidates for the football team has been steadily decreasing. The Union eleven was to have met Hiwassee today and Georgetown of Kentucky next week. No statement regarding the future of the sport has been made.

HOMECOMING

With all our brother and sister Maryvillians around, the student body ought to be able to increase its spirit tonight. The team is in condition; the field is brightly decorated; the band sounds good and looks better; the yell leaders are raring to go; and our twirlers are improving with every performance. So let's all come out and really root for the boys tonight. LET'S BEAT CARSON-NEWMAN! !

GAME TO BE CLOSE

Carson-Newman Wins Three, Loses Three in Tough Schedule

Maryville's Scotties tangle with the Carson-Newman Eagles, their traditional rivals, tonight at 8:00 on Wilson Field. This is homecoming day for the once-beaten Highlanders, although they will perhaps rate as slight underdogs at game time. The boys from Jefferson City have been pointing for the Maryville game all season, and anything is liable to happen.

The Eagles have managed to break even in six games played this year, defeating Tennessee Wesleyan in the season's opener, and going on to down E-T Teachers twice. Losses to Eastern Kentucky Teachers, Georgetown, and Milligan mar Coach Frosty Holt's record.

Carson-Newman has but six lettermen from last year's team, which defeated Maryville 27-13, but several newcomers have played important parts in the Eagles' wins. Charley Moffett, a former Central High school star, has been dynamite all year, having scored three touchdowns against Tennessee Wesleyan on runs of 60, 20, and 42 yards. Last week he ran 40 yards for an Eagle touchdown to help his mates defeat the E-T Pirates, 18-0.

Claude Jones, another newcomer to the backfield, made a great debut against the Wesleyans and has been a star in all his team's games. Along with Fullback Harmon, Jones is on the throwing end of many of Carson-Newman's passes. In Ben Booker, Coach Holt has one of the best quarterbacks in the Smoky Mountain Conference. Booker, who is a former Young High school flash, is the only letterman in the backfield, and does most of the Eagles' punting as well as a lot of the passing and running.

On the line, all-Conference Center Jimmy Middleton is recognized as one of the best pivot men in this section. The Eagles also boast two fine wingmen in Jim Newman and Captain Wiggington. Ralph Watts and Ted Evans are the first string tackles, while John Teague and Clarence Deakins will probably start at the guard positions.

Maryville came out of last week's Emory-Henry game in top physical condition, and is expected to come through with one of the sea-

Honaker Team Too Much for E-H Wasps; Score Thrice in Three Periods; Emory-Henry Scores In Last Quarter

Wasp Forward Wall Outcharges Faltering Scottie Line as Atkins, Taylor lead Their Teammates in Long Marches Up and Down Field

A clicking offense built around our veteran backs became the deciding factor in our game with Emory-Henry last Saturday night. Two local boys, Taylor, galloping junior tailback, and Spears, versatile sophomore quarterback, led the Scotties to a 20-14 victory over the highly-touted Wasps from E-H. Before a small crowd on a poorly-lit field the Maryville Highlanders quickly took charge and sent the lanky Taylor 6 yards through the center of the line for the score. Spears' kick was good, giving the visiting eleven a 7-0 lead in the first quarter.

The second period found the ball being moved up and down the field with both teams reeling off first downs. The famous Wasp offense, led by "Bear" Atkins and Bob Neel, began to click but was stopped when our Scotties opened up a counter-march and traveled deep into Wasp territory. Three plays later the fleet-footed Pepper scampered 12 yards on a reverse to score. This, incidentally, was the third touchdown scored this season by the soph sensation. The try for extra point missed and the Scots entered the second half 13 points ahead.

Again in the 3rd quarter the heavy Highlanders turned on the

VOLLEYBALL—

YM Cabinet 15, 15—S. Plugs 1, 3—

The first match of the volleyball tournament was played on Wednesday afternoon in the Bartlett gym. It was featured by a rather one-sided 2-0 battle between the YMCA Cabinet and the Sparkplugs of the independent league. The winning "Cabineteers" Kidder, Brown, Wick, Bushing, and Barr managed to take the first game behind a heavy offensive which allowed but one point to the losers. Sparkplugs Hislop, Morrow, Deforest, Conkle, and Neff improved by 300% in the second game, but the final score was against them to the tune of 3-15.

Outcasts 15, 15—45's 9, 6

In the second match of the volleyball campaign the Outcasts edged the freshmen 45's by scores of 15-9 and 15-6. Outstanding for the winning team were Mair, Lockwood, Moore, Lord, and Wiezalis—in fact the whole lineup. The 45's with Losher, Huber, Smith, Seagraves, Black, and Burkhart were never in the lead but gave the "lowly ones" quite a race in the final heat.

Faculty 15, 15—Ministerials 8, 7

The final afternoon game on Wednesday afternoon was won by the Faculty squad in a 2-0 verdict over the Ministerials. "Names and initials of plays and substitutes" on the winning team included such notables as R. Hovel, A. Pieper, R. Dollenmayer, R. Case, R. Collins, and G. Fischbach. Although they were unable to score more than half as many points as the Faculty, Ministers Grosh, Yunker, Overton, Eanes, Barr, Suitor, and Pemberton were very much in the running all the way.

Athenian 15, 9, 15—Alpha Sig 11, 15, 13—

Probably the most interesting and hard fought of the first day's games was the 2-1 victory of Athenian over the Alpha Sigma Dudes. In the lineup for the winners were Faulkner, Van Cise, Crawford, Wright, Watkins, and Williamson, and in the losers' lineup were Bryan, Snell, Howard, Evans, Miller and Dewees. With the games tied at one-all and the match to be decided on the third and final game, the Greeks came through from a 13-13 count to take game, match, and victory from the Dudes.

GOLF—

At this writing the intramural golf tournament has reached its semi-final stages. Thus far the tourney has featured no terrific upsets, the eight semi-finalists being favored at the outset to reach this particular point with little or no difficulty.

In the top bracket are Bergquist and Henderson who drew a first round bye and then beat Aggie Miller and George Howard one up.

Sitting on the second frame and scheduled to meet Bergquist and Henderson for the right to play for the championship is the team of Hovel-Fischbach. These lone faculty survivors have trounced the teams of Queener-Case and Hunter-Wendt and are at least even favorites to cop the title.

At the top of the bottom bracket are Hunter and Cooper who have bagged victories at the expens of Jarnigan-Proffitt and Shue-Tibbetts. The verdict in the latter round went to the winners only after a terrific battle that ended four up and three to go. On several occasions bad breaks in their putting game dropped the loeerse for a setback.

Bill Evans and Frank Miller are the semi-finalists in the fourth and lowest bracket. Their victories have been recorded over "Monsieur Bye" and the team of Pratt-Crawford. Evans and Miller will meet Hunter and Cooper for the right to meet the top bracket finalists for the college championship.

HORESHOES—

Some 35 teams are signed up for the barnyard sport. Play supposed to start on Monday of this week has been help up because of inclement weather. However, first round matches must be played off by Tuesday of next week, and then the real competition really begins.

power. Taylor, 165 pound tailback, demonstrated his swivel-hips to the entire E-H team and raced 57 yards for the marker. Spears' kick was good, increasing the lead to 20-0.

Early in the last quarter the Wasps retaliated with their first score of the game. Not to be outdone, "Bear " Atkins, 175 pound junior from Abingdon, Va., shook loose from the dozing Scottie guards, sidestepped the secondary and raced 60 beautiful yards to score, dragging the speeding Sammy over the line with him. Asbury's kick was good, making the score more interesting at 20-7. Again the ball was moved up and down the field, with the Scottie line being surprisingly outcharged. Only the offensive power of the Honakermen kept the ball back in Wasp territory. With only sixty seconds left in the game, Atkins dropped back into punt formation, faked his kick, and slipped the ball to Neel, halfback from Maryland, who heaved a long aerial to Billy Edmondson, the senior halfback. Billy gathered in the pigskin and scooted across for the score. Asbury's kick flew between the uprights as the game ended.

In the way of actual statistics, we find that the Highlanders topped the Wasp gains, 318 yards to 118 from rushing. Eighteen first downs for the Scots topped their opponents' by seven. There was an encouraging decrease of fumbles, although our gridders recovered two E-H jugglings. The passing attacks were about equal, although the touchdown strike which Neal aimed at Edmondson topped the passes of both teams in gains. Defensively, the Wasps outshone the Scotties, whose guards were particularly lax, but the ends played some of their best ball against Coach Porterfield's proteges. Best for the Scotties were Breazeale at center, Shelfer, Rock, and Webb at ends, and Taylor and Spears in the backfield. Kreger, big Emory tackle, was the biggest headache to the Scots with his vicious charging and tackling. Varnell and Asbury, the two Emory guards, were outstanding as were Captain Shafer and Early at the wing spots. Atkins was, as forewarned, the big gun on the field, but was held in check for a large part of the game. The line-ups were as follows:

Maryville		Emory-Henry
Shelfer	LE	Keuster
Mitchell	LT	Kreger
Murr	LG	Varnell
Hooker	C	Stallard
Wilson	RG	Asbury
Kramer	RT	Johnson
Rock	RE	Early

son's best performances. The Scotties have downed Hiwassee, Union, Transylvania, and Emory-Henry, losing only to the powerful King Tornado. Jack Kramer, first string right tackle, will be back in harness tonight after an absence of several weeks because of a broken finger. The injury, sustained in the hard-fought Transylvania game, is healing satisfactorily.

The rivalry between Carson-Newman and Maryville is one of long standing. Many bitter grid clashes were staged between the Eagles and Scotties during the many years that both were members of the SMC, and the fact that Maryville is now out of the conference fold will add another to the long list of scores to be settled.

Frosty Holt, popular mentor of the Eagles, is serving his thirteenth year at the helm. During that time he has won some half-dozen conference titles. Carson-Newman is already out of the title chase for this year, due to the fact that they lost to Milligan by a 15-6 score, but they would prefer a win over Maryville to any title in this section. Holt is assisted by Fred Noe, who has served for eleven years at the Jefferson City school.

Bainonian Holds Election

Bainonian meets tonight in Bainonian hall at 6:15, under the leadership of Doris Smith, president. The meeting will be short to accomodate those who plan to attend the football game.

The program for the evening consists of a short business meeting, followed by an election of officers. The two positions to be filled in this election are those of the program secretary, which was left vacant by Sara Crider, and pianist.

Songs To Feature Athenian Program

A program of songs will make up the major part of the Athenian Club meeting that is to be held tonight in the Athenian room. The songs to be sung are old Legion airs such as "Smiles," "Pack up Your Troubles in Your Old Kit Bag," and the like.

All of the available intercollegiate football scores of the day will be announced.

A hearty wecome is extended all old Athenian members who will be back on the campus for Homecoming Day and the Carson-Newman football game.

Carolina Club Will Elect President Monday

The next meeting of the Carolina Club will be held on Monday night, November 10. A new president will be elected and all members are urged to attend.

The first rehearsal for the ninth annual rendition of Handel's "Messiah" will be held in Voorhees Chapel, Sunday, November 2, at 2:00. All interested singers are cordially invited to attend. The "Messiah" will be given this year on December 14.

The Spanish Club will meet next Thursday evening, November 5. All members are urged to attend. The meeting will be held in the Spanish classroom in Anderson Hall.

There are two distinct advantages in the process known as going to the dogs. The road is clear all the way and you are assured of arriving on time.

VOLUME 27 — MARYVILLE, TENN. NOVEMBER 8, 1941 — NUMBER 10

Founder's Day Service is Held At Site of First Union College

Tablet Is Set Up To Mark Site

Address Is Given By Dr. Lloyd On History of College

At 2:00 last Sunday afternoon, November 2, the ninth annual Founder's day service was held. This dedication service was held at a spot near where the Union Academy was founded. Union Academy was conducted by Isaac Anderson, the founder of Maryville College from 1802 to 1819.

The Founder's day service of this year was mainly concerned with the dedication of the stone and tablet by the Simon Harris Chapter of the DAR. Mrs. E. E. Patton, regent, Simon Harris chapter, presided at the program. The unveiling of the tablet was in charge of Misses Delia and Bertie Harris, grand-daughters of Simon Harris and the daughters of Samuel K. Harris who obtained the Isaac Anderson farm from Rebecca Anderson.

Rev. Dr. Ralph Waldo Lloyd, president of Maryville College, gave a talk on the historical background of Union Academy and the relationship of Union Academy to Maryville college. Isaac Anderson, the founder of both of these institutions of learning, began his work as an educator at the age of 22 when he established Union Academy, which people were in the habit of calling "Mr. Anderson's Log College." Among his notable students was John Reynolds who was elected governor of Illinois in 1830. In summing up the program of "Mr. Anderson's Log College," Dr. Lloyd said, "It (Union Academy) included most lines of study then common, except those leading to a profession. It was practical, with mathematics, grammar, public speaking . . . Isaac Anderson was a great educator and this first academy of his was a good one."

The relationship between Union Academy and Maryville College is a very real one. Dr. Lloyd stated this relationship when he said, "Of course, there was no official or legal relationship between it and Maryville college has always followed a conservative and modest plan of counting its founding date as 1819 when the Synod of Tennessee by resolution established an institution. But through Isaac Anderson Union Academy is certainly the predecessor of Maryville college, and might well be called its beginning."

Remodeled YMCA Store Used As Intramural Office

The former YM store has been completely remodeled and is now in use as the Intramural office which was formerly in room 208, Bartlett hall.

The improvements on this room consist of new wallpaper, linoleum, new paint, and a new lighting system; and the trophy case has been moved in. The work of remodeling was done by Coach Fischbach, Curtis Wright, Arthur Bushing, Oliver Van Cise, Dexter Rice, John Hawkins, Ruth Perrin, Mary Jenks, and Ted Kidder. The former office is to be used as an equipment office.

Dean McClelland On Trip to Central Pennsylvania

Last Tuesday, November 4, Dr. Frank D. McClelland, Dean of Student, began a trip on which he will tour central Pennsylvania.

The object of this trip is to acquaint various churches and organizations with Maryville College and the things our school is accomplishing.

Dr. McClelland will continue his visiting for a week or ten days and will return to the campus next week.

There will be a student recital Friday, November 22, at 4:15 in Voorhees chapel.

Dramatic Students Visit Schools

Plays Given At Everett, Alcoa, And Friendsville

Morning, noon, or night—it's all the same to the Dramatic art students! Twice within the last week an entire play cast has left the chapel steps at 7:30 to be transported to a high school stage to present a performance of a one-act play. Once at mid-noon they left to visit a third high school; they are now in rehearsal for a performance to be given on the campus on the evening of November 22.

Alcoa high school was entertained by the farce, "The Maker of Laws." The play was directed by Helen Airheart with a cast consisting of Hal Lloyd, Troye Moore, Mary Esther White, Fred DePue, Harry Lyle, and Neil Proffitt.

At Everett high school and at Friendsville high school "What Never Dies" was presented by the following players: Alice Jones, Nancy Russell, Betty Jean Kennedy, and Ellis Bureaw. Betty Clevenger was the student director.

Miss Seedorf, who supervises all rehearsals and performances, accompanies her students on these excursions.

Joint Picnic Held By Triangle, Pre-Med Clubs

The Triangle Club and the Pre-Med Club will hold a joint picnic at the College Farm on Saturday, November 8, from 3 o'clock to 9:00. A program will be given in the barn.

On Monday at 6:35, there will be a meeting of the Triangle Club in Bartlett auditorium.

'Handicaps' Is Theme Of Evening Vespers

Mr. R. J. Dollenmayer, associate professor of Bible, will be the speaker at the evening vesper service tomorrow night at 7:00. His subject will be "Handicaps in Life's Race."

Dr. Gamon To Lead Wednesday Chapel

Formerly Was Field Supt. of Board of National Missions

Dr. Robert I. Gamon of Knoxville will conduct chapel exercises next Wednesday morning. Dr. Gamon is a director of the college and was formerly under the Board of National Missions of the Presbyterian church in the capacity of field superintendent. Even though he is now in retirement, he is in constant demand as a speaker throughout this area.

M C Must Reduce Use of Electrical Power One-Third

Drastic Reduction Made Necessary By Severe Drought

COOPERATION ASKED

OPM Restricts All Large Users Of Electricity

On Monday morning, November 10, will begin a program of widespread reduction in the use of electric power in this area of the United States. (Editor's note: A later word has changed the date on which the order becomes effective to Monday, November 17.) As one of those establishments using more than 10,000 kilowatt hours of electricity per month, Maryville college will at this time be subject to a curtailment of thirty percent—a reduction of its use of power to 70 percent of its former consumption.

This limitation is part of a drastic power conservation program just announced by the Office of Production Management and designed to assure full and uninterrupted operation of defense plants in the Southeast in the emergency of a serious power shortage. The situation has arisen as a result of prolonged drought conditions creating a scarcity of available water power. Water in reservoirs for the generation of hydroelectric power has already been drawn down to a point where further withdrawals might lead to disastrous shortage. The plan of action as now conceived was further necessitated by the rapidly mounting power needs caused by new and expanding defense industries.

On Tuesday of this week the college received from the Maryville Electric System a letter containing the following notice, "In order to assure an adequate supply of electric power for National Defense, the Office of Production Management has issued Limitation L-16, prohibiting non-essential uses of electricity and requiring a reduction in the use of electricity.

"At the beginning of business on November 10, 1941, unless you are otherwise advised and until further notice, you are instructed to restrict your use of power so as not to exceed 3,464 kilowatt hours in any single weekly period. Your cooperation in complying with the above requirements is essential.

"We are asked by the Office of Production Management to call your attention to the fact that failure will make applicable the penalty provisions (forfeiture of power) of the Order."

The college is now using over 7,000 kilowatt hours weekly. Some readjustment of the quota may be possible; however, in order to meet the present requirement for curtailment to 3,464 kilowatt hours per week, it will be necessary to effect every possible economy in the use of current. From the above figures it can be seen that the college would

Barnwarming To Be Held Nov. 27

Students Will Go On Trip To Mars

Everything that is prosaic and commonplace about this world will be forgotten when the student body and their friends take a trip to Mars. On November 27 the annual Barnwarming festivities will be presented in the Alumni Gym under the direction of Jean Stringham. Her committee, composed of Jordy Meadows, entertainment; Willie Williams, booths; Dorothy Barber, decorations; and Jean Patterson, advertising, is working hard toward the biggest event on the school calendar.

"Marphasia" will capture the imagination of old and young, rich and poor, sick and well. "Marphasia" will invoke side-splitting guffaws, and sympathetic chuckles. "Marphasia" is a must in everyone's date book. Start planning for your "trip to Mars" now!

IRC Club Votes In 8 New Members

Additions Fill 25 Member Quota

On last Monday night following the regular weekly meeting of the Current Events class in the YW rooms, the Executive Committee of the International Relations Club held a second meeting. The purpose of the meeting was to elect from the twelve names proposed at the last meeting of the IRC eight additional members to the club. Also, Malcolm Thompson and Natalie Yelton were appointed by the president to revise the original constitution.

The new members elected are as follows: Margaret McKirdy, Brasher Bailey, Gabriel Williamson, Robinson, Evelyn Williams, Jack Kramer, Daniel Eveland, Margaret Clippinger. This brings the membership of the club up to twenty-five as stipulated at the organizational meeting. Its primary function, as has been stated before, is to form an efficiently coordinated nucleus to furnish the students and faculty on the campus with programs on international affairs either in the form of outside speakers or such activities as the one being tried this semester, the sponsoring of a current events class to meet weekly.

Ninety persons have signed up for the class which meets on Monday nights in the YW rooms. Under the direction usually of a faculty member, although last time students fulfilled this function, interesting and pertinent discussions have taken place. Next Monday Mr. J. H. Kiger of the Division of Social Sciences, will conduct the meeting.

YW Program To Be Given by Pi Gamma

The YWCA program will be presented by the Pi Gamma society tomorrow afternoon. Helen Trotter, the president, will give a talk on the aim of the society and its relation to the YWCA. Included on the program will be a solo by Marcia Keirn, a violin selection by Katherine Crews, and a reading by Dorothy Harned.

The meeting will begin at 4:45.

COTTON CLUB TO FEATURE READINGS

The Cotton Club will hold its meeting Monday evening, November 10, at 6:35 in the Athenian hall. Following the regular business meeting, there will be three readers. Ruth Sutherlin will read "This Side Of Beauty"; Elizabeth Glover will read "Our Two Opinions", and Alice Jones will read "Leetle Breeches." All students who are from Florida, Georgia or Alabama are cordially invited to attend.

Debaters Discuss Current Topics

This Tuesday evening at 7:00 the debate class will meet in Thaw hall to hear and discuss certain current event topics.

The speakers and the subjects on which they will elaborate and be questioned are as follows:

Henry Wick—Open or Closed Shop.

Natalie Yelton—The History of Labor Legislation in Great Britain.

Phyllis A. Cain—Labor Legislation as it Exists in the U.S.

Janet Lindsay—Inter-union Disorder as it Affects Defense.

Katherine Liddell — Prominent Labor Leaders.

Charles Housley — Significant Strikes of 1941.

At the previous meetings held last Tuesday and Wednesday, two debates were staged. On the question "Resolved that the U.S. should have a separate airforce." the affirmative team of Ed Rowley, Bill Evans, and Cathron Hobbs was victorious, and on the question "Resolved That there should be Censorship of the Press," the debate was won by the negative team, consisting of Dick Boyd, Carolyn Eberhard, and Gabriel Williamson.

Rev. Earl Crawford Addresses YM Meeting

Reverend Earl Crawford, pastor of Kirkwood Presbyterian church in Knoxville, is to be the speaker at the next YMCA meeting. He is a former student of Maryville College, having been graduated from this college in 1935.

The meeting will be held Sunday afternoon at 5:00 instead of the usual time.

Rowley and Barnes Read at Workshop

For the Writers' Workshop last week Marion Jenkins read several poems and Miss Mary M. Keller read an informal essay on interludes from a day's work, depicting scenes from breakfast, lunch, dinner, and other activities.

Monday afternoon at 4:00 in Dr. Hunter's classroom the Workshop will again meet with Ed Rowley and Jean Barnes reading. Dick Boyd will be the critic.

Athenian To Meet At 6:30 Tonight

At 6:45 tonight, the regular meeting of the Athenian society will take place in the Athenian room at Anderson hall. An interesting meeting has been planned by the committee and all members are urged to be present.

Scores of the intercollegiate football games of the day will be given as usual.

Math Scholarship Fund Established

Former Professor Creates Fund For Best Math Major

In July of this year there was established "The George A. Knapp Mathematics Scholarship Fund" of one thousand dollars in memory of Dr. George A. Knapp, who was professor of mathematics and physics here from 1914 until his retirement in 1938. At the age of eighty Dr. Knapp died, on November 4, 1940, ending a half century of service as a college teacher, twenty-four of the years at Maryville.

This scholarship fund has been established by Dr. Knapp's son, Tracy F. Knapp, '20, and his two daughters, Mary Gertrude Knapp Barrett, and Josephine Knapp Kiefer.

The purpose and plan of the fund are set forth in part in the following extract from the Declaration of Trust: "The income from this memorial fund shall be awarded each year at or about the commencement season as a prize to the most outstanding and most promising student majoring in mathematics, enrolled in either the junior or senior class of Maryville College. If in any year, in the judgment of the Committee, there is no student who qualifies under the terms and spirit of this award, the income for that year shall be added to the principal fund."

Play To Be Given Saturday Evening

Drama Is Entitled 'Op-o'-Me-Thumb'

On Saturday evening, November 22, at seven-thirty in Bartlett hall the Experimental Theater will present a play entitled, "Op-O'-Me-Thumb." Those appearing in the cast are: June Morley, Harry Lyle, Roberta Lochausen, Meredith Preston, Elizabeth Glover, and Mary Wintermute. Ruth Sutherlin is the director.

Complimentary tickets to the performance may be secured by requests at the dramatic art studio in the rear of Voorhees chapel. No one will be admitted without this ticket. All those interested in seeing this performance are requested to get their tickets early.

SAT NITE PROGRAM

Because of the fact that so many people are going to the East Tennessee Teachers game Saturday the program planned for Saturday night has been cancelled. However, there will be three picnics—the Student Vols, Pre-Med club, and Disc club. Parlor dates and dorm parties may be arranged.

College Library Display Observes Nat'l Book Week

New Books Made Available Include Best-Sellers

"Forward With Books" is the motto of National Book Week, which comes to a close today. As is the nation-wide custom, special emphasis has been put on books during the past week. The special attention has been attracted by the blue, white and red poster in the library this week. The poster shows a person holding a book and mounted on the winged horse, Pegasus, representing the power of good books to remove us from the wearisome affairs of everyday life. The library staff has placed at the disposal of the students two pamphlets: "100 Books Chosen By Prominent Americans" and "How to Use the Readers' Guide."

Some of the most valuable recent additions to the library include a small book placed on the reference table at the left of the desk "Books That Have Shaped the World." This is a descriptive list of 200 books that are considered by great Americans to be fundamental and important. Dr. Fred Eastman made this compilation.

Another similar aid in selecting books to read is "Good Reading", prepared and published by the Committee of College Reading. It contains brief descriptions of 1000 books.

Fiction added to the library in the last month includes Claire MacMurray Howard's American humor "—And Beat Him When He Sneezes," "The Bright Pavilions" by Hugh Walpole, published in 1940, and "The Sun Is My Undoing" by Marguerite Steen, published in 1941. One of the most popular new books in the library is A. J. Cronin's "Keys of the Kingdom." Other new books include: "Men Working," Faulkner, 1941; "Fifth Column and the First Fortynine Stores" by Hemingway; "Look Homeward Angel" and "Of Time and the River" by Thomas Wolfe; "Berlin Diary", William L. Shirer, 1941; "You Can't Do Business With Hitler," D. P. Miller, 1941; "France on Berlin Time," Kernan, 1941; "What Mein Kampf Means to America," Hackett, 1941; "A Thousand Shall Fall," Habe, 1941; "Modern Democracy," Becker, 1941; "Hugh Young, a Surgeon's Autobiography," Young, 1940.

Malcolm Thompson Talks at Law Club

Program Committee Is Also Appointed

The Law club met on Thursday evening in Alpha Sigma hall. The president, Pat Carter, appointed the following program committee: Jack Kramer, Margaret Clippinger, Robert Smith.

The main feature of the program was a talk by Malcolm Thompson on "Development of Neutrality Law," which dealt with various phases of international law. The speaker was formerly in charge of the "Pillar of Peace and Friendship Organization," Washington, D. C., which has its own library and consultation bureau and corresponds with well known political figures throughout the world. A few persons with whom he has corresponded are the following:

Eamon de Valera, who was formerly president of the Irish Free State (Eire) and is the present Prime Minister; Ramsey MacDonald, former Prime Minister of England; Edward Benes, former president of Czechoslovakia; Haile Selassie; and King George of England.

Future programs will have as speakers former Maryville students. The next meeting will be on Thursday evening, November 20; visitors are welcome.

No Echo Next Week

There will be no issue of the Highland Echo for the week of November 15. The next staff meeting will be held Tuesday evening, November 18.

'A State of War Exists,' In Maryville College---Almost

By WILLIS SANDERSON

On November 11, 1918, hostilities between the Allies and Germany ceased. On November 11, 1941, will hostilities or rather evidences of hostilities, cease here at Maryville College?

By all outward appearances the belligerent nations have nothing on us.

Take the first two weeks in September for example. For a time we were reminded of Socrates and his poisoned hemlock—in mass production. In one day alone there were three cases of prostration. Near panic resulted and many theories were established to explain the crises. The fad soon passed away, though, just as quickly as it originated. The exact cause of the faintings is still not definitely established.

Whereas Europe brings home its war casualties in broken bodies, we bring home our football casualties in black eyes. It is getting so now that to be a football hero, one must be able to display scars of battle. The victims are too numerous to mention as a whole, but two deserve honorable mention. Number one is Mac McKelvey who for some time possessed the most perfect specimen to date, and Walt Proffitt who is now nursing his third black eye.

Fayerweather Science pool is fast becoming a belligerent war zone. If you don't believe us, ask Malcolm Thompson. He was unmercifully submerged in the icy depths but was able to flounder (or should we say "wallow") into port under his own power.

Tuesday a neutral observer was prey to this battle ground. The victim (in the person of a six-year-old tyke) lost all of her cargo (in the form of a satchel of books) into Davy Jones' locker. But aid was nearby and after a loud, continuous SOS (as only a six-year-old can

Maryville Suffers De-Light-ful Evening, Or Bouquets to OPM

By BEN LYNT

The Cherokees in our sister state are daily dancing their rain dance, but they dance in vain, for the barometer has been riding high of late, and no rain to speak of has fallen for nearly four weeks. The resulting drought has created a situation in East Tennessee which will be evidenced on our campus beginning Monday night when Maryville College will experience its very first de-light-ful evening since way back.

Because of the power shortage, OPM has issued orders to all local institutions using over so many kilowatts per day to cut down to about forty percent present usage. What a situation! Maryville students will become real burners of the midnight oil for a change as the school begins an heroic effort to comply with its orders; and woe be unto the foolish who fail to conserve their oil or to buy in time.

If the street lights on the campus must go, why, you may be sure that students here will take it in their studious stride, proud and unafraid to do their bit in the present defense emergency, so long as the moon holds out.

This light shortage will work little mischief with the big girls in Pearsons, and will barely annoy those in Baldwin, but consider the problems of the freshmen coeds in Memorial. Should they dare venture out to supper alone and unguided in the dark, or should they form little flashlight patrols, leaving the front stoop at regular intervals for the dining hall?

A good many people will feel right at home in the dark, but, can you imagine the effect on those faithful few who frequent the library (Thaw hall) at night when, for the first time, at a given signal, the reading room be plunged into darkness? Some, of course, will nonchalantly whip out a patent electric

Quiet, Please

Since the beginning of this school year there has been an increasing amount of unnecessary noise and confusion in the library. People no longer regard the library as a place to quietly study, but rather as a social gathering where one meets old friends and in general, a good time. Doors slam at regular intervals, people continually stomp back and forth from one end of the library to the other, and people at the card catalog pull out drawers and slam them back in with the most possible noise.

Such a situation should and can be remedied, but it will require the cooperation of every student. It seems impossible for some to realize that there actually are some students who, wishing to escape the noise that invariably pervades a dormitory, go to the library for the express purpose of studying. The sooner this realization is brought home to those who persist in sponsoring a social hour in the library, and the sooner those thoughtless individuals who unconsciously create a furor become a little more aware of the situation as seen from different points of view, the sooner every student will become library conscious, and will restore the library to its former and natural study-conducive state.

Old Spice

By JEAN BARNES

Well, the snow storm didn't come, the one it looked like Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and every time. But the orange and garnet wind blown effect all over the campus will do pretty much all right. And some football weather too!

Oh yes, it was wonderful after the game last week. We started out with a broom, a comb, a head, and a floor, and came out with two bags of confetti. Some exchange.

One remnant of Hallowe'en kind of kicks around in the memory or someplace. Did you see, or can't you just, Dr. Shine in a huge, pale straw, very flat, lady's hat? Be-witching indeed. With Mrs. Shine petite in a man's winter felt. Beautiful cameos bet they'd make.

Cameo, and cheerio, and tally ho. And there you are at the next theme. Taran ta ra, a leap, and a chase, and what did you bag? Two spades. At any rate McGaha went possum hunting in a big way Tuesday night up in the wilds of them hills and places. He ate the elephants, wore the bear home, and ended up chasing rabbits. So all the latest novels say.

Yes, yes, there'll always be Debate.

And little altercations as it were. So it seems Mrs. Snyder emerged from her office the other day, triumphant but perplexed, having just campused three maidens of a new variety. And Vance, Burgreen, and Cooper came out a close second . . . earlier. United they stand, one and inseparable—for a week. But they wouldn't mention it of course. And boy! the chorus of amen and it's-about-time-the-tables-were turned which wistle around. Hope they've started something, vital and all that.

But then Mrs. Snyder has things to be proud of; we hear she's the star pupil. In Marie Fawcett's knitting class—which is more fun.

Don't we have fun too? Mrs. Butcher gave some of her cleaning squad instructions for the day's work and went away. So the advance guard went over to wash up the gym floor and left their heritage for those to follow on Mrs. Butcher's door: "Boys, we are over moping in the gym." Nothing like an education or whatever.

And nothing like the M Club too apparently. Sixteen of it went around the loop Tuesday night accompanied by what is affectionately known as "M Club's Ma Queener," and then back to Queener's for a super weinier roast. And then not to be prosaic of course, they square-danced home—down the middle of Court Street. Very picturesque and no traffic jam to speak of.

On the traditional way back to the sublime from the ridiculous we give you PD3, latest but not least of the Purnell Darrels (spoken in the manner of Cy Fields). We don't know him, but we've heard about him. And that helps a lot.

Having reached the aforementioned goal of the sublime, may we quote Becky's latest suggestion? "Motto: All right, I'll pass the course, but I won't study." At last, solid ground.

Reckon as how the happiest person we saw this week was Johnnie Childers. Johnnie has a bank book; it's little and green, and oh, everything. She and Larry saved for two months in a little and green, and oh, everything. She and Larry saved for two months in a little baseball bankk, and finally deposited five dollars in the bank Tuesday. And anybody more pleased isn't.

Speaking however of money-making in a big way, the cake and sandwiches sold at the Chatterbox are really good. The tea room girls made 'em; so they should be. And a different kind of cake every day rates honorable mention any time.

Oh yes, and you just "charge it to Miss Heron" if you've been doin' good.

Bet there aren't two other people on the campus who could do what Dr. Stevenson did Sunday; successfully that is: walk in as the end of the choir procession and look perfectly in place.

We can't remember the order, but it all involved a rapid succession of orchids, gardenias, candy, and more so, with a soldier on Sunday. And somewhere in the debris Cathron Hobbs. Who said life was uninteresting?

You might ask Doris Shanks to sing her little song for you. Hester Santiago is teaching several people the words to a song in Spanish. It starts off Ay-Mai-ne something; but no one knows the title or can really say the words; so the general effect is remarkable. Or you might try Messiahing yourself tomorrow; it's not bad at all.

Somebody borrowed all the benches Saturday night; the milk at the hospital has gone up one cent, what number are you in ethics, and where is Al Murrian's book? Funny things, people.

Have you heard the latest idea yet? November eighteenth all day everybody goes to his roommate's classes instead of his own. And won't that be fun?

As I See It

By JANET LINDSAY

Figuring high in the news this week was the Lewis-Roosevelt feud. The point of departure being a threatened walk-out of the workers in the captive mines i.e., the mines which are controlled by the steel industry. The scheduled strike would involve 53,000 workers and would affect 80 percent of the steel being used for defense purposes.

Mr. Lewis is not a novice at labor battling. He made headlines way back in 1919 during another coal strike when he was a leader in a strike affecting 400,000 men (in the anthracite region)—the worst coal strike in history. Woodrow Wilson who was president at that time called the threatened strike unlawful, illegal, and unjust but it was not until Attorney General A. Palmer Mitchell issued an injunction against the strike, that Lewis and his cohorts finally backed down and said, "We can't fight the government."

Today he seems to be doing just that thing, fighting the government, threatening the steel industry obviously vital to our whole scheme of defense, to achieve his own purposes. His objective—a union shop contract.

With President Roosevelt fighting back, the struggle proceeds. In Mr. Roosevelt's two most recent speeches he has talked at Mr. Lewis as TIME so vividly says it—"The President clipped Mr. Lewis a glancing blow on his jutting jaw when he declared in his Navy Day address: 'our National will must speak from every assembly line—yes, from every coal mine . . . It cannot be hampered by the selfish obstruction of a small but dangerous minority of industrial managers . . . the selfish obstruction of a small but dangerous minority of labor leaders who are a menace to the true cause of labor, itself, as well as the nation as a whole'."

Since that time the situation has progressed considerably. Americans all over the country realizing the gravity of the situation have become aroused. Mr. Lewis has been discussed by every editor in the United States; cartooned by every cartoonist from the WAYNE COUNTY CITIZEN on up to THE NEW YORK TIMES. The bulk of public opinion appears to be in favor of the government, and the progress of national defense, against Mr. Lewis. Unreliable as Gallup polls are reputed to be, it is interesting to note that even before Mr. Lewis's outburst, 73 percent of the voters agreed that the government should do something to prohibit strikes in the defense industries. Within the unions laborers voted 56 percent in favor of forbidding defense industry strikes; 39 percent were opposed to such action, and the usual 5 percent had no opinion on the subject.

At the present writing, Mr. Lewis has agreed to call off the strike and a mediation board composed of 11 members who will attempt to settle the whole matter, however; and this seems to me to be the flaw in the set-up—neither side is obligated to abide by the decision of the board.

The settlement deadline is November 15. Will John L. Lewis score again?

TALK OF THE WEEK ... By Charles Dunning

Ministerials To Adopt New Series

Religious Problems To Be Discussed Monday Evenings

Last Monday night, the Ministerial Association inaugurated a new series of fellowship meetings. These meetings are to be held from now on every Monday night from 9:30 to 10:30 in some appointed place. The general idea of this series is to bring a group of fellows together and get their opinions on religious problems and Christianity in the world today. There will be a different group each time made up of about twelve men from the Ministerial society. Refreshments will follow the meetings.

The committee for these meetings is made up of Frank Cross, chairman, Dick Boyd, and John Hawkins.

There was no program at the regular Thursday evening meeting of the society due to a large amount of new business which needed clearing.

face a decrease in K.W.H. of about 50 percent.

For this purpose the fullest cooperation of every member of the student body and college staff will be necessary. In exactly what ways the reduction can be most effectively and conveniently arranged have not yet been settled. Detailed plans are being worked out by the college authorities and all suggestions seriously considered. As the schedule of night football games has been completed, the provision in regard to "flood lighting of athletic fields" will not present a problem. The situation is not considered as effective for the entire school year; with the winter rains is expected the restoration of more normal conditions.

Until definite plans are formulated, the college requests the united and constant cooperation of everyone on the campus in those situations over which he has control. For this purpose it requests students to remember to turn out their lights when leaving the dormitory rooms and teachers when leaving their classrooms, and suggests the advisability of scheduling some club meetings in the afternoon.

The Aluminum Company of America is one of the largest users of hydroelectric current in the Southeastern area; since it is so near to Maryville, the necessity for power conservation is evident. The college views the situation as an opportunity for the material expression of patriotism and the desire to assist the full program of National Defense.

The general program as outlined by the OPM calls for three main adjustments, the immediate discontinuance of the use of power for such non-essential services as signlighting, show window lighting and flood lighting of athletic fields; the immediate mandatory pooling of power by inter-connected systems of forty publicly and privately owned companies in thirteen states to make available the maximum amount of power for use in defense industries; and curtailment of power by large users (consumers using more than 10,000 kilowatt hours of electricity during the month for which its meter was read, September 15 to October 15.) It is in this latter classification that Maryville college falls.

Student Vols To Hear Mrs. Nixon

Mrs. F. A. Nixon, pastor of the Friends Church in Knoxville, one time missionary to Jamaica, and former teacher at the Friendsville Academy, Friendsville, Tenn., will address the Student Vols on Sunday evening on her work in Jamaica.

Mrs. Nixon and her husband were most popular on the mission field and carried on their work against their share of odds. Mrs. Nixon as a popular speaker, has been in demand of late, especially wherever there are young peoples' groups. With most of the world bearing arms, and the rest preparing to do likewise, it is well to pause and consider a message from a sect long known for their pacific views. For this reason, extra chairs will be set up for Sunday night's meeting to accomodate the anticipated extra crowd.

The special music for the evening will be offered by Mel Gaughan, who will sing Clara Edwards' "When Jesus Walked on Galilee."

Girls' Societies To Meet Jointly

Miss Seedorf To Present Reading

At the joint meeting of Theta Epsilon and Bainonian tonight, Miss Evelyn H. Seedorf will give a reading, "The Maker of Dreams," by Oliphant Dawn. This will be a program worth coming out for. All members of both societies are urged to attend. The meeting will be held in Theta hall as the Thetas are acting as hostesses. Margaret Ash is in charge of the program.

As there is not a football game here tonight, for the sake of convenience, the meeting will be held at 6:30 instead of 6:15.

At the last meeting of Bainonian, nominations were made for the offices of club pianist and program secretary. As there was not a quorum present, the election will be held at the meeting on Saturday, November 15. The girls nominated were Betty Robinson and Jean Bellerjeau for pianist, and Virginia Beth Sperry and Mary Wintermute for program secretary.

Freshmen Appointed To Staff Vacancies

Marion Schneeweiss, Helen Dosenbach, and Rosemary Volker have been added to the freshmen apprentices to serve on the Echo staff this year. These new apprentices were elected by the Student Publications Committee which met Wednesday morning.

Marion, whose surname is familiar to German students as meaning Snow White, is from Pleasantville, New Jersey. She sings in the alto section of the A Capella Choir and belongs to the Triangle Club and Bainonian. In spite of her interest in athletic activities, Marion's domestic tastes are evidenced by her majoring in home economics.

Helen Dosenbach is the smiling brunette lass who has carried on so nobly with the handicap of using crutches for the last ten weeks. As soon as that broken foot is completely well though, you'll see Helen swimming, hiking and, if she has a chance, doing a little target shooting. Dietetics is her major and her home is in Hazelton, Pa.

Because there are words like freedom and democracy, we celebrate Armistice Day. We celebrate it to honor those who were willing to lay down their lives in order to preserve these words. We celebrate it, not as a victory or an achievement, but as a tribute to those who fought for their beliefs. But though it is a day of homage and thanksgiving it is also a day of firm resolve.

MARYVILLE 7, CARSON-NEWMAN 0 ! !

This isn't repetition for emphasis either. It's plain old repetition for realization—or something. Yessir, we beat our old rivals from Jefferson City. Personally, we don't think that everyone realizes this fact—yet. The boys played heads-up ball; it was a thriller of a game; so everybody should be happy! Credit should go to Lloyd Taylor, Ollie Spears, and Gordon Webb for their outstanding performances and to the entire team for its sportsmanship and teamwork. It just proves that we have a real team that can get up and go when the going gets roughest. P. A.—

Among the Chronic Gripers discussed—or was it cussed?—in the recent editorial, are those, we believe, who complain about our public address system. Last week especially, the system was scorned and blamed by many. The truth is that some of the equipment was out of order and the rest was able to be used only sparingly. But considering the facilities and conditions, we think the public address system and the man at the "mike" have done very well this season. An amusing bit once published by the Journal's Tom Anderson might be helpful if not poetically correct. It is entitled "When Fordham Plays."

Don't envy the football announcer,
Who sits there each week in the stands.
While you and your friends in your glory
Admire all the stunts of the band.
When Fordham is playing, it's awful;
Indeed it is far from a joke;
"Krywicki, Sartori" are not eeasy,
On "Karpinoe" you may not choke.
They hand him a list of the players;
"Crotty, Hudacek, Lambeau,
These sound like Hungarian mayors
You're trying to kid me, I know."
Then he stumbles all over the lineup
"Krywicki, Sartori" are not easy,
"Semanik, Paniatowski, Petroskas"
And soon he must throw in the clutch.
There are "Yorovich, Shekka, Santilli"
He must call as he follows the game
While "Pezzella, Colisimo and Serpe"
Sit with "Kazio" waiting for fame
Till at last when the game's nearly over
You wait for his words, highly prized,
But the poor fellow's mute as he signals,
I'm sorry, my tongue's paralyzed.

INTRAMURAL WITS QUIP

A few quotations from the Intramural playing field may be worthy of notice. When one Athenian was dumped rudely on the ground in a hard-fought game, bystanders wondered at his peace of mind when he had picked himself up. "Why don'tcha knock his head in?" one yelled. The man from Athens turned and spoke sriously, "Aw, I deserved it." Some of the cries of battle in the midst of the fray—"C'mon, gang; let's get in there with vengeance!", "Let's go, Creampuffs! Smack 'em down and stamp on 'em," "Nice tackle, fella", "Better not let Lombe see ya", "Fight fiercely, fellows!", and "C'mon, fellas; let's build a little more character."

Colorful History of Other-Than-Intercollegiate Sports Shows Great Progress of Intramural System

By HAL LLOYD

On Tuesday night and Wednesday of this week the Intramural Sports department officially moved into its new, ultra-modern, Bartlett hall office in the room formerly occupied by the YMCA store. Sitting in soft chairs and surrounded by the impressive elegance of an honest-to-goodness office, some of the intramural veterans were led to muse upon the literal mushroom growth of the present-day intramural organization.

A year and two months ago there was no Intramural Sports department at Maryville. From clear back out of any youth's memory until the fall of 1940 the YMCA had conducted whatever intramural sports activities went on around the campus. But no modern observer, if he could be carried back two, three, or four years, would recognize in the YM intramurals anything comparable to the scope of the organization and program of the department today.

Yet what there was of YM intramurals was "swell." There were two, and in the last year three, cabinet members on the Y Athletic Committee. They organized all team sports on a class basis, making four teams in every competition. Football, basketball, softball, track, and swimming were among the activities so organized. Tennis for instance was carried on on an individual basis. There was not much in the way of uniformity, eligibility rules, or permanent records. Nevertheless some rather attractive trophy awards were offered, and may be seen yet in the trophy case of the YM reading room in Bartlett. The trophies were not given permanently; and, as a matter of fact, the inscriptions on them have not been kept up to date.

In the spring of 1940 some talking went on among college officials about the organization of a separate intramural department with Coach George Fischbach as the faculty director. But little action on the matter was taken at that time.

With the opening of school in September, 1940, things began clicking. Coach George Fischbach was officially made Intramural Director, and he with others of the athletic department set out to organize and start rolling an all-inclusive sports program. He investigated various intramural departments in other colleges and universities, and finally put two and two together, added one on his own hook, and got five, which is our own intramural sports setup. Our system combines to a certain degree the systems of the University of Michigan and Ohio State University. Our point system and award system is Coach's own invention.

The organization of the department itself starts with the faculty director and runs down through the eight sophomore managers. The one senior manager this year is Curt Wright; the two junior managers are Oliver Van Cise and Art Bushing; the eight sophomore managers are Stan Crews, Gny Lambert, Horace Scherer, Frank Miller, Melvin Malone, Dexter Rice, Bob Hunter, and Hal Lloyd. Representatives from the YMCA are Ken Cooper and Chuck Foreman. These are the boys who keep the intramural program going. They are the ones who organize the teams or the individual entrants in each of the events and who are responsible for seeing that the events click as they should. Each fellow is assigned from one to three sports to manage during the year, and in those sports he is the boss. These fellows are the Intramural staff.

The award of trophies, then, is based upon these totals as they appear at the end of the year. A beautiful individual trophy is given to the highest all-year scorer of points. It becomes his private property and has suitable engravings made on it. To the next ten highest scorers are awarded intramural monograms. To the club team securing the greatest number of intramural points during the year goes a plaque, which becomes the permanent property of any club winning it three times. Finaily certificates are awarded to individuals and teams in other events. For a complete summary of this system the reader is referred to the Handbook

So that's intramurals the modern way. It is a big organization—last year two hundred and eighty-five different people took part and sixteen different events were included—and it has grown up in one short year.

Frosh End Snags Pass to Upset C-N Eagles 7-0

Teams Fight Evenly With Ground Attacks; Score Comes in 4th

A bunch of scrappy Carson-Newman Eagles invaded Wilson Field last Saturday night and held a victory-minded Scottie eleven on even terms for 54 minutes of a tight ball game before the boys in orange were able to put across a game-winning touchdown. With only six minutes to go in the last quarter, Spears whipped a 30 yard pass to end Gordon Webb who pranced 30 yards more for the tally.

Carson-Newman threatened in the closing minutes of the game. With but two minutes to go, they started to shoot long passes that came dangerously close to scoring. In the last minute Lloyd Taylor intercepted one of the Eagle's long ones, but interference with the receiver was called and the pass ruled complete for the visitors. A long, last chance pass fell incomplete in the end zone as the game ended.

Statistics show that the Highlanders had a slight edge in every department of play. They outgained Carson-Newman on the ground 216 yards to 137. Maryville completed three out of six passes while the Eagles only connected with two out of ten. The edge in punting also went to the home team who averaged 37 yards a try for the visitor's 33.

Taylor was the outstanding back on the field. He intercepted a pass on the Maryville five yard line in the third quarter to prevent a Carson-Newman score and was responsible for several long gains. With him were Spears, who tossed the touchdown pass, and Cloninger, who hit the Eagle line hard and often. In the line were Webb, who caught the touchdown pass, Mitchell, Proffitt, and Rock.

Stars for the visitors were Moffett, Booker, Harmon, Middleton, and Deakins. The Eagles put up one of the toughest lines that the Scotties have been called upon to face all season.

GOLF—

Evans-Miller vs. Bergquist-Henderson.

The intramural spotlight swung to golf this week as the finals of the fall golf tournament approached. Early in the week Layton Bergquist and Bill Henderson defeated faculty members Ralph Hovel and George Fischbach to move into the finals against the winners of the Evans-Miller—Cooper-Hunter match. Layton and Bill started their 18 holes by taking the first five straight and then dropping or tying enough of them so that they ended the first nine 4-up over Ralph and George. In the second nine they continued to tie up each hole until the 14th. On the 14th hole—the unlucky one for Hovel and Fischbach—the winners sunk a long putt to take the hole and the match by a score of 5-up with 4 to go.

The other half of the finals was decided Thursday afternoon when Bill Evans and Frank Miller shot nice enough to best Ken Cooper and Bob Hunter 4-up and 3 to go. The first nine holes of that match were played off Wednesday afternoon and ended all tied up, three apiece and three ties. That meant that the teams went into the second nine as even as they entered the first; but on Thursday Ken and Bob couldn't keep their shooting up to par, and Bill and Frank won the match after six holes.

So it is that Bill Evans and Frank Miller are battling it out with Layton Bergquist and Bill Henderson for the intramural doubles golf championship. Weather permitting, the tilt will be played off by Saturday evening of this week.

Incidentally, if anyone thinks that golf is a pansy game, he's invited to shoulder a bag full of clubs and hike around 18 holes of important play in the cold wind that was blowing on Thursday. It's a man-sized job!

Athenian 2—Choir 0.

The Athenians took two games from the Choir on Friday of last week, the first by a score of 15 to 1, and the second by 15 to 4. It was Van Cise, Faulkner and Williamson for Athenian and Stiles for the Musicians. In spite of innumerable subs the Choir was outclassed.

Alpha Sig 2—Ministerial 0

Also last week the Dudes took two straight from the Preachers, 15 to 11, and 17 to 15. The scores show how close the play was; you can bet the losers were in there all the time.

Monday, November 3—

Outcasts 2—Y Cabinet 0

On Monday afternoon of this week the independent Outcasts downed the Y Cabinet in one easy and one hard tilt. After taking the first game by 15 to 7, the winners figured on an easy time of it; but the second game was close—plenty close—and the Exiles had to spike them away pretty hard to win it 15 to 12. The Cabinet felt the absence of tall Frank Barr; they played most of the time with only five men. Ted Kidder turned in some play worth mentioning. Ted has a little trouble because he's not so tall, but he moves around fast enough to make up for it and to pull some outstanding stunts. Bill Hargrave and Bob Lord starred for the winners, being responsible together for a goodly share of points. Hargrave has been cited as the Outcasts' outstanding man, and has possibilities of a good volleyballer.

Dwarfs 2—Spark Plugs 0

Carl Pierce and Horace Justus led the independent Dwarfs in their two-game runaway with the third Spark Plugs, chalking up the scores 15 to 1, and 15 to 5. That makes the Outcasts in two out of three thrilling games last Wednesday afternoon. The first game went to the Outcasts by 16 to 14. Good enough. Then the second game carried a score of 19 to 1 in favor of the Outcasts before stuff started popping.

Scotties Favored To Defeat Bucs In Grudge Battle

Maryville's powerful Scotties meet the Buccaneers of East Tennessee Teachers college this afternoon in Johnson City. The Highlanders, beaten only by the mighty King Tornado, are seeking to break a jinx that has robbed them of victory over the Bucs for the past six years. Last season the Scotties outplayed the Teachers, only to come out on the short end of a 6-0 score.

Coach Gene McMurray lost only two lettermen from last year's squad by graduation, but the draft claimed no less than four old men. Nevertheless, McMurray has been able to build a machine that has downed Emory-Henry and Tusculum, losing only to Milligan and Carson-Newman.

Captain Howard "Buck" Hunt, who shifted from fullback to tailback early in the season but who is now dividing time between the two posts, is the offensive and defensive sparkplug of the Pirate team. In addition to smashing thru the line for the winning touchdown against Tusculum, Hunt's passes have been one of the Teachers' most potent weapons this season. The winning score of the Emory-Henry game came on a pass from Hunt to Massengill, and another pass from Hunt's arm set up the Tusculum victory. "Buck" hails from Tellico Plains, Tenn., and is regarded as one of the outstanding backfielders of this section.

The middle of the Pirate line is held down by one of the most talented and determined centers in East Tennessee—Co-captain Billy Mitchell. Mitchell starred against Maryville in last year's game, and has been tearing enemy lines to pieces all season. Tom Jennings, freshman right tackle, has also been an outstanding lineman for the Tutors.

Left end Milo Sobin, another newcomer to the lineup, has proved himself to be one of the best pass receivers in the SMC. Together with John Massengill and Jack Green, he has been on the receiving end of many successful passes from Capt. Hunt. Though they will be rated as underdogs, the Teachers are given a chance to beat Maryville because of their potent passing attack—a type of game that has been effective against the Scotties all year.

Maryville will enter the game in near-peak condition. Guard Ernest Murr, who suffered an injured hand in the Carson-Newman game, will be available, but probably will not start the game. Walter Proffitt, freshman from Alcoa, is expected to ably take Murr's place in the Big contest. Proffitt's fine play against Carson-Newman was one of the high points of last week's game.

On the basis of comparative scores, Maryville must be rated an edge over the Teachers. The Scotties downed the C-N Eagles 7-0, whereas the Teachers bowed to the Baptist boys 18-0. The Bucs fared better against Emory-Henry, winning their second clash with the Wasps 8-6. Maryville downed Emory-Henry 20-14.

College Maid Shop Is Unique In U.S.

Girls Supply Many Nurses' Uniforms

One of the truths on Maryville College campus that seems hard to believe is the fact that many of the people who graduate from here have never been inside the College Maid Shop, located in the basement of Thaw hall. The fact that no other college in the United States has the equivalent of the College Maid Shop should arouse everyone's interest. Many colleges make and sell articles on a philanthropic basis, but no other school meets the competition of regular business or sells on a regular business basis, as the Maid Shop does.

The College Maid Shop is the place where any college girl who needs more money may work. The girls who work there collectively make over $10,000 a year. The Maid Shop has corrected measurements for over 4,000 nurses in government service, and the uniforms worn by the only sea-going nurses in the United States Navy are made by College Maid. These uniforms are shipped to every state in the union and all the possessions and territories of the United States including Guantanamo Bay, Cuba; Ancon, Canal Zone; Anchorage, Alaska; Port of San Juan, Cuba; Pearl Harbor, Territory of Hawaii, Tuituila, Samoa; Canacoa, Philippine Islands; Submarine Base, Coco Solo, C. Z.; and Navy Base, Island of Guam.

The purchasing power of the Maid Shop is very great also, as is shown by the fact that this past week they bought 177 dollars worth of buttons for nurses uniforms, 1,250 yards of cotton material for nurses uniforms, 164 dollars worth of thread which included 115 pounds of white thread and 65 pounds of colored thread. This is but one of the indications of the extensive scope of this part of the Maryville College program.

tards, place it beside them on the table in a trice, and never miss a word of what they were reading. But others might possibly become so alarmed and confused at the shock so induced as to actually make for the wrong exits, stumbling over chairs, lexicons, librarians, and even one another in their nondescriminating nonsectarian haste.

Two hours less of electrically lighted evening will mean that much more sleep to a few of the students, but, consider for a moment the great amount of devastating darkness which these two unlighted hours will bring into the lives of those scholars who nightly find themselves rapt in intellectual pursuits of their own or someone else's choosing. Picture if you can a two-hour chunk of total darkness descending on the already bowed shoulders of the more conscientious college climbers, who consistently carry more than their share of the curriculum in an attempt to dispel the ever threatening gloom of ignorance bidding now more than ever for a strangle hold on the world in which we live.

One plan to thwart fate here on Maryville College campus might be to adjust the daily schedule so as to take advantage of every spare moment of daylight. Supper might be shifted to a time one hour earlier to be followed by a two-hour period of study, with no dating until after the current curfew imposed by the college authorities to meet the demands of the OPM. In this way, at least an hour of electricity would be saved which is being wasted or squandered under the present system.

This emergency will provide the big opportunity for those who are currently carrying torches for people and things unseen, but the complexities which will force themselves into the already involved routine of (that sooper sleuth) Mr. Irwin's life are terrifying to even dream of, let alone be wished upon any individual, real or imagined.

Ah well, methinks that we have not heard the last of the activities on the campus which will be affected by the recent action of the OPM, and that the repercussions will be heard and felt far beyond the invisible sentinels who watch over us by day, and form a ring of protection about us by night as we come and go.

trailing badly in the second, the So having lost the first game and Dwarfs sent in Ted Pratt, and Dwarf supporters went wild as the team chalked up 15 more points to their opponents' 4 more to take the second game 16 to 14! Apparently inspired, the Dwarfs cinched the third one, 15 to 5. Tops for the winners were Chuck Foreman, who played hard and well, and Carl Pierce, whose change of pace in spiking baffled the opposing team. And prominent for the losers were Bill Hargrave and Ed Wiezalis.

Ministerials 2—Choir 0

After getting off to a late start the Choir dropped two straight to the Ministers, 3 to ,10 and 7 to 15. Because both teams were late getting onto the floor it was agreed that the first game would end at 10 points for the winner instead of the usual 15. The play was hardly close in either game. Jim Barr, Frank's "little" brother, did a nice job of slapping the ball just over the net out of the opponents' reach. His six feet plus is a help that way! He's one of Ministerial's key men.

Alpha Sig 2—Faculty 1

The Alpha Sig Dudes humbled the Faculty in two out of three close games late Wednesday afternoon by the scores of 15 to 10, 2 to 15, and 15 to 8. Fischbach starred for the faculty, but the absence of Case was felt. For the Dudes Miller and Evans looked especially good. It's the faculty that says that the play was very close all the way; and, as a matter of fact, the scores bear them out.

Y Cabinet 2—45's 0

In the afterdark game of Wednesday the Y Cabinet took the freshman 45's in two runaway games by 15 to 3 and 15 to 6. Frank Barr was on hand for the Cabinet, and showed up well by spiking the ball for a point time after time. The score ended as it did because often the Cabinet kept serving them over, and they just didn't come back. There was hardly much chance for scrimmage.

HORSESHOES—

The second round of the barnyard game was to be completed by Friday evening of this week. It's going into this third round that the competition becomes keen, and the games swell to watch. At this writing those already in that round are Hargrave and Bushing, Henderson and Evans, Hovel and Fischbach, and Pratt and Van Cise.

Almost War . . .

"SOS") her possessions were recovered. There was no insurance to cover the damage caused by water.

To the casual observer in one of our chemistry classes last week there was a great suspicion of sabotage. Lab class was in progress with its usual bedlam. Suddenly, from one of the tables came a bright flash. Volumes of dense, white smoke rapidly filled the room. Breathing and vision were greatly impaired in the immediate vicinity. The force of the explosion caused little streamlets of fire to spread throughout the area. Damage was sustained by three passersby, but was slight. Investigation proved that the theory of incendiarism was without basis. It seems that one of the "star" chemistry pupils was cleaning up some phosphorous potassium chlorate and sulphur on his desk with a cloth, when—well, you know the rest. We might add, that anyone may try this experiment providing that he does in the wide open spaces and, last but not least, phone up the nearest undertaker for an estimate.

We may find solace in one thing, however. The belief of a miniature concentration camp by those who pass the back of Voorhees chapel is pure fallaciousness. The "sufferers" are merely voice, piano, and violin students who cause one continuous discord. Evidently some don't appreciate "good" music.

Will the coming eleventh of November prove a memorial event on the records of Maryville College? Will peace reign for the first time on this grand campus? Only time will tell.

New Books Are Received by IRC

During the past week the IRC received its fall installment of International Relation Club books sent out to each formally organized club by the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace in New York City. Included among the ten books sent out were two on economic conditions namely, "The Reconstruction of World Trade" by J. B. Condliffe and "Economic Defense of Latin America" by Percy W. Bidwell. Also Canadian relations are dealt with in three of the books—"Canada in Peace and War" edited by Chester Martin, "Canada and the United States" by F. R. Scott, and "Canada and the Far East, 1940" by A. R. M. Lower. In addition to the last one named is another book relative to Japan: "The United States and Japan's New Order" by William C. Johnstone, Jr.

Others include "Australia and the United States" by Fred Alexander, and "For What Do We Fight" by Norman Angell, a noted advocate of peace who in his latest book clarifies war aims and points a way out of confusion. "Against This Torrent" by Edward Mean Earle analyzes the course of European and Far Eastern events with a cogent outline of possible sources of danger and suggests a way for a firm and straightforward stand on the part of the U.S. "against this torrent." Clarence Streit in "Union Now With Britain" presents the latest points of his plan of an Anglo-American union advanced in his first book, "Union Now."

VOLUME 27 — MARYVILLE, TENN. NOVEMBER 21, 1941 — NUMBER 11

Student Council Declare All-Out Aid For Scottie

Day To Be Devoted To Fund-Raising For Canine Mascot

DOGGIE HAS DAY

Students Comment On Value of Keeping Maryville Mascot

Saturday, November 22, has been set aside by the Student Council as "Scottie Day." Somehow money has to be raised to pay Scottie's hospital expenses. The various clubs on the Hill have tried to do this and have utterly failed. Now this problem is left entirely to the student body. Whether or not we may keep Scottie is definitely up to us.

Tomorrow Scottie will reign as King of the Day. There will be boxes at Pearsons and the Chatterbox where students may deposit any amount of money that they wish. After the student has added his bit to the fund, he will receive a little scottie to wear. This scottie will indicate that another person is interested in keeping our own Scottie as our mascot. At the football game tomorrow afternoon Scottie will be crowned in keeping with his role as King of the Day. With due pomp and ceremony this coronation will be carried out. The minstrel show tomorrow night is also for Scottie's benefit and he will reign there for the last time.

Some of the students have ideas about this whole affair that are well worth mentioning. There is Bob Lord, for instance, who says, "There is something about a dog—disregarding for the time being its smell—that makes the majority of us, if we're human, want to belong to one. I realize the fact that the rest of my fellow-students on the Hill aren't able to be owned individually by a dog while away from the watchful and loving eye of the old friend at home, but they can all be the proud possessions of their own four-legged friend if they want to. Our Scottie, the worthy upholder of our Highlander tradition, has a heart big enough to foster every last pup on this campus. Of course, her own special charge is Miss Jessie, who needs her guidance and watchful care. I, for one, am willing and anxious to do my part in persuading Scottie to let us be her charges, and to continue her indispensable care of our Miss Heron. Let's go, Scotties!"

Frank Cross thinks thus: "There are two things that fill me with awe: the starry heavens above, and the little black scottie dog teasing Miss Heron all the way up the corduroy. Ethically speaking, it is our duty to see that Miss Heron is financially reimbursed for the expense the various and sundry illnesses that Scottie has had has put her to. But looking at it from the angle of the more striking good or better still from the eudomonic viewpoint, our's is a definite obligation to that little dog and her foster mother. It's not so much the intrinsic value of the dog as the fact that in that critter is bound up for most of us the very essence of M-C tradition and spirit of Maryville Scotties, whether on the field of sports or in our various social contacts with fellow men here and elsewhere."

Beverly Jackson adds a new thought to these others by saying,

Varsity Debaters To Hear Labor Question Dicsussed

This Tuesday, November 25, the varsity debate class will meet and hear a debate on the question, "Resolved: that the federal government should regulate by law all labor unions in the United States." The affirmative team will consist of Patricia Carter and Edward Rowley, and the negative team of Mary Wintermute and Richard Boyd. The chairman will be Carolyn Eberhardt.

Last week, the negative team composed of Hal Lloyd and Ben Lynt won the decision debate, defeating the affirmative team of Margaret Clippinger and Carl Pierce at the regular class period on Wednesday.

Hope Will Speak In Interest Of Africa Missions

Maryville Grad To Conduct Wednesday Chapel Service

On next Tuesday evening, November 25, at 7:00 Fred H. Hope, superintendent of the Frank James Industrial School at Elat, African, and Treasurer of the West Africa Missions of the Presbyterian church, will speak in the chapel in the first of two addresses which he will give in connection with the Fred Hope Drive of 1941-42. The Student Volunteer organization will have charge of the evening meeting.

Tuesday night he will probably show moving pictures in technicolor which he has taken in Africa. He will also speak at the regular chapel hour on Wednesday morning. At this service faculty and students will be given opportunity to subscribe to the Fred Hope Fund. This is the one time of year that a general appeal is made to the whole college for any specific object and has been done since Fred Hope graduated from Maryville thirty-five years ago. The Fund each year has been turned over to him for special missionary needs in Africa. Many things have been done with it. Among them was the building of a Maryville College chapel now in use there.

This Fund was started by Fred Hope himself when he was a student at Maryville. He was a vigorous, interested leader on the campus who initiated the plan of appealing to the student body for gifts to the cause of foreign missions. When he graduated in 1906 and went to Africa in 1907, the plan was continued and it was decided to send the Fund to him since he originated it. This was then called the Fred Hope Fund and the time of securing it called the Fred Hope Drive. The amount of subscription a year ago was $520. It is especially desired that every member give something even though it be small. Subscription cards will be distributed at chapel Wednesday morning. Either pledges or cash gifts may be made. Miss Henry is the treasurer of the Fund.

Disc Club Hears Tschaikowsky's Fifth

Helen Rawlings was the commentator at the Disc Club meeting on Thursday. Tschaikowsky's 5th Symphony, favorite symphonic composition of Dr. Hunter, and other prominent members of the college faculty, was explained and played. Since many requests had been made for this work of the great Russian master, the recording was specially borrowed from a private source.

Recently, attendance of the Disc Club meetings has increased so that even standing room is scarce. If this continues, the Club may move to larger quarters.

Men From Mars To Invade Hill.... Orson Welles Put To Shame

Fiddling, joking, and general merriment were the features of the first barnwarming which was held in 1929. On Thursday, Nov. 22, which is Thanksgiving—not Franksgiving—Day, the 1941 barnwarming will be held in the gym. The first barnwarming was to have been a minstrel show. Miss Mollie Caldwell had given her permission for it but the show was not prepared by Thanksgiving so a barnwarming was held instead. Previously, a carnival had been held every year.

There is no record in the Highland Echo of the 1930 barnwarming, but it is known that there was one. The main attraction of it was a speech by Dr. Lloyd who came to Maryville that year.

Our own Jimmy Smith was the master of ceremonies at the barnwarming in 1932. The four literary societies presented skits — everything from a Prohibition mellodrama to a Shakespearean drama and Daniel Boone to the night watchman—both of whom were famous hunters.

In 1935, the barnwarming was conducted as a Penny Fair. The faculty's booth was called the House of Horrors—if the freshmen received their grades that year when this year's class did, I understand the title perfectly.

By entering on a gang plank, the Old Showboat of 1937 could be reached. This was the year when the faculty booth stole the show as a toy shop. Each faculty member who represented a toy, when punched or poked, would sing, talk or squeal.

Mother Goose was brought up to swing in 1938. The faculty called their booth the Old Women in the Shoe. Virginia Lee Schaeffer was queen of hearts and Alva Burris, brother of Jimmy Burris, was king

Current Events Class To Hear Dr. Paul Wendt

The leader at IRC's Current Events class this week was Miss Harriett Miller, a graduate of Maryville who is now employed in the printing office of the College. Continued interest and attendance is shown for this innovation in the matter of classes here. Next week Dr. Paul F. Wendt, Associate Professor of Economics, will conduct the class.

At a meeting of the Executive Committee of IRC following the regular Monday evening meeting of the class, Malcolm Thompson submitted a tentative draft of the revised constitution. At this time further revision was made by the various members of the committee.

Student Vols To Hear Cummings

Africa Missions Will Be Subject

Mrs. Cummings, teacher of Bible and Religion, whose brother is W. Don McClure, missionary at the American Mission, Akobo Post, the Sudan, will speak at the Student Volunteers meeting, Sunday evening, November 23, which meeting will be held in the YW rooms immediately following the college vespers service.

Mrs. Cummings will concern herself mainly with a message telling of her brother Don's missionary work in the Sudan region of the one-time "dark continent", Africa. Those who saw the motion picture shown last year will recall that Mr. McClure's work is being carried on among tribes of unusually tall and lanky men.

This meeting will be the fourth in a series of meetings presented by this group which have been emphasizing the work in Africa and nearby regions. At last week's meeting, a color film, "The Healing of M'Vondo," which told the story of the healing of a little leper-boy, was shown, and received with enthusiasm by the hundred-odd students present.

Nominations Made By Student Council Executive Committee

11 SRS. NOMINATED

Character, Future Success And Leadership Stressed

The nominations for inclusion in Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges for 1941-42 include the following Maryville College students:

Ruth Elizabeth Duggan, Anne Louise Gammon, George Reynolds Howard, David Harwell Kidder, Lucille Dent Lynch, Stanley Arthur Menning, Dudley Shields Moore, Doris Marguerite Smith, Fred Manget Snell, Henry Moore Wick, Hilton A. Wick.

The idea of creating one national basis of recognition for students devoid of politics, initiation fees, and dues was conceived over nine years ago—thus, Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges came about.

The motivating idea behind the project has been two-fold. First, to serve as an outstanding honor to students, an honor which is void of all politics, fees and dues, one in which a deserving student after accomplishing a goal in college and displaying merit, would not be confronted with some fee before being recognized. Second, that of establishing a reference volume of authoritative information on the great body of American college students.

A compilation of biographies of outstanding students in America is published annually, and only juniors and seniors and students in advanced work are selected. Every phase of college activity in the college world is included, and for this reason information is therein contained which cannot be found in any other book printed. Who's Who is a book of value to the college library, to the business and social world, and to the students themselves.

A close examination of the biographies of all those students listed in the volume will indicate that they are outstanding personalities in their respective schools. They have all the required qualities for nomination and final listing, among which are character, leadership in extra-curricular activities, and the possibility of future usefulness to business and society.

The selection of these students is made in several different ways on the various campuses. Some schools have Who's Who Among Students committees; composed of members of the faculty and student body. In most schools the president of the college, the dean or registrar acts as chairman of a blind committee. Several schools have other methods of selection. In all cases, the students are selected carefully and impartially after thorough consideration as to all of the required requisites.

All students who have completed two full years of college and are rated as a junior or senior, and those in advanced study are considered for selection.

Ruth Elizabeth Duggan has been a member of the college choir since her freshman year, has made the honor roll for three consecutive years, has served as a Nu Gamma leader during her freshman and sophomore years, has been on the YW cabinet since her junior year, and has been a student assistant in the Bookstore for three years.

Debate Tryouts To Be Nov. 29, Dec. 1

The varsity debate class tryouts will be held on Saturday, November 29 and Monday, December 1, instead of the twenty-second and twenty-fourth as was previously announced. The question, as previously announced, is: "Resolved: That the Government shall regulate by law all labor unions."

The debates will be single debates with a seven-minute constructive speech and a three minute rebuttal. Opponents will be chosen by drawing names. Although it is not yet certain, the girls will probably debate on Monday and the boys on Saturday. It is from the tryouts that the varsity debate squad of the coming season will be selected. Judges for the tryouts will be announced later.

Helen Keller To Lecture At U-T Wednesday Night

Miss Helen Keller who is one of the most noted women of the world is to lecture at the University of Tennessee auditorium in Knoxville on Wednesday, November 26.

Her own life story, one of the most remarkably of any age, is known to all. She is devoting her time and work to the interests of the 130,000 blind people of this country. The proceeds from her lecture in Knoxville go to that cause.

Students will be admitted for fifty cents; other tickets are seventy-five cents and one dollar. There are a few tickets available at the Personnel Office.

An effort is being made to have Miss Keller come to Maryville for an address, but there is no assurance that this will be possible. Maryville College students will be interested in the fact that Miss Mary M. Keller is a cousin of Miss Helen Keller.

Campus to Be Invaded By Martians At Barnwarming

Whole Planet Will Visit at Eight P.M. Without War God

VANCE TO PLAY

Stringham, Barber, Meadows, Williams, Patterson Direct

Having invaded all other parts of the world, Mars will make its appearance on the Maryville campus next Thursday night at the annual Barnwarming celebration in the Alumni Gym. However, the campus visitation will be made not by the war god Mars, but by the planet Mars, the exact time being 8:00 on the evening of November 27. This Martian theme for the Thanksgiving entertainment has been worked out by the Barnwarming Committee whose chairman is Jeanne Stringham and which is composed of Jordy Meadows, entertainment; Willie Williams, booths; Dorothy Barber, decorations; and Jean Patterson, advertising.

Following out this idea the whole program is woven around two young Martian lovers who will be portrayed by Betty Jean Kennedy and Albert Chambers. Phil Vance and his latest and best orchestra featuring Peggy Lawson; George Tibbetts as Stuporman; interesting and unusual Martian movies and a Martian political rally are other outstanding points in the entertainment. In addition the YM Cabinet and M Club are each to present humorous skits. The climax of the evening will be the crowning of the Barnwarming King and Queen and the announcements of the class sponsors who will serve as attendants.

Willie Williams announces that the Booth Section will be represented as a marsh. Several booths, all with a Martian slant, will contain such high-lights as Professor Phiz, a modern vegetable garden, television, the giving away of chicken dinners, Mars viewing things from the earth and many others. In addition there will be a seperate freshman booth in which spectators can view the many different things seen in Mars.

A weird Martian atmosphere will pervade the big gym on the big night. Emulating the red glow given off by the planet Mars, red lights will be used in the lighting arrangements. The throne will be circular and decorated with appropriate de-

Six New Courses To Be Offered Second Semester

English, History, Bible Departments Expand Curriculum

It has been announced by Dr. Hunter, dean of curriculum, that six new courses have been added for the second semester, two of which do not appear in the catalog. The courses added include the fields of Bible, English, and history.

The two courses which are not listed in the catalog are English 242, and English 322. The first of these, 242, is a study of contemporary drama and novel, designed particularly for non-English majors, and dealing with twentieth-century drama and novel. It will be taught by Miss Wright, with three hours credit being given.

English 322 is another course for non-majors in English, in which ten or twelve of Shakespeare's better known plays are to be studied. It carries the title "Shakespeare's Principal Plays," will be taught by Dr. Hunter, and will give three hours credit.

In the field of Bible and Religion, the two new courses offered are 214 and 252. Bible and Religion 214 is a course in religious education of Adolescents, in which a study is made of the needs of young people and of the program and methods of Christian Education as fitted for them. Mrs. Cummings will teach, and three hours credit will be given.

Bible and Religion 252 is a continuation of the practicum begun in the first semester. This work ties in with the Parish work, and the practical religious education work which students carry on in the local community. Dr. Gates will teach this course of "Practicum in Religious Education," and those taking it will receive one and one-half hours credit.

In the history field, Miss Bassett will teach a course called History 308—Greek and Roman History, which is a re-organization of the former year-course, History 207, 208, into a one-semester course on the 300 level. A study will be made of the foundations and developments of Greek and Roman institutions and culture. This course is required as part of the History major, for which three hours credit will be given.

Behind the unimpressive figure 334, lurks a history course which is likely to become very popular on the hill. This course is a history course which deals with the leading historians and their writings, is called "History and Historical Writings," and will be taught by Dr. Queener. Three hours credit will be earned by all who take this course.

Dave McDaniels Stars In Comedy

"Charley's Aunt" is Presented in Voorhees Chapel

Tonight at 8:00 in the chapel the first big dramatic art production of the year, "Charley's Aunt," will be presented. Tickets have been on sale all week in the Bookstore and in the Chatterbox. Tonight tickets will be on sale at the door. A record crowd is expected to be present.

The leading role, that of Baberly or "Charley's Aunt", will be played by Dave McDaniels, a senior and captain of the wrestling team. The other male leads are played by Dudley Moore, Robert Schwarzwalder, and Melvin Johnson.

Frances John Hellums, Betty Clevenger, Virginia Berg and Helen Airhart will appear in the feminine leading roles. Fred DePue will portray the character of Sir Francis Chesney. George Tibbetts is cast as Stephen Spettigue; Richard Boyd is to be Farmer, and Dorothy Harned is to be Maud.

From all indications this promises to be one of the most entertaining plays ever to be presented on the Maryville campus. The play itself is a revival of an old farce in three acts. The movie version of it bearing the same name and starring Jack Benny has proved highly successful. The rehearsals for the play to be given this evening have been progressing smoothly from the beginning. Reports indicate that the various staff members and committees have done a good piece of work.

Ins and Outs, Ups and Downs, of Football—Manager's Eye View

There are two sides to every question. There are also two questions for every answer—for freshmen in college. There are, too, many viewpoints for each occasion, and I'm primarily interested in viewpoints. Now take the well known game of football. Football is the ball of the foot. That might be one definition—but a wrong one. Football is a game played by someone else while you watch the ball, fix cleats, act as the "Gunga Din" of the football battlefield, get bawled out by the players and coach, and are expected to know the correct answer for every puzzling situation—that's football from a manager's viewpoint.

Who is the last man to leave the field after a football game? It's the manager—and, if anything is missing—it's the little man who wasn't there, according to the coaches.

Some night after practice, gaze across the football field. Here comes a man all bowed under the strain of carrying a bag containing the equipment that 32 men use in football practice. It's the manager. The squad plays; he works. Silently he comes, through the fast falling twilight, the last man in.

As soon as he reaches the office, the coach asks—"Where are my keys? Why were the lights out (before the present emergency)? Did you get all the balls—" and, "How's tricks?"

Then the players start—"Where's the soap? Management, get me a towel. What time is it? Hurry up, you Republican Yankee, etc."

But wait, that's only one of the manager's viewpoints. Let's try another one. He's tensely watching the game from the sidelines, when there is a sudden emergency call for water. Has someone on the field fainted? No, they're just thirsty. That's the golden moment for the manager. He hurriedly carries the water bucket and towel out to the players, asks the referee how much time, and returns. Huh! It's a cinch!

Here's a newspaper account of the game — from the manager's viewpoint:

"On Saturday, Nov. 1, the Maryville Scotties clipped the wings of the Carson-Newman Eagles, 7 to 0. Charles Chapman played a fine game in his "cellar" role as chief assistant to the vice-junior waterboy. Back and forth he went, making flashy runs, as he carried the

FRIDAY, Nov. 21, 1941

Welcome, Students—

Greetings, kids. Or, to state it in a manner more in keeping with our stations of dignity: We, of Maryville College extend to you, band members and football players of the county, the most heartfelt welcome and salutations.

Last year somebody came forth with an ingenious plan in which all you band members and football players in the Blount County high schools were the guests of the college for the last football game of the year. The results of this venture seemed satisfactory to all those who were concerned in the proceedings—hosts and guests alike; so in the way of starting a tradition you have again been invited to be our guests. Your response last year was a pretty fair indication of your feeling in the matter, and we are hoping you will give out with as much enthusiasm tomorrow.

Don't forget that you're in line to carry out the field of decorations; so come early and beat it out.

As I See It

By JANET LINDSAY

Since the outbreak of the European war, public opinion concerning America's place in the war has been developing and several factions of thought have grown up. Because of the interest such discussions have aroused and because of the significance the final formulation of opinion will have on all of our lives, I have asked Dr. Verton M. Queener, Chairman of the Division of Social Science, to allow me to print a condensation of a speech he made last week at Lincoln Memorial University, dealing with one phase of this vital question. The speech follows:

AMERICA'S PLACE IN THE WAR

Some 150 years ago Alexander Hamilton wrote, "safety from external danger is the most powerful director of national conduct." Our conduct today both individual and national is directed by a threat to our safety from an external danger. On this subject there is a wide difference of opinion. Many conscientious, thinking, and well-informaed people have not as yet arrived at any conclusion. I'm not presuming that what I say will make any difference, but I am concerned for my peace of mind about the right or wrongness of what I say. It would be easy to take a position now which some future investigating committee would pronounce right. The Isolationist will be able to prove to an unthinking public that he was correct all along. If England and Russia win the war he can say he knew it all along; if we go into the war and we he can say as he says now, Hitler never could invade America and had no desire to do so; if we go in and in spite of everything are defeated he can say I warned you against the invincibility of the Nazi war machine. But in spite of this possibility of the isolationist to vindicate himself before an unthinking public in the future, I feel that he is dead wrong.

Afterwards you are still perfectly free to agree or disagree like the negro preacher who "preferred to believe" certain things about "father Abraham Lincoln whatever the truth might be." Whatever we prefer to believe we are all more or less concerned for our national safety. Throughout our history OUR SECURITY, OUR COMMON DEFENSE, AND IN TURN OUR GENERAL WELFARE HAS HINGED AROUND FOUR FACTS: "1. UNIVERSAL CONCEPT OF INTERNATIONAL ORDER; 2. MAINTENANCE OF THE BRITISH NAVY; 3. EUROPEAN BALANCE OF POWER; 4. GEOGRAPHICAL REMOTENESS." All four of these basic principles are threatened and are in serious danger of being overthrown, OUR CONCEPT OF INTERNATIONAL ORDER IS THREATENED. In MEIN KAMPF we read: "Either the world will be ruled according to the ideas of democracy and then the stress of every decision falls on the races which are stronger in numbers, or the world will be dominated according to the law of natural order of energy and then the people of brute force will be victorious." This is the basis for the sarcastic references to a war of ideology. Or again Hermann Rauschning quotes the exponent of brute force as saying: "I shall make any treaty I require. It will never prevent me from doing at any time what I regard as necessary for Germany's interests."

There is no civilized concept of international order here. Now if these were mere statements written by a man in prison with nothing to do but to write long books that would become things, that is quite another thing else when it is the statement of a creed which has been carried out before our very eyes more times than we care to remember. If something has to come out it should be this passage probably. We have almost become accustomed to the technique of destroying international order and national character. Hitler says a clever conqueror will have his way by: "imposing his demands on the conquered by installments for a people that makes a voluntary surrender saps its own character . . . The more such extortions are suffered without resistance, the more unjustifiable it comes to seem to people to make any ultimate stand against pressures which appear each to be new and isolated . . ." This law of the conqueror we have seen in operation in conquered territories and in internal affairs.

There are in the world today two ways of life far different, engaged now in a life and death struggle We are engaged in the struggle. We have one slender hope of not becoming more involved and that is that others will win our battle for us.

OUR SAFETY DEPENDS ON THE MAINTENANCE OF THE BRITISH NAVY. This has been true because, and only because, Britain is a naval power and not a land power. A naval power may control the seas, may blockade the coast of a nation, but unless they are at the same time a strong military power cannot conquer a nation. In the past, as at present, any nation that might have threatened us, say Napoleon for example, would have had first to overcome the British navy and then have been able to transfer sufficient troops to conquer a vast territory. England by her control of the seas has prevented every threat of this nature from arising and is doing her best to thwart the present great threat.

OUR SECURITY IS BASED ON A BALANCE OF POWER. America has throughout its history stood for a balance of power in Europe and the Orient, and we have always felt that any upset to those balances was a threat to us. Hamilton wrote years ago concerning France:

"If France can finally realize her present plan of aggrandizement, she will attain to a degree of greatness and power which will tend to make her the terror and the scourge of the nations."

And a further statement which is equally true today: "The spirit of moderation in a state of overbearing power is a phenomenon which has not yet appeared . . . It would be as shortsighted as it is mean to seek safety in a subserviency to her views as the price of her clemency. This at best would be but a temporary respite from the rod."

WE ARE NOT SAFE WITH THAT BALANCE OF POWER BROKEN. As things have been in the past America has been potentially the strongest nation in the world. But what will be the situation if under any man, good, bad, or indifferent, Europe becomes a united government? There would be under one government natural resources far beyond most of our resources. There would be naval bases, shipbuilding facilities far beyond those in our possession. There would be at the same time a military spirit or a people accustomed to military training and service to an extent far beyond our comprehension. The day that Europe becomes united we become a second-rate power..

OUR GEOGRAPHICAL REMOTENESS IS NOT SUFFICIENT. I will grant that the continental United States cannot be invaded. America can be defeated and destroyed without any soldier of any invading nation setting foot on our soil. Totalitarianism, which as the name implies is political, economic, cultural, in fact complete control of every phase of life by the national government. We have as yet not succumbed, but suppose England goes donw in defeat, Europe is organized on a totalitarian basis, and we attempt to do business with Hitler. Douglas Miller quotes a German Foreign Office official as saying: "Instead of the United States we would like to deal with different areas treating them as separate countries . . . We would like to buy cotton from the country of New Orleans and sell finished goods. We would buy fruit and lumber from the country of San Francisco and sell manufactured goods. We would buy packing house and agricultural from Chicago in exchange for our manufactured goods."

This may sound fantastic but not in the light of history. Some can remember the recent depression. Is it inconceivable that two or three totalitarian nations could force us into another severe depression? In the midst of such our people would be willing to sell to any buyer. Thomas Jefferson said after an attempt at an economic embargo, "The experiment was thee times more costly than war; I felt the foundations of the government shaken under my feet . . ."

The final outcome then would be one of two choices. We could either become totalitarian by some revolution or coup d"etat or become a divided, broken and defeated nation. America's place in the war is in the war, fighting with all available implements and energy.

The question is now often asked what do we hope to get out of the war? The answer is so perfectly obvious that many people cannot see it. We do not hope to get anything out of the war. We will be lucky not to lose all. We are fighting not to GET but to MAINTAIN what we have.

I hope that peace will provide as far as possible for a system of international security, a world organization with force at its disposal, a disarmament program whereby all nations must disarm to that point consistent with internal order, and international supervision to prevent secret rearming. We should "here highly resolve that those dead shall not have died in vain" because we will maintain peace not by pious wishes but by all our strength.

TALK OF THE WEEK ... By Charles Dunning

Anne Louise Gammon came to Maryville from Eldon, Missouri, in 1938. She has served as sophomore class secretary, Nu Gamma chairman, Bainonian secretary, and member of the editorial staff of the Chilhowean. Miss Gammon also served as a parish project worker for two years, and was on the Echo staff during her freshman and sophomore years. She was included on the honor roll in her sophomore and junior years; she is at present the President of the YW, and is a psychology assistant.

George Reynolds Howard has been an active member of Alpha Sigma, was a member of the football squad in his freshman and sophomore years, was a member of the athletic board of control in his junior year, and is at present the president of the Student Council.

David Harwell Kidder has been a member of the choir since his freshman year, has been outstanding on the tennis team, was a member of the student council for two years, and is at present the treasurer of the YMCA.

Lucille Dent Lynch is the president of the Student Volunteers, vice-president of the Student Council, and vice-president of Pi Kappa Delta, honorary Forensic Society. She has been a member of the debate squad since her freshman year, has won first place in the State Tournament in Women's oratory, debate, and Extempore speaking; she is an assistant to Dr. V. M. Queener. She has been on the honor roll, and has won the T. T. Alexander Prize.

Stanley Arthur Menning has been a member of the band since his freshman year, on the Student Council in his junior and senior years; he was the president of the Nature Club in his sophomore year, has served on the social committee for two years, and was chairman for one year. Stan has been on the YM cabinet since his sophomore year, and has been out for basketball for four consecutive years. He is captain of the basketball squad this year. He was also the sophomore class treasurer.

Dudley Shields Moore was president of his freshman class, a member of the swimming team in his sophomore, junior and senior years, has been a student assistant in the Bookstore for two years, and is this year serving as co-manager. Dud has been in the band for three years, two of which found him serving in the capacity of drum major. He has been active in Alpha Sigma, taking part in their mid-winter productions, and this year filling the office of president of the society.

Doris Marguerite Smith came to Maryville from Cincinnati, Ohio, in her freshman year, 1938. She has been active in the YW since coming here, serving as a Nu Gamma leader in her sophomore year, as treasurer of the YW in her junior year, and as a cabinet member in this, her senior year. She was on the Echo staff in her freshman year, has been a member of the Women's Glee Club since her freshman year, and has held office in that organization twice—once as secretary, and later as president. She was also on the staff of the Chilhowean in her junior year, has been a student worker in the treasurer's office, is a members of the B.G.'s, is president of Bainonian, and is to be a Messiah soloist this year.

Fred Manget Snell came to Maryville in his freshman year, 1938, was a chemistry assistant in his junior year, is treasurer of the senior class, and president of the Pre-Med club.

Henry Moore Wick, came to school at Maryville in 1938 from Scottdale, Pa. He was a freshman debater his first year, has consistently been on the honor roll, has been Pi Kappa Delta president, junior class president, Athenian president, and economics prize winner in his sophomore year; he has been a member of Pi Kappa Delta since his sophomore year, a member of the debate squad for three consecutive years, a member of the YM cabinet in his junior and senior years, and was secretary of the Athenian Literary society for one term. He was editor of the M Book, and has been a student assistant in the library for three years.

Hilton A. Wick was a member of the debate squad in his freshman, sophomore, and junior years; a member of Pi Kappa Delta for three years, treasurer of the class of 1942, and a member of the Student Council in his sophomore year, and was economics prize winner in the same year. Hilton acted as May Day attendant in his sophomore year, was business manager of the Chilhowean last year, and served as chairman of the IRC in his junior year; he is secretary of Pi Kappa Delta, has been on the YM cabinet for two years, and is president this year; Hilton has been on the honor roll for three years, and has served faithfully as a student assistant in the college treasurer's office.

Old Spice

By JEAN BARNES

Lights, action, camera, music! Or no, wait. Put on Brahms' Lullaby or the "March of the Toys"; we're going to have a children's corner this week—replete with fairy stories, sticky kisses, and boogey mans. We aren't sure whether it is the influence of the 24-days-till-Christmas atmosphere, the "don't want to go to school and take exams" feeling, or what; but everyone seems to be touched by a bit of return to childhood and interest in children.

The blue ribbon cherub for the week is little Mildred Montgomery. And she's just precious, big brown eyes, and everything. Anyway Mildred is called the "baby of the table"; and her loving family in the dining hall this week brought her a huge (dainty embroidered, if you have imagination) white bib and tied it round her neck with an enormous blue crepe paper bow. And stood her bashfully up at the table for all to admire. Shucks! why can't we be cute and pigtailed and five or so?

Child prodigy title goes to Helen Dossenbach. Have you noticed? Helen learned to walk this week! Of course we could all see before that she was making progress—who wouldn't with Papa Cloninger holding her hands and tenderly guiding her first steps? (Consult Pearsons lobbyists). But now she walks alone and "walks in beauty like the night" or some such poem; lack of crutches is quite becoming. Still it couldn't have been too bad—the mode of transportation was wonderful, and looked quite comfortable—Thaw hall steps via the arms of those you-got-to-be a football hero people.

Maybe you would like to see Chuck Dunning too; he's over yonder in the teacher's pet corner. It seems he has a super technique on polishing apples. Or in other words, when Gerry Hogan assistant manages the campus retreat, she puts some of the more permanent fixtures of the Chatterbox to work to keep things in apple pie order. Of course they also add prestige and atmosphere as well as shine apples, paint oranges, or what not.

Speaking of kids and people and things, we wonder how the orphanage is getting along. Or didn't you know Dave Kidder and Quentin Myers had an orphanage? It is reputedly quite a place, obscure, remote, indefinite, fabulous, but much talked about. And how could it manage maybe when its two founders, benefactors, or star pupils are away from it so much?

Could it be time for a feature story yet, we're afraid? The Lone Ranger's too exciting. Hm. Well there's the one about the case of the missing sombrero. We've listened at all the keyholes, but came out with only a few, meager, somber details. And an earache from the draft. It all hinges around Anne Gammon, the suspect; Hilton Wick, the victim; a lost and found sign on Pearsons door; and a vanished, highly prized light tan corduroy hat. Detectives might sign up for the hunt at the third tree in front of Pearsons; but we can't guarantee results.

Maybe we'd better change the children subject; we can feel our I. Q. slipping down to the eight-year-old level already.

By the way, did you know Charlie's Aunt is going to be here tonight? The Dating Bureau, incorporated, is going to escort her to some play. We haven't heard anything about a Scottie Day either. Sounds good, though. Ho hum! wonder what the labor leaders would decide to do in the case when the brain and head dissolve partnership. It's so confusing.

To help your fears, they all got back safely without being subpoenaed or permanently parked in prison. Dr. Case and his criminology class spent a very interesting time Friday in Knoxville, or to be more specific in and out of the courts and jail. And you never know where you'll meet them. They visited the court of human relations and Dave McDaniel found Mam and Paw there. At least an Amanda McDaniel was suing Frank McDaniel—which made everything very cozy and uncomfortable. Oh' yes, the parting shot was very much to the point. The policeman gave Dr. Case a pat on the back sort of look and said jovially, "Come back to see us, but don't ever be brought back."

ONE MORE HURDLE

A single obstacle remains over which the once-beaten Highlanders must pass to hang up one of the best seasonal records made by a Maryville grid eleven in recent years. The coaches, the captain, the players, (and incidentally this corner) were all quite pessimistic about the whole affair back in September. The lack of experience and outstanding linemen or backs was rather distressing. But we all had hopes, and now those hopes are about to be realized. It is not hard to explain. There are several factors which have been an influence toward our apparent success on the gridiron. Although there were no glorified heroes in our ball club, we had 32 players who wanted to play ball and stuck it out to the end. They were faithful in their practice sessions, cooperative with the coaches, and willing to work together as a single unit out on the field. That is the answer! The Scots played plenty of good ball, and plenty of bad ball, but when the going got tough they dug in and put forth. They took a lot and they gave a lot. And finally, they came through with victories over Hiwassee, Union, Transylvania, Emory-Henry, Carson-Newman, E. T. Teachers, and Tusculum. Only the King Tornado was able to topple the rolling Scotties. It is interesting to note that the same King aggregation completely outclassed the "unbeatable" Milligan eleven and emerged victorious over the Buffaloes, 20 to 6.

Only Western Carolina Teachers College stands in the way of an .888 season. Let's all go our Saturday afternoon and yell for our boys. Let's beat those Teachers and finish a swell season!

LOCAL BOY MAKES GOOD

This, my friends, is the story of Walter (Shiner) Proffitt, the scrappy Scottie guard who has been playing lots of football lately. This 190 pounds of beef hails from Alcoa, the place from where all the tough football players come. He played three years of high school football and lettered each year. His experience at guard, tackle, and center makes him a valuable team member. One of Walt's outstanding characteristics is his pep and his spirit. Never dejected, Walt is continually pepping up the line with yells of encouragement.

Walt's other interests are of a selected few. He doesn't, as a rule, blow his horn, but he does play a mean trumpet. Walt is a wide-awake young feller, but several have (no matter how bad it is, we can't let it go by) caught him "Knabbing." Really, all these activities of his take up a lot of time and do not leave him a great deal of leisure. Seriously, though, Walt hopes to follow the coaching profession and hopes to keep giving three more full years on the Maryville gridiron. He loves the game!

If you still don't know Walt, he's the guy who has sported three black eyes (not at the same time) around this season. The irony of the whole thing is that he came out of the toughest and roughest game of the season, the Tuscy brawl, unscathed and unblemished.

HERE AND THERE

Talk about Stanford's T, Syracuse's Y, and Benny's B, you ought to see the beautiful S putting form of our own Bill Evans! (You know, golf). What a football season! We thought someone had "set the world on fi-uh" when victoryless Pitt bowled over unbeaten Fordham, but when little-known Tulsa beat the team that tied undefeated Texas, and the twice-beaten Texas Christians went on to beat the Longhorns, we decided that anything can happen here. (Probably will, too.)

The Faculty volleyball club is still going to town. No one should miss the fun when Dr. Case and Geo. Fischbach start serving. Or the funny look on the faces of their opponents when those cannonballs actually whir when they curve downward into the court. They never miss! We can still hear Ernie Murr yellin' when they put that red-hot ointment on him. Betcha it felt s'good. Last year it was Baird and Baird, and Short and Short. This year it's Pemberton and Pemberton and Wick and Wick. We don't mean croquet, either. This is horseshoes.

Thanks goes to Horace Justus who is giving a lot of his time teaching our new wrestlers the different holds and positions. (He ought to know.) Seventeen of our swimming team members are working on that carnival which is to come off sometime soon. It ought to be good!

Cotton Club To Meet

The Cotton Club will meet Monday, November 24, and make a decision concerning the club's annual photograph. At the meeting Betty Parker will play her accordian and Dean Stiles, his trumpet.

Rookie: Can I exchange this roast beef for something else? It's so tough I can't cut it.

Scots Break Jinx In Downing Bucs By 13-0 Count

Spears Shines As Mates Hold Big Pirates In Check

Breaking a jinx of six year's standing, Maryville's high-riding Scotties downed the Buccaneers of East Tennessee Teachers College 13-0 on November 8 at Johnson City. About 500 hardy fans braved a chill wind to witness the clash, which was marked by frequent punt exchanges, interrupted only by the Highlanders' two scoring jaunts.

Though the attack was kept under wraps for most of the game, Maryville displayed a smashing offense during brief intervals of the second and fouth quarters. Paced by the masterful quarterbacking of Ollie Spears, the Scotties seemed almost invincible during these lightning drives, but contented themselves with a defensive battle during the rest of the game.

The Pirates managed to keep the ball in Maryville's end of the field during most of the first quarter, and the only thing that kept Maryville out of real danger was the timely punting of Spears and Taylor. Once the hard-fighting Bucs drove to the shadow of Maryville's goalposts, only to lose the ball on downs. Lloyd Taylor sent a beautiful spiral all the way to the Teacher's 45, from which point Coach Gene McMurray's Bucs started still another drive. This time they were stymied on the Maryville 30, and Ollie Spears sent a well placed quick kick over the head of safety man Johnson.

As the second period opened, Spears took Puckett's kick deep in his own territory and returned it to the Scottie 30. The Highlanders immediately launched the first of their two scoring drives, carrying 70 yards for the first tally. Spears drove over the right side of the line for a first down on the Teacher 45, a gain of 25 yards. On the next play, Maryville took to the airways for the first time, Taylor carrying Spears' pass all the way to the 17 for another first down. After Spears had carried to the Buccaneer 12, Maryville unveiled a new play that netted a touchdown the first time out. Ollie took the snap from Hooker, and faded back as though to pass to Taylor, who was playing far to the right side of the field in the familiar Honaker-spread. Instead of going down for the pass, Taylor cut across immediately in front of Spears, taking the short toss and sweeping around the left side untouched by human hands. Spears' kick was squarely between the uprights, making the score Maryville 7, Teachers 0.

After the kickoff, the Pirates drove to their own 40, but Spears came up with a beautiful interception of Hunt's long pass and returned it to the Buc 38. The Teachers regained possession of the leather via the same route, Martin making the catch, but Maryville came up

Scotties To Meet Carolina Teachers In Season Finale

Ringing down the curtain on the 1941 grid season, the Scotties meet Western Carolina Teachers College on Wilson Field Saturday afternoon. Maryville, beaten only once in eight games, will be heavily favored to down the Catamounts, but Coach James Whatley's boys are somewhat of an unknown quantity and a close game may be in store for the Scots.

The Catamounts have not been very successful this season, but have encountered such powerful teams as Appalachian State, Lenoir Rhyne, and High Point. The only foe common to both teams is Emory and Henry. Maryville took the sting out of the Wasps by a 20-14 score, while Emory downed WCT 19-0 in a game played at Cullowee two weeks ago. By this comparison, Maryville must be rated at least three touchdowns better than the Catamounts. However, such comparisons are seldom accurate, and Coach Honaker's athletes will have to display a good brand of football to roll up that many points.

Two sophomore scatbacks have figured prominently in most of the Teachers' scoring drives this season—Bob Reese and Al Shuford. Both boys are 160 pounders who specialize in broken field leather lugging. Reese, a native of Black Mountain, N.C., is the first string signal caller, while Shuford, who hails from Brevard, N.C., starts at the left half position.

In the forward wall, the play of Claude Jamison, 195 pound senior guard, has been especially outstanding. Jamison is the heaviest man in the line, which averages only about 175 pounds per man. Center Fred Gaylor and Left Guard Ray Hunter have also seen action in all of the team's games, and have come thru with many good plays.

One factor that should aid the Catamounts is the fact that Maryville has been none too successful in the pass defense department, a phase of the game in which the Carolina boys excel. With Reese and Halfback Bill Smith on the throwing end, the 'Mounts have gained much yardage this season via the air lanes.

Chief drawback of the WCT attack is inexperience. There are no less than three freshmen and five sophomores in the starting lineup, but with the season nearly over these men are rapidly becoming experienced veterans. Coach Whatley's boys have been improving in recent games, and promise to furnish real competition for the Highlanders.

Probable starting lineups:

Maryville	Pos.	WCT
Shelfer	LE	Gibson
Mitchell	LT	Jamison
Proffitt	LG	Hunter
Hooker	C	Gaylor
Wilson	RG	Hyde
Kramer	RT	Barnes
Rock	RE	Gudger
Spears	QB	Reese
Taylor	LH	Shuford
Morton	RH	Smith
Cloninger	FB	Leagen

Scotties Tame Aroused Pioneers In Heated Battle

Lloyd Taylor Shines As Highlanders Whip Tusculum By 14 to 6

The fighting Scots captured their seventh victory of the season last Saturday when they trampled a tough Tusculum College team at Greeneville to the score of 14-6. Maryville, after scoring two markers in the first half, settled back and held the desperate Pioneers in check for the rest of the game.

The Highlanders were admittedly off their game, while the Tusculum boys played over their heads in an effort to close their season with a victory. The first half of the game was a fair example of a slugfest, with three of the Pioneers being ejected because of excessive use of their fists.

Both Scottie scores came as the result of long, sustained drives. Rugged line play, rather than flashy running and passing, was the cause of the Maryville victory. Lloyd Taylor and Sam Lattimore scored the touchdowns on line plays, and Ross Honaker kicked both extra points. Taylor was again the outstanding Maryville back.

For Tusculum, Dick Schultze did the best work. He set up the only score for the Pioneers and then completed a pass to team-mate Bob Householder who crossed the line.

Maryville completes its most successful season in recent years tomorrow afternoon when it takes on Western Carolina Teachers on Wilson Field.

Only Few Veterans Back; Need More B-Ball Material

Twenty-one aspirants to the Scottie basketball squad have been holding daily workouts in the Alumni gymnasium. Under the direction of letterman Stan Menning, who has charge of the workouts until Coach Honaker is free of his football duties, the hoopmen are drilling on form in shooting and passing, and are working especially hard on conditioning.

Only two lettermen from last year's team are back in school—Menning and Ray Lillard. Around these two experienced men Coach Honaker will mold his team, ably assisted by Bill Sweeney and Doug Roseborough, two squadmen from last year who saw a lot of action all season.

Ray Lillard was hailed as the brightest freshman prospect in many years of Maryville basketball last year. Ray set a new all-time scoring record for the school, and was one of the stars of a team that won sixteen of twenty-one intercollegiate games.

Menning is a senior, and has lettered at the center position for two years. Due to his long experience and his all around basketball ability, Stan has been assigned the job of tutoring the many inexperienced men out for the team.

Bill Sweeney, an elusive little forward, is expected to have his best year this season. Bill saw action in most of Maryville's games last year, and scored a number of points for the Scotties. Doug Roseborough, who was second string center last year, also played in most of the Highlanders' contests. Roseborough has rubbed many of the rough edges off his game, and is also expected to have a great season.

The only other experienced man out for the team is Howard Meineke, a reserve on last year's squad. Of the new men, among the most promising are Bob Solomon, Jim Faulkner, Jim Smith, and Willis McClanaghan. Solomon and McClanaghan are freshmen, while Faulkner is a sophomore. Smith is a transfer junior who is expected to see quite a lot of action.

Five lettermen have been lost from last year's team, and there is plenty of opportunity for new material in the lineup. Bill and Baby Baird, and Scot Honaker graduated, while Waitman Bowyer and Bill Overly failed to return to school.

INTRAMURAL DOPE

HORESHOES—

Two hard-earned wins this week brought two horseshoe teams into the tournament finals, and eliminated from competition the threatening faculty team of Fischbach-Hovel.

In one half of the bracket Bill Henderson and Bill Evans defeated Bill Hargrave and Art Bushing by the scores of 19-21, 21-13, and 21-14, placing themselves in the finals. And in the other half of the tournament bracket Olsen and Sam Pemberton took over Ralph Hovel and George Fischbach to the tune of 19-21, 21-8, and 21-13. Olsen says it was due entirely to kid brother Sam's beautiful pitching in the last game—he made 20 of the 21 points; however it was, Pemberton and Pemberton are the other team in the finals and promise to give Henderson and Evans something to worry about.

The horseshoe finals will be saved for the annual Intramural Festival, when they will be played off in the Alumni gym for the Festival crowd. That'll come about the last of February or the first of March.

VOLLEYBALL—

Second only to horseshoes in importance this week is the terrific competition in both of the volleyball leagues. Since the writing of our last column, over a dozen scheduled games have come and gone, and the results look something like this:

Wednesday, Nov. 12—
Dwarfs 2, Y Cabinet 0
Alpha Sig 2, Choir 0
Faculty 2, Athenian 1
Spark Plugs 2, 45's 1

Friday, Nov. 14—
Spark Plugs 2, Y Cabinet 0
Outcasts 2, 45's 0
Faculty 2, Ministerial 0
Athenian 2, Alpha Sig 1

Wednesday, Nov. 19—
Alpha Sig 2, Ministerial 0
Athenian 2, Choir 0
Y Cab 2, Outcasts 0
Dwarfs 2, Spark Plugs 0

Add the games of Friday, November 21 to that, and you'll have the whole picture. As far as bull-shooting about the teams is concerned, suffice it to say that in the Independent League the Dwarfs are the mighty ones—or is that too trite? At any rate, Cooper, Pratt, Foreman, Pierce, and the like are just too hot for anyone to handle. A tip from this quarter is that you'll get a kick out of stopping by the gym some game-day and watching them do their stuff. It isn't far short of beautiful! And in the Club League the Faculty and Athenian are neck and neck for top honors. When a team has fellows who can serve a volleyball like Dr. Case can serve a volleyball, it ought to be around the top; the faculty are looking good; os are Athenian, but they've a job on their hands!

Looks as though the weak bunch this time is the Choir. Forfeits pop up from them every now and then—which is every now and then too often.

PING-PONG—

During this past week the ping-pong tournament entry blank has been posted on the Carnegie bulletin board and over 45 men have signed up. The blank was removed and entries closed last night, and play will begin Monday, November 24.

BASKETBALL—

Last Thursday afternoon the intramural office gave notice concerning the entry blanks and the beginning of play in the winter's top sport—basketball. It urged that any who are planning to manage a basketball team this year gather his group together nd sign them up as soon as possible. Entry and eligibility blanks may be had at the office and must be filled out, signed and returned by Friday, December 12. Play will begin Monday, January 12, five days after the opening of the second semester.

Robinson Leads Frosh Soccer Team To Championship

In the Girls' Point System, the champion of the soccer games was the freshman team led by Captain Carol Robinson and managed by Winnie Sommers.

On Thursday, October 28, at 4:00, the two freshmen teams played. The Orange team, with Carol Robinson as captain and Winnie Sommers as manager, beat the Garnet team, captained by Vernida Boynton, and managed by Margaret Hunt. Score: 3-2.

Thursday, October 28 at 3:00, the Junior-Senior team, captained by Marguerite Taylor, managed by Jo Gillette, beat the sophomore team, captained by Johnny Gudel, and managed by Margaret Boretsky. Score: 4-2. The Sophomores played the Freshmen champs with the score tied 1-1. Extra time was given twice but the score was unchanged. Thursday after the scheduled game the tie was broken when the frosh scored against the Sophs, making the score 2-1 in favor of the Frosh.

Thursday, October 30, at 4:00, the Junior-Senior played the Frosh with a score of 2-1 in favor of the Frosh. Members of the champion Freshman team are Carol Robinson, Winnie Sommers, Nancy Russell, Carol Harper, Donnell Bailey, Caroline Huber, Frances Lane, Jane Hayes, Joyce Odem, Marjorie Roth and Kitty Loesch.

At the present time basketball season is in full swing and will continue to the Christmas holidays.

'Steamboat Daze' Theme of Gala Water Carnival

It has been announced that on Saturday evening December 6 at 8:00 the swimming team will hold at the swimming pool the annual water carnival, which this year is entitled "Steamboat Daze."

The water carnival, which is considered one of the outstanding social events of the year, will be a performance portraying the gay and hilarious life which prevailed on the Mississippi in the 1850's.

Water formations, a diving exhibition, musical numbers, and comic acts, will all be included in the show, which will be presented by twelve lovely ladies and members of the varsity swimming team.

Grunters Prep For January Meet

Since the notice of wrestling practice appeared Oct. 20, many new men have been attending the practice. When football is over, more are expected to come out; for at least five wrestlers are on the football squad. Anyone interested in wrestling is urged to come to the practice sessions which are held every day at 3:00. Routine workouts in the gym and laps around the field constitute most of the practice.

The team members thus far are as follows:

Dick Boyd, junior letterman.
Bob Bryant, frosh.
Ed Ballinger, junior.
Wilbur Chapman, junior.
Fleming Griffith, junior.
Horace Justus, senior letterman.
Warren Culver, senior letterman.
George Losher, frosh.
Bill McCord, soph letterman.
Pat Patterson, frosh.
Ken Ross, soph letterman.
Joe Suitor, junior.
Trevor Williams, frosh.
Lloyd Anderson, frosh.
Don Black, frosh.
Al Murrian, frosh.
Mel Gaughan, soph.
Dave McDaniels, senior letterman.

The first wrestling meet will be held with Illinois State Normal U. on January 18. The second will be with the University of Illinois on February 12.

Athenians Cop Plaque

Athenian Society, winners of the 1940-41 intramural club trophy, received the plaque at the meeting of the club last week. The society was awarded the plaque for winning the basketball and volleyball championships and placing their teams high in other sports.

The plaque is an innovation introduced into the intramural system last year. It is a rotating trophy, going to the club that places highest in the intramural games each year. Any organization that retains it for three successive years becomes its permanent owner.

Buc Game...

with still another interception, with Ross Honaker on the receiving end. After another exchange of punts, Spears put the Bucs deep in their own territory as he kicked to the 3 yard marker. Maryville regained possession on the 35, and appeared to be headed for another tally as the half ended.

The game relapsed to a kicking duel between Taylor and Puckett during most of the third stanza, with neither team appearing to get much edge in the exchanges. However, Maryville's second blitzkrieg started late in the period when Spears received the ball on his own 30. Taylor swept around right end for a long gain all the way to the Buc 35. Shelfer made six yards on a rarely-seen end around play, and Taylor made another first. Cloninger picked up four to the Teachers' 18 as the period ended.

On the fourth down, Spears lugged the leather to the Teachers' nine to make it first down and goal to go. The score came on the very next play, with Spears driving through right tackle. Ross Honaker's attempted conversion fell just short of the mark, the score remaining 13-0. Neither team threatened to score during the remainder of the game, though the Teachers managed to roll up several first downs. Two fifteen yard penalties, one for clipping and the other for failure to observe the fair catch rule, kept them from seriously threatening. Maryville's only other drive came when Norman Hooker intercepted a pass on the Teachers' 30.

rhU' a Cur

Captain Hooker played one of the best games of his career, both defensively and offensively. In addition to his timely pass interception, he seemed to be in on almost every Maryville tackle. Offensively, his blocking was just about all that any coach could ask. In addition to Spears and Hooker, Maryville's most sparkling players included Taylor, "Spo't" Shelfer, and Big Red Richards.

"Junior" Puckett of the losers kept the crowd buzzing over his beautiful punts, and also came thru with several nice gains for his mates. However, the Scots kept the highly touted Buck Hunt well bottled up, rushing him on his passes and smearing him when he tried to carry the ball.

Half-time color was furnished by the Highlander band and by the band and drill squad of the host school. The Bucs, featuring an Armistice Day theme, went through a colorful and unusual routine. A large number of Maryville supporters made the trip along with their band and team, and the group made itself heard time and again as the Scottie team reached some crucial point of the game.

Alpha Sigma Presents Musical Program

Saturday evening at 6:15, the Alpha Sig will hold its regular meeting in the Alpha Sigma room in Anderson hall. The program committee has arranged a special musical program which all members are urged to hear.

On the program will be Curtis Martin, who will play "Honeysuckle Rose" and the "Barrel Polka"; Carl Miller, accordian selections; George Devereaux will sing "This Love of Mine", "Do I Worry"; and Harry Lyle at the piano will play "Dark Eyes" and "Summertime." There will also be a community sing.

of hearts. The modern Simple Simon and consumer of deluxe hamburgers (and I don't mean any particular student) was present in the form of Wimpy.

"Step right up, folks! Buy your tickets to the biggest show on earth" might well have been the beginning of the Big Top Circus in 1939. Many of the figures familiar on the campus now were in it, Hilton Wick, Frank Cross, and George Tibbetts to mention a few. Harriet Miller was the chairman of the show, which was sponsored by the YWCA.

Last year's barnwarming was called Panamania. Elizabeth Moore was in charge of this barnwarming which was set in Panama. Palm trees, gobs on leave, and grass skirts formed part of the general atmosphere. Betty McArthur and Charles Baldwin were the king and queen. For the first time, the class sponsors were revealed at barnwarming.

The theme of this year's barnwarming is Marphasia. The proceeds are to be used to aid Chinese students who have been forced to leave their school buildings and retreat into the interior to continue their education. All those with a good imagination—because the people on Mars live backwards—should go. One of the characters present will be Stuporman. Who is he? Who are the class sponsors? Who will be the king and queen of barnwarming? If you want to know the answers to these questions and have a good time for a worthy cause, you'll be seen on a trip to Mars Thanksgiving night.

water bucket with great speed and dexterity. He played "hoods up" ball as the end bench was cold. His triple-threat playing as the team's star drawback was a constant menace to the team, which breathed a sigh of relief when he was forced out of the game, being injured in the conflict.

"At each time out, when the players rushed for the water, he valiantly defended it from their savage onslaught, finally being forced by the great odds to retreat. (I wouldn't have, but the referees insisted.)

"This amazingly versatile waterboy received a painful foot injury, for, when he jumped into the air for glee as the touchdown was made, he landed—of all places—on his feet, bruising them with heel marks"!

Then, at the close of the game, he puts the balls in the bag, picks up the hoods, accidentally stuffs the College Scottie in the bag, because someone had suddenly turned the lights out, and wearily wends his way from whence he had come three hours earlier—the cage—where all good football players, managers and monkeys are often found. Such is the life of a manager.

Scottie Day...

"It would seem a shame to me for that cute little Scottie to be torn away from Miss Heron and the heart's of every student at Maryville College. Maybe I'm prejudiced to the dog's viewpoint because I'm built so close to the sidewalk myself, but having that one thing in common with her I know how she feels way down there looking up at most of the rest of you way up there. Those of us that are small must have faith that you big fellows won't trample on us or take easy and unfair advantage of our physical make-up. It's in our power to make Scottie, our little mascot, secure and happy in a pleasant loving home and among her fellow students, or let her be cast out, an unwanted waif, by the ones she loves and has served so loyally."

John Hellums is the last one to speak here. She says, "If Scottie weren't on the job who would there be to train the band about marching up and down the field, as they do under her patient guidance? Personally, I prefer cats, but since—so I hear—there is some connection between the type of dog we have, and the name Scotties, and since, so far as I know, there is most every type of cat, (except human) but a cat with a burr to its purr, then let's swap a buffalo or two—don't be Scotch—for a dog."

Time alone will tell how this drive will turn out, but students, let's get behind Scottie and give!

Maid Shop Sends Choir Vestments To All Parts of U.S.

Among many other things, the College Maid Shop makes choir vestments for churches all over the United States. They are now making vestments for Webb Horton Memorial church in Middletown, New York; Church of Pilgrims, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Grace Presbyterian church in Detroit; Memorial church of Lynchburg, Va.; the Calvary Baptist church in Washington, D.C.; the First Baptist church, also in Washington; and the Presbyterian church, Sewickley, Pa. Because they have been so rushed with work the Maid Shop has had to turn down 22 orders from other churches. Their choir robes are recommended exclusively by the famous Westminster choir.

VOLUME 27 MARYVILLE, TENN. NOVEMBER 29, 1941 NUMBER 12

Five Choir Members Selected To Sing Solos In Handel's Messiah

Sam Cornelius, Former M-C Student, Will Sing Tenor Solos

DEC. 14 SET AS DATE

Smith, Marshall, Cathcart, Miller, Stiles Chosen

On December 14 the annual college presentation of Handel's "Messiah" will be given in Voorhees Chapel. The soloists for this concert have been chosen and the event is one well worth looking forward to. Mr. Colbert has announced that Sam Cornelius will probably return to Maryville to sing the tenor solos. Sammy graduated from Maryville last year and since then he has been teaching. He was an English major from Pittsburgh, Pa. He was a member of the choir for four years, a member of the band, orchestra, and glee club. He was elected to Writers' Workshop, Theta Alpha Phi, and the YMCA Cabinet. He was the tenor soloist last year in the "Messiah."

Doris Smith will sing the alto solos this year; "Dodie" has been a member of the choir for four years. She is the president of Bainonian, a member of the YWCA Cabinet. She was on the staff of the Chilhowean last year, and she was elected to Who's Who this year. Dodie is a sociology major from Cincinnati, Ohio.

Louise Marshall, a music major from Knoxville, will sing some of the soprano solos. Louise has been a member of the choir for four years and was one of the soloists last year.

Ruth Cathcart, a music major from Maryville, will also sing some soprano solos. Ruth has been a member of the choir for three years.

Carl Miller, a sophomore music major from Newport, Delaware, will be one of the bass soloists. He has been a member of the choir for two years.

Dean Stiles, a senior music major from Beverly, Mass., will also be a bass soloist. Dean is the president of the band and has sung in the choir for four years.

Fred Hope Drive Nets $603.05

As a result of the recent Fred Hope Drive for funds to carry on a particular African missionary project, 40 faculty members and 213 students, a total of 253 people, pledged a collective amount of $603.05. Mr. Fred Hope, a former Maryville student, conducted the drive personally this year. He spoke twice, on last Tuesday evening when he showed pictures with his lecture, and again on Wednesday morning when the the drive was concluded.

Mrs. Ralph Lloyd Chairman Apron Sale, Luncheon

Benefits Go Toward "Women's Dormitory Fund" Raised Here

On next Saturday, December 6, a benefit luncheon and apron sale will be held in Pearsons hall. Its purpose is to raise money for a "Women's Dormitory Improvement Fund" by the sale of tickets to the luncheon and by the sale of aprons to those who attend and to any others interested. The aprons will be donated by women who are friends, former students, and graduates. This will be the first occasion of the kind to be held at Maryville. If the interest and response is large enough, the event may become an annual one.

Mrs. Ralph Waldo Lloyd is serving as chairman of the occasion and has announced the following committee of patronesses. Mrs. John Walker, Mrs. John Badgett, Mrs. Lon Badgett, Mrs. J. C. Barnes, Mrs. W. T. Bartlett, Mrs. Anne Cheney, Mrs. John M. Clark, Mrs. Annis Beals, Mrs. K. M. Brewer, Mrs. A. M. Brinkley, Miss Mary E. Caldwell, Mrs. W. M. Caldwell, Mrs. H.

Old Road Through Campus Graded

In accordance with the Maintenance Department's program of campus improvement, the stretch of ground between the Chatterbox and Pearsons hall was graded and improved last week.

This stretch of ground, which at one time was one of the central roads of the campus and which has recently been closed because of the new layout of the campus roads, was graded to provide for better water drainage and to improve the general appearance of this section of the campus.

Thanksgiving Feast Sponsored At Dining Hall

Maryville's student body residing on the Hill turned their attention from their intellectual pursuits last Thursday long enough to give thanks for 500 pounds of roast turkey "with all the trimmings" at Pearsons hall. Miss Margaret Susanne Ware, dietician, defined the trimmings as consisting of dressing, giblet gravy, mashed potatoes, buttered peas, cranberry sauce, celery and olives, coffee and the traditional mincemeat pie or ice cream.

Preparations for the feast began on Wednesday with the roasting of turkeys and continued until dinner was served on Thursday at 1:00.

Another item on the thanks list was that breakfast was served at 7:30 instead of 7:00. The evening meal was a light supper of fruit and sandwiches.

French Club Plans Buffet Supper

The French Club will hold its last meeting of the semester on Thursday, December 11. A buffet supper given at 5:30 will be followed by a Christmas program and an election of officers for the new semester.

All members are cordially invited to attend.

New Treasurer's Office Created in Anderson Shift

Dean Hunter And James R. Smith Given New Office

The remodeling of the first floor office space in Anderson, which has been in progress since the beginning of the semester, is now nearing completion. This program has included the shifting of the Treasurer's office from the left front wing to more commodious quarters in the rear of the administration building, a space formerly occupied by the printing department and a class room.

The wing recently vacated by the Treasurer's office has been divided by a temporary partition and is currently shared by the Office of Public Relations, directed by James R. Smith, and the office of Dr. Hunter, Dean of Curriculum. This shift has made more space available for the use of the office of Student Help, and for a better distribution and set-up in the printing department.

The newly situated Treasurer's office is much larger than the old one, and it is hoped that the extra-length front counter will expedite the transactions involved in registration and payment of bills by the students.

In order to make room in the rear of Anderson for this office, a complete remodeling had to be effected. A partition which used to separate the space into two rooms was removed, and an office constructed in one rear corner of the present enlarged space to be used as a private office by the Treasurer, Fred L. Proffitt.

The new office has the advantage over the old one of more much-needed space for the accomodation of both the students and the staff, better lighting, and two doors. The two doors and the longer counter should speed up the registration process very much in the same manner as it did the payment of board bills this past week.

Dr. Hunter and Mr. Smith are not yet thoroughly moved into their new offices, nor are their accomodations yet permanent. The partition which separates their offices is only a temporary one and is to be replaced by a more permanent one some time after the close of this school year.

Douglas' Play Replaces Dickens' Christmas Carol

Glover, Morley Have Leads in Play Given Before Exam Week

Co-starring in this year's Christmas play will be Elizabeth Glover and June Morley, dramatic art majors and members of Mrs. West's class in religious drama. Bird's Christmas Carol by Kate Douglas Wiggin is to be presented this year instead of Dickens' Christmas Carol which has been presented in the last two years.

The cast of characters includes the role of Mrs. Ruggles, to be taken by Elizabeth Glover, and Mrs. Ruggles' nine children; Mrs. Bird, the nurse, and Carol, who is portrayed by June Morley. Mrs. West will read the play as the scenes are enacted before the audience.

Mrs. West stated that the exact date of the play has not been set, but it will be produced sometime during the last week before examinations.

Experimental Theatre Presents Double Program

Program Includes "A Minuet" and "Op O' Me Thumb"

If you could see a play presented by one reader alone, and that same play presented by an entire cast, which would you prefer? That is the question before the house at the Experimental Theatre tonight as the short one-act play, "A Minuet," by Louis Parker, is presented once by Rosemary McCartney, as reader, and again by Fred DePue, Betty Clevenger, and Bill Sweeney, as they play the roles of Marquis, Marchioness, and Gaelor in costume. The question becomes a research project in audience reactions as they cast ballots stating their preference for the type of presentation. Obviously it is also a project in comparison of strength of appeal to the imagination in these two methods. Since the experiment will be presented for the two different audiences (7 and 8:45), the order in which the reader and the cast will appear on the program will be reversed, thus cancelling the element of familiarity of lines in the total score.

While the audience casts its ballot for this performance, the stage will be set for a play in cockney dialect, "'Op O' Me Thumb," by Fenn and Pryce. The jail cell will be changed to a laundry office in Soho, near London, where Madame, played by Elizabeth Glover, operates her laundry with the assistance of actresses Meredith Preston, Mary Wintermute, Roberta Lochausen, and June Morley, who plays the role of little Miss 'Op O' Me Thumb. Harry Lyle comes in for the only male role of Horace Greensmith, who, in this play at least, makes a great deal of difference in June's happiness—or unhappiness, however you shall look at it. Ruth Sutherlin, who has been assisting in the direction, could give you the "dope," but you'll see for yourself if you are one of the lucky 400 who requested complimentary tickets for an hour and a half's entertainment.

Incidentally, the cast presented "'Op O' Me Thumb" at Everett High school on Wednesday morning

Theta, Alpha Sig to Present Bronte's Wuthering Heights

Theta Epsilon and Alpha Sigma societies will jointly present Emily Bronte's "Wuthering Heights" on January 24, under the direction of Mrs. Nita Eckles West. Tryouts will be held next week in Mrs. West's studio in Voorhees chapel. The day will be announced later.

Any member of Theta Epsilon and Alpha Sigma is eligible to try for a part in this play. "Although there are few roles in the play," stated Mrs. West, "each part is a good one and must be chosen carefully; therefore, I'm expecting a large turn-out of students to read for this play."

Martian Atmosphere Reproduced In Gym Thanksgiving Eve

SPONSORS SPOTTED

Marphasia Review Proceeds Benefit Chinese Students

Maryville, the school that's a hundred years ahead, went Buck Rogers, Flash Gordon, and Alley Oop with a roar and a whoosh here Thanksgiving evening. That night the Maryville campus was transported elaborately and effectively to Marphasia, commonly known as Mars, mysterious sister planet of good old Earth, and next in line for honors in Life-As-We-Know-It. All loyal MARyvillians know now that there's life in the old gal yet, even though it does run counter to what most of us have come to look upon as the "right" way.

But one principle is the same. Beautiful women from Mars look just as beautiful to us earthlings—and then some. Maybe it's because the lass is always keener on the other man's side of the stratosphere; but the fact remains; THESE MARTIANS KNOW THEIR WOMEN!

Consider, for instance, the four maidens who graced the four bouquets of golden chrysanthemums on the royal dais: Jane Hayes, "Wings" James, Jean McCutcheon, and Eloise McNeely, (otherwise known as Freshman, Sophomore, Junior, and Senior Class Sponsor, respectively and respectfully).

But their Martian Majesties were the talk of every gondolier, gigolo, and gentleman of the canal-carved star. Her Majesty, Queen Evelyn Ogle, smiling and gracious, and His Majesty, King Fred "Spot" Shelfer, smiling, arrived just in time for the evening's festivities — via rocket, from somewhere up in the Great Dark, and emitting such a clamor and trail of flames as only an honest-to-goodness, self-respecting rocket can emit. Whatever hands weren't clapped together to welcome the Royal Pair were clapped to noses as the sulphurous fumes of the monster machine's motive power reached the bleachers. And everybody laughed.

But laughter was the rule of the night. Stuporman Tibbetts in his inimitable fashion saw to that; and B. J. Kennedy wooing L'il Abnervous Chambers; and the YMCAbinet who LaCongaed and curvetted with all the grace of a group of Rheumatic Rockettes; and movies of a mob of students, cars, athletes, and maScotty, walking, driving, and running nonchalantly in reverse in a mad scramble to get back where they started; and the orchestra, Phil's "Superplanetary Sizzeroos" or something, alternately slick and slap-stick; and poker-face Pemberton who cracked nary a grin with all their goings-on. (His supper, he admitted later, disagreed with him.)

Missed, however, was the faculty contribution, usually an outstanding, upsetting, side-splitting sensation. Not missed, however, were the implications of the Birnam Wood night watchman on his campus round-and-rounds.

And everybody laughed.

So it was worth it—even with the three cent tax—which will go toward making Marphasia safe for laissez-faire, Ming vases, and vodka. Long live Marphasia.

Proceeds, all $140.00 of them, will go to the relief of Chinese students, as the YWCA announced sometime ago.

Association Meets In Kentucky

Faculty Members Assist Sessions of Southern Colleges

The annual meeting of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools will be held next week from Monday through Friday at Louisville, Ky. Those representing Maryville College, which has been a member of the association since 1922, will be President Ralph W. Lloyd, Dr. Edwin R. Hunter, Dean of Curriculum, Miss Clemmie J. Henry, Director of Student Help, and Miss Nancy B. Hunter, secretary to the President.

The Southern Association, which is the official accrediting body in ten southern states from Virginia to Texas for universities, colleges and high schools, will meet in two separate groups. These are the committee groups which will meet Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday and which Dr. Lloyd will attend, and the General Sessions will convene the rest of the week, with Dr. Hunter, Miss Henry, and Miss Hunter attending.

In accordance with the duty of the association which is to set standards, examine schools, and admit or suspend members of schools, the main topics to be discussed will be the status of state universities and colleges in Georgia, as a result of the recent controversy concerning the political interference in the conducting of the schools in Georgia.

Tryouts for Varsity Debate Squad Held

The tryouts for the men's varsity debate squad have been held this afternoon. Drawing for opponents was held during the fourth period in Dr. Queener's classroom, and debates were held at twenty-five minute intervals during the afternoon, with some this evening. The same procedure will hold on Monday for the tryouts of the women's squad, except that the drawing will be held at 12:10.

The debates will be seven minute constructive speeches with three minute rebuttals. The questions, as has been stated before, is "Resolved: That the Federal Government Shall Regulate by Law all Labor Unions."

Among the judges will be Dr. Briggs, Mr. Pieper, and Miss Harriet Miller.

Pre-Meds To Meet

The next meeting of the Pre-Med Club will be held on December 11. Chuck Gilpatrick will speak on his work in the Central Maine hospital.

Frosh Advocates New Theme Song: "I Get Along Without You Very Well!"

By BILL JARNAGIN

Most of our examinations today are not a test of our knowledge, but a test of how much we can cram the night before. Even essay exams test our art of "shooting the bull" between an opening and closing technical fact. Some exams are solely a test of speed in writing; but no matter how one looks at the situation, we students get the raw end of the deal, for our professors unmercifully sling the questions at us and even do so with pleasure, while we poor victims suffer with displeasure.

The attitude of the student body toward on-coming exams is in four main divisions. The first is the don't-give-a-darn group who know their situation is helpless—either because they have not studied, or they just feel too stupid to even try mastering a subject. These know full well what exams hold for them and feel as if they should have quit long ago.

The second classification is the daring, carefree procrastinator who crams furiously every night—once a semester—with the intention of memorizing an incredible list of facts in time for the finals. This class gambles on sheer luck and hopes she can will hit his line of thought and allow him to blow his horn about the few meager facts he has learned. His chief fear is that the exam will cover the very things he did not study.

The third class is the conscientious group of DAR's who plug away at their lessons daily with absolute faith in their actions. Those in this class chiefly fear injustice on their examinations or feel the tests will cover some insignificant facts not worthy of studying. Because of their earnest work and rather broad knowledge of their subjects, it is reasonable that they be rewarded, and often our dear teachers find one or two tiny flaws in their work, then consider the whole discussion a failure. However, as it has often been said, a chain is as strong as its weakest link.

Temperamental chameleons form the fourth class of students who work for spells, get lazy or discouraged and loaf, then start all over again. Practically all of us start off the year with determination but soon burn out.

Every student has his own method of attack on the various types of exams. As for the popular objective tests, we put down true and false signs until we have a doubt, then our customary procedure is to make a decision by a flip of a coin or scan the column of plus and minuses and balance them. Some day one of our sweet professors is going to give an all-true or all-false test and flunk all the guessers.

If we are exposed to a five-hour exam for two hours, we have no chance of passing; if we don't know anything—what good are essay exams? If we can guess the answers to objective tests, they are not fair to everyone. Consequently, why in the world did they invent such discomforting stumbling blocks as examinations?

Now add to our misery some professors have the fantastic idea that 70 is not passing—thanks to Reader's Digest. Well, the static has become intolerable; so we'll sign off with the song "I Get Along Without You Very Well."

Cereal Box-tops, Systematics, OPM Added Up Equals Cause and Effect

By MARY WINTERMUTE

There is some sort of a theorem or principal or law which tells us about "cause and effect." This statement of cause and effect says that every cause has an effect and every effect has a cause. We see evidences of this law here on our own campus. For instance, we enter the library one fine evening and there we see several dozen sophomores struggling to get a place at the reference table. At once we realize that there must be some cause for so many members of even so studious a class as the sophomores to congregate in the library and, of all places, at the reference table. There just must be a cause. Perhaps it's OPM. Or could it be those notecards for Systematics? For the benefit of those freshmen present, let me explain what Systematics is. Systematics is a course required of all sophomores. In this class the student learns to make a speech with a minimum of fear, trying desperately to conceal the fact that his knees are knocking and his breath has mysteriously disappeared, being bolstered up all the while by the thought that his classmates are as inexperienced at speech-making as he is, when he knows darn well they ain't.

But to get on with more examples of cause and effect. Have you seen those Lone Ranger hats being modeled by Bob Schwarzwalder, Ken Ross, Hilton Wick, Allan Moore, Neil Proffitt, and Anne Gammon? They too must have their cause. It could be that they come with 152 boxtops from your favorite breakfast cereal. Or maybe these youngsters have been too-frequent visitors at the Saturday afternoon picture show. Then, it could be the weather.

Another amazing effect is the color effect of the freshman class. The freshmen have lost their bright green shade of a few months back and are now adding a coat of blue. The result is "The Freshman Class in Aqua." How do I know blue is the new color the freshmen have added to their make-up? Oh, it's just little things like the way they creep out of Dr. McClelland's office and the huge chart on the wall of Jessie Fowler's room which reads something like this: "November 20th—28 more days."

One cause that is definitely known is the cause of the sudden rush on the ten cent stores for piggy banks. It seems that Professor Howell presented a somewhat new economic theory to his Organic Chemistry class. His idea is that everyone should purchase a penny bank and save and save, thus being prepared for inflation or deflation or the fourth term issue, or anything which may result now or later.

And the Red Cross knitting. We all know about it. But here is a new angle. The reason we do Red Cross knitting is to relieve and make more pleasant the life of the British soldier. Now the new angle on the situation, brought to light by Johnnye Gudel, is this: won't we be doing just as great a service to practice dancing and then dance with the American soldiers, thereby making their life more pleasant?

This "cause and effect" business goes on all the time. Every day we see evidences of it. Combed hair and neckties which mean a Chilhowean picture is to be taken. Fewer lights and fuller bushes—OPM. A sudden silence on third floor Memorial—a matron approaches. Cause and effect. It's a grand old law, obeyed by the best of us.

Bainonian And Athenian Hold Joint Meeting

At 6:15 tonight, the Athenian and Bainonian societies will hold a joint meeting in Bartlett auditorium. With Virginia Beth Sperry and Dick Boyd on the program committee, there will be a fine program presented. All members of both societies are urged to note this joint meeting and are invited to attend.

Old Spice

By JEAN BARNES

Adhering to our previously expressed policy of putting first things first, article 496, may we present Dizzy, Daffy, and Dopey, the dearest and drippiest of the denizens in Pearsons. Anyway, Mary Knight received them this week, three turtles, bright red, green, and blue. Intelligent little nuisances, they carry their names as well as their houses on their backs. Anybody who can make more acquaintances in one week is to be ogled at with a wary eye. They've visited everybody, conducted a rigorous room inspection—now in Carnegie—back of hot radiators, their specialty, and held hands with half a dozen people in 15 minutes. Mary's systematics turtle speech, with illustrations, was quite effective too, we hear.

Before we leave this new arrivals announcement business, we might mention Katherine Crews and Bernice Davis have also just joined this one big happy family affair and find no place like home, especially up 143 steps each time.

Getting down a bit to things more vital, thump! How about the game a week ago? It surely was a fascinating sum of numbers. And Sam Lattimore had the smoothest mud pack you ever saw. At least it looked like a Lattimore somewhere underneath. Apparently everyone admired too the way Jimmy Burris "talks up a game" out on the field. And then there's Andy Richard's story about Coach's sending in the bench.

Also on the colorful front stands Natalie Yelton. Nat was at arms with a "furrin" infection on her face, and her friends reportedly had a marvelously gooey time trying out different color schemes on it, red tincture one day and black shrouding the next.

Before we leave the goo and the color—we've heard all sorts of rumors about George Callahan's aunt's molasses. And quite a subject to get mixed up with. It's home-made even; and George, it seems, has a noteworthy technique at the table for shoving it to the proper place at the proper moment when he pours it out.

And when in the course of daily events, your so-called sense of hunger becomes a sense of speech, pfui with fourth period classes. Going hungry, huh? We know, patriotic and stuff. Which reminds us, in some corny place this popped up, the latest most nit-wit slogan of the air corps: Eat, drink, and be married, for tomorrow ye fly. Anything for National Offense. (With due apologies for that one!)

Well the trip to Mars was marvelous and quite enlightening. And being Lilliputian in size doesn't mean a thing; Jeannie Stringham and Jordy Meadows turned out to be super genii on the whole affair. Preliminaries for Barnwarming looked like a scene on Mount Olympus or somewhere, everybody making something out of nothing. Wee Willie and D'Antonio painting the "Marsh," Dottie Barber and Jenks draping cheesecloth skirts over the lights to make the glittering chandeliers, Snell and Baptiste constructing the rocket ship for king and queen to make their happy landing, the YW cabinet conga line, Hilton Wick, a patient but not wooden headed maypole, Ruth Carter fishing up comets and things out of a paint can, and a bit of glamour of the right sort in the presence of Eloise McNeeley, Jean McCutcheon, Viola James, and Jane Hayes, class sponsors.

Did you know Dave Hall is writing a book, one of those heard about but seldom seen people, round the world at seventeen, or something. It seems Dave took a famous and most delightful tour around the world some years ago. Can't you just picture Steward Hall of the S.S. Whatnot strolling "on a little street in Singapore", in a villa in Manila, and from there on? But we sure would love to see the book. A guy can do plenty with a sense of humor, a dash of experience, and a touch of brain like that.

For a bit of man about town observations it's tossed about that Evelyn Williams hasn't taken a single cut yet, Bob Cahow looked like the king of the mounted last Saturday when he braved the rain in his forest ranger's outfit, that it's worth admission to Messiah practice Sundays to see Helen Pratt slapping the bass or Charlie Burgreen's way with a mellophone, that Dexter Rice has a monopoly on the word "Dixie," that Pepper has a fascinating way of leaning into the wind when he walks, that "Hank" Cooper is a whiz with a volleyball, that Gracie Jarnagin, domestic lass, has a right sensible dislike for sewing a fine seam; but she's good in the dining room, and had efficient help too, last time.

Three months less several days ago our transportation system brought to this campus a new crop of students, conceited in appearance and dedicated to the proposition that all is fair in love and war. Now we are engaged in a great last month's rush, testing whether those students, or any students, so conceited and so educated can long endure.

'Nough said; one more good idea to the gallows. You know all this talk about splitting hairs; well, it's really lots of fun; we've sat for hours and tried it. Maybe that explains some things. Do you brush your teeth with a rotary motion, or wander to class without the least notion, of why you are there? You cater to people, you canter on horses, what do you do when you're cornered? Answer next month.

The above is only temporary regression to imbecility, the result of Thanksgiving probably. By the way, did you see John Ross after dinner carrying out his apples, oranges, and what have you on a plate on the top of his head? The only explanation we could think of was blockhead, and that wouldn't work .... But he did manage amazingly well.

We wonder do goldfish get bored too.

Now that the New York Philharmonic is guilty of swinging last Sunday, apparently anything goes. But people do have strange ideas; Miss Johnson expressed a decided preference for succotash on a knife to cake on the floor, Jean Boyd does a serene departure from this vale of tears or whatever every time she meets a mouse, Troye Moore is tickled pink about the new house her father is building. And rightfully so.

A glimpse into the chem lab this week was quite interesting in a fragrant sort of way. The quant students were making tests of various liquors, objectively, that is, using as sensory aids that of smell only. And some smell, some jokes, and more fun. Anyway, when they reeled out, they could tell the officers the content.

Someone has threatened us with dire consequences if we don't mention a conversation she overheard; she says it thusly: "One of your dignified Echo reporters, (I think it was Bob Francis), came into the library and made a very important business call—in fact he made two of them. First he called up and got some news for the Echo. Then without any break whatsoever, he proceeded to make another business call. The conversation went something like this, 'Hello. Do you have Prince Albert in a can?' Silence. 'Why don't you let him out?' " Comments censored.

Well, just off hand, as it were, Scottie was worth twenty-eight dollars. And that's a lot of tribute money, and nice cooperation too.

We can hardly pass by without a congratulations about Charlie's Aunt; everybody did a bang-up dash at acting. And Betty Clevenger was pretty wonderful with only four night's rehearsal. And wouldn't he-she make a precious matron? We'd all live to grow up to Jeannette's "gripe old age."

The other innovation, the new treasurer's office, isn't bad either. Of course everyone walked into the old office and looked that sort of oh, pardon me, I thought you were my sister way. But it all got straightened out beautifully, and certainly is pleasant and convenient.

We're more than glad to see Ada Summers back. Seems like every day is Homecoming Day; we started to mention everybody, but it takes pages and pages, and after all what? But it's fun.

Well, everybody talked the Who's Who choices well nigh to extinction, weighed them in the balance, broke the scales, and take the first turn to the right. So now everyone is overcome or overjoyed. Maybe we could start a compensatory Who's Who. Think what an honor to be mentioned in Old Spice. And what a thrill to write old spice. Echo, according to the dictionary, is that which died of vain love. What a thing to be working for.

But we feel reassured.

All's well that ends.

As I See It

CHARLEY'S AUNT by Brandon Thomas. Produced by Maryville Dramatic Art students. Directed by Mrs. Nita Eckles West.

Last Friday night, Brandon Thomas' CHARLEY'S AUNT was presented in Voorhees Chapel. The side-splitting, rollicking comedy, already made famous by Jack Benny's movie version, met with well-deserved approval and kept the audience highly amused through the evening. The action moved rapidly, and the gaps between the acts were filled with unusually well-chosen recordings.

Particularly worthy of commendation were the stage settings. Chuck Dunning, the stage manager, was responsible for designing and building one of the most effective sets that this generation of Maryville students have ever witnessed. In the last scene, the realistic and artistic effect was unsurpassed.

Well-adapted to his part was David McDaniels in the title role of Charley's Aunt. Throughout the entire performance he showed a genuine display of dramatic talent and a flare for comic characterization.

However, the outstanding acting of the performance was done by George Tibbetts in the role of Stephen Spettigue. The star of MR. PIM and YOU CAN'T TAKE IT WITH YOU proved again that he is a master at comic technique. His skillfully applied make-up added to his success in this particular part.

The romantic leads were likewise played with feeling and enthusiasm. Mel Johnson as Jack Cheney, Bob Schwarzwalder as Charles Whyeham, and John Hellums as Kitty Verdun were all convincing. A special word of praise is deserved by Betty Clevenger who took the role of Amy Spettigue on very short notice and did an excellent job of it.

The supporting cast of Dudley Moore, Fred DePue, Virginia Berg, Helen Airheart, Dorothy Harned and Richard Boyd aided in making the play an unqualified success.

Mrs. West, the director, was, of course, responsible for the splendid interpretation with which Charley's Aunt was produced. The enthusiasm of a full house was shown by the way in which the audience entered into the spirit of the play.

The make-up, costuming and lighting were well done. The whole presentation moved without interruption, every Jack got his Jill in the end, and a good time was had by all.

TALK OF THE WEEK ... By Charles Dunning

SCOTTIE SPEAKS

Seems I don't know what to say,
Cause I'm the dog that had her day.
Other dogs don't have such fame;
That's since none to college came.
They can't proudly lead a band
In the town or to its stand,
Ever feeling very grand.

Scotties everywhere that day,
All cut out from paper gay—
You who nickels on me spent
Seemed to be where'er I went.

That review was quite the tops.
Honestly, there were no flops.
And the ECHO, Council too,
Now my thanks I give to you,
Knowing what for me you do.

You who robbed your piggy banks,
Or in my review played pranks,
Unto all I say it, "THANKS!"

FROM SCOTTIE-GAL,
YOUR LITTLE PAL.

Many Girls Active In Point System

Four girls' basketball teams will enter into competition next week when the girls' point system basketball tournament gets under way. Two freshmen teams, one soph team, and a junior-senior aggregation will start play on Tuesday of next week.

The two freshman teams, the Orange and the Garnet will battle this coming Tuesday in the Alumni gym for the privilege of playing the sophomores on Thursday. On Tuesday, December 8, the winning freshmen team will play the combined junior-senior forces and on Thursday, December 10, the sophs will meet the junior-senior entry. All games will be played at 4:15.

The game on Thursday the tenth will be the last point system event for the semester. Swimming, track, and baseball are some of the sports scheduled for the second semester.

Theta Schedules Musical Program

Theta Epsilon society will have its next meeting on Saturday at 6:15 p.m. in Theta hall.

An interesting variety program will be presented: Betty Jean Kennedy will entertain with a monologue; Harry Lyle will play several piano selections; George Devereaux will sing, accompanied at the piano by Harry Lyle.

As part of the year's program of activities, the Theta society includes various useful projects. The Theta members cooperated this week in contributing Thanksgiving baskets to needy families. In cooperation with the YWCA, Theta Epsilon has planned a Christmas party for under-privileged children. The party will be held in the YW rooms on December 6, at which time each child will receive a gift from his Theta sister.

SPORT ECHOS

By SID DUKE

ALPHA AND OMEGA . . .

To Bob Morton, the blond bullet, goes the distinction of scoring Maryville's first and last touchdowns of the 1941 season. Against Hiwassee, Bob started the fireworks with a twelve yard scoring trek. Against the Carolina Teachers, young Mr. Morton put the lid on a very successful season as he marked up a final seven yard touchdown thrust. Strangely enough, the two scores came on the same identical play—the always dependable reverse in which the tailback hands the leather to the wingback, who cuts through his own left tackle and heads for pay dirt.

HEAD OF THE CLASS . . .

A late release of Williamson's national football ratings assigns to the Scotties a score of 74.8, which places our heroes well up the list. For instance, U-T is considered worth only a 90, while Maryville is given an edge over such well-known and much-feared elevens as Roanoke, Lenoir-Rhyne, Bowdoin, Slippery Rock, Howard-Payne, and Milligan. The only non-professional team in this section considered better than the Highlanders is King, good for 75.2 points.

Frankly, we have never been able to understand how these football professors figure out their mysterious ratings for hundreds of teams they have never seen, but any system that puts Maryville ahead of these teams and Carson-Newman is okeh with us!

ARITHMETIC DEPARTMENT . . .

A glance at the gridiron statistics for the late football season shows that Lloyd Taylor, Maryville's swivel-hipped halfback, led the scoring parade with a total of 48 points. Runner-up was Ollie Spears, who added 28 points to the ledger. The complete record:

	TD	EP	S	Total
Taylor	8	0	0	48
Spears	3	10	0	28
Lattimore	4	0	0	24
Honaker	2	8	0	20
Morton	2	0	0	12
Pepper	2	0	0	12
Webb	1	0	1	8
Shelfer	1	1	0	7
Cloninger	1	0	0	6
Hooker	1	0	0	6
Murr	1	0	0	6
Rock	1	0	0	6
Brand	1	0	0	6
TOTAL				189

SIX PLUS ONE EQUALS SEVEN . . .

Though none of their games were close enough to be decided by one point, one of the strongest features of the Scotties' attack was the dependable place-kicking of Oliver Spears and Ross Honaker. While scoring 28 touchdowns, the Highlanders managed to mark up no less than 18 extra points, seventeen of these being booted from placement by the above-mentioned gents with the educated toes. Spears converted ten times in fifteen attempts, while Honaker made good eight of his twelve tries. The other extra point came on a pass from Spears to Shelfer, and was scored in the Hiwasee game.

GRUNT AND GROAN . . .

Now that the grid season is a thing of the past, attention has turned to the antics of Coach J. D. Davis' state champion wrestlers, who are holding daily workouts in Bartlett. Four lettermen are gone from last year's team—Clem Hahn, Wood Everett, Hal Henschen, and Phil Evaul. Every one of these four men was a great state champion, and it's going to take lots of hard work and lots of luck to replace them. But wrestling is a sport in which Maryville always comes up with a good team, and the chances are that the Scottie matmen will manage to win more than one match before the year is over. Time trials are to be held before the Christmas vacation, and it is then that prospects will begin to take more definite shape.

HARDWOOD DOINGS . . .

Basketball workouts are also being held more or less regularly under the watchful eye of Coach Honaker. Prospects are none too bright in this sport, for the only experienced men returning are lettermen Menning and Lillard, and squadmen Sweeney, Roseborough, and Meineke. Captain Menning, who directed preliminary practice sessions while Coach Honaker was still occupied with football, has been showing up well. Lillard has also looked good for this stage of the season. Sweeney, who is being counted on heavily, has been out with a sprained ankle, but is now rounding into shape.

Maryville Mudders Massacre W. Car. Teachers In Sloppy Saturday Skirmish

Hooker, Shelfer Play Superb Ball in Last Game at Maryville

The 1941 edition of the Maryville Highlanders ended their most successful season in recent years when they sloshed over a Western Carolina Teacher eleven 33-2. The Scots completely "whitewashed" the Catamounts from Cullowee with a thick layer of black mud. The game, played before one of the smallest crowds ever to gather on Wilson Field, was a very damp affair with both teams becoming unrecognizable after one period of play.

The Scots, who entered the game slight favorites, found a weakness in the Teacher forewall early in the first period. Cloninger, Taylor, and Spears hammered over tackle and around end for long gains to carry the ball deep into Carolina territory. Taylor finally scored from the 4 on a spinner to the left. Honaker was rushed into the game for the conversion but the soggy pigskin was low and short of the bar.

A timely recovery of a Teacher fumble by Les Rock in the last of the first quarter set up the second Scottie touchdown. As the second quarter started, Pepper, the "quick like a bunny" runner, scampered 20 yards to the Carolina 5 yard line before he bogged down in the mud. Not waiting for a huddle, Ross Honaker took the ball across on a cleverly-performed quarterback sneak. Spears' kick was good, making the score 13-0, where it remained until the half. Walt Proffitt, Cloninger, and Richards were outstanding in both first half drives.

In the second half, Coach Honaker turned the powerful little Sammy Lattimore loose. Sammy probably functioned better in the mud than he had all season. Again and again he received the ball and smashed through the Carolina line. Time after time his powerful legs churned the mud as he skidded for valuable gains through the center of the line. Graham was another back who picked up a lot of yardage. He averaged four yards every time he carried the ball. Only the beautiful punting of Reese for the visitors kept the Scotties back in their own territory. Reese got off a pretty spiral with the heavy ball that traveled back to the Scottie 15. Taylor, who was waiting there for it, grabbed the slippery pigskin, tucked it under his arm, and started stepping. He was hit several times but he just wouldn't go down. He reversed his field, ran through the entire opposing team, and legged it for pay dirt. But the Carolina safety man dodged the interference and dragged Lloyd down on the 10 yard line. Spears took the ball and hit the diagonals on the next play. The kick was good. Thus, in two plays the Scots had marched 85 yards for a touchdown—on Taylor's beautiful 75 yard jaunt and on Spears' off tackle slant.

The Highlanders scored twice in the final period. A bit of razzle-dazzle produced the first. With the whole opposing team being sucked to the left on a beautifully-executed fake, Tub Murr, chunky guard, came up with the ball and waddled 37 yards around right end to score.

With a second and third string line starring against the discouraged Catamounts, the Scottie backfield charged back down the sea of mud. This time Morton tallied on a left end reverse from the 11. Spears' kick was good giving the Highlanders a 33 point lead. The Teacher points came at the very end of the contest when the Catamount line charged in and blocked a Scottie punt. The slippery ball bounded over the end zone for an automatic safety and 2 points.

Roberts, Leagen, Shuford and Reese stood out for the visitors while the entire Maryville squad proved themselves capable. Wiley, reserve end, snagged a number of good tackles as did Proffitt, Kramer, and Herzberger. Webb and Rock both played outstanding defensive ball at the wing spots and Hooker and Shelfer, only seniors, played superb football to end successfully four years of intercollegiate football at Maryville. Statistics show plainly the superior strength of the Scotties:

	M-C	W-C
Yds. gained from scrimmage	299	48
First downs	15	0
Ave. distance punts	39.5	36.8
Penalties (dist.)	10	10
Fumbles	3	4
Fumbles recovered	4	3
Passes tried	1	2

McDaniel Leads Six Lettermen In Daily Practice

Led by Capt. Dave McDaniel, Coach Davis' state championship wrestlers have begun to hold daily practice sessions in the Bartlett wrestling room. Five other lettermen have reported for practice—Warren Culver, Horace Justus, Dick Boyd, Ken Ross, and Bill McCord. Other old men who are being counted on include Joe Suitor, Andy Richards, Mel Gaughan, and Mac Wilson.

Due to the loss of five lettermen from last season's squad, including four state champs, the Scottie matmen will face a long uphill fight to retain the title that they have held

Large Cast To Portray Life on Ole Man River

Frank (Billy Rose) Miller Heads Big Water Exhibition

Next Saturday evening, December 6, the eighth annual Water Carnival, entitled "Steamboat Daze" will be presented in the swimming pool at 8:00.

The swimming carnival which is a benefit performance for the swimming team, will be an exciting and humorous affair, portraying the life that prevailed around the Mississippi River in the 1850's. In accordance with this setting, a steamboat will enter the swimming pool carrying on it a boatload of southern gentlemen, graceful ladies, rough and ready sailors, uncouth farmers, and almost every type of person that was to be found along the Mississippi in the age of the steamboats.

Along with these types of people, "darkies" will be found and will be one of the features of the evening as they present a lively minstrel show and sing old fashioned songs. Other features in the performance will be a real strawberry blond, a serious and comic diving exhibition, a bathing revue, several water formations, and Phil Vance and his orchestra.

Dudley Moore is in charge of the carnival. Appearing in the show will be Edith George, Jean Boyd, Carol and Jean McCutcheon, Betty Dyer, Winifred Sommers, Louise Moughton. The boys' swimming team will all appear in the cast: Allan Moore, Frank Cress, Ray Schwartzback, Frank Miller, Dud Moore, Stanley Crews, T. Smith, George Beal, Charles Colville Arthur Elwell, Jimmy Hogue, Melvin Malone, William May, Bill Sieber, William Roberson, Ken Waggett, and Horace Scherer.

Tickets will be on sale next week in the Chatterbox and at the Bookstore.

Footballers Feast

Approximately twenty-two football men will be awarded letters at the annual football banquet which is to be held on Tuesday, December 2, at 7:00 in the college dining hall. The entire football squad is invited to attend along with the managers and coaches. Other guests will be the coaches and captains of the county high schools.

The football banquet is held each year after the season has closed for the purpose of choosing next year's captain and announcing the names of the men who have lettered. This year's banquet will be an especially gala one because of the excellent record compiled by the 1941 team.

INTRAMURAL DOPE

VOLLEYBALL—

As is always true when an intramural sport closes its current season, this department's interest swung back to the sport closing now—volleyball. Yesterday's (Friday, Nov. 28) games concluded the scheduled 1941 intramural volleyball season and left the results pretty definite in one league and not so much so in another. It was Ben Jonson who said: "When two teams win and lose same number of games, their percentages same," all of which has led to a terrific tie-up in the Club League between the Faculty and Athenian. Two of the scheduled games have been postponed until Monday and Wednesday of next week; both of them involve Athenian and therefore the League championship. But more of such patter in a minute. Results for the past week look like this:

Friday, November 21—

Dwarfs 2, Outcasts 0—The independent Dwarfs with Ted Pratt, Bud Pierce, Chuck Foreman, Horace Justus, and several other husky spikers have about cinched the championship in their league. They took the Outcasts in two straight, 15 to 6, 15 to 6, by playing the same sort of ball they've been playing. The Outcasts are a peppy and game bunch, however, and they traveled around knocking them back at no negligible rate. It's one case in which the underdog deserves some cheering.

Y Cabinet 2, 45's 0—The 45's forfeited to th Y Cabinet and gave them two straight games without even trying.

Ministerial 2, Choir 0—The Choir forfeited to the Preachers, so no scores were chalked up.

Faculty 2, Alpha Sig 0—That Club League threat, the bay-windowed but powerful Faculty team took over the Alpha Sig society men in two straight games, 15 to 9, and 15 to 4. Alpha Sig went into the fray determined to win and kept hustling with that determination during both games. But the Faculty simply had (as usual) too much on the ball. Dr. Case would serve it over, it might come back, Hovel would hit it, Pieper would set it up, and Fischbach would spike it away. And when Case serves it and Fischbach puts it away, it's goodbye opponents. Bob Miller looked good for the losers.

Wednesday, November 26—

Spark Plugs 2, Outcasts 0—In two games, the first one about as close as they come, the independent Spark Plugs downed the likewise Outcasts 15 to 13 and 15 to 6. But after dropping the first game the Outcasts weren't able to keep up their pace and lost the second by getting less than half as many points as they did in the first. It was one of those matches where enthusiasm runs high and the pep's up, and it's great stuff to watch, when you know what's at stake for each team.

Dwarfs 2, 45's 0—The 45's repeated their forfeit stunt again—the second this week—and handed two games to the League leaders.

Faculty 2, Choir 0—Here was a peach to watch! True, the Faculty went according to form and took two straight, 15 to 5 and 15 to 11, but Dr. Case was absent from the line-up, and—believe it or not—Prof. Colbert was in the line-up for the Choir! It was even closer than usual. It was a bay-window battle! As usual, however, Coach Fischbach and Prof. Pieper sparked the winners, and Dr. Collins, Mr. Hovel, and Mr. Dollenmayer did themselves noble. Among others Smith, Miller, and Hunter were in there for the losers.

On Wednesday of this week Athenian was supposed to play the Ministerials, but because of more special things that evening the game was postponed until Monday of next week. If Athenian wins that match they will be tied up with the Faculty for first place in the Club League. But Athenian and the Faculty were scheduled to play against each other on Friday, yesterday, of this week. Because that game may be tops in importance, senior manager Curt Wright announced yesterday that it was to be postponed until Wednesday of next week, after the Athenian-Ministerial game on Monday.

So we've a couple of post-season games in volleyball. If Athenian loses to the Ministerials, the Faculty should have the League championship cinched; but if Athenian wins on Monday, Wednesday's game will be the deciding factor as to top honors. It'll be worth watching!

In the Independent League one team has been outstanding—the Dwarfs. They've had a good group of players from the beginning of the season and have left little room for doubt as to the outcome of their league race. The question now is, how will the Dwarfs look in an interleague game with either Athenian or Faculty? They may find it a different situation from what they've been used to.

There is question in the Intramural office about when the volleyball playoff will come. It may be saved for the Intramural Festival in early March, or it may come off shortly before Christmas holidays. Yesterday Coach Fischbach and Curt Wright were not prepared to make any definite announcement about it.

PING-PONG—

Intramural ping-pong was wading through the busy first round of the tournament this week with well over 20 matches to be played. They were to have been completed by last night, Friday, November 28, and the second round to start immediately. Casual observation shows the interesting and fully expected fact that Oliver Van Cise is still in the running after having taken his first match in good order. Real threats other than Oliver will not show up until the completion, at least, of the second round.

The playing will continue next week, and it is then that the going will become tough for those still in it.

BASKETBALL—

Special attention is called to the fact that all basketball entry blanks must be filled out, signed, and returned to the intramural office by Friday, December 12. Curt Wright said yesterday that to date four teams have registered; he urged that all who are expecting to manage teams get blanks from the office as soon as possible. The good material goes fast.

NOTICE

The second payment for the Chilhowean will be due Tuesday, December 2. It is for $2.00 and will be collected at the entrance to the Treasurer's office after 3:00 on Tuesday and Wednesday.

Miss Johnson To Read Poetry to YM

On Sunday, November 30, the YMCA will hold its regular meeting in Bartlett auditorium at 5:00.

Miss Jessie K. Johnson will read a collection of poems to which she has given the general title of "Finding God in Times of National Crises." Miss Johnson is well known for her ability to give readings, and all are urged to attend the program which she will present.

The Y also wishes to express its appreciation for the splendid group that attended the joint YM-YW Thanksgiving service of which Dr. W. P. Stevenson had charge.

for so many years. The schedule opens on January 18 with a match between Maryville and Illinois State. On February 12, the Scotties will encounter Illinois University. Tennessee, Vanderbilt, and the Knoxville Y will make up the opposition for the title fight.

Andy Richards and Mac Wilson are the only heavyweights on the squad. Richards wrestled in several intercollegiate bouts last season, and is being counted on to roll up several points for his mates this year. Wilson, who is rather light for a heavyweight, has also been showing up well in practice due to his speed.

Joe Suitor, who has had lots of intercollegiate experience, is being counted on for the 175 pound division, and has been handling one and all in early practice sessions. Lloyd Anderson, freshman, appears to have the makings of a good wrestler and will probably compete in the 175 lb. class or in the next lighter division.

In the 165 class is Bob Morton, freshman flash from Kenmore, N. Y., who wrestled on his high school team and who seems to be able to hold his own in any college competition.

Maryville boasts a wealth of experience in the middleweight divisions. Culver and Ross are now weighing around 150 pounds, while Boyd, Justus, McCord, and McDaniel weigh about 145 or under. McDaniel, known as one of the fastest and most dangerous middleweights in Tennessee, is especially feared. In fact, Dave is tabbed by some observers as the man to beat for the state title in the 145 class.

Mel Gaughan, 121 pounder, will have the task of filling state champ Phil Evaul's shoes. Gaughan, in spite of his size, has been showing up well against much heavier men.

Time trials will be held some time before Christmas in order that Coach Davis may have some idea of how the squad is shaping up. There are quite a number of freshmen working out, but there is plenty of room for new material—especially in the heavier weight divisions. Any man who is interested in wrestling is urged to report to Coach Davis or Manager Percy Martin, whether he has had any experience or not.

Soph Registration Begins Monday

Freshmen Must Register Between December 12-18

For over the past week registration has been proceeding at the Personnel Office under the direction of Dr. Frank D. McClelland, Dean of Students. Today marked the last day for juniors to fill out their registration cards in order to avoid paying the late registration fee of $2.50.

Beginning Monday, December 8, and extending through Friday, December 12, is the time indicated for sophomore registration; following Friday and lasting until Thursday, December 18, freshmen can register. Students registering after the dates indicated as the final time will be charged the late registration fee of $2.50.

Registration cards, after being filled out and approved, are to be left at the Personnel Office. Those who wish to pay bills before the holiday vacation, may do so at the Treasurer's office during regular student hours. The regular time for payment of bills at the Treasurer's office will be from 1:30 to 5:00 each afternoon, January 6-9. Registration cards will be on file at the Treasurer's office during that time. Those paying bills after noon on January 10 will be charged the late payment fee of $5.00.

The Student-Help office will be open for those who wish to make arrangements and sign their note before vacation.

The procedure for sophomores is somewhat different from that of juniors and seniors due to a change in certain factors. The Personnel office has issued the following directions: "'Make out your tentative schedule card for next semester, checking carefully with the requirements as listed in the Student's Record booklet which was given to you last spring. The subjects you are now carrying should be entered in the booklet. Show your Student's Record to your major adviser, who will check and approve your schedule. Then return your schedule card, with your Student's Record, to the Personnel Office for registration during the time indicated."

The regular day for necessary changes in schedules for all students after registration will be Tuesday, January 13. Class attendance will be required from the first day of the second semester, January 7. Absences will be reported according to class rolls made up from the registration cards. The usual penalties will apply for absences on the first two days after a recess.

'Committee Of 100' Dinner To Be Held

Maryville College's Committee of One Hundred will celebrate its second anniversary Thursday, December 11. A dinner will be served at Pearsons hall at 7:00 Thursday evening. Messrs. Joe C. Gamble, Albert D. Huddleston, and David W. Proffitt form the committee in charge of the affair.

The Committee of 100 was formed in November, 1939, for the purpose of promoting the College's New Forward Fund. Results of the work of this organization have already been seen in the many improvements around the campus.

Dr. Pugh To Speak At Chapel Service

Executive Heads Church Activities

Rev. Dr. William Barrow Pugh, of Philadelphia, Stated Clerk and Executive Head of the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A., will be the chapel speaker on Wednesday morning, December 10.

Dr. Pugh holds the principal permanent office in the Presbyterian denomination. In his capacity as Stated Clerk he is secretary of various departments of the denomination; also he is secretary of the Western Section of the Alliance of Reformed Churches Throughout the World Holding the Presbyterian System and American Secretary for the World Alliance; he is secretary of the Board of Trustees of Princeton Theological Seminary; and is a member of the national committee handling the whole question of chaplains and religious leadership in the American armed forces. Dr. Pugh himself holds the rank of Lieutenant Colonel in the Chaplain Corps, having been a chaplain in France in the first World War and having spent part of the past year in camp with one of the divisions in Pennsylvania. Before appointment as Stated Clerk of the General Assembly, Dr. Pugh served as a pastor in Philadelphia and Chester, Pa.

Dr. Pugh holds the B.A. degree from the University of Pennsylvania, the M.A. degree from Princeton University, is a graduate of Princeton Theological Seminary, and holds honorary doctor's degrees from various institutions.

NOTICE

Classes WILL be held as usual on the morning of Saturday, December 13th.

'Messiah' Will Be Given December 14

WROL To Air Part Of Annual Program

The annual presentation of Handel's "Messiah" will be given Sunday, December 14. One hour of the three hour program will be broadcast over WROL. The college radio station will put the chorus on the air at 3:00 and the program will be picked up anywhere from 3:00 to 3:30. If the schedule can be worked out, it is possible, however, that the program will be a full hour and a half long.

There will be a five minute intermission during which some member of the faculty will give a short history of the part that the "Messiah" has played annually at Maryville just preceding the Christmas holidays. The tradition and custom of this program will also be considered.

There will be no radio vespers on this day nor tomorrow, because the Knoxville Symphony Concert will be broadcasting, and in order to give them all the time possible, the radio vespers service has been cancelled.

Church Groups of North and South To Convene

President Lloyd Is Chairman of Northern Committee

On Tuesday and Wednesday, December 9 and 10, there will be held in Knoxville a meeting of the joint committee representing the Presbyterian church in the U.S.A. (Northern) and the Presbyterian church in the U.S. (Southern). This committee has been appointed to explore a plan on which a possible reunion of the churches might be made. There will be five persons from each denomination.

President Lloyd of Maryville College is the chairman of the committee representing the Presbyterian church in the U.S.A., and President Currie of Austin Theological Seminary, Austin, Texas, is chairman of the committee representing the Southern Presbyterian church. Serving with President Lloyd on this committee of the Northern Presbyterian church are Rev. Dr. William B. Pugh of Philadelphia, Stated Clerk of the church; Rev. Dr. Lewis S. Mudge of Philadelphia, former Moderator and former Stated Clerk of the church; Rev. Dr. Joseph A. Vance of Detroit, Mich., former Moderator of the church; Rev. Dr. Henry S. Brown, vice-president of Princeton Theological Seminary; and Honorable Ralph T. Finley, attorney of St. Louis, Missouri.

Other members of the Southern Presbyterian committee are Rev. Dr. E. T. Wellford, of Newport News, Virginia; Judge P. F. Henderson of Aiken, South Carolina; President Frank H. Caldwell of the Louisville Theological Seminary; and Colonel Willis M. Everett of Atlanta.

The meetings will be held in the Andrew Johnson Hotel, Knoxville.

Carols Will Be Amplified From Anderson Tower

During the Christmas holidays and a few days before vacation begins, Christmas chimes and Christmas carols will be hard from Anderson's bell tower. The amplifying system has been moved from the football field to Anderson, with connections in the publicity office, and this is where the music will originate.

It was prevously planned to be for the benefit of Maryville residents during the holidays, but due to numerous requests by students, the amplifyers have been installed and will soon be heard.

During the holidays, music will be played from 3:30 to 6:00 in the evening and at about 10:00 at night. The music will not be continuous, but will be played at intervals. This is the inauguration of a program which is hoped will become a custom here.

Xmas Program To Be Given Next Thursday

Organ Selections And Play Will Compose Program

At 8:00 on the night of Thursday, December 11, the Christmas program will be presented in the chapel. The program this year is to be divided in two parts. Part one will be organ selections played by Professor Katherine Davies. The second part of the program will be "The Birds Christmas Carol," directed by Mrs. West and produced by Dramatic Art class 309. The entire program will last but one hour. There will be no admission charge.

The following selections played by Professor Davies will make up the first part of the program:

Christmas Pastorale—Bach-Hanlein.

Where Wild Judea Stretches Far—R. S. Stoughton.

March of the Magi Kings—T. H. DuBois.

Noel Polonais, variations on an ancient Polish Christmas carol—Alexander Guilmant.

The cast of the "Birds Christmas Carol" by Kate Douglas Wiggins is as follows: Mrs. Ruggles, Elizabeth Glover; the Ruggles children, Johnnye Hellums, Troye Moore, Helen Airheart, Betty Clevenger, George Tibbetts, Betty Winter, Ellen Pascoe, Rachel Smith, and David Ramsey; Mrs. Bird, Ruth Sutherline; Carol, June Morley; Elfrida, Bette Jean Kennedy. The stage manager for the play is Virginia Berg.

The action of the play takes place in four scenes. Scenes 1 and 4 take place in the Bird's home. Scenes 2 and 3 take place in the Ruggles' home. Mrs. West is the reader. The play will be presented in the same general manager that Dickens' "Christmas Carol," was presented other years, without sets.

THIRTEEN STUDENTS TAKE RECITAL PARTS

Thirteen students of music were presented by their professors, Miss Davies, Mr. Colbert, and Miss Horne, in a recital yesterday afternoon in Voorhees Chapel. Those participating were: Al Flowers, Frances Smith, Frances Harris, Marcia Keirn, Willa Reed, Jessie Reed, Estelle Farrow, Johnnye Sue Long, Florence Barber, David Kidder, Ruth Duggan, and Louise Marshall.

Piano and organ numbers were played by pupils of Miss Davies; vocal numbers were sung by pupils of Mr. Colbert; violin numbers were played by Miss Horne's pupils.

Prof. Hovel Will Present Vocal Program Saturday

The Bainonian and Athenian societies will hold a joint program in the YW rooms at 6:30 on Saturday. A rare and interesting program will be presented.

The guest of the evening will be Mr. R. M. Hovel, instructor in German, who will entertain with these vocal selections:

Vainement, Ma bien-aimee (from the opera Le Roi d'Ys) by Edouard Lalo; Am Feiersbend by Franz Schubert; Blue Are Her Eyes by Wintter Watts. He will be accompanied by David Kidder.

The musical accomplishments of Mr. Hovel are extensive. He won first place among out-of-town contestants at the contest of Chicago Musical Fesival. With several students he received an audition from Professor Graham Reed, one of the best vocal teachers in the world. Last March he won the state contest at the National Federation of Music clubs, Nashville, Tenn.

At the end of the program refreshments will be served.

Dr. Verton M. Queener To Speak at YM Sunday

Dr. V. M. Queener, chairman of the Division of Social Sciences, will be the speaker at the YM meeting this Sunday afternoon, December 2. The meeting will be held in Bartlett auditorium at 5:00, and will be the last regular YM meeting of the current semester.

Sixteen Varsity Debaters Selected In Annual Tryouts

Pictured above are Janet Lindsay, Lucille Lynch, and Henry Wick, who are beginning their fourth year of college debating, and their second year in Pi Pappa Delta.

Fine Art Lovers Bound For Ballet

Students who are attending the University Concert Series this year in Knoxville, will be going to see the "Ballet Russe" next Monday night. They will leave the campus at 6:30 in special busses, and will be chaperoned by members of the faculty in the Fine Arts division. This is the first in the series for this year.

Dr. Hunter To Lead IRC's Class

Following Class IRC Will Meet

Next Monday evening at 7:00, Dr. E. R. Hunter, Dean of Curriculum, will conduct the Current Events Class which will hold its weekly meeting in the Y rooms. This will be the last meeting of the semester. A panel discussion constituted the program the previous week with the proceedings led by three students, Phyllis Anne Cain, Henry, and Roy Crawford.

Following the class a short meeting of the International Relations Club will be held for the purpose of deciding the activities of the club during next semester, and whether or not the Current Events Class shall be continued. Both the charter members and those recently elected are urged to attend.

Writers' Workshop Elects 6 Members

Semester's Best Readings Selected

At the last meeting of the Writers' Workshop for this semester Carl Alette, Anne Gammon, Cathron Hobbs, Mary Agnes Carter, Ollie Welsh, and Aura Santiago were elected to membership. The Workshop members also voted on the best selections of the semester. The pieces that were selected were Joe Dickinson's "Autobiography of A Brick Building," "Rhythmic Prose" by Miss Elizabeth H. Jackson, Miss Mary Kellar's "Interludes in a Day's Work,' "Parodies of Richard Cory" by Dr. Edwin R. Hunter, Carl Pierce's "Partial Autobiography of a Low-Priced Car", and "Eclipse" by Jean Barnes.

The readers at the last meeting were Edith Monroe, who read a play entitled "Thirteen Hours," and Ted Pratt, whose reading was a short story, "Mountain Manhunt." Janet Lindsay was the critic at this meeting.

On Monday afternoon at 4:00 a very brief business meeting will be held to discuss the workshop page for the Chilhowean. Both old and newly-elected members are urged to be present.

The Ministerials will hold an important meeting next Thursday night in Athenian hall to elect next year's officers. All ministerial students are urged to attend.

Lindsay, Lynch, Wick Begin 4th Debate Year

Pi Kappa Delta Topic Announced At First Meeting

Last Saturday afternoon following try-outs for places on the varsity debate squad, the top eight boys were announced. On Monday, December 1, the girls' tryouts were held with a resulting selection of eight. On the varsity squad for the first time are seven sophomores, Bill Evans, Hal Lloyd, Ben Lynt, Paul Jamarik, Muriel Geisler, Kay Liddell, and Mary Wintermute. Five of these were on the freshman team last year. Two new juniors are Margaret Clippinger and Ed Rowley.

Three of the recently selected members, Janet Lindsay, Lucille Lynch, and Henry Wick, are embarking upon their third year of varsity debate. This makes the second year for the remaining four, Frank Cross, Charles Foreman, Phyllis Anne Cain and Natalie Yelton. These sixteen were chosen from a class of thirty-three which has met bi-weekly this semester for training in speech work.

The judges for both events were Miss Harriet Miller, Dr. David H. Briggs, Mr. Archibald Pieper, to whom tea was served by the local Pi Kappa Delta chapter in the mid-afternoon of both days.

Professor Verton M. Queener, debate coach, supervised the general proceedings. Trying out singly the participants used the question: Resolved, that the federal government should regulate by law all labor unions in the United States.

The first meeting of the squad was held on Tuesday night, December 2, in the debate room. At this time the national Pi Kappa Delta question which will be used for the coming semester was announced. It will be: Resolved, that the nations should establish after the war a federation based on the eight Roosevelt-Churchill principles. This question will be used in all tournaments which the squad will enter with the exception of the Southern Tournament to be held in Atlanta, Ga.

Other tourneys in which Maryville will probably participate are the Men's Smoky Mountain, at Tusculum College; Women's Smoky Mountain, Virginia Interment College; the State Tournament held this year at Cumberland University, in Lebanon, Tenn.; and the Grand Eastern at Winthrop College, Rock Hill, S.C.

With the early start resulting from a lack of interference by examinations after Christmas and with a full squad, varsity debate is looking forward to a promising and active season.

Dr. Ralph Collins Guest Speaker At Disc Club

Dr. Ralph S. Collins, associate professor of German and French, was the guest speaker at the Disc Club Thursday night. He commented on the records of Brahm's Variation on a Theme and the Viennese Choir Boys.

This meeting was the last Disc Club meeting for the semester and a large crowd was present. This club has the honor of being the largest on the hill and its membership is steadily increasing. In addition to its other duties the club is also responsible for the Wednesday night supper music.

Santa Claus Is Coming--- But So Are Final Exams

By Jordy Meadows and Paul Kolter

Only twelve more days until Christmas vacation begins. On the Maryville College campus that means various and sundry things. For the frosh it will, in all probability, mean a general rush for the only bottle of India ink in the dorm. Bible charts are due and a budding crop of artists will soon be discovered. Some of them are already making hopeful plans to stay up all night and get the whole thing done in one grand and glorious rush. It's a great life—or it will be after they learn.

With exams coming in about a week, what subjects do you think are being studied most? History? French? Sociology? Chemistry? No, a thousand times no. The two most studied subjects in Maryville College at the present time are the calendar and the time table.

Say you enter the room across the hall and see the students poring over a lesson. You hear them counting 10, 11, 12. Ah, studying math—for a change. Wrong again, just counting the days until vacation starts. Why, do you realize it is only 12 days, 6 hours, 20 minutes and 55 seconds until most of us leave for Home Sweet Home. Of course you do, but then we thought we would just remind you of it anyhow. Or, they are studying a time table, and will finally end up by taking it back to the station agent and letting him figure it out.

In the theory of working better under pressure the freshmen are not alone. The lofty sophomores have their worries too. Language book reports are due, and if all of the books that are over fifty pages long are in use the only thing to do is to find someone who has already carefully perused the pages. When the aforementioned linguist has tracked the unsuspecting DAR to his lair, a little shotgun meeting is held—peace reigns. Systematics term themes make everything very clubby around the reference table. So as not to waste a minute of their valuable time while having to wait for a copy of the Reader's Guide, energetic sophs have been found playing Gin Rummy, chess, jacks and even tiddly winks. You meet the most wonderful people in off moments at that table or at the card catalogue.

The juniors seem to have nary a worry in the world. The fact that they have a few term themes due is insignificant beside the fact that some good home-cooking looms just ahead. The eloquence of the seniors waxes strong when they begin to tell of the very few remaining days before they will no longer be taking Ethics. That means only one thing—the time is drawing

Now You See It - - - And Now You Don't

By BEN LYNT

Land never seen by human eyes is now being mapped by its photographed reflection on the moisture-filled sky above, reported Geographer Paul Siple, one of a party with Admiral Byrd at the South Pole. The practical values of this phenomena seem rather remote to us who are so distantly removed from the Polar regions, and, yet, here in this discovery, is brought about a concrete chart which men may plot by, who once had only those intangibles — intuition and imagination to guide them. A bridge between the real and the unreal has thus been built whereon each mortal, even to the humblest freshmen in the no-credit English course at Maryville College, may grope toward that idea which he most cherishes, yet cannot see.

There are those faithful lads who consistently present themselves shaven and in coat-collar-and-tie ensemble for the evening meal, regardless of the discomfort they breed at table among the not-so-clads.

Milk bottles, returned promptly and spotlessly shiny, are rarer than those moon-lit June nights, lavished this week, the first week in December, on all of us.

Lap-boards are meant to be used as Lap-boards, and so they are, by freshmen taking placement exams, and by upper-classmen subjected to similar exams in Ethics. A studied investigation of these boards and the glyphs contained thereon, present further tangible evidence of those things unseen, in this case, often heard and spoken of though—mental struggles which ensue when the instructor mumbles that magical word "Go!" Many hands have made light work and recorded for provincial posterity the previous passage (no pun intended) of other fellow-travelers on the road to scholarship and learning — giving mute evidence of those invisible somethings which hold men's minds together and keep universal faculties intact.

A feeling of general approval was voiced over the fruits of the new paving project in front of the Book store, and noon-day idlers have stood and watched in awe the skillful labors of the campus detail there at work. There is something about fresh cement which attracts and grips one, but—there was an incongruous note struck, when, after Disc Club Thursday evening, in the midst of full moonlight, warm breezes, and Christmas music, the eye chanced upon a workman in the process of re-doing a portion of his day's work by street light, because some one had left un-loved scribblings in the fresh cement as evidence of his inane ideals.

Buildings are important to institutions. Colleges are housed in them, and rather well, we feel, in our own case. Thaw hall with its columns and stately proportions and inspiring evening shadows is a part of this particular institution of higher learning, without which we would not feel complete. We would not have one such building removed, or even think of Maryville as being complete without the library and its impressive stacks of books, giving evidence unmistakably that we are possessed of a quest for knowledge, and that others who passed this way before us were likewise

In Passing—

The grass is always greener.....the more you eat, the more you want .....give us a foot and we'll take a mile.....You can always quote lines like that about people like us; but we can reply with the idea (there probably is a famous quotation to the same effect) that if you don't progress, you go backward. Be that as it may, there are several items we'd like to mention in passing—just a few acknowledgements and suggestions we feel are appropos to the time and place. What is your opinion concerning them?

To begin with, we'll mention our gratitude for the new walk that has been made to accomodate those people who find it necessary to travel along the front of Thaw hall. It's MUCH better. And that improvement has made Pearson students sit upand take hope that there might be a chance for another touching up of a weak spot. To be more specific, when it rains, most of the girls have to don hip boots to make it from the dormitory to their side entrance of Thaw hall. The change there may not be immediate, but there's always a hope.

And, along the same line, we'd like to thank those responsible for the filling in of the road just in front of the post office. It's almost unbelievable what a place like that was, in time of rain, can do to a just-cleaned-and-pressed formal. And that, again, brings up the problem of the plowed-up territory between Pearsons and the Chatterbox. Not that it's especially unlovely or unloved; it' just so unhandy for walking.

Something commendatory certainly should be said about the comfortable feeling we get from the semester's ending by the Christmas holidays. It's a wonderful idea, and we hate to mar it by further suggestion. Yet we'd like to merely say that, the possibility of doing away with exams entirely being out, the next best thing would be a longer term, which would give a little more spread to the exam schedule. Learning THREE semester courses in one night is almost too much.

And thanks to the past rainfall for turning out the blackout. That could mean tower lights for he Christmas celebration.

Couldn't it?

Extra, Extra! You want to see our version of a big city newspaper? And it costs you only a cent and a half a serving.

We haven't been able to unearth any front page news; so we might just as well start at the back page, say with a nice juicy death notice or something. Carnegie guardian angels have requested we print a lowing obituary for one of the three celebrities featured in last week's turtle section. Dopey the Red has wandered from Oliver Kreesler's and Charley Colville's vitamin D room. 'N he just hain't no more, poor dope.

Joke section. And don't tell us we're wise to label it; it tickled the sleep out of a whole "f" period class; so it sure is funny. Psychology class was discussing the future status of marriage. Dr. Briggs reminded the class that the book said that the time may come when marriage will be based on reason rather than emotion. Teacher: Well, what is guiding Cupid now? Bright little urchin (Anne Halabrin): The draft.

Book review. They're up to sentence one in "And Beat Him When He Sneezes." But they've had hysterics twelve times already; so it must live up to its reputation of the "year's funniest book." It better be good to beat Bob Hope's "hilarious" autobiography, "They Got Me Covered," or break up the gang reading "Blondie."

On the Walter Winchell line. Flash! Coedilemma: What to do when—Jeanne Scheibelle orders a bottle of "dirty" milk at the Chatterbox, it rains on night of full moon, people like Jimmy Smith reportedly chew razor blades just for fun, Mary Jenks gets a whole bushel of delicious apples, Jimmy Evans claims he's Napoleon and has a photograph to prove it, the moldy, little, elongated pooch wandering around the campus has the distinction of being Dr. Hunter's dog's brother. And the whole town's talking about the delovely mermaids in the chorus of Steamboat Daze.

We hear Judith Ann Dollenmayer is almost ready to walk and can count to a hundred already. Mr. Dollenmayer thanked the class for the rattle by saying, "The baby, as far as I can make out, says she likes the rattle."

Cartoon. Aura Santiago getting hoisted up to the transom to heckle somebody, meeting a baby Niagara of water and letting off steam with her special brand of Puerto Rican double talk.

Want Ad Section: Who's gonna help the parlor course kids now? It 'pears as how Ina Jussley is a-goin' t'leave us at the end of this here semester. Can't blame her, but we sure will miss her. Can't think of another person so equipped with unfailing smiles, sympathy, and bandages for exploded-on fingers.

Are you here?

It seemed like a Wright Wilde Knight when we Walkered into the dining Hall Thursday morning; although no moon was Shine-ing on the traditional Meadows and on DeForests. "Good 'Evans!" somebody said, "I can't see a Person. Maybe I'd Best send my waitress a Cable; but she probably wouldn't be able to see to Reed it." So he Preston and soon, Piercing the gloom, he reached his table. But it sure was Hardin difficult. He found it lit by the Wick of one small candle. A chorus of Hayes and O Mize greeted him when he said, "I'm the Duke of Holland, Anderson of a King." (He was always clever of a Summers' morning.) "I Fain Woodword my greeting Moore Proffittably," he said with deep Menning, "but I Cain't (he was a Southerner, sad Case.) He reached for his Glass of fruit juice, but said, "I've never tasted a Fowler drink; besides I'm Aiken for some of them cute hams and eggs." "Cunningham," he said. (He was clever that way.) His waitress was insulted and asked how Cody treat her that way and trifle with her afflictions. But he was a Goodson and, being in an exorbitant mood, was willing to pay an exuberant price for peace. "Glover, come Mair to me," he said. (Grosh, but he was clever.) "I only meant to Kidder," he said; "I just ain't got no Talent with the women." Shucks, and she sure was cute too. She had the sweetest Lindsay-woolsey jacket; the only trouble was she was knitting and had to keep picking the Lynt off her coat. But anyway he Rinkeled up his nose, gave a Hitch to his roommate's tie, and threatened Wisely, "I'll see my Taylor about this." With which he sent her a Garland of Flowers, and wandered to Chappell.

"They call me Buttercup." The above is entitled Low Grade Ore, and wanders down the way of all puns. Plagiaristic, stupid, but irrepressible.

But we're tired of apologizing.

So happy Easter and everything; it won't be Long now.

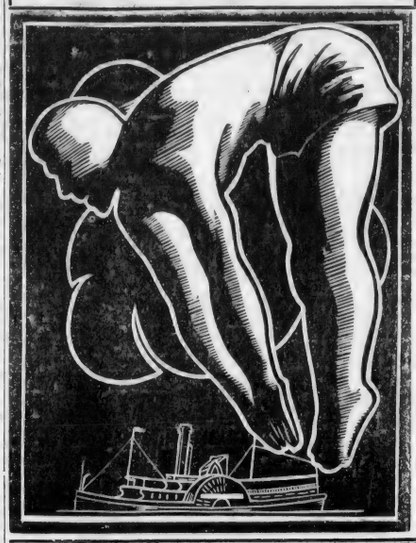
ANTI-STRIKE LEGISLATION
(With Apologies to Varsity Debaters)

Since the outbreak of the spectacular captive coal mine strike and the Lewis-Roosevelt feud, American public opinion has been strongly in favor of passing legislation restricting organized labor to prevent the recurrance of a similar situation. Various bills have been suggested in Congress; among the most important are those bills proposed by Mrs. Mary Norton who is chairman of the House Labor committee, by Senator Connally, by Representative Smith of Virginia.

On Thursday the House passed by a 252-136 majority the Smith Bill, the most drastic of those considered. It embodies the following ideas:

1. It would prohibit mass picketing in defense labor disputes.
2. It would prohibit strikes on union organization issues, such as the closed shop.
3. It would prohibit strikes not sanctioned by a majority of workers at the plant involved, voting secretly under Government supervision.
4 It would require labor unions to register with the government, furnishing data on officials, members and dues.
5. It would establish a statutory mediation system under which strikes could be prohibited during a 60-day cooling off period.
6. It would deprive unions of Wagner Acts benefits for "knowingly or negligently" permitting Communists, Bundists, or felons to hold office.



Those who favor the passage of this bill argue that such violent steps are the only solution to the labor crisis our country is facing. They point to the labor leaders and to the power they possess and maintain that only through rigid legislation can the situation be remedied and our defense program proceed successfully.

These advocates of legislation tell us that labor unions were organized to protect the rights of workers but today they have so overstepped their bounds that the fundamental privileges of workers and of industry are being infringed upon. Citing as proof the fact that Mr. Lewis controlled for a period of time 80 percent of the steel vital to our defense program.

Many opposers of the present state of labor go as far as to say that the basis of the difficulty lies in the internal corruption in the major unions. Quoting Westbrook Pegler they claim the whole system is riddled with Communists and racketeers controlling the lives of the innocent laborers who, they argue, are incapable of solving their own dilemma. Evidence of corruption cited includes the fact that men like Bioff, Bridges, and Browne, actual criminal offenders were allowed to participate in the union activities and share in their leadership up until the time they were actually convicted; that no financial accounting was given at the recent CIO convention; that laborers are forced to join unions by violence; that exorbitant initiation fees and dues are extracted from the workers; that balloting is illegally conducted; that strikes are caused by the leaders and not by the men and that the number of strikes is increasing, and on into the night.

Despite the fact that I agree that many of the evils do exist, I am firmly convinced that legislation is not the solution to the problem, at least not the type that the Smith bill provides. In the first place it would not, as I see it, abolish the evils its defenders so glibly recite. Merely passing a law against strikes does not stop them. It is interesting to note that in democratic countries where strikes were outlawed, Australia, New Zealand, etc., the number of strikes increased rather than decreased. Likewise in the United States during the last war when under the National War Labor Board was set up, there occurred 6,205 strikes in the short period of its existence. Furthermore, legislation could not eliminate the internal corruption of labor unions. A law providing for government registration of officials, dues and membership (section 4 of the Smith Bill) does not necessarily make them any less corrupt.

possessed. It is one great part of the college of which we are justly proud; We feel its importance daily, yet one of the greatest schools of all time was conducted without benefit of building or libraries or other like edifices. That was the school of the Greek philosopher Plato, conducted in the open air of old Athens, and held together by principles unseen, but definitely felt and shared by all who studied at the feet of the instructor.

Books and other possessions are left day after day in the lobby of Pearsons by people confident that their associates are moved by principles of inherent honesty and goodness, and respect for the rights of others.

The new treasurer's office in the rear of Anderson, with its air of quiet dignity, presents a spotless example of further evidence of the unseen principles which are held to be important enough for men to live by.

Paths across the campus green show to the whole outside world where countless "corner-cutters" have trod, who forgot, in their haste, the principles of good taste, fair play, and appreciation of others' rights and privileges.

In these, and countless other little ways, we are prone to present, if only fleetingly, to the world at large, tangible pictures of the invisible spirits which motivate our daily lives. There are other spirits felt here; one can rarely pass the tablet in Anderson's front hall without catching a momentary glimpse of the greatness of the founder of the College. Bit by bit, we begin to feel the Christmas spirit sneaking up on us; evidenced first by the lone candle and wreath in the Bookstore window, then by the carols sung at prayer meeting, next by the library display board, again at Disc Club as the Christmas music of many tongues and nations was heard, and soon, the band will serenade the campus with other Christmas music.

These spirits are contagious; they are held to be the important things in this world; if you don't watch out, they will get a hold of you too.

ONE MORE GLIMPSE

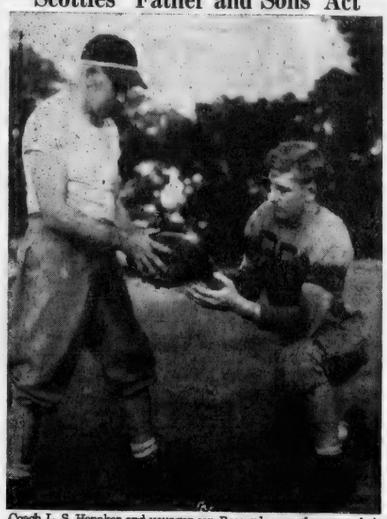
It's too good to leave! That swell football season! Just look at it: M.C. 32, Hiwassee 6; M.C. 47, Union 0; M.C. 16, Transylvania 6; M.C. 7, King 28; M.C. 20, E-H 14; M.C. 7, Carson-Newman 0; M.C. 13, E-T Teachers 0; M.C. 14, Tusculum 6; M.C. 33, W. Carolina Teachers 2.

THANKS!

We think it's about time a little credit is passed out. First, to Coach Honaker, whose untiring energy and effort made possible the successful season. Coach Davis is also to receive a lot of credit for his sincere work with the linemen. His congeniality and ability to make the boys work make him a valuable asset to our coaching staff. Then, to Scott Honaker, '40 co-captain and quarterback, goes a lot of thanks for his faithful work with the team. He gave his time and knowledge without reward in assisting in the coaching of our '41 squad. There are many more to whom thanks and appreciation is due: Vernon Lloyd and Mr. Smith, who had charge of the P.A. and radio work; Prof. Colbert, his band and twirlers; Bill Sweeney and his team of cheer leaders; and Ken Cooper and Don Hopkins, whose efforts made possible the colorful and much-improved football programs this year. There are many others—too many to be named, and their work is appreciated by all of us.

To the entire 1941 Scottie squad goes congratulations for their spirited and good work out on the playing field. Each one deserves much credit for his loyal participation and training.

Congrats go also to the new '42 grid pilots, Les Rock and Jack Kramer. Both Les and Jack are to be congratulated that they have won such distinctions after playing only two years of Maryville football. Captain Rock has played superb ball at his flank position and Co-captain Kramer has been a consistent threat to opposing ball-carriers at his tackle position. It would have been hard to elect more deserving or more capable leaders.



STEAMBOAT DAZE

We stole a look into the water carnival practice theother night and found a large group of energetic aquatic stars in the making. There was a lot of talk about some city slickers, a crap game, and somebody's nightgown, but we're sure there's going to be a little swimming on the side too. (You know—sidestroke!) Anyway, it's looking good!

the other night and found a large group of energetic AT HOME—we find the competition is really going to be tough in the fight for wrestling team berths; the weights are four deep in places!.... little Dave Smith, bright frosh basketballer, seems to be the fastest thing on wheels.... the losers in the ping-pong tournament are sorry that they "pinged" when they should have "ponged".... the anything-but-unprejudiced gallery may have been the reason for the Profs barely losing to the Athenian volleyballers—but it was a great game!

AND ABROAD—we find U-T decided they'd like to spend their Christmas at home this year.... the Duke Blue Devils boast of being the only bowl team with a clean slate! Three have been defeated twice and four have been defeated once. Izzy Wright wants to know if that Bowl bug the sports writers are talking about is any relation to the boll weevil. I quit!

"Our Lombe" in Twentieth Year Of Excellent Coaching At Maryville

Coach, Scott, And Ross Contribute Much To Athletic Dept.

Nineteen twenty-four was a great year in Maryville gridiron annals, for it was in that year that Coach L. S. Honaker came to take charge of the Scottie football destinies. Maryville was hardly a football power when the young coach left his job in Texas to become head Scottie mentor, but in a few short years Honaker was able to mold a team that reigned supreme in Tennessee college circles for a decade or more.

Soon after coming to Tennessee, Coach was instrumental in organizing the Smoky Mountain Conference, a league that Maryville dominated most of the time until its withdrawal last year. It was only two years after the advent of the Honaker regime that the Highlanders, led by a big linesman named Bob Thrower, swept to the championship of the new conference. Still another season, and Maryville came up with a team that was hailed as champion of all Tennessee college football. Led by such luminaries as J. D. Davis, Johnny Stone, and G. McCall, the teams of 1928,

Maryville Mermen, Mermaids Appear Tonight At 8:00

Tonight at 8:00 in the college pool another colorful aquatic show will be presented by Coach Fischbach's swimming team. The team will be ably assisted by a bevy of graceful Maryville mermaids. The water carnival is an annual affair and is one of the most delightful and enjoyable shows of the season. With "Steamboat Daze" as their theme, the cast portrays vividly and amusingly the lazy life on "Ole Man River." The exhibition will be accompanied by the dulcet strains of Phil Vance and his merry musicians featuring Peggy Lawson as the vocalist.

Tickets are being sold at the Bookstore and the Chatterbox. They will also be on sale at the door of the pool tonight. Price is 25 cents—which goes as a benefit to the swimming team for its season expenditures. The pool seats over 350; let's all come out and help the team by enjoying an evening of rhythmic swimming and frolic.

Cagers Open Season Wednesday Against Hiwassee

Under the critical eye of Coach Honaker, the basketball squad has been holding extensive practice sessions in the Alumni gym. Twenty boys are reporting regularly and new players are encouraged to come out immediately if they want to play basketball.

The inexperienced squad is facing two or three games next week and has been working hard on passing, team-play, and shooting. Menning, the only senior, is supported by only two juniors, Sweeney, and Jimmy Smith. Seven sophomores and ten freshmen make up the remainder of the young squad. Again, as in football, it seems that the underclassmen will carry the brunt of the hardwood attack.

The first pre-season game will find the Scots matched with a Jewish independent quintet from Knoxville on Tusday night of next week. The next night, Wednesday, December 10, the Hiwassee Tigers will form the opposition. There is a possibility of another game Saturday night. Although most of the schools in this section have a head start on our basketballers this season, these games should be a fair indication of the power and skill we may expect from the Scottie cagers after the holidays.

Tryouts For Grunt Team To Be Held Wednesday, Dec. 10

With the first match of the season drawing close, Coach Davis has been working his men hard to get them in shape for the coming meet. Only one casualty, the injury to Warren Culver's neck, has popped up to dim the chances of the Highlander grunt-and-groan squad.

'42 SCOTTIE GRID CAPTAINS

INTRAMURAL DOPE

At last we can come out with the winners of the volleyball tournamen in the society league. The Athenians, running true to the dope bucket in topping the Ministers and the upsetting the apple cart in a victory over the Faculty, are by virtue of their twin victories the winners of the club-society division.

You will remember last week's column which said, "So we've a couple of post-season games in volleyball. If Athenian loses to the Ministers, the Faculty should have the league championship clinched; but if Athenian wins on Monday, Wednesday's game will be the deciding factor as to top honors. It'll be worth watching."

Well, briefly that was the picture at this time last week. And true to our word, it was well worth watching. Now let's look behind scenes and get a line on the inner workings of the champion Athenians.

The championship game went to Athenian by 16-14 and 15-3, but not until after some thrillers by both sides. As five o'clock rolled around and the opening whistle was about to blow, side line quarterbacks noticed that both Faculty and Athenian were missing star performers. For the Faculty it was Dr. Case who was forced to the bench with a painful back ailment. And for the underdog Greeks it was Captain Jim Faulkner who was occupied in the Alumni gym with Coach Honaker and the hardwood squad.

Then at the last minute Athenian Faulkner sprinted to the floor, took his place on the front line, and the play-off game got under motion. The Faculty took an early lead on outstanding net spiking by Pieper and Fischbach, assisted by Collins, Davis, Hovel, and Dollenmayer. The Men from Athens just couldn't get up steam and seemed in the dark clutches of despair and defeat.

All at once something struck the Athenians and they worked the count to 13-14, 14-14, and finally took the slim lead 15-14. Then on a super serve by Crawford and some excellent spiking on the front line, Athenian took match point and game 16-14.

From here on it was all Athenian. Sides changed and on the faces of the Brain Trusters could be seen the old do or die. It was just a zip, zip, and an occasional swish and the score stood Athenian 10, Faculty 1. The second game was a mere case of too much Crawford, Faulkner, Culver, Williamson, Van Cise, Watkins, and Wright. The final point gave game, match, and championship to the Athenians.

Same as last week the question is, how will the untested Dwarfs, winners of the independent league title, look in an interleague contest with the Blueblood Champs? O. Roosevelt Van Cise of Athenian seems to sum up popular opinion by his prediction that the Dwarfs will be stunted in the playoffs by 15-3 and 15-1. Be that as it may, it will be interesting to see what the Dwarfs can do to Van Cise's prophecy.

Probable starters in the Athenian-Dwarf championship playoffs on Wednesday are:

ATHENIAN	DWARFS
Faulkner	Rowan
Crawford	Pratt
Culver	Pieper
Van Cise	Foreman
Williamson	Justus
Watkins	Cooper
Wright	Rowley

"Our Lombe . . ."

'27, and '28 were defeated only by U-T and the University of Kentucky.

But with the graduation of Davis and company in '29, Maryville's football fortunes began to go into eclipse. Coach Honaker, still hailed as one of the canniest football men in Tennessee, had to content himself—due to lack of material—with building lots of character and not much football team. Maryville never had a poor team, but the mediocre clubs of the late thirties were not able to win any titles. By 1940, the SMC ranks became so full of subsidsition and recruiting that Maryville decided to drop from league competition. The Scottie football fortunes were indeed at a low ebb.

But honesty is the best policy. A host of brawny freshman athletes, attracted by Maryville's high scholastic standing, low expenses, spiritual atmosphere, and snow-white athletic policy, descended on the Hill last fall. Coach Honaker managed to drag the boys away from their books long enough to teach them a little football, and he came through with the best earn in ten years—a team that beat every one of those naughty SMC schools except King. Yes indeed, honesty is its own reward, but a little good coaching helps, too!

Lombe Scott, Senior, is not the only contribution that the Honaker clan has made to Maryville football. Scott Honaker, Jr., was an all-Conference performer in the Highlander backfield from 1937-40, gaining the reputation of being one of the toughest little men in the league. Scott also had a hand in coaching the Renaissance team of 1941, generously giving his time all through the early part of the season. And there's certainly no one who knows the Honaker system better than the little ex-quarterback, who is reputed to have cut his teeth on a pair of shoulder pads.

Now there is still another Honaker wearing the Orange and Garnet—freshman Ross. Ross, who starred at Maryville High, was one of the stalwarts of the '41 team. Playing behind the brilliant Oliver Spears, Ross came through nobly in many tight spots where a fresh blocking back was needed. In addition to kicking many valuable points after touchdown, he scored two important touchdowns, and played a bang-up defensive game all year.

In his twenty-one years on the Hill, Coach Honaker has trained many fine athletes—Gene McMurray, Bob Thrower, J. D. Davis, John Stone, Joe Etheredge, the Baird brothers, Scott Honaker, and dozens of others just as good. Many of these men have won fame and fortune in the athletic world; all of them have made their marks as men.

In these twenty long years, many good gridders have smarted under Coach's scathing "HELLO . . You're no better than the first day you came out!" But not one of them has failed to realize in the end that behind that biting voice there's a real football coach and a real man—and what more could they say about anyone?

Musical Artists To Play for Alpha Sigma, Theta

There will be a joint meeting of the Alpha Sigma and the Theta Epsilon societies Saturday night, December 6, at 6:00. The meeting will be held in Bartlett auditorium in order to accomodate the expected crowd.

The meeting will be called to order by the presidents, Dudley Moore (Alpha Sigma) and Mary Felknor (Theta), at exactly 6:00.

The program, Alpha Sig's part at least, will be as follows: Solos will be played by Phil Vance, first on the clarinet then on the sax, Carl Miller on the bass viol and accordion, Charley Burgreen on the piano. As an added attraction, Helen Wilhoit will sing.

After the program, refreshments will be served by the Theta girls. As another special feature, Fred Shelfer will give the invocation.

Try-outs of Frosh Debate Class Held

On Monday afternoon from 1:00 to 5:20 the tryouts for the freshman debate team will be held in Mr. Pieper's classroom on the second floor of Thaw hall. The question for the debate tryouts is: Resolved, that every able-bodied, male citizen should have one year of full time military training before attaining the present draft age. There will be allowed a five minute constructive speech and a three minute rebuttal. The judges are Dr. Queener and Dr. Briggs.

nearer for the rest of us.

It is very easy to find, at this time of year, students bent over a desk that has one remaining candle flickering vaguely in the center. Anyone could plainly see that they are studying—bridge. It is really too soon to study for finals anyway. Eat, play bridge and be merry, for tomorrow—but we won't talk about that.

Gosh, we will soon be home again. Think of it—extra sleep, Christmas presents, no studies, paint the town red, Christmas Day dinner, gain 10 pounds. Gee!

But wake up. We're still in school, flat broke and still owe room-mate for the money you borrowed last week, and these darn time tables don't make sense nohow.

Joint Meetings of Societies Planned

The joint meeting of Theta Epsilon and Alpha Sigma will be held in Bartlett hall on Saturday at 6:00.

Robert Miller has charge of the program, which promises to be the outstanding one of the year. The feature of the evening will be Miss Helen Wilhoit who will entertain by singing and dancing. She has had experience singing on the radio and also with the popular orchestra of Guy Goodwin at the University of Tennessee. The rhythm will be supplied by the orchestra of Phil Vance.

There will be a short business meeting to elect officers for the next semester. Refreshments will be served.

G. E. Browns Attend Science Academy Meeting

Mr. and Mrs. George E. Brown attended the Tennessee Academy of Science which met at the George Peabody College for Teachers in Nashville, November 27 and 28.

In addition to the general sessions of the Academy, special sections on botany, mathematics, geology and geography, and chemistry were held.

German Club Plans Christmas Party

On Thursday, December 11, the German Club will hold its last meeting for this semester. The meeting will be a Christmas party in the YWCA rooms from 7:30 until 9:30.

The program will consist of German games, records and readings dealing with the Christmas season. Refreshments will be served. All members are invited and urged to attend.

—V—

FRENCH CLUB WILL HAVE MUSICALE

At the French Club meeting on Thursday, December 11, at 5:30 in the YW rooms, a buffet supper will be served. After the supper, there will be a musical program. The president, Betty Pettry, will preside. Among those participating in the program are James Manning, who will sing; Lucette deBarritt, who will play the piano; and Helen Rawlings and Robert Calvesbert who will play several violin duets. One of the main attractions will be group singing of Christmas carols in French. An election of officers for next semester will also be held.

P. Martin Succeeds Wick As President of YMCA

Henry Wick Elected Secretary at Second Cabinet Meeting

SPECIAL ELECTION

New Officers Are Prominent In College Activities

As a result of two special elections held at YM cabinet meetings this past week, two new officers were elected to fill the vacancies created by the graduation of YM president Hilton Wick, and elevation of former secretary Percy Martin.

At the first of these cabinet meetings, held on Monday, December 8, ballots were cast for nominees for the office of president. When the ballots were counted officially, it was found that J. Percy Martin, then secretary of the organization, had been elected to the presidency. This, then, left another vacancy in the office of the secretary to be filled by another special election.

At the second special cabinet meeting, held Wednesday evening, ballots were again cast to select someone to fill the secretarial position so recently left vacant. Elected in this manner was Henry Wick, who had been serving for his second year as a YM cabinet member.

Martin has been manager of the wrestling team for three consecutive years, has served as secretary of the Ministerial Association last year, and secretary of the Y this year. He is a Bible and Religious Education major who hails from Holtwood, Pennsylvania.

Henry Wick has served on the YM cabinet during his junior year, and thus far in his senior year, is a varsity debater, president of the Athenian Literary society, and has served as secretary of that organization for one term in the past.

Second Semester Will Begin Wed. January 7

In accordance with the new schedule set up for this year, the second semester will open on Wednesday, January 7, which is the first day of school following the Christmas holidays.

Class attendance will be required from this first day and absences will be reported according to class rolls made up from the registration cards. The usual penalties will apply for absences on the first two days after a recess.

Artists' Series Date Changed

The date for the second of the Artist Series concerts on the campus has been changed from February the 23 to the 19th of January. This program is the violin concert of the young Russian musician, Anatole Kitain.

The concert was originally scheduled for February 16. The date was changed in order to avoid any conflict with the Grace Moore concert to be given at the University of Tennessee on February 17. The date then chosen, February 23, has been changed because of the Heifetz concert of the U-T series. The second Artist Series concert will be held on the evening of January 19.

Annual YM-YW Program Will Be Held in Pearsons

Music by Students And Reading by Dr. Hunter is Planned

Sunday evening at 7:00 in Pearsons hall the traditional Christmas program will be held. The entire dining hall will be lighted by candles and the light of the fireplace. There will be hosts and hostesses to direct the students to places in the new dining hall where the program will be held as in previous years.

The piano prelude will be played by Florence Barber. Trumpet selections will be played by Dean Stiles and William Hargraves before the program gets under way. As in past years the program will be built on the theme of Christmas. There will be carol singing for all. Jack Gilmore will sing "Jesu Bambino."

Violin music will also be presented as a part of this program. In keeping with the custom of past years, the main part of the program will be the selection of Christmas poetry read by Dr. Edwin R. Hunter.

The program has been planned by the YMCA and YWCA.

U. S. WILL TRIUMPH...

AN EDITORIAL

By BEN LYNT

We are at war. There is no longer any doubt in the minds of any of us as to the national situation. For the first time in our history, our nation has been attacked by an aggressor. Many of us have felt it coming for months; that it should have struck at this season of final exams will not soon be forgotten.

The very existence of American democracy and the preservation of our honorable foreign policy have been challenged by the recent infamous acts of the Japanese Empire. This war will be a fight to the finish with no quarter asked, and none given, for, somehow, Japanese pagan materialism and American Christian idealism just cannot be reconciled.

The nature of the attack on Pearl Harbor, and the six successive attacks on other out-posts of America and American democracy, reveal in shockingly clear terms that our fundamental belief in the basic honesty of men and nations had been betrayed, in a most unprecedented, unwarranted, and obviously premeditated manner.

Today, we find ourselves faced with a two-ocean war, and equipped with but a one-ocean navy. Labor, capital, and industry are buckling down and going ahead, full-speed, on a seven day work week schedule. Draftees and men in the service begin to feel, increasingly, their place of importance in the present crisis. The whole nation must be conscripted.

This Christmas will find the last existing democracy on the face of the earth engaged, not in thoughts of peace and good-will, but in grimly building an invincible war machine. Building of such a machine calls for men.

America needs men—men possessed of the courage to defend to the last ditch, if necessary, the ideals for which these United States have stood since their inception so many years ago in the minds of men who loved freedom of thought, freedom of action, and the right to life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. Men are needed who have the moral fibre to remain at their battle stations, whether these be at home or abroad, until the "all-clear" signal be given. Men are needed who can maintain calm and poise, when all other heads around them are white-hot with passion, and by so doing administer effectively to the greatest needs of this nation at this darkest of hours. Men are needed who neither quail nor despair because at present they must strain at darkness if they would see the future, but who press on, clinging tenaciously to their fondest hopes.

What can we, who are mere students at Maryville, far removed from the realism of war, do to aid our nation most? For one thing, we can remember that we have been trained to finish a job once begun . . that, if the world were to end tomorrow, or next week, our immediate task would be to clean up our desks. We have long been studying to show ourselves approved; here is our opportunity to demonstrate conclusively that the youth of America is not soft, can be depended upon, and is capable of clear constructive thought even in times of direst stress. Final exams, and daily living must and will proceed as scheduled.

Our nation is engaged in a war to protect her foreign policy, to evidence her belief in the integrity and sanctity of treaties, and to avenge an infamous wrong done her.

We know in what we believe, and we shall triumph with righteous might, in absolute victory over the combined forces of the Axis Powers. We are not having any, today, thank you, of that particular brand of New World Order which they peddle, the wills of Hitler, Mussolini and Hirohito notwithstanding.

All other things being equal, endurance will be the deciding factor in this war, as in all wars. We believe that the American way of life is better able to foster and produce men of endurance than any other. When we consider embracing any new Order, we will, as always, buy American.

Annual Singing of Messiah by College To Be Given Sunday in Voorhees Chapel

Will Be Broadcast For One Whole Hour By Local Station

SOLOISTS NAMED

Cornelius Returns To Sing Tenor Solo In Handel Classic

On December 14 the annual college presentation of Handel's "Messiah" will be given in Voorhees chapel. The soloists for this concert have been chosen, and everything is in readiness for the first note tomorrow at 3:00. One hour of the three hour program will be broadcast over WROL. The college radio station will put the chorus on the air at 3:00 and the program will be picked out. It is possible, however that the program will be a full hour and a half long.

There will be a five minute intermission during which some member of the faculty will give a short history of the part that the "Messiah" has played annually at Maryville just preceding the Christmas holidays.

The six soloists this year include Sam Cornelius, Doris Smith, Louise Marshall, Ruth Cathcart, Carl Miller, and Dean Stiles. Sammy graduated from Maryville last year and since then he has been teaching. He was an English major from Pittsburgh, Pa. He was a member of the choir for four years, a member of the ban, orchestra, and glee club. He was elected to Writers' Workshop, Theta Alpha Phi, and the YM Cabinet. He was the tenor soloist last year in the "Messiah."

Doris Smith will sing the alto solos this year; Doris has been a member of the choir for four years. She is the president of Bainonian, a member of the YWCA Cabinet. Dodie, a sociology major from Cincinnati, Ohio, was also elected to Who's Who this year.

Louise Marshall, a music major from Knoxville, will sing some of the soprano solos. Louise has been a member of the choir for four years and was one of the soloists last year. Ruth Cathcart, a music major form Maryville, will sing some soprano solos. Ruth has been a member of the choir for three years.

Carl Miller, a sophomore music major from Charleston, W. Va., will be one of the bass soloists. He has been a member of the choir for two years. Dean Stiles, a senior music major from Beverly, Mass., will also be a bass soloist. Dean is the president of the band and has sung in the choir for four years.

The program is as follows:

RECITATIVE (Tenor) Comfort ye my people.

AIR (Tenor) —Every valley shall be exalted.

CHORUS—And the glory of the Lord.

RECITATIVE (Bass)—Thus saith the Lord.

AIR (Bass)—But who may abide the day of His coming.

RECITATIVE (Alto)—Behold, a virgin shall conceive.

AIR (Alto) and CHORUS —

IRC Plans Work For Next Semester

Following the last meeting of the semester on Monday night for the Current Events Class, the International Relations Club which has sponsored the class held a short business meeting.

It was decided to continue the class during the coming semester and to make certain adjustments in the program of the class which have grown out of the first semester's experience. Forming basic committee organizations centered around certain phases of international happenings was considered in order to make the class activities more intensive. Certain other organizational features of the class were discussed. Malcolm Thompson presented a revised constitution for the club which was approved by the group.

The class will meet next semester as it has this on each Monday night at 7:00; however, the place of meeting may be changed from the Y rooms. The attendance so far has averaged around sixty persons. This has been satisfactory; nevertheless with the added experience and the increased activities of the class, the present goal IRC hopes to attain for its class which is an average of 100 persons should be reached next semester. Certainly, this is a time when such an organization should be of special interest and importance.

EXAMS SCHEDULE

The examination schedule for this semester began today at noon and will close Thursday, December 18 at noon. Classes were held as usual this morning. The schedule is as follows:

Sat.—2:00—E, F, x classes
Mon.—8:30—a
11:00—A
3:00—b
Tues.—8:30—bx, B

French Club Announces New Officers For '42

The French club met Thursday night in the YW rooms. After a buffet supper, a musical program was given, after which officers for the new semester were elected. The officers are as follows: president, Margaret Ash; vice-president, Robert Calvesbert; secretary, Frances Sisk; treasurer, Helen Rawlings; and program chairmen, Betty Jean Miller and James Manning.

Two new members, Jane Trotter and Winifred Hart, were received into the club, and Miss Phyllis Dexter was accepted as an honorary member.

Maryville College Seal, Moonshining, And Where's Brownie? Belong to Hill

Maryville is an old college. Now, she's not downright ancient, but she is old enough to have accumulated a cloak of traditions. Some of these traditions are old and some are quite new; some we are proud of and others we allow to exist, being harmless and pleasant. It's an old Maryville custom—

Perhaps the finest of all Maryville traditions is the "Messiah." It was in 1933 that this tradition had its birth. When the "Messiah" was given in 1933 there were 100 voices. Since that time the chorus has increased in numbers and the tradition has increased in popularity with each passing year.

Ever since the chapel was erected in 1906 it has been the custom of all upperclassmen to sell chapel seats to poor, innocent freshmen. Another Maryville custom along this same line is the one where the little freshman is taken out to see the college seal in the bottom of he pool near Science hall. This pool was the gift of the senior prep school class of 1922. It was probably in the fall of 1922 that the first little freshman took an unexpected swim with the little fishes in that pool.

"Where's Brownie?" This is a question which has been asked so often by class after class of Maryville students that it has become a traditional question. This custom originated with the addition of Mr. Ernest C. Brown to the college staff in 1912. The traditional answer to this traditional question is, "I don't know now. But he was here just a few minutes ago."

At Maryville it is the custom to "moonshine." Other colleges may "pitch woo", "bush-wack", "cuddle-bunny", or just plain old "date." But at Maryville it's the moonshine what gets 'em. No one knows just when or where the expression had its beginning, but it was in vogue in the days of our parents. The traditional place to moonshine then was 'neath the cedars, but this generation is not so particular and express no preference as to the type of tree.

Many years have passed since the day when it was the custom to walk up hill to get to Thaw or Pearsons from Science hall, since it was the custom to allow cows to graze on the campus during the summer months. Yet as always we have our traditions and customs. And it takes all kinds.

Ken Duncan, '40 Grad, Gets Honors

Greek Major Awarded Prizes in Scholarship

Kenneth Duncan, one of last year's graduates, who is now enrolled at the Western Theological Seminary at Pittsburgh, has won several distinctive honors at that school.

Kenneth won the Greek prize of fifty dollars offered for competition to members of the incoming class; and also the entrance prize, which is a very difficult prize to win. For this entrance prize a student chooses out of a group of subjects three, and he is examined on these. Since this prize was established over 20 years ago, it has only been won about a half-dozen times.

Maryville Grad In Naval Reserve

News was received by Professor Verton M. Queener that the war has necessitated a change in the program of another of Maryville's graduates. George Webster, class of '41, who has been attending Union Seminary in Richmond this fall, has passed his physical exams and sent in recommendations for V-7 training in the Naval Reserve. He will probably enter training in January for a four month's course, at the end of which he will be an ensign.

Following the war Webster plans to finish his seminary course preparatory to entering the active ministry.

Student! Walk—Do Not Run to Nearest Exit . . . For Home

Well, Christmas is coming, but so is something more stupendous, collosal, bigger and better—exam week. At the present time, all those who are getting ready to go home are packing with one hand and reading how to perform experiment No. 16 out of the manual with the other. Of course, those who are depending on faith and a good night's sleep to pull them through will have a perfectly packed bag with all the necessary things in it. There are others, better known as DAR's, and I don't mean Daughters of the American Revolution, who have packed already and are now studying diligently for the exams. All these will arrive home safe and sound and dressed for the occasion, but—and here's where the fun begins—there will be others who will be spending their time—night and day— studying, cramming, and in general trying to make up for the defects of nature in one night. These poor creatures—who are to be more pitied than censored—will work and work to find that all the cramming made them so sleepy, worn out, and weary that they can barely read the question, much less answer it.

After the exams are over, they will catch a train, bus, kiddy-car, or whatever they are going to use, and go home. They will find on arriving there that instead of packing a pair of socks they have packed only one sock; instead of packing their evening gown, they have packed the dust rag. I need go on no more. Each and everyone of you, (dear readers!) are familiar with what I mean.

After getting over this, the entire vacation will be spoiled by a lecture. Such a lecture has never been heard before. In fact a lecture to end all lectures. Will it be on the late hours you keep? On your general conduct? No! That's right, it will be on your grades. Your parents will inquire—not sarcastically, of course—"How did you ever manage to make such good grades?" and you, poor persecuted thing, will reply, "I'll do better next time." After twenty blisterful—and I don't mean blissful—days you will come back to Maryville, where they may call you down loudly for everything else but never too harshly of your grades.

With these cheerful thoughts, dear reader, I leave you with this motto: "Merry Christmas, Happy New Year, and bigger and better report cards next year."

Bainonian Has Election

The Bainonian society will have a business meeting at 6:15 Saturday evening in the Bainonian rooms.

The president, Doris Smith, requests that all members be present, for the purpose of electing officers for next semester.

Old Spice

By JEAN BARNES

If it only comes c period and you've got to get Bible, German, and chemistry all in that period, just what do you do about English? Stupendous, what? And we wonder what the candlepower is after lights out these testing days. Helen Pratt, we think, holds the record on the so little time and so much to do racket, five term papers due the next day and only three even contacted.

Quiet evening, keen air, dark shadows, twinkling lights, brilliant cold stars, and then the Christmas carols. It's hard to say just why, but if you stop and think and listen a while, it sort of eases things a bit. It makes you feel kinda good to know that there'll always be quiet, be shadows, be Christ in the world somewhere, sometime, that life isn't ended by proclamation, that prayer and hope and opportunity will be forever.

Anyway.

It looked like keeping the home fires burning or something Monday when we peered through the smoke screen at the row of bonfires when Brownie and his crew burned the leaves on the road in front of the Chatterbox. We had vain dreams of a weinie roast and hay rides instead of dinner, but they sort of went up in smoke.

Puns are putrid things, but they're universal. To-wit—this bomby spring weather and oh yes, the trench is the national habitat of man today.

Hm! Paul Jamarik has decided it would have been a good idea for him to have been married some time ago; so he's gone in for large scale proposals. But that "A-1 in my heart" song doesn't sing true—don't think he's been accepted yet; he still looks too happy.

Maybe we might just as well give up the resistence and learn the national anthem. After all this time.

It was heaps of fun, if you'll pardon our saying so. Guess the Heaps-es unconsciously ordered a moving company to take over. Anyhow when they got home, there was their furniture and stuff nicely established in the showers, clothes carefully hung up, bed placed in proper position, and even the goldfish swimming jovially around in the new bowl. Homey? Sure. Oh well, Elwell and Crews are having the open door policy too. Their door went sailing out the window; so that clinched the matter. Hospitable walk right in's the wo'd.

Just for fun: ask Ronnie Hansel what to do if you get a mistletoe corsage (she's got some sense); press the first button and see what happens; try tramping around as jauntily as Cherie Curtis in boots, or watch Grace Betts' and Betty Rinkle's puddle-plungers some rainy day; picture Ross and Scot Honaker on opposing teams; remember Gus Canike's intermission act at the Hiwassee game, a one man team technique that simple bowls HIM over.

We think it looked cute, like the flag booth at the fair or something, having the lobby decorated with aprons. The grimy, much behandled aprons as it were. Warren Culver tried his best to buy six, musit know some Dionnes or therefore, but the problem was too great. At any rate, the luncheon-sale seemed to fulfill that which it was planned to fulfill.

Margaret Ash made an efficient Christmas angel at the orphans' party last Saturday. And Bobbie Burns, J. D., and the rest of the kids gave their college sisters an adorably hectic time. We know there's at least one future drum champion in the crowd.

We rather like Dottie Barber's suggestion for teacher to pupil who talks too softly, "Write out an interpretation of the mumbles, and hand it in next period."

As a matter of fact, statistics show there's one out of every hundred—with a bad foot. John Guinter, Bill Hargrave, and Marian Smith were cunning on the hobble-ahoy. But the run on crutches is terrific. And Helen Cone, Lenore Wise, Mack Wilson, Bob Solomon, and Bill Sweeney and goodness knows who else, were all reported as limping the long last lap lately.

Did you know there is an illustrious CCC the Second on the campus? Its members are the first floor of Memorial; and its chief service to mankind consists in having a party at various intervals. To live up to its name, cheese and crackers form the basis of the festivities, but other things may follow this ritual. Noble, no?

Oh yes, and Marion Avakian, gentle soul, was one of those over cautioned and warned individauls who, in the interest of social science, purely voluntarily went to the insane asylum last week. At the clinic she became rather overwhelmed at the less orientated persons presented for observation and reached back in fear to hold Kay Liddell's hand. She apparently clutched it tightly and braced herself for the show. But imagine my embarrassment! She was at least rather nonplused to by chance turn around soon and find herself passionately clutching the hand of an amused professor. And observed by audience aplenty.

Before we leave the asylum we can't forget either the charming inmate who looked at the visitors, immediately spotted handsome Georgie Howard to the exclusion of all the rest of the crowd, and said, "Oh, I know him." But then she was fickle too. Asked if she didn't know any of the young ladies present, she pointed enthusiastically to Ed Wiezalis.

Some manners them! Which reminds us, a certain senior by the name of, well anyway is going to give her treasured, loving-hands-worn Ethics book, "Problems of Conduct," to her "boyfriend" for Christmas. And that is real devotion.

Hm! Sorry you mentioned that word Christmas; we're good for ten more pages now. But try 'n find 'em; we can't. To put it mildly, Merry Christmas! And we really hope to see you all next year.

As I See It

By JANET LINDSAY

So much has happened so rapidly in the past week that one hardly knows what to think of the entire situation. In only a short period of time the whole world has become increasingly distorted. It might be well to consider the major steps that have taken place and in order to discover their significance in respect to us, as Maryville College students.

As we all know, the ball started rolling last Sunday morning when the radio carried the first shattering news-flash to the effect that Pearl Harbor had been attacked by the Japanese. Newspaper editors, columnists, and magazine articles had been claiming for over a month that war with Japan was unavoidable. Despite their predictions the actual attack was a surprise to most Americans. Somehow everyone seems to be of the opinion that either the United States or Japan would back down. However, when we look back and consider the rigid terms suggested by Secretary of State Hull to the Japanese minister Kurusu, which included: 1) withdrawal of all Japanese troops and naval forces from China and Indo-China. 2) Recognition by Japan of Chiang Kaishek's Chinese National Government. 3) Abandonment by Japan and the U.S. of all extra-territorial rights in China. 4) A new trade agreement between Japan and the U.S. 5) Removal of all restrictions on U.S. funds in Japan and on all Japanese funds in the U.S. 6) An agreement to stabilize the yen with the dollar. 7) An invitation to Japan to change sides, join the U.S. and Britain in a non-aggressive settlement; we realize how impossible any backing down by either side could have been.

The attack on Pearl Harbor was followed by a series of attacks on various points all day Sunday. Strategic points attacked included: Malaya, Hong Kong, Guam, the Philippines, Wake Island, and Midway Island.

The next act in the drama was the President's address to Congress; wherein he briefly, in his usual eloquent style, enumerating the acts of war, asked Congress to declare war on Japan. The Senate responded almost immediately by passing the declaration by a vote of 82 to 0. In the House the set-up was but slightly different. The distinctive details include the fact that several well-known isolationists spoke in favor of the bill, then, after some discussion, it was passed by a 388-1 majority. The lone dissenting vote was cast by Miss Jeannette Rankin of Montana, who has been remembered as one of the six who voted against the declaration of war against Germany in 1917.

Then came reports concerning the progress of both the Japanese and the Americans, many of them conflicting. However, one thing seemed certain, the United States had been caught unaware and the struggle was to be no push-over. Here is a lineup of naval equipment according to one estimate:

UNITED STATES	JAPAN
Battleships 17	12
Carriers 7	8
Cruisers 37	46
Destroyers 172	125
Submarines 113	71

The totals of 346 to 262 gives the United States a slight majority but when we realize that already the United States has lost in this war, more naval equipment than she lost in the entire World War I, the situation does not look very promising.

On Thursday history was in the making again when both Italy and Germany declared a state of war to exist between the U.S. and the Axis powers. One of the reasons given for the declaration was the Tri-Partie treaty between Japan, Germany, and Italy to the effect that in event of attack on any one of the three they would all declare war on the offender. This appears to be something new in German strategy—keeping treaties.

Again Congress responded to the President's request that war be declared on Germany and Italy. This time with no opposing votes. The declaration of war lined up all the world powers for the execution of World War II with the exception of Russia, who at the present writing, although she is at war with Germany and Italy, has not alligned her against Japan.

In San Francisco, New York and elsewhere blackouts are being held, air raids were reported on the West Coast (these reports were later denied). A thousand soldiers are occupying the immediate vicinity of Maryville; yet somehow we feel only remotely connected with the actuality of the thing—a nightmare that someone else had. It is difficult for us to realize that this is not just another Orson Welles act but the real thing. Regardless of our present state of mental isolation we must prepare for that time when the reality of the affair is driven home. Mentally, we should be prepared to accept sanely, and with as much perspective possible the situation with which we will be inevitably confronted, how ever horrible it may or may not be.

Officers Selected By Ministerials At Recent Meeting

On Thursday, Decmeber 11, the Ministerial Association held an election of officers. The new officers are Frank Cross, president; James Garvin, first vice-president; Hugh Leishman, second vice-president; James Overton, secretary-treasurer; and Allan Moore, custodian.

Frank Cross is a senior majoring in philosophy, from Birmingham, Ala. He is an active member of the swimming team.

James Garvin is a junior from Maryland, Hugh Leishman a senior and sociology major, is from Delaware; James Overton is a junior transfer from Tennessee; and Allan Moore, the ex-president, is a biology major from Baltimore, Maryland.

Greetings
EVERYONE!

Thanks for all the times you've given us a chance to help you. We're happiest when we know we can be of some service to you. Enjoy yourselves, and have a Merry Christmas!

Campus Repairs To Be Limited During Holidays

Improvements on the campus during the holidays will be limited this year because of the shortage of materials and labor and the rise in prices. Maintenance Director L. A. Black announced this week that it is not definite that all the needed improvements can be made.

The milking shed on the College Farm will be completed with the installation of plumbing fixtures, mangers, stanchions and a concrete floor.

Another major improvement will be the remodeling of a suite of offices on the first floor of Anderson hall. These rooms are directly opposite the Student-Help offices and are being used by that department. Formerly they were occupied by Dean of Curriculum Edwin R. Hunter and Public Relations Secretary James R. Smith. The recent changes in offices has vacated these rooms which will be used for typing and mimeographing. The improvements there will consist of repairs and painting. One of the partitions has already been removed, and a new store room created.

Other improvements will be made as labor and funds will permit.

Dr. Lloyd, Smith Go To Ohio Meet

The annual meetings of the Association of American Colleges, the National Conference of Church-Related Colleges, the Council of Church Boards of Education, the Presbyterian College Union, and other denominational college associations will be held in Cleveland, Ohio, during the week of January 5 to 9. These meetings were held last year in Pasadena, Calif.

It is the present plan for President Lloyd and Public Relations Secretary Smith to attend these meetings. It is expected that there will be a special meeting of Maryville College alumni in the Cleveland area held while the officers of the college are there that week.

The Association of American Colleges has a membership of approximately 500 institutions, the National Conference of Church Related Colleges has a membership of 400 institutions, and the Council of Church Boards of Education is made up of the church boards of education of the principal Protestant denominations, and the Presbyterian College Union is composed of the 50 colleges in America which are related to the church with which Maryville is connected.

Students Present "Bird's Christmas Carol" in Chapel

Two Plays Will Be Given Tonight By 'Experimental' Cast

On December 11 on the stage of Voorhees chapel the first Christmas program of the year was presented. The program consisted of two parts, the first of which was a brief organ recital by Miss Davies. She played a Christmas Pastorale by Bach-Hanlein, "Where Wild Judea Stretches" by R. S. Stoughton, "March of the Magi Kings" by Th. DuBois, and "Noel Polonaise" by Guilmant. The second part of the program was a presentation of Kate Douglas Wiggins' "The Bird's Christmas Carol." Mrs. Nita Eckles West was the reader, and the cast was composed of Ruth Sutherlin, June Morley, John Hellums, Troye Moore, Helen Airheart, Betty Clevenger, George Tibbetts, Betty Winter, Ellen Pascoe, Rachel Smith, David Ramsey, and Betty Jean Kennedy. Virginia Berg served as stage manager.

This evening in Bartlett auditorium at 7:00 the Experimental Theater is presenting two plays. "The Beau of Bath" by Constance D'Arcy MacKaye, with the cast consisting of Paul Moellman, Neil Proffitt, and Meredith Preston will open the evening's entertainment. The second play, "A Long Christmas Dinner" by Thornton Wilder, will be made up of a cast of newcomers. Whereas ordinarily the actors of the Experimental Theater are students who study interpretation privately, the rule is reversed for this experiment, and the cast is composed exclusively of students who have not studied interpretation privately. The cast is made up of Phyllis Henry, Dick Watkins, Dorothy Lehman, Edgar Potts, Betty Haines, Anne Jones, Ellen Pascoe, Bob Hunter, Dick Boyd, Ernestine Ulmer, Betty Dyer, Mary Dawn Noblit, Katherine Garvin, and Victor Addleston.

The announcer for the evening will be Georgia Lu Meadows, who has been assisting in the direction. The lighting is in charge of Darrell Parnell III. Model stages constructed by members of the play production class will be on exhibit following the program.

Ushers and hostesses for the evening are Dorothy Harned, Alice Jones, Helen Airheart, Betty Clevenger, Elizabeth Glover, John Hellums, Betty Jean Kennedy, Roberta Lochausen, Rosemary McCartney, June Morley, Nancy Russell, Ruth Sutherlin, and Mary Wintermute.

SPORT ECHOS

ECHO SPORTS

It is evident that recent developments will have a definite if not disastrous effect upon the sports world. Every college and university will be hit; there is not a school too small to feel the effect of the present emergency. It is too early to tell how many Maryville athletes will be taken. But it is certainly not foolishness when we say that all of those attributes which the Scottie athlete has had drilled into him—sportsmanship, aggressiveness, perseverance, and that give-and-take ability—can help him to a great extent in his duties as a worthy defender of his country.

"BASKET-BULL"

As the cage season opened this week we looked with some apprehension upon the twenty "young fellers" who have been active in the daily work-outs. It is dangerously early to venture a regular starting line-up, but from the two nights of action and daily scrimmages, there are eight or ten boys who appear to us to be logical starters. Bill Sweeney is due to have his best season, and looks good despite the ailing ankle. Stan Menning's experience and height add up to make him a valuable member of the team. Ray Lillard seems to have his usual "eye" and dexterity for early season. Jimmy Smith, the transfer junior from Pikeville, has been showing speed and skill in his ball-handling, as has little Davey Smith, diminutive frosh. Little Davey seems to be the only one who can even imitate the unforgettable style of B.B. and company. For reserves, sophomores Roseborough and Graham, and freshmen Solomon, Rock, and Burris seem to look pretty good.

COACH DAVIS' PROTEGES

About 25 boys are battling it out for positions on the Scottie wrestling team. There is no doubt that the Scottie grunt team will severely miss the services of last year's great veterans Evaul, Everett, Hahn, and Henschen. But several boys have shown plenty of skill already in the attempt to fill the shoes of the '40 stars. At the Wednesday tryouts, Blondie Patterson looked good in shading Harry Graham in the 129 lb. division. Al Murrian showed plenty of speed and strength at the same weight. Ross exhibited his usual aggressiveness and freshmen Losher and Black strengthen the 135 lb. class. Anderson and Wiley, a frosh roommate combination, are pushing Mack Wilson for his 175 lb. class as big "Punjab" Chambers is forcing Andy Richards in the heavyweight class. If all of these boys improve with the season, we can be assured of plenty of action in the coming wrestling season.

SPLASH!

"Steamboat Daze" netted the swimming team around forty dollars for their approaching season. It was a good show and "Babyface" Swartzback portrayed his part to perfection. Inter-squad tryouts were held Thursday and Friday for the swimming team. The splashers are all in fair shape now; if those Christmas holidays don't tempt them too much, they'll be ready to go for the first meet on the 27th of January at Tusculum.

ODDS AND ENDS

....The basketball players are jealous of Gus. It's been reported that Gus got more acclaim during his intermission performance than they received during the entire Scot-Tiger tussle.....The Tuesday night game with the J.C.C. independent team wasn't so soft either! Quipped one wit when a Friedman-Jeweler-clad player sent a Scottie sprawling, "I guess you can charge at Max Friedman's".....It'd be nice if our team could roll up the score as fast as scorekeeper Bayliss did against Hiwassee....From the looks of the wrestling squad, we won't have to worry about our linemen taking care of themselves in next year's football season....With so much trading going on around the ball camps, we're sorry we can't trade a dozen or two basketballers to get the Baird brothers et al back.

Scots Outpoint Tigers–in Fouls–To Drop Close Contest in Second Overtime

Freshmen Show up Well But Entire Team Displays Ragged Ball as Hiwassee Finally Rallies to Win By Close 42-41 Score

For the first time in twenty years of basketball rivalry between the two schools, Hiwassee defeated the Scottie cagemen 42-41 Wednesday night in the Alumni gymnasium. The game went two overtime periods before a decision was reached, and was one of the roughest contests ever seen by local fans. At the end of the regular playing time, the score was knotted 31-31, and each quintet bagged four points in the first extra period. Maryville managed to lead the Tigers throughout most of the last overtime period, but a last minute basket by Kilbourne spelled defeat for the Honakermen.

Both teams had difficulty in finding the hoop during the first half, and the period ended with the Tigers in possession of a 13-12 lead. Dave Smith paced Maryville's floor game during the first half, but Referee McClain called the fourth foul on him early in the second period. Smith's loss was felt by the Scotties, though he was replaced by Allan Rock, who came up with several good plays.

Sparked by the ball handling of Kilbourne and the consistent shooting of Sowder, Hiwassee managed to build up a 31-26 lead with only five minutes left to play in the game. At this point the Honakermen began a thrilling rally that accounted for the five points necessary to tie the score. Jimmy Smith started it off with a field goal, and Menning followed with a nicely placed shot from the foul line. Burris' free toss knotted the count, and the game ended as Huff missed an attempted crip.

Burris started off the scoring in the overtime period, but Kilbourne quickly netted two points to make the score 33-33. Capt. Stan Menning sunk another field goal to give Maryville a 35-33 lead, and the game was apparently on ice for the Highlanders. But Sowder, Hiwassee's brilliant forward, again tied the score with only five seconds of the extra period to play.

As the second overtime period opened, Aggie Miller went in for Ross Honaker. Kilbourne sunk a free throw, but Burris made another field goal to keep his mates in front by one point. Roseborough made two more points, but the irrepressible Sowder swished his 9th field goal through the hoop to cut Maryville's lead to 39-38. Huff was awarded two free throws upon being fouled by Roseborough, and made both of the tries good to put his team in the lead of the see-saw contest. Solomon's basket made the score 41-40 for the Scots, but the Tigers came from behind for the "umpteenth" and last time when Kilbourne sunk a beautiful bank shot.

Capt. Menning played one of the best games of his career for the losers, scoring 19 points and coming through with a brilliant floor game. Burris, with 7 points, was Maryville's second high scorer.

The outstanding player on the floor was Hiwassee's flashy forward —G. Sowder. Sowder scored 22 of his team's 42 points, and was largely responsible for the dogged persistence with which the Tigers forged from behind time after time.

Ray Lillard, star forward of the Honakermen, was not in uniform and his absence was greatly felt by the Scots. However, several new stars were uncovered in this first intercollegiate game of the season —Dave Smith, Bob Solomon, and Jimmy Burris. Little Dave, hailed by many as another Baby Baird, was the smoothest ball handler on the floor before he was ejected by the referee. Notable also was the improvement of Doug Roseborough and Bill Sweeney, returning squadmen.

Maryville's next basketball game is at 8 p.m. tonight, when a strong independent team from Knoxville will appear on the floor of Alumni gym. After this game, the team will disband for the Christmas holidays.

Knox Y Cancels Wrestling Meet

Scottie Cagers Meet Fast Independent Team Tonight at 8:00

Because two of the Knoxville Y wrestlers have been called to active military duty and because Coach Maher of the Y team will not be available, the wrestling match between the Knoxville club and Maryville College has been cancelled. In place of the scheduled bouts there will be a basketball game between the strong J. Allen Smith Co. quintet of Knoxville and the Scotties of M.C.

Coach Davis had held time trials and selected the men who were to take part in the match against the Y tonight. Pat Patterson, 128 pounder, was the only freshman to survive the tryouts that were held on Wednesday in the gym. Others to have wrestled are McCord, 121; Justus, 135; Ross, 145; Ballinger, 155; Suitor, 165; Wilson, 175; Richards, 200. The team has been coming along well in spite of the loss-

Scottie Hoopsters Open Cage Season With Easy Win

By coasting to a victory over the Jewish Community Center team of Knoxville last Wednesday night in Alumni gym, the Scottie hoopsters blew the lid off the new basketball season. It was a slowly-played game, the outcome of which was in little doubt after Bill Sweeney's score in the second minute of play started the fireworks. Ray Lillard followed with a tally and the ball kept rolling until the boys in orange had racked up 39 points to 32 for the opposition.

A potential star was uncovered in Freshman Dave Smith, who, while playing his first game of college ball, was all over th floor, stealing the ball, intercepting passes, and getting himself generally disliked by the visitors. He also found time during the game to score 8 points which was high for the Highlander team. Long Stan Menning and Doug Roseborough were the other high scorers, with 6 points each.

The Maryville passing attack, while proving good enough for the evening, showed room for improvement. Both teams threw up a tough zone defense, but the college boys' attack proved better than that of the JCC men. Although it was a clean game throughout, one man, Allen of the Jewish team, was ejected with four fouls.

Billig, massive JCC center, was high point man for the evening with 12. Coach Honaker's boys were paced by Dave Smith's three baskets and two foul shots.

INTRAMURAL DOPE

Dwarfs Take Championship

Last Monday afternoon the independent Dwarfs trounced the Athenian club team in two boisterous, thrill-packed volleyball games to win the 1941 intramural volleyball championship. The winners took the first game by a score of 15 to 8, having, however, plenty of trouble doing it. The second game, 15 to 9, in spite of a higher score for the losers, went to the Dwarfs more easily, and as they spiked away the last ball to end the game, they rang down the curtain on this year's intramural volleyball season.

The championship game was scheduled to be played in the Bartlett hall gymnasium at 4:30 Monday afternoon. As game time approached a sizeable crowd of none-too-quiet rooters lined the gym wall, and the Dwarfs were all set and ready to go. But Athenians had difficulty getting their six men onto the floor on time; at 4:35 only four Athenian players were there; but in a couple of minutes, during which a forfeit looked imminent, Watkins and Faulkner showed up to complete the team, and the first game was started.

Athenian took an early lead and ran the score up to 5-2 in the first few minutes of play. Jim Faulkner's line-drive serve was a real boon to Athenian on the offensive. But after dubbing another point or two, the Dwarfs began taking point after point by sending over hard serves, making good placements, and chalking up hard spikes at the net. Athenian rooters yelled for all they were worth, but it was Dwarfs all the way as the score went up to 12 to 7 and finally 15 to 8 to end the game.

The Dwarfs took the early lead in the second game, but when the score stood at 6-3 and Warren Culver was serving for Athenian, the club team threatened the independents by taking four straight points. Then once again the Dwarfs set out to win and did so without leaving much doubt as to which was the better team. The second game ended with a score of 15-9.

Coach George Fischbach refereed the two games. Several times he was obliged to call time out and request that the sideline rooters stand back from he court so as to leave plenty of room. The crowd was predominantly Athenian and yelled and hollered at every Athenian success. The Dwarfs were their own cheering section.

The Athenian lineup was as follows: Curt Wright, Oliver Van Cise, Warren Culver, Gabriel Williamson, Dick Watkins, and Jim Faulkner. The absence of Roy Crawford was felt.

For the Dwarfs it was as follows: Ed Rowley, Chuck Foreman, Ken Cooper, Art Rowan, Ted Pratt, and Bud Pierce, with Horace Justus and Al Murrian on deck.

Undoubtedly the spotlight team of the volleyball season was this championship team, the Dwarfs, of the Independent League. Several weeks ago this column advised such folk as were interested to look in on some game in which the Dwarfs were playing and to take note of the pretty decent volleyball that was going on. The group worked together as a team very well, and several of the individuals could serve and pass and place the ball away in a fashion that would have looked good on any team. Bud Pierce and Chuck Foreman, especially, did it well and seemed to have a good time at it, too. It's a fair wager that since there has never been a varsity team in volleyball at Maryville, this particular intramural team has been about the best all-student aggregate in that sport seen around here in a number of years.

So the intramural department hands the 1941 college championship and a bouquet to the Dwarfs' volleyball team.

BASKETBALL—

All basketball eligibility blanks were due in the intramural office by last night, December 12. At this writing there was promise of having at least ten teams to enter into competition. Play will begin on January 12, 1942, after the Christmas holidays.

A First Semester Summary—

Some half a dozen sports have come and gone on the intramural calendar since the opening of school in September of this year. The record is interesting to see.

The tennis tournament was conducted in both singles and doubles brackets. Bob Hunter won the singles; Charles Foreman and Jim Faulkner won the doubles. The consolation tournament fizzled out before the finals were reached.

A doubles GOLF tournament showed up some good players, and the championship went finally to the team of Bill Evans and Frank Miller.

The TOUCH FOOTBALL competition was a big affair and attracted a lot of interest. One particular team dominated each league, and the playoff was between those two dominating teams. The championship went to the Alpha Sig club league team.

VOLLEYBALL has just been completed, and the top honors went to an independent team, the Dwarfs.

The HORESHOE tournament was completed several weeeks ago up to the finals bracket. That final match is being saved for a feature of the big Intramural Festival next semester. The two teams in the finals are Pemberton and Pemberton, and Henderson and Evans.

PING-PONG is still in the process of completion. A notice on the bulletin board this week said that it was to be played off by last night, Friday. At this writing the semi-finals have not been played, but Oliver Van Cise still looks like the favorite.

Because not all of the tournaments have been finished, the intramural high point man and the high point club team have not been figured to date. This much, however, can be said: the honors for the individual having the highest number of points will probably go to Bill

Competition Keen In Girls' B'Ball

This semester's point system activities were brought to a close this week with the completion of the girls' basketball tournament. Four teams were engaged in the competition, and the winning sextet was composed of members of the freshman class.

Play began on Tuesday of last week, when two freshman teams led by Captains Betsy Watkins and Ruth McClure met each other. The winner of this game was the Orange aggregation, but an all-star freshman team was selected for further competition in the tournament.

This freshman team met and defeated the sophomores, led by Edith George, on Thursday, December 4. The tournament championship was decided by the game between the fresh and the junior-senior team, which was played Tuesday. The upperclass Amazons, captained by Geneva Robertson, were handily defeated by the champs.

The final game of the tournament took place on Thursday when the junior-seniors downed the sophomores by a lop-sided score. Outstanding players of the tournament were Geneva Robertson, Johnnie Gudel, and Natalie Yelton.

Hiking is the only other event of the first semester for point system participants. Girls' athletics this year are under the direction of Mrs. Queener, and her asisstant, "Willie" Williams. Swimming, track, and softball are some of the sports on the program for the second semester. About 70 girls are participating in this year's program. Those winning a certain number of points will be awarded letter sweaters and admitted into the exclusive "M" Club. Others meeting less exacting qualifications will be given monograms.

Freshman Debate Team Selected

On Monday afternoon, December 8, the freshman debate try-outs were held in the philosophy lecture-room, second floor Thaw. There were twenty-six freshmen who tried out before Dr. Hunter, Dr. Queener, and Dr. Briggs, who acted as judges.

Those making the squad were Maurice McClure, Don Barker, Ray Swartzback, and William Seagraves for the boys, and Eleanor Boyles, Louise Stephenson, Dorothy Lehman, and Louise Henry for the girls.

The tryouts were conducted in the manner of regular tournament debate, there being two on a team representing the affirmative side of the question for debate, and an opposing team of two members upholding the negative side.

The twenty-six members of the seven-minute constructive speech freshman class tried out giving one and one three-minute rebuttal each. The question debated concerned a proposed plan whereby all males of the United States would serve one year of compulsory military training before reaching their twenty-first year.

The results of the tryouts were posted late Tuesday evening on the second floor bulletin board in Thaw hall.

Report To Student-Faculty Committee

The Student Council, meeting Monday evening in special session called by George Howard, president, concerned itself mainly with consideration of the instruction of the members of the council who were to meet Friday with representatives of the faculty in the first student-faculty committee meeting of the year.

The report of the council to the student-faculty committee was to have embraced four main points. These points were to have been: 1) a detailed report on the Scottie Day project undertaken by the council; 2) the suggestion, tendered by numerous students, that students of the college be entrusted with the conducting of vesper services one Sunday out of each month; 3) the question of the proposed, but as yet non-existent, recreational facilities which were to have been set up in the basement of one of the dormitories; 4) a continuation of the conversations, begun early in the semester, concerning the new cut regulations.

The students who represent the council on this committee are five in number, one representative selected from each class, and the president of the council, who acts as chairman for the group. Those on the committee from the council are: George Howard, Charles McCammon, John Hawkins, Natalie Yelton, Helen Pratt, Betty Jane Miller, and John DeForrest.

Evans, Charles Foreman, or Bob Miller. They were the three highest men at the time of the last reckoning, and their participation since then has looked good. The competition for the club league plaque, which Athenian now holds, is undoubtedly between Alpha Sigma and Athenian. Alpha Sig won the college championship in football, but Athenian won the league championship in volleyball. The best guess is that so far Alpha Sigma has the edge over Athenian.

Not the least among the advances made by the Intramural Department this fall is the promotion into the new and better office in Bartlett hall. All fellows are urged to stop around and make themselves at home there.

N. J. Smashes Triangle Club Attendance Record

A musical finale brought down the curtain Monday night for the Triangle Club's last meeting this semester. Carl Alette played from Brahms and rendered one of his own compositions; Betty Jean Kennedy read "Christmas Night"; Betty Parker played her accordian; and Don Conkle presented a number on his mandolin.

A count was taken to determine the winning state with the most members present. New Jersey won for he first time in the history of the Triangle Club.

considered to be the best guard shot ever to play for the Vols.

After the 42-41 defeat inflicted by an inspired Hiwassee five on Wednesday night, the Highlanders are expected to come back fighting mad. While none of the starting positions except those filled by Menning and Lillard are in any way certain, a good guess would include Jim and Dave Smith in the back court and Bill Sweeney in a forward position. Jim Smith has proven his worth in the two games already played and Dave Smith has already been hailed as a great guard.

There will be one game played. The ball will be tossed up at 8:00 and a large Saturday night crowd is expected to be on hand in spite of the exam schedule.

COLLEGE FACULTY FAVORS ACCELERATED PROGRAM

Kitain Appears Monday In Concert at Voorhees

First IRC Meeting Addressed By Chilean Speaker

Topic Is "The South American Melting Pot"

The International Relations Club was privileged to have at its first meeting of the semester Senor Montenegro, the South American lecturer who has been visiting the campus for the last several days under the sponsorship of the Institute of International Affairs.

The topic (Mr. Montenegro chose for the IRC meeting was "The South American Melting Pot." In discussing this immigration factor in the life and affairs of the Latin American Nations, he brought out the trends in the various periods first, he took up Colonial period when the stream was mainly Spanish with the black race brought over from Africa because the Indians proved to be poor slaves.

Conditions were decidedly changed after independence; thus in analyzing this second period Mr. Montenegro appraised the results in the individual countries of the effect of the "open door." Certain difficulties inherent in Latin America such as those of transportation, climate, political unrest, and religious oppression restricted immigration during the first fifty years to a mere trickle. However, since that time European peoples principally from Spain, Germany, Italy, Poland, and, in the case of Argentina the English and Irish, have left an important imprint of their presence. Each nationality leaves characteristic problems.

In Argentina earlier Europeanization particularly from the northern part of that continent has made Argentina the most progressive of the Latin American countries. Here the English have been more influential than others. In the case of Brazil, immigration began much later and was attracted chiefly by the opportunities offered on the coffee plantations around Sao Paulo. However, the large numbers of Germans and Poles who started coming during the second half of the last century do not easily "melt" either culturally, politically, or socially with the native Portugese because, although they have certain fine citizenship qualities, they want to keep their old national language and other tendencies. This has been a great problem, as have the large number of Japanese (now there are 100,00) who were attracted by the rice plantations in Brazil. However recently Vargas cut the knot by prohibiting publications and schools using any foreign language. In

KITAIN

On Monday night, January 19, Anatole Kitain, renowned Russian pianist, will step onto the Maryville College stage at 8:15. This young and gifted musician is a comparative newcomer to American musical circles into which he made his appearance last December 17 in New York's Town Hall to make a bid for their favor. It has been five years since he had played in America, during which time he has made a great name for himself in Europe but had become practically unknown in his adopted country. The next day's reviews of his concert in the metropolitan papers showed that Anatole Kitain ranked with the fine players of the day.

Mr. Kitain was born in St. Petersburg, his father, Michel Kitain, be-

On Sunday, January 18, the second evening vesper of the year will be held. Dr. Ralph T Case of the Sociology department will be the speaker. Dr. Case will use as his subject, "The Challenge of Prophetic Religion."

NOTICE

There are at present SENIOR, SOPHOMORE, and FRESHMAN vacancies on the Highland Echo staff, which are to be filled for the present semester. Students who wish to try out for these positions are requested to communicate with either Janet Lindsay or Bette Umbach before Tuesday noon.

ALUMNI MEET IN BIRMINHAM, ALA.

On January 21, at the Sixth Presbyterian Church of Birmingham, there will be a reunion of former students and alumni of Maryville. Dr. Joseph M. Broady, a director of the college and pastor of the Sixth Presbyterian church, will have charge of the meeting.

There will be a dinner and a showing of the college pictures. Mr. James Smith, Public Relations director, will show the pictures, and will also be in Birmingham working in the interests of the college from January 19 to 22.

Birmingham ministers who are taking part in organizing this meeting are Dr. Frank M. Cross '16, Dr. Henry N. Edmonds and Mr. J. Hayden Laster '30. These men are closely connected with the college, and are frequent visitors during the summer.

Steakley Receives 'Wings' January 2

VICTORIA, Texas, Jan. 17—As a part of Uncle Sam's intensive "Keep 'em Flying" program, the Air Corps Advanced Flying School, located at Victoria, Texas, graduated class 42-A ahead of schedule.

Ralph Douglas Steakley, a graduate of Maryville College, was a member of the class commissioned flying officers January 2, 1942.

Lt. Col. Linus D. Frederick, executive officer of the new tactical and gunnery school was in charge of the commencement and presented wings and commissions to the first "war time" class to be graduated at the Victoria air school.

In his address to the new pursuit pilots, Lt. Col. Frederick congratulated them on completing their aerial courses and pointed out that each "is an important cog in the mighty aerial machine of the U. S. Army Air Corps."

The young fliers, hardly in the brown of their officers uniforms, clamored for action. One Ohio pilot summed up the spirit of the class by stating, "We've got a few scores to settle!"

Montenegro Chats Informally About People And Things

By BEN LYNT

"Well," he said through a smile and a twinkle, "shall we say at the start, to begin with, that I am a newspaper man and a writer, but I am not a journalist." This was the charming and genteel Senor Ernesto Montenegro—lecturer, editor, writer and publicist of note—chatting informally after the IRC lecture on Thursday evening.

In South America, it seems writers use the newspapers as their media of expression for several reasons; there are comparatively few people in South America who can afford to buy books because of the prohibitive costs of production, nearly everyone reads the newspaper, and then too, it brings in a little something for the writer to live on while writing.

Senor Montenegro said with a tug at the corners of his mustache that although he had won prizes for his short stories published in book form in Latin America, and though he writes feature stories published in the New York TIMES and in LA PRENSA, his favorite type of writing is the essay.

In his many years of living in and around this country of ours, he has made many trips back and forth, lecturing on his own continent in the native tongue to his people about the North Americans and their ways, and interpreting his people to the North Americans in English while on this continent. In this way he feels that he is able to do his small part as a true good neighbor by helping both nations to look both ways through him.

You probably heard that his wife is a North American, but perhaps you did not know that his children were also United States citizens, born and being educated in this country. He spoke of the war, and our position in it, and how we were all affected by it. Then he very casually mentioned that he had a son in the army in Hawaii who had been there preparing to come home for the holidays when the Japanese attack rather sharply changed his plans along with others.

He spoke of war perhaps a bit more kindly and softly than did the late General Sherman, but he used the same general phraseology and added that war was not any more brutal than some of the other practices of races and peoples.

The Senor was very pleased with our system of mixed dining and commented favorably and praised most highly the class and general appearance of the young ladies in attendance here at Maryville College.

Coffee in the morning he enjoys, but not at night. He is true to his fellow Latin Americans in the morning, but at night he becomes rather a faithful Chilean, remembering, as he jokingly put it, that Chile produces no coffee.

Perhaps you too were fascinated by that bright little metal something which he pulled from his side coat pocket from time to time while lecturing and looked at it very much as you or I might at a watch. It is a watch, but of a kind which not too many people are familiar with. He pulled it from his pocket with glee and proudly demonstrated its virtues and usefulness to the waitress at breakfast Friday morning. He has found it a source of entertainment wherever he has gone since purchasing it some years ago while changing trains in Chicago en route to lecture at Northwestern University.

It looks for all the world like a cigarette or cigar lighter but is built in such a fashion as to slide part way out of its case and stand up.

CURRENT EVENTS CLASS PLANS REORGANIZATION

Organization for the second semester of the International Relations Club's Current Events class will get under way next Monday evening when they will hold a short business meeting at 7:00 in the Y rooms.

The purpose of the meeting will be to get the orders in for Time magazine for this semester and to receive the individual preferences of members of the class as to what committee they may desire to be on—whether they would prefer to emphasize in their study some military theater of war, the activities and significance of the various nations involved, the individual phases of military science such as the place of the army, navy, marines, air force, etc., or some one of the cultural factors as Science, Art, Religion. The exact subjects will be announced at the meeting and each can give his first, second, and third choices so that the committees can be appointed immediately.

The first regular class meeting will be held on the following Monday. Those who desire to take Time can give their names and money to either Phyllis Anne Cain or Janet Lindsay on Monday night or before then.

Sunday Radio Vespers Cancelled For Present

For the time being the usual Sunday afternoon radio broadcasts are being discontinued. Last semester the Radio Vesper service was broadcast from the Fine Arts studio over WROL every Sunday from 4:00 to 4:30. This service was generally made up of selections by the college choir under the direction of Professor Ralph R. Colbert and a short meditation led by a member of the college faculty.

The last Radio Vespers was given on November 30. The following Sundays radio time was given over to station WROL. The reason for this action was two-fold; first, to relieve the work of the choir members giving them more time to work on the Messiah rehearsals; second, to allow the radio time to be given to the Knoxville Symphony orchestra to broadcast its annual concert in its entirety. As it turned out, however, that Sunday was the fateful Sunday, December 7, and all the regularly scheduled programs were cut off by news flashes. It was this possibility of having Radio Vespers chopped up by news broadcasts that was the reason for not broadcasting the Messiah the following Sunday as had been planned.

Plans for the continuation of the radio broadcasts were to begin tomorrow, January 18. The plans in the nation for a change in time of one or two hours and a possible change in radio schedules as a result made it seem unadvisable to continue the broadcasts until this problem has been settled.

New Spherical Trig Course Offered For Naval Preparation

To cooperate with the government and to help train college men to meet the requirements of various branches of military service, this college is preparing to add certain courses to the curriculum. The first of these courses which is being added this semester is a course in spherical trigonometry. The course is planned to help meet the requirements of the Naval Reserve, class V-7, and the Naval Air Corps V-5 class of the Reserve both of which require six hours of college mathematics. This particular course in trigonometry is supposed to be of especial benefit and value to anyone planning to join any branch of naval service.

Senor Montenegro Conducts Three Day Program

Tour Sponsored By Institute Of Internat'l Education

At 11:15 a. m. on Thursday, the group of college students and visitors who had gathered together in Bartlett Auditorium were privileged to hear the opening lecture in a series given by Senor Montenegro, distinguished author and journalist from Chile, during his three day stay on the campus, made possible by arrangement of the college with the Institute of International Education.

SENOR MONTENEGRO

This opening address was, appropriately enough, one which dealt with the physical features of South America and might have been called an introduction to South American Geography.

In this first address, Senor Montenegro spoke of the importance of understanding the climate, the soil, the physical phenomena, and the population distribution in order to pave the way for a keener understanding of the people of South America and of their recent thought trends.

He spoke of the greatest river in

Varsity Debaters Hold Meeting

Maryville Enters First Tournament February 14

The varsity debate squad held its first meeting of the semester on Thursday night, January 8, preparatory to beginning intensive work on the question resolved that The Nations Should Form after the War a Federation Based on the Roosevelt-Churchill Eight Points, and also on individual efforts for oratory. Next week not later than Tuesday the second meeting will take place for the purpose of forming committees in order to analyze the question.

Professor Verton M. Queener, debate coach, will then assign teams at the end of next week for the first tournaments. The first debate meet will be at Tusculum College on February 14; other dates have not been definitely set. However, the squad is considering two other types of contests for the near future.

The first of these is the National Intercollegiate Radio Prize debate conducted by the American Economic Foundation of New York. Preliminary briefs are to be submitted before March 1 on the question "Does Youth Have a Fair Opportunity Under our American System of Competitive Enterprise?" Margaret Clippinger is preparing to represent the local squad in this contest. Preliminary debates will be given over various radio stations in designated districts by those submitting superior briefs. The finalists selected from these will then compete in New York over a national network.

The other contest is the National Extempore Discussion Contest on Inter-American Affairs, sponsored by the Office of the Coordinator of Inter-American Affairs. The details of this event are not definite as yet. However, preliminaries will be held in certain districts to which a college may send five delegates. These first local contests will be handled as Round Table discussions. Finalists will in this case go to a regional conference and from there to a national one to be held in Washington, D.C., with expenses paid to those participating in the regional and national ones. National finalists will be conducted on a summer tour of other American republics.

A Scholarly Bovine Treatise or 'I Never Hope to Milk One!'

By MARY WINTERMUTE

"LOST—One cow. Finder will please return to Maryville College."

Thus read an article in the humor section of the Literary Digest about twenty years ago. That was back in the days when cows were cows and treated as such and with due consideration, not taken for granted. Back in those days cows were given "special privileges" as well as the students. One of their little privileges was that of strolling 'neath the cedars by the light of the moon (and sun) in the summertime. In return for this privilege of pasturing on the green campus they mowed the lawn. Who knows why this privilege was taken from them? It may have been the very cow who strolled away and got featured in the above advertisement that made it impossible for all its posterity to enjoy campus life. Who knows? At any rate the cows were finally given ordinary pasture land to feed in.

All this time the cows were living in a barn-like structure which stood about where now we find the tennis courts at the side of Mr. Proffitt's house. There were at that time, in the early 1920's, eight cows and 1 horse to be cared for. Then as now the college farm was worked by students under a hired manager. In about 1928 the first college barn suffered an irreparable collapse and the cattle were moved to a new building erected in back of Dr. Lloyd's house and the old Lamar house which was razed last spring. Here three or four cows and another horse were added to the family. Stretching from the top of the hill and going down past the spot on which our own Chatterbox used to stand to Jones Street was a corn field which then, and in the years to follow, served two purposes, both to provide the students with corn on the cob and to feed the cattle corn fodder. The position of the new barn had its disadvantages however, and the cattle were finally moved to the present college farm.

The college farm has (in case you are interested in statistics) over 100 acres of land used for both pasturage and raising grain, a herd—or is it a flock?—of 65 hogs, 5 horses, and 40 cows. The newest addition to the cow family is a pair of eight day old twin calves who stagger helplessly around their stall looking like the morning after New Year's Eve. In days gone by the hogs were used to supply the dining hall with meat, but in recent years they have been sold to a packing house in Knoxville.

The latest improvements out at the farm were an addition to the barn which was completed recently, a work room with a cold storage room and an electrical device for cooling milk, and the new milking room which is not yet finished. The education of the cows, by the way, is still in process. The present problem has been that of teaching them the Law of Supply and Demand, so there would be an adequate supply of milk in the school months and no over-supply in the summer vacation time. In order to obey this important demand-and-supply law the cows have trained Mr. Stork to circle over the college barn in the summertime only.

Although at the present time the

BULLETIN

President Lloyd today released the following statement:

"In several meetings during the past week the officers and faculty of Maryville College have given serious consideration to the need and plan of a war time accelerated program. Recommendations growing out of this study will likely be presented to members of the Directors' Committee on Administration early next week, after which a definite decision will be announced.

"The general plan which now appears to the faculty to be most practicable calls for three instead of the present two college terms each twelve month year. The third or summer term would probably be one of 12 weeks of concentrated courses and would permit completion of degree requirements in approximately 3 years.

"We will let our present students know the final decision as soon as possible."

Government Joins Educators in Mass Meet at Baltimore

American Education—World Responsibility Is Discussion Theme

On Wednesday morning Dr. R. W. Lloyd, who had just returned from an important meeting in Baltimore, gave a preliminary statement about several decisions made by college and university president in collaboration with government officials concerning colleges and the present crisis. There were three groups meeting in Baltimore at the same time. The Association of American Colleges and Universities had for its theme of discussion "American Education and the World Responsibility." The National Conference and Council of Church Boards of Education discussed "The Abiding Need of Christian Values in Education." The National Conference of College and University Presidents which was called by the United States Office of Education and Cooperative Groups discussed "Higher Education and the War." The latter was the conference which Dr. Lloyd attended, the largest of its kind with approximately 1,000 people present.

Some of the principal speakers of this conference were Paul V. McNutt, Administrator of the Federal Security Agency; General Louis B. Hershey, Director of the Selective Service System; Joseph W. Barker, Chief of Divisions of Training, Liaison, and Coordination of the Navy Department; Colonel B. W. Venable of the General Staff of the Army who was substituting for the Under Secretary of War; Dr. John W. Studebaker, United States Commissioner of Education; Willard E. Givens, Executive Secretary of the National Education Association; Robert H. Hinckley, Assistant Secretary of Commerce; Duglas Miller, author of "You Can't Do Business With Hitler"; Malcolm MacDonald, High Commissioner for the United Kingdom to Canada; presidents of NYU, Cornell, Johns Hopkins, and Purdue; and approximately 50 others.

The principal facts that were presented and emphasized were as follows: the need for loyalty to our country in war and peace; the recognition of the importance of college training; the acceleration of college and high school curriculum with the possibility of federal financial aid; the preparation for war-time service; the new problems that colleges as institutions will have to face in regard to enrollment.

So far the aims of Maryville college are to fulfill the pledge of loyalty and service, to maintain a program and spirit as normal as possible, to help all faculty and students keep a balance of judgments and efforts, to render our service and help all to render theirs with loyalty, but without hatred, and to help all here to keep alive their faith in the God of goodness and power.

The Third Term Possibility

Summer school? At Maryville College? After all those lovely years of summer conferences and conventions? Well, why not? It seems to be THE THING this season, as far as educational institutions are concerned; and with the war and the abundance of national crises and the scarcity of men, it seems to be the ONLY thing.

In making such a tremendous readjustment in the smoothly organized routine of the college, there should be various reactions—and there are. Opinions expressed on the subject vary from a complete acceptance of this change as decidedly for the better, to the expected complaint of its uselessness and all-round undesirability. The prevalent campus opinion, however, seems to be that the additional semester of scholastic work will more than repay any inconvenience or hardship that might be occasioned by it. This return is not necessarily from the financial viewpoint; but that, after all, was not the idea behind the action.

The men of the college, with the war situation in mind, seemed to be of the opinion that as much education as soon as possible was the desirable thing.

Girls similarly questioned expressed, too, the belief that though the extra session would not be of special significance to them, rapid training for HIM was the best possible solution to the question of selection.

Someone jokingly mentioned that side of the extra term which deals with the faculty and its donation of the summer's work. But there is no possibility that any such group of instructors would hesitate to offer their best under the present circumstances.

Old Spice

By JEAN BARNES

Well, as someone, it seems, has already said, here we are again—knee deep in January, second semester, and then some. As the glorious dignity of the Statue of Liberty, bathed in the glow of the afternoon sun, stands bale-d before the staring tugboat captain, so did the thoughts of buying books, paying bills, first Sunday dinner, and hopes it'll be a "crib" course, beckon you, oh ye of little—but maybe that's a good stopping place.

At any rate we couldn't help but admire the way Arling, Dudley, Ruth, Johnnie, Paul, and Harold of the book store crew looked you over, sized you up, and dealt forth proportionately, doing meanwhile the keep sweet amid the mad rush sort of thing. And it was cute to see them introducing new staff member, Olson Pemberton, and showing him the ropes, the mail route, or whatever.

Contrary to any other reports the old system of campus, cedars, familiar buildings, snowy boys and his, stray dogs, people, and then other people really made your heart leap up when you behold, no? After lo, these many busses. And only fifteen to be exact. And they all gave the brain a real dose of the shake well before using treatment. But it finally felt pretty good to be able to see everything again—unchanged, ready at a moment's notice to dash into a smock and become all-efficient, busy, and humming.

Speaking of transportation, as someone was a few brilliant ideas ago, reminds us of the what'd you do during vacation buzz of enlightenment that's still being produced. It seems Jimmy Evans had a cute one. Missed the car home one night in the what we mean is really cold Pennsylvania after sundown. So he did sentry duty on the corner for a while waiting for the next car. The colder it got, the colder he got, a mutual adaptation of an agreeable sort. And the faster he moved around to beat up the weather. Finally a squad car with two uniformed things came along wondering why the lone Highland fling at that hour. We can picture Jimmy's artistic rebellion. Seems the policemen asked if there was anything he could do to help him bud, but whether he actually joined in the dance we couldn't say.

And Aura Santiago spent the holidays with Becky—which is saying a lot right off. Anyway Aura's Porto Rican interpretation of the Pennsylvania friendliness was quite original. During the singing in church one morning one of the women asked her if she could follow music. To which Aura made some incoherent reply, and, drawing her own conclusions, privately told Becky what she thought of people who start discussing dancing in the morning church service. After all!

And probably so on the Danny Long Daniel Boone idea too. Spent all vacation apparently hunting a wilderness and then hunting animals, that young un. And now behold, the coonskin cap. While we all, like Indians, gape and wonder.

But then who hasn't acquired things? It's been fun to see the stuff emerge from suitcases looking slightly crushed and at least indignant and come forth resplendent some minutes later—hot off the wires of the united press-ing service of the Pearsons-Baldwin-Memorial laundries.

This is in the nature of advance publicity. Pretty soon there's going to be a big contest; Natalie Yelton and Phyllis Anne Cain have got to get a name for Natalie's little dog. He's a funny little thing, has a front end a back but no middle. But he really needs to be christened soon. Some of the other prize pets Christmas produced merit notice. Helen George invented the Beat-beat, the silliest looking man with mile long legs and short arms and no sense at all in his head——and only a little cotton there. Anyway, every now and then you walk into a room, and there's a Beat-beat holding the fort.

You count votes by a "show of hands," and apparently a lot of other things too anymore. Margaret Ash, Christine Fritz, Johnnie Childers, Phyllis Johns, Marie Fawcett, Dot Gessert, and Flucy Brooks are sporting impressive decorations, and dashing around—rings on their fingers and bells on their mind. While report (nice fellow) says Bill Sweeney sits pondering over a book of diamonds; and Kay Sullivan gets rafts of telegrams from Johnny White, newly of the air corps. Then again there's John Ross and Bunny Kiberd—Ross who made headlines in everybody's conversation for at least a week. Just as a sort of a p.s., did you know that "Frank didn't come back"?

As I See It

By JANET LINDSAY

As we go to press for the first time in the new year, it might be worthwhile to look back over the year of 1941 as a whole in order to review briefly some of its most significant events, and then to consider some of the prophecies and possibilities suggested by those in authority for the year 1942.

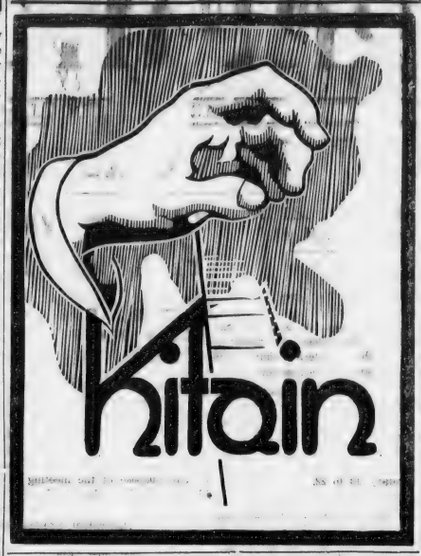
When 1941 arrived we found the British were battling the Italians in Libya, the Greeks were chasing the Italians in Albania, the Nazis were blasting the English coast towns. Here in the United States all our interest was centered on the ASCAP feud which was disrupting radio programs. Though it didn't appear particularly significant at the time, the fact that Japan imprisoned U.S. Marines foreshadowed many events which transpired later in the year. The twentieth of January will no doubt be long remembered in history as the first time that a president was inaugurated to serve a third term. Meanwhile in Congress the leaders were debating back and forth the issues of lease-lend.

In February the strike situation was beginning to disrupt our defense program. Such far-reaching strikes as the Bethlehem Steel's Lackawanna Plant strike were in progress. Abroad the British had taken Benghazi but were strongly urging the necessity of Lease-Lend aid from the United States. By March 11, the House and the Senate had both signed the bill, and on that day President Roosevelt affixed his signature to it.

April saw the United States' occupation of Greenland, the signing of the Russo-Japanese neutrality pact, and the fall of Greece as the fourteenth nation to come under Hitler's spell. The "world's best kept secret," the Hess episode, took place in May. The ROBIN MOOR flying the U.S. flag was sunk by a submarine in the South Atlantic. President Roosevelt declared an unlimited state of emergency to exist in the United States.

The headlines of June flashed the news that Germany had invaded Russia. In this country the army was forced to take over the North American aviation plant, and the government to close Nazi consulates. With the occupation of Iceland on July 7 we were brought one more step further into a shooting war. At the same time we were freezing Japanese assets in this country, Japan had moved into Indo-China, had frozen U.S. and British funds. In that same month Japanese bombers hit the United States gunboat Tutuila in a Chungking raid.

The outstanding events of August include the Roosevelt-Churchill meeting in mid-Atlantic from which came the well-known eight point basis for peace. The Navy had taken over the Kearny shipyard in order to end the strike; while in the European war theatre Russia and the British had invaded Iran. Herr Hitler and Mussolini held a five-day conference on the Russian front.



Early in September the U.S.S. GREER was attacked, the Germans admitting that their U-boat had done the attacking but declaring that the GREER had struck first. September 11 is remembered as climatic for it was on that day that President Roosevelt delivered his shoot-first speech. Just one month from that time a Nazi radio station was discovered and seized in Greenland, Japan had gained a new premier—Tojo. The Kearny, the Salinas, the Leigh, and the Reuben James were all sunk in October with loss of American lives.

While the Roosevelt-Lewis struggle over the captive coal mine strike was dividing the country, Saburo Kurusu had been named special Japanese envoy to the U.S. and was conferring with Secretary Hull in Washington.

December proved to be the culmination of all the various successive events that had taken place during the year leading to the United States entry into active war. On the seventh, Japan attacked Pearl Harbor and the war had begun in earnest. Then on the 11th U.S. declared war on Germany and Italy after Axis leaders announced declaration of hostilities with America.

Now, in regard to what lies ahead, there seems to be two schools of thought as in things, concerning the future. Mr. Hitler has declared that the war will be over in 1942, however, according o Mr. Churchill it is just beginning. Our better judgment and faith in the democratic way of life leads us to agree with the latter. Mr. Churchill's specific words concerning the future are worthy of reflection, "Many disappointments and unpleasant surprises await us. . . I think it would be reasonable to hope that the end of 1942 will see us quite definitely better in a better position than we are now."

the world, of the largest forest in the world, of the commercialization of the South, of one country where women still do most of the work, and of the vastness of the whole of the continent.

At the close of this most enlightening and entertaining address Senor Montenegro devoted ten minutes to a period of questions and answers, beginning by asking and answering the first question himself. Other questions followed, concerning the rubber industry, land disputes, languages, and their differences, and the position of Natal in relation to the South American peoples and the rest of the world.

Thursday evening, at 6:45, Senor Montenegro addressed the International Relations Club and their friends in a meeting in Voorhees chapel on the subject of the Latin American Melting Pot and some of its problems.

The address Friday morning at the chapel services was on the subject of Actual and Prospective Relations between the United States and Latin America. In this lecture Senor Montenegro said that the past relations of South America with this country might be summed up in ten minutes, while the possibilities for future relations would take several days to discuss.

He points out the great strides which had been taken and which could yet be taken in improving communication and transportation systems, in educational and political systems, all of which would tend to definitely strengthen the relative positions of these two great continents.

The second lecture on Friday was delivered to a volunteer group of students which met in Bartlett auditorium at 11:15. The subject of this lecture was concerned with the march of Democracy in Latin America, and was, many thought, especially pertinent in view of the present world situation.

thinyC UD naodcmf mf fw ww

A period of questioning and answering was set aside at the close of this lecture by the Senor, who was most gracious and pleasingly frank throughout the series of lectures.

Senor Montenegro spoke for the third time on Friday when he addressed the faculty in an evening meeting at 7:30 p. m. in the Y. W. rooms on the subject of A Literary Survey of Spanish America.

This morning, the college group gathered in Bartlett Auditorium and heard the last lecture by Senor Montenegro when he spoke at 9:25. This last address was on the subject The Economic Development of Lation America.

Senor Montenegro is known widely in Latin America as lecturer, writer, and publicist. For four years he was editor of the Chilean Journal of Affairs known as Chile. In the United States, he has lectured in many centers and has taught at Northwestern University, the Universities of Colorado and Florida, and at Bowdoin College in Maine.

He is contributing editor for North American affairs for LaPrensa of Buenos Aires, the leading newspaper of South America, and a feature and special writer for the New York Times on South American affairs.

In the fall of 1939, Senor Montenegro was visiting Carnegie professor lecturing at the University of Colorado, the U. of Florida, and the University of Missouri. He was appointed for the spring semester of 1940, to the faculty of Northwestern University where he gave a course in Spanish literature and one on Hispanic American civilization. He then returned to the University of Colorado to teach in the Summer Session of 1940.

Last fall Senor Montenegro lectured at several different institutions of higher education, and received the appointment as Tallman Lecturer at Bowdoin College for the spring semester 1941.

From Maryville, Senor Montenegro will travel north to Washington, and then on to New York City.

Trevor Williams To Read at Theta; Officers Inducted

Theta Epsilon society will meet tonight at 6:15. Induction of the new officers will be held and the retiring president will present the new president with the gavel. Following this a program will be given with Trevor Williams reading.

The officers for the new semester are as follows: president, Margaret Ash; vice-president, Margaret Clippinger; secretary, Norma Perry; treasurer, Betty Clevenger; program chairmen, Pat Howorth and Betty Jane Miller; sergeant-at-arms, Betty Jean Kennedy; pianist, Jane McFarland.

COTTON CLUB ELECTS OFFICERS

Cotton Club will hold its next meeting in Athenian hall at 6:35 on January 28. All members are requested to be present, as there will be a nomination and election of second semester officers. A committee to draw up a new constitution will also be appointed.

Our public relations secretary, James R. Smith, will display interesting moving pictures which he has taken of student life on and off the Maryville campus.

ing a professor at the Academy of Music. He studied piano with Blumenfeld, a pupil of Anton Rubinstein, in the Imperial Conservatory in St. Petersburg.

After touring with great success in Russia, he made a tour of the Far East. Since 1934 he has concertized extensively in Europe, playing, among other engagements, as soloists with the London Philharmonic, the Pasdeloup Orchestra in Paris, the Lisbon Symphony, and the Concertebeouw in Holland. A great favorite of Paris, he has played at both the Opera Comique and the Grande Salle Pleyel. He has toured France, Belgium, Hungary and Great Britain. He has now taken up his permanent residence in America.

Mr. Kitain took an active part in the defense of France until her fall at which time he made his escape down through Spain and Gibralter to the United States.

Described by the New York Herald Tribune as having an "approach to music which is that of a virtuoso . ." this gifted young pianist received the further praise of other New York papers as being ". a technician of imposing powers, a colorist of commanding fancy, and an interpreter worth anyone's attention. ." The New York Times reported that "he has exceptionally strong, quick, agile fingers, and his technique is formidable." Expert technique is but one attribute of Kitain's art, for he brings to American music-lovers a mastery of tone coloring, and a fine sense of poetry. Furthermore, as the Journal American added, "he is a magnificently endowed musician, and earnest and gifted performer. . his performance of Schumann's Toccata was breathtaking in the speed, brilliancy and skillful command of the keys."

Although this is Mr. Kitain's first extensive American tour, he is known to thousands of music-lovers in this country through the medium of phonographs, having recorded many Masterworks for Columbia. He has recorded the preludes of Rachmaninoff and Scriabin, the E-flat Rondo of Chopin, but he is especially noted for his album of Brahms' waltzes, recorded in England and released here by Columbia.

only crops grown are grains for the cattle, Mr. Proffitt expressed a belief that it is possible that for the duration of the war some of the college farm lands might be turned over for the raising of vegetables. This was done in the last war and it is even more apt to be repeated during this war if the college opens summer sessions as it would be a means of supplying fresh vegetables for the dining hall.

Thus endeth this discourse on agriculture at Maryville College.

Most useful for a lecturer to have, and it occupies almost the minimum of space, being only about an inch and a half square. It is not an expensive watch as you might imagine, he confided, for he purchased it for three dollars and ninety-eight cents. It is an Ingersoll.

Senor Ernesto looks for the establishment of better communication systems after this next war between North and South America. He feels that there will be a great deal of air traffic then replacing the present sluggish steamer trade because of the number of men who are now pilots or in training to be pilots. He looks for the springing up of numerous small private companies which he expects will follow the already well-established air routes used by the bigger companies now in operation.

"This," he said, "you may call a prophecy."

In conclusion, he commented on the fine spirit of the youth of this nation, a spirit which he described as still searching for a frontier beyond the boundary restrictions of the United States. "That," he said, is good!"

A good resolution for 1942—

Benjamin Franklin was a remarkable American. He not only had the perception to appreciate the full significance of events in his own time, but also handed down bits of wisdom and homely philosophy that applied so well to American life through generations to come that every child learns them along with the alphabet and Mother Goose. "A penny saved is a penny earned" is only one of Franklin's many lessons in thrift which have caused banks all over the nation to celebrate National Thrift Week during the week closest to his birthday, January 17. He may never have owned a bank book, but even without a banking institution to remind him of it he knew that "A man may, if he knows not how to save as he gets, keep his nose to the grindstone."

ECHO SPORTS

War vs. Athletics

Now that Hitler and "Hirosmacko" have crowded the bowl games and all sports in general off the front page, there is a scarcity of athletic propaganda to feed to the public. Rice, Williams, Lardner, and Cunningham are all beginning to reminisce. The sports writers are rehashing the bowl games and giving the past history of athletics in war days. They are bringing back the emotions and attitudes that were present during World War I. Not that this reminiscence is without value either. To the contrary, the daily syndicated column written by the big boys is filled with entirely new and clear thought. The stress of militarism is compelling the writers to emit a great deal of reflective and worthwhile sense.

There is no doubt that there is a relationship between athletics and war. Is war anything but a massive form of competition without the limitations of rules? Think of the Oympic games. What are they except an organized and rule-governed contest carried on between different world-powers? (If only we could pit our "invincible Bears" against any Axis eleven!) Truly, every nation could learn great lessons from athletics.

Everyday we read in the papers of small colleges or universities being forced to "discontinue certain sports for the duration." But still Mr. Hershey and other active executives are stressing the great need for physical fitness and training. Some universities have already added courses in the physical education field that will better equip their graduates with sound minds and bodies. No official statement regarding the situation in our own school can be released at this time, but this corner will endeavor to give the student body authentic word if and when any action is taken.

Highlanders Reap Revenge on Road With Tiger Win

The Scottie hoopmen opened the new year with a bang last Saturday night by avenging last semester's defeat by Hiwassee with a decisive 37-21 win over the Tiger cagers. In their first game away from the home court, the orange-garnet five balanced the Hiwassee series for the year in a rough game that saw five men banished on fouls. The bad boys of the game were Jim Smith, Lloyd Taylor, and Stan Menning of Maryville, and Hickman and Kilbourne of the opposing forces.

The Highlanders held an edge throughout the contest. Ray Lillard and Dave Smith supplied the scoring punch that kept the game on ice for the visitors. Each scored nine points. Menning and Taylor stood out on defense before the personal foul rule sent them to the showers.

For Hiwassee Sowder and Kilbourne were top men with 7 and 6 points respectively.

J. Allen Smith Co. Outclasses Scots 39-30 in Dull Tilt

By dropping the last contest of the old year to the J. Allen Smith club of Knoxville, the Scottie hoopmen were forced to close the pre-vacation part of the basketball schedule with a record of two losses and only one victory. The Maryville boys were outplayed by the smooth-working independent outfit which had the sharp-shooting Gene Johnson, former UT star and all-conference guard, in the back court. Johnson accounted for 15 of his team's points, and played an outstanding defensive game.

Maryville's fair haired boy was again the St. Marys, Ohio, speedster, Dave Smith. By scoring 11 points, 10 from the floor and one from the free throw line, Smitty carried off the scoring honors for the Scots. The rest of the scoring was well divided between the other players.

King Tornado Bowls Over Scots By 35-23 Count

King's long-shooting Tornado rolled over the Scottie hoopmen Tuesday night by a lop-sided 35-23 score. Led by guard Messerole, the King quintet demonstrated one of the smoothest offenses ever seen in the Alumni gym. The boys from Bristol employed a set attack, and most of their points came on long shots banked off the backboard and squarely through the hoop.

High point man of the game was Maryville's Ray Lillard, who scored 12 points, and as long as Lillard was hitting the basket, Maryville was very much in the ball game. However, late in the opening half, King defenders began to hold Lillard in check, and as the period ended they were on the long end of an 18-12 score.

Messerole opened the game with a scoring splurge of three successive baskets, all of them on long shots, to give his mates an early lead. Maryville never caught up, but for most of the first half was only two or three points behind. In the second half, Coach Honaker sent in several reserves, but no combination he could put on the floor was able to stop the powerful Tornado. King used only six men during the entire game, but their attack was exceptionally well-rounded, with every man scoring at least one bucket.

In addition to Lillard, men who turned in good games for the Scots included Captain Stan Menning and guard Lloyd Taylor. For King, Vic Kursavage turned in an outstanding defensive game, and came thru with two field goals in the scoring department. Kursavage, famed more as a football player than as a hoopman, seemed to be all over the floor when Maryville was trying to work in under the basket.

One glaring weakness in the Highlander attack was the failure to drop in crip shots. The Scots missed enough short shots to spell easily the difference between defeat and victory. Another weak point of Maryville's game was inaccurate passing. The biggest trouble, however, was that King seemed just about as good as any college team needs to be.

Maryville tangled with the East Tennessee Teachers at Johnson City last night, and the next home game is with the J. Allen Smith Co. on January 21.

Pups Eke Out Win Over Friendsville In Closing Minute

Maryville's second-string basketballers, playing a preliminary to the Scottie-King game, edged out the Tennessee Real Estaters of Friendsville by a 20-19 score last Tuesday evening. Maryville trailed 6-7 at halftime, but came back to tie the score in the closing minutes. The issue was decided as Brand, reserve guard, tossed in a one-pointer from the foul line in the final seconds of play.

Breazeale, towering center who sees lots of action with the varsity, was high point man for the game, with three field goals good for six tallies. Scot Honaker, former Maryville basketball star, paced the Real Estaters with five points.

Powerful Illinois Normal Rasslin' Team Trims MC

Inexperience Spells Defeat to Scottie Grunters Friday P.M.

Coach Davis' grapplers dropped their opening match of the new season last night to the touring Illinois Normal college team by the score of 22-8 at Alumni gym. The Scottie grunt-and-groaners were out pointed, but not outfought in a meet that was much closer than the score indicates. The matmen from the midwest were victors in several close matches that could have gone either way.

Red McCord was the first victim of a close decision when he dropped the 121 lb. bout 9-7 after a see-saw battle. Al Murrian started well in his initial college match, but inexperience on the part of the promising freshman made him prey to a pin by a half-nelson in 2:20. With the score 8-0 in favor of the visitors after the first two bouts, Horace Justus, 136 pounder, and Dave McDaniel in the 145 lb. class came in to register victories over their opponents and put the Scotties back in the meet. Justus chalked up the only Maryville pin by putting Channess to the mat in 8:40, after which Dave scored a decision over his man to tie the score. The Highlanders got no further in the score column, however, for the next four matches went to Coach Hill's boys, although all of the home team grunters put up tight battles. Mack Wilson was the victim of the only other pin of the meet.

With only a shadow of last year's championship team left, Coach Davis is leading his men into one of the toughest schedules ever undertaken by a Maryville team. Next Saturday the MC grapplers will be host to the Knoxville Y. On the following Wednesday we are to be visited by Kansas State, a team ranked high in national ratings, and runner-up in the Big 6 conference last year.

Although Justus and McDaniel were the only Maryville winners last night, none of the men were out-classed except Ed Ballinger who was pitted against the 175 lb. Illinois state champ, Hospelhorn. Hospelhorn was wrestling in the 165 class, ten pounds under his accustomed weight. McCord, Suitor, Wilson, and Richards were the hard luck boys of the evening, each dropping a close match to his opponent. All of the Scots looked good.

It was the first victory of the year for Normal. They had been beaten 19-11 by Illinois and 17-14 by the U. of Chicago previous to last night's brawl. They will journey to Nashville for a meet with Vanderbilt, also losers to Illinois by a heavy score, before going north again.

The complete score is as follows:

Murphy (Ill) over McCord (MC) —9-7.

Peyton (Ill) over Murrian (MC) —Pinned in 2:20.

Justus (MC) over Channess (Ill) —Pinned in 8:40.

McDaniel (MC) over Noll (Ill)—6-2.

Siegworth (Ill) over Suitor (MC) —4-2.

Hospelhorn (Ill) over Ballinger (MC)—12-2.

Cox (Ill) over Wilson (MC)—Pinned in 6:38.

Wesley (Ill) over Richards (MC) —3-2.

Teacher Quintet Slaps Scots 45-35 Last Nite at J. C.

On Friday night of this week the Highlander hoopmen were subdued by a sharp-shooting Teacher aggregation in Johnson City. The score was 45-35. The game was fast and rough, although only one, Gosorth, high-scoring Teacher guard, was taken from the game on four fouls. The Scotties were able to put the high scorer of the evening on the floor but could not overcome the accurate shooting of the whole Teacher team. Little Davey Smith again led the attack for the Scots, swishing six fields goals and two free throws for a total of 14 points. Burleson, the fast forward from the East Tennessee Teacher squad, followed with 13. The Teachers presented a good offense with four or five players contributing to the totals. Ray Lillard, dependable Scottie forward, was strongly held in check all evening by the scrappy Teacher defense. The Teachers held a comfortable margin throughout with the half-time score being 24-18. The floorwork of Exum and Burleson, Teacher guard and forward respectively, stood out for the Johnson City boys. Taylor, Dave Smith, and Menning looked best for the Scots. Summaries follow:

Swimmers Prep For Opening Meet With Illinois Tech

Coach Fiscitbach's varsity swimmers have been working out regularly since the Christmas holidays, and are now in top shape and ready to settle down to the regular season grind. First meet on the schedule is with Illinois Tech, and will take place January 26 in the local pool.

Maryville's prospects in the aquatic sport were dealt a serious blow at the end of last semester when Frank Cross, captain-elect of the team, decided not to return to school. Cross holds various records in diving and in the backstroke, and had been counted on as the nucleus of this year's team.

Frank Miller, the only letterman returning from last season's team, was recently elected captain of the mermen to replace Cross. Miller is being counted on as a sure-fire point winner in the dashes.

Tom Mize, who lettered two seasons ago, has been reporting for practice regularly since the return to work, and is rounding into shape rapidly. Mize was hailed as one of the most promising divers to come to Maryville in years during his freshman year, and is expected to take up where the brilliant Cross left off.

The only other experienced men on the squad are Stan Crews, who is looking better every day in the breaststroke, and Horace Scherer, whose speciality is the backstroke. Both of these men were on last year's squad and are expected to show well in competition.

Charles Colville, dashman; Bill May, and Allan Moore, distance swimmer; are the men who will probably round out the starting lineup in Maryville's first meet. A tough schedule has been lined up, and Coach Fischbach is none too hopeful about the prospects of his inexperienced team. However, much action will take place in the Scottie tank this season, and Maryville will at least have a hustling team in the water.

February 2—Tusculum (there)
February 13—Tennessee (here)

BASKETBALL—

Last week the entire intramural staff woke up and shook itself after a long Christmas vacation and set out at full speed with what is perhaps the most important tournament of the year—basketball. Entry blanks for all the basketball teams had been completed and turned in before the holidays; so that the schedule for the first half of the tournament was ready, and play began last Monday afternoon. Eleven teams are entered, and the number of individuals taking part promises to be the highest yet seen for basketball.

The games are scheduled to be played on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday afternoons at the rate of 3 games per day, though it was necessary to plan for as many as four games on some of the days. The tournament is divided into two distinctly separate halves, just as last year's tournament was. The first half will end on January 26, and the standings of the teams at that time will be recorded. The second half will begin with every team having a clean slate, so that no matter how many games they have won or lost so far, they have another chance to make good—or bad, as the case may be. At the end of the second half the first and second half winners in each league will play each other to decide the final championship team in that league.

But enough of such chatter. While we've been loafing around this week, ten games have been played according to schedule. The dope on the first six (through Wednesday) is as follows:

Monday—

Free Wheelers 21, Hotshots 10—Coach Fischbach, sparking his own team with the highest number of points, led the Free Wheelers to a very decisive victory over the Hotshots' boys. Fischbach himself scored two more points than the Hotshots' entire team did. Curt Wright, Jack Kramer and Bob Morris also looked good for the winners. Malcolm and Henry Hodge accounted for nine of the losers' ten points; Bogosian got the other. Lack of planned team work and of ball-handling ability lost the game for the Hotshots.

Celtics 1, Subs 0—Forfeit by Subs.

Ministerials 27, Athenian 21—The Ministerials broke the hearts of the Athenians temporarily by nabbing the first game of the season away from them. Transfer Junior Harvey Overton just couldn't miss when he shot and rang up 14 points to lead the winners. Also good for them were Cecil Eanes and Bill Gooch. For the Athenians Ken Cooper shone with 14 points and was followed by Bob Hunter with 4. With Pratt and Foreman and Van Cise, Athenian is going to attract attention before this tournament is over. Don't say we didn't tell you.

Wednesday—

Ministerials 30, Y Cabinet 19—Again the Preachers showed themselves to be plenty good by tripling their opponents' score. Overton was hot with 19 points; Dilliner and Grosh did themselves noble with 4 and 5 respectively. Looks as though this team is going to be hard to stop. For the Y Cabinet Clyde Brown was outstanding, scoring 8 of the ten points. Bushing, Garvin, Jamarik, and Duke played hard but not accurately enough.

Dodgers 42, Devils 17—Every player of the Dodgers scored as they rolled over the comparatively amateur Devils. Evans was high man, with Ezell and Conkle also figuring for the winners. Devils Hargraves and Eveland and Thompson were outstanding.

Alpha Sigma 57, Choir 26—Alpha Sig came up with what looks like a pretty strong outfit and literally trounced the Choir. Turk Graham for the winners just couldn't miss and made a total of 24 points; Lord, Mitchell, Howard, and H. Graham all scored freely. Myers was tops for the losers with 10; a poor defense lost the game for the Choir.

See space above for scores of Friday's games and schedule of next week's encounters.

Individual Ratings—

Next big news from the intramural office this week is the final list of the point standings of the individuals who have taken part in intramurals this school year. Bill Evans and Ken Cooper are running a close race for the top, while Ted Pratt, Horace Justus and Chuck Foreman are the next three in line. Following is a list of the first 10 fellows and their total points up to the last day of school before the Christmas holidays.

1. Bill Evans—185
2. Ken Cooper—183
3. Ted Pratt—178
4. Horace Justus—163
5. Charles Foreman—160
6. Art Rowan—158.5
7. Gabriel Williamson—154
8. Bob Miller—154
9. George Howard—152
10. Oliver Van Cise—142.5

The reward for individual points at the end of the year is handsome, to say the least, and the competi- and handball tournaments closed spring. Our advice is to watch it closely!

Incidentally, the records show that 179 different men of the college took part in intramurals during the first semester.

FENCING AND HANDBALL—

Entries for the intramural fencing and handball tournaments closed last night. Play in both tournaments will begin next Monday. Senior manager Curt Wright said on Thursday that at that time there had been more interest shown in handball than in fencing. Several faculty members have entered the handball competition, all of which adds zest to the matches.

LIFE SAVING—

A life saving instructors' course is now being given to those who arranged for it before the holidays. It is near completion, and from Monday through Friday of next week Mr. Ellis G. Fysal, an examiner from Washington, D.C., will be on the campus to pass the applicants on their final tests.

This course is not the regularly scheduled intramural life saving course. It is a special instructors' course for which, however, intramural points are to be given to those who successfully pass it. The regularly scheduled course will come early in spring, and points will be given for it also.

Student Volunteers To Hear Talk On Missions In India

Miss Martha Ruth Grierson, assistant librarian, will be the speaker at the student volunteer meeting which will be held after Vespers on Sunday evening in the YW rooms, rear of Thaw hall.

Miss Grierson was for six years a representative of and field worker for the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions in India, and it is of her experiences and observations while on the foreign field that she will speak Sunday evening.

After returning from her six years of work in India, Miss Grierson worked in the home office of the board in New York City for about five years just prior to her coming to Maryville College to accept a position in the College Library.

Last year she spoke to the Student Vols on a subject relative mainly to the educational and spiritual side of the work in India drawing on her past experiences and observations. It is her plan to speak this week of the part medicine and medical workers play in the mission fields of India today.

other ways Brazil has been trying to correct this problem.

Chile, a country of five million people, has only about a 5 per cent foreign population which as been more completely assimilated than any of the other nations. There are approximately 5000 English with the Germans situated mainly in Southern ports. Peru, a rich and mild country, with a 60 per cent easy-going Indian population, has been plagued by a comparatively small influx of Japanese. These orientals have within the last twenty years taken over almost all of the small shops of the country and are actively hated by the rest of the people. At this point Mr. Montenegro brought out the significant fact that not only is the type of immigrant important but also the resistance of the home population, and in addition that not number but the quality of immigration is strategic. The percentage of the immigrant population in South America is really negligible.

In discussing the English and American factors, the South American lecturer said that the English were as sufficient unto themselves and as nationalistic as the Germans and Japanese, but that the difference lies in the conservatism of the English who do not want to change the rest of the country to conform to themselves. He went on to say that the Americans had left a mixed impression with their energetic determination to apply their own ideas such as straight roads and prohibition. For the most part they want and need American influence and capital but of the broadest kind. Furthermore the South American people want the friendship and confidence of the United States which is why the different factors in South America must be authentically shown and understood. The benefits from both angles are evident.

South America is thus faced with a rather serious immigration problem but definite attempts are being made to solve it particularly in Peru, Mexico, and Brazil. The way to effect a true South American melting pot is, Dr. Montenegro believes, through the application of social justice, economic justice, and education.

Faculty Club Enjoys Miss Carson and Smorgaasbord

Last Monday evening at 6:45 p.m. the Faculty Club met in Fayerweather Hall and were treated to a Swedish Smorgaasbord prepared by Miss Gertrude Meiselwitz, associate professor of Home Economics. After the Smorgaasbord,, Miss Cora Carson, instructor in Chemistry and aeronautics spoke on Aeronautics.

The Smorgaasbord, which in Swedish means "Bread and Butter Table" and which is a more elaborate form of our buffet service meals, consisted of Kottbullar (Meal Balls)' Skalaperad Potatoes (Scalloped Potatoes), Grond Bonor (Green Beans), Inlagd Sil (Pickled Herring), Svenska Salat (Swedish Salad) and Sur Ost (Sour Cheese.)

Miss Carson, drawing from a wide knowledge of aeronautics accumulated from four years of piloting and instructing, gave an interesting and educational informal talk on the structure and use of the airplane, and the fundamentals of flying.

Theta, Alpha Sig Presents Midwinter

Clevenger, Hawkins Lead Cast of "Wuthering Heights"

On Friday evening, January 30 at Voorhees Chapel the annual Theta Epsilon-Alpha Sigma midwinter play will be presented. This year the societies have chosen "Wuthering Heights" as their play and a very able cast has been hard at work since the first of the semester.

John Hawkins, a philosophy major from Port Jefferson, New York has the male lead of Heathcliffe John has been very active in the dramatic department on the campus; last year he played the part of the villian in the midwinter production "Pure As The Driven Snow."

Betty Clevenger, a dramatic art major from Newport, Tennessee, plays opposite John in the female lead of Catherine Ernshaw. Betty was cast in one of the leads in the last play given on the campus, "Charlie's Aunt", and was recently elected to Theta Alpha Phi.

Alice Mathews, a transfer junior from Wilmingdon, Delaware, is cast in the female role of Elinor Linton. Alice is a newcomer to the dramatic art department; she is one of the English majors on the campus.

Edgar Linton, Catherine's husband, is played by Fred DePue. Fred is a sophomore art major from Bangor, Pennsylvania, and he has taken an active part in all the dramatic productions on the campus.

Maryville College Takes Steps To Do Part In Present Crisis

Program Expanded To Twelve-Month Plan

Maryville College is taking vigorous steps to do its part in the nation's all-out effort to meet the present supreme crisis. The Directors and Faculty have just announced that for the duration of the war the College, in accord with the Government's requests, will operate on a twelve-months basis and will be in session continuously except for brief vacations in May and December. This is to enable students to complete as much of their college course as possible before entering military service, war-time occupations, professional schools, and such service as teaching where a shortage is expected.

The present semester will close with Commencement on May 18. A Summer Term of twelve weeks will open June 9 and run until August 28. The next Fall Semester will open January 6, 1943, and close May 17, 1943.

In this accelerated program a student who attends college continuously may compress his four year college course into two and two-thirds calendar years. For example a freshman entering the Summer Term, June 9, 1942, may graduate in December, 1944; and a freshman entering college September 1, 1942, may graduate in May, 1945, one year ahead of the usual schedule. On the same plan students now in college can advance their graduation as follows: a present junior may graduate in December, 1942 (in-

M-C Poll Favors Proposed Plan for Summer Sessions

338 Men and Women Desire To Attend Accelerated Term

The President's office has released to THE ECHO the following results of the poll taken in Chapel Tuesday morning in connection with the proposed accelerated program.

Excluding the seniors who were not asked to fill in the questionnaire approximately 90 per cent of the remainder of the student body, numbering 528, replied to the questions asked. In breaking down the figures it was found that 351 students would be helped by a three-year accelerated plan. There were 177 who said the regular four-year plan meets their needs.

In reply to the second question there were 149 men and 189 women, a total of 338, who said they "now think (they) would attend an accelerated summer term at Maryville College this summer." Of these, 107 are juniors, 113 sophomores, and 118 freshmen. Around one-third of these expressed some

New Improvements Made In Thaw Hall

New Study Room, Offices, Stacks Added To Library

It has been announced that several new improvements have been made in the library this semester, including the addition of two new offices for library workers, a faculty study room, and several book stacks in the basement.

Due to the lack of adequate office facilities and stacking facilities, two new offices were created in the library where the magazine stacks originally stood. These offices are to be used by the library officers—the outer office by Mr. Horace L. Ellis, Librarian, and the inner office by Miss Martha R. Grierson, Assistant Librarian. The inner office is equipped for the work of marking new books and mending damaged books.

The magazine stacks have been removed to the rear of the library, taking the place of books seldom used, which in turn have been stacked in the basement. A small room in the basement of Thaw Hall has been renovated for this purpose. This new arrangement provides for a more organized and elaborate system of stacking magazines, more room in which to place the magazines, and a place away from the main library in which to place books seldom used. The room in which the offices were originally, is now set aside as a study room for the faculty.

These improvements were made by the Maintenance Department during the Christmas holidays, and are considered to be a beginning of several improvement projects in Thaw Hall.

Five Med Students Accepted In Graduate Schools

Snell, McCammon, Johnson, Moore, Myers

Within the past few weeks five of our pre-medical students have been accepted in various schools of medicine throughout the country.

For the first time in a number of years a Maryville student will go to Harvard University for graduate work the semester following his graduation from Maryville. Fred Snell, chemistry major from Nashville, Tennessee, has been accepted at Harvard. Fred has been active in the Pre-Medical Club here on the campus and was the president of this organization last semester. During his years here he has been an honor student and in the second semester of last year came through with top honors, making a 9. average. In the fall of this year Fred was one of the seniors elected to Who's who.

Next semester will find Charles McCammon, a local lad and a senior member of the Student Council, in Nashville at the medical school of Vanderbilt University. Charles is a Biology major. He is an active leader in the scouting activities in the scout troops in town.

Melvin Johnson has been admitted to Tufts Medical college at Boston, Massachusetts. Mel's home is in Worchester, Massachusetts. He is a Biology major. While at Maryville he has always been active in dramatic art productions. Among the plays he has had roles in are "Winterset," "Pure as the Driven Snow," and "Charlie's Aunt."

Quentin Myers has been accepted at the University of Pennsylvania

Noted Paintings Shown in Anderson

Art Gallery Open From 1:00-4:00

Miss Purinton, Instructor in Art, has announced that reproductions of famous Madonnas of the 14th and 15th century have recently been placed on exhibit in the "Elizabeth Gowdy Baker Memorial Art Gallery." This is the first art exhibition of this kind at Maryville this year. This group of paintings will be in the "Gallery" from January 19 to January 30. The "Art Gallery," located on the second floor Anderson in the annex, will be open to students each week day from 1:00 to 4:00.

The reproductions are as follows: The Annunciation by Fra Angelico da Fiesole, Italian; The Holy Night by Correggio, Italian; The Virgin of Autun by Jan Van Eyck, Flemmish; The Madonna of Castelfranco by Giorgione, Italian; Presentation in the Temple by Stephen Lochner; The Arrival at Bethlehem by Cornelis Massys; Madonna of the Chair (Original in Florence), The Sistine Madonna (the original in Dresden in Royal Gallery), The Madonna Granduca (Original in Florence), and the Madonna di Casa Colonna, all by the noted Italian, Raphael.

There will be another exhibit from February 24 to March 5. This second will be a group of masterpieces from the collection in the National Art gallery in Washington, D. C. These reproductions are circulated by the American Federation of Arts.

Cottage Students Move To Campus

Mrs. Evans Assigned To Pearsons' Hall; Cottage To Be Rented

Due to the small number of girls enrolled at Maryville this semester and to general economic conditions, college authorities have decided to close McCully Hall as a girl's dormitory for the remainder of the year. The fourteen girls who lived in McCully Hall have moved to rooms in Memorial and Baldwin Hall and to Lamar Hospital, while Mrs. Stella Evans, in charge of McCully Hall, has been assigned to Pearson's dormitory. The closing of the small dormitory is primarily an economy measure and the building will be used again for student's room if needed.

McCully Hall, named after one of its owners, has been the property of Maryville College about ten years. Before that time the owner was Squire Lowry McCully, father-in-law of Mr. Ernest Brown, the college engineer. Squire McCully bought the house around 1905 and remodeled it extensively some years later. The McCully home was noted as a rooming place for men students at the college as Carnegie Hall had not been built and Memorial Hall, the only men's dormitory, was not large enough for all the men.

Current Events Club Broadens Year's Program

Again this semester IRC is sponsoring a Current Events class which will meet weekly until May. Professor Verton M. Queener will conduct the meeting on this coming Monday, January 26 in Bartlett auditorium. Following the custom of last semester, the class will use Time magazine as a sort of a text. Because of buying a large number for a class the special price of 8c a copy for the usual 15c magazine is advanced to those subscribing. Therefore, the price for the semester is $1.00.

The class is planning a much broader and more intensive series of studies for this subject (which is becoming of even greater importance) than has hitherto been followed. All students who want to clarify and evaluate their knowledge of current events are cordially invited to join the class. IRC is anxious to increase the worth of the class by increasing its membership. An average of about sixty attended last semester.

Morley Directs In Studio Plays

Proffitt, Meadows Schwarzwalder in Music by Pierrot

The opening performance of the Experimental Theatre for this new semester will be given on Saturday, January 31, 7:30 o'clock and 8:30 o'clock, to accommodate the increasing attendance at these productions.

Neil Proffitt, Georgia Meadows, Roberta Lochausen, and Bob Swartzwalder will appear in "Word and Music by Pierrot" under the direction of June Morley. Neil, an Art major at Maryville, has an opportunity to express his artistic temperament in the role of the harassed Pierrot. His state of mind is not improved by a visit from the little siren, Alicia, played by Roberta. Her fido husband, played by Bob Schwartzwalder, apparently knows his Alicia and is unperturbed when the two of them are left alone to write poetry. Pierrette, however, played by Georgia, also knows Alicia, and seems to know what she is about when she leaves them to their task. Moreover, she knows her husband, better then he knows himself, and that's why there is the play called "Words and Music by Pierrot" written by Agnes Emelie Peterson.

The second number on the program is again about the characters, Pierrot and Pierrette, as they appear in another play, "Hearts to Mend," by Overstreet. The play will be interpreted by Frances John Hellums. The experimental study conducted by the Theatre on January is to discover the audience's preferences to a play interpretatively from a book on a stand, or a play impersonated by a complete cast.

A previous study has shown a fairly equal division of preferences for a play present interpretingly by a single reader and one presented impersonatively by a complete cast. Since "Hearts to Mend" will be presented interpretatively and not impersonatively, however, the decision by next Saturday's audience presents a different study.

Persitsent Pencil Patter Perturbs Pathetically Patient Pedagogue

By PETER VAN BLARCOM

The afternoon sun poured lazily in through the windows of the history classroom, furnishing both light and a drowsy warmth to a class of somnambulents of both sexes. However, vaguely aware of the professor's presence as he began to stress certain points, they began to stir a trifle and suffered themselves to be led in Dr. K.'s masterly fashion, through a veritable historical labyrinth of thought. Gaining momentum, he touched points of increasing import, leading upward to the climax. The moment was at hand. He stretched forth his hand into the air as if to grasp the ethereal idea firmly, and was about to draw it to himself and announce the deduction, when, for some obscure reason, he paused. He looked about, rather in the manner of a hunted man, and then proceeded to reveal the climatic thought to which he had directed the attention of the class so skillfully. This done, he paused once more and with a peculiar mixture of relief and resignation in his voice, he solemnly announced," Now, Miss G, you may drop your pencil." Those who believe firmly in the law of cause and effect, and are not aware of the gruesome sequence of events leading up to this happening will undoubtedly seek diligently for some logical explanation of what, at the very outset, seems to be an exceedingly profound and odd remark. Seek no further. The truth of the matter is that Dr. K. had experienced rather more than the usual amount of annoyance from this class; one would almost be led to think that it was composed entirely of Baptists bent on "interfering with our way of life!" Annoying little occurances had a way of always happening at just the wrong moment, ie. that triumphal, climatic one to which the remainder of the period was but a prelude, when the outstanding fact of the day's lesson was brought to light. It is unfortunate that Dr. K. should have jumped to conclusions in this matter after only a few weeks of classes, becoming prone to adopt the view that this Miss G. was always the offendor when a pencil happened to fall and rend an atmosphere thoroughly charged with suspense. Right or wrong, this chanced to be Dr. K.'s view and it led straight to the mysterious remark, offering Miss G. the opportunity to once more discharge her usual function at that time. However, there is evidence to support this belief, especially convincing to myself who just happened to be present, when, in another class, during what the instructor hoped would be a fruitful and impressive pause marked by complete silence, a shattering reverberation rent the quiet air as Miss G.'s pencil thundered to the floor. I also have it from reliable source that a similar undignified and nerve-wracking event took place in another class, the object of offense this time being one of the sinister looking knitting needles which the young lady plied deftly. Ah well! Now the pencil, anon the knitting needle, it matters not—everything at its proper time —The results are equally shattering, both to the nervous system and to the general morale.

Let not the thought be entertained for a moment, however, that because these things can happen and do seem to take the form of a mild epidemic, that severe measures should immediately be taken by the faculty to amend the rule book to cover the offence. The result might be a rule requiring all students to tie their pencils or knitting needles as the case may be, to their lapels rather in the manner of a pincenez. The proverbial "other side of the question" has yet to be heard. The fact of the matter is that the pencil is not only a deadly offensive weapon, but also must be considered the student's first line of defense against the less forceful type of speaker who oversteps his bounds. It can be used as an escape mechanism, for instance, to draw pictures of American airmen shooting down Japanese bombers over the far off Philippines, or it can be employed as a simple and effective measure, designed to either wake up the class or frighten some unsuspecting instructor into some sort of activity. This would be a relief in some cases, for it would undoubtedly startle him, and cause him to jump, or reveal in some other way an unexampled activity.

Little Sir Echo How Do You Do?

By RICHARD WATKINS

Perhaps you noticed a small item in a rather inconspicuous corner of the Echo last week, which read something like this: "There are at present Senior, Sophomore, and Freshmen vacancies on the Highland Echo staff. . . "

We met Tuesday at 12:45 in the Echo office where Bette and Janet, or as Janet prefers it, Miss Umbach and Miss Lindsay, took our names and the kind of assignments in which we felt we were most efficient. That night we (editorial we) hustled over to the Echo office at 6:30.

You should have seen the place! The only thing it lacked to be the office of some big city newspaper, with a Sun in its name, for example (there are so many of them these days: New York, Chicago, etc.) were swirling, blue smoke and traditional unprintable words. At 6:35 the editor started the roll-call—Boyd sitting in the window, Wintermute on the table, Meadows in a chair, Cain standing, Lynt strolling up and down in his usual everything is well in hand manner and making the inevitable wisecracks (once there was a bookworm named motor. I opened a book in the Library one day and outboard motor.) along with the others, they started to answer.

"Boyd?"
"Here."
"Jarnagin?"
"Present."
"Lynt?"
"President, I mean—"
And so the roll was called.

Then the editor prepared for the assault. She stretched up to her full height; her face got red, then white, then blue—well maybe it was the light—She started: "Heretofore we have been lenient about assignments not being turned in on time, but in the future if they are not turned in when they are supposed to be, you might be fired from the Echo, sent up before the President and the Discipline committee, and—Well perhaps she was not that tough, but you get the general idea.

Suddenly the staff managing editor turned in her chair toward the group. All this time she had been at her typewriter doing her bit to add to the newsroom atmosphere by noisily typing out names and assignments. In her characteristic self-confident businesslike manner she put in her say.

"I would like to emphasize what the editor has already said. Features and certain other assignments will be due tomorrow. News stories the next day. Watch the board for further assignments." Then she gave out assignments.

"Francis, Wednesday chapel, veepers, exchange, Lynt, Y, Student Vols . . . etc."

Seriously, now, it does not take one long to see that our Echo is edited in grown-up, business-like fashion with an eye to getting news and getting it hot and accurate. If you want to see a picture of action, just peek in the Echo office some Tuesday evening about 6:30, but don't get caught for you would probably be put to work.

Old Spice
By JEAN BARNES

Having located the point X, let us proceed from there. We can't think of any better way to begin than Congratulations! We've just heard about Charles McCammon's crashing the literary gates or something and think it rates a triumphal procession and then some. Seems Charlie just had an article accepted for the national boy scout magazine and gained a corresponding dash of wealth and fame. And we merely echo the wave of campus pride.

But maybe we should make it a double triumph. We noticed a sonnet by Joseph Dickinson in the Knoxville newspaper lately and also read about the poet. Joe, we hear, entered a nation-wide contest about Thanksgiving and came out with honorable mention with one of the highest ratings over the nation. And that's not bad either.

Pardon us if we cut in: we just heard a silly joke. Seems the discussion was one of those unusual things in these days—on priorities or something and finally reached the point where the possibility of making automobile tires out of nylon was up for debate. And Ralph Parvin said that that would be good; now when you had to stop, you'd get out——not to patch up a blow out but to sew up the runner in your tire.

But before you entirely lose the patting on the back idea, you might commend Helen Airheart. She's close to wearing out her first pair of baby shoes it seems. Since her election to Theta Alpha Phi before vacation, Helen's been being a docile little cherub and doing what her Theta elders tell her—which is plenty. Part of it was wearing the baby shoe around her neck. The other morning's allotment of initiation included a comprehensive tour of Pearsons. She knocked at every door, smiled sweetly, said hello to whatever answered her, and made a rapid getaway. A sort of on-to-the-next-room campaign.

Just on the nature of scattered scandal a-la-Puritanic come up the week's array of life in the social circle. Along about now Janet Brown, fairest of Fayerweather, paragon of potency, and so forth, if that makes any sense, is giving a demonstrated lecture on concoctions-non-chemical. Janet is the only girl in a class of sixteen, quantitative analytical chemistry. Anyway according to bet, Janet's going to prove to her fifteen colleagues that she can cook as well as—well other things. Hence the "Quant Party" scheduled at the Y rooms tonight. We can hardly wait for the first reports to be released. Oh well, good work, Janet.

More on this uneven distribution of sexes reminds us of the famous trip to town. In case you've heard only vague rumors, here's the way we heard it. There was a show in town, oh, a vital show, a fortune telling exhibition—for women only. So a demure beker-chiefed Charlotte Burgreen, Carol Gilpatrick, and some obscure Miss David McDaniel (looking not unlike Margaret Boretsky as to clothes) went down. Well escorted to be sure. It seems too they enjoyed the show—so much in fact that they laughed in what we are sorry to say was not a very ladylike manner. Indeed their feminine decorum was atrocious. But to be brief: Theme music—The March of the Ushers—Exit Burgreen Dawn of light in aforementioned usher's heard Exit Chuck Light number two dreamy contemplation of two remaining kerchiefs—Wintermute and McDaniel by name Speech by Wintermute disillusion of usher Dialogue—Usher: Come on, girlie, take off your kerchief, let's see your curly locks. Miss McDaniel: (in high voice), Oh, sir, is this a proposal? Usher temporary indecision Exit McDaniel Exit nine others Money back for three.

Getting back to the here and there, Aimee went to the wrestling match the other night and expressed it beautifully. She never could figure out why the boys stood out there and fooled around like that all the time. And we sure are glad to hear that Fred Snell's high marks are at last receiving proper recognition; making Harvard really is swell. Oh, yes, and Betty Winton, we hear, has a queer sort of complex, a something about faculty snubbing. Marjorie Gugger made a big splurge and recovered her goldfish which had been Christmas vacationing in the biology aquarium. Boy! they're cute.

And one of Bunny McCartney's little dogs was in a horrible automobile accident and now he isn't. But she still has Justa left, short of Just-a-Mutt; and you've got to admit that's a big help.

And did you see the "Shelby" bicycle anchored in Pearsons lobby? Rumored to be destined for Winifred Hope. Not bad, either way you look at it.

We're all glad to see Alice Weatherby again, minus the mumps. We've all been trying in vain to feel some on ourselves for two weeks—and to get rid of the cough drop diet, finish the ode to the kleenex, regain our composure, and so forth for that matter.

To discuss at length on Anatole Kitain would be fun, but what we wonder is how the gentleman liked the making him right at home atmosphere. It has been suggested that he preface every future greeting with "I am the great Kitain" and go on from there. That would eliminate the necessity of making "Professor" George Howard unintentionally leave the artist stranded in Knoxville, or telling the bewildered guest that his daily practice in the chapel must end at 3:00.

Now that the cottage has been evacuated, Pearsons twenty-seven second floor cherubs rate two supervisors and a dietician. They ought to be ideal young ladies some day maybe. Anyway we do extend welcome to Mrs. Evans, who has come to stay in the guest room.

And we don't know whether this will strike the press in time to be Hurry back, or Welcome back, but we do wish Mrs. Snyder best wishes in regard to her son's enlistment.

Have you heard the latest on the classroom clicks stuff? One's a new one on the absent-minded professor angle, and the other's, well, just typical. Seems someone dashed to Dr. Briggs and asked where she could find Victorian English. So they stopped in to ask Dr. Shine where the young lady could find the course, who taught it, and what period. Dr. Shine gave the matter his worthy consideration, (balancing his pince nez on his chalk meanwhile we wish) and said well he was sorry and all that but he didn't know. To which was added in one large dose a room full of laughing; there stood said professor in the midst of teaching Victorian English.

We still hear occasional rumors about Ed Ballinger's reunion party in Washington. Must have been more fun—especially with the "among those present" including Bunny Tontz, Jim Garvin, John Thompson, Allan Moore, Jean Stamp, and Barbara Buchanan.

And next to Wuthering Heights as great drama, they present for your approval Tom Mize playing intoxicated or Andy Maisano as the bemoustached King Louis. Ask either Harold Eaken or the German club.

And as all good people say when words are overdone, let us arise and be dismissed.

As I See It
By JANET LINDSAY

ANATOLE KITAIN, pianist, Voorhees Chapel, Maryville College, January 19, 1942.

Last Monday evening Maryville College students and guests from the surrounding community, were priviledged to hear in the second of the 1941-42 Artist's Series, Anatole Kitain, distinguished Russian pianist. Mr. Kitain is a musician of considerable note, having studied the piano with Blumenfield, a pupil of Rubinstein, and in the Imperial Conservatory in St. Petersburg. He gained his reputation as an artist while touring, with great success, in Russia and the Far East. Since 1934 he has concertized extensively in Europe, playing among other engagements as soloist with the London Philharmonic, the Pasdeloup Orchestra in Paris, the Lisbon Symphony, and the Concertgebeouw in Holland. In France, he was a great favorite playing at both the Grande Salle Playel and the Opera Comique.

His performance Monday night revealed him as a technician of imposing power, a magnificently equipped musician as well as an earnest and gifted performer. His first number, Organ Concerto in D Minor by W. F. Bach displayed his prowess as a technical wizard with rich understanding of piano music. The skill with which Mr. Kitain played its sonorous tones impressed the entire audience from the very first.

The next group was made up of the Schumann Carnaval, Opus 9 which reviewed a parade of musical sketches of varying moods. Debussy's well known and loved "Reflections on the Water," an impressionistic musical image depicting a drowsy, floating reflection of inverted images stretching out in an everwidening circle of musical tone, was to many the most pleasing and effective number of the entire program. One could sense the clear sparkling water and the rippling of the waves in the rapid arpeggios and scales, and in the ringing tone of certain octaves.

The Chopin group again displayed Mr. Kitain's perfection in technical control. The Mazurka, a Polish dance tune, was most impressive and conveyed its spirit to the audience.

When the program came to an end, Mr. Kitain, in response to the enthusiasm of the audience played eight encores. In all of them Mr. Kitain played with more feeling than he had in the scheduled portion of the program. The selections he chose included two Chopin numbers, Nocturne in A sharp, and Waltz in C sharp Minor; The Ritual Fire Dance by de Falla, a Bhrams Waltz, The Bumblebee of Moussorgsky, and a Russian Dance by Kopak.

On the whole Anatole Kitain left a very favorable impression on the Maryville audience. He proved himself a master of piano skill. Expert technique was but one of his attributes, for he likewise displayed mastery of tone-coloring and a fine sense of phrasing and rhythm.

TALK OF THE WEEK ... By Charles Dunning

Nurses Needed To Meet Army, Navy Requirements

The urgent need for more young women to enter schools of nursing has been brought to the attention of administrators and faculty members of Maryville College by the Nursing Council on National Defense, which is engaged in the recruiting of at least 50,000 new students for 1942.

Midyear classes admitting new students in February are being opened by many of the 1300 schools of nursing throughout the United States. Although some schools promise to be filled to capacity, a canvass now in progress indicates there are still vacancies in all parts of the country.

"Mounting needs of the Army and Navy Nurse Corps, the United States Public Health Service, and other government services, as well as civilian health, demand a rapid increase in the number of graduate nurses," declared Katharine Faville, chairman of the Council's Committee on Recruitment of Student Nurses, in a letter to college and university leaders asking that the situation be brought to the attention of well-qualified college women who are willing to serve their country as nurses.

"Young women with one or more years of college," she points out, "are likely to be given preference over high school graduates in entering good schools of nursing and to advance more quickly to positions of responsibility." Special considerations set forth are the following.

"Nursing is a career, not just for the emergency but for a lifetime. It has more 'top positions' as administrators, supervisors, and teachers than it has women qualified to fill them. It provides the college graduate with a better median income, both in her first year and later, than does any other occupation. Expenses for the usual 3-year nursing course are low, and may be supplemented by scholarships. Opportunities for usefulness are almost unlimited, especially in postwar reconstruction all over the world."

Keen interest of many women students is reflected in the numerous inquiries from faculty members already received at national recruiting headquarters about the best courses to take in preparation for nursing. Information is also sought about schools of nursing affiliated with colleges and universities, which may offer a 3-year basic professional program leading to a nursing diploma, a 4-year or 5-year combination academic and basic professional program leading to a baccalaureate degrees and nursing diploma, or a program for college graduates only, leading to the degree of Master of Nursing.

Information, speakers, and consultation are available to colleges from the State Nursing Councils on Defense, recently organized to carry state-wide responsibility for all phases of nursing. Literature on the subject is offered by the nursing Information Bureau, 1790 Broadway, New York, N.Y.

The Nursing Council on National Defense, with headquarters at the same address, reprsents the national professional organizations of nurses, the American Red Cross, and the nursing services of the Federal government. It also works closely with the Subcommittee on Nursing of the Health and Medical Committee in the Office of Defense Health and Welfare Services.

Carl Miller, a sophomore music major from Newport, Delaware, is to play the part of Joseph. Carl has taken part in a lot of the work of the dramatic department. This year Carl was one of the soloists in the annual presentation of the "Messiah."

Alice Jones, a junior dramatic art major from Harriman, Tennessee, is cast as Ellen Dean. Alice had one of the women's roles in last year's production "Pure As The Driven Snow."

Livingstone Hislop, a freshman from Brooklyn, New York, has been cast as Lindley Ernshaw. Livingstone has shown a great interest in dramatic art, and he was featured as one of the political speakers at Barnwarming this year.

Mrs. West recently announced the production staff for "Wuthering Heights." Joe D'Antonio is working as Business Manager. George Devereux is in charge of advertising. Charles Dunning is working as stage manager. Lucia Moore is property manager. Betty Jean Kennedy is rehearsal assistant. Georgia Meadows and Dorothy Harned are planning the costumes.

stead of May, 1943), a present freshman may graduate in May, 1944 (instead of May, 1945).

However, participation in this accelerated program is entirely optional. Students may follow the usual college schedule, attending the two semesters from September to May and graduating in the usual four years. In other words, Maryville will operate both the regular and the accelerated programs simultaneously.

A student may enter Maryville College at the beginning of the Summer term, June 9, or at the beginning of the Fall Semester, September 1, or of the Spring Semester, next January 6. Thus high school graduates of this spring may apply for admission on either June 9 or September 1.

The Summer Term will be open also to public school teachers and others interested in summer study only. Courses meeting teachers' certificate requirements will be offered.

The Summer Term will be divided into two periods of six weeks each. Registration may be for the entire Summer Term or for either of the six-week periods. In each six weeks a student will be able to complete two full semester courses, earning 6 to 7 semester hours of credit, or a total of four courses with 12 to 14 semester hours for the summer. The quality of work done and the actual time spent on each course during the Summer Term will be equivalent to those of the present semesters.

Other adjustments to meet the war emergency will be announced from time to time.

doubt as to whether they could actually arrange to attend. There were 70 men and 117 women who said they do not expect to attend.

In reply to the third question, there were 283 who said they would likely attend the full 12 weeks of the summer term; 32 would attend the first six weeks only, and 9 the second six weeks only.

The fourth question brought the following answers to this inquiry "Why would yo not attend a Maryville summer term": (1) do not have money, 283; not interested, 52; attending elsewhere, 36; miscellaneous (such as depending on whether right course offered) 15.

DISC Club To Hear Beethoven's Fifth

V for Victory!! The theme song of the V for Victory campaign, Beethoven's Fifth Symphony, will be played in its entirety at the meeting of the Disc Club on Thursday, January 29. ECHO SPORTS

"BUSINESS AS USUAL"

At the recent meeting of the Committee on Athletics, a temporary but indicative stand was taken in regard to the future athletic program of the College. Although many colleges have decreased or limited their sports program lately, Maryville College wishes to maintain insofar as possible the wide and varied athletic program it has carried on in recent years.

It has been necessary to discontinue intercollegiate track meets this year, chiefly because of the impossibility of making an acceptable schedule. Schedules in basketball, tennis, and baseball will be reduced somewhat, but all intercollegiate sports will continue to function in as normal a way as possible. During the summer session, wide use will be made of the college swimming pool, tennis courts, ball diamond, golf course, and gymnasiums. There will be, without a doubt, a greater emphasis placed upon physical education and intramurals in all colleges for the duration. In every college sport there will be a striving for "business as usual."

ON THE HARDWOOD

J. Allen Smith had a classy team here Wednesday, but that doesn't make our 17% look any better at all. The Scotties just couldn't make more than 17% of their shots count that night. And that wasn't the only way they DID NOT look good. "Fast break" still seems to mean to them just another foreign word that they can't translate. Meanwhile, Gene Johnson and his lads used the fast break to good advantage—not all of the time, but enough to keep a one-point lead. The Scotties' passing game hit a new low, too. (It was so low, it rolled along the floor!) Another troublesome fault was the man-to-man defense. It couldn't quite check those two-pointers that kept rolling thru the hoop. There was one bright side to the game, tho —the lights.

★——★——★——★

ON THE MAT

That Illinois Normal match brought one of the biggest wrestling crowds that we've ever seen at Alumni gym. The "spirit got us," but we weren't "shoutin' Hallelujah." It was a fierce match with plenty of rough 'n tumble and the crowd ate it up. All the boys did well, especially when you consider that they had only ten days to "get back" in shape. Al Murrian looked like a hard little worker in his '28 class. Joe and Mack both put up stiff fights in the '55 and '75 classes, but couldn't put on the final spurt needed for getting points. A good number of fellows are still out every day for practice. Losher and Black, a couple of freshmen, show promise of future strength. Chapman and Wiley are two more aspiring grapplers. We're sorry to lose the services of letterman Dick Boyd, who suffered a dislocated elbow during a practice session. The only others on the casualty list are Anderson and Wilson, who have suffered rib injuries. Coach Davis stated that the team is progressing in its training and fitness. The team is indebted to Wood Everett and Julius Nicely, last year squadmen, who have been donating their services and information consistently.

ON THE BENCH

We hear that the swimming team members are not the only ones who are missing Frank Cross.... Who says it's not football season? Now they play it in the gym and call it intramural basketball!.... Have you met up with Bill "Robin Hood" Long yet? Looks just like him!.... This southern basketball!—When did U-T or Kentucky find time for field goals when they were making 38 fouls!.... Who's is this? "Buddy just Baer-ly climbed into the ring before Joey knocked him out again."... Question of the week: Why is Prof. Colbert working out so diligently almost every night?

Gives Five Sons to Uncle Sam

Thomas L. Cummings, mayor of Nashville, Tenn., presents a five-star emblem of honor pin to Mrs. W. H. Casteel, of Nashville, whose five sons are serving in the armed forces of the United States. Looking on is her husband. More than seventy families in the U. S. are eligible for the five-star emblem award.

Smith Smoothies Romp Over Scot Cagers 47-27 Wed.

With flashy Gene Johnson hitting the hoop with amazing regularity and his teammates playing peerless ball behind him, the J. Allen Smith Co. team of Knoxville again routed the Highlander basketball machine by the top-heavy score of 47-27 last Wednesday night at Alumni gym. The Orange-Garnet men had an off night anddid everything wrong while the visitors capitalized on every break to cut through the stagnant Scottie defnse and score almost at will.

The game was fairly even for the first two minutes when the home team managed to match baskets with the J.A.S. men until the score was 4-4. At this stage of the game the Maryville defense crumbled to allow the Knoxville team to pile up score after score. The only consolation for the crowd of Maryville rooters was the playing of Lloyd Taylor and Dave Smith in the back court. The game was the most abject exhibition of basketball put on this season by the team, which has come out second best in five of its seven starts.

Again it was Dave Smith who led the Scottie scoring parade. The irrepressible Smitty continued to out-shine his taller teammates by splitting the strings for nine points, eight from scrimmage and one from the foul line. Lloyd Taylor did good work on defense and came down with more than his share of rebounds.

It was Johnson and Marshall of the JAS team who were largely responsible for the humbling of the Scots. Together they outscored the entire Maryville team by splitting 28 points between them, 19 for Johnson and 9 for Marshall. All of the visiting team looked good behind their fast-breaking, fast-passing offensive.

A balm for the Maryvillians, although no one was there to witness it, was the victory scored over Friendsville Academy in the preliminary game by the Scottie pups. The B team took full advantage of their greater height over the Quakers and came out on the long end of a 36-14 score. Bob Miller and Red Meineke each scored eight points in the tilt to share scoring honors. A pair of almost identical twins, the Gregg boys, starred for the visitors. Although only freshmen at the Friendsville school, they were troublesome to the Scots all through the game. One of them (it may have been his brother) netted eight points to lead his team.

Kansas State Wrestlers Meet Scots Tuesday

One of the most outstanding wrestling teams ever to appear in the Alumni gym will be here Tuesday night when Kansas State college clashes with the Scottie matmen. Kansas State college visits Maryville as one stop on a 3000 mile trip that pits them against such teams as Indiana, Vanderbilt, Navy, and VMI. The boys from Manhattan, Kansas, were runners-up in the Big Six race last season, and have already defeated Lehigh, tied Michigan, and lost to Franklin and Marshall and Michigan State this year.

Coach B. R. Patterson's grapplers have been strengthened recently by the addition of Ray Rokey, quarterback on the K-State grid team last fall, and Al Brecheisen, a promising 165 pounder. John Hancock, defending Big Six heavyweight champ who has been sidelined by a knee injury this season, will also probably be in shape to go against Coach Davis' boys.

Probable starting lineups are as follows:

MARYVILLE		K-STATE
McCord	121	Stiefel
Murrian	128	Emmons
Justus	135	Dunlap
McDaniel	145	Vavroch
Suitor	155	Wempe
Ballinger	165	Brecheisen
Wilson	175	Volsky
Richards	heavy	Hancock or Rokey

Matmen Clash With Knoxville YMCA Team Tonite

Coach Davis' wrestlers clash with the Knoxville YMCA team here tonight at 8:15 on the local mat. Maryville, defending her state title for the second consecutive year, dropped the season's first start to Illinois Normal, but will rule as slight choice over this evening's visitors. Knoxville Y, however, defeated U-T 30-10 in an early season match, and may surprise the Scotties.

The bright lights of the Scottie lineup are Horace Justus and Captain Dave McDaniel, who scored Maryville's only point over Illinois. Justus, who pinned his opponent last week, will wrestle at 135 pounds and will be opposed by Misenheimer. McDaniel, who won his match last week via the decision route, will meet Fox, a speedy and powerful 145 pounder.

Scrappy little "Red" McCord, weighing in at 121 pounds, will meet Ford, and freshman Al Murrian will clash with Fujii at 128 pounds. In the upper weight divisions, Maryville's starters will be Joe Suitor, Ed Ballinger, Mac Wilson, and Andy Richards.

Suitor, who was decisioned last week in a close battle, will wrestle Raby, captain of the Knoxville team and one of their most dependable performers. Ballinger meets either Elkins or Swafford at 165, and Mac Wilson will try to break into the win column against J. Murphy. Wilson lost a heartbreaker last week, and is expected to show well tonight.

"Big Red" Richards, heavyweight, will take the mat against Rackley of Knoxville.

Coach Davis announced this week that a home match has been arranged with U-T for the 7th of February, and that the Scots will meet the Vols in Knoxville on the afternoon of the 13th. This completes Maryville's mat schedule for this season, with the possible exception of a match with Western Carolina Teachers that is still in the tentative stage. As announced previously, the powerful Kansas State team will be here on January 28th. Vanderbilt on the 31st, and Maryville will journey to Nashville for a match with Vanderbilt on February 21st.

Election Held

The Triangle Club will assemble on Monday at 6:35 in Bartlett Hall. There will be an election and installation of officers. Will all members please be present?

Coach Fischbach Names Lineup For First Swim Meet

Illinois Tech will bring its strong aquatic squad to the Maryville tank Monday night for the Scots' initial test of the season. The meet will start at 8:00.

The Tech squad was successful last year in their invasion of the Maryville pool and went away with a 45-30 victory tucked under their caps. Although Coach Fischbach has lost the majority of his star performers of last year, including Frank Cross, this year's Scottie mermen are out for their first win of the season and an upset over the touted Chicago lads.

Coach Fischbach has announced the following lineup for the different events:

Medley relay: Scherer, Crews, and Miller.
220 freestyle: Sidner, Bergquist.
50 freestyle: Colville, May.
Diving: Mize, Irwin.
100 freestyle: Miller, Colville.
150 backstroke: May, Scherer.
200 breaststroke: Crews, Mize.
440 freestyle: Sidner, Bergquist.
400 relay: A. Moore, May, Colville, and Miller.

Teachers Will Try To Keep Scotties in Doghouse Tonite

The E. T. Teachers-Maryville College rivalry, always a red-hot factor in tilts between the two schools will flare out anew at 7:15 tonight when the Johnson City club comes to Alumni Gym for a return game with the win-hungry Highlanders. Coach Honaker's hoopsters will leave all memories of past defeats behind them when they go out on the floor to seek revenge for the 45-35 beating they took from the Teachers last week. After having suffered an off night last Wednesday against the J. A. S. team, the Scottie will attempt to break back into the victory column by turning the tables on their opponents tonight.

Lloyd Taylor and Dave Smith, two dependable and hard-playing guards, will probably patrol the back court for Maryville. Ray Lillard, potentially the best offensive threat on the team, has not yet begun to hit the hoop as he did last season, but the sharp-shooting soph may break out at any time to supply the team with that much needed scoring punch. Jim Smith and Long Stan Menning will probably round out the starting quintet.

The team at this stage of the season sports a none-too-healthy record of two victories in seven starts. In spite of the poor showing in previous games, the Scottie five is well able to even the series with the Teachers' team tonight. A large Saturday night crowd is expected to be there to witness the game and the wrestling matches that will follow.

Hoopmen To Meet King, Tusculum

Maryville's hoopmen invade upper East Tennessee next week when they journey to Bristol for a game with King on Thursday night, and move on Greeneville for a clash with Tusculum on the following evening.

King's Tornado is touted as one of the best quintets ever produced at the Bristol school, and defeated Maryville 35-23 in the first meeting of the year between these two teams. Tusculum also boasts a powerful squad, having defeated E-T Teachers and Hiawassee while losing only to Union.

V

Nature Club Meets

At the next meeting of the Nature Club on January 26, there will be an election of officers for the coming semester. Due to the poor attendance at the last meeting this election could not be held. All members of the club are urged to attend.

BASKETBALL

This week's intramural spectators saw a bang-up of ball games last Monday and Wednesday — close, hard-fought games worth taking hard-fought games worth talking was the Alpha Sig-Athenian game, but the Choir showed something of their mettle, and the Hotshots and the Devils had it out to within one point of each other. More of that in a minute.

Monday, the day after tomorrow, marks the close of the first half of the intramural basketballl season. Each team will have played at least four games, and the relative team standings will be complete for this half. Word came from the intramural office Thursday, however, that the two night games scheduled for Monday may be postponed, in which case the final team standings will not be compiled until those games are played. The stands listed above are through yesterday, Friday.

The second half of the season starts immediately on Wednesday with three scheduled games. Each team starts this half with a clean record and has a chance to take top honors regardless of what it took in the first half. Team managers are asked to notice the second half schedule as it has been made out and published.

The dope on Monday's and Wednesday's games sounds something like this:

MONDAY

Athenian 41, Alpha Sig 36. The big game of the first half! After Alpha Sig took an early decisive lead and kept it until th ethird quarter, Athenian put on the steam, ran neck and neck, and came out on top in the third quarter to stay there till the final whistle. It was an important game, played hard and played well. Several of this season's best intramural players saw action. Chuck Foreman was Athenian's big man with 16 points, and Ken Cooper was next with 14, 6 of them on free shots. Bob Hunter played a good guard position; Crawford put in 8 points and Stevens one.

For Alpha Sig, Turk Graham was hot again and accounted for 12 points. Sweeney, Howard, and Mitchell played a fast game, handling the ball well and making 6, 6, and 8 points respectively. Bob Lord and Harry Graham completed the line-up.

After the game a protest was registered by Alpha Sig concerning a refereeing technicality. The intramural office has announced that that protest was over-ruled and the game stands as official.

SUBS 32,DODGERS 23. The first half of this game saw the Subs take it all the way and score 22 points to the Dodgers' 5. The second half was a different story, with the Dodgers sinking the buckets, but in the final court the Subs came out on top. Hedges was best for the winners and Faulkner for the losers.

CHOIR 23, Y CABINET 5. In a scrambling, ball-fumbling game the Choir registered its first victory by trouncing the Y Cabinet. It was a fast and hard game, but the ball handling was under par. Most of the scoring was done in the second half. Moehlman was best for the winners and Garvin and Brown shared honors for the losers.

WEDNESDAY

CELTICS 30, FREE WHEELERS 25. The independent Celtics scored freely and took advantage of 12 fouls called against their opponents to take over the Free Wheelers. It was a determined game (hence the fouls), nip and tuck, but the losers couldn't stop Celtics Hooker and Edwards. Fischbach and Burris tops for the Free Wheelers.

HOTSHOTS 21, DEVILS 20. In a sure-enough neck and neck game and a heartbreaker to lose the Hotshots came out one point to the good. For the Devils Eveland was high scorer with 10 points—Several of them made by beautiful long shots, and for the Hotshots Henry Heaps of Heaps, Heaps, and Co. heaped them up to the tune of 6 points, for the highest.

MINISTERIALS 25, CHOIR 23. The Ministerials barely pulled a tough game out of the fire in the fourth quarter to leave the Choir on the little end of a very close score. The Preachers led at the half, but the Choir scored 6 straight and went into the fourth quarter leading two points. The Preachers tied it up and on a down-the-floor-break made two more to end the scoring for the game. It was the Choir's best game of the season and showed that they had something. Overton, the Ministerials' standby, was bottled up, and Eanes came out with most points, 8. For the Choir D'-Antonio and Meyers each had six.

FENCING

The entries for the fencing tournament closed this week and the schedule of matches has been made out. Fifteen boys have entered, and play begins the last days of this week or on Monday of next week. The first round must be over by Wednesday of next week.

In this tournament each man must be defeated twice before he is eliminated. Matches are to be played on the fencing courts in the Bartlett gym. They will consist of five touches each, with a maximum time limit of 15 minutes, unless there is a tie at the end of that time. Three judge must be present for each bout. The office released a list of eligible men to act as judges. It reads as follows: Huffman, Lippard, Manning, Calvesbert, Al Henderson, Bill Henderson, Hargraves, Alderton.

HANDBALL

The entries for the handball tournament were completed this week also. Thirty people including three faculty members entered the competition. It is a single elimination tourney. A game will consist of 21 points; a match of the best 2 out of 3 games. Tennis balls must be used, and gloves may be worn. Results of the games and matches are to be reported to Frank Miller, Handball manager. The first round of the tournament must have been completed by Wednesday night of next week.

"Christianity In Germany" Is Topic Of Dr. Bernardin

Local Cleric To Address Student Vols

Rev. Dr. J. B. Bernardin, pastor of St. Andrews Episcopal church of Maryville, will address the Student Volunteer group on Sunday evening in the Y. W. rooms at eight o'clock. He has chosen as his subject "Christianity in Germany."

Dr. Bernardin served at one time as the dean of the Cathedral of Paris. He studied in Munich at one of the larger universities there, and did graduate work at Oxford University.

He served as a major in the last world war, and he was at one time on the staff of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine in New York city.

At the last meeting of this student organization, it was decided to change the semester's project from sending money to a mission in Poland to sending funds to one in this country. This shift was thought to be judicious by the cabinet in a meeting held last Sunday afternoon in Pearson's Hall. The reason was the impossibility of getting funds through the war zones to occupied Poland, a condition which is expected to prevail for some time.

The newly selected project is the Jewish Mission in San Francisco, known as Daniel Community Center.

There was a large attendance at the meeting last week at which Miss Grierson spoke on her six year's observations of the medical missionary work in India.

Dr. Sherrod Speaks At Wednesday Chapel

President Charles C. Sherrod, of East Tennessee State College at Johnson City, will be the speaker at next Wednesday morning's chapel service. Dr. Sherrod attended Maryville in undergraduate college,, received his A. B. and L.L.D. degrees at Valparaiso College, and his Ph.D. at Peabody College. He has been in his present position since 1925.

School of Medicine. Quentin is a Biology major also. His home is in Everett, Pennsylvania. He is a veteran member of the choir.

Although he has been accepted at the Indiana University School of Dentistry in Indianapolis, Indiana, Dudley Moore will probably spend the next semester in a school of medicine instead of one of dentistry. Dudley has worked in the college bookstore for the past three years. He is a member of the varsity swimming team and the drum major of the band. In his freshman year he was the president of his class. Dudley is also a Who's Whoer. He is a chemistry major from Lorain, Ohio.

Pencil Feature

In conclusion, let me recommend that system of torture which I have named the "pencil treatment" (after the writing instrument of the same name). It is designed for use against recalcitrant and unyielding roommates on occasions when one does not care to have these insidious persons dampening the highly spiritual joys of budding social gatherings with their absurd insistence on quiet for study. The treatment consists of series of innocently dropped pencils, at appropriate intervals and will completely demoralize the strongest will in five minutes. At the first pencil the subject starts and gropes about the floor in an irritated manner, then settles back again. Upon the dropping of the second, he is visibly moved and stares malevolently at the perpetrator. When the third drops, he rises in a rage, and tearing his hair, scattering death and destruction behind him, he stalks off to the library. The work has been successfully carried out.

I have wandered from the subject. We can only hope that the classic statement of Dr. K., wrung from our emminent historian in a moment of great stress, will ring down the centuries in true heroic measure to move the hearts of men in ages yet unborn "Now, Miss G., you may drop your pencil."

property about 1930 and rented the house for a period of years. In the fall of 1940 the three girl's dormitories were overcrowded and it was decided to convert the house into a dormitory, called McCully Hall, with rooms for approximately fifteen girls. Mrs. Stella Evans, formerly an assistant to Miss Hallock in Baldwin Hall, was placed in charge of the dormitory. Again this fall the large number of girls enrolled caused the house to be used as a dormitory. However, there were a large number of withdrawals at the end of the first semester and college authorities decided to move the girls living in McCully Hall to the regular dormitories.

It is probable that the property will be rented again as there is a great demand in Maryville for houses. In the future as the enrolment increases the house will be used again for living quarters.

"... Like Feathers In The Wind"

By MURIEL GEISLER

And then there is the story about feathers shaken to the wind. How they scatter! A most adequate description of stories and how they spread.

Have you heard about the unfortunate student of our college who has a wooden leg? No? Then I must tell you. It is too good to miss.

This poor fellow revealed to his roommate the first day of college in the fall that he was the proud possessor of a wooden leg—from the knee down. It was a sad, sad story.

His work, it seems, carried him inot the heart of Alaska. There he lived as the Eskimos live and traveled as the Eskimos travel. The unfortunate was traveling with a party by dog-sled when a pack of wolves attacked the train. All grabbed spears and began to drive them off. Our fellow-student, being inexperienced, advanced too far into the pack. He received one of the spears in the leg.

His traveling companions rushed him back to civilization, but, alas, it was too late. They amputated just below the knee.

As walking on the ice with one leg proved difficulty, he came back to the United States. Here kind sympathetic friends took up a collection and supplied him with an $800 wooden leg. Now the led is one of our college mates.

It is a touching story, is it not? Some of our co-eds thought so when the gruesome facts were revealed to them several months ago. What a hero the fellow became—the object of great admiration. So highly did one co-ed deem him that she told 400 people the story of his courage in coming to college to takea pre-med course and in riding a bike to Alcoa to work each day.

Can't you imagine the chagrin of our co-ed when she found that she was the object of a practical joke? And the amazement of Dr. Griffith when the lad rolled his trousers to his kknees in class to prove that he is a perfectly healthy specimen!

VOLUME 27 — MARYVILLE, TENN. JANUARY 31, 1942 — NUMBER 17

Rev. R. L. Houston, Former M-C Student, Is Vesper Speaker

Rev. Robert L. Houston of Nashville, Tennessee, will be the speaker at vespers at 7:00 tomorrow night. Mr. Houston is a graduate of Maryville College. He is now representative of the Presbyterian Board of National Missions, supervising work in the Synods of Tennessee, Alabama, and Mississippi.

In his student days and for some years afterward Mr. Houston ("Bob" Houston) was a noted baseball player, being especially known as a long hitter. After graduation from college he played in the Southern League in the summers to earn money to attend theological seminary in the north in the winters. He refused to play on Sundays and was valuable enough to his club to be given that freedom. He refused attractive offers to remain in baseball in order to become a minister and pastor.

He is a younger brother of Judge S. O. Houston, of Knoxville, Chairman of the Board of Directors of Maryville College.

V For Victory Features Disc Club Meeting

On Thursday evening the Disc club presented a V for Victory program before a large group of students. The V for Victory song, theme of the program, is a part of Beethoven's Fifth Symphony, given that title because it begins with the same time as the dot, dot, dot, dash of the V for Victory code.

Several Disc club programs for the coming semester have been planned; these will include Miss Davies, Miss Horne, and Professor Colbert as commentators. Mr. Colbert will present a program of voice records. Some of the music to be heard in the future will be Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue" and Rachmaninoff's "Concerto in C Minor." One program will be a senior request program.

Mrs. Snyder Makes Visit In Illinois

Mrs. Grace Pope Snyder, Dean of Women, left the college Thursday, January 22, for a visit of about a week in Illinois. During the first part of her visit she planned to spend her time with her son, Miles, in Champagne, Illinois. Miles, who visited her on the campus last spring, is expected to go into the army in a very short time. For the remainder of her trip she expected to visit her brother in Chicago. Mrs. Snyder returned to the College Thursday morning.

Filing of Senior Recommendations Is Required

Information to Be Secured in February; Graduates To Meet

In the past it has been optional for members of the senior class to file a recommendation with the Committee of Recommendations before leaving school. About 80 to 90 per cent of the senior classes usually did file this recommendation, but there have always been some who have not availed themselves of this service. It seemed to work out in the years that followed that the ones who needed this information most and asked for it most frequently were those comparatively few students who failed to file a recommendation.

Since it is impossible to prepare recommendations after the graduate has left the campus and since there has been in the past such a great number of students who didn't file applications have later asked for recommendations, the Executive Committee of the faculty has deemed it wise to require all seniors to file recommendation with the school in order to meet graduation requirements.

In February there will be a meeting held of all students planning to graduate in May. At this meeting a

Books Added To College Library

World War And Technical Subjects Are Covered

A large number of new books have been added to the college library since the beginning of this year, comprising, for the most part books on technical matters such as critical studies in literature, treatises on dietetics and home economics, critical biographies, and many on purely scientific matters.

There are some, however, of more general interest, of which the following are noteworthy:

Alwin Thaylor, professor of English at the University of Tennessee, is the author of a new work on Shakespeare entitled "Shakespeare and Democracy," a study of Shakespeare's dramas, with special attention to the democratic philosophy therein revealed. Another point of interest in regard to this book is the fact that it is one of the publications of the recently established University of Tennessee Press, whose publications are printed in Kingsport, Tennessee.

"This is the Victory," by a London minister, Leslie Weatherhead, is a religious book written in part during the periods when London was being heavily bombed, and is an eloquent expression of the high morale and Christian spirit of many Englishmen in facting the war. It is an interpretation of the nature of the real victory which is to be won. One sentence serves to show the background of the book: "So day follows day in agony, sorrow, and suffering."

An interesting novel, or rather series of novels all in one volume, is G. B. Stern's "The Matriarchal Chronicles." This large work consists of four novels dealing with the same family, and is dedicated, fittingly enough, to John Galsworthy, whose "Forsythe Saga" inspired it. It does Galsworthy one better, at least, for it contains four-hundred more pages!

Current Events Class Holds Discussion On Nation's Problems

The Current Events class will be conducted this week by the president of IRC, Janet Lindsay. Last week Professor Verton M. Queener led the review of the week's events and the subsequent discussion. At the meeting on Monday night at 7:00 in Bartlett the monthly tests which TIME is sending the class this semester will probably be taken.

The committees and those on them will be announced at the next meeting. Subscriptions from 15 people were sent in this week for TIME magazine.

'41 Class Becomes Living Endowment

61% of Class Pledges Annual Sum of $657.50

Last spring the class of 1941 inaugurated a plan whereby they viewed themselves more or less as a Living Endowment to be used for the benefit of the college. As in financial circles the capital of an endowment may not be spent except the amount earned by this sum in the form of interest, so members of last year's class, comparable to the capital sum, made pledges to be paid annually as a sort of interest to express what the class is worth in cash to the college, or in other words the interest on what they feel the college has invested in them as a Living Endowment.

Of the 61 women and 72 men who graduated last year, 82 or 61 per cent of the whole class pledged a total of $657.50 annually or what would amount to, in terms an endowment, the above amount as 4 per cent interest on $16,227.50. The pledges were distributed as follows: 34 men pledged $305; 43 women pledged a total of $352.50; 5 members pledged unspecified amounts while 35 members were not heard from. One person who did not continue until graduation made a pledge and 17 signified that they were unable to do so.

All pledges up-to-date have been paid promptly; of course many have not yet come due. So far the women have paid $27.50 and the men $32.50. This represents 4 per cent interest on $1,227.50. In other words if the class of '41 had given to the permanent endowment fund of Maryville College $1,227.50, the College could have received an income from its use of only $60. Thus to Maryville College the class of 1941 is worth in cash $16,227.50 of invested funds so long as the students live up to their pledges.

66th Series of February Meetings Begins Wednesday

DR. CLFFORD E. BARBOUR

Dr. Clifford Barbour Of Knoxville Will Conduct Meetings

PROMINENT SPEAKER

Rev. Sidney Stringham Returns for 20th Year of Singing

The first service of the sixty-sixth annual series of the February Meetings of 1942 will be held next Wednesday morning, February 4. For nine days thereafter the meetings will constitute the main business of students and faculty on the Hill. There will be two services a day, at 9:45 and 6:45 from February 4 to 12.

Rev. Clifford E. Barbour, Ph.D., D.D., popular pastor of the large Second Presbyterian Church in Knoxville, will be the preacher. Dr. Barbour came to his present pastorate in 1928 from Pittsburgh where he had served as a pastor for five years. He was born forty-seven years ago last Monday in Pittsburgh where his father made his home after coming to the United States from Liverpool, England.

After graduating from the University of Pittsburgh and Western Theological Seminary, Dr. Barbour received his Doctor of Philosophy degree from the University of Edinburgh, Scotland. During his study in Scotland he was minister of the Bonnington Parish church. His book, "Sin and the New Psychology" has been published both in America and in the British Isles. He was for ten years a member of the Presbyterian Board of Christian Education and is a Director of Maryville College.

Dr. Barbour is married, and has one son about fourteen years old. The Barbours have a beautiful home on Scenic Drive, Sequoia Hills, Knoxville.

With Dr. Barbour in the leadership of the Meetings will be Rev. Sidney E. Stringham, pastor of the Shaw Avenue Methodist church, St. Louis, well known to all Maryville College students except those who are here for the first time this year. Mr. Stringham leads the singing of the Meetings for the twentieth time

Radio Vespers To Be Resumed

Time of Service Changed to 9:30

Maryville College announces the resumption of its Sunday Radio Vespers at a new time: 9:30 p.m. on Sunday evening, beginning on February 1, over Station WROL.

After almost a year of consecutive Sunday vesper broadcasts at 4:00 p.m., the series was interrupted by the international upheaval which disrupted the nation's radio schedule generally. The last of the series was heard on November 30 as the nation was attacked on Sunday, December 7. The resumption of the program on February 1 will terminate a recess of two full months, December and January.

Although the time is changed from 4:00 to 9:30 p.m., the day (Sunday) and the station (WROL), and the general plan of the program remains the same. In the future as in the past, Dr. R. W. Lloyd, our president, will conduct the service and will speak, and the college choir of forty mixed voices under the direction of Associate Professor Ralph R. Colbert will sing the responses, the hymns, and the anthems.

Continuing his series on the "Ten Key Chapters of the Bible," Dr. Lloyd will speak on the "Twentieth Chapter of Exodus" Sunday evening. The choir will sing the hymns, "All People That on Eearth Do Dwell" and "Sun of My Soul, Thou Savior Dear," and the anthems, "Ye Watchers, and Ye Holy Ones," a sixteenth century German melody, and McFarlane's "Open Our Eyes."

Student Council Considers Pay-Phone for Carnegie

The Student Council held its last meeting on Tuesday afternoon in Dean Hunter's classroom. The Faculty Committee, a subdivision of the Student Council, discussed installing a pay telephone in Carnegie hall, and is to present the idea to the faculty.

In order to clarify and bring together the loose amendments, the constitution of the Council has been re-written and thus will be a greater aid to both the faculty and Council.

Coach Fischbach Talks to Pre-Meds On First Aid

At the Pre-Med club meeting last Thursday night, Coach Fischbach spoke on first aid. In his talk he referred to the ever-increasing need for more people trained in first aid, especially now that the U.S. is in war. He gave instances of what the town of Maryville is doing to help train persons in first aid. There are two first aid classes in town with a combined attendance of approximately 160 persons.

He told the club of a few things taught in first aid classes, and gave the so-called "Ten Commandments" of first aid. He also touched briefly on the subject of "how to give first aid to a person who has been gassed."

After his talk, Coach Fischbach gave an interesting demonstration on some of the most commonly used bandages.

The next meeting of the club will be held February 12.

Watkins Re-elected Cotton Club Pres.

Cotton club at its meeting Monday night elected its officers for the coming semester. Dick Watkins was re-elected president; James Manning, vice-president; Beatrice Hunter, secretary; Joel Phillips, treasurer. Al Flowers, Jean Boyd, and Jean Bachelor were elected to the program committee.

The entertainment was provided by Jimmy Smith who displayed motion pictures that he himself took of Maryville campus life.

Triangle Club Held Meeting in YW Rooms

A meeting of the Triangle club was held in the YW rooms on Monday night, January 26. Jerry Beaver entertained with several piano selections, including one of his own compositions.

From now on the Triangle club will hold its meetings in the YW rooms. The next meeting is scheduled for February 9.

Theta-Epsilon, Alpha Sigma Midwinter Presented in Voorhees Chapel, Friday

Mrs. West Directs Wuthering Heights

Clevenger, Hawkins Star; Dunning Is Stage Manager

Last night at 8:15, the Alpha Sigma-Theta Epsilon midwinter production, "Wuthering Heights," was presented in Voorhees chapel, starring John Hawkins and Betty Clevenger as Heathcliffe and Catherine Earnshaw.

The play was written by Randolph Carter who had based it on the long-popular novel of the same name written by Emily Bronte.

Mrs. Nita Eckles West, who has directed nearly everything from Shakespeare to Sherwood, was in charge of direction. She was assisted by Betty Jean Kennedy.

The business of stage managing was handled by Charles Dunning, who was assisted by Mary Dawn Noblet.

John Hawkins, a junior philosophy major from Port Jefferson, New York, has long been interested in amateur theatricals, and has had some part to play in nearly every production since coming to Maryville in his freshman year. Not always has he been on the boards in character portrayals, however, but his handiwork has shone through many a performance, evidencing his presence behind the scenes as electrician.

Betty Clevenger, a recent electee to Theta Alpha Phi, is a dramatic art major from Newport, Tennessee, and was last seen in "Charlie's Aunt," playing one of the feminine minor roles. Her portrayal of the very difficult Cathy was spirited, but left the audience asking for more.

Alice Jones, a junior dramatics major from Harriman, Tennessee, was most convincing in the role of

By BILLYE RUTH BRALY

Although very few probably know it, a world-wide survey was made recently on the third floor of Baldwin hall. Only a few questions were asked, but the desired results were written by all except a small number of bashful or embarrassed maidens. Eventually, even they were subdued by sugary words and consolations. The vital question for the week is "Who is the Typical Third Floor Girl?"

Upon reading the question, each one shouted "I am" until Mrs. Franklin finally suggested that we give up screaming and all other unnecessary noise for the duration.

After days of waiting for all the timid souls to divulge their guarded secret—avoirdupois—several of us added, subtracted, and divided the numbers, and here's what we found. Notice there was no multiplication in the process, since all of us think we're too big anyway.

Here's the news Carnegie and the army have been waiting for lo, these many moons. This is William—"Call for ." Miss Average Third Floor Baldwin Sophomore. She is exactly five feet, four and one-half inches tall and weighs only 122 pounds. Her hair may change its color every week or two, but it is usually black, brown, red, or blond—with variations of each. Of course there was the time a delegation bought all the pink dye in a dime store and had an off-shade color of orange hair for about five days. But that has nothing to do with this amazing cherub. Miss Average (V for Victory) Third Floor Maryville College, better known as "Baby." She definitely has eyes. They too are of various shades, as anyone can plainly see.

How to Enjoy A Wrestling Match—Three Easy Lessons

By MARY WINTERMUTE

They say that one of the many things an education does for a person is change his attitudes about a great many things. I completely agree with what "they say" in this case. Back in my pre-Maryville days I had learned a healthy disrespect for those young ragamuffins of the neighborhood who spent their afternoons in the dust of the streets rolling and kicking and pulling each other's hair and twisting about in an effort to wriggle loose from the other fellow and beat him up. Since those days I have been forced to change my opinion of these lads who were the despair of their teachers and parents. They are grown men now and so they can carry on the same sort of warfare with a dignity becoming their years and it is not a disgusting brawl, it is a wrestling match. They are provided with mats which are much more comfortable than the gravel in the school yard walks must have been. They are now cheered on to greater struggles by the shouts from the bleachers. They used to be chased away from their fighting by the appearance of the school teacher at the front steps of the school building.

All of which proves nothing but the obvious fact that there is something about a wrestling match that appeals to folks. It could be the amusement people feel when they see two apparently normal and supposedly intelligent men grab each other around the neck and sway together like baby elephants. It could be the amazement they know when they see their classmate, who is all tied in knots and his opponent this very minute preparing to hang a "Do not unwrap until Christmas" sign on him, suddenly collect his strength and after a series of confusions come out on top of the heap that is his worthy opponent. It may be the awe that reaches folks when they see a man's arm being slowly but determindly twisted in a pretzel-like shape with nearing a break at all and all the while they realize that their limbs would be pulverized by such rough treatment. It may be the pity which folks feel for the man on the mat, that which makes them want to help out if only be shouting madly, "Bite that elbow now!" or "Tickle him in the ribs, boy!" It may be the way it never occurs to people to get angry because the fighter doesn't take their advice because everyone is too busy thinking up more advice to shout to the man wrestling that they don't notice whether their advice is followed or not. It may be that the matches appeal to folks the same way Lyons View appeals to the members of the Abnormal Psychology classes. It may be that folks just like to look at other folks do things, no matter what. If you get a thrill out of watching your classmates in the bleachers during the game you may recognize a few general classes of spectators.

There are two main types of spectators: those who are interested in the sport and those who merely go to the matches. It is the members of this first general class whom you

Infantile Paralysis Drive

For the past few weeks there has been going on what has become one of the traditional annual drives of America. This drive, sponsored by President Roosevelt, is for the benefit of children who are victims of infantile paralysis, or poliomelitis, the disease which often is fatal, but which more often brings not death, but a pathetic life inheritance of a twisted, crippled body.

Yesterday was the birthday of the President. This event was given recognition in the Presidential Balls which were held throughout the nation, and through which many people were able to make their contributions to the Infantile Paralysis Fund. But this form of participation, while preferred by some, is out of range for so many others. For those who desired to help in another way, benefit performances, novel coin folders and "Wishing Wells" have been presented by the National Committee for the Fight Against Infantile Paralysis. Such a "Wishing Well" has been in the Y store for the past week, and the local drive will continue through next week. But contributions and offers of help need not, and should not be limited either to a coin folder or to next week.

What we are trying to say, without sounding too much like a fourth grade health lesson, is that a drive such as this infantile paralysis campaign is bound to dwindle and lose intensity; but infantile paralysis, itself, will not automatically have a corresponding drop in intensity. There is yet much to be done—and your help is needed if this dread disease and its after-effects are to be conquered.

WUTHERING HEIGHTS—Play by Randolph Carter based on the novel by Emily Bronte. Produced by Theta Epsilon and Alpha Sigma. Directed by Mrs. Nita E. West.

Under the capable direction of Mrs. West, the Maryville audience was again priviledged to witness an interesting production. The choice of Emily Bronte's "Wuthering Heights," although it was perhaps a little too subtle for adequate amateur interpretation, was an excellent choice for the Theta-Alpha Sig Midwinter. Mr. Randolph Carter, the playwright, has transformed Miss Bronte's well-known and loved novel into a drama full of suspense and action; at the same time none of the beauty of the lines, the excellence of characterization, nor the sinister atmosphere of the English moors, is lost in the transposition.

The actors, as a group, were exceedingly well-trained and showed evidences of a mature understanding of the characters they were attempting to portray. The feminine lead, played by Betty Clevenger in the role of Cathy was well-performed. Particularly worthy of commendation was her acting in the climatic third act.

John Hawkins, as Heathcliffe, overcoming a great handicap in that he did not "look the part," likewise played his role with a reasonable degree of convincingness (especially if one listened rather than watched).

Fred DePue, very well-adapted to his part, did a fair job of conveying to the audience the stiff, unbending, priggish personality of Edgar Linton.

In the opinion of several of the members of the audience, at least, the best acting in the entire production was done by Alice Matthews as Isabel Linton. She grasped the character from the start, presenting a most convincing interpretation throughout. The fact that the usual impression the reader gets of Isabel is a fragile, wisp-like young girl did not prove an obstacle to an appreciation of Miss Matthews' Isabel.

Presenting an equally realistic rendition of Ellen Deane, the elderly servant companion, was Alice Jones who lost herself in the part and really became Ellen.

The two minor characters—Carl Miller as Joseph and Livingston Hislop as Hindley Earnshaw did their share in contributing to the sum total of the interest aroused.

As always, the production staff did an excellent job of transforming the stage into a realistic nineteenth century English home with the wind blowing over the moors in the distance. Chuck Dunning and his crew of workers deserve a word of praise for their untiring efforts, as do the make-up artists, the costumers, the collectors of properties, the wind-makers and rest of the cast behind the scenes.

Old Spice

By JEAN BARNES

Not trying to kill two birds with one stroke or anything, the train of old spice starts off—most impressively—led by Bob Burd. It seems Mr. Burd has never tried Old Spice, in fact has never spent hours poring over the Highland Echo at all. Hence a little matter of a bet involving a coat and a dress as stakes, Doris Shanks and Bob as principles, and whether the name Burd makes the headlines this issue; and we dedicate what follows to him. If this doesn't make sense to you, ask the above mentioned.

Besides like Frances Bowman we've made a "New Year's resolution" not to worry any more. And the actual fighting starts in May.

Just as a beginning, for the role of the familiar-ramblers take the following they'll-do-it-every-times; and we quote: Breazeale staggering Main Street with that grin of his, Bud Pierce and Meredith Preston taking Gracie Jarnagin for one of her "brisk" walks, Helen Cone trying to find Gerry, Bunchy Bunch showing off the nifty phonograph she got from Santa Claus, people like Grosh tearing down doors, Duane Collins in a neat, Mary-made sweater, Clifton Housley and Joe McCaslin wandering around telling little-moron jokes. And you stop and listen and make complete the "And one little moron said to the other little moron . . ."

And speaking of dashing in places, did you happen to be in the Chatterbox the other night when the Baldwin Brigade came in singing, "Daisy, Daisy, give me your answer true; I'm half crazy"? We could distinguish Shorty Waisman, Ronnie Hansel, Peggy Murrian, and Jesse Stuart in the mad crowd. Assault 'n flattery they calls it, huh? Wooing the Chatterbox crew, that's all.

Among too many others, we're going to miss Brasher Bailey who leaves for the army today. But do our men get ahead! Johnny White's a sergeant already. And Cliff Poole is on the same field as Johnny in Alabama. And "our own Phil Vance" we hear entered competition with twenty-four other clarinetists, professionals at that, and came out first. And that's something to blow about.

Hm, maybe the O. S. sense of humor is in temporary eclipse. But just wait'll the family comes. To padded cell No. 13.

Oh yes, seems some of Prof's prize exhibits took off to Knoxville Tuesday morning and entertained the Rotary Club very successfully. The boys' quartet of Gilmore, Lippard, Stiles, and Lyle, and the girls' trio of Becky Jones, Doris Smith, and Frances Harris taking Louise Marshall's place, added their songs to one of Marcia Keirn's solos, and it all went over big.

"Well, dear, what's cooking, besides the popcorn at Dr. Griffitts' open house parties?" That's the latest snatch of conversation we've overheard.

We'd like to give special honorable mention—in a quiet sort of way—to Carolyn Huber. If you haven't already, try a glance in at a wrestling match some 8:30. The way Carolyn helps Horace Justus' morale and so forth is nothing short of wonderful. Really rooting, what we mean.

We were supposed to clear up a mystery of the missing major or something, but we almost forgot the answer. Seems Fred DePue has been classed during his various publicities as everything from Home Economics major to Voice; and is not too delighted to judge from muffled indications. This week we'll hazard a guess at political science just to smooth his hair. Seems that's ninety-nine percent right at least.

It was funny to hear everyone painfully trying to help Ruth Perrin's nursery rime for education class through the famous last words. It finally came out something like "Bicky, back, benny, A cartload for a penny; With sweetrolls and cinnamon sticks, The biggest buy of any." Just perfect for him of 1942, no?

And coming up's a full moon. "O my goodness."

We'd like to pay a little tribute to the gorgeous plaids on the men from Kansas, even the coach yet; Little Barr's voice changing right there in chapel; Peter Van Blarcom's choice of evening lunches; Virginia Montgomery wowing the Illinois swimmers; Lily Belle Grizzard revealing a lovely soprano voice at Bainonian; Paul Sieber's master touch—acid plus clothes, and from there on; Mildred Montgomery's incense; Jerry Beaver's grand technique with a piano; and Miss Wright's electric eraser no less. (And did you know that the lovely new house right yonder on Court Street is her's?)

Exit the moon.

They've wondered, are you aware of the fact that Ann Hunter Wright can tell you anything you want to know about Temple University; that Billye Ruth Braly has the best necklace ever—made out of red candlewax; that sometimes you can feel people staring at your back; that Punjab is mighty nice.

Ah yes, and the Junior-Seniors we hear won the volley-ball championship—nobly assisted in practice by J. D.'s gallant rasslers when there weren't enough girls for two teams.

Since this is a sort of community project this week, we want to express our undying gratitude and such things to Misses Anonymity. And just any time.

My Mama Done Told Me. Yeah?

hear exclaim, "Boy, am I ever tired!" And they feel they have a perfect right to be more weary than the wrestlers themselves who, after all, fight but once during the course of the evening, whereas the interested spectator has at least 10 fights to cope with. Let me give you two examples of the interested spectator. The first one is the one whose voice you frequently hear above the mob shouting, "Get him this time, Horace!" The owner of this voice invariably sits on the Court street side of the gym, in the middle section and the front row. Her face is one intent scowl and no one could deny that she is an interested spectator (I'm sorry, but I can't mention her name because I don't know whether or not Caroline would like me to.) or not). Another example of an interested spectator (and again I'll mention no name) is the physics' education teacher who is apparently planning to conduct a class in wrestling next year. With each member of the team she goes through the motions of wrestling pausing only long enough to yell, "No! NO! Don't let him do that to you!"

There are many examples of the disinterested, but I'm sure my life would be in danger if I even hinted at a name here. There are the great number of couples who attend each wrestling match. They have one very good reason. Matrons never go to these contests. However, a great number of our learned faculty do attend these contests and surely no true student would pass up the chance of getting a seat near the French professor where he can be on hand to retrieve any hats, coats, books, etc., which the professor might drop during the course of the matches. (This is not apple-polishing. It is merely looking after one's best interests). Then there are those who go to the wrestling match because they must do something or they want to catch up on their Who's Going With Who or they feel that anything, even a wrestling match, is to be preferred to a quiet evening at home in the deserted dorm or they feel that something just might possibly happen which they would regret having missed or they got roped into going by the arguments of their roommate. But no matter why a person goes he always manages to stay awake and get some good lung exercise in the bargain.

Midwinter . . .

Ellen Dean, the faithful hand servant to Cathy, and turned in the most consistently good performance of the evening.

The part of Isabel Linton was well played by Alice Matthews, who is a transfer junior English major from Wilmington, Delaware. This was her first appearance in a major dramatic production at Maryville.

Fred DePue, sophomore political science major from Bangor, Pennsylvania, and veteran amateur thespian, was cast as Catherine's husband, Edgar Linton.

The other minor roles were played by Carl Miller and Livingstone Hislop. Carl Miller interpolated the harsh, fanatical old retainer Joseph, and Hislop portrayed the cruel and weak Hindley Earnshaw, brother to Cathy.

The fairly difficult job of period costuming the entire cast was discharged by Georgia Lu Meadows with the able assistance of Dorothy Harned in a most commendable fashion.

The lighting was handled by Purnell Darrell, freshman from Pennsylvania, and the properties by Helen Airheart and Lucia Moore. The stage crew for this performance was composed of Ted Kidder, Brasher Bailey, Robert Shalkop, and Richard Boyd.

Supervising the business end of the production were Joseph D'Antonia and Mary Felknor, while the advertising was in charge of George Devereaux and Ann Jones.

Ushering for the evening were Ted Holman, Mary Ruth Baker, Bob Mair, Ann Jones, Percy Martin, Margaret Ash, Wesley Lochausen, Mary Lib Karg, Roy Laughmiller, Polly Park, Walter Proffitt, and Bobbilee Knab.

Feb. Meetings . . .

in the past 21 years.

When Mr. Stringham first led the February Meetings, he was pastor of the Methodist church in Alcoa. It was discovered that he had special talent as a leader of group singing and he was invited for the first time when a leader from a distance found it impossible to come. His work was so satisfactory that he was urged to return; and so he returns after already giving two decades of service to the February Meetings.

The February Meetings constitute one of the most real opportunities to be found on any American college campus for thoughtful, reverent, facing of the Christian gospel and the requirements and privileges of Christian life and service. Thousands of students and hundreds of faculty during the past 65 years have found great personal blessing in them. Letters from distant places and reports on the campus tell how the February Meetings are increasingly the object of prayers these days.

"Dipsy Doodle" Exhibit Sponsored by Art Club

Some people bite their fingernails, some chew pencils, but if you doodle give your masterpieces to Art club members before the next meeting, February 5, in the Elizabeth Gowdy Baker Memorial Art Gallery on the second floor of Anderson annex at 6:45. Don't be ashamed of your art—after all, if President Roosevelt pleads guilty to doodling, why shouldn't you?

A sincere doodler is a real artist. He may spend hours on each little thinga-ma-jig while talking to Mary, Dorothy, or May; he may work with all his ability getting each little whatchamacallit just so while listening to Professor Dull speak on "The State of Boredom."

Doodling is so widespread that now there are people who read your character from what you doodle. They believe that you doodle with your unconscious mind — I mean sub-conscious—and thus reveal your character. Why hide your talent under a basket? Bring your doodles—get them from blotters, notebooks, and scratch paper—to the Art club and let your light shine forth.

The Art club needs your doodles to make their exhibit a success. Everyone and his pet doodle is invited to attend. It is imperative that anyone who is at all interested in the Art club attend this meeting. Come one, come all, and bring not your pet poodle as to a dog show—but your pet doodle to the Art club "Dipsy Doodle" exhibit.

Mr. Smith Attends Alumni Club Meeting At Birmingham, Ala.

On Wednesday evening, January 21, the Maryville College Alumni club of the Birmingham, Alabama, District held its semi-annual meeting at the Sixth Avenue Presbyterian church in Birmingham. Twelve members of the Alumni club with their wives and husbands were present.

Re . James R. Smith, Public Relations Secretary, and Executive Secretary of the Alumni Association, was the college representative at the meeting.

At the Sixth Avenue Presbyterian church of which Dr. Joseph M. Broady, a former student and present director of Maryville College is pastor, the Alumni club joined in with the church in a dinner and social program. The moving pictures of Maryville College life were shown. After the program, the alumni held a short business meeting and elected the following officers: president, Mr. J. Hayden Laster, class of '30; and secretary-treasurer, Miss Lois Hayes, class of '24.

deBarritt, Hart Entertain Le Cercle Francais

The French club held its last meeting on Thursday evening in the YW rooms. Plans were discussed for the annual banquet to be held this spring.

The following entertainment was presented: Lucette deBarritt played piano selections, "Everything I Love," "Concerto for Two" and "Two Hearts that Pass in the Night." Winifred Hart played accordian selections, "Lady of Spain," and "Stardust."

Jerry Beaver Plays For Theta Tonight

Theta Epsilon society will be entertained tonight by Jerry Beaver, who was scheduled to play at the last meeting but was unable to do so. Jerry is a former Maryville student; his program will consist of several piano selections. An added attraction will be "jitterbugging" as interpreted by James Manning and Ken Ross.

Plans for a Theta banquet will be discussed, and all members are urged to attend.

"TOUGH GUYS"

When you watch some of our swimming meets and wrestling matches you immediately realize that we have more than our share of ambition. The super teams from Kansas and Illinois who travel around the country in busses and new Mercurys are a bit out of our class. They hail from much larger schools and naturally have much larger athletic budgets. That does not mean that the contests are not beneficial to us. Besides attracting unusual attention and interest, they showed our teams just what it takes to come out on top. They gave our boys a picture of real team strength and aided each contender in an individual manner also. Their sportsmanship and friendliness spoke for themselves. All of them appeared to be clean ,sports-loving athletes who were participating wholly for their school and the enjoyment of their own efforts. Our boys gained valuable experience and encountered some real competition from these athletes from the Midwest.

A DIFFERENT BALL CLUB

Whether it was Coach Honaker's pep talk, this corner last week, revenge for the previous defeat, or just plain desire to win, the Scottie hoopsters were a different team when they played the Teachers last Saturday night. The shooting, passing, and floorwork looked like that of another team—a good one. Ray Lillard finally broke into his old form and evaded his guards to outscore everyone on the floor. The change was unmistakable—they were playing a new brand of ball. Perhaps that points out one of the prime attributes of a successful ball club: CONSISTENCY! A team must play good ball consistently to keep on the winning side. It must be consistent in its passing, in its shooting, and in its defense. Consistency is one of the most difficult qualities to achieve. It is achieved only through long hours of conscientious practice and training! Only then can the team play good ball regularly.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

The whole wrestling team seemed to enjoy the Knoxville Y match. And from the show they put on against Kansas State, it seemed that they had acquired a bit of confidence from it. Every one of them put up a good fight against his highly-rated K-S opponent. You couldn't help but notice the evident superiority of some of their grapplers. They were beautiful wrestlers, as fast as they come, and trained to a fine degree on both offense and defense. Congrats go to Justus who gained the only decision for the Scots. (We don't see how Horace could lose with the cheering "section" he has.) Dave McDaniel had some tough breaks with an ankle and a banged-up eye that left him below par in a match that really looked like a good one. Statistically speaking, we're six points better than Vandy, who took a 32-0 beating at the hands of Kansas State Tuesday night. Therefore the Saturday night match with Vandy in our gym ought to be the best of the season.

Did you see that somersault turn the Tech backstrokers used? It surely sent them sailing! Tommy Mize looked all right winning the diving event—it's not easy to get back into the swing after a long layoff. Tregay's "super-duper" was an improvement over last year's too. (He must be practicing!) Sidner, Colville, and May gave the frosh something to brag about. But where was that man Wilcox?

If you see a lot of sore thumbs and fingers, blame it either on the bowling epidemic or on intramural basketball. Those Celtic-Dodger frays were skillful exhibitions of ball-playing. Both teams were good but Jim Faulkner showed 'em what the varsity had done for him. It wouldn't take long to convert our cage squad into an indoor track team—the way they take those laps. They're beginning to acquire nicknames: "Five-lap" Taylor, "Ten-lap" Honaker, "Eight-lap" Lillard. Did you notice that surprised expression on Big Red's face when Rokey took him right off his feet?

Sport Talk-of-the-Week: Bob A. (for Atlas) Morton who plays "basketball" with the Freewheelers and who is the answer when spectators ask "Who is that guy out there that looks like a professional wrestler?"

King Tornado Hits M-C Cagers Again In Scoring Spree

Overcoming an early Maryville lead, the King college quintet downed our Scotties by a 59-44 score in Bristol Thursday night. This was the second time this year that King, one of the best college squads in East Tennessee, had defeated the Honakermen.

Paced by Lillard and Menning, the Highlanders opened with a scoring splurge that gave them an early advantage, but King pulled ahead to lead 25-21 at half time. Kursavage, Vance, and Fowler were sparkplugs of the Tornado attack. Kursavage, giant center, tied for scoring honors with 14 tallies, and on defense seemed to be glued to the ball. Vance, forward, was also good for 14 points, four of them coming on free throws. Fowler counted ten times, and Messerole, long shooting guard who has always been effective against the Scotties, was responsible for 7 points.

For the losers, sub Webb was high in the scoring department, with 11 points. Ross Honaker, another second-stringer, came through with 8, and the always dependable Ray Lillard racked up an equal number.

Lineups:

Maryville		King
Lillard 8	F	Vance 14
D. Smith 4	F	Atwood 6
Menning 5	C	Kursavage 14
J. Smith 5	G	Messerole 7
Taylor 3	G	Fowler 10

Subs: Maryville—Webb 11, Honaker 8, Miller. King—LaVanche 4, Rizzo 3, Mitrushi 1, Quillen.

Tusculum Pioneers Eke Out Close Victory Over Scottie Cagers Friday

Webb, Menning Star, But Greenevillie Team Outclasses Scotties

Tusculum's Pioneers, led by Don Spargo who scored 19 points, defeated Maryville Friday evening 47-41. The game, played on the Pioneer floor in Greeneville, was marked by numerous fouls on both sides, with the Scotties responsible for no less than 18 misplays. Maryville trailed by only one point at halftime, 22-23, but was outdistanced in the closing period when Spargo and Sears found the range.

Webb, freshman forward starting his first college game, scored 14 points for the losers. Captain Stan Menning pushed 4 field goals thru the hoop for a total of 8 points before he was ejected from the game for excessive rough stuff. Ray Lillard, stellar forward, was guarded closely, but nonetheless tallied 7 points.

Spargo was high point man for the game, with 7 of his 19 shots coming on foul throws. Sears, Tusculum pivotman, counted 14, and Hartsell was next high with 8. The Pioneers, coached by Frosty Holt, have defeated Hiwassee, E-T Teachers, and Milligan this year, losing only to Union. The Greeneville five features a fast-breaking attack, feeding the ball time and again to Spargo and Sears right under the enemy bucket.

Lineups:

Maryville		Tusculum
Lillard 7	F	Spargo 19
Webb 14	F	Hartsell 8
Menning 8	C	Sears 14
Taylor 6	G	Heinz 2
D. Smith 4	G	Mitchell 4

Subs: Maryville—J. Smith 2, Honaker, Miller. Tusculum—Starnes.

Davis' Rasslers Succumb to Strong Kansas Staters

Last Wednesday evening an underdog Maryville College wrestling squad took to the mat against a powerful team from Kansas State, who still had the taste of victory in their mouths after defeating the reportedly strong Vanderbilt outfit 32-0 the night before. Although as a whole the team was generally outclassed from beginning to end, again it was Justus and McDaniel who took the giant share of honors for the local boys.

In one of the closest matches of the evening Justus defeated Dunlap in an overtime match which left both boys exhausted on the mat, and gave the Scotties their only points of the evening. As far as fighting spirit is concerned, however, the credit all goes to "Little Mac" who was the hard luck gentleman of the clash. Dave took the mat with his ankle and arm so bruised and sensitive that they had to be protected with tape and a sponge, but before the end of the event, the match had to be stopped twice for repairs to a further aggravated ankle and an opened eye. This show of fighting courage gave rise to all sorts of complimentary remarks from the hard-fighting visitors.

Kansas gained its 29 points by gaining decisions over McDaniel, Suitor (another very hard-fought match), and Ballinger while McCord, Murrian, Wilson, and Richards were all victims of pinning holds by their opponents.

From Maryville, the Kansas State grapplers will go on to the U. S. Naval Academy and then back to Knoxville to face U-T before returning home after a 3000-mile road trip.

Tonight Maryville will face the Vanderbilt team for the 1942 State Championship. Last year the Scotties defeated Vandy for that same honor, but both squads are studded with new faces; so a close match is in store for all who get out tonight.

Summary:

121: Stiefel pinned McCord.

128: Emmons pinned Murrian.

135: Justus decesioned Dunlap in overtime match.

145: Vavroch decesioned McDaniel

155: Wempe decisioned Suitor.

165: Brecheisen decisioned Ballinge..

175: Volsky pinned Wilson.

Heavyweight: Rokey pinned Richards.

(Maryville lost two exhibition matches, Black and Culver both being pinned in the third period.)

M-C Grapplers Throw Knox Y In One-Sided Meet

Knoxville Y, winners over U-T and highly rated by the Knoxville papers, was put to rout last Saturday night by the state champion Maryville wrestlers in a one-sided match in Alumni gym. It was the first meet Maryville has had with a state team and it showed that Coach Davis' men are going to be the team to beat for the state championship this year as it has been in other years. There were no decisioned bouts in the match and freshman Al Murrian, the up-and-coming 128 pounder, was the only Scottie to have his shoulders pinned to the mat.

Horace Justus ran into the toughest opposition when he tangled with Fox of the visiting team. It took Horace 7:53 and six trips to the towel under the corner of the mat to get his pin. Ed Ballinger recovered from his match against the Illinois champ two weeks ago to put on the comedy act of the evening with the Y's Elkins. The six-foot Ballinger was opposed by a short, stocky Knoxvillian whose antics on the mat were as comical as they were unserviceable. The fastest pin of the evening was effected by Red McCord in the first bout. The time was 1:45, quick work in any match. Richards, Wilson, Suitor, and McDaniel all disposed of their men in good style.

Maryville's chances to repeat as state champs seem to be fairly good after this meet. The Knoxville Y defeated U-T by a one-sided score and with the Scots holding a 35-5 decision over the Y grapplers, it would appear that the Davis men are very much in the running.

Summary follows:

McCord (M) pinned Ford (Y)—1:40.

Messenheimer (Y) pinned Murrian (M)—2.57.

Justus (M) pinned Fox (Y)—7:53.

McDaniel (M) pinned Swafford (Y)—3:45.

Suitor (M) pinned Raby (Y)-2:54.

Ballinger (M) pinned Elkins (Y) —4.03.

Wilson (M) pinned Murphy (Y) —3:01.

Richards (M) pinned Rachly (Y) —3:34.

Scotties Score Win Over E.T.T. Behind Lillard

The long-awaited return of the so-far, dormant-shooting eye of Ray Lillard became a reality last Saturday night at Alumni gym when the sharp-shooting soph paced the local quintet to a 42-30 win over the East Tennessee Teachers' College hoopsters. Lillard's 21 points was the hook upon which the Scots were able to hang the victory over the team that had beaten them earlier in the season. The Honakermen redeemed themselves after last week's humiliation by the J.A.S. team by exhibiting a ball club that is worthy of being called a Scottie team.

In spite of a heroic attempt by the referee to exhaust the supply of men in uniform via the personal foul route, both teams were able to keep a full quota of men on the floor at all times. Six men, three Scots and three Teachers, were ejected from the game before the final whistle put an end to the continuous marches to the foul lines. The two Smiths and Lloyd Taylor were the Maryville victims of the referee's displeasure; Gosorth, Jessee, and Bean were the visitor's bad boys.

Coach Honaker threw thirteen men at the Teachers during the course of the evening and every combination clicked well. Leaping Lloyd Taylor captured rebound after rebound off the opponent's backboard, preventing the Teacher forwards from tapping them in and giving his teammates the ball. Gordon Webb showed up as a man to watch in the scoring column by dropping in seven points during his short sojurn in the fray. The Teacher defense was outsmarted by the fast cutting, short passing game played by the Highlanders. Lillard's outstanding offensive play was one of the highlights of the game.

Exum, Teacher guard who was bothersome to the Scotties in their last tilt, carried off scoring honors on the visiting team with ten points. Self, his running mate in the backcourt, was next with 7. Burleson played a good game at forward.

Tech Hawks Sink Scot Mermen To Tune Of 58-16

Mize Makes Maryville's Only First In Tank Meet Held Monday

Capping first place in all but one event, a strong Illinois Tech swimming squad from Chicago splashed their way to a decisive victory over the Scottie tankmen last Monday night in the Maryville pool. Tom Mize, for Maryville, outdid two Tech opponents to win the diving event, but the final score of the meet was Tech 59, Maryville 16.

It was the Scots' first swim meet of the season, and, having but one returned letterman from last year's squad, they entered the fray rated the underdogs. Mize, Sidner, and Crews were outstanding for the home team, scoring a first and two second places respectively. Captain Frank Miller, Sidner, Colville, May, and Bergquist each chalked up a third in his race.

Tech took first place in the initial event of the evening, the 300 yard medley. The 220 yard freestyle went to McNerney and Wahlgrer of Tech and Sidner of Maryville, 1st, 2nd, and 3rd honors respectively. Tech copped first and second in the 50 yard freestyle, while Charlie Colville scored for the Scots with a third.

The diving was the fourth event of the meet. Tom Mize totalled an 85.12 to place first, and Tregay of Tech scored an 81.05 to place second. Maier of Tech took third slot.

Frank Miller took third place in the 100 yard freestyle, and Bill May did the same in the 150 yard backstroke. Stan Crews won a second for the Scots in the 200 yard breaststroke, with the time 3:16.8. Second place in the 440 freestyle went to Sidner, time 7:20.4, and third went to Bergquist.

The last event of the evening, the 400 yard relay, was taken by Tech Maryville was disqualified for jumping the starter's signal on one of the laps.

The Maryville meet was the fourth of the season for Illinois Tech squad made the trip from Chicago to swim here on Monday night and against Tusculum on Tuesday night. They returned north after the Tusculum meet.

Coach Fischbach has spent this week drilling his squad for next Tuesday's grapple with Tusculum at Greeneville. The big man for the Pioneers will be Morgan, a crack dash man. Except for their power in the dashes, little is known about Tusculum's strength. The Scots will invade their pool with an eye for the first victory of the season.

Summary of the Tech meet:

300 yard medley—Tech —3:36.2

220 yd. freestyle—1st, 2nd Tech 3rd Maryville—2:51.5.

50 yd. freestyle—1st and 2nd Tech —28.2

BASKETBALL—

With a two-way tie in the Independent League and a three-way tie in the Club League, the first half of the intramural basketball tourney wound up this week in the middle of a "slew" of play-off games. The Tuesday night game between the independent Celtics and Dodgers—a humdinger of a tussle—went to the Dodgers by two points and caused a tie-up between those same two teams for the league championship.

The regularly-cheduled Club league games ended on Monday and left the Ministerials, Alpha Sig, and Athenian all in slot number one. Alpha Sig drew a bye for the play-offs and slowed down to idling speed while the Preachers and Athenian had it out with each other.

That's the way things stood at noon on Thursday. Thursday afternoon two play-off games were slated and played; results as follows:

Celtics 33, Dodgers 16—The Celts walked off with the independent league championship (first half of tourney) when they nearly doubled the Dodgers' score on the varsity gym court. It was an evenly-matched game for the first three quarters, fast and hard and rough in spots. The Celtics led the Dodgers by only three points at the half. Near the end of the third quarter Charlie Pepper knocked the bottom out of the bucket with two midcourt shots and Norman Hooker followed them with a third just like them. That gave the Celtics their push, and it was all their game from then on. Edwards was high man with 11; Doodle Miller next with 8.

The losers lacked the swift and accurate passing they needed. Ezell did some fast breaking, and Bud Pierce and Jim Faulkner some nice ball handling. Ezell was top man with 10 points.

Athenian 26, Ministerials 18—By beating the Preachers Athenian stayed in the running and claimed the right to meet Alpha Sig for the championship (first half) Saturday night. It was anyone's ball game during the first half. Ministerials led for a while and trailed by only one epoint at the half time. There was too much fast breaking for the size of the floor, and especially Ministerial felt it the last half. Athenian sent in three fresh men and cinched the game several minutes before the final whistle. Ken Cooper's crip shots were geood and his four free tosses gave him a 10 point total. Chuck Foreman did some nice breaking from the side and accounted for 6 points. Stevens played fast, Pratt accurately, and Hunter steadily, all as usual. Yet as a whole Athenian wasn't up to par.

Harvey Overton was hot for the Ministers again and chalked up 9. Cecil Eanes and Leroy Dilliner finished the scoring with 5 and 4 respectively. The passing was slower than that of the winners, but fast breaks accounted for nearly a third of the points. The benching of Bill Grosh by a broken toe went hard for the Ministerials, and they played the same five men the whole game.

So the Club League classic will be in the Alumni gym Saturday evening about 7:00 between the tied-up Athenians and Alpha Sigers.

But to take the week chronologically, here's what happened on Monday:

Subs 44, Hotshots 17—Jim Hedges led the Subs in a decisive tussle with the Heaps cousins, Boyd, Chapman, and Bogosian. Jim put in 18 points; Lockwood accounted for 8 and Upshaw for 6 for the winners. For the losers Malcolm Heaps was tops with 5.

Alpha Sig 42, Ministerials 28—Turk Graham set 'em up to the tune of 22 points to lead Alpha Sig over the lately-declining Ministerials. When Turk gets started—look out! Also Sweeney, Mitchell, Howard and Spears all had their fingers in the scoring pie for the winners. Overton was high again for the Preachers with 10, and Dilliner close behind with 8.

Athenian 42, Choir 25—Ken Cooper and Chuck Foreman led the scoring and Ted Pratt the ball handling and passing as Athenian handed the Singers another defeat. The winners' deft passing and shooting was just too much, and Cooper in the middle of the floor was a defense in himself. The Choir played a good game but never really threatened. Gilmore and Lloyd were high men together with 8 apiece.

Tuesday—

Free Wheelers 33, Devils 13—In a scrap postponed from Monday night Coach Fischbach's Free Wheelers more than doubled the score of the Devils. Coach himself was tops for the winners with 13; and Bill Hargrave for the losers with 5.

Dodgers 25, Celtics 23—This is the game that tied up the Independent League. It was one of the rootin' tootin'-est games of the season. Fast, exciting, and changing first to favor one team and then to bless the other. And there was some good basketball in it, too. The gallery got their money's worth. Keree was high for the winners and Miller for the losers.

Wednesday—

Free Wheelers 39, Hotshots 13—Coach Fischbach again led the scoring to humble the Hotshots. Les Boyd was outstanding for the losers.

Subs 29, Devils 14—The Subs looked true to form, especially Jim Hedges, as they more than doubled the Devils' score. Jim just couldn't miss during the first half, and came out with 13 for a total. Dilliner was good for the Devils.

Athenian 45, Ministerials 14—It was a prelude to the game played between these same two teams on Thursday. But Cooper and Freshman Stevens were hotter, and the whole team clicked more nicely. Leroy Dilliner was high for his team with 6.

This corner advises all red-blooded fans and fandies to be on hand tonight for the Alpha Sig-Athenian tilt in the big gym!

HANDBALL—

Handball manager Frank Miller reported progressive things from the handball tourney on Thursday. The first round of the elimination was over by then, and the second round was scheduled to wind up on Wednesday of next week.

Thirty-two people were entered in the brackets, three of them Faculty men. All three of them, Dr. Case, Dr. Collins, and Mr. Pieper, came through to the second round, and they offer a real threat to would-be victors. Oliver Van Cise and Bill Evans won as expected. Watkins, Ross, and Sweeney had byes. By this time next week the real competition will be on deck.

FENCING—

The double-elimination fencing tournament went through its first round in a big way this week with only one man, Bob Calvesbert, drawing a bye. Lockwood and B. Henderson looked good. In this event also the big news will begin next week when the competition is narrowed.

C. Davis And Class Seek to Enjoy Life And Pursue Happiness

By BEN LYNT

Coach Davis endeared himself to the lads in his third hour gym class as well as to Mrs. Queener and her class of young ladies, and revealed a side of himself heretofore undisclosed, when, on Wednesday last, he had some of his charges execute some light work for him as the end of the class period drew near.

It all happened so unexpectedly, and at the same time so smoothly, that some of the boys are yet wondering about just who put one over on whom, if any, and being darkly suspicious that they, perchance, were the dupees in the whole jolly affair.

The boys in question were asked, casually enough to be sure, and as a favor to the coach, to carry some tumbling mats down from the second floor of Bartlett over to the big gym, by way of preparation for that Wednesday evening's wrestling match. The lads were obliging enough, and were even rather pleased at the prospect of being of some help to the coach and at the same time perhaps of catching a momentary glimpse or two of the fairer sex at play. But, little did they dream when they nodded assent to the Coach's request, that in a few short moments they would be engaged in carefree folk dancing, with a girls' gym class, or that they would see Mentor Davis bobbing and weaving about in a spirited Virginia Reel. Such was the case, nonetheless.

The boys staggered into the gym and made their way to the far side of the barn-like structure, being careful the while to skirt the crowd of girls who were, for the moment, ensconced on the floor, intent upon being instructed in the finer points of the gentle art of folk dancing.

As the first of the mats were dumped, Coach Davis was heard to remark somewhat surreptitiously, and with a sly twinkle in his dancing brown eyes, that if anyone were interested, Mrs. Queener could probably use about eighteen spry young men to help out in a practical application of the principles involved in the Virginia Reel. The usual polite protestations were made, but Mrs. Queener was so warmly insistent, and the young ladies themselves so free to taunt, that refusal to comply was out of the question. Submission was made, semi-grudgingly at first, but, as the music began, everyone entered into the spirit of the thing, partners were chosen, and Coach Davis himself made a not too unwilling draftee.

In just a few moments, couples were bobbing and weaving about in the approved manner in the gayest of wholesome Reels ever one could desire to behold this side of the promised land, with curly Davis setting the merry pace. There was no room there for oppressive thoughts of World Wars, or mass hatred, or unpleasant weather, or exams, or the food shortage, as youthful merriment held sway, making the very rafters ring, and the side-walls shake with earnest pleasure.

When time was called, and the lads sent on their way to prepare for their next hour classes, all agreed that the moments there spent had been moments well invested.

It is our guess that the boys in the softball class which meets the third hour Mondays and Wednesdays will not soon forget the Virginia Reel and smiling curly Davis, no matter how much else of English and Math and Science they fail to retain. The remark foremost in the minds, and indeed on the lips of many of both classes was, oddly enough, "why don't we do this more often?"

Your next bid, Mrs. Murgatroyd.

New Books . . .

A book especially interesting to the historically minded is "The Present State of Virginia and the College," which was written in the 18th century, and has been edited, with a lengthy introduction, by H. P. Farish for the Williamsburg Virginia Restoration Historical Studies. The original authors were Henry Hartwell, James Blair, and Edward Chilton, gentlemen of the "Old Dominion." The aforementioned society is reviving and editing a series of these old Colonial documents and books which throw light on the period.

Also interesting to the literati is the recently acquired volume of T. S. Elliott's "Essays Ancient and Modern." These essays have been collected from various writings of Elliot and include such subjects as "Religion and Literature," "Catholicism and International Order," "In Memoriam," and "Modern Education and the Classics."

Bainonian To Meet

Bainonian society will meet tonight at 6:15. The program will consist of a "battle of wits" between the various majors in the club. Each group of majors will choose a representative to compete in the fray. All members are urged to attend and support their representative.

Recommendations

permanent record information blank will be given to each senior present and the group will be instructed as to how they should fill out these blanks. From the information on these papers six sets of recommendations will be made up and put on file in the Public Relations office. A graduate may then at any time after graduation refer his prospective employers to the Public Relations office which will mail a set of these recommendations to him.

Each set of recommendations consists of the following sheets:

1. A commercial print of the subject and a statement of the purpose of the set.

2. A record of the subjects and hours taken and personal data on the subject.

3. Three sheets carrying recommendations and ratings of three of the subject's professors.

All this information is bound in a blue bristol board folder for a complete file. The fee for filing recommendations is the same as before, one dollar for the entire service. This fee takes care of as many recommendations from the school as a graduate may need.

Alpha Sig Tonight

Alpha Sigma will meet at 6:15 tonight in Alpha Sigma hall. In the absence of President Ted Holman, George Devereaux will take charge of the meeting.

New Constitution For Spanish Club

Election of New Officers Next Week

Last Thursday the Spanish club held its regular bi-monthly meeting. The program consisted of several songs sung in Spanish, and a skit presented by Aura and Hester Santiago. Bina Ruth Brown introduced a novel game in which advertisements, taken from the Spanish Reader's Digest, were to be recognized by the members.

At its regular business meeting, the club decided to elect officers every semester instead of just once a year. A committee for the purpose of nominating officers was appointed. It was also suggested that a new constitution be drawn up, and for that purpose another committee was appointed.

The time at which the club meets has been changed from Thursday, to the first and third Tuesdays of the month. The change has been approved by Dr. Hunter.

The Spanish club extends an invitation to all those who are interested in Spanish or in South America to come to its meetings. One need not take Spanish to be eligible for membership. "The Spanish club was organized by and for the students and is run on student initiative," said Dr. Stellwagen.
